And speaking of Friday, Margaret Holloway, also temporarily retired in the Inn, looks just about like a boiled lobster, soaked in butter, all garnished and ready for Friday night dinner.

Do some of those people around here think its summer or something, the way they went floating all over the gull last Sunday on a deep sea fishing cruise?

Everyone who remembers the senior-faculty baseball game last year will be overjoyed to learn that there will be another one staged Saturday at 4:30 o'clock. The last battle—between the seniors and their faculty.

"I WOULDN'T HAB A COLB IF YOU HAB NO DRABT VENTILATION IN YOUR CAR"

You get a lot of safeguards and comforts in modern cars that were unknown a few years ago. That's because General Motors uses its vast resources to pioneer them—and manufactures in such volume that it can produce constantly better cars at lower cost.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

Hunt Defeats Horton in Odd-Even Contest

With consistently hard driving and steady playing, Valerie Hunt, freshman, smashed through Friday afternoon with a win over Marjorie Horton, sophomore, to complete the overwhelming Odd victory on the tennis court.

The first game, with Hunt serving, was taken by Horton, after both opponents put up some hard playing and exceptionally good volleying.

The second and third games proved interesting, with neither the serving nor volleying outstanding. Horton, serving in the fourth game lost to Hunt, after some good hard drives, when her service failed.

Hunt again took the fifth game with ease, due to her consistent driving, while Horton took the sixth game by unusually good serving.

Hunt grabbed the seventh game without much trouble but Horton came back to win her serve and take the eighth and ninth games, which were the fastest of the set. After this brief rally Hunt took the final game to win the first set 6-4.

In the first game of the second set Hunt started winning again due to her beautiful placements but in the second game Horton returned with her dependable serve and volley and prevented Hunt's slider to take the game.

The third and fourth games, taken by Hunt, were quick and uneventful games, but Horton broke Hunt's serve in the fifth after some hard driving.

In the sixth game, although Horton served several aces, she lost by serving doubles on game point. In the seventh game of this set, Hunt produced her best serving of the afternoon, and in spite of Horton's beautiful backhand shots managed to take the game. Horton came back to win the eighth game with some surprise shots, but Hunt repeated her performances of the seventh to take the last game which won her the set 6-3 and the match.

Tennis Tourney To Honor Odds

The Even tennis team will honor the Odd tennis team this afternoon and tonight with a round-robin tennis tournament and dinner-party.

This afternoon at three-thirty o'clock doubles tennis matches will be played with an Odd and an Even on each team. The winner of this round-robin tournament will be given a trophy in recognition of success at the dinner in honor of the "winner" in the dining-room tonight.

The Evens sponsoring this entertainment for the Odds are: Dot Lancaster, Evelyn Fisher, Evelyn Glazier, Marjorie Horton, Ceil Levy, Mae Fernandez, Ellen Johnson, Wynn Tyles, Marie Joffre, and Felicia West.

The Odds being honored are: Jessie Bowen, Beth Deane, Mary Taylor, Dot Molner, Evelyn Rivards, Valerie Hunt, Fay Covey, Ruth Stanley, Edna Baker, and Bessie.

Gym Majors Have Play Day

Accommodations Have Been Made for 200 Girls from Vicinity

The annual Play Day sponsored by the senior physical education majors will be held Saturday morning, May 9, at 10 o'clock. The program for which this Play day will be given is the 4-H club girls and their leaders from the neighboring vicinity.

Plans have been made for the accomodation of two hundred people, and a program for the whole day has been arranged by the senior majors. This 4-H girls will register for the activities of the day in front of the gymnasium, and will check their lunches and clothes in the check-room.

In the lobby of the gymnasium will be a posture exhibit. Whatever handicraft work the clubs in the vicinity will be put on exhibition there also.

When they register the girls will be classified and divided as equally as possible into twenty teams. These twenty teams will be differentiated through the use of the names of birds and animals The bird-animal scheme will be carried out in the programs also.

The morning will be devoted to the playing of dodge-ball, hit-pin soccer, basketball, end-ball, giant volley-ball, and relays. The teams will be scheduled to rotate in such a manner that each member of a team will play on every team and will play in every game.

The girls will eat lunch under the trees at the south side of the gymnasium by the swimming pool. The girls are to bring their own lunches, and they will all be able to buy milk there.

The plans for the afternoon include group singing, folk dancing, individual challenges, and swimming which will last until about 4:30 o'clock.

The senior physical education majors who are sponsoring, making all arrangements, and attending to the execution of the program are, Caroline Aiton, Juanita Buchanan, Mary Louise DeDumpther, Mildred Emmelhainz, Janet Griffiths, Bertie Mackey, Carolee Oliver, Rose Panowski, Mary Ward Peterson, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Swimmers Win Honor at Meet

Conference at Alabama Has Varied Program Of Discussion

Florida State College for Women was represented by seven students and an instructor at the annual water sports conference held at Alabama University last week.

Students who went were: Sarah Heathcot, Marion Weeks, Martha Makemson, Florence Ward. They were accompanied by Miss Betty Washburn, swimming instructor of the physical education department.

During the conference numerous discussions were held on the various phases of stroking, technique, and competition, and competition was sponsored not for the competitive phase but for the lacking up of points made in discussions.

Beginning the program, discussions were held Friday morning and afternoon at the Florida Swan club of the University of Alabama with a swim presented demonstrating varioc strokes set to music. Later on in the evening Mr. Forrest L. Beard of the Red Cross department of Washington, D. C., showed some underwater pictures taken of Katherine Rawls and Johnny Paten at the Silver Springs meet.

Saturday morning a program was held in which the members of the conference demonstrated the speed of a few swift strokes. In the 40 yard relay Florida State College for Women represented by Martha Makemson and Florence Ward came in first with the University of Alabama second. In the back crawl Martha Makemson came in first, Martha Ward second, and a representative of Alabama university third. Following this a diving exhibition was given in which a representative of Alabama took first place and Martha Makemson second place.

The conference ended Saturday with a final banquet meeting and a farewell luncheon given for the representatives of the universities, which included Alabama university, Alabama college, Georgia State Teachers College, the University of Tennessee, and Florida State College for Women.

Good Number Attended Talkie and Travelogue Sponsored by Honorary

The French talkie, "Romance on the Riviera," presented by Beta Pi Theta, French honorary, was attended by 150 persons. The interesting travelogue, "Paris Sunshine," was procured by Dr. Hay of the educational department from M. Belot, representative of the French line at New Orleans, La.

The honorary will initiate two new members on May 14. The initiation will take place at the home of Dr. A. B. Sageser. Candidates are Anna Grouver and Winfield Hanna.

Members of the honorary include, Marvis Lasser, president, and Lillian Turlington, Ruth Dickson, Ruth Mock, Betty Boggs, Leona Grimsley, Wynn Ter Bush, Ruth Feinburg, Mary Carson, Alice Perry, Anne Glen, Barbara Crosland, Pearle Overhulte, Jo Hinson, Dorothy Crews, and Miss Mildred Flanagan, faculty sponsor.

F Club Elects Officers

At the meeting of the F club, which was held last Tuesday night, the officers for the coming year were elected. They are, Hazel Viertel, president; Louise Gehan, vice-president; and Fay Covey, secretary and treasurer.

Holding office for the past year were, Mel Mendelhain, president; Hazel Viertel, vice-president; and Betty Caldwell, secretary and treasurer.

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
Ronald Colman and Claudette Colbert
in
"UNDER TWO FLAGS"
SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
Jack Oakie in "Florida Special"
—TUESDAY—
Jane Withers in "Gentle Julia"
—WEDNESDAY—
Jimmie Allen in "The Sky Parade"
—THURSDAY—
HERBERT MARSHALL
in
"TILL WE MEET AGAIN"

Odd-Even Teams To Swim Tonight

The Meet of Nine Events Will Be Started At 8:15 o'Clock

The swimming meet between the Odd and Even teams is to be tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the college gymnasium.

The events that will be held are: twenty-five yard free style, elementary back stroke, twenty-five yard breast stroke, side-stroke for form, twenty-five yard back crawl, breast stroke for form, a seventy-five yard medley relay, diving, and a hundred-yard relay race.

The Even team taking part in the meet consists of Frances Thill, Mary Catharine Scott, Harriet Lawrence, Felicia West, an Mary Ward Peterson.

The Odd team opposing the Even will be made up of Martha Makemson, Florence Ward, Janice Horton, Marion Weeks, Marie Taylor, Bunny Lowry, Sarah Lytle, Fay covy, Valerie Hunt, and Sara Heathcot.

The judges officiating at the meet will be Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Mary Settle, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Clara Hatfield, Mary Scott Cartright, Doris Butler, and Louise Whitling.

Mildred Hendricks, Dot Collins, Ruth Wilson, Jane Tombaugh, and Mildred Smith will act as timers.

Caroline Aiton will officiate as clerk of the course, while Bettie Dean will be the announcer and the starter.

Miss Dorothy Larson, with Beth Deane as her assistant, will be scorer, and Patty Barringer will be measurer.

Leaders Elected To Head Sports

Six Students Selected By Athletic Board For Positions

The Odd and Even sports leaders for next year were elected last Monday night at the meeting of the Athletic Board held in upper Bryan atorium.

The Odd swimming leader for next year will be Sara Heathcot. With Janet Cook will head the Evens.

Hazel Viertel was elected basketball leader for the Odds and Hilda Sprafkin for the Evens.

The Odd tennis leader is Valerie Hunt, an' Evelyn Fisher is the Even tennis leader. Evelyn Fisher was also appointed publicity manager to work with the board.

The purpose of the board is to stimulate interest in the program of physical activities on campus, promote athletic accomplishment and to contribute to the development of ideals of sound sportsmanship.

The president of the board is Beth Deane, as a result of recent campus elections. The vice-president is Felicia West. Sara Lytle, treasurer, and Marjorie Horton, secretary.

The members of the board include Frances Thill, president of the Physical Education association; Hazel Viertel, president of the F-club; Sara Heathcot, president of the Life Saving corps; Winona Bullard, junior representative; Viola Brooks, junior representative; and Dot Marvick sophomore representative of the incoming classes.

ODDS & ENDS
SANDALS
SALE

Only a few styles in each pattern, but all sizes and widths. . . Any color.
$1.95 Value for
$1.50
$2.95 Value for
$1.95
Thursday, Friday and Saturday
QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

Four Defaults Advance Teams to Semi-Finals

Commission, Spirogra Win Matches For Placement

The semi-finals of the intramural tennis matches will be played this week between the Episcopal, Gilchrist, Spirogra, and Freshman Commission teams.

The Episcopal students moved from the second-round matches to the semi-finals by defaults from Theta Upsilon and Reynolds tennis. The latter teams were scheduled to play in the first-round matches, but by defaults have lost their positions and advanced the Episcopals.

The Episcopals will play the Gilchrist teams, who also moved into the semi-finals through default. Gilchrist was scheduled to play the Kappa Alpha Thetas in the second-round matches, but due to the fact that Marjorie Herron, KAT player, was incapacitated, the KATs were forced to default in favor of the Gilchrist players.

Spirogra goes into the semi-finals by dint of their 3-0 win from Phi Omega. Beth Deane, Spirogra, won the singles match from Jean Lyles in a two-set match. Both held the lead throughout both sets, winning 6-3, 6-2.

The doubles match between Spirogra and Chi Omega was as easily won by Spirogra. Beth Spradlin and Jean Lyles found the team of Janice Morton and Beth Deane too strong for them, and lost the two sets, 6-3, 6-1.

The Freshman Commission beat the Newman club two matches to none. Evelyn Fisher won a two-set match from Marie Joffre, 6-0, 6-4. The second match, between Eileen Robinson and Dot Molner, was taken easily by Eileen, 6-0, 6-2.

The Commission will play the Spirogra teams this week, while the Episcopals play Gilchrist in the semi-finals. The winners of these two matches will play in the finals.

Final Intramural Game Is to Be Played Today For Volleyball Honors

The final intramural volleyball game will be played this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between the Chi Omega team and the Episcopal students.

The Episcopals played up to the last game last Friday afternoon, winning over the Alpha Chi Omega and the Kappa Alpha Theta teams. The Chi Omega team played up to the finals week before also.

The Episcopal team will be made up of Betty White, Nell Calves, Marguerite Gehan, Louise Lange, Betty Kirby-Smith, Betty Cadlund, Sara Lytle, Mary McQuillin, Jane Thomas, and Helen Daniells.

Jean Lyles, Sarah Moore, Nina Kirkland, Sunny Dell, Louise Brand, Anne Knight, Betty Harrison, Frances Lewis, and Hilda Sprafkin will compose the Chi Omega team.

The official for this game will be Beth Deane.

Concrete Courts Built

Two new concrete tennis courts will be completed and ready for use next week, as the two clay courts nearest the gymnasium are being rebuilt by WPA men, according to J G Kellum, business manager.

FSCW Holds High Rank On Recent Psych Exam

Florida State College for Women ranked six points higher than the average of two hundred and sixty-six colleges on which the norms are based for the freshman psychology examination taken in the fall. The score for Florida State College for Women was one hundred eighty-nine, while the average for all the colleges was one hundred eighty-three. This rating was higher than on previous examinations given here. Before this the score of Florida State College for Women was always slightly below the average.

This test was given at colleges throughout the country, some of which were Dartmouth, Clark university, Vermont, Mary, Oberia, Washington university, University of Chicago and others.

NELLY DON
MOTHER'S DAY GIFTS
$1.95 - $5.95
Especially for Mother's Day—these frocks by that famous designer, Nelly Don, who knows what mothers like.
A variety of models and a variety of materials, just suitable for the hot and muggy days now here.
Worthy gifts, thought inexpensive, that she'll enjoy long after this day of days.
The Vogue
Feminine Wearables
TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

PIKE STUDIO
See Our Special for Graduates
Resident Studio 317 West College
PHONE 1315

The only machine of its kind
500 camshafts can be inspected every hour by an automatic machine which has been designed and built by the Ford Motor Company. It is the only one of its kind. It has a gaging accuracy of one ten-thousandth of an inch.
It gages Ford camshafts at 25 points. Any dimension not within the specified limits causes electrical and mechanical devices to reject the camshaft as it leaves the machine.
There are ten inspection stations. The camshafts are placed in registered position in carriers mounted on an endless linked conveyor and carried into the machine. At each station the conveyor stops momentarily. Automatic centers engage the ends of the camshafts and hold them rigidly. Then 25 floating gage heads lower automatically, measure the shafts, then rise. As the conveyor moves the shafts to the next station, other mechanism rotates and indexes them for the next set of gage heads.
The gage heads contain hardalloy-tipped measuring plungers which are linked to amplifying levers. Variations in shaft sizes, beyond set limits, close a set of contact points which operate two solenoids. One sets the rejection mechanism; the other raises a marking plunger which puts a daub of copper sulphate solution on the shaft where the dimension is over or under size.
When shafts come out of machine they are automatically passed or rejected. All told, there are 54 inspections on every Ford V-8 camshaft.
FORD MOTOR COMPANY
"The Story of Wool and Mohair," a Ford educational sound slide film presenting the entire history of the textile industry, is now available for showing before college groups, clubs and organizations. The local Ford dealer will be glad to furnish film, projector, and operator if desired.

The Florida Flambeau

Member Associated Collegiate Press

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art Editor: Caroline Adams; Exchange Editor: Virginia Early; Features Editors: Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Stuart; Outside News Editor: Godfrey O'Rourke; Society Editor: Margaret Lafferty; Assistant Society Editor: Minna Agnes; Special Writer: Arline Lockhart; Sports Editors: Elizabeth Turner and Ella Brooks; Literary Editors: Billie Hotard and Jane Kunn.

Featured Writer: Eloise Andrews, Margaret Jean Duncan, Ethel Greenfield, Frances Hartley, Mary Lynn Mason.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE ..... Business Manager
JEAN DUNCAN ..... Asst. Business Manager
JANE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Adv. Manager

Enter as second class, mail matter January 30, 1919, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

We Are Not Asleep, However

The following excerpt from the Jacksonville Times-Union editorial concerning the subject of student peace parades will be interesting to Florida State students, particularly the members of the NSFA junta committee who protested against strikes and parades as methods of obtaining peace.

Says the Times-Union concerning the April demonstrations:

"Students in Southern schools are to be congratulated for refusal to take part in the demonstrations. Available information shows not a single institution below the Mason and Dixon line was represented in the parades. The students in Florida institutions paid no attention to the movement . . . They know that little good can come from such wild demonstrations; that the proper way to effect governmental changes is through legal and orderly procedure."

Although the students of Florida appreciate the commendation of the Times-Union we would like to correct one statement quoted above. The movement did receive attention from Florida students. In this college NSFA and YWCA protested against parades and strikes as suggested for peace demonstrations by several national youth organizations and not at all about which is caught on the cause of peace the NSFA parade was a student-led convention on the subject of education for peace. At the same time several forums pertaining to international relations and to peace question in general have been sponsored by various college groups.

The students of Florida State want to be considered as cognizant of the necessity for maintaining amicable relations among the nations of the world.

Student Wants Guidance Program

Florida State is to be commended upon its enlightened approach to the problem of its curriculum, including undergraduate grades and engaging the scope of honors work—but there is still one important phase of evident need that is the right touch upon. This is faculty-student relationship.

Relationships between faculty and students, nevertheless, form a problem that is being met by many of the large institutions of learning in the country. For during the past few years colleges and universities have come to the realization that the needs of the individual student are to be met. Mass treatment of college undergraduates is fast giving way to a system which has as its aim the consideration of the intellectual, emotional and social welfare of students as individuals. With this change in educational philosophy an adjustment in student-faculty relationships has been necessary.

In order to promote the individualistic theory many of the universities have adopted the guidance program. This means that as a freshman matriculates into college he is given a faculty adviser, a person to whom he can go, not only on matters concerning choice of courses or classroom difficulties but also for counsel on personal problems—matters of adjustment, financial difficulties, social adaptation, or anything that may perplex the student. Each member of the faculty is considered a personnel worker. In this way the contact between professor and student has become more tangible.

There is a lack in this college of friendly relations between students and professors. Perhaps it's not exactly an unfriendly attitude, but one of indifference. Student-faculty dinners and teas, given by instructors in their homes, however, have helped to break down these barriers of impersonality.

With the industrious next year of the present curriculum it would be quite fitting to inaugurate a guidance program. Each freshman could be assigned to the care of a faculty member. At Los Angeles Junior college a guidance program was started with 4,800 students and only 180 faculty members. Florida State's faculty is nearly that large while its student body is much smaller. At Northwestern twelve college advisers have been appointed from among the faculty and each incoming freshman will be appointed to one of these advisers who will counsel with the student until he selects a field of concentration. Then he will come under the direction of an adviser in the department of his major subject.

The University of Minnesota has quite an elaborate method of guidance. Not only does each student have a faculty adviser but certain members of the faculty are appointed advisers for different types of student problems, including speech disorders, mental hygiene, social relations, finance and employment. They serve the entire student body, regardless of college or office in which they hold appointments. In connection with the advising of students there is a counsel desk where personnel records of students are kept and as each one is counseled by members of the faculty this information is put . . . in his chart. This aids the instructor in helping the student to know his particular history and to cope with him in the best possible manner.

Should such a program be adopted it is conceivable that a new basis of relationship will be established between students and faculty, a relationship that will benefit both parties. The instructors will get a keener insight into the lives of students, their problems and ambitions and will be able to mould their courses to suit different needs. It would mean a feeling of confidence and understanding for the students toward their professors and would perhaps be instrumental in lessening down student inhibitions for faculty discipline. It would put the emphasis of education in its right place . . .

To fit the student for life outside the school walls and not merely to pass four years of courses.

—By Pearle Shepard

Why Not Give Politics a Chance?

Even from a "dictatorship" nation, a democracy can learn ways to better itself.

The Nazis of the National Socialist party of Germany is instigating the first group of "student rulers," in history. Of those interested in politics probably 3,000 young men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty will be chosen for a three-year course of study. They will be chosen from those who are interested unanimously in the National Socialist party and those willing to give up their lives in service to the nation. They will study with the practical art of governing always in mind.

How could such study or training to be dead-set on those who are in America today? Even in our college set up which should represent an almost ideal situation as compared with state and national set-ups we see unpractical hardship on the way of training from most of our candidates for office. Politics is a sort of hit-or-miss game. It seems only logical our judicial officers could pass qualifier more intelligently on those who commit infractions of the rules if they had studied some psychology and sociology before running for office.

It seems only legislative officers could pass more intelligent laws if they had first taken courses which should give them a social out look.

With our national offices more and more challenging trained men in service, we believe it's high time more college study recognized politics as a profession—even in a democracy!

—S. S.

According to the evidence presented by the tops of the new desks in the Education building either college students are still decidedly juvenile or the third grade of some grammar school has been listening to lectures by college professors and taking their notes on varnished wood.

MAP OF THE NEW DEAL

By David Cushman Coyle
Architect, Macmillan

The New Deal, Mr. Coyle believes, is in the early stage of the final effort of the American people to create and political system to throw off the shackles of high finance. He explains four policies which the New Deal advocates and has already carried out to a greater or lesser extent, namely, federal control of banks, industry and agriculture; social insurance or security to all citizens, of the United States, and industrial democracy.

If the New Deal is to progress the author believes it must strengthen the American's desire for freedom, his tendency to individualism, conflict and his habit of effecting social changes by strategic maneuvers, not violence.

As for the national budget, it can be balanced "when the country is greased income taxes. The whole New Deal," Mr. Coyle says, "can be simple enough. If it were not for the rules of their head statistician, Dr. Mordecai the people."

Throughout the New Deal gives the American people a throw off the yoke of high financial control and reassert their liberties. Mr. Coyle concludes, "is the struggle of the people to regain their fortunes, and our sacred honor."

—S. E. D.

MISLAID, A WAR

Harpers, May 1936
By Wyndham Rubbard

"Some ninety of the crack journalists of the world, the pick of the most famous of the newsreel cameramen were stationed in Addis Ababa for months last autumn and winter." Mr. Hubbard states, "ready to open and making perfectures of a war which, up to the coming of Desire time of them had ever see nor heard."

Yet, he says, it is difficult to name three men for what the reason is. Mussolini the victor, reported on the outskirts of the capital, Haile Selassie fled his country by train to Jibuti, French Somaliland, where he embarked for Palestine. Deserted by their emperor, the natives fell into rotting and disarray in an attempt to destroy the city before it could be occupied by the approaching Italian army. The lives of the resident members of the foreign legations were seriously endangered for a day or two. While American lives being transported to the British legation for greater safety the American minister was killed and two others are reported injured. The other legations held out against attack by the natives.

Pushing its advance in order to quell the rioting, Italian troops under the command of General Alessandro Pirio-Biroli, entered Addis Ababa. On Wednesday, an Italian plane flew from Premier Mussolini's own lips the long awaited news that she is mistress of a vast new African empire.

The Pulitzer prize awards, veiled in secrecy to the last possible moment, even from the winners themselves, were announced this week at the annual dinner of the Columbia University School of Journalism.

The award for the best play of the year went to Robert E. Sherwood, for his "Idiot's Delight" an anti-war play in which Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt are now appearing.

Honey in the Horn a first novel by H. L. Davis former conpunch-er, was chosen as the best novel of the year. A story of life in Oregon it had previously won first place in the seventh annual $7,500 Harper prize novel contest. Andrew C. McLaughlin, a professor of history at the University of Chicago received the history award for "A Constitutional History of the United States. which was published last spring.

Professor Ralph Borton Perry of Harvard university won the biography prize for his "Thought and Character of William James." The poetry award was given to Robert Coffin for "John Brown's Body."

Reconsilion for the most distinguished reporting of the year went to Laura D. Luman of the New York Times for her exclusive story from the interior of Colonel Charles A Lindbergh and his family to England to take up residence there. The prize for the best foreign correspondence was awarded to the late Will Barbee of the Chicago Tribune for his direct and detailed fever in Addis Ababa while covering the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Felix Morley of the Washington

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

The Los Angeles Junior College has its finger on the pulse of the nation when they here about the power of women:

America is headed for graft, anarchy! During the past 10 years the United States has been waiting for the time when they put their fingers on the "Presidential vote."

Women today already control three-fourths of the nation's wealth and one-fourth of its jobs. They are as much a political menace as millionaires for women are the beneficiaries of 80 per cent of life insurance policies and 60 per cent of all savings accounts even in women's names. 50 per cent of all stocks are owned by women.

Women do not necessarily pass their wealth on to their heirs. 40 per cent of them leave their estates to the state.

American college graduates average 3584 women to 1942 men each year.

Some $52,000,000,000 or $32,000,000,000 more annually in the country are spent by women and in California, the net income of women is $1,000,000,000 more.

Gone are the days when the saucy bride left home and kept house and were feminine. Today, even in cooking, in every form of man's business, women outnumber men—C. B

The editor of Hastings College Bulletin has a book—a book that calls us "The Lost Generation." He and with hearts applause we commend his defense of the modern college student

We are a lost generation, says he accepting our fate with bitter (or apathy) According to Max Maxine Davis in her book "The Lost Generation," this aims up the modern youth. There is no fight; if it doesn't get it, it just let it go.

Well, we will wager Miss Davis' fight now, that the youths in college today are putting forth a lot more effort to get their education than those or her time. Depived of the easy money which supported college students before 1930, modern youth has been entering colleges and universities in increasing numbers annually. For the last few years of the depression The

HANDLE WITH CARE

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

Spirit of the Week — By Adams

Pro and Con

opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily indicative of the editorial policy of the Flambeau. They are the opinions of the writers and in space to all who wish to submit short and concise articles. Letters should be signed "Pro and Con" and mailed in the postoffice

SOME PEOPLE MAY BE USED TO SUCH THINGS, BUT . . .

Not only was the Florida Flambeau in a convocation held in the auditorium. The programs vary, but usually they're held in mid-day recess when the twelve-twenty-five bell rings. Then we have about all the dining room girls must go to the dining room in order to set up the tables for lunch.

When the bell rings the dining room girls open their furtively and, wondering if there is any hope for an ending in the next two or three minutes. Then they start passing food run around in their heads as they think of the amount of work that must be done by twelve-thirty. Finally some brave member starts to leave; this is a signal for a group stampede and the less brave follow in single lead. The group must miss the rest of the convocation.

Girls Are Inconsiderate

The dining room girls are inconvenienced in three ways. They do not like to miss any part of a program with the amount of noise they must necessarily make in order to leave, and they feel singularly out of place in doing so. Second, they must leave the end of the speech, or announcement is to that effect. Third, they are inconvenienced in that all the time they lose after the bell rings must be made up with haste in setting up their tables

The speaker cannot overlook the fact that many girls are leaving even if he has already been notified the time of the program, and perhaps even a little out of courtesy to him, they are inconsiderate as he continues talking.

If the lecturer is a dull one, there are no doubts about the audience who wish that they could also leave and escape the boredom girls leave. But if the talk is exceptionally good, as there are one who sympathizes with the fact that the working girls have to leave before the end.

Management Should Not Suffer

The dining room management should not be made to suffer for the lenth of the programs. They should not be made to suffer by having to move up the time for lunch. The poetry award was given to Robert Coffin for "John Brown's Body."

Reconsilion for the most distinguished reporting of the year went to Laura D. Luman of the New York Times for her exclusive story from the interior of Colonel Charles A Lindbergh and his family to England to take up residence there. The prize for the best foreign correspondence was awarded to the late Will Barbee of the Chicago Tribune for his direct and detailed fever in Addis Ababa while covering the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Felix Morley of the Washington

Collegiate Come-Back

Our senior satirist has prevailed us to remind chair fiends that there are only fourteen shopping days until school.

* * *

Last year a big game hunter declared that in taking the census the bride of an elephant proved to outnumber. He must have been mistaken. It only took a few hours to stage that two headed pounder holding under our wing yesterday.

* * *

"Lost' used to be a problem; then he met Jane, found another and sings it. It's not popular anymore.

* * *

From the Michigan State News we learn that Williams college students are already laying plans for a special trip this summer to study geologic and biologic conditions in Arizona. Some of the college starers were going there but might add as to which part of the work would get the most emphasis.

* * *

POME

"I draw the line at kissing,"
Said she in accents firm,
But he was a football man,
And so he stormed the line.
—Daily Nebraskan

* * *

Dr Calvin Stone of Southern University says that when a person's mind starts wandering he should hold his head minus a handful of books. This is good, according to the doctor, a ridiculary gland at the base of the skull. Although we're not up on the subject is that holding their head would improve the appearance of some of these big-eared Romeos with a degree that they're probably blooming out into another Casanovas.

* * *

The Santa Clara informs us that Ed Weissman of the University of Minnesota is receiving considerable investigating as to the whereabouts of fellows with big chests and small feet. Doesn't take a lot to discovered that the flat chested have the greatest intelligence of the lot. Another's also a fact that we'd still rather wrap around a manly chest than set behind it. Q

* * *

A full-grown tarantula shared a room with J. Sadler Rice Owl college student, reports a paper in Nebraskan. He called it a pet "to call ours a spouse."

* * *

She wandered by the accompanied by a man. She was blind.

And clasped her feet in the waters clear—

By gosh, 'twas time she got out of the pool.

—Purple and White

* * *

Emporia's white-haired sage William Allen White, thinks we should have something new in education. Maybe he's right but if men and women which the masculine gender are turning out of the great state-leader factories today's poor short of it. Education probably due to the fact that the "great state factories" drive out most of the men wherewithal is that irrelevant?

* * *

An exchange breaks the news that Brown University has eliminated mid-year examinations and semester grades in full-year courses. The next step will probably be to eliminate the course.

* * *

Dean E. E. Nicholas of the University of Minnesota assures students of freedom of the press in their paper when they are working their way through school." We didn't know that any other way of getting through.

* * *

A cynical writer on the Ball State Daily says a close friend of his gave him a drink of wine or something. On even a glass of beer. They're not as much as a romantic lips.

* * *

He didn't damn sight more dimes

* * *

From the Publishers' Auxiliary comes the health note: "Tender babies should not be fed hot cereals or coffee." Just what about French pastry?

* * *

Why I Never Joined a Sorority, is the subject of a theme which will not be led around by a bunch of sisters.

I never went in for women's organizations at home.

I didn't want a lot of fraternity men calling me at night.

I never had a date with a man my life, and I didn't want to start.

I hated the thought of having to live in close quarters with a lot of sisters.

I didn't like the idea of living with one girl for a whole semester.

I don't look well in sweaters.

Low-cut gowns.

I am a male.

—Ferris Mirror

* * *

The Junior College Journal says chew the rag—use the Student Activities

By SARAH BETH DAVIS
and
SARAH LOUISE STONE

FREE WOMEN

Freedom and challenging is this story, told by the editor of the Moscow Daily News, of a successful struggle which has secured for Soviet women an equality unknown elsewhere in the world.

The economic, legal, and political bans of woman's equality in Russia came through the October Revolution. The final victory, however, was a result of the efforts of the women and their encouragement of the Soviet government. In 1935 women made up 42 per cent of all persons gainfully employed. In technical high-er schools 49 per cent of the students are women, in medical schools 76 per cent. The percentage of eligible women taking part in elections in 1926 was only 28 per cent in 1926 to 80.3 per cent in 1934.

During Russia moves go through the conflicts of choosing between marriage and a career. They expect to marry—the children does not know any Russian old maids—but they expect, like men, to choose a career and support themselves. The state assists them in providing special care at child-birth and help in rearing children.

Street cai conductors police-men, taxi captains, engineers, tractor drivers, meteorologists, street cleaners, chemists, architects are almost every occupation women have won a place.

—S. S.

THE CONQUEST OF POVERTY
By F. N. Carver
Atlantic Monthly, May 1936

Dr. Carver, professor of political economy, declares that it is known his particular history and to cope with him in the best possible manner.

Should such a program be adopted it is conceivable that a new basis of relationship will be established between students and faculty, a relationship that will benefit both parties. The instructors will get a keener insight into the lives of students, their problems and ambitions and will be able to mould their courses to suit different needs. It would mean a feeling of confidence and understanding for the students toward their professors and would perhaps be instrumental in lessening down student inhibitions for faculty discipline. It would put the emphasis of education in its right place . . .

To fit the student for life outside the school walls and not merely to pass four years of courses.

—By Pearle Shepard

Why Not Give Politics a Chance?

Even from a "dictatorship" nation, a democracy can learn ways to better itself.

The Nazis of the National Socialist party of Germany is instigating the first group of "student rulers," in history. Of those interested in politics probably 3,000 young men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty will be chosen for a three-year course of study. They will be chosen from those who are interested unanimously in the National Socialist party and those willing to give up their lives in service to the nation. They will study with the practical art of governing always in mind.

How could such study or training to be dead-set on those who are in America today? Even in our college set up which should represent an almost ideal situation as compared with state and national set-ups we see unpractical hardship on the way of training from most of our candidates for office. Politics is a sort of hit-or-miss game. It seems only logical our judicial officers could pass qualifier more intelligently on those who commit infractions of the rules if they had studied some psychology and sociology before running for office.

It seems only legislative officers could pass more intelligent laws if they had first taken courses which should give them a social out look.

With our national offices more and more challenging trained men in service, we believe it's high time more college study recognized politics as a profession—even in a democracy!

—S. S.

The Social Week

Mothers of Day Students Will be Honored With Tea

Honoring the mothers of the day students at Florida State College for Women, a formal Mother's Day tea will be given in Gilchrist hall parlors tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Tea-tables will be decorated with lovely bowls and vases of sun united flowers in variegated shades. The silver service will be used on the tea table and will be set off by lighted tapers.

In the receiving line will be Dr. Conrad Conrad, Miss Louise Conrad, Dr. Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Louise Flowers, and Marjorie Pan and Dorothy Bellamy, old and new presidents respectively of the Day Students' organization.

Receiving guests at the door and interested there in the greeting line will be Louise Gehan, Elizabeth Jinks, Geneva Lamb, and Sara Wells, all day students. Also assisting will be Mattie Lou Lott, Lucile McMillan, Dorothy Rickards, and Mary Hammond, other day students; and Miss Ruth Schornherst and Mrs. Dorothy Breen, Day Students' sponsors.

Floor hostesses will be the college directors, aided by other day students. The social directors include: Mrs. Lollie Wimberly, Mrs. Margaret Saynor, Miss Mamie Andrews, Miss Ida Swan, Mrs. Melanie Turner, Miss Carrie Scandrett, Miss Rose Dennis, Mrs. Flossie Curtis, Miss Lee Bachelor, and Miss L. R. Rivers.

A tour of the campus also is planned for the mothers of the Tuskahoma students.

Mothers Being Honored

Mothers of day students invited to the tea include Mrs. W. A. Absire, Mrs. O. B. Anchors, Mrs. F. P. Arnold, Mrs. H. V. Atkinson, Mrs. L. Ballard, Sr., Mrs. M. O. Barco, Mrs. A. B. Bartlett, Mrs. F. T. Bell, Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Mrs. W. E. Benson, Mrs. G. C. Bird, Mrs. R. J. Bond, Mrs. T. T. Bradley, Mrs. R. H. Bradford, Mrs. W. G. Dodd, Mrs. R. C. Bullitt, Mrs. R. H. Bullock, Mrs. F. L. Pratt, Mrs. L. J. Cain, Mrs. P. A. Detrick, Mrs. W. G. Dodd, Mrs. R. C. Eagle, Mrs. Addie Everett, Mrs. F. T. Falles, Mrs. J. L. Pratt, Mrs. L. D. Fain, Mrs. G. E. Finch, Mrs. H. S. Foster, Mrs. J. H. Harris, Mrs. M. Burns, Mrs. James A. Ball, Mrs. J. M. McMillan, Mrs. H. W. McMillan, Mrs. A. J. Marshall, Mrs. A. H. Maxwell, Mrs. B. A. Mcguinnias, Mrs. L. A. Mcglohon, Mrs. James Messer, Mrs. H. J. Myrick, Mrs. J. W. Myrick, Mrs. T. M. Kline, Mrs. W. F. Osteen, Mrs. H. E. Palmer, Mrs. J. D. Parker, Mrs. M. E. Parker, Mrs. Charles E. Parker, Mrs. H. G. Patterson, Mrs. S. B. Perry, Mrs. F. M. Phillips, Mrs. C. A. Pichard, Mrs. A. S. Poitevint, Mrs. H. P. Furse, Mrs. J. Renfroe, Mrs. A. N. Revell, Mrs. J. S. Rickards, Mrs. Borris Fishler, Mrs. R. V. Cruz, Mrs. Allie W. Chew, Mrs. D. C. Gillis, Mrs. W. G. Gissendanner, Mrs. R. L. Glenn, Mrs. J. D. Glover, Mrs. C. P. Green, Mrs. R. S. Hamilton, Mrs. J. S. Hansel, Mrs. Bessie Hartsfield, Mrs. Mattie Hopkins, Mrs. J. T. Hurst, Mrs. M. D. Hurst, Mrs. Ray Hutchinson, Mrs. J. R. Jinks, Mrs. Ivy B. Johnson, Mrs. O. R. Jones, Mrs. E. S. Jones, Mrs. M. V. Jury, Mrs. J. W. Simmons, Mrs. J. V. Knapp, Mrs. Virgie Lambrecht, Mrs. J. P. Love, Mrs. R. W. Robie, Mrs. S. P. Rob, Mrs. H. B. Scott, Mrs. L. W. Seabrook, Mrs. Marie Smith, Mrs. R. B. Smith, Mrs. Frank Stoutamire, Mrs. E. O. Stahman, Mrs. A. B. Taff, Mrs. A. E. Thornton, Mrs. J. Trunin, Mrs. R. E. Tully, Mrs. G. S. Watt, Mrs. C. F. Weeks, Mrs. J. B. Wheeler, Mary A. Ogilvie, Mrs. T. A. Yon, Mrs. Louis Yon.

Faculty Members Invited

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Rev. and Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Dr. Elisabeth Cutler Andrews, Judge and Mrs. R. H. Buford, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Mildred Henry, Miss Ruth Kelly, Dr. Ruth Bryan Breen, Miss Ruth Schornherst, Miss Flavia Citron, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Enis Deviney, Dr. Anna Forbes Lidell, Miss Rosalie Longmire, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Miller, Miss Mary Settle, Dr. R. B. Parsons, Miss Sarah Yonge, Dr. and Mrs. Hudson Rogers, Dr. and Mrs. William G. Dodd, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Kent, Miss Dr. and Mrs. Christian Paul Heinton, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Offenbaugh, Dr. Sarah Parker White, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Mabel Sherrouse, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Miss Adrienne Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Smith, Dr. Margaret Sandels, Miss Ella Scoble Hagerman, Dr. and Mrs. Homer B. Doyle, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. Tilt, Dr. Ida Shores, Dr. Annie Popper, Miss Myrtle Dobbs, Miss Mary Wellbury Day, Dr. and Mrs. Coyle Moore, Miss Kemper Moore.

Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. H. F Becker, Dr. Beulah Elliott, Dr. and Mrs. Paul D. Finner, Dr. Viola Graham, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Kurz, Dr. and Mrs. Leland J. Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cottenill, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Dr. Ruth Cossar, Miss Henrietta Steyer, Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Moor, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Richards, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Seymour, Dr. and Mrs. Alban Stewart, Miss Alma Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vance, Mrs. Beatrice B. Williams, Miss Ruth West, Miss Luella Richey, Miss Sarah Meador, Miss Sarah Herndon.

Student Officials

Student officers invited are: Katherine Blood, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Makemson, Jacque Borton, Marjorie Sanderson, Margaret K. Anderson, Minna Dunn, Margaret Graham, Marian Conn, Marie Taylor, Winifred Evatt, Josephine Hinton, Ruth Perkins, Hazel Bowerman, Edith Webb, Frances Porth, Mary Kreutzman, Caroline Culver, Mary Miller, Hilda Spradlin, Anna Tilson, Jean Dillon, Lucy Lee Linn, Rose Panowski, and Beth Deane.

Day students at Florida State college include Edith Abstein, Mrs. Mary B. Alfriend, Lorraine Andrews, Mrs. George E. Armen, Helen Anderson, Melba Andrews, Dorothy Atkinson, Mrs. Irene S. Ball, Doris Ballard, Hattie Baron, Irene Barfield, Adah C. Bell, Dorothy Belamy, Kitty Benson, Margaret Biggs, Bernice Blacklock, Addie Bodiford, Annie Belle Bevis, Letitia Bond, Lillian Bradley, Emma Bradford, Dorothy Brown, Mrs. Jane Buck, Laurens Buckley, Winnie Burns, Mary Phillips Chalker, Bernadette Chesley, Vernie Clark, Margaret Cogswell, Mrs. G. P. Collins, Davis Lee Cotten, Eleanor Lucille Cotten, Mrs. Lucy Griffin Davis, Dorothy Derrick, June Detrick, Mrs. Frank Devier,

Mrs. Patricia Dodd, Mary Eagle, Alpha Chis to Honor Mothers at Affair Sunday Afternoon

An "at home" will be given by the members of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock honoring mothers, members of the faculty, and friends of the sorority.

A variety of spring flowers will be used to decorate the house and punch, cakes, and mints will be served during the afternoon.

Members of the chapter who will be hostesses at this affair are Marie Spurlock, Sarah Mitell, Bertha Yates, Yvonie Brannon, Mary Catherine Drennan, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Frances Williams, Betty Hatch, Ruth Riddle, Valarie Stubbs, Katherine Kyle, Josephine Pruitt, Mary Mahony Kay, Rose Mary Hamby, Lillian Schultz, Janice Borton, Julia Walker, Molly Holden, Elizabeth Carter, Harriett Lawrence, Anne Langer, Cora Chaney, Roberta Diamond, Anita Leonard, Mary Jane Smith, Sarah Dee Coffman.

Helen Cate, Mildred Seaboe, Beverly Brown, Martha Wolniston, Margaret Graham, Mary Brooks, Marcia Rainey, Connie Wallis, Helen Ricketson, Reima Buffkin, Jane Upton, Virginia Toffalatti, Dorothy Colburn, and Christine McClellan.

Mary Emily Parker, Rosalind Parker, Gwendolyn Cheney, Gwendolin Perry, Certie Lou Peak, Dorothy Meade Phillips, Mary Pickard, Pauline Pinterich, Elizabeth Purse, Lucile Reeves, Elsie Rentfro.

Helen Revell, Louise Richey, Dorothy Jane Rickards, Ruth Alston Roble, Sarl Rou Mix, Christine Scarborough, Lucile Schawever, Betty Scott, Rose Seabrook, Ann Shelley, Myrtl. C. Smith, Doris Stratton, Marcia Smith, Mirabel Smith, Margaret Stoutamire, Dorothea Stahman, Ida Mae Stripling, Florence Tait, Anna Belle Tait Sleek, Sara D. Thompson, Jane Thomas, Le-o Thornton, Florence Trushin, Ada Tulip, Margaret Scott Turner, Mrs. Julia M. Walker, Mary Lou Watt, Sara B. Wells, Mary Lou Wheeler, Blanche White, Judith Wilensky, Ella Winona Williamson, Doris Wilson, Mary Elizabeth Wilson, Mary Frances Wilson, Mary Elizabeth Wilson, Lyunora Young, Isabel Yon, Mary Yon, Estrelli Mundon, Dorothy Hoffman, Ruth Hoskin, Anne Lange, Adelaide Lousdale Lynch, Zula Mar-chetta, Rosemary McGinnity, Dorothy Molnar, Margaret Oliver, Beasie Willoughby, Mary Elizabeth Wilson, Lyunora Young, Isabel Yon, Mary Yon, Estrelli Mundon, Dorothy Hoffman, Ruth Hoskin, Anne Lange, Adelaide Lousdale Lynch, Zula Marchetta, Rosemary McGinnity, Dorothy Molnar, Margaret Oliver, Betty Coleman, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Adelaide Richter, Ethel Runyan, Betty Snyder, Mary Sullivan, Ruth Toland, Marie Wagner, Mary Esther Wilks, Dorothy Williams, and Marjorie Cox.

Personal Mention

Annie Laurie Sanchez, Wilma TerBush, Sunny Edwards, Muriel Watson, and Flynn Moore are spending the week-end in Gainesville. They will attend the Junior-Senior Prom there.

Helen Kibler is spending the week-end in Atlanta.

Betty Hamilton is visiting her parents in Jacksonville this week-end.

Caroline Oliver will return today from Hollywood where she has been making screen tests.

Hazel Reaves will be a guest in Gainesville this week-end.

Mercia Scott is spending the week-end in Jacksonville.

Virginia Calhoun and Mary Ann Hart are visiting in Cairo, Georgia the week-end.

Miss Ruth Marvin and her sister, Betty Ann Marvin were guests at the Delta Zeta House last week-end.

Mrs. E. S. Sutton of Jacksonville visited her daughter, Jane, last week-end at the Alpha Omicron Pi House.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peck are visiting their daughters, Betty and Irene, this week-end.

Mrs. S. B. Skinner is visiting her daughter, Betty this week-end at the Tri Delta House.

Mrs. R. R. McCall of Jasper is visiting at the Alpha Omicron Pi House this week-end.

Helen Bixler and Joyce Reed are spending the week-end in Gainesville.

Mrs. M. R. Simpson and her daughter, Betty Ann Simpson are visiting this week-end at the Alpha Omicron Pi House.

Mary De Guenther, Dorothy Barnhart, Betty Ann Hall, and Madeline McCall visited Madeline's parents in Jennings last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Ireland, Delta Zeta patrons, entertained the chapter members and the pledges of the Delta Zeta Sorority at a spaghetti supper last Saturday night at their country home.

Mary Catherine Drennan is spending the week-end at her home in Palatka.

Patricia Foster and Marie Spurlock are visiting at the latter's home in Callahan.

Marjorie Christine Hiller, Helen Ruth Farrell, Martha Pallas, Marjorie Fain, Nell Fain, Cora Fay, Jessie Percell, Amanda Elizabeth Finch, Elizabeth Flake, Irene Foster, Reisemary Forsch, Jane Fullerton, Lucile Wilson W. Gehan, Louise Gehan, Margaret Gehan, Jean Gillespie, Elyse Glaenzlanzer, Katherine Glenn, Alberta Glover, Lillian Gillespie, Margaret L. Green, Irena Gunn, Patricia Hamilton.

Mary Hammond, Virginia Hamilton, Ruth Gwendoline Hansen, Winifred Hansen, Louise Harris, Marjorie Hartsfield, Lois Dell Hopkins, Lula Bell Hopkins, Edith Furst, Mildred E. Hurst, Mary Hutchison, Martha Frances Jackson, Elisabeth Jinks, Betts Johnson, Ethel Coren Jones, Rea Jones, Margaret Lucille Jury, Lucy Kelly, Mrs. Jeanette Kimsey, Harriette Knapp, Addie Lorre Lamb, Geneva Lamb, Lois Lambrecht, Sara Scott Lee, Ermine Lewis, Elisabeth Love, Mattie Lou Love, Ethel MacEwen, Virginia McKaughan, Mavis M. McMillan, Mrs. Iris McMullin, Mary Elizabeth Marshall.

Freida Maxwell, Margaret Maxwell, Mary H. Meginniss, Reba Mendinson, Evelyn Messer, Phoebe Messer, Ida Pearle Miller, Ann Moon, Edna Moon, Sara Moor, Edna Myrick, Eunice Nicholson, Marjorie Ostrom, Rubyles Palmer, Daisy Parker, Edwina Parker,

NEWMAN CLUB INSTALLATION BANQUET TO BE WEDNESDAY AT DUTCH KITCHEN

The second annual Newman club installation banquet will be given Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock in the banquet room at the Dutch Kitchen.

Red and yellow, the club colors, will be used in the decorations which will consist of bowls of spring flowers. Place cards and programs will be in white with red and yellow lettering. Lighted red tapers will illuminate the banquet table.

During the evening each of the old officers will introduce and toast her successor. Father William J. Carroll will be the speaker at this time.

Special guests who have been invited to attend this banquet are Mrs. Rogers Pichard, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Evans, Mrs. and Mrs. Douglas Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Westendick, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Hobbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCaffery.

The newly elected officers who will be installed at this time are: Cliotilde O'Rourke, president; Adegail Grier, vice-president; Margaret Claire Lafferty, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth Lundin, recording secretary; Marie Jaffre, treasurer; and Jane Quinn, parliamentarian.

Other members of the Newman club are Mary Helen Barnhart, Betty Blalock, Honor Coleman, Anna Coomes, Kitty Craney, Ann Dickson, Ella Arcamcras, Laura Doak, Catherine Fox, Meredith Garriga, Rita Gulleykn, Isabel Gleason, Agnes Goss, Marjorie Goss, Dorothy Hoffman, Ruth Hoskin, Anne Lange, Adelaide Lousdale Lynch, Zula Marchetta, Rosemary McGinnity, Dorothy Molnar, Margaret Oliver,

Sorority Entertains With Informal Tea Honoring Faculty

The members of the Theta Upsilon sorority will be hostesses at a faculty tea Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 in the sorority house on West Jefferson street.

Guests at this time will include Miss Enda Mae Devaney, Miss Elizabeth Washburn, Dr. Sarah F. White, Miss Grace Fox, Dr. Dorothy Disher, Dr. Elisabeth Gordon Andrews, Miss Sophie Leach, Dr. Jodie McKinzel, Dr. and Mrs. Harold P. Richards, Dr. and Mrs. Leland Lewis, and Miss Belle Bond Dickinson.

The sorority also entertained last night with an after-dinner tea for rushees.

Seasonal flowers were used to decorate the rooms of the house and iced tea and cookies were served to the guests during the evening.

Rushees invited to this affair included Betty Outland, Edith Adams, Booth Evans, Helen Daniels, Evelyn Cooper, Betty Hammond, Beth Gainesville, Sara Lytle, Dot Molnar, Alma Warren, and Amy Harris.

AAUW Will Hold Last Meet Monday Night

The last A.A.U.W. meeting of the year will be in the form of a dinner in the college dining room Monday at 6:30.

Reservations for attendance are to be made with Miss Rachel Wyatt. After dinner coffee will be served in Reynolds hall parlor. At which time new officers will be installed.

Dr. Anna F Liddell will give a report of the recent state meeting of the A.A.U.W.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

May 16—18

Sunday

9:00 a. m.—Alumnae senior breakfast, college dining hall

11:00 a. m.—Church services

7:45 p. m.—Vespers

Monday

7:30 p. m.—A.A.U.W coffee—Reynolds hall

9:30 p. m.—State symphony orchestra, a Florida Federation of Music project—auditorium

Tuesday

11:30 a. m.—Governor Sholtz—"National Defense"—auditorium

8:00 p. m.—Junior-senior party—open air theater

8:30 p. m.—Cello and piano recitals—Augusta L. Conrad theater

Wednesday

4:30 p. m.—Student recital—auditorium

6:15 p. m.—Graduation recital—Virginia Long—auditorium

Thursday

6:15 p. m.—Alpha Gamma Guild of Organists, lecture recital—Espinosa—auditorium

Friday

8:15 p. m.—Graduation recital—Martha Reddick

Saturday

8:15 p. m.—Piano certificate recital—Emma Lee Goodwin—auditorium

Buffet Supper Fetes Sarah Ball Palmer

Winona Williamson entertained Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Proctor with a buffet supper honoring Sarah Ball Palmer, who is graduating this June.

Those invited to enjoy this affair with the honor guest were Nadia Grainger, Mervis Scott Wasta Wilkins, Dorothy Bryan Jean Pasilis, Mamis Hinsley Brinson, Betty Sweet Smith, Elizabeth Whidden, Jerry Knapp, Tommy Grace Fairchild, Ellen Fleming Mary Brandon Adcock, Mary Ann Hutchison, Sara Moor, Ann Hart, Emily Dickinson, Helena Powell, Anne Jeter, Charman Laffserven, Mary Hutchison, Dougherty Barbara Holmes, Anne Groover, and Vgenia Harrison.

Parker Gives Dinner; Honors Members Of Phi Alpha Theta

Members of Phi Alpha Theta honorary history fraternity were entertained with a dinner party last Friday night by Rosaline Parker in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E Parker, on the Thomasville road.

Lovely cut spring flowers were used tastefully to decorate the rooms of the home for this affair

Those members of the faculty and fraternity who attended the dinner were Dr. E. G. Conrad, Miss Louise Conrad, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Annie M. Popper the club sponsor, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill, Miss Florence Tyron Miss Dorothy Dodd, Anna Marie Sanchez, Miss Rebecca Mendell Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E Parker.

Alpha Gamma Deltas To Honor Friends At Candy Pull

The members of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will entertain tonight at 8 o'clock with a candy pull honoring friends of the sorority in their house on Park street.

The sorority also entertained last Thursday afternoon with a tea for Betty Johnson, patroness, faculty members, and town guests.

The house was appropriately decorated at this time and refreshments of tea, cake, nuts, and mints were served between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Members of the sorority are Betsy Anderson, Frances Bishop Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis Doris Dell Goodrich, Mary Nellie Lamar, Janie Gallemore Nadia Grainger, Mervis Scott Wasta Wilkins, Dorothy Bryan Mary Nell Pinckard, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Helen Godwin Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, Louise Bill, Dorothy Williams, Clare Stewart, Marguerite Pou, Shirley Brown, Virginia Whiting, Barbara Swanstrom Mary Malton, Elsie Kersey, Mary Ann Hart, Middie Moore, Julia Dougherty, Barbara Holmes, Annie Laurie Sanchez, and Madge Collier.

-for Digestion's sake...smoke Camels

Digestion proceeds more smoothly...alkalinity is increased...when you make Camels a pleasant interlude in dining

There is a delightful sense of comfort and good feeling that comes after a good meal—and Camels.

Modern life hammers at your nerves and digestion. Gently, naturally, Camels counteract and increase the flow of digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids...so vital to the enjoyment of food...so necessary for good digestion. And Camels never jangle the nerves!

Smoking Camels is one of life's unfailing pleasures. So enjoy Camels to the full—with a cigarette between meals—for a refreshing "lift"—for pure contentment. Camels set you right!

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER in the National League, "Gabby" Hartnett, says: "A Camel with meals and after sets my digestion right—sets me right."

JOHNNY FOLLOWS, Jr. smiles long, unless he's wishing options in shortstop running. "I'm for Camels," says Johnny. "They bring a feeling of well-being."

TUNE IN! Camel Caravan with Walter Cassel, Deane Janis, Ted Husing, Glen Gray and the Casa Loma Orchestra. Tuesday and Thursday—9 p.m. E.D.S.T., 8 p.m. C.D.S.T., 7 p.m. C.S.T., 6:30 p.m. M.S.T., 5:30 p.m. P.S.T.—over WABC-Columbia Network.

CHEWING CAMELS GIVES YOU A LIFT

HOGGED DOWN with work? There's refreshment in Camel's cootlier tobaccos. Enjoy Camels—for a welcome energy-lift—energy for stimulation of the digestive fluids—for a sense of well-being.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Winston-Salem, N. C.

AT THE COPLEY-PLAZA, Two of Boston's recent debutantes and their escorts were snapped by a society photographer in the gracious Louis XIV Dining Room as they chose a camping outfit—then paused for their Camels to set the proper key of enjoyment. As Louis, maître d'hôtel, says: "In good weather saying that Camels are favored at the Copley-Plaza."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Buy These Specials from College Park Gro.

PHONE 537

—Free Delivery—

PALMOLIVE OFFERS 20 FREE TOURS OF EUROPE! or $20,000 in CASH

PALMOLIVE 100,000 ADDITIONAL PRIZES

ASK US FOR FULL DETAILS

PALMOLIVE SOAP 3 for 15c

$1.00 Nail Brush for only 10¢ (in handle) and 1 TOP from 20¢ PKG. of SUPER SUDS 2 for 19c

ASK US FOR DETAILS

Palmolive Beads 9c

The Finest Soap Made for Silks

Give Her Stockings for MOTHER'S DAY

69c AND $1.00

BROWNBILT SHOE STORE

Graduates Take Full Inventory Of Values Here

List Reasons for Coming To College; Compare With Actuality

"Have I gotten out of college what I wanted?"

With the beginning of the second semester—the last for some—the seniors may well ask themselves this question and take stock of what they have gained from their college life before striking out for themselves and facing the world, at last. First, however, they must answer other questions before they can arrive at the conclusion that they have or have not gotten from college what they wanted—and the questions as why did I come to college? What did I expect it to give me? Did I come up to my expectations?

One senior when asked why she came to college said that she came to enloy the midnight spreads and other attractive features of a college boox college Besides, it was just the natural thing to do after finishing high school. Being too young to take a job and too old to do nothing but loaf and play and lead an otherwise useless life, she came in that she could grow up and bridge the gap between the sheltered life of a high school student and the mature life of an adult making her wey in the world.

The glamour of her story book college was a great disillusion and, in fact, no where to be found on a real college campus. However, she says that she has "grown up" in every sense of the word, obtained much more knowledge than she could conceive of and made friends of people she had never seen before. Also, this feature being one that she admird in others but knew was an impossibility for herself. Above all she has attained individuality, instead of wanting to be just like everyone else, as is the case with most high school girls, college made her want to be an individual, not one of a crowd. All in all, she has obtained everything she wanted out of her four years at the Florida State College for Women and much more that she did not realize was here for her.

Another senior stated that her sole purpose in coming to college was to get a degree and get out. She has gotten much more than that, however. She said, "When I came to college I was used to having my own way always and considered myself the only pebble on the beach, but I found there was another rock in Arkansas and that one cannot go through life without considering other people."

She has learned to respect and to admire greatly college professors, whom she had always thought of rather vaguely, as being absent-minded people differ(ent) from the common every-day sort, who were put here chiefly to poke fun at. She came with the ides of majorring in home economics but also to take other courses purely for her own interest. College let her down in that respect. She has never been able to choose an elective, but has filled her time with required courses and thus feels that she has missed something which college could have given her.

Several girls stated that they came for general rounding-out and molding of their characters and for a broader intellectual outlook. They find that the contacts and friendships they make are the most valuable features.

"I was a snob when I came," one of these girls said, "but I am not any more. I have learned to like and respect girls of different social classes and no longer to look down on people who happen to be less fortunate than I."

"House That Jack Built" Operetta Presented By Demonstration School

"The House That Jack Built," an operetta, was presented by the students of the Demonstration school in the college auditorium April 29.

The operetta was composed by Jessie L. Gaynor, a well-known composer of music for young people. The librettist, Alice C. D. Riley, wove the nursery rhymes into the story.

Mrs. Cecile Strong, director of the public school music department, was in charge of the operetta. The orchestra, which accompanied the production, was directed by Miss Martha Reddick.

The leading role of Mother Darner was played by Margaret Bailey. Others who took part are: Albert Valey, as "Jack"; Odis Kendrick as "Old King Cole;" Alsha Lloyd as "Queen of Hearts;" and Jack Bichbit as the "Knave of Hearts."

Mrs. Strong was assisted by the public school music practice teachers. Miss Martha Lee Wilkerson was the piano accompanist for the evening.

Improvements Effected At Florida High School

With the class rooms being repainted a lighter cream color and the floors thoroughly renovated, additions at the Florida Demonstration school are almost complete.

Other improvements include a stage recently constructed so that presentations may be given in the school auditorium which now seats two hundred and forty persons. A Spanish red velvet curtain has been ordered for the stage.

Much new equipment has been ordered for the school library, including a card catalogue case, dictionary stand, standardized shelving tables, and vertcle file cases.

The library recently received two hundred new books for elementary grades which were chosen especially for the juvenile reader. Among the books that have been received for high school readers are: Flush, North to the Orient, Golden Tales of the Old South, Magnificent Obsession, Good-bye Mr. Chips, So Red the Rose, A Lantern In Her Hand, Miss Lulu Betts and Mexico, A Study of Two Americas.

The Demonstration school has also acquired a new electrically refrigerated drinking fountain.

Last Play Performance Will Be Given Tonight

The second performance of "Ladies in Waiting," a three-act play by Cyril Campion, will be presented tonight by the speech department of Florida State College for Women, in the Augusta Conradi theater.

The characters are portrayed as follows: Sarah Hoses as Janet Darner; Ruth Mock, Pamela Dark; Betty Peck, Dna; Emily Johnson, Lady Spate; Vivian Marshall, Dora; Louise Schwaderer, Mrs. Dawson; Ida Larkin, Maud; Betty Sweet Smith, Phill; and Frances Lingle, Pat.

The play directed by Miss Kemper Martin Moore, is the final speech department play of the season, and is one of the most exciting ones that the students have produced.

Committees for the production are: stage manager, Sally Dunnam; prompters, Dorothy Dietrich and Lorina Guin; publicity, Betty Boggs, Florence Jones, Elsie Frink, Sara Mae Davis, and Barbara Wells; tickets, Frances Lewis, Mary Ann Moore, Rachel Seay, Shirley Pemberton, and Margery Jones; programs, Jean Treadwell; ushers, Helen Young; properties, Lurline Goodman; off-stage noises, Lillian Burford; and business manager, Betty Boggs.

Taylor Scores High For Juniors in Interclass Swimming Meet Friday

Piling up 20 points in wins alone, the juniors stroked away from the other classes with an accumulation of 34½ points in the inter-class swimming meet last Friday night.

Marie Taylor scored three of the wins for her class, while Janice Borton tied with Frances Thill and Felicia West, sophomores, and Sara Lytle, freshman, in the elementary back form event, Beth Daane, also a junior, came in for second place with a timing of 23.6 for the 25 yard back crawl.

Sophomores rolling up their score by a series of ties, one win, one second, and one third place worked out the rest of their 31 point total by winning the 75 yard relay in a time of 48 seconds flat.

The five freshmen swimming for their class gained 20¼ points, and Mary Ward Peterson, the lone only senior in the meet, scored 6 points.

Those taking part in the meet were:

30 yd. free style—first, Bunny Lowery, freshman, time 19.4; second, Janice Borton, junior, 16.2; third, Sara Lytle, freshman, time 17.6.

Elementary back form—first, Janice Borton, junior; Frances Thill, sophomore; Felicia West, sophomore; Sara Lytle, freshman.

25 yard breast stroke—first, Marie Taylor, junior, time 21.6; second, Felicia West, junior; third, Mary Wan Peterson, senior; fourth, Frances Thill, sophomore.

25 yard back crawl—first, Mary Katherine Scott, time 20.5; second, Beth Daane, junior; third, Dot Molinor, freshman.

Side stroke form—first, Marie Taylor, junior; second, Mary Ward Peterson, Felicia West, Bunny Lowery.

Breast stroke form—first, Marie Taylor, junior; second, Mary Katherine Scott, sophomore; third, Mary Ward Peterson, freshman.

Diving—first, Janice Borton, junior; second, Dorothy Scott, freshman; third, Mary Katherine Scott; fourth, Bunny Lowery.

Relay, 75 yards—first, sophomores, time 48; second, juniors, time 51.6; third, seniors.

Scholarships Available For Graduate Work Are Listed by Dr. Andrews

Several scholarships and fellowships available to graduate students interested in further study have been announced this week by Dr. Elisabeth G. Andrews of the personnel department.

Ohio State university offers fifteen graduate teaching fellowships that carry an annual stipend of $350. These fellowships cover an averages field of work.

For any student from Jacksonville who wishes to pursue graduate work a scholarship is available. Further information can be had from the personnel office.

Some of the other scholarships and fellowships offered are those of Western Reserve university, Peabody University, and Johns Hopking. For those interested in the field of personnel or the position of dean of women, Syracuse university is offering a fellowship. Florida State College for Women is also offering a scholarship of $500.

It has been a practice in some universities to select by examination ten to fifteen per cent of the senior class and to place such students in minor executive Jobs in Washington, D. C. Through investigation, it has been discovered that in a few months they were there the students learned as much, if not more, concerning the jobs they were holding than those who had been employed from eight to ten years. It has been expected that this examination will be given to students of Florida State College for Women sometime this spring.

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA CLUB GIVEN PARTY AT CAMP BY LOCAL 4-H GROUP

The college 4-H club entertained members of the University of Florida Agriculture club with an informal party at camp Plantacowo last Saturday afternoon and evening.

Canoeing, swimming, and dancing were enloyed during the afternoon. After which a picnic supper was served outdoors.

During the evening an interesting program and entertainment was given, by the guests and the hostesses around a campfire. Dr. Edward Conradi told an interesting story in keeping with the occasion. Miss Elizabeth Thompson, a member of the faculty, told several "Uncle Remus" stories. The feature of the program was a debate between the girls and several members of the Agriculture club. The subject of the debate was, Resolved: That our standing army should be seated. Allen Mac Gill and Henry Lunsford debated for the affirmative, and Betty Reed and Sylvia Pelps for the negative.

Songs were sung, games played, and mashmallows roasted on the campfire for the remainder of the evening.

Among the guests were: Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi, Miss Ruby McDavid, Dr. Elisabeth G. Andrews, Miss Maude Moore, Miss Marie Clements, Miss Rachael Wylie, Miss Billie Ruth Currin, Miss Julia Gehan, Miss Peggy Underwood, Herbert Hendry, Monk Prevatt, Wayne Dean, Rankin Cox, Henry Lunsford, Dick Lundy, Allen MacGill, Hugh Dukes, Emmett Brown, Ray Tucker, L. K. Edwards, Jr., Jack B. Weaver, and M. C. Roch.

Hostesses were Edwinola Jordan, Willie Adams, Opal Walker, Dorothy Dobles, Marie Herold, Eleanor Murrill, Evelyn Collins, Lois Collins, Elise Barrett, Mildred

Contemporary Students Thoughts

Continued From Page Four

are not doing it on Dad's pocketbook either.

And after graduation, then what. Do they line up at the federal employment offices, or sit down and howl for relief? Practically every member of last year's graduating class found a job. That takes plenty of energy and initiative. We challenge Miss Jobs there was a girl here this year who had been employed from eight to ten years. It has been expected that this examination will be given to students of Florida State College for Women sometime this spring.

Committee Asks Groups To Present New Budgets

Ellen Fleming, chairman of the budget committee, has asked that all treasurers and business managers of various organizations on campus who want to present new budgets bring them to Dean Gertrude Dorman's office before Monday.

There will be a meeting Tuesday night at 7:15 of the student members of the budget committee which Ellen is chairman.

Other representatives are Jeanette Annin, of the auditorium committee, Betsey Anderson, senior representative, Betty Outland and Dorothy March, junior representatives.

Booth, Margaret Delany, Zelma Harrison, Ouida Hurdon, Mary Hudson, Dot Johnson, Margaret Walcott, Opal Wamble, Geraldine Myers, Mary Hazel Evans, Inez Shellhorse, Lillian Shulte, Emily Olson, Roberta Rodgers, Sara Reed, Ruth Persons, Walter Palmer, Irene Garris, Mary Elizabeth Dooley Dobles, Marie Herold, Eleanor Murrill, Evelyn Collins, Lois Collins, Elise Barrett, Mildred

Many Concerts Feature Plans for Next Week

Continued from page one

by Gladys Korb; Danse rituelle du feu, by De Falla; and Concerto in B flat minor, No. 1, Op. 23, by Tschaikowsky: Andantino semplice, Andante non troppo e molto maestoso, Allegro con spirito (orchestral part on second piano).

Leslie P. Spelman, A.B., A.M., B.Mus., F.A.G.O., famous organist and authority on pre-Bach music will give a lecture-recital on Thursday evening, May 14, in the college auditorium, under the auspices of the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists.

His program which is open to the public will be: Girolamo Frescobaldi (1583-1642, Italian), Canzona in quarti toni, Toccata per l'Elevazione; Francois Couperin (1666-1733, French), Soeur Monique; Andre Raison (1716, French), Trio en Passacaille; Louis-Nicolas Clerambault (1676-1749, French), Duo; Samuel Scheidt (1587-1654, German), Cantilena Angelica Fortunae; Johann Rachebel (1653-1706, German), Vom Himmil hoch; da kommich her, Toccata; Dietrich Buxtehude (1637-1707, German), Passacaglia. Von Gott will ich nicht lassen; Johann Sebastien Bach (1685-1750, German), Passacaglia and Fugue.

Martha Reddick, pupil of Miss Augusta Murphy, will give her violin graduation recital on Friday evening, May 24, at 8:15 o'clock. Miss Esther Winslow, of the faculty, will accompany her throughout the program.

Her program is as follows: La Folla, by Corelli; Concerto, E minor, by Mendelssohn: Allegro, of Andante, Allegretto non troppo, Allegro-molto vivace; Caprice, A minor by Wieniawski-Kreisler; Pantomime, by DePalla-Kochanski; and Praeludium und Allegro

SHOE OPENING
The LADIES' SHOP
Announces the Opening of a
SHOE DEPT.
Saturday, May 9th
The very newest in shoes at unheard of low prices. A visit from you will be appreciated.
THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
Next to State Theatre

A Perfect Permanent and a Charming Coiffure!
Start with a shampoo. Our carefully selected preparations will leave your hair soft and lovely. Then add a personal coiffure. Our permanent waves are given in accordance with the most modern methods.
POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SHOP
108 S. Adams Phone 616

What's going on here
...what's happening in these 40 houses
—the curing and ageing of leaf tobacco, that's what's going on.
Thousands of hogsheads of mild ripe tobacco are under these roofs... just lying here ageing and sweetening and mellowing for Chesterfield cigarettes.
Like Rip Van Winkle, they sleep—the tobaccos getting mellower and milder for the cigarette that Satisfies.
...a 1000 pound hogshead of leaf tobacco
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
THEY'RE MILDER
THEY TASTE BETTER

Two Radio Entertainments a Week
WEDNESDAY, 9 P. M. (E.S.T.)
LILY PONS
with Andrew Kostelanetz Orchestra and Chorus
FRIDAY, 10 P. M. (E.S.T.)
KOSTELANETZ 45 PIECE DANCE ORCHESTRA with Kay Thompson and Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers
COLUMBIA NETWORK

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

We Wish
You
Happy Landing

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, May 15, 1936

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER TWENTY-NINE

Goodbye
Grads!
Hail Alumnae!

300 Students Plan to Take 1936 Diplomas

Graduation Ceremony To Be Held May 25 In Auditorium

FOUR APPLY FOR SCIENCE MASTER

Seven Are Candidates For Commencement With Honors

Three hundred students are candidates for degrees from Florida State College for Women this year. The graduate division is present four candidates for the master of science degree. The School of Arts and Sciences presents for the bachelor's degree 128, the School of Education, 133, the School of Home Economics, 38, and the School of Music, 10.

After two years of intensive individual study seven students are seeking graduation with honors. They are Mary Frances Keith, Mauvis Lussier, Rosalind Parker, Alice Porter, Wilma Turbush, Mary Etta Thrasher, Gwynette and Lillian Turlington.

Degrees will be presented on Monday, May 25.

Candidates for Graduation

Candidates include the following:

Graduate division—Master of Science: Helen Gould Everett, Prince Cecile Nicholson, Helen Louise Robinson, Christine Bryan Scarborough.

College of Arts and Science

Bachelor of Arts: Margaret K. Anderson, Helen Louise Arnold, Elizabeth Hurst Beach, Elisabeth Ann Beckwell, Betty Boone, Mary Wallace Bradley, Mary Ansley Campbell, Virginia Garver Carry, Barbara Crosland, Anne Ross Curlright, Ruth Dickson, Mary Dunn, Elizabeth Carol Everse, Frances Elizabeth Fellows, Nancy Hammond Felt, Eva Maye Fowler, Marjorie Clyde Fox.

Frances Elisabeth Gates, Jean Gilmer, Pauline Powers Given, Isabelle Lansing Gleason, Anne Gertrude Goss, Mary Alice Graham, Sara Graham, Barbara Gentle, Marguerite Drew Groover, Winifred Hansen, Elizabeth Hess, Nina E. Hughes, Emily L. Johnson, Annita Wilson Jones, Vivian Josephine King, Helen Lennox Klepper, Sara Malcolm Kristensen, Anna Ruth Lamb, Julia Cecile Lamar, Tullia Floy Lenert, Anna Belle Linger.

Lucy Cox Mann, Jessilee Lumpkin, Cecile Mauvis Lussier, Zula Maybelle Mar, Mary Elizabeth Marshall Vivian M. Marshall, Sarah Bride Martin, Marion Edith Mc-Lean, Laura Belle Mary Waller McCormick, Mary Irene McKay, Mary Elizabeth Meyer, Margaret Milton, Ruth Mock, Gladys Alma Oliver, Sarah Ruth Palmer, Helen and Strode Parker, Jones Anderson Reed, Ruth Athlee Smith, Lorna Fay Ward.

Valerie Kathryn Stubbs, Nettie Barrett Taylor, Wylena Elizabeth Trelbush, Mary Etta Thrasher Ornelle, Lillian May Turlington, Wynn Dickson Sara Tyler, Bertha Antoinette Veith, Lula

Continued on page two

Virginia Early Heads Honorary

Breakfast Given After Initiation of Seven New Members

At the initiation banquet held last Saturday morning at the Three Torches tea room Virginia Early was elected president of Alpha Chi Omega, national journalistic honorary fraternity, Elaine Klepper.

Other officers elected at this time were: Arline Lockhart, vice president; Martha Baker, secretary-treasurer; and Margaret Claire Lafferty, scribe.

The breakfast was held following the initiation of seven new members. They are Elsmere Abernathy, Virginia Early Arline Lockhart, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Sarah Ruth Davis, Caroline Adams, and Lillie McGuire.

Old officers and members of the fraternity are, Elaine Klepper, president; Trudy Kuhn, vice president; Marjorie Harris, secretary, Ethyle Mae Edwards, treasurer; Mildred Smith, historian; Grace Mary Webster, Mary Bruce Patterson, Basil Bowman, Martha Bater, and Ruth Parsons.

Male Joins Ranks Of Future Mothers

The Home Fire Division Post of the Veterans of Future Wars recently established on this campus now boasts a feature which they believe to be unique in all the posts throughout the country. They have a man as a charter member!

It all happened when one of the local veterans became of her pin downism. She was accosted by a prominent business man who snatched the pin from her, plunked the twenty-five cents membership fee in her hand, and demanded the right to the title of "The first male member of the Home Fire Division Post of the Veteran of Future Wars in Florida State College for Women."

Sholtz Speaks On Protection Against War

Governor Advocates Plan Of a Well-Equipped Army and Navy

Using the subject of national defense as his topic, Governor David Sholtz spoke at the regular convocation Tuesday. He was introduced to the student body by Mary Ruth Bratcher, vice president of Florida State college.

Governor Sholtz stressed three fundamentals that he in relation to national protection against war. "We are blessed by God, who says, 'The world is mine; I'll take it.' Also there is the person who believes in the Golden Rule, who says, 'I'll keep it.' The third person is the one who speaks for, is the possession of an understanding that does not covet, but observes and should be shared alike.

The governor advocated the plan of a well-equipped and prepared army and navy. He expressed delight in the fact that no rumors of destructive bombs against the government had issued from either the University of Florida or Florida State College for Women.

Hoping his talk with the statement that the present generation has tremendous influence, Governor Sholtz said that only by true patriotic fervor might the traditions of the country endure.

Psychology Students Adjust Apparatus For Experiments

Girls, Assisted by Dr. Heinlein, Construct Material For Tests and Conduct Preliminary Trials

The advanced psychology students are preparing apparatus for three experiments in their departments. With the assistance of Dr. Heinlein, they have constructed the apparatus themselves, which are being used in making tentative trials with it already.

One device has been appropriately named "the rhythm-tometer," used for purpose is to measure a subject's ability to maintain his balance on a board which moves from side to side at the slightest movement of the body. With this experiment, Dr. Heinlein believes it possible to find what he terms "what reads a great deal is able to balance himself better than one who spreads much time indulging in athletics. The basis of this assumption is the probability that an athlete's body will be more developed on one side than the other, making equilibrium more difficult to maintain.

Another piece of apparatus makes a record of the subject's psychological reactions. Pulse beat, blood pressure, when an electric shock is applied simultaneously with the ringing of a bell, and later when the bell is given alone, although both are still expected. Probably the same reaction will be recorded both times, and a record will be made of the amount of time required to overcome the shock-bell reaction when only the bell is rung.

Preferential rhythm is measured by another device, the subject tapping an electric key, making his own rhythm, until a steady beat is established, and he is asked to tap in rhythm with it. The beat is then slightly turned off, he is again requested to set his own rhythm, returning to the beat as nearly as it possible. The purpose of this experiment is to find the effect of interfering rhythm on the natural rhythm of the subject.

Steadiness can be measured by the use of a perforated metal disc, the subject holding a stylus in one hand and trying to keep from making contact with the sides of the hole. Any contact causes a light to flash, and at the same time a mark is made of the number of contacts.

All records are made on kymograph paper, which is drawn by a motor driven by electricity. The drum is covered with a special type of kymograph paper black-ened with soot, or mechanical smoke, attached to the apparatus being used, moves over this surface, leaving a white line graph after which the paper is removed and given a similar coating to make the record permanent.

Students who are performing these experiments are Miss Marjorie Harris, Anne Cartwright, Margaret Biggs, Beulah Whitaker, Esther Dell, Elisabeth Beckwell, Barbara Green, and Betty Ann Graham.

These experiments are very worthwhile in providing an opportunity for the use of imaginative and ingenuity on the part of the experimenter, as well as testing the psychological value of the subjects, for all testing is done by the students themselves, with only suggestions from the instructor.

New Chairmen For Y.W.C.A. Are Selected

Janice Borton Announces Committees For Next Year

ORGANIZATION HAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Students Are Planning To Attend Retreat At Blue Ridge

Bringing an active year of Y. W. C. A. work to a close chairmen of the Y. W. C. A. have been appointed by Janice Borton, the new president.

Committees Listed

The chairmen and committees which have been selected are: world friendship committee: Jane Hubbard, chairman; Alma Lanier, membership; playground committee: Bonny Lowery, chairman, Frances Lewis, membership committee; Polly Evelyth, chairman, Mary Ray Brainard, Kathleen Gruppes, Evelyn Edwards, Dot Marwick, members; worship service: Dora Helen Baggett, chairman; Jean Duncan, Jane Tharin, Barbara Ammons, Jane Gallemore, members; personnel committee: Anne Norris, chairman, Peggy McMichael, Lester Lingo, members; church service committee: Marjorie Harris, chairman, Charlotte Kamper, Flo Bottari, Katherine Arrivee, members; membership committee: Sara Nance and Katherine Todd, chairmen, Mary Ann Cartwright, Carol Ramage, Ruth Lind, members; finance committee: Martha Lee Carter, chairman, Helen Kate, Corbhany, members; social chairman: Dot Smith, Barbara Sargeant, members; publicity chairman: Janie Gallemore, Barbara Ammons, Peggy Sargeant, members.

Several students from this college are planning to go to Blue Ridge, Virginia, from June 11 to June 22, to attend a retreat there. These students will bring back with them new ideas and plans for the organization to be used in the fall. Girls who are planning to attend this retreat are Janice Borton, Martha Lester Sara Nance, Katherine Todd, Margaret Stout and Sara Graham.

Year Has Been Successful

The past year has been a successful one for the organization.

Continued on page three

Oliver Gives Vivid Impressions of Her Adventures in Hollywood

"What was my impression of Hollywood? I thought it was breathing, and lived up to all the movie magazines say about it," smiled Caroline Oliver, as she told of her trip to the movie world, which she was six days, on in a recent search for movie talent.

Arriving alone in Los Angeles on the morning train, Caroline was rather lonely and scared, but she had received a telegram saying, "You will be met at the station." She thought she would meet her, she prayed that the person could single her out. Was the mob of passengers in the crowded terminal. Then Harry Wilson, cameraman, who was assigned this duty, evidently didn't find it hard to do, and the two, accompanied by cameras clicked in Caroline's direction.

Every minute was crowded for the seven girls who now stays at Wilson's home. The only two stars in which Caroline was disappointed were Olivia De Haviland, who was very tiny, wore her hair shingled, kept on smoked glasses, and pulled her hat over her eyes so that she was hardly recognizable, and Margaret Sullivan, who did not begin to compare in actual beauty to that in pictures.

When the girls on this tour were asked what stars they would like to have invited and meet at a dinner party given in their honor, Caroline named Ginger Rogers and Robert Taylor Ginger had been quiet ill and was forced to decline, but Bob was there and danced with Caroline, much to her delight.

When they were guests of honor at the broadcasted weekly breakfast given by the Los Angeles business men, a fortune teller stood before the mike answering any questions asked by the guests. One of the girls, the winner from Indiana, asked which of the girls present would be her contact. The fortune teller told them that Miss Oliver would be given a three year contract, but that she would give up her career for love.

"There's always excitement," said Caroline. "At the theaters there is always a mob trying to get autographs, while there are flashes all around as the photographers' cameras are working.

During its ten day stay in the movie capital the girls spent an

Continued on page five

IRC Will Bring French Student Here Next Year

Marthe Thomas Will Come To F. S. C. W. For School Terms

Mademoiselle Marthe Thomas from Algiers, France, will come to this campus next year on a visit under the Foreign Student drive sponsored by the International Relations club. The drive which has been carried on for two years successfully the other day when the required scholarship was attained and the committee made immediate made by Mary Kathryne Gibson, president of the club.

The opportunity for having a foreign student on the campus is made possible by the scholarship of two hundred dollars which the International Relations club of offering for the student and the Board of Control that the student will not have to pay tuition or rent. The $200 scholarship was donated by campus organizations, faculty members and individuals, and will pay the student's tuition while here.

Mademoselle Thomas was born in St. Pierre, Miquelon, an island in North America, and is now in her twenty-three years old. She has been in school a number of years, but will have to take an examination on entering F.S.C.W. for Miss Thomas will be a French major in English. Her father and mother are living in Algiers, the father being a physician for the French navy.

Two Take Office In Panhellenic

McGunagle and Garcia To Serve Next Year

Mary McGunagle, newly elected president of Panhellenic, was installed in her office at a meeting held Monday evening. Other officers who were installed were: secretary, Ruth Garcia, and Panhellenic council, Pat Potter, Ruth Sadler, and Kathleen Harris.

Each year Panhellenic elects an officer from each different chapter, rotating in the order of the installation of the chapters on the campus. The officers for the year 1936-37 are Mary McGunagle, Alpha Xi Delta, and Ruth Garcia, Beta Phi Alpha, will be replaced the following year by a Beta Phi Alpha as president and a Kappa Delta as secretary. The Beta Phi of a Kappa Delta president for 1938-39 will mark the beginning of the second cycle of the seven-teen chapters on campus.

Plans for the banquet in the week's new quota system was discussed. The number of guests will be limited to fifty members, these to include actives and pledges. The sororities will be allowed five years to make adjustment to this quota, it was decided.

A resolution was also passed which granted a leave of absence of one month for each sorority chaperone. These absences may be accumulated and taken at any time during the year.

Distaff Wins Honor Rating From Critics

O'Rourke is Appointed Associate Editor On New Staff

LAST ISSUE TO APPEAR MONDAY

Five Dollars is Offered For One-Act Play For Next Year

The Distaff at the end of the year's work with Sarah Kreutzman as editor has just received a first class honor rating by the National Scholastic Press association.

This is the second successive year that the college magazine has received this rating which is given only to the All-American rating given to very superior magazines. The rating that the Distaff received is termed "excellent." The Distaff was entered under the type of "semi-al" college magazine and was judged under the following headings: editorial, art work, typography, and make-up. The Distaff received a score of 885 out of a possible score of 1000.

Staff Announced

Dean Parker, editor of the Distaff for next year, has recently announced her staff. Clotilde O'Rourke has been named associate editor. Jane Lee and Elsmere Lawrence will be junior editors. Rose Trott will serve as organization editor and Bonnie Mae Lee Adkinson as feature editor. The advertising editor has not yet been appointed.

Last Issue Out

The last issue of the Distaff for the current school year will be out Monday, May 16. There will be three articles of unusual interest. Bell Carroll has written on "Personal Education," in which she advances the idea that education is not entirely the problem of the teacher, and that the student is responsible for much of the success or failure of his education. Althea Smith inspects Father Divine in "God Drives a Rolls-Royce." Grace Mary Webster, in "Are We Any Better?" reveals that our generation is no more

Continued on page three

Rule Changes Are Made By Senate Group

Regulations Are Decided On at Last Meeting Of Group

Several important changes in College Government rules, regulations and privileges were passed by the senate in its last meeting of the year as a general revision of the constitution was made.

The new allotment of week-ends to the college students will be as freshmen shall have no week-ends for the first quarter, two during the second quarter and five during the second semester, seven in all. Sophomores will have 12 week-ends during the first semester, and 15 during the second. Juniors and seniors will have unrestricted week-ends. Students on unrestricted week-ends will be week-end at the end of each quarter. Any freshman or sophomore or sophomore is on academic probation two week-ends will be deducted from the total. In case of an emergency the new rulings state that the dean of the student on academic probation may have an overnight absence which is allowed to be deducted from her total number of week-ends for the next quarter. This also makes no mention of her remaining week-ends the following week-end quarter, but this student finds it necessary to use a second over-night absence shall be called before the executive committee for it to give a satisfactory explanation shall be asked to withdraw.

The senate also passed that an over-night absence as any out-of-town absence between the hours between second light flash and 6:00 a. m.

Further legislature on week-ends provided that Christmas and Easter should not be counted as week-ends, that week-ends taken at the end of a quarter or semester should be counted as one of the week-ends belonging to the following quarter or semester. The new rulings also state that parents of students on academic probation will be informed of the student's standing and also of the action taken by the college council. Students will be warned when they are on academic probation and if they take one more than allotted will be warned that they are subject to dismissal and placed on administrative probation. Upon the recommendation of the registration the student will be summoned before the judiciary of O.A. and failure to do a satisfactory ex-

Continued on page four

DAR Plan Organization Of Chapter Next Fall

The Florida society of the Daughters of the American Revolution wish to organize a collect chapter in Florida State College for Women to become active next fall.

Any students who are eligible and wish to become charter members of he chapter are asked to communicate with Lydia Craig Robertson, Tallahassee, before Thursday, May 21.

Tigert To Deliver Graduation Address

Program Plans Are Complete For Freshmen

Thirty-Six Were Chosen For Leaders From Upperclassmen

The complete program for freshman orientation has recently been organized by Josephine Binion and her staff of counselors and has been approved by the dean of students. The program for next year will take a new and much more detailed form than any heretofore used and has been carefully planned after study of the orientation systems of the leading colleges throughout the United States.

Thirty-six leaders this year were selected by a committee headed by Josephine Binion from various campus organizations submitted suggestions and final selection was made by the Student Senate.

The training course for freshman leaders was another innovation of this year. Counselors chosen to be assistant orientation staff for next year have been following a program during the last quarter in which they studied the purpose and scope of orientation, the problems of the freshman girl, technique of leadership, and a follow-up program for leaders. The duties of the leaders has been divided up into committees on various phases of the work. These committees include work on improving freshman scholarship, the development of freshmen, information on traditions, and publicity. Heads of these committees on the faculty were:

This summer the counselors will continue their work and training by correspondence with freshmen and preparing for freshman week.

At the beginning of next year's freshman orientation work will begin. The program for this work will include group meetings every week conducted by leaders and assistants for the purpose of learning regulations, the reasons for regulations, and general phases of college life and traditions.

Continued on page two

Five Prospects Are Offered For Youth in Public Service

Writer Asks That Civil Officials Represent Finest Of American Young People Who Trained in Work

BY SARAH BEALEY

The man who fills your tooth must have a license which requires years of technical training. The man who drives the bus must have a license to show his competence as to experience, health, and character. The man who handles your money in any large financial organization must have a certificate of his honesty and efficiency. The man who handles your money in any large financial organization must have a certificate of his honesty and efficiency as evidence of absolute integrity. The man who practices medicine or service affecting the public welfare must register with the commissioner as a safeguard to society—except in one of the most important branches of work, that which should require technical training in the understanding of human problems, physical and mental stamina, and heart and mind qualities of absolute integrity. Yet all a man has to do is run a campaign for a leader in the political organization in power, and if he has pleased the electorate, or has existed in certain locality for a certain length of time, he may be given an office.

Science of Government

"The science of government," said Woodrow Wilson a hundred years ago, "is the most abstruse of all sciences; if, indeed, it can be called a science, which has no few fixed principles, and practically consists in little more than the exercise of a sound discretion, applied to the exigencies of the state as they arise. It is the most difficult of sciences to interpret them, to create and administer a machinery to carry out these principles which are vital to the existence of society, we choose in too many cases, men who know more about the handling of a political machine than about the principles involved in a sound discretion."

There can be no refutation of the goodness of statement when we have shown us that, with few exceptions, city governments are decided by party organizations whose leaders only skill and training is in getting votes by any method, who place in office men whose only qualifications are political, not inhibit their obedience to the direction of the political machine—whether it be a political "boss" or a group of the financial autocracy. The administrative offices set in state and national politics, except in the few cases where civil service commissions regulate the filling of appointive offices.

It is in such a setting that statements like the one made by Richard Lloyd Jones, editor who had resigned from a federal position are not unusual. "The public service is no place for a bright young man."

Public Service Concerns

The fact that public service in America generally commands little respect and offers very limited prospects to young men and women should be a matter of concern. When Thomas Edison wanted gifted young men to work in his laboratory, he received thousands of applications from boys who were experts in the field and who were vitally interested in the advancement of science. But let Roosevelt ask for young men and women, experts in government and administration, to help him carry out the New Deal. The

Continued on page three

Seniors to Hear Phillips Give Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday

SEVEN RECEIVE SERVICE AWARDS

Alumnae to Stage Annual Get-Together Here On May 23-25

Three hundred students will be candidates for degrees when Florida State College for Women holds its thirty-first annual commencement exercises at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 25. The graduation address will be delivered by President J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida. President Edward Conradi will present the diplomas.

The class of 1936 is to hold its baccalaureate service on Sunday morning, May 24, at 11 o'clock. The Rev. John W. Phillips, pastor emeritus of the Methodist church of Mobile, Alabama, is to give the commencement sermon.

Alumnae Meeting

The program of events for commencement week-end will open Saturday morning, May 23, with an alumnae meeting in the Conradi council theater at 10 a. m. At this session, awards are to be presented to the two students of Florida State college in recognition of achievement in their respective fields.

Alumnae who are to be honored at this time are Elizabeth Cavalleno, achievement in civic service; Miss Shirley Long, 1907, New York, in literature; Mrs. Carl Van Doren, 1908, New York, in literature; Miss Elizabeth Mills, L. E. Olsen, 1914, Gainesville in agriculture; Miss R. D. Haun, 1921, New York, in music; Miss Rowena Longshire, 1912, Tallahassee, research in science; Mrs. Mary Bellamy, deceased, 1918, whose award will be received by her husband; Mrs. Virginia T. Sloan of Jacksonville, for achievement in medicine.

Business Session

The Alumnae association plans a business meeting at 11 o'clock, Saturday morning, and at 12 o'clock in the lower dining hall. President Edward Conradi and Miss Louse Conradi will be at home to visitors Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Class day exercises will be held Saturday afternoon at 3:30 in the open air theater, with the members of the senior class and their sophomore and junior sisters participating. The speech department will present a play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," at 8:15 Saturday evening in the Augusta Conradi theater, honoring the seniors and their guests.

Baccalaureate Service

The program for Sunday will begin with the annual baccalaureate service at 11 o'clock in the college auditorium. The academic procession, "Marche Solennelle" by Chiaserra will be played by Miss Mary Elizabeth Dove,

Continued on page two

Mrs. Clark Dies Here Thursday

Chief Clerk of Business Offices Succumbs At Williams' Home

Mrs. Amelia Kelpp Clark, chief clerk of the business offices, died suddenly Thursday afternoon at the home of Dr. Arthur Williams.

Mrs. Clark was a friend to students and professors as Mrs. Clark. She was a native of Alabama and the daughter of Mrs. Amelia Kelpp Clark, who died in 1909, beginning in the office of the late Governor Albert Gilchrist. Mrs. Clark was in office at that time. From there she went into the office of the city hall. For four years she was connected with the telegraph company. After a sojourn in Atlanta for a year she became chief clerk in the college business office. A position she has held since 1924.

Surviving Mrs. Clark are three sisters and many nephews and nieces of Tallahassee. Her sisters are Madeline Kelpp, Atlanta, Georgia, and Miss Mamie Kelpp

Continued on page two

Florida High Graduation to Be Thursday

Salley to Award Diplomas To Largest Class In School History

The graduation exercises of Florida High school will be held next Thursday night at 8:45 o'clock in the college auditorium. The class thirty-three will be the largest class ever graduated from the school.

The program will begin with an organ prelude and processional played by Margaret Dew. The Reverend E. N. Caldwell will give the invocation and the address will be given by the Honorable T. J. Brooks. Owen Sellers will give a violin solo, an adagio by Haydn and the Florida High school glee club, directed by Mrs. Cecile Strong, will present a modern art number. Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons will conduct the presentation of the graduating class and the diplomas will be presented by Dean Nathaniel Macon Salley. The announcement of the new members of the Margaret Alley Murat honor society will be made at this time.

The girl graduates, dressed in white lace dresses, will carry arm bouquets of red roses. The boys will wear white coats and white trousers.

The baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class will be held Sunday at the Trinity Methodist church with the Reverend J. H. Daniel, officiating.

Those graduating are, Vonda Alcorn, Marjorie Alford, Billy Bennett, Willard Brooks, Postell Boone, Margaret Cromartie, Joe Henry Orr, Jr., Bill Hall, Frances Johnston, Harriet Kent, Celia Reynolds, John Leverett, Estelle Belle Lindler, Alberta Lloyd, Alithea Lloyd, Bernice Mathews, Betty Dale Miller, Dallas Phillips, Mrs. Nina Rakestraw, Jane Reavis, Margaret Salley, Mary Margaret Salley, Mary Snowden, Horace Strickland, Jack Strickland, Jack Terrell, Clara Trushin, Dorothy Tucker, Lavine Voss, C. D. Williams, Jr., Rose Weems, Adrian Yates.

The public is invited to attend the baccalaureate service and the graduation exercises.

300 Students Plan To Take 1936 Diplomas

Continued from page one

Gertrude Walker, Yulee Academy; Edith Corry Webb, Monticello; Wiley, Claire Louise Williams, Edna Dean Williams, Mary Catherine Wing, Katherine Maude Youngs.

Bachelor of Science: A. Blanchett Akin, Edith Agnes Ayers, Grace Blood, Yvette Elizabeth Breaux, Mary Evangelina Carson, Margaret Swindell Cogswell, Esther Helen Davis, Mary Catherine Drennan, Rhyne Mae Edwards, Audrey B. Farmer, Martha Margriet Foster, Marguerite Wadsworth Gehan, Margaret Graham, Marjorie Harris, Melba Hutchison, Kathryn Doris Jarrick, Christine Clara Kinsie, Elizabeth Lee Kirby-Smith, Harriett Elizabeth Lawrence, Harriette Vincent Knapp, Dorothy S. Lancaster, Celia Levy, Doris McKenzie, Anne Louise Pates, Lois Rutherford, Henrietta Coleman Thames, Ruth Valeria Wyland.

Bachelor of Science in Commerce: Sylvia Aiken, Evelyn Ballard, Mary Elsie Bennett, Anna Elizabeth Brooks, Janet Cook, Genevieve Crowley, Elsie Dancy Davis, Bernice Madeline Duncan, Jean Lois Gillies, Mary Lucille Gould, Mary Della Irvine, Doris Lucille Isted, Jewel Estelle Jones, June Kibler, Clarissa M. Knight, Ora Geneva Lamb, Rosalie Lautz, Mary Adriaire Lounds, Jack Meyer, Marjorie Mae Mueller, Louise Audrey Smith, Helen Frances Shepard, Adeline Wirfall Tillman, Grace Eleanor Wicks.

School of Education

Bachelor of Arts in Education: Janice C. Brill, Roberta Lee Clifford, Evelyn Grey Collins, Virginia Ann Combs, Minnie Wallace Dunn, Dorothy Scarlett Estridge, Helen Ruth Feinberg, Alice Fletcher, Jo Beth Foreman, Catherine Cardwell Fuller, Nadia Grainger, Anna Cree Groover, Ruth Carol Ragstrom, Shirley Harkness, Marie Louise Herold, Retta May Jones, Rebecca Keith, Evelyn Kennard, Mary Wylie Klinginberg, Mary Evelyn Lanehart, Mary Keim Litachi, Ruth Lovelace, Ruth Elizabeth McAnulty.

Jane Roberts McCown, Betty Alice Middleton, Sara Jewell Mikell, Mary Aileen Murphy, Mary Pat Patterson, Lauritia Pearson, Ruth King Persons, Alice Rebecca Porter, Dorothy Purse, Versa Muse Reddick, Annie Leigh Robins, Dorothy Marcia Shaw, Lurline J. Smith, Evelyn Virginia Stump, LaVada Sweat, Alice Louise Wahl, Martha Elizabeth Weatherly, Grace Mary Webster, Virginia Lois Weldon, Nancy Lucille Whitehurst, Martha Sabina Wolfston.

Bachelor of Science in Education: Julia Caroline Athon, Sue Bevis, Juanita Evelyn Buchanan, Mary Louise Bullock, Louise Lucile De Gauthier, Irene Marie Edwards, Alice Elizabeth Fountain, Elizabeth Sims Green, Janet Elizabeth Griffith, Irene Geraldine Hathaway, Emma Lee Harrison, Lucy Jane Houser, Eleanor Ruth Johnson, Mary Kay, Opal Irene Langley, Virginia Elizabeth McCaughan, Ethel E. Minteer, Edith Alston Moore, Mary Helen Oliver, Rose Ethel Patrone-Ellis, Gertie Lee Pearce, Robin Perkins, Mary Ward Peterson, Virginia Faye Peterson, Mary Frances Pierce, Mary Lee Rosser, Mildred J. Smith, Mary Jane Strickland, Mary Elizabeth Tate, Margaret Wilkinson, Martha King Williams.

Bachelor of Arts for Diplomas

Junior High School: Nadine Barbara Agerton, Mary Frances Long, Elizabeth Yates Mabbery, Intermediate Grades: Hazel Adkerson, Lois Adkins, Mary Louise Bryan, Mavis Evelyn Clark, Dorothy Dobbs, Ruth Frances Frye, Angela Amelia Griley, Mary Elizabeth Halstead, Jimmie Vondell Herring, Ruby Nell Johnson, Carol Wilson Jones, Sarah M. Martin, Mary Edwina Parker, Alice Marie Marguerite Prevatt, Mary Emaline Rankin, Hazel M. Roscoe, Faye Reeves, Rachel Robstein, Rose H. Safer, Margaret E. Thomas, Ava Grace Vickers, Vivian F. Williams.

Primary-Kindergarten: Martinna Arceri, Mary Elizabeth Bronson, Constance Bryan, Virginia Hayden Brown, Dorothy Dale Bryan, Laurese Harriet Bulkley, Bunice Chason, Sarah Stone Clark, Chauncy Nell Coleman, Lillian Jean Collier, Jess Hill Crook, Eleanor Josephine Dixon, Jane Dowdell, Frances Lucinda Jones, Sara Davis Flood, Margaret Ginn, Grace Green.

Mercier Harvey, Louise Frances Hill, Emma Jean Holland, Mildred Holton, Bette Johnson, Mary Estelle Johnston, Elizabeth Virginia Malone, Hazel Lorraine Mathis, Mary Louise McCrary, Mary Kathryn Mickler, Reba Maxie Miller, Gwendolyn Greene Patterson, Mary Matilda Peacock, Jane Rice, Grace Alena Taylor, Opal Womble.

School of Home Economics

Bachelor of Science in Home Economics: Gwendolyn Virginia Adair, Miriam Leslie Bentley, Carolyn Annis Bowen, Martha Marie Brizee, Sara O. Camp, Hazel L. Clayton, Jean Montfort Craig, Carlota Margarita Cubillas, Ariuli la Jewell Driggers, Dorothy Grace Fineron, Catherine Louise Fox, Carolyn Frances Garvin, Berenice Gordon Harkin, Edith Marie Hobson, Harriett Jane Jefferies, Clara Bernice Lankford, Elizabeth Douglas Manning, Helen Frances Miller, Geneva Fisher Morris, Eleanor Marguerite Murrill, Laura Kathleen Owens, Mary Perry Pollock, Mercia Scott, Margaret J. Stewart, Louise Antoinette Sullivan, Constance Evelyn Windham.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing: Bernice Marie Allen, Marie Louise Wesley.

School of Music

Bachelor of Music in Piano: Martha Virginia Long.

Bachelor of Music in Public School Music: Evelyn Chauncey, Clairnelle O'Steen, Mary Frances Pemberton, Bethany Elizabeth Routh, Mary Frances Whisnant.

Bachelor of Music in Violin and Public School Music: Marcha Marion Reddick.

Certificate in Piano: Emma Lee Goodwin, Clarissa M. Knight, Certificate in Violin: Annabelle Solveig Larsen.

Kenly Poem Accepted

Mrs. Genevieve Kenly, a senior at Florida State College for Women has been notified of the acceptance of a poem, which will be published in the Poe Memorial of Verse. This publication is an anthology containing 2000 poems of contemporary writers.

Autrey is Granted AAUW Loan Fund

Intends to Do Graduate Work Next Year

Miss Elizabeth Autrey was granted a five hundred dollar scholarship loan at a meeting of the A.A.U.W. held Monday night in Reynolds parlor. Miss Autrey intends to do graduate work toward a Master's degree in Physical Education at the University of Wisconsin during the coming year. This A.A.U.W. scholarship is awarded each year to an F.S.C.W. graduate.

New officers of the Tallahassee branch of the A.A.U.W. who were installed at the same meeting include: Mrs. C. P. Hainlein, president, Dr. Anna M. Floyd, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Breen, treasurer; Mrs. Lucy Moore, first vice-president; Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, second vice-president; and Dr. Ruth Connor and Miss Julia Gehan, board members-at-large.

Preceding this after-dinner coffee in Reynolds parlor, the A.A.U.W. members attended a dinner meeting in the college dining room.

Oliver Gives Impressions Of Adventure in Filmland

Continued from page one

interesting morning at the Max Factor Creations where each girl was analyzed individually by make up men to find what kind of hair dress and make up best suited her personality. Caroline was told that she was the type belonging to the dramatic type, and that the other six were imitators. The hair dresser who beautifies Carole Lombard and Joan Crawford "made up" Caroline. Just before having her screen test made, Caroline said she looked in a long mirror and could not find herself, for while being made up she had acquired some artificial curls placed inconspicuously in the back of her head and a broader mouth, which tended to change the shape of her face.

Caroline was the only college girl to see the seven beauty queens who hailed from the states of Georgia, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Tennessee and Texas.

The girls were also taken through the major studios where they were interviewed by the big time directors and gave players a section. Although they saw Carole Lombard and William Powell rehearse the same three lines from their picture, "My Man Godfrey," for two hours until Carole, wearing a silver beaded dress weighing sixty pounds, was exhausted, Caroline still thinks she would enjoy this type of work.

Returning to Tallahassee last Friday to resume her studies, she found cameras still clicking as the Democrat photographers were taking snapshots of the action as she assisted at Play Day at F. S. C. W.

It will be about three months before she will know in what dignified capacity she will be turned a: the tests taken of her in Hollywood are now being "scened" by different casting directors.

Program Plans Are Complete for Freshmen

Continued from page one

of the college. Class meetings for freshmen next year will take the form of short talks by members of the faculty on topics of interest to freshmen, skits by freshmen, and the learning of college songs. The personnel work for next year will include individual interviewing of freshmen, the reporting of problem cases to the Dean of Students, the direction of scholastic work and extra-curricular activities. The leaders will hold meetings throughout the course in which they discuss the problems of orientation.

In the follow-up program of the orientation course the plan features various informal social affairs, and freshmen tables in the college dining hall are planned. In the second quarter various events to bring freshmen and faculty together are planned. In addition to the social affairs that are being planned for this part of the program, the dean of students is now working with the members of the faculty towards the establishment of creative social and vocational groups. In this project freshmen would be required to participate in some extra-curricular activity in one of the groups which would be planned and directed by faculty members. The groups would include such interests as dramatic production, arts and crafts, popular science, athletics, and literary work.

In the third quarter, the orientation plan seeks to put responsibility on the freshmen by having them plan and carry out various social college events. The fourth quarter concluding the series will again include the training of leaders for orientation work.

SUMMER STYLE PARADE
By CO-ED

$10!—A flower shop, print of which was sponsored by Meinhocher, you will love this youthful summery print at only $5.95

Sold exclusively by

GELBERG'S
"Style Plus Economy"
Ash Street at Monroe—your style parade headed! (Fran.)

Auctioneer Tries To Sell Own Coat

Mrs. Esther B. Ferguson, member of the residence staff at Florida State College for Women, nearly auctioned off her own coat by mistake the other night at the yearly auction which the college students had to dispose of the multitude of "found" articles which the owners have failed to claim.

Mrs. Ferguson, the auctioneer, was handed a coat which she was asked to sell. "Why," she exclaimed, "that's my coat." She recalled leaving the coat, prize possession of her wardrobe, in one of the college offices recently.

Tigert to Deliver Graduation Address

Continued from page one

organist. "The Swan" by Saint-Saens and "Arioso" by Bach will be played by Owen D. Sellers, cellist and Mary Reeder, harpist. Following the sermon by Dr. Phillips, Miss Dew will play as the recessional "Triumphal March" by Lemmens.

On Sunday afternoon, an afternoon coffee for alumnae and faculty will be given in Bryan hall sun parlor. The home management house is to be open to visitors from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Y. W. C. A. will present a special vespers service at 8:30 Sunday evening in the Augusta Conrad theater. After the opening hymn, Louise Doyle, pianist, will play "David and Goliath Dismals" by Johann Kuhnau, using the concert version by Harold Bauer. She will play the following movements: Challenging of Goliath, Trembling and Prayer of the Israelites, Courage of David, Contest between David and Goliath, Flight of the Philistines, Rejoicing of the Israelites, Madness Sing David's Praise, General Joy.

Following the scripture reading by Miss Lucile Kinsey, will play "Au Bord du Ruisseau" by Renie. Lucie Cee Linn, member of the class of 1936 and retiring president of Y. W. C. A., will speak.

The School of Music will present its annual concert on Sunday night at 8 o'clock. The program is to be as follows: "Prelude and Fugue in C Major," Bach; "Th Doum Laudamus" Clausman: by Jessica Jane Mackey, organ; "Ave Maria" Gaul-Pisch, Betty Parker, violin; "Admonition," Watts; "Berceuse," Strelski; "In the Garden," Frank La Forge: by Lois Bowen, soprano; "Impromptu in F. No. 2," Chopin: by Emma Lee Goodwin, piano;

"Vivi dolci Aurette al Cor," Handel; "Bergeretta." Recit: "Nina" Pergolesi: by Mrs. Pollock; "When I Was Seventeen," arr. by Kramer; by Lois Bowen, soprano; "Nocturne. B minor," Gladys Koch: "Danse Ritmelle du Feu," De Falla: by Virginia Long piano: "Praeludium und Allegro," Pugnani-Kreisler; by Martha Reddick, violin. Miss Mary Esther Winslow and Miss Gladys Koch will be accompanists.

The program for the commencement exercises to be held in the college auditorium on Monday morning, May 28, at 10 o'clock, will feature Mr. Elgar, a Mendelssohn, played by the academic procession by Miss Dow.

Following the invocation, the faculty trio, composed of Augusta Murphy, violin, Owen F. Sellers, cello, and Miss Mary Esther Winslow, piano, will play Haydn's "Trio in D minor, Op. 45, Andante con moto Allegro ma quitto."

After the baccalaureate address by Dr. Tigert and the conferring of degrees by Dr. Conrad, Miss Dow will play "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar, as the recessional.

The library will be open to visitors on Saturday from 8 to 12:30, and 1:30-5:00; on Sunday afternoon from 3:30-5:00 immediately after the graduation exercises.

MRS. CLARK DIES HERE THURSDAY

Continued from page one

and Mrs. George Sewig, Selma, Alabama.

Mrs. Clark's body will be sent today to Selma for burial. Accompanying the body will be Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Fain and a representative of the college. Mrs. Clark was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Fain.

Mrs. Clark worked during the morning yesterday in the business office, but complaining of an illness she took the afternoon off. She returned just before the office closed and then walked to the Williams home where she was stricken sitting in a rocker on the front porch. Culley Funeral Home has charge of the arrangements.

Piano Normal Students To Give Two Recitals Finishing Year's Work

The piano normal department will present its last two recitals during examination week. The first one, on Monday evening, May 18 will be given by all the students in the department and will illustrate the work done by pupils of different ages.

The last recital, on Friday night, May 22, will be given by Betty Graves and E Glyn Ann Doyle. Miss Graves is a senior in the Quincy high school, graduating this week. Next year she will be a freshman at Florida State college. Miss Doyle is a freshman in the Florida high school. She is a daughter of the registrar of the college, Mr. S. R. Doyle. Her sister, Louise Doyle, is a junior in the college.

These students will be assisted by Miss Frances Gamble who will play the harp. Miss Gates has been studying harp since her teacher left from Tallahassee college in Mississippi. She graduated from Stetson university in music.

Miss Reeder is the director of the piano normal department. The normal is a non-profit organization at 8:15 o'clock. They will be given by the Recital hall of the Music annex.

Rule Changes Are Made By Senate Group

Continued from page one

planation will be asked to withdraw from the course.

The senate also passed the light privilege ruling which gives sophomores, juniors and seniors unrestricted use of lights for studying and granting freshmen the extra hour from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. twice a month.

Other business of the meeting included the establishment of the student council as a standing committee of the College Council instead of a committee of senate.

BENNETT'S CHAIN OF CUT PRICE DRUG STORES

Bennett's
TALLAHASSEE FLA.

FOUNTAIN

LUNCHEON
SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
CHOICE OF:
Fried Spring Chicken, Country Style Creamed Chicken on Hot Waffle Western Tenderloin Bar-B-Q Beef

VEGETABLES:
NEW CREAMED POTATOES with PARSLEY
BUTTERED CARROTS with GRATED CHEESE
FRESH TOMATO Stuffed with CURDS, PEAS, PINEAPPLE AND CABBAGE SLAW SALAD

Hot Tomato Muffins Drink
DESSERT:
Stress Fudge Sundae

25c

Sugar Cured Ham Sandwich, Double Rich Malted Milk.
25c

Cold Plate
Slice Breast of Turkey
Bartlett Pear
with Grated Cheese
Congealed Fruit
with Whip Cream
Slice Banana
Potato Chips
5c Drink
25c

Chicken Salad Sandwich, Large Orangeade
15c

WESTERN CLUB STEAK
Potatoes, Drink
25c

BAR-B-Q BEEF OR PORK
On Hot Bun
10c

Fancy Western T-Bone Steak, Potatoes, Drink.
35c

Large Fresh Orangeade or Grapefruit Ade.
5c

Giant Double Dip Ice Cream Soda
10c

Extra Special!
LARGE LINEADE, FROZEN CHERRY, Nut Sundae
15c

Extra Special!
Fresh Liver Steak, Liver Cheese, Bar-B-Q Pork Ham, Potatoes, Lettuce.
15c

Extra Special!
Fresh Strawberry Nut Sundae
10c

Oh! Boy!
HOT CHOCOLATE
NUT WAFFLE
Whip Cream and Syrup.
20c

Breakfast!
Choice of Fruit Juice, Cereal, Country Ham, Grits, Toast, Jam and Coffee.
20c

"YOU KNOW WHERE HE GETS THOSE SAFETY GLASS AND KNEE-ACTION IDEAS"

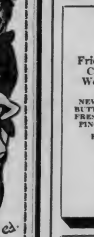
All you have to do is look at a General Motors car and you will find all the worthwhile improvements. Thanks to the greatness of its resources, this organization is able to keep ahead of the parade in pioneering new developments — and able to add these improvements to its new cars at a price any General Motors car owner can afford.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

Upper Classmen Frolic As Ki

Hair ribbons, dolls, organ grinders, lollipops, and bare feet were seen around the new theater Tuesday afternoon.

Kids had come to play.



This year, Juniors decided entertain their elders, the same with a "kid" party. Grandmothers, dressed like Big Tessie or Mickey McGuire, were at the check to play imaginary London bridge, drop-the-handkerchief and ring-around-a-rosy.

Dinner was served to the children in the downstairs dining room which was decorated with pink elephants, balloons, crepe paper streamers. At each place were lollipops and a set of Popeye crackers, and for the visitors, an F. S. C. W. book of games and directions of the student body. The meal was planned to please the kids (with candy cream for dessert).

Although the children managed to behave themselves quite nicely singing rounds and lullaby "baby talk," there was often prompts entertainments. Caroline Oliver did a "real" dance, Mary Alice Lang sang, "Rhythm in My Nursery Rhymes" for which she was given a shovel and a bucket, Rachel Boyd, Beth Dunn, Jeanne McKay, and Betty Bell gave appropriate recitations. Mima Smith played, "On the Sunny Lollipop" and "I'll Be Down to Seek You" and also accompanied the other performers.

The costumes were judged Miss Maud Flowers and Rachel Pitchford. Caroline Long, for wearing the best girl's costume, was given a doll. Dorothy McLean received penalty pop gun for wearing best boy's costume.

After stuffing themselves, children will do many of kids went to the show and to "bed."

THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, MAY 15, 1936

Sport Squints

BY FLIP TURNER

Students arriving at classes late tomorrow will have to offer an excuse their difficulty in plowing their way through the multitudes of sunbathers on the arcades between dormitories. It's terrific—and then they fuss if you step on a corner of their blanket!

Although a little out of season, this football notation gleaned from the calculated remarks Penn might be of interest to the fair ladies who grasp and sigh over the antics of their favorite football heroes.

Football fans no longer blink with surprise at the hints that perhaps the eleven iron men who carry the ball the deer and elevate the goal posts, enjoy the games only because they love it. For are the followers who fail to realize that Coach "Iron John" McCreight were to sit around and wait for material, instead of going out and luring it, his team would be in the cellar and the alumni would be in his hair.

"Increasingly important to the fan—who doesn't realize it—and coach's work" he did . . . "are the late developments in this process of individualization. The vast secret and particularly the past two years, have seen many coaches mind-set themselves over to the solution of an evil believed by some to threaten the standing of the game, and panaceas without number have been proposed.

Opinion seems to be varied since the important people of the football world so no one can ably forsee the results.

All these limping ladies around campus are ashamed to tell you how sad limping was acquired, but before you gullible fans, listen on. They monopolize the tennis courts playing marbles—a reversion to childhood. no doubt, and then have the nerve to limp as if they'd been thrown a war or sumpin.

When Borton gets a gleam in her eye, there's no stopping her. At least that is my opinion of some of her opponents in recent tennis games. At least two games recently. Borton has been racing considerably, then comes the gleam, and presto— Borton's the winnah!

Those girls who have had the desire to skim some of their friends' alive will more than likely have this opportunity before long, if they haven't already, judging by the reading parties in some of the dorms and the number that has time to ripen well. Maybe somebody there'll be some commodity manufactured from all this surplus of info.

And the girls performing queer antics all over campus are not victims of Di Vide Dancemania, are only modern dance students making certain each futile attempt to compose an original dance for their final exam.

This campus will soon be as over run with pools as the Swiss Alps. If the P Club keeps up its present rate of tagging, Thornton, Horton, Glazier, and Lowry this week.

"Every one to his own tastes," said the old lady as she kissed the cow. This would also seem to apply to the ladies of campus who insist upon climbing trees after dinner, in order to reduce— and they usually end up at the sweet shop satisfying the appetite they worked up during their exercise!

"Hi ten High, hit 'em low, yea team let's get 'em" and so went the faculty student baseball game Saturday afternoon. And Home Run Joubert stole the show.

As graduation draws nigh this might be the time and place for a brief resume of the activities of the eleven gym majors of this year's graduating class.

Mel Emmellahn, this year's president of the P Club has been a member of P Club for four years, and an athletic manager for two years.

Rose Panowski—yeah, the one with the laugh—has been a president and a vice president of the Athletic Association and a very active member of the F Club during most of her college career.

Jane Tombaugh is president of the Life Saving Corps this year and is an F Club member of good standing.

Caroline Athon, another good

Odd Swimmers Outpoint Even Team In Meet

Makemson, Taylor, Borton Take Seven Out Of Nine Firsts

Smashing through to seven out of nine first places and tying for an eighth, the Odds, Odds cheered Martha Makemson on to four victories and Marie Taylor, high scorer in the inter-class meet, to two wins and one second place as the Odd swimming team waded last Friday.

The Odd team held its lead through the evening's events to triumph over the Evens in a 87 1-30 to 34 1-30 point victory.

Janice Borton, swimming in the first heat of the 100 yard relay, edged out Felicia West, Even, by split seconds. Bunny Lowry, Even, and Martha Makemson, Odd, held the advantage as did Marion Weeks whose opponent was Harriet Lawrence. As Weeks touched the towel Makemson was off. Dorothy Odell, Odd, and Crawling powerfully down the pool finished second, the edge being 25.5 seconds before the Even swimmer.

The free relay, won by Odd swimmers in 59 seconds flat, was the first of seven Odd victories. Other events and swimmer were:

Twenty-five yard free styles—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; time 13; second, Bunny Lowry, Odd, 13.4; third, Marie Taylor, Odd, 13.5; fourth, Frances Thill, Even.

Elementary back stroke for form—first, Sara Lytle, Odd; Felicia West, Even; Frances Thill, Even; Dorothy Odell, Odd; Janet Johnson, Even.

Twenty-five yard breast stroke—first, Katherine Scott, Even, time 20.5; second, Marie Taylor, Odd; 23; third, Janice Hethcox, Odd; 23; fourth, Felicia West, Even.

Crawl for form—first, Marie Taylor, Odd; second, Bunny Lowry, Even; third, Martha Makemson, Odd; Felicia West, Even; Mary Ward Peterson, Even.

Twenty-five yard back crawl—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; second, Marie Taylor, Odd; 14.4; third, Harriet Lawrence, Even, 14.4; fourth, Katherine Scott, Even.

Breast stroke for form—first, Mary Ward Peterson, Odd; second, Sara Hethcox, Odd; third, Mary Katherine Scott, Even; fourth, Janice Borton, Even.

Seventy-five yard medley relay—first, Sara Hethcox, Odd, time, 1:19; second, Frances Thill, Even; third, Even.

Diving—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; second, Janice Borton, Odd; third, Marion Weeks, Odd; fourth, Mary Katherine Scott, Even.

Distaff Wins Honor Rating from Critics

Continued from page one

broadcasting, in practice, than our parents were.

Awards Offered

The stories are "Release" by Evelyn Prentiss, "Ode to Spring" by a prison, and "A Boy's Thoughts" by Mary Katherine Griffin, tale of a small boy's private dreams. All-Wool is composed of two stories by Evelyn Prentiss, poetry is by Ruth Mock, Maxine Fugate, and Frances Scott. Mary McDonagle and Grace Whitaker are responsible for the art work, and the book covers are by Marjorie Tillis. Anna Marie Nelson, Evelyn Prentiss, and Nan O'Shaughnessy.

The Distaff is offering five dollars for a one-act play which will be presented next year by the Speech Department if there is more than one outstanding play submitted, the speech department should present all of them, but only one prize is offered. The deadline for the plays will be announced by the Distaff, and play-writers are urged to work on their material this summer.

Tennis Finals To Be Played

Episcopals, Spirogira Will Fight For Lead This Afternoon

The Episcopal and Spirogira teams advanced to play in the final tennis games to be played this afternoon by defeating Chi-chats and Commissions, both with a score of 3-1.

Betty White, Episcopal, defeated Martha Baker, Gilchrist, in two straight sets 6-4, 8-4 with her steady consistent returns which continually flouted Baker's flashier game.

Felicia West, Gilchrist, took an easy win from May Fernandez, Commission, two sets 6-1, 6-0.

Cell Levy and Evelyn Glazier played for Gilchrist against Louise Lingo and Betty White, for Episcopals, in the doubles. Lingo and White emerged the court up with score 6-3, 6-0 to finish the match and place in finals.

Janice Borton playing for Spirogira team continued her winning streak to win two out of three sets 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 over Evelyn Fisher. The first set was very close but Borton settled down with her consistent back hand and drives and drives to take the next two sets.

In the second match Eileen Robinson and Jane Hubbard, for Commission defeated Beth Deane, for Spirogira, 6-4, 6-2 with the only Commission win.

In the doubles match Borton and Deane beat Fisher and Robinson 1-6, 6-4, 6-3. The first set predicted a walk-away for Commission but Janice Borton set her game into the court, and took the next two matches to place against the Episcopals in the finals.

Few Prospects Offered Youth in Public Service

Continued from page one

idea of drafting city and county officials into the service, as the need for trained experience, would be absurd. The only alternative is to train young men and university graduates, to rely upon their mental capacity, and capacity for the future of government as qualifications for public service. Democracy failed, and the results, he reveals this advice; "Democracy is on trial. Democrats interested in holding their jobs as incumbents should realize it as long as possible. They are an active, inventive, pushing bureaucracy with a large organization to their credit that would have been the admiration of Napoleon in ordinary bureaucracy. But they will become a bulwark of reaction if they continue to not promote the good ones to the status of permanent jobs and weed the rest of them home with love and kisses."

Aside from the intrinsic worth or worthlessness of the ideals which Roosevelt is attempting to carry out in his program, whatever success with the "new deal" may be, and or is to attain is dependent more than we realize upon the personal ability and sincerity of the men to whom its administration is entrusted. Similarly, by any failure to which history will attribute it, the success of the New Deal will be attributable in great measure to a personal failure of the men and a lack of material from which to choose.

Numerous Public Servants

These public servants — whose importance to our government can not be disputed— make up a total of 2,600,000 individuals, according to the census of 500,000,000 annually. The selection of this army of workers, excluding the relatively few who are elected to office, is by the civil service through appointment. Civil service laws operate only in the federal government, nine states, ten counties, and 260 cities. Even in governmental units which have civil service laws, many positions are not come under the classification, such as those of a sports system can corrupt government there just as in cities and states where selection day is followed by a general handout of jobs.

The federal government is beginning to recognize the gravity of the problem of public service. In 1935 the Commission on Inquiry on Public Service Personnel recommended the necessity of establishing a "career service" for public service and to offer reward and opportunity equal to that in private service. The Commission's plan, in indefinite outline includes competitive examination and selection on the basis of merit, adequate compensation, opportunity for advancement, retirement pension, and so on. The report reported: "From the standpoint of self-government and liberty, it is difficult to overestimate the significance of the problem of personnel. Upon a competent career-service policy, the public service can become an effective instrument for carrying out the decisions and desires of the people. In fact, without such an effective personnel, it may well be doubted whether it is possible for democracy to continue."

"Whether it is possible for democracy to continue"—this is the issue of the whole matter. A nation is ready for dictatorship, when it has come to the point where the people are thoroughly weary of political machines and inefficiency of public officials. Democracy must stand on these three things: suffrage, education, and government by representation.

Even more important, however, than a wise choice of legislators, clerks and technicians as advocated by the Commission, is the choice of officials who will uphold governmental responsibility. Democracy is dependent upon the ideals reflected by civil service commissions, but to those ideals it is the ethical machinery of government, with little thought as to its origin, expression, or technical training. A number of colleges and universities are attempting to help solve this problem by establishing schools of public service. Among these are Massachusetts Tech, Michigan, Harvard, Syracuse, Princeton, Wisconsin, and N.Y.U. Northwestern are among them.

Interest Is Awakened

An interesting experiment has come out of one such school, Cornell U. Wrote Dr. Leonard Fox, the first graduate of Princeton's school of Public and International Relations, is at twenty-three executive secretary of the New York Institute of Public Affairs, in Washington. D. C., an organization "devoted to the training of servants" in federal administration. Now, the Institute has begun work last year by selecting college-trained men and women from graduate and senior classes and graduate schools, bringing them to Washington, and giving them the opportunity to serve as administrative assistants in the offices of high up in government.

Unofficial attempts such as this indicate a growing consciousness of the painful inefficiency of public officials. However it does not seem unreasonable to ask government itself to accept responsibility for training the men and women who are to guide it. Why should not West Point train men as military and naval, regardless of their future occupations, and trained in the technical phase of their work, experts in military policy and serve efficiently? Why should it not be possible as in Germany, to establish a civil academy to be established along with the military and naval academies as a very practical training school? From it there could be developed a trained civil skilled in the half-trigger business of government, who would be in demand to run for city and county offices and could look for promotion to higher and more responsible state and federal positions in a race with candidates who were unquestionably trained for office, and with a voting public desirous of making government effective, the chances of victory was playing right field he was always snagging flies and hits in center and left field. His quick catches, fast recovery, and heady hitting surpassed his teammates.

Hits were numerous throughout the game, but most of the runners were stopped on second or third base by the stingy attack. There was only one umpire during the first half of the game cheering in both capacities. During the sixth inning, however, a second umpire due to the unusual number of runs and obstinacy.

The rooting section was in good form, yelling continuously throughout the grueling game. During the ten straight runs and hitting streak, the rooting section yelled the loudest and the best. The game was a gala-spirited affair, but not only for the playing and form of the players, but for the cheering sections and the comical stunts. Several of the faculty contestants in the baseball game, Shortstop Vance wore a green and yellow raincoat and Coach Bill Rabb, third baseman. The other players were, Mel Emmellahn, pitcher; Bunny Lowry, center fielder; Williams, left fielder; Moore, pitcher; Joubert, first baseman; Lanier, shortstop; and Bellamy, catcher. There were several benchwarmers who substitutes by the faculty.

The student team was made up of Wynn Hallman, third base; Tombaugh, catcher; Cell Levy, first base; Hazel Hall, second base and baseman; Hazel Viertel, third baseman; Mel Emmellahn, short-stop; Bunny Lowry, center field; Fay Corey, right field; and Felicia West, left field.

The umpires for the game were Marguerite Sloatsorn and Claire Hutchinson. Both made fine impersonations of the game Sloatsorn as the umpire and Hutchinson as the coach.

As yet no award has been given the winning team, however as a token of victory, although during the game it was mentioned that the faculty teams that the losers would give the winners a picnic.

for a politician who looks on public service as a "racket" would be quite serious.

Young people today see the potentialities of an effectively administered government. They are willing to offer their ability in public service and to fulfill the obligation of technical training just as in any other profession. They will be willing to cooperate with the government and the support of the people. Democracy will be blind if it fails to grant youth's request for a chance to prove that it makes good in public service.

New Chairmen for Y. W. C. A. Are Selected

Continued from page one

according to Janice. One of the first affairs of the year was the installation banquet held in the second week of the school term. Following this, a membership week took place at which the greatest number of students ever joined the Y. W. C. A. was recorded.

Membership meetings have been held every two weeks since then. World Friendship and World Peace were discussed. Also in connection with this topic, the World Friendship committee brought to the campus Mademoiselle Lucrecile Cappeali, a French student from Agnes Scott college. She spoke on the university life of her country, presenting a vivid picture of the social and political life of France and that of our country. Mademoiselle Cappeali was also a speaker of the international club here.

Sponsors Playground

The playground project, of which Gladys Oliver was chairman, was also under the direction of the Y. W. C. A. A large number of college students helped to carry out the plan, which has created a permanent project for the city itself. The project has been so successful that the city is considering the three other playgrounds to be erected in the near future.

Proper services under the leadership of Mary Jeanne McKay will be held every Sunday evening.

Parties for old clothing took place before the Christmas holidays. Many of the clothes were collected by the college students and given to needy vicinity, a plan which was also introduced this year.

A summer cabinet has as its purpose leadership training in order to train leaders to carry on the Y. W. C. A. Instead of having business meetings each week, the cabinet had a routine of a business meeting one week, a social the next, and a training course the following week, and social meeting the next week. Under the direction of Jane Norris, cabinet adviser, freshmen cabinet had charge of meetings given to various occasions. A change in the organization was made recently, when freshman cabinet, and freshman commission were formed, and sophomore council chosen to take their places.

Another outstanding project of this year is the monthly church services that were held under the direction of the organization. Outstanding ministers from the state were chosen to come to the college to address the students. Since

THE SWEET SHOP

701 West Jefferson Phone 1091

Opposite Gilchrist Via Bellevue

Week-End Specials:

Large Limeade with Sherbet 10c
Goody Special with Hot Fudge and Whipped Cream 10c
Special Luncheon Plate 25c

Odd Swimmers Outpoint Even Team In Meet

Makemson, Taylor, Borton Take Seven Out Of Nine Firsts

Smashing through to seven out of nine first places and tying for an eighth, the Odds, Odds cheered Martha Makemson on to four victories and Marie Taylor, high scorer in the inter-class meet, to two wins and one second place as the Odd swimming team waded last Friday.

The Odd team held its lead through the evening's events to triumph over the Evens in a 87 1-30 to 34 1-30 point victory.

Janice Borton, swimming in the first heat of the 100 yard relay, edged out Felicia West, Even, by split seconds. Bunny Lowry, Even, and Martha Makemson, Odd, held the advantage as did Marion Weeks whose opponent was Harriet Lawrence. As Weeks touched the towel Makemson was off. Dorothy Odell, Odd, and Crawling powerfully down the pool finished second, the edge being 25.5 seconds before the Even swimmer.

The free relay, won by Odd swimmers in 59 seconds flat, was the first of seven Odd victories. Other events and swimmer were:

Twenty-five yard free styles—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; time 13; second, Bunny Lowry, Odd, 13.4; third, Marie Taylor, Odd, 13.5; fourth, Frances Thill, Even.

Elementary back stroke for form—first, Sara Lytle, Odd; Felicia West, Even; Frances Thill, Even; Dorothy Odell, Odd; Janet Johnson, Even.

Twenty-five yard breast stroke—first, Katherine Scott, Even, time 20.5; second, Marie Taylor, Odd; 23; third, Janice Hethcox, Odd; 23; fourth, Felicia West, Even.

Crawl for form—first, Marie Taylor, Odd; second, Bunny Lowry, Even; third, Martha Makemson, Odd; Felicia West, Even; Mary Ward Peterson, Even.

Twenty-five yard back crawl—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; second, Marie Taylor, Odd; 14.4; third, Harriet Lawrence, Even, 14.4; fourth, Katherine Scott, Even.

Breast stroke for form—first, Mary Ward Peterson, Odd; second, Sara Hethcox, Odd; third, Mary Katherine Scott, Even; fourth, Janice Borton, Even.

Seventy-five yard medley relay—first, Sara Hethcox, Odd, time, 1:19; second, Frances Thill, Even; third, Even.

Diving—first, Martha Makemson, Odd; second, Janice Borton, Odd; third, Marion Weeks, Odd; fourth, Mary Katherine Scott, Even.

Tennis Finals To Be Played

Episcopals, Spirogira Will Fight For Lead This Afternoon

The Episcopal and Spirogira teams advanced to play in the final tennis games to be played this afternoon by defeating Chi-chats and Commissions, both with a score of 3-1.

Betty White, Episcopal, defeated Martha Baker, Gilchrist, in two straight sets 6-4, 8-4 with her steady consistent returns which continually flouted Baker's flashier game.

Felicia West, Gilchrist, took an easy win from May Fernandez, Commission, two sets 6-1, 6-0.

Cell Levy and Evelyn Glazier played for Gilchrist against Louise Lingo and Betty White, for Episcopals, in the doubles. Lingo and White emerged the court up with score 6-3, 6-0 to finish the match and place in finals.

Janice Borton playing for Spirogira team continued her winning streak to win two out of three sets 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 over Evelyn Fisher. The first set was very close but Borton settled down with her consistent back hand and drives and drives to take the next two sets.

In the second match Eileen Robinson and Jane Hubbard, for Commission defeated Beth Deane, for Spirogira, 6-4, 6-2 with the only Commission win.

In the doubles match Borton and Deane beat Fisher and Robinson 1-6, 6-4, 6-3. The first set predicted a walk-away for Commission but Janice Borton set her game into the court, and took the next two matches to place against the Episcopals in the finals.

Few Prospects Offered Youth in Public Service

Continued from page one

idea of drafting city and county officials into the service, as the need for trained experience, would be absurd. The only alternative is to train young men and university graduates, to rely upon their mental capacity, and capacity for the future of government as qualifications for public service. Democracy failed, and the results, he reveals this advice; "Democracy is on trial. Democrats interested in holding their jobs as incumbents should realize it as long as possible. They are an active, inventive, pushing bureaucracy with a large organization to their credit that would have been the admiration of Napoleon in ordinary bureaucracy. But they will become a bulwark of reaction if they continue to not promote the good ones to the status of permanent jobs and weed the rest of them home with love and kisses."

Aside from the intrinsic worth or worthlessness of the ideals which Roosevelt is attempting to carry out in his program, whatever success with the "new deal" may be, and or is to attain is dependent more than we realize upon the personal ability and sincerity of the men to whom its administration is entrusted. Similarly, by any failure to which history will attribute it, the success of the New Deal will be attributable in great measure to a personal failure of the men and a lack of material from which to choose.

Numerous Public Servants

These public servants — whose importance to our government can not be disputed— make up a total of 2,600,000 individuals, according to the census of 500,000,000 annually. The selection of this army of workers, excluding the relatively few who are elected to office, is by the civil service through appointment. Civil service laws operate only in the federal government, nine states, ten counties, and 260 cities. Even in governmental units which have civil service laws, many positions are not come under the classification, such as those of a sports system can corrupt government there just as in cities and states where selection day is followed by a general handout of jobs.

The federal government is beginning to recognize the gravity of the problem of public service. In 1935 the Commission on Inquiry on Public Service Personnel recommended the necessity of establishing a "career service" for public service and to offer reward and opportunity equal to that in private service. The Commission's plan, in indefinite outline includes competitive examination and selection on the basis of merit, adequate compensation, opportunity for advancement, retirement pension, and so on. The report reported: "From the standpoint of self-government and liberty, it is difficult to overestimate the significance of the problem of personnel. Upon a competent career-service policy, the public service can become an effective instrument for carrying out the decisions and desires of the people. In fact, without such an effective personnel, it may well be doubted whether it is possible for democracy to continue."

"Whether it is possible for democracy to continue"—this is the issue of the whole matter. A nation is ready for dictatorship, when it has come to the point where the people are thoroughly weary of political machines and inefficiency of public officials. Democracy must stand on these three things: suffrage, education, and government by representation.

Even more important, however, than a wise choice of legislators, clerks and technicians as advocated by the Commission, is the choice of officials who will uphold governmental responsibility. Democracy is dependent upon the ideals reflected by civil service commissions, but to those ideals it is the ethical machinery of government, with little thought as to its origin, expression, or technical training. A number of colleges and universities are attempting to help solve this problem by establishing schools of public service. Among these are Massachusetts Tech, Michigan, Harvard, Syracuse, Princeton, Wisconsin, and N.Y.U. Northwestern are among them.

Interest Is Awakened

An interesting experiment has come out of one such school, Cornell U. Wrote Dr. Leonard Fox, the first graduate of Princeton's school of Public and International Relations, is at twenty-three executive secretary of the New York Institute of Public Affairs, in Washington. D. C., an organization "devoted to the training of servants" in federal administration. Now, the Institute has begun work last year by selecting college-trained men and women from graduate and senior classes and graduate schools, bringing them to Washington, and giving them the opportunity to serve as administrative assistants in the offices of high up in government.

Unofficial attempts such as this indicate a growing consciousness of the painful inefficiency of public officials. However it does not seem unreasonable to ask government itself to accept responsibility for training the men and women who are to guide it. Why should not West Point train men as military and naval, regardless of their future occupations, and trained in the technical phase of their work, experts in military policy and serve efficiently? Why should it not be possible as in Germany, to establish a civil academy to be established along with the military and naval academies as a very practical training school? From it there could be developed a trained civil skilled in the half-trigger business of government, who would be in demand to run for city and county offices and could look for promotion to higher and more responsible state and federal positions in a race with candidates who were unquestionably trained for office, and with a voting public desirous of making government effective, the chances of victory

Gym Teachers Plan Travels

Fox to Work for Masters Degree at Columbia University

The teachers of the physical education department are making plans for the summer, all over the United States.

At the close of school Miss Betty Watkins is going to motor up to New York. After spending a few weeks there, she will go on to her summer camp in Michigan. Between rounds of swimming, fishing and tanning she hopes to get some repair work done on her costume. When September begins she says she'll probably decide that the camp can go on more a year, without repairs.

Miss Elizabeth Autrey is going north for a short visit in June, then she is going to Greystone Camp in Hendersonville, North Carolina, where she has held a position of counselor for the past four years.

Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson hasn't made any definite plans as yet, but she will spend the most of the sixth of June for the convocation of 4-H club girls, who will come here from all parts of the country.

Then she returns here next year Miss Grace Fox will have a few more hours added to her course, for she is going to spend the summer working for her master's degree at Columbia university.

Miss Mary Settle expects to remain here for two weeks after graduation, then she, and Sally Mae Hale, is going to spend the summer at Camp Anconac, in Hillside.

Miss Wilson added to a quiet summer consists of traveling to Newport News in South Carolina, and then to Texas for the remainder of vacation.

Episcopalians Are Victorious

Win by Single Point From Chi Omega Team With Score of 22-23

The Episcopal students won the final basketball game played last Friday afternoon from the Chi Omegas to come out the victors in the field volley-ball tournament.

The Episcopals won by one point, the score being 23 to 22. Both teams played unusually good basketball, and fought long and furiously for the lead in points.

The winning team was made up of Betty White, Mel Emmellahn, Marguerite Gehan, Louise Lingo, Betty Kirby-Smith, Betty Oglund, Sara Lytle, Hallie Hall, Louise Jane Thomas, and Helen Daniels.

Jean Lewis, Sarah Bess Winn, Kirkland, Sunny Bell, Louise Brand, Anne Knight, Mildred Lee, Frances Lewis, and Hilda Spradlin played for the Chi Omegas.

The official for the game was Beth Deane.

With Vacation Here!

You will have time to make some of those cool frocks you have been admiring. We are having a special sale on voiles, lawns, dimities, and many other fabrics. Buy some and take them home with you.

P. W. Wilson Company

Since 1837

Seniors Defeat Faculty in Year's Most Spectacular Baseball Show

The seniors dashed madly and hilariously around the baseball diamond for ten straight runs in the sixth inning of the faculty-senior baseball game last Saturday afternoon to win the game, 23-13.

The first five innings were hotly contested and seesaw with the faculty leading by a score of 13-11. But in the sixth the seniors broke loose and pounded the faculty with an eight run lead. The faculty tried to stage a rally during the remaining innings, while the seniors added two more to hold their lead.

The only home run of the game was made in the first inning by Bill Joubert when he hit a beautiful left-fielder and streaked around the diamond in record time to slide into home, upsetting the umpire in the meantime. He continued his hard-hitting and sliding throughout the game, and since he is built like a jockey time he came to bat, and upsetting more base runners as he slid around the diamond. Bill was the star of the day. Although he

Frances Thill Attends Meet

FSCW to Be Represented At Annual Aquatic Conference

Miss Frances Thill will represent Florida State College for Women this year at the annual American National Red Cross Aquatic meet to be held in Asheville, North Carolina on June 14 to 20.

Frances plans to take a short course in advanced life-saving there. The course is to be directed by Mr. Raymond Eaton of the National Red Cross Staff.

Last year this school was represented by Janice Borton, who also was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Autrey of the Physical Education Department. Several of the other schools which will be represented at this meet is Miami university.

Gym Classes Have Horse Show

406 Girls Attend Annual Play Day

Elephant Team Wins Top Score in Games

The annual Play day sponsored by the senior physical education majors was held last Saturday with Rose Panowski, chairman.

Four hundred and six 4-H club girls from the neighboring counties came for the occasion. A much greater number than was expected. As the girls arrived they registered for the activities of the day they were divided into teams and given names of animals or birds. During the day these teams competed in games and rotated from one event to another. A score was kept for all the events, and the teams winning the most games had pennants bearing the name and their team displayed on a conspicuously placed pole. The Elephant-team won the most games and had its pennant flying at the very top of the pole when the day ended.

The high spot of the day for the majority of the visitors was the swimming-pool. It was evidently quite new to some of the girls as their lives all, after being in the pool for some time, were at last taken up with group singing, folk dancing, challenges, and swimming.

In addition to the physical education majors several other students helped throughout the day in stunts and games. Dan Cupid and the group singing in the afternoon, while Loretta Pierson, Mary Ward Peterson, and Mary Wright helped in the story-telling. Buster Lowery, Janet Cook, and Jo Gordan assisted the gym majors in directing the games, and Mary Ward Peterson and Juanita Buchanan led stunts. Bertha Mackey led the folk dancing in the afternoon, assisted by the modern folk-dance class. Caroline Athon had charge of the swimming-pool in the afternoon. Evelyn Fisher and Mary Ward Peterson were chairmen of the day, and Mary DeGrummond, social chairman for the games were started Dot Colburn entertained with an accordion dance, and a small girl from one of the 4-H clubs did a toe dance.

This Play day was one of the most successful of the year for the physical education majors. The seniors who sponsored and directed were Caroline Athon, Juanita Buchanan, Mary Louise Denmark, Mildred Gilmellahn, Janet Griffiths, Bertie Mackey, Caroline Oliver, Rose Panowski, Mary Peterson, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Horton, Glazier and Lowry Given Letters

Seven Stars Are Awarded To Students Already Holding F's

TWENTY-SEVEN GET NUMERALS

WAA President Makes Presentation At Convocation

Marjory Horton, Bunny Lowry, and Evelyn Glazier, basketball captain Tuesday morning when they were awarded their F's in convocation.

In order to receive an F a student must have played in two Odd-Even games, must have A health, a C average and must have participated in one class game in each sport.

Beth Deane, Janice Borton, Fay Corey, Valerie Rust, Cell Levy, Wynn Thaten, and Felicia West, were awarded stars for their letter. The stars are earned by the same requisites as those necessary for an F, and are awarded to those girls who have already received their F's.

Also, at convocation, twenty-seven numerals were awarded girls who have a C average, A or B health, and who have participated in at least one class game.

Those who received numerals this week were Beth Barnhill, Betty Bell, Fay Corey, Josephine Douglas, Ethyl Mae Edwards, Isabelle Engstrom, Elizabeth Fenn, Evelyn Fisher, Betty Gause, Florence Gray, Betty Hunt, Frances Lowery, Mattie Lou Loves, Sara Lytle, Dorothy Mosley, Mary Ann Mullen, Jane Norris, Dot Richard, Nancy Rew, Audrey Smith, Edith Stanley, Margaret Stanley, Edith Taylor, Frances Thill, Betty White, Louise Whitting, and Ruth Wilson.

this plan has been a successful one, it is to be continued next fall.

Executive cabinet of this organization has been divided into rotating committees, which gives each member a chance to work on all committees. Members of the cabinet for next year, who were elected are:

Dora Helen Baggett, Janice Borton, Helen Cate, Cora Chaney, Jean Dunn, Polly Eveleth, Janice Gallimore, Sarah Graham, Barbara and Jane Hubbard, Erskine Lawrence, Alma and Martha Lee Mansfield, Louise Lingo, Bunny Lowry, Ruth Lind, Peggy McMichael, Virginia Nagle, Anne Mavrix, Sallie Bert Nunnin, Mary Nell Pendleton, Mary Blount, Jane Thatin, and Katherine Todd.

Janice Borton succeeds Lucy Lee Hall as president of Y. W. C. A. Other officers of the organization are Margaret Stout, vice president; Sara Graham, secretary and Martha Lee Mansfield, treasurer. Dr. A. P. Liddell is faculty advisor while other faculty members assisting the organization are Miss E. E. Thomson, Miss L. J. Cruse, Miss M. D. Irish, and Miss Becker.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN .... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS .... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER .... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD .... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER .... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art Editor: Caroline Adams; Exchange Editor: Virginia Early; Feature Editors: Billie Hotard and Jane Quinn; Literary Editors: Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Sealey; Outside News Editor: Claire Lafferty; Assistant Society Editor: Minna Agress; Special Writer: Arline Lockhart; Sports Editors: Elizabeth Turner and Ella Brooks.

Featured Writers: Eloise Andrews, Margaret Jean Duncan, Ethel Grassfield, Frances Hartley, Mary Lynn Massie.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE .... Business Manager
JEAN DUNCAN .... Asst. Business Manager
JANE QUINN .... Advertising Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY .... Asst. Adv. Manager

Enter as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Seniors, "Go Greek"

We in college are told much and varying advice. We may expect from our roommates or visiting lecturers anything from "Be loyal," "Be careful," "Drive safely" to "Enjoy yourself," "Don't study too hard," and an occasional "Think of the spiritual things of life." Yet how seldom do the volunteer advice-givers tell us to "Be intelligent."

Perhaps it is because so many of them differ as to just what is the more intelligent line of action in a given situation, yet at the same time they probably never realize how constantly we need to be reminded of the necessity of finding "the more intelligent way."

As yet we do not all regard "being intelligent" as a moral obligation, like John A. Erskine, writer and teacher, does and says we should. Not that there are not several significant reasons why all of us in college should regard "being intelligent" a deep moral obligation.

First, because we attend a state institution. State endowed institutions are natural accompaniments of democratic philosophy, and theoritically we should expect our democratic leaders to rise from these institutions of learning.

Second, simply because we are going to college. As college graduates we will belong to a minority group whose opinions should be generally conceded far enough above the average opinion to warrant the majority's consideration.

And third, simply to justify the existence of college education. If we are not more morally indebted to society to "be intelligent" when we graduate than we enter, then colleges are fighting a losing battle. They might as well give up and we too. Yet if we can't put our faith in education, what else is left?

This is not meant as a diatribe on education, however. It is simply a parting shot at seniors and a reminder to ourselves.

We inherit the Greek way of thinking, as it comes to us through science; the Greeks however, we learn, applied their attitude to all of living. It is up to us as college students to attempt to bridge that gap between scientific thinking and living today. So with bon voyage to the seniors, we made them a farewell challenge—"Go Greek."

Ouch! Inventory Time

The subject of privileges and "rights" is probably the most howl-provoking of any discussed on this campus, particularly among the students. And this subject like most others has its pros and cons. The students say, for instance, that they deserve the treatment afforded adults if they are ever to become adults. They remind themselves that before coming to college they could at least think for themselves on matters pertaining to social conduct, and so forth. They add to their other thoughts the idea that without privileges they will learn neither the use of privileges nor the true weight of responsibility—that is, not until the "cold, hard world" dispenses a few lessons. And on their side the administrativa officers say that students shall have more privileges and more responsibility when they can prova their ability to handle both.

Although this matter of proving themselves is rather vague in detail to most students nevertheless they are more or less sincere in efforts to effect such proof; it is in regard to this "proving" that we hope to relate the paragraphs that follow:

In taking our little yearly inventory of progress we hope to learn a little about our attitude toward existing privileges and responsibilities, and with this in mind we ask ourselves the following questions concerning our campus government: Do we as students make the most of our student government privileges? Do we take an honest interest in affairs related to the senate and the judiciary? Does anyone ever stop to consider what the students are really doing who are trying to make these organizations actual campus forces? Do the members of the student-body as individuals and as a group take an active interest in student affairs? How many persons, for instance, visit senate meeting to see what programs are underway, to learn what student government is based upon, to see what attitude the campus law-makers are taking? Has any student not directly connected with the organization studied the system of penalties espoused by the judiciary? If so has any constructive criticism been found necessary?

No doubt approximately 1550 consciences will begin to prick their owners if those owners stop to consider these matters seriously for a few minutes. We wonder how many students—voters and officials — are able to indict national political leaders and law-makers when these same students do not and will not take an active interest in campus affairs. They are not making use of their political training-ground.

And then what about our leaders and our law-makers? Do they have a genuine interest in the interests of the campus? Have they done any real thinking upon the subject of campus welfare? Are they ready to stand up and fight for their principles? Are they willing to go out of the way to find out what their constituents want? Do they hold open meetings at which matters pertinent to campus regulations are discussed with these constituents? Do they remove opportunity for student complaints by having letters of policy placed at the disposal of the public before recommendations related to specific matters are turned over to the college council or the student executive council? It the student-body always informed of proposed action before recommendations concerning such have been presented to higher authority?

Candidates for public office are very much in evidence at present. This is no phenomenon because the same thing happens at least every four years. But it is phenomenal that every candidate has to put forth some platform before the public will even listen to him, and in addition every holder of public office knows that his position is more secure so long as he professes pursuance of a certain line of action. Declarations of such policy are always open to public criticism and question, and the official is responsible to the people. If we consider this procedure rational and befitting strong local and national government why is it not logical to assume that student interest in campus matters could be based upon a similar system here?

The Flambeau, in fostering a movement for larger interest in matters of campus life, again invites the use of its pages to bring to the attention of everyone the opinions of the student-body members. This invitation, which has repeatedly been offered in past years, includes use of the Pro and Con column, the guest editorial column, and news space. Records of meetings concerning the student-body will always be given space when the material is made available to the Flambeau reportorial staff.

The Flambeau has placed itself at the disposal of the campus in the interests of better times for all. We invite the College Government association and other organizations to take advantage of their opportunity to make matters of policy available in print to the student-body.

In any movement the leaders are likely to make one mistake. They may lose their perspective; and loss of perpective means the continual bringing to light of petty details while fundamental issues are forgotten.

A college, according to Webster, is "a society of scholars, or of friends of learning." The college is not found in most parts of the world.

Needed quick! A department to disentangle all the others.

Magazine Thumbings

BY SARAH SEALEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

KAGAWA: PROLETARIAN SAINT

By Paul Hutchinson
Atlantic Monthly, May 1936.

An "unassuming, retiring, introspective, intuitive, ascetic, humorous, friendly Japanese," a wealthy man who prefers to live in the slums of Japan, has aroused the interest of the American public as few foreign visitors ever do. Toyohiko Kagawa, during his current tour of the country, has been heard by huge audiences, and is besieged by invitations to prolong his visit.

The secret of Kagwa's immense popularity, says the author, lies in the fact that he has given a practical turn to Christianity's social gospel. In the last few years he has made the cooperative movement one of the most powerful economic and social forces in Japan. Through cooperatives—consumers', producers', credit unions, insurance, health, and public utilities cooperatives— he believes that Christianity can gradually and peaceably wipe out the injustices of our social order. His work in Japan and social conditions in Scandinavia testify to the workableness of his idea.

—S. S.

A REPUBLICAN TAKES A WALK

By Stanley High
Forum, May 1936

Mr. High, a midwestern-Methodist-bred Republican and a capitalist is going to vote this year for a Democrat, a thing he has never done before.

Franklin D. Roosevelt should have, Mr. High believes an opportunity to develop his great undertakings beyond the experimental stage, to give the American people more than just a sample of social-security, protected labor rights, banking reforms, slum clearance and land conservation. The purpose behind the New Deal policies, as Mr. High interprets it, "is to make room in the American system for practices and guarantees designed to provide a fuller and more widespread security for the masses of the American people."

Mr. Roosevelt, he believes, has made a start toward solving America's problems of economic maladjustment.

—S. E. D.

A COLLEGE FOR ONE

By Philip Curtiss
Harper's, May 1936.

In this article are the facts of a rather unorthodox experiment in education. The author faced the necessity of providing a college education for two daughters. Since he could not afford to send them away, he gave them individual rooms equipped with an encyclopedia, a serious non-fiction book, a book of fictional literature, a book in a foreign language, and outlined a schedule with half-hour periods of reading separated by reverie periods and one brief recess during the mornings.

His aim is to acquaint his daughters with the great minds and great personalities of the past, not merely to have them acquire specified facts. The vocational value of the plan, he believes, is as great as that of the average college course.

—S. S.

MONOGAMY IS AN ART

Forum, May 1936
Anonymous

"Monogamy is not natural to man," the author begins, "however satisfactory the wolf, the commuter and the kangaroo find it."

The first count she places against monogamy is that in her estimation it becomes an incestuous relationship which creates a brother-sister attitude between husband and wife. The second is that it is lonely, more so for women than for men. Her third and last indictment against present-day marriage is pointed at that intangible "Third person in every enduring conjugal relationship, who is a composite of both the man and the woman, is neither, and obscures much that is individual in each."

In order to maintain successful marriage, she would adhere to the school which holds that nothing which does not affect the well being of both partners in the marriage should even be told. This economy of marital confessions, she thinks, is the very essence of the art of monogamy.

—S. E. D

Spirit of the Week . . . . By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

After a three day visit in the United States the German dirigible Hindenburg, latest queen of the skies, departed Tuesday for Frankfort, Germany, her home port. A forty-five hour record for the eastward crossing was the goal of her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, which would clip six or seven hours off her time of sixty-one hours and thirty-eight minutes for the westward flight.

Of the one hundred and four persons aboard, forty-eight were passengers, eight of whom were women, and fifty-six were in the crew. The ship also carried 150,000 pieces of mail.

This visit of the Hindenburg provided a foundation for what airship advocates hope will be a ravival of American airship interest, and a stepping stone to American entrance into the commercial airship field. Dr. Eckener, veteran in lighter-than-air aviation, expressed a hope that a fleet of dirigibles operated under German-American auspices might some day ply the ocean airways.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, in charge of the United States naval air station in Lakehurst, New Jersey, is anxious that this country follow the example of the Hindenburg. Said Commander Rosendahl: "Germany is tha only nation that has so far really made a worthwhile effort. If Germany can do it why don't we?" And these words come from one who has commanded three of our ill-fated airships in the past.

* * *

Following up the capture of Public Enemy Alvin Karpis, J. Edgar Hoover and his G-men wiped the enemy slate clean this week with the arrest of the last three titleholders. Harry Campbell, partner of Karpis, wanted for participation in the Bremer kidnaping, was taken last Thursday in Toledo. William Mahan, an aide in the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, surrendered to federal men in San Francisco. He confessed shortly after and got sixty years. The last man at large, Thomas H. Robinson, long sought as the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, was arrested Tuesday in Glendale, California. This concluded the bureau's intensive war against public enemies during the last month. There is but one other candidate in the field.

"Politics is Public Enemy No. 1," J. Edgar Hoover, head of the G-men, said. "Political attempts to hamper and interfere with federal and other police and prosecuting agencies are a real menace."

* * *

One morning recently, an amazed capital awoke to find the red flag of Communism flying over the huge marble temple of the Supreme Court of the United States. Apparently raised in the night by a prankster, the fluttering emblem struck consternation into the ranks of the Supreme Court guard assigned to protect the dignity of the nation's highest tribunal. Frantically the guard and a detachment of police struggled for an hour and a half to get the flaming emblem down, but without success. Finally a fireman mounted an extension and touched the flag with a gasoline torch tied to the end of a long pole. The government began a wide hunt for the prankster who had raised the banner bearing the hammer and sickle. Authorities said they found a copy of the Harvard Lampoon at the base of the flagstaff.

* * *

Those who fear that the human race is becoming extinct will be glad to know that the United States population has increased 3.9 per cent in the last five years, according to the latest release by the Federal Bureau of the Census. The estimated population on July 1, 1935 was 127,520,000 as compared with the total of 122,755,046 on April 1, 1930.

The new records show that the shift of population from east to west noted in 1930 has slowed down, and that there has been an increase in urban population probably due to the distressed conditions in farm sections because of the droughts during the past few years.

There has been a substantial increase in population in the southern states. Florida's total is 1,614,000 as compared with the total 1,468,000 of five years ago—an increase of 9.9 per cent. In Georgia the increase has been 15 per cent, in South Carolina, 15.7 per cent, and in Tennessee, 11 per cent.

New York is our most populous state with a total of 12,889,000, and Pennsylvania is next in line with a population of 10,066,000.

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

Have you ever heard of W. H. Littlejohn? He was killed in action on April 10,1917.

Do you know of Gareth Marsh Stanton? He died of war wounds on February 20, 1916.

Have you ever heard the "Sonnet Sequence" of Arthur L. Jinkins? He was killed in air, December 31,1917.

There is little need to go further. There are the names of some promising poets, American and British, who were killed during the World War. Frederic W. Ziv has recently published an anthology of poems by young authors who gave their lives during the madness of that period. His book is called the "Valiant Muse." It is an adequate answer to those who asked why this period has been so sterile in matters of culture. The generation of Alan Seager, Joyce Kilmer and Rupert Brooke died to make the world safe—for what?

* * *

A letter to the editor of the Daily Californian reads: Don't be an unknown soldier—have your finger-prints taken.

Need We Add More?

Astounded, we read that colleges are now being accused of being too intellectual.

It seems that movie actresses and Washington University graduate Frances Farmer (don't be alarmed, we hadn't heard of her either) thinks "this thing of being intellectual, meeting each problem rationally and all that is a terrible thing."

She believes college induces too much introspection, self-analysis and standardization of normal feminine emotions, and philosophizes: "Women live on emotion, and when that's taken from them by too much introspective thinking they're not feminine any more."

"Social researchers, wondering why college women marry so late in life, should take a look at the product," she omnisciently observed.

Now it is most difficult for us of The Daily, who have, oft of an evening, shortly before 10:30 p.m. week-days, shortly before 1:30 a. m. Fridays and shortly before 12:30 p. m. Saturdays, glanced across the street toward the Betsy Barbour and Helen Newberry rear entrances — and gazed introspectively at obviously non-introspective goings on—it is most difficult for us to worry greatly over a ossible "standardization of normal feminine emotions."

Those of us who have piloted our hurrying way 'midst oblivious islands of merged humanity clustered back of Mosher-Jordan halls, insist on retaining a firm and admiring faith in college femininity.

Campus social researchers who have, upon frequent occasions, researched in vain for an empty davenport or even a chair in dormitory lounges, must feel at times that if college women do marry "late in life" the phenomenon is due not to introspection—certainly not to incompetence—but rather to indecision.

Three possible conclusions suggesting themselves concerning the statements of Miss Farmer are:

(1) Washington University is indeed a unique institution.

(2) Miss Farmer has suffered from arrested development.

(3) We are playing the gullible to a Hollywood press agent.

—The Michigan Daily

Girls Beware! Your sun-tans are doomed to go unappreciated:

"I hope my idea spreads," was a Rice Institute student's parting shot last week when he was told by the faculty discipline committee that he would not be allowed to re-enter school next fall. The boy has been wearing shorts to classes since March 1.

Although it is legal for one to dress as he pleases in this country, there are restrictions as to where certain articles of clothing can be worn. Wearing shorts to college doesn't exactly tie-in with the formal manner in which classes are conducted. For playing tennis, golf, hiking, or picknicking, shorts are the proper costume, but for class—well, that's something else again.

It is not a question of individual liberty when other class-mates are forced to look at bare legs exposed by abbreviated trousers. Surely every college student will agree that you will not suffer a heat stroke by being a little modest in the class room and leaving shorts to be worn at proper occasions.

—The Lasso

Higher education in the United States from 1920 to 1930 was recently characterized by Dr. Stephen Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, as a "pretty sloppy kind of affair." In denouncing past practices, Dr. Duggan said:

"During the decade from 1920 to 1930, some of the greatest new industries came upon the scene—the cinema, radio, airplane and the new kinds of automobiles. The result was that any college graduate, until 1930, who was unable to get a job six months after he left college, was a pretty poor col-

— Continued on page eight —

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal comment and is open to all who wish to submit sincere and constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed marked "Flambeau" and mailed in the postoffice.

Of all of the courses given at Florida State college, I feel that "Marriage and the Family" is the most necessary for after life.

The college girl of today should have adequate sex knowledge to cope with any situation. This she should obtain in a wholesome way from one who has made a study of it. With the proper sex education the young people of today will not make mistakes in mating improperly.

The college girl should be educated for marriage and motherhood. All girls expect to marry at some time in their lives and, if they have a good understanding of their responsibilities, there will be less chances for failure in this most important relation of life. They should realize that marriage based on real love, congeniality and sentiment will last. If education for marriage were universal there would be fewer divorces.

During this past year not many more than a hundred girls has the benefit of this course, since there is only one section each semester and seniors are given preference. I think that it should not only be open to all classes, but be a required course. The girls who come here for only one or two years usually marry before the four-year graduates so why not prepare them for marriage? Statistics show that 62 per cent of the people in Florida over fifteen are maried, so according to that there should be a course in high school for those not going to college.

Collegiate Come-Backs

With our usual cheer we dedicate the following to those dear sisters of ours who are about to depart for regions unknown:

Freshman,
Sophomore,
Senior, College;
Culture,
Learning,
Lots of knowledge;
Phi Beta Kappa,
Much enjoyed;
Graduation, Unemployed.

—Carolinian

* * *

One of the greatest disappointments we've had in years was when the Veterans of Future Wars failed to remember us on Mothers' Day.

* * *

Compiled by the Villanovan, the following glossary is designed to enlighten the seniors:

Graduation is that process of getting rid of undesirable seniors in an honorable way by the process of:

Commencement, a boring function devised to test the waiting stamnia of:

Seniors, girls who have spent four uneventful years at FSCW in a feeble attempt to get some:

Knowledge, an illusive muse that cannot be obtained by just a little Work, what the unsuspecting graduates are about to do when they have finished.

* * *

One of our friends declare that she's going to have to put her thumb in a cast because she erased so much in writing her term paper.

* * *

Envisioning happy days for the next generation, Dr. William A. Hotchkiss of Rensselaer Polytech assures us that: "People will learn better how to live, how to accomplish their purposes with less friction and more efficiency." We set the point—just another case of being born thirty years too soon.

* * *

According to the Daily Nebraskan, girls at the University of Kentucky refused to vote the usual tall, dark, and handsome variety as their favorite male type. They prefer someone like Jimmy Durante or Joe Penner on the theory that, "There is nothing in the world like a good 'horse laugh' and a ridiculous lover would at least keep a girl amused." May-be our sense of humor is deteriorating, but we still prefer the former type.

* * *

The ACP notes that Pie Eta a men's organization at Harvard, was forced to recruit chorines from nearby women's colleges for their annual show, because members refused to shave their legs. It would appear that "nature in the raw" is seldom shaved.

* * *

SPRING IRRITATION

Down wit de students,
Down wit de class,
Down wit de trees,
Down wit de grass,
Down wit de countries,
Down wit de flags,
Down wit de army,
Down wit bum sags,
Down wit de women,
Down wit de men,
Down wit de rooster,
Down wit de hen,
Down wit de spring,
Down wit de fall,
Whateverit is, I'm agin it, so
Down wit it all.

—U. of California

* * *

The Junior Collegian observes that Dean Stone, of West Virginia university, says that going to college and getting an education are not always synonymous terms. No, neither are going to the beach and getting blistered!

* * *

The Lass-O believes that in order to conform with the tenor of his remarks pertaining to America and Americans, the English playwright should spell his name "Pshaw." We agree heartily. Also, judging by his actions, why not dub Il Duce "Messolini?"

* * *

By the Toreador we learn that Walter F. Crowder of the University of Iowa faculty claims people do not idle enough. He urges bigger and better loafing for everyone. Wouldn't Mr. Crowder be pleased if he could see how many campusites live by his philosophy?

* * *

Nomination for the Hall of Oblivion: the Ohio State student who on an examination, referred frequently to Low and Grin's "Wedding March."

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By Laura Strunk Leslie,
Alumnae Secretary

Inside College Gates

By PEARLE SHEPARD

The past week at Florida State College has been a musical one, beginning Monday night with a concert by the Federal Music Project's Symphony orchestra. There have been musical entertainments each succeeding night, including this evening.

The orchestra, under the direction of Clarence Carter Nice, is composed of more than 110 musicians, mainly from Tampa, Miami and Jacksonville. A program which ran the gamut from symphonic to jazz, the musicians called upon to respond with several encores. The concert is the beginning of a tour over the state.

Walter Cowles, pianist, and Owen F. Sellers, violincellist, members of the music faculty, gave a recital of sonatas for the two instruments Tuesday evening. Virginia Lentz Lessburg, pupil of Dean Ella S. Opperman, presented her piano recital special in the college auditorium Wednesday evening. She was assisted by Miss Marion Carson, soprano. Beach, soprano, pupil of Ina Eric Robertson, who gave a group of songs, accompanied by Rita Bodiford, member of the music faculty.

Leslie F. Spelman, A.B., M.M., B.Mus., P.A.G.O., famous organist and authority on pre-Bach music, gave a lecture-recital on Thursday evening. This was under the auspices of the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists. Martha Reddick, Jacksonville, pupil of Miss Aurora Murphy, will give her graduation recital tonight, with Miss Esther Winslow accompanying her.

• • •

Another May queen has received her crown. Miss Kitty Bond Winter Haven, this past week completed the Student Government association, was this year's foremost royalty. Attending her in the festival which was held in the open air theater were thirteen of the most beautiful girls of the senior class. Miss Mona Dunn, Daytona Beach, was maid of honor, and others in the court were Miss Helen Miller, Miss Harriet Graham, Miss Jane Dodgin and Miss Jean Gilbert, Miss Lucy Cobb Institute, Athens; Miss Mary Etta Thigpen, Belvedere, Fort Lauderdale; Miss Jane Kreitzman, Miami; Miss Birdie Mae Edwards, West Palm Beach; Miss Anita Jones, Jacksonville; Miss Edith Webb, Manatee; Miss Betty Wagner, Orlando; Miss Betty Sanders, Jacksonville, and Miss Patricia Given, Miami. The attendants were all dressed in the romantic days of the fabled Bobby Shood, the dashing and the speaking parts carrying out this theme. The queen was dressed in a beautiful gown of white satin, while the maids were hunting green taffeta dresses over which were long white taffeta capes.

• • •

Musical chimes have been presented the college by the class of 1936 and will probably be installed. It has been announced, by the graduates, that a dedication place for the installation of this innovation on the campus, J. Hillis Miller, business manager, explained that the chimes will be arranged that they can be heard at any spot on the campus. An extensive amplification system will carry the musical notes over the campus every fifteen minutes. Through this same amplifying system it will be possible to hear voice or music broadcasts over the entire campus.

The installation of the musical chimes marks the fulfillment of a long cherished plan which each graduating class has left the state college a gift. Past classes have left such gifts as the wrought doors of the Administration building, the fountain, the arched entrances in front of the college and many for loan funds and a student activity building.

• • •

A group of students of the college showed their approval of the "Veterans of Future Wars" movement when they met at the Methodist student house recently to express their sentiments.

College Will Give Alumnae Luncheon

All alumnae of Florida State College for Women, including those living in Tallahassee and those attending the evenin of commencement week, are invited to be guests of the college at the annual alumnae luncheon at eleven o'clock in the tower dining hall. Alumnae are requested to enter the lower dining hall by the side door.

Ralya Compiles Teachers' List

Material is Suitable For Elementary Teachers

A list of free and cheap instructional material suitable for the teaching of elementary science has just been compiled by Dr. L. Ralya, head of the School of Education of Florida State College for Women. The list was based upon replies to letters sent to over 100 companies in search of material.

Since this information is of decided value to teachers of elementary science, the list is given below for the benefit of the Florida State College for Women alumnae who are engaged in that field of work.

The list follows:

Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Co., Kitchen Utensils, New York. An aluminum set representing actual stages in the manufacture of an aluminum clothes sprinkler; booklet containing a short story of the manufacture of aluminum; bottles of aluminum ores.

American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois—Pamphlet, "Health Hygeia," 48 pages; catalogue of publications on health, nutrition.

Anaconda Copper Mining Co., 25 Broadway, New York—Pamphlet, "The Story of Copper and Its Uses," 48 pages; booklet on the manufacture of copper.

Armour and Co. Chicago, Illinois—A wall-size pictorial map in color: "Armour's Food Source Map."

Barrett Co., 40 Rector St., New York—Booklet on the use of substances obtained from coal.

Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, New York—Wall chart showing optical and mechanical features of instruments; blackcardboard charts of optical instruments; "Reference Books on Benders," 48 pages; bulletin, "The Use and Care of Microscopes". Also lenses and prisms for projectus.

Borden's Farm Product Co., 110 Hudson St., New York City—Chart showing economic value of milk products; map showing milk producing regions of the United States; posture picture, large; class weight scale.

Brown Portable Threshing Machine Co., Racine, Wisconsin—Wall chart showing pictures of tractors entaged in about thirty different kinds of work.

Chemical Foundation, 654 Madison Ave., New York City—A booklet, "Chemical Industries' Contributions to the Nation," 176 pages; booklet, "Dr. Stainless, Prince of Steels," 48 pages; a series of 10 booklets, "The Romance of the Useful Village"; these deal with such topics as paper-going, aluminum, steel, wool; bulletin, "The Farm Chemurgic," 301 pages.

Church and Dwight, 70 Pine St., New York City—Two wall charts in color.

Cocs-Cola Co., local branches—Booklet on carbonation.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., 105 Hudson St., Jersey City, New Jersey—Chart, "The Soap from Trees."

Corn Products Refining Co., 17 Battery Place, New York City—Chart on starch products; booklet products (limited free distribution); chart showing uses of corn.

Edison Storage Battery Co., Orange, New Jersey—Chart showing storage battery.

Electric Storage Battery Co., Allenbery Ave. and 19th St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania —Pamphlet, "Fundamentals of a Storage Battery," 12 pages.

Gaylord Brothers, 155 Clifford St., Syracuse, N. Y.—Booklets on the library, bookcraft, etc.

General Biological Supply House, 761-63 East 69th St., Chi-

Continued on page eight

Alumnae Join to Aid Clubs Within State

Florida Women Sponsor Annual Institute June 29-July 3

The Alumnae association of Florida State College for Women will join the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs with other women's groups of the state in sponsoring the second annual Woman's Institute to be held at the college here, June 29-July 3, Mrs. Laura Leslie, alumnae secretary, was told members of the senior class at the senior breakfast Sunday morning in the tower dining hall.

"Participation in the institute," Mrs. Leslie said, "will mark the beginning of work toward an 'alumnae week-end' on college campus at Florida State College for Women. Many colleges hold alumnae week-ends or reunions when graduates and former students come to the campus to learn the newest findings in their respective fields. Classes and open forums are held for alumnae and in this way the alumnae are brought up to date on new theory during the week and take that knowledge to their home town.

In order that open forums and lectures of particular interest to the alumnae may be scheduled, alumnae are requested to send in to the alumnae office the work which they would like to hear discussed.

Subjects to be: "The Function of Tallahassee, president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, in charge of the institute and has secured prominent women to lead discussions and to speak at afternoon and individual group meetings, and evenings to open meetings featured by musical programs or addresses. Mrs. J. Ralph Wells of Orlando Beach, is chairman of the institute.

Other groups participating in the institute this year are the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Florida Home Demonstration Council.

Additional projects of the Florida Federation for Women include alumnae association as outlined by Mrs. Leslie and a permanent loan fund which has grown to approximately $1,000. The alumnae office receives many requests for the benefit of the various college offices, the alumnae office and the state college. Alumnae clubs which now number 32 in 30 counties, activities for alumnae, the Alumnae Institute inaugurated in 1935 for furthering interest in women, correspondence with alumnae in information on Florida State College for Women, cooperation with the program in cooperation with the college administration, and alumnae who have distinguished themselves since graduation in their particular fields of work.

Seven F. S. C. W. Graduates Will be Given Medallions

Awards Will Be Presented In Recognition Of Achievement

Honor will be paid to seven Florida State College graduates Saturday, May 23, when "alumnae medallions" will be awarded in recognition of "notable achievement" in the graduates' respective fields.

The alumnae signaled out for this distinction include six who are living and one deceased. They were selected from approximately 5,000 graduates of the college by a special committee of the Alumnae association headed by Miss McAdam, of Miami.

Alumnae who will receive these awards, the first ever to be made by the Alumnae association, include:

Mrs. J. W. McCollum (Caroline La Frontiere), graduate of Florida Female Seminary, who later affiliated with Florida State College for Women. Mrs. McCollum engaged in civic service; Miss Shirley Long, class of 1907, of New York city, literature; Mrs. Carl Van Doren (Irita Bradford), class of 1909, New York city, literature; Mrs. Ernest Hemingway (Miss Rowena Longmire), class of 1917, Havana, Cuba, the college; Mrs. L. E. Olson, (Clara Mitchell), class of 1918, Jacksonville, profession of education; Mrs. R. D. Main (Kathryn Dodge), class of 1919, Miami, civic.

Mrs. Loretta T. Sloan, of Jacksonville, former director of residence halls at F.S.C.W., will receive the posthumous award, Secretary Mary Bailey, deceased, of the class of 1919, will be honored for distinction in the profession of medicine.

Mrs. McCollum, president of the F.S.C.W. Alumnae association from 1932-34, has been a leader in Florida history as a clubwoman in Florida, serving as president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs from 1919-21 and has taken an active part in the Pensacola Tuberculosis association, the Pensacola Music club, Pensacola Art Music club, the State Board of Control, Social Welfare and many other organizations too numerous to mention in a brief account. She was appointed by Governor Sholtz as one of the Gulfwinds Business and Professional Women's club woman as president, from 1913-14 of the Twentieth Century Women's club, Jacksonville, and present president also of the St. Augustine Diocesan council of the Florida branch of the Catholic Women and chairman of the central division of the Florida Federation of Human Needs. She was graduated from East Florida Seminary in 1894 before receiving her F.S.C.W. diploma.

Miss Longmire, professor of Spanish English in Hunter College of New York, since 1907. She has shown an unusual gift for writing, according to her associates, and distinguished herself in graduate studies under John Erskine of Columbia. She was leader in Spanish classes in winter and summer sessions of Columbia during 1931-36 in 1935-36 was assistant in advanced course in short story writing in the international work in the MacMillan company, and headed and published a "Spanish Book for Travelers" and a catalog for Juvenile fiction. She has made her home in her residence work for her Ph.D. at Columbia, and her thesis subject for her dissertation was published in 1917 in the Cambridge History of American literature.

Irita Bradford Van Doren performs this year the same function for the New York Herald Tribune's Sunday literary supplement that she performed when held since 1926. She served as advertising manager of the Literary Digest and Nation from 1919-24. Irita, the wife of Carl Van Doren, is the mother of three daughters, but done three years of graduate work at Columbia.

Miss Longmire, beloved teacher and author, has written books which needs an introduction. Whether in her classes or out, Rowena Longmire, Florida College for Women have come to know Miss Longmire, long a friend of the college and alumnae. As one graduate has said, "She is generously worth room Miss Longmire has been a most efficient, conscientious teacher for thousands of students. Under her guidance literature becomes alive with realism, beauty and charm. Her students' lives have been enriched and broadened by their contact with her and the literature of her selection." Miss Longmire, too, is known to educators all over Florida. She served as president of the Florida Education association in 1935.

Clara McDonald Colson who had a record of teaching positions and professional activities too long to cite here, expects to receive her doctor's degree this summer at Columbia. She has been president of the department of class room

Graduates Placed For Coming Year

Andrews Finds Positions For Thirty-Two

Dr. Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, has announced that one week those Florida State College for Women graduates of this year who are to be placed for 1936-1937.

Graduates who are to be placed and their placements are: Margaret Anderson, A.B., May 1936—Supv. of Art, Cross City, Fla.; Marian Bailey, A.B., Jan. 1936—Secretary, Cherry Lake Farm School, Madison, Fla.; Annis Bowen, B.S., May 1936—Home Ec. and Geo. Sci. Chipley, Fla.; Verita Brown, B.S., May 1936—Student technician, Johns Hopkins Univ., Baltimore, Md.; Mary Bryan, B.S., May 1936—1st grade, Century, Fla.; Mary Kay Campbell, A.B., May 1936—student technician, Johns Hopkins Univ., Baltimore, Md.; Mary Cannon, B.S., May 1936—1st grade, Century, Fla.; Mary Key Carlton, A.B., May 1936—Home Ec. Live Oak, Fla.; Helen Kibler, A.B., May 1936—Home Ec. and Science, Live Oak, Fla.; Ruth Loveless, A.B. Ed., May 1936—English, Sneads, Fla.; Gertrude Lowe, A.B., May 1936—1st grade, Lake City, Fla.

Mary Ellen Lyle, A.B., May 1936 —Home Ec. Live Oak, Fla.; Doris McKenzie, A.B., May 1936—Student technician, Washington Univ. St. Louis, Mo.; Gladys Oliver, A.B., May 1936—1st grade, Campbellton, Fla.; Mary Perry Pollock, B.S., May 1936—Home Ec. & Gen. Sci., Ft. Myers, Fla.; Dorothy Shaw, A.B., Ed., May 1936—Hist. & Health, Live Oak, Fla.; Katherine Yongue, A.B., May 1936—Librarian, Quincy, Fla.; Evelyn Collins, A.B., May 1936—fifth grade, Winter Gardens, Fla.

teachers of the F.S.A. 1934-36; chairman of committee on constitution, 1935-36; chairman of committee on teaching qualifications, 1936; member of committee on curriculum of education, 1934-36; member of the state curriculum committee, 1934-36. Mrs. Colson held several scholarships and fellowships and has published many magazines and translations of poems from Latin to English.

Kathryn Reece Hosea is well known in music circles. She has studied with Clifford Demarest, Sullivan operas in 1935-36, and now has completed her graduate work having a scholarship at the National Academy of Music. Kathryn received a four-year diploma in voice in the Art Institute of Chicago and a full scholarship at Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She has also received an artist diploma from Cincinnati and became a member of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra under Fritz Reiner; and tri-weekly radio appearances.

Kathryn also has appeared as soloist with Sousa's "Stars and Stripes" and sang the leading roles in Gilbert and Sullivan's operas "Iolanthe" for a year at the Plymouth theater in New York. She was featured in "Enchanted Isle" in a New York theater, had been leading lead in the Shubert Brothers' and with the Mary Brothers. She has sung title role in "Carmen" and "Rose Marie" with a London company in Australia, this engagement leading to a trip around the world. Other accomplishments of Kathryn's include: played the lead in "Falstaff" at a Coburn theater, New York; has made a series of twelve short feature pictures, six in colors; played in "Naughty Cocktail" with the Max Brothers; sang the

Seniors Told How to Repay College Debt

Miss Katherine Warren Is Alumnae Speaker At Breakfast

Ways in which Florida State college alumnae can repay their debt to the college for the many benefits received were presented members of the senior class last Sunday morning at the senior breakfast by Miss Katherine Warren, '33, former president of the Jacksonville alumnae club.

"Alumnae of all," Miss Warren said, "we can put less emphasis on sentimentality that expresses itself in verbal homage only and more emphasis on a more practical loyalty that expresses itself in constructive work to meet the needs of our college. We can abstain from here with a humble appreciation of the training taught and learned of honorable and intelligent living and exemplify these virtues in our daily lives as citizens of our state.

"Through correspondence we can acquaint ourselves with the needs of our college. It is desirable for our alumnae to possess a whole-some respect for the merits of our college and for its standards. But it is more desirable for our alumnae to show respect of an intelligent recognition of the needs of our college.

"We need a student activity building. We need more and better equipment for physical education. It is our civic duty to see that our college receives the individual attention that every student should have. Our residence halls are taxed to the utmost to meet the demands made upon it.

"We can lend financial assistance in our administrative offices so that the executive heads of our college can devote their intelligence and training to thoughtful consideration of student problems and policy building and not be hampered under by routine work and mechanical details.

"There is a crying need for a more adequate method of selecting students for the college. The best college material, thereby eliminating those students who do not possess the mental equipment to acquire and use a college education. Many students who enter our college are incapable of meeting the standards which college must make unhappy by this inability on the part of the state to maintain and retard the progress of the superior student. Such persons are a burden to the college and to school saver rather than an asset. Let us further this movement. It is our duty as alumnae to attempt to educate the public, the state and the nation to this point of view.

"We need a resident physician who will be here at all times to attend to usual illnesses and emergency cases."

Pointing out ways in which the college has been helped by recent additions needed at the college, Miss Warren said:

"First, we can be thoroughly familiar with the needs and desires of our college. These additions so that we can present the facts to the public and to the convincing way to those people best able to help our college.

"Secondly, we can make an effort to have every alumna of Florida State College for Women a registered voting citizen in our state with definite knowledge informed voters and use our vote to protect the welfare of the college in its physical needs.

"We can make a state-wide campaign for the appointment in every town and section of the state of a local alumnae group having once formed these clubs, we can attend the meetings, pay our dues and endeavor to secure support alumnae projects sponsored by our State Association. Our membership and service should be in our alumnae association rather than in lesser clubs such as Panhellenic and fraternal organizations. In this way we can plan definite programs for the college, secure the support of the amount needed ,or a student activity building, and suppress leading role in "Blossom Time" in many times that one number in a dramatic stock in New York: had the lead in "All the King's Horses" on the Imperial theater in New York, afterward playing the same role in the Auditorium Opera House, Chicago; had a season of drama at Long Island; and once received a Juilliard fellowship studying with Mme. Sembrich.

Information Given Returning Alumnae

The following information is for those alumnae who plan to return for commencement:

Prices of meals in the dining hall are: breakfast, 20 cents; lunch, 36 cents; and dinner, 40 cents. Alumnae are requested to pay at the desk as they enter the dining hall.

The dormitories are open free of charge to alumnae. However, alumnae are requested to bring their own bed covering and pillows.

Alumnae may register in Bryan hall Friday afternoon and night, May 22. You will be assigned a room in the dormitory at that time.

The Alumnae office is in the Education building. Visit the office and check your mailing and address on the office records.

Alumnae Marriages

The following alumnae marriages have just been recorded in the alumnae office:

Cornelia Gerber Bell-'33-Mrs. Cornelia Gerber Pallatin.

Elizabeth Williams, AB-'34-Mrs. Marshall Bridges, Arcadia.

Olga Beatrice White, BS-'32-Mrs. Olga W. Wood.

Grace White, AB-'34—Mrs. B. Lamar Jones, Jr., Jacksonville.

Mary Louise Hoffman, 12-32-Mrs. Geo. W. Haldeman, Lakeland.

Next Year's Dues Paid By Thirty-one Seniors

Thirty-one seniors have already paid their dues in the Alumnae association for next year!

Those listed are:

Sylvia Airen, Clearwater; Kathryn Bowden, Fort Pierce; Dorothy Combs, Crescent City; Isabelle Gleason, Eau Gallie; Zola Mae Hamilton, Tampa; Mary Hendry, Lakeland; Anita Wilson Jones, Jacksonville; Mary Elizabeth Kennon, Palatka; Minna Dunn, Daytona Beach.

Mary Kentzman, Milton; Edith Webb, Mandarin; Ruth McAnilly, Jacksonville; Irene Brown, Miami; Jane Moyer, Ft. White; Genevieve Conway, Tampa; Ruth Cleveland, Jacksonville; Josephine King, Lakeland; Sara Tyler, Tampa; Edith Perkins, Jacksonville; Rose Panowski, Milton; Martha Webster, Miami; Dan Westbrook Key West; Elisabeth Becknell, Tampa; Kitty Blood, Winter Haven.

Dr. Rainey Will Give Lectures This Summer

Dean Bailey recently announced that Dr. Homer Price Rainey, former president of Bucknell University and chairman of the national Youth Commission, will give lectures during the summer session week of the 1936 summer session of Florida State College for Women.

Dr. Rainey was at one time associate professor of education at the University of Oregon. In 1931 he became president of Bucknell university. He is also an author, having written several books and numerous magazine articles on educational journals.

Tickets Will Be Sold

An announcement has been made from the office of the business manager that tickets for the annual play will be sold on the lower floor of the History building Wednesday, May 20, during the morning.

ways of carrying out these projects.

"Money should be raised for the building by the help of individuals' help in our central office, a traveling alumnae secretary, in addition to our resident secretary, so that we can keep in constant contact with our alumnae throughout the state.

"Alumnae should be established a program of education here in the college for the purpose of interesting new students, from their freshman year through their senior year, with definite information and to start now so that each entire senior class will become members of the association before leaving college."

Buy These Specials from College Park Gro.
PHONE 537
—Free Delivery—

PALMOLIVE OFFERS
20 FREE TOURS OF EUROPE! or
PALMOLIVE $20,000 IN CASH
100,000 ADDITIONAL PRIZES
ARE IN THE FULL ESTATES
PALMOLIVE SOAP
3 for 15c

1st Nail Brush for only 10c (Regular 25c value) and 1 TOP FROM 20c PKG. of SUPER SUDS
2 for 19c
ASK US FOR DETAILS

Palmolive Beads 9c
The Finest Soap Made for Silks

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College
Telephone 297

Alumnae Plan Return to FSC Graduation

Two to Represent Class Of 1881 at Reunion On This Campus

SEVEN RECEIVE UNUSUAL AWARD

Program and Activities Are Scheduled For Saturday

Alumnae from the class of 1881 through 1936 will return to Florida State College for Women for the thirty-first annual commencement exercises of the college here, May 23-26.

Heading the alumnae who plan to return is Mrs. E. L. Benson of Gro-wood, president of the college Alumnae association, and other state officers of the association. Mrs. Benson is Davis of Tallahassee and Mrs. F. C. Brower of Jacksonville will represent the class of 1881 of which they were the only members.

Alumnae activities on the commencement program are scheduled for the annual party on Saturday, May 23. They include the presentation of alumnae medallions, the annual alumnae meeting, and the alumnae luncheon on Saturday. Just after dinner coffee for alumnae and members of the college faculty on Sunday.

Other events of the commencement week include the presentation of the commencement play Saturday night, will be open to alumnae. Honorary alumnae have the privilege of attending the dress rehearsal of the play Friday evening, May 22. Since the Augusta Conrad theater, where the play will be given, has limited capacity of approximately 400, only a limited number will be given tickets to the Saturday night performance.

The presentation of the alumnae medallions is scheduled at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with Mrs. Benson presiding. Arrangements are now being made for a prominent woman leader in the field of education to give the address on that occasion. Alumnae upon whom medallions will be awarded are Miss Shirley Long,nire, Mrs. Clara McDonald Colson, Mrs. Rowena Reed Hamilton, Mrs. Caroline LaFontisee McCollum, Miss Shirley Long, and Mrs. Irita Bradford VanDoren, Miss Virginia T. Sloan, former director of residence halls, posthumous award will be presented a medallion for her daughter, Mary Bailey, deceased.

Immediately following the above event, the annual business meeting of the Alumnae association will be held in the Augusta Conrad theater. Reports from various officers and heads of committees, election of new officers, and discussion of future alumnae projects will take place at that time. The alumnae luncheon will follow at 12:30 o'clock in the lower dining hall.

PALMOLIVE SOAP

Campus Church Groups Select New Officers

Summer Retreat Planned For June by Baptist Students Here

The Episcopal Student auxiliary held its annual election of officers Sunday, May 10, at Bure hall. The following people were elected to offices: Louise Lingo, president; Mildred Seekins, vice-president; Betty Bow, secretary; Midelle Moore, assistant secretary; Katherine Bacon, treasurer; Elizabeth Mathews, assistant treasurer; Charlotte Kamper, librarian; Catherine Gray Pinnell, music chairman; Frances Lewis, gardener; Elizabeth Catland, social chairman; Sallie Ratliff, social service chairman; Frances Erk, feeds chairman; Polly Flint and Victoria Crisp, publicity chairmen; Louise Gehan and Betty Harrison, membership chairmen; Mary H Meginnis, transportation chairman; Hilda Cate, U. T. G. chairman, and Betty Wise, press chairman.

New Vestry

This newly elected group, called the Student vestry, and the old officers will be honored at a garden party to be given at Bure hall tomorrow from 5 to 6 o'clock. All Episcopal students and faculty are invited.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons during exam week, tea and wafers will be served to all students at Bure hall from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The following changes are being made in the weekly schedule because of the Diocesan convention which is being held in Gainesville on May 14-15, there will not be the usual celebration of the Holy Communion held on Friday morning. Also there will not be an after-dinner coffee Friday night. Instead, there will be a garden party on Saturday.

Baptist Retreat Planned

Plans are now being made by the Baptist students for a summer retreat to be held at Richcrest, North Carolina, the week of June 10-18

Each year Baptist representatives from all the southern campuses gather in the mountains of North Carolina for a eight days of camp life filled with inspiration and information from world-wide characters.

Among the outstanding personalities who will be present at the retreat this year are: Dr. Daniel A. Poling and Dr. S. D. Gordon of New York. Dr. John L. Hill of Nashville, Tennessee. Dr. C. Roy Angell of San Antonio, Texas, and Dr. J. M. Dawson of Fort Waco, Texas.

Baptist students on this campus who are planning to attend are: Alice Fletcher, Mary Nell Breazeal, Gladys Oliver, Bernice Oliver, Marie Church, Roberts Rogers, Lee Bowen, Esther Goodwin, Gladys Richardson, Mary Ellen Thrope, Edna Moon, Anne Norris, Louise Wheeler, Ella Faye Price, Geraldine Williams, Sadie Anderson.

A banquet honoring the old and new councils of the Presbyterian Students League will be held tonight at 5:30. The place of the banquet will be kept a secret until tonight, but it is to be a garden party at one of the homes in town.

Presbyterian students who are planning to attend are, Mary Wylie Klueppelberg, Marjorie Fain, Barbara and Jane Hubbard, Agnes Campbell, Virginia Taylor, Frank Wildman, Rebecca Keith, Sara Hethcox, Floy Lenert, Jane Tomlinson, Anna Leigh Rollins, Jean Craig, Maxine Ward, Betty Ransom, Katherine Kyle, Mary Anne Moore, Lillie McGuire, Marjorie Horton, Geneva Nelson, Leila Gibbs, Alice McGlone, Adele Barnard, Ruth Myrick, Sara Nance, Catherine Todd, Syrena Stockbridge, Marian Harold, Marsha Smith, Grace McKee, Louise Brown, Molly Holden, Jean Duncan, Marian Conn, Pericia West, Grace Alma Taylor, Mary Hanson, Mary Lou Duncan, Lorraine Gyles, Betty Russell, Elizabeth Finch, Petrea Cabaniss, Harriet Duke, Dot Marwick, Mary Frances Campbell, Eleanor Daniels, Mary Neel, Nettie Taylor.

Also present will be Dr. E. N. Caldwell, Miss Sara Herndon, and Miss Rachel Wylie.

The program will consist of a few short inspirational talks and humorous sketches of looking backward over the year by Lewis Gloss and Catherine Todd.

According to tradition, the last

Gifts and Cards for Graduation

THE GIFT SHOP

Corner Adams and College

PHONE 804

NYA Should Not Be Stopped If Roosevelt Meets With Defeat Act Has Permitted Many To Attend College Through Work

BY MARY MASSIE

If Roosevelt should go out of office this fall, should the National Youth Administration project go out with him?

Whether the government when balancing the budget next fall can find room for the continuance of this project so worthwhile to the youth of our nation, cannot be foretold, but it is no doubt one of the finest projects ever undertaken by our government. If the Roosevelt administration puts this four year presidential term (than finally accomplishes this project, he should be honored by the citizens of the United States.

This governmental aid, which has given part-time work to college students has allowed many to attend college who otherwise would have found it impossible to so. At the beginning of the fall school term last year, National Youth Administration records were allotted to all institutions of a college or university character which desired such aid, provided they were organized and operated as institutions which were non-profit-making in character, as also had the Duer charters and by the fact that their regular educational buildings and grounds were exempted from taxation as levied by the state or local community. The allotment of funds to each college was $15.00 per month for each of twelve per cent of the total number of students.

Florida State College for Women has 181 students who are making it big to receive a higher education by this part-time work, which means the government has invested on our campus almost $3,000 per month. Under the stipulations each student can work from ten to fifteen hours per week. To be on this pay-roll, a student must be of good character and must possess such ability as to give assurance that she will do high grade work in college.

This National Youth Administration work, however, is not only helpful financially, but it often proves to be unusually interesting just as the students find on the campus, for instance, they have done some interesting research work. When the Administration building was torn down an old tin box containing personal papers was discovered inside the cornerstone, laid in 1911, which brought to light facts of some interesting material into which some students delved to find out some of the forgotten history of the college. Other students act as student-assistants to professors in whose field they are particularly interested, and in reality, this gives them more hours to devote to that subject

Beautiful Gifts for Graduation on Display at

Turner's

"YOUR STORE"

Suggestions:

—Silk Underwear
—Holeproof Hosiery
—Allen A Swim Suits
—Palm Beach Suits
—Sac-de-Pearl White Bags
—Gloves

Suggestions:

—Land o' Cotton Dresses
—Air-o-Pack Luggage
—Satin Slips
—Beach Wear
—Jodhpurs
—Boots
—Numerous others

meeting of the year is being held in Dr. Caldwell's garden on East Park avenue, Sunday at 6:30. Betty Ransom is the fellowship leader. An hour will be held during which sandwiches and tea will be served to the guests.

Many Presbyterian students are planning to help in mission schools this summer, Frank Wildman is planning to attend a school in the mountains of Georgia while Marjorie Fain will spend two months in the mountains of Virginia.

Bernice Oliver Chosen President of Honorary

Bernice Oliver was elected president of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary in their last meeting held Monday night in Broward club room. Other officers for next year's organization are: Daisy Parker, vice-president, and Anna Van Dolsen, secretary.

Retiring officers are: president, Ruth Dickson; vice president, Marie Reddick; secretary, Wytina Ter Bush, and treasurer, Alma Groover.

worker, which would have been our student if he had not entered college, is dependent on others to help him. In fact for his very chance to earn a living; while the college student who went ahead and got his education is well rounded, and has a better new job if necessary if his professional field is at the moment flooded. He has something to fall back on, for no matter how much money a man can lose, his education is something of his very own no one can rob him of.

As for a girl who could not afford to go to college, perhaps she, while in high school, learned to be a good stenographer and typist, so that she got a job and earned a moderate living but 50 per cent of the girls, because they have nothing to do and find too much time on their hands, will become wives and mothers. Some of them will be fine divorcees, some will die from child birth, and some will lose their little children by death, because they were not ready or capable to take on this responsibility.

For the ultimate aim of college is not merely to prepare one for a narrow profession, but to enrich one's outlook on life. A college course gives one a chance to dip into various phases of common everyday interests of life. Take, for instance, any typical student in the school of Arts and Sciences, and let's see what she might have derived from her courses. After graduation she may be suddenly notices the different types of leaves on the trees around campus; after one course in physics, her concept of the universe has been changed, and she will look up into the sky at night and cation.

4-H Club Plans Varied Course

Many Types of Programs Chosen to Interest Girls Attending

The twenty-fourth annual short course for Florida 4-H club girls will find 535 club girls, seventy-eight local leaders and thirty-six home demonstration agents from all over the state participating on the campus of F.S.C.W. May 30 through June 5.

Throughout the counties in the state for the past month county achievement days have been held and final scoring made to determine the most deserving girls to attend this short course. Thirty-six members of the college 4-H club will assist during this time with various events and activities. There will also be several instructors in the various fields of work stressed during this week.

Among the activities to be presented during this short course are news reporting, gardening, music appreciation, poultry, food conservation, clothing, food preparation and health improvement, home improvement, safety and community recreation, leadership training and other special club activities.

Various types of programs have been planned for each day. The morning will be devoted to instruction in the various subjects mentioned. The afternoon program will include various contests in which each county winners will participate. These contests will be held in clothing, home improvement, food preparation, health improvement, posture and safety food conservation. Other afternoon events will include a drama tournament, amateur hour, dress review and social and recreational activities. One of the interesting events of these affairs will be the recognition service held the last day of the short course when the different awards are made to the winners of the contests.

Interesting evening programs have been planned for the short 4-H club work is developed throughout the United States.

Library Displays Eight Illustrations by Noted Sculptor and Painter

The special display now to be seen in the library consists of eight Grant Wood illustrations of "Farm On The Hill" sent to the library by the Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers, of New York city.

Grant Wood is a modern painter and sculptor. He studied at the Chicago Art Institute and at Julien Academy in Paris. He won national recognition as the all-American show in 1933 at the Chicago Art Institute. His style is sharp and clearly defined with attention carefully paid to detail. Wood puts his talents to practical use as well, for he teaches, directs a group of WPA artists and has designed a jacket cover for a book by Sterling North entitled Ploughing On Sunday.

Parties Given Senior Class

Graduating Students Are Honored at Breakfast And Kid Party

Activities of the senior class during the last week have been many and varied. These have included the "senior breakfast" given by the Alumnae association on Sunday morning, May 10, in the college dining hall, a kid party given for the seniors by the Juniors on Tuesday evening, May 12, and the annual tree-planting on Thursday, May 7.

Nursery rhymes and jingles were revived at the kid party Tuesday night. Members of the two classes exchanged themselves in "kid" costumes, played "follow the leader" through the college dining hall and went on to a specially reserved place for a "kid banquet," which included lollipops and animal crackers. Pumies and the singing of such songs as "Rhythm In My Nursery Rhymes" and "Animal Crackers" furnished entertainment of which Miss Peggy McMichael of Tampa had charge.

Sophomores, dressed as nurse maids and policemen, assisted in staging the party. The seniors received as favors directions governing the names and addresses of the students in college.

General chairman of the party was Marie Spurlock, who was assisted by Roberta Diamond, registrations chairman, and Betty Pauley who was in charge of favors.

It is an annual custom at Florida State college for the senior class to entertain the Alumnae association at a breakfast given during the week-end of commencement. This year's banquets have been held.

The senior breakfast Sunday morning centered around the present trend of alumnae activities. Mrs. R. H. Leslie, alumnae executive secretary, directed the "Our Own Alumnae Association" and Miss Elizabeth Lynn, college faculty member and Queen Alumnae, "Alumnae Activities of Other Colleges"; and Miss Katherine Warren, former president of the Florida State College alumnae club in Jacksonville, "Alumnae Projects of the Alumnae Association."

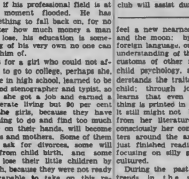
Miss Rowena Lonsmire, chairman of the Alumnae association, in cooperation with the alumnae and representative at large of the Alumnae association, gave the welcome, and Miss Mary Bess Parrish, former president of the College Government association, served as toastmistress.

The college executive committee headed by President Edward Conradi, alumnae officers, and the faculty committee in cooperation with the alumnae, also attended the breakfast.

Details of the breakfast were planned by Miss Margaret Lenard, another former president of the student body here. Mrs. L. Beeson, of Groveland, is president of the Alumnae association.

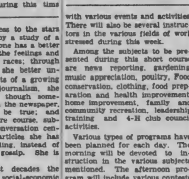
4-H Club Meets Here

During the intermission between commencement and summer school, from May 30 to June 6, the 4-H girls will occupy certain floors in the dormitories. The girls will be grouped according to the counties and districts they represent. Each group will have its own leader, and the senior girls who are also 4-H girls will assist them. However, Miss Elaine Gleason will have charge of all the groups.



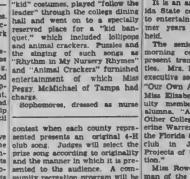
For Digestion's Sake... SMOKE CAMELS

Smoking Camels stimulates the natural flow of digestive fluids . . . increases alkalinity



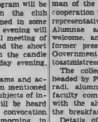
Life sometimes pushes us so hard that we feel too worn-down really to enjoy eating. Science explains that hurry, mental strain, and constant tension reduce the flow of the digestive fluids. Scientific tests have proved that smoking Camels increases the flow of digestive fluids . . . alkaline digestive fluids...so vital to the enjoyment of food and to good digestion.

Camel's rich and costly tobaccos are mild beyond words. Enjoy Camels as often as you like—with meals—any time—for their cheering "lift"—for their aid to digestion—for the pleasure they bring. Camels set you right! And never jangle your nerves or tire your taste. Make it Camels today.



© 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

THE BROWN DERBY. The chef is pouring the final touches on a Lobster Thermidor, while within the restaurant... the stars of Hollywood gather to dine... and to smoke Camels. In the glamorous life of Hollywood, Camels play a major rôle. As Mr. Robert H. Cobb, the man behind The Brown Derby's success, remarks: "Camels are the choice of the majority of our patrons."



CROWDED MINUTES as the reporter works to beat the deadline. "It's a life of hurry, hurry, hurry," says Peter Dallen, newspaper man, "and a life of irregular hours and irregular meals. Camels make food taste better and set better."

TUNE IN! CAMEL CARAVAN WITH WALTER O'KEEFE, DEANS JANSLEY, NED MUNNING GLEN GRAY AND THE CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA Tuesday and Thursday—9 p. m. E.D.S.T., 8 p. m. C.S.T., 7 p. m. M.S.T., 6 p. m. P.S.T.—and WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

THE BIG TOP. Watching Miss Dorothy Herbert of Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey, you marvel at her poise. She says: "I smoke all I want—and set anything I care for. Camels make food taste better and digest easier."

The Social Week

Banquet Will Be Enjoyed By Publications Tonight

The three publications on campus, Flastacoosa, Distaff, and Flambeau, are giving a joint banquet at the Dutch Kitchen tonight at 6 o'clock.

Red roses will be used to decorate the banquet tables with appropriate place cards marking each.

Sarah Krentzman will be the toastmistress at this time. There will be a program of short talks with toasts to the old and new staffs of the three publications. Following this a trio composed of Marjorie Tillis, Jo Shinn, and Jeanne McKay, will sing several numbers.

Special guests invited include Dr. Edward G. Conradi, Dr. and Mrs. William D. Dodd, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Dean Olivia Durrum, Miss Maud Florence, Mrs. H P. Richards, and Mrs. Earl L. Vance.

Members of the publications committee invited are: the faculty sponsors for the Distaff, Dr. Harold F. Richards, Miss Mildred Henry, and Dr. Hazel Stevenson; the faculty sponsors for the Flambeau, Mr. Earl L. Vance, Dr. Guy L. Diffenbaugh, and Dean Eesmer Moore; and the faculty sponsors of the Flastacoosa, Miss Helen Thrush, Miss Edith West, Miss Louise Richardson.

Members of the Flambeau editorial, business and reportorial staffs who will attend are Ruth Persons, Althea Smith, Gertrude Kuhn, Hazel Bowman, Marjida Baker, Eunice Klepper, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Virginia Early, Eleanor Williams, Arline Lockhart, Grace Mary Webster, Caroline Adams, Minna Agnes Elsie Andrews, Ella Brooks, Marion Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Jean Duncan, Sylvia Pegs, Evelyn Fuller, Mary Jane Gallemore, Ethel Grastefeld, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Harvey, Barbara Holms, Billie Holland, Mary Maude Dorothy Olmstead, Clotide O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Jane Quinn, Hilda Rhodes, Sarah Ann Rose, Pearle Shazard, Elizabeth Turner, and Jewel Turner.

The staff of the Distaff for this year was composed of Sarah Krentzman, Cyclde Lewallen, Daisy Parker, Mary Catherine Gilbert, Mary Maude McKay, Sarah Sealey, and Frances Poith.

Members of the staff of the Flastacoosa who will attend this affair include Edith Webb, Jane Griffin, Eleanor Tillis, Ellen Robinson, Margaret Thompson, Anne Mizell, Antoinette Sullivan, Orian Hancock, Belle Kemper, Julia Vanderpie, Frances Porth and Betty Meyer.

COLLEGE CALENDAR
May 17 to May 23
Sunday
11:00 a. m.—Church services
7:45 p. m.—Vespers

Monday
8:15 p. m.—Piano normal department recital — Music annex

Wednesday
4:30 p.m.—Student recital—Auditorium

Thursday
8:00 p. m.—Dramatic demonstration school graduation exercises

Friday
8:15 p.m.—Piano normal department recital—music annex

Saturday
9:00 a.m.—Practice for graduation—Auditorium
4:00 p. m.—Lawn party, Dr. Conradi's, for seniors, guests and alumnae
5:30 p. m.—Class day exercises
8:15 p.m.—Annual play—speech department

Cotterills to Honor Senior in History At Tea Sunday

Honoring Rosalind Parker, a senior and an honors student in history, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill are entertaining Sunday afternoon from 5:30 t. 6:30 o'clock in their home with a tea.

Cut flowers and greenery will be used to decorate the rooms of the home and punch and cakes will be served to the guests during the afternoon.

In the receiving line will be Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Cotterill, Rosalind Parker, the honoree, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, and Mrs. George Addenson.

Assisting Mrs. Cotterill in caring for her guests will be Dr. Venia Shorter, Dr. Annie M. Pepper, Mrs. Guy Diffenbaugh, Anna Marie Mitchell, Daisy Parker, and Betty Fellows.

Guests will include members of the faculty, active members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, members of Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity of which Rosalind is a member, and friends of the honor guest.

Finals Disrupt Sweet Slumber of All-Nighters

Crammers Burn Midnight Oil Far, Far Into Hectic Night

"Work while it is called To-day," wrote Carlyle, "For the Night cometh, wherein no man can work."

Even a casual observer, strolling at night past the dormitories on our campus, would be inclined to doubt the latter statement. One glance at the rows of gleaming windows would convince him that the maxim, universally worshiped, are at least challenging its application on the grettest sex.

Out-of-doors, a glorious full moon is riding high in the heavens. A cool breeze stirs in the west. Night has descended on the campus, but work has not ceased. Within the dormitories waits a spirit of grim purposeful ness.

Within the rooms from which the light in gleaming casements of girls are keeping a lonely vigil over piled-up textbooks. The very atmosphere seems charged with an almost tangible feeling of tension. There is reason for grave concern this evening, for the much-dreaded week of final examinations is drawing ominously near.

Glimpses of assorted articles of wearing apparel come from some windows. In others one sees the soft heads of sleeping girls who chosen to sit here in the hope of cooling their fevered brows and of thus more easily setting the intellectual wheels in motion.

As the night progresses, some of the lights will wink out, sudden ly, silently. Others continue to burn, seeming to beckon the onlooker with the unspoken message, "Here is the cruelest of knowledge Come all ye who thirst for learning."

Night after night the dormitories stand far-stretching, impressive, looking like vast illuminated checkerboards implanted perpendicularly in an idyllic setting of trees an greenery.

Let those who tire of the weekly routine remember the words of the poet.

"The heighta by great men reached
Were not attained by sudden flight;
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

New Budgets Discussed During Recent Meeting

A meeting of the budget committee, headed by Ellen Fleming, was held last Tuesday night. The budgets of the other classes were discussed, but they will not be ready for publication until they are approved by the college council next October.

Whether to allot money for class gifts out of the funds or to leave it to personal contributions was one of the questions discussed. The committee is rearranging the budget so that items requiring more money will receive it. The money will be taken from those items which need less than the amount appointed to them, since the appropriations are approximately the same as for this year. The total budget, however, will remain the same.

gentle every-day sort of girl who would like to follow an artistic career for a few years after leaving college and in that time travel about to see some of the more famous art galleries here and abroad. Afterwards she would like to marry and lead a normal, happy life continuing to paint on the side so that life will not become monotonous. She thinks it must after ver, many years of marriage.

SORORITIES HONOR SENIOR MEMBERS AT FAREWELL BANQUETS AND PARTIES

Seniors of the different sororities on campus are being entertained by the members and pledges this last week of the college year with farewell banquets, luncheons, and parties.

The senior members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority were honored Monday night at a studio party given by their undergraduate sorority sisters.

Carrying out the theme of the party, everyone came dressed as her favorite movie star, and the games of Bank Night and Screeno were played. In the house, appropriately decorated as a studio, refreshments carrying out the sorority colors were served.

The seniors who were honored at this affair are, Carlotta Cubbage, Genera Morris, Jean Crago, Charlotte Knisle, Althea Smith, Elizabeth Ann Bell, Mary Jane Monica Wiley, Gertrude Kuhn, Virginia Cooper, Kathrin Garvin, and Evelyn Chauncey.

Alpha Omicron Pi

The senior girls of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will be given a party next Friday night by Mrs. Earl Vance, Mrs. Lois Thames, and Mrs. Ella Graham, patronesses. Miss Julia Gehan, and Miss Mary Davis, party girls will take place at the Gehan home in Los Robles.

The seniors being honored are, Dorothy Fineman, Mary DeQuincey Cox, Virginia Weldon, Alice Poucher, Sara Graham, Laurita Pearson, Jeanne Cox, Mary Carson, and Nina Hughes. Besides the honorees the guest list will include all active chapter members, pledges, and other patronesses.

Chi Omega and Zeta Tau Alpha

The seniors of the Chi Omega sorority were honored with a farewell banquet held at the Dutch Kitchen Wednesday night.

The table was decorated in the sorority colors of cardinal and straw, with yearly place cards being used. The seniors being honored and who received lovely farewell gifts were, Beatrice Thames, Jean Climer, Betty Manning, Pansie Green, Lois Hasbrouck, Kirby-Smith. Beside the honorees all active members, pledges and a few alumnae were present.

Members of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained the seniors with a party last night at 9 o'clock.

The decorations at this time consisted of spring flowers and the refreshments were punch and sandwiches.

Senior members of the sorority who were honored at this affair were Nadia Grainger, Mercia Scott, and Doris Isted.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The members and pledges of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority entertain their senior members at a luncheon at the Dutch Kitchen tomorrow.

The sorority colors of green and white will be used effectively in color scheme and seasonal flowers will be placed on the table.

Members attending will be Carolotine Oliver, Adeline Tillmar, Julia Lamar, Douglas Dabney, Cecil Hicks, Helen Miller, Edith Perkins, Elizabeth Ayala, Jo Binion, Mary Jo Clayton, Mary Kathryn Gibson, Emelia Mae Lockwood, Betty Mack, Dot McLean, Anne Sams, Helen Turnbull, Grace Whitaker, Peggy McNeill, Sue Whitaker, Marjorie Nagle, Virginia Rogers, Catherine Fuller, Alice Dean Mabry, Helen Arhia, Jo King, Frances Thomas, Helen Ballinger, Carol Parrazee, Hazel Anderson, Anne Bayley, Madge Glenn, Annette Harris, Mildred Hudman, Martha Lester, Geraldine Miles, Anne Mizel, Jane Rice, Virginia Northcutt, Dorothy Philips, Iris Seabrook, Jane Gray Stevens.

Genevieve Sommers, Barbara Taylor, Sarah Tillman, Virginia Phillips, Mary Lutechell, Marie Jones, Ellen Dean Bailiss, Dee Carroll, Petria Cabiniss, Martha Ashworth, Nellie Fain, Lee Heller, Helen Holloway, Jane Jackson, Martha Kennedy, Jane LaLane, Jane Lockwood, Barbara Moore, Helen Glenn Merriday, Patricia Peterson, Frances Robinson, Lucille Seed, Jane Thrift, Beauford Turower, and Nell Robey Webb.

Turkey is Discussed At Final Meeting Of Home Economics Club

At the last meeting of the Home Economics club this year, the history of the chickens, their educational value, preparation and the laws and customs of Turkey were discussed.

Members of the trip made by Miss Edna Mae McIntosh's nutrition class through the Swift Packing Company in Moultrie, Georgia, was also given. Four carloads of girls made this interesting tour. The girls were requested to don white pinafores and hose before going through the packing house, where they witnessed the systematic process of the cows being slaughtered.

Some of the girls making this trip were Mary Anderson, Dorothy Williams, Hazel Myrick, Mera Mandt, Esther Hamilton, Root, Helen Kate, Ruth Heekn, Opal Walker, Mae Whitten, Eleanor Ruff, Lenee Rodgers, Geraldine Nichols, Margaret Deaisey, Betty Bess, Elizabeth Leon Jones, Rebbinder, and Helena Powel.

Hay Elected to Head State Spanish Teachers

Dr. Marion Jewell Hay, associate professor of education at Florida State, was recently elected president of the Florida chapter of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish at a meeting of the organization held at Rollins college in Winter Park, Florida.

The organization established in Florida three years ago, has as one of its chief objectives the drawing together into closer relationships of high school and college teachers of Spanish. It also is attempting to obtain more valuable text books for teaching Spanish in high schools and colleges.

While in Winter Park Dr. Hay also attended a meeting of the Institute De Las Espanas. She is director of studies in Spain in the national organization and was elected a director in the Florida chapter. Daisy Parker, a student at Florida State, attended the meeting as delegate of the local Spanish honorary.

Students Select Favored Hobbies in Leisure Time

Campusites Contemplate Day at School With Nothing to Do

A whole day at Florida State College for Women with nothing to do!—How would you spend it?

Time and again, in the rush of a busy college day, students on this campus have been heard to say "If only I could have just one day free—to do as I pleased. I should do all the little things I have wanted to do ever since I have been here—things which I never seem to find time for somehow."

What are these things?

One of the busiest seniors on campus, Lucy Gee Linn, president of the YWCA says: "Every time I have been here, nearly four whole years now, I have wanted to go to the library and spend at least half a day in the browsing room. I want to be free to read anything in particular—just any book that I may reading and look through it. If I could have a whole day free I would like to spend the morning in that manner, and the afternoon playing tennis or swimming in the pool."

Another of the sophomores, when questioned as to what they would like to do, chose to spend the day in the following ways: taking sunbaths, reading books, writing letters, or going to the show. Also there were many who said that educational trips, to pack a lunch, and equipped with blankets, books, etc., take a train that leads to the woods and spend the entire day "communing with nature."

One sophomore chose to do the following: "I would take a dollar and ride down to the river to the Sweet Shop and buy a dollar's worth of banana splits. After eating my bannanars I would walk down to the cemetery and lie under a dogwood tree and sleep the rest of the day."

A junior said she would like to go "calling." "There are so many members of the faculty I would like to know better, and I should like to talk with them on something other than school subjects. I think it would be very interesting too," she said. "To see just their home-life is like."

Three seniors, who scarcely know the meaning of spare time are Edith Webb, former editor of the Flastacoosa; Minna Dunn, former freshman adviser; and Sarah Krentzman, former editor of the Distaff.

Edith says that she would spend her day this way: "I would sleep all morning, getting up only in time to go to lunch. In the afternoon I should like to read in the periodical room of the library, turn letters, and have a swim before dinner. Then with some good friends I would like to go down town for dinner and a show. Then homeward to bed by ten o'clock."

Minna says, "I would spend my day this way—I would sleep till lunch. Then afternoon I would spend by playing tennis and swimming. In the evening I would go to town for dinner and a show. Then I should like to come home and read late into the night."

Sarah would spend a day free from duties in this manner. "I too, would like to sleep till noon," she said. "All the afternoon I would spend in the browsing room. After dinner and a show down town I would like to come back to one of the tea rooms and jolly my heart out."

There were girls from the four classes — freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors—who said "I would like to write poetry." Others said that they often had ideas for poems but that they just didn't have time to set them down.

From all classes there were girls who would spend the day more profitably, those who would spend it idly, but on one thing they all agreed—"Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a day like that?"

College Library Calls in Books

All library books are due Tuesday, May 19.
Signed.
Louise Richardson.
Librarian.

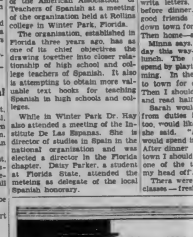
Blood and Graham Are Made Alumnae Officers

Katherine Blood was elected permanent president of this year's senior class at a meeting held Wdnesday evening. Margaret Graham was chosen as secretary while Betty Myer is to have charge of the scrapbook.

At this time the N. S. F. A. committee presented the idea of donating the class fund to an activity building which may be built in the near future. The senior class has not as yet passed this bill.

Eveleth Chosen N. S. F. A. Head

Other Officers Selected At Final Meeting Of This Year



Polly Eveleth, junior, was elected chairman of the local National Student Federation of America organization at the last meeting of the year Tuesday night. Other officers are: Janice Berton, senior councilwoman; Sara Beth Davis, alternate; Sarah Sealey, junior committeewoman; and Betty Wynne, sophomore committeewoman.

Mary Jeanne McKay, retiring chairman, in a short talk, announced that N.S.F.A. has accomplished much during the first year of existence on this campus. "The biggest thing we have accomplished," declared Mary Jeanne, is the establishment of a forum where students can say what they think about international, national and campus problems. It was in the forum, also, that the new election system was originated."

Active work of the N.S.F.A. was evidenced in the debating class sponsored by the organization and led by Mary Jeanne. Another phase of endeavor is the current event bulletin board which the forum committee has posted topics of interest and importance.

SHEERIO
"1" by Van Raalte
ANYWAY YOU SEE IT. SHEERIO IS AN EYEFUL . . . AND THE IDEAL GIFT AT GRADUATION TIME. IT PREPARES YOU NOW FOR YOUR NEXT BLIND DATE. FOR THESE STOCKINGS ARE ALWAYS GOOD FOR A SECOND INVITATION.
The Vogue
"because you love nice things"
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Ship Home by LAUNDRY and save
Loose Change
Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it the same way. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.
Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the folks over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.
For service or information telephone 197 S. Monroe
Tallahassee, Florida
Phone 10-
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

MOON JEWELRY COMPANY

Personal Mention

Miss Myrtle Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Block, and J. V. McCall of Jennings, Florida visited Madaline McCall and Dorothy Finneran last Wednesday.

Sally Wells has returned to school from her home in Crestview where she was called by the illness of her mother.

Betty Manning was entertained with a buffet supper given by Miss Mamie Lewis Tuesday night. All active members of the Chi Omega sorority were invited to this affair.

Miss Sophie Draughan and Mrs. B Whitnant will be visitors at the Pi Mu House this week-end.

Miss Rachel Wylie, Presbyterian student counsellor, will spend next week in York, South Carolina.

Miss Elizabeth Love To Be Given Party

Honoring Miss Elizabeth Love, their chaperone, the Pi Beta Phi sorority will give a reception Saturday night from 7:30 until 8:30 o'clock.

Vases and bowls of seasonal flowers will be placed throughout the house, and the sorority colors of wine and silver blue will carry out the color scheme. During the evening sherbet and cake will be served to the guests.

The guest list includes all members of the faculty, the directors of dormitory halls, and the chaperones and representatives of the other sororities.

Congratulations to the Graduates!
PIKE'S STUDIO
College Avenue

Freshmen Crave Love in Cottage

"It's going to be love in a cottage for me."

Thus spoke a determined freshman rising suddenly out of her chair and gesticulating wildly with her ideas on the ideal way to spend life. This was a feature of the conversation she alluded to Bill, her high school "inamorata" who is working overtime at his father's office to learn a few tricks of the trade.

"Yes," she continued, "Bill says it is much better to be poor and happy and really live life than to be wealthy and grasping and love riches for their material value alone. I think he is absolutely right, and I am going to live an ordinary, uneventful, but happy, life not bothering anyone and with no one to bother me."

A decided contrast to this idyllic, poverty stricken, but trusting girl is a junior, blase to her finger-tips — "I am the self assertive type. Not decidedly the 'old man's darling' type of girl. I was never inclined to work for a living and worry about petty troubles. Life is too short to be that anyway. I should like to marry an older man who is wealthy and who can't spend between me and good times. I want to travel and have beautiful frocks and go places and play all my life." With that statement, this petit queen lady of the manor sat down at her fashionable shoe and with a swish of her beautiful chiffon robe, and a saucy tilt of her pretty head she buttered toast.

Girls who long for careers alone are few, but there is one student on the campus who has such a desire. She wants to write — books, drama, poetry, anything. She dreams of being a great author some day. She thinks herself even now eccentric and different from other people. When asked about the subject of marriage, she threw up her hands. "Oh," she said, "marriage is not for me. My part in the world is to write great masterpieces for the generations to read and enjoy. If I marry, I will be forced to neglect both my writing and my husband to a certain extent, and I don't think anyone should undertake a task unless she is willing to put her whole heart and soul into it and not share herself with others."

Then there is the art major, a

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
"SHOW BOAT"
with
IRENE DUNNE AND ALLAN JONES
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
William Powell and Jean Arthur
in
"THE EX-MRS. BRADFORD"
—TUESDAY—
Edmund Lowe
in
"THE GREAT IMPERSONATION"
—WEDNESDAY—
Mary Ellis in "Fatal Lady"
—THURSDAY—
Margaret Sullavan
in
Ursula Parrott's
"NEXT TIME WE MEET"

Goodwin to Present Certificate Recital

Emma Lee Goodwin, pianist, will present her certificate recital tomorrow evening at eight-fifteen o'clock in the college auditorium. Miss Goodwin is a pupil of Dean Opperman.

Gabrielle Larson, violinist, pupil of Augusta Murphy, will assist Miss Goodwin with her recital. Miss Murphy will also act as her accompanist.

Miss Goodwin's program will be as follows:

Sonata, A major	Mozart
Theme and variations
Menuetto
Rondo (Alla Turca)
Allegro from Sonata in F major	Grieg
Abend in Sevilla	Niemann
Phalenes (Moths). Op. 34, No. 4	Philipp
Nocturne, Op. 90	Philipp
Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 2	Chopin

Summer School Enrollment Is Near 300 Mark

Coeducational Session Offers Three Types of Work for Degrees

Over three hundred students have already enrolled in the co-educational summer session at Florida State College for Women which will end Monday, June 8, and will last until July 31. There probably will be a large increase in the enrollment before the opening date.

Three dormitories opening June 8 will furnish ample rooming facilities for women. Byran hall has been reserved for graduate and nature students, and special privileges will be granted those living in this hall. Reynolds and Jennie Murphree halls have been reserved for undergraduates.

Seventeen single room are available in Reynolds and Jennie Murphree halls at the same price as a double room while other rooms in these halls will be available for students who wish to occupy a larger room alone. The dining room will also be opened June 8 this summer, operating on the regular rates.

The college summer school offers opportunities to both men and women in three types of work: regular college work leading toward a degree; college courses for teachers who wish to satisfy the state certificate requirements; and graduate work for those who are candidates for the Master's degree. Students, by a sequence of studies from summer to summer, may build up a series of credits leading to a degree.

Among the courses offered are bacteriology, b o t a n y, zoology, chemistry, economics, education, English, French, Spanish, Latin, history, home economics, industrial arts, journalism, kindergarten library science, mathematics, music, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, sociology, speech and drama.

Classes run daily from 8:00 to 12:00 and from 1:30 to 4:30 except on Saturday. The weekly calendar includes: vespers in open air theater at 7:15 Sunday night; informal after-dinner coffee with speaker, Monday at 7:15, Browsing club room; convocation in the auditorium, Tuesday; a forum each Wednesday night, and play production every Friday at 8 o'clock.

Astronomy Club Elects Ware to Lead Officers For Next Year's Work

Gladys Ware was elected president of the astronomy club at the last meeting of the year held last Wednesday. Other officers elected are, Dora Helen Baggett, vice-president, Lynn Hammond, chairman of the telescope team, and Florence Evers, secretary and treasurer.

After the election of officers Dr. Harold F. Richards, head of the college physics department, gave a talk on catastrophes among the stars. He pointed out that great catastrophes are continually occurring in the universe but that we are so far removed from them we do not notice them.

Marjorie Harris, past-president of the club, will entertain the old and new members at a tea o'clock coffee in her room next Wednesday evening.

Talya Compiles Teachers' List

Continued from page five

cago, Illinois—Forty-eight "Tuition Service Leaflets." These are leaflets on the collection and preservation of insects and plants, on balanced aquaria, rearing silk worms, feeding aquarium animals, studying nets, etc. Send for list.

Holstein - Friesian Association, 448 West Washington Ave., Madison, Wisconsin.—Wal. chart, colored, of champion cow, with data on production.

Irradiated Evaporated Milk Institute, 202 North Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.—Booklets and reprints on the history of evaporated milk, nutrition and health, family budgets, etc., including a play, "The Laughing Moon," concerning nutrition. Cal. obtainable.

Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Michigan.—"Junior Craftsmen Blueprints" (includes blueprints for bird houses).

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., School Health Bureau, Welfare Division, 1 Madison Ave., New York City.—Series of biographies, "Health Heroes"; bulletin, "Health Through the Ages"; bulletin, "The Nature of Disease"; "Basic prevention bulletins on cancer, colds, diabetes, diphtheria, goiter, hookworm, infantile paralysis, malaria, measles, pellagra, scarlet fever, smallpox, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, whooping cough; "Health Material for Schools—order list"; list of films on health.

National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—List of National Geographic Magazines of which copies available at $1.00 for 10 copies; list of separate color sheets from National Geographic Magazines available at 30 cents each.

National Lead Association, 827 15th St., N. W. Washington, D. C.—Charts and bulletins dealing with the use of lime in agriculture and the making of concrete, etc., etc.

National Society of Audubon Societies, 1775 Broadway, New York City.—Bird leaflets, 5½ x 8 in., 8 cents each; bird cards, 3 sets of 8 cards each for one dollar; "List of Literature."

New Jersey Zinc Co., 160 Front St., New York City.—Reprint, "New Uses for An Old Metal."

Northern Regional Research Laboratory, Peoria, Illinois—Bulletin, "A Brief History of Yeast, two pages:

Ralston Purina Co., 8th and Gratiot St., St. Louis, Mo.—A large wall chart, "The Nutriment in a Grain of Wheat," showing longitudinal and cross sections of a grain of wheat. "Hi Cereal Studies for Health Classes," both literature and experimental material provided.

Republic Steel Corporation, Republic Building, Cleveland, Ohio.—Pamphlet, "Sheet Iron—A Primer," 64 pages (not limited to sheet iron and covers historical aspects of iron and its alloys).

Rund Manufacturing Co. 2934 Smallman St., Pittsburgh, Pa.—Bulletins and charts on water heaters.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.—List and bulletins are free. A wide range of topics is covered by these bulletins. They ar not limited to agriculture. List of educational charts on agriculture and home economics. Charts 12 x 15 inches, one cent each. Some suitable for elementary science.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Forest Service.—"The Forest —a Handbook for Teachers," 72 pages, 20 cents; map showing forest regions of the U. S.; charts concerning fire prevension; chart.

End of School Requirements Announced

Rules for Commencement Guests and Leaving School Given

Regulations concerning arrangements for commencement and leaving at the close of college have been announced by Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls.

These rules follow:

Only four-year graduates may have guests in the residence halls during commencement. If you are having a guest for commencement, please register this fact with the director by your hall. Guests are invited from Friday night, May 22, through commencement.

Any student leaving before graduation day must sign in advance with her director when, where, and how, she is going.

Before graduation day and visit in Tallahassee.

All students must leave from their college residence and are expected to go directly home. Any other plan will be approved only upon a written request of parent or guardian.

Students wishing to remain in residence halls after graduation day must arrange in advance with the director of residence, and will be under full college rerulations.

A student desiring to return home in a car other than that of her immediate family must have a written permission from parent or guardian.

Any student leaving Tallahassee by night train or bus, must arrange in advance in Bryan office.

No students will be permitted to withdraw from college after she has finished her final examinations, and return and stay in residence halls, sorority houses or off-campus houses.

Beginning Friday night, a student may spend the night out of her room just as on week-ends, signing up in the usual manner. In sorority houses, where the number of guests and alumnae make it inconvenient to house the students, it shall be the responsibility of the president of the chapter to ask the students to cooperate and not fill the house to more than the number that can be taken care of adequately.

A student, not a candidate for a degree, who has not used up all her week-ends may go away for the week-end before commencement and return for commencement, provided she makes the proper arrangements. She must, however, return to her college home, whether residence hall, sorority house or off-campus house.

By making proper arrangements, a candidate for a degree may leave college as soon as she has completed her final examination; but she must return in time to be at every commencement exercise—rehearsal and performance—in which she is to take part. The college expects this cooperation.

Academic probation will be lifted after the student's final examination.

During examination week, last light flash will be at 11:35.

Arrange with your director about storing baggage; be sure there is only one address on the baggage.

Arrange in the business office when you buy your ticket about sending express, trunks, packages etc.

Railroad and bus representatives will be in front of the registrar's office, History building, beginning Wednesday, May 20, at 9:00 o'clock for the purpose of selling tickets.

Place necessary checks on baggage after baggage is ready to be sent.

Flambeau Gets NSPA First Class Honor Rate In This Year's Contest

The Flambeau was awarded first class honor rating by the National Scholastic Press association in a recent contest conducted by judge college and high school newspapers on their news value and sources, news writing and editing, headlines, typography and make-up, and department pages and special features.

Stating that the Flambeau's news coverage on the whole was excellent, the judges especially commended the editors on editorial columns and editorial page features, and said that the alumnae news was unusually good. This is the second consecutive year that the Flambeau has received first class honor award.

Mickey Conn to Speak At Y. W. C. A. Service

Mickey Conn will be the speaker at the regular Sunday evening vesper service in the Augusta Conradi little theater at 7:15 o'clock. A program of songs will also take place at this time, according to Polly Eveleth, chairman of the vespers committee.

The Wednesday morning worship service was held May 13 at 7:15 o'clock in the open air theater with Janice Boston leading the program. Another worship service will take place at the regular time this Wednesday, May 20, in the open air theater. Everyone is invited to attend.

Contemporary Student

Continued from page four

large graduate. In the past ten or fifteen years, we in higher education have been stimulated by expansionism. We have not studied society outside the walls of the college to analyze the new industries, enterprises or movements."

Since the time referred to by Dr. Duggan advances have been made to remedy this situation. The time is past when all that college students wanted from their alma mater was instruction in the finer arts of life and good football games.

Students today have their choice of industrial training or liberal arts courses. Divisions are so numerous that almost any type of education can be realized through wise choice of subjects. Each course graduates many students each year, trained in the field they have chosen, whether it is science, business, engineering, art, forestry, home economics, music or varied courses which teach the finer arts of life.

Discussion has been long and heated on the values of specialized versus general training and which should be emphasized in colleges. The battle still rages. Opportunities for both "sloppy" education, as Dr Duggin calls it, and practical training are offered in most colleges. Students must decide the problem themselves.

—The Daily Orange, Syracuse University.

The Skiff states that youth is taking a growing interest in the nation's affairs. We might just stop a moment and ask ourselves if we here deserve the commendation which the editor accords us as members of "youth."

One of the most encouraging and healthful signs of these times is the growing interest of the youth in the nation's affairs. Back in the days of the depression the youth took little or no interest in public events, and rightly so. Everything was going along fine and there was no need for improvement.

But now—after five long years of hardships and struggle for the way that might lead back to the "good ol' days"—youth is taking the wheel and there is a possibility that they may be going places.

The colleges throughout the country are turning more and more to an intelligent and earnest interest in public affairs. In almost every city and town they are springing up divisions of the "Young Democrats," "Young Republicans" or the Emergency Peace Campaign. They are concerning themselves about the future of their country.

In the past, youth has made some remarkable contributions to government. Take for example William Pitt, who was prime minister of England at the age of 21, or Alexander Hamilton, who was astounding the world in finance when only 20. This is not to argue, of course, that all youths are potential Pitts and Hamiltons. But he be a great statesman or an average citizen, each youth has a place to fill and most of them realise the importance of preparing for his life as a citizen.

Former Puppet Teacher Publishes Two Articles Featured in Magazine

Friends of Marjorie Batcheldor, formerly teacher of puppet design at Florida State College, will be interested in learning that two of her articles are featured in the May issue of "Design."

The first article, "Of Puppets and Classic Drama," is a discussion of the adaptibility of marionette shows to old stage plays. There are illustrations of some of Miss Batcheldor's puppets in her production of "St. George and the Dragon," and "The Birds," of Aristophanes. The second article, "Types of Puppet Construction," features directions for making puppets.

Miss Batcheldor is now connected with the department of fine arts at Ohio State university, in Columbus.

Flowers Reports New Plans, Dorm Directors For School in Summer

New plans are to be carried out in summer school it was announced by Miss Maud Flowers. Bryan hall will be reserved for graduate and mature students only. Reynolds and Jennie Murphree will be reserved for all other students, while Gilchrist and Broward will be closed for the summer.

Dormitory directors for the summer will be: Mrs Sidney Chalker, an alumna of Florida State now living in Lake City; Bryan: Miss Rebecca Rowan and Mrs. Lollie Wimberly, Reynolds, during the months of June; Mrs. Margaret Saynor, Mrs. Lilian Perrason, and Miss Marion Andrews. Reynolds, during the month of July; Mrs. Saynor and Mrs. Melanie Turner. Jennie Murphree, June; Mrs. Flossie Currie and Miss Rose Denham, Jennie Murphree, July; Mrs. Eva Bellinger, night matron, June; and Mrs. L. R. Rivers, night matron, July.

SALE OF DRESSES

Friday, Saturday, Monday

1000

SILK DRESSES

Values to $6.95

$3.98

—SPORT DRESSES
—JACKET DRESSES
—CHIFFON DRESSES
—GRADUATION DRESSES

Sizes: 14 to 20—36 to 44.

LIPPMAN'S

HUB STORE

104 E. Jefferson St.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Hear Dr. Abbey Wednesday

The Florida Flambeau

Pan Tonight At Play Night

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JUNE 19, 1936 Number 1

Vocations Meet Brings Visitors Here This Week

Many State Instructors Assemble to Discuss Mutual Problems

The annual conference for trade and industrial vocational teachers of Florida opened here this week under the general direction of C. O. Sadler, state supervisor of trade and industrial education. Approximately 25 women vocational teachers are enrolled for the conference which will last until June 27. The teachers are housed in Gilchrist hall.

The conference program will deal largely with the development of instructional material not only in the technical type in such fields as commercial work, retail selling or stenographic work but personal qualities which serve to increase a person's chances of employment and job holding ability. While here the teachers will go down to the 25 vocational centers in Florida to apply their instruction gained Mrs. Jessie Carlson, supervisor of girls and women's work in the Brewster vocational school at Tampa, is conference director.

The vocational work under discussion here is classified as "con-

(Continued on page four)

New Members Are Added to Faculty

Session Opens With Staff Of Eighty-two

Three new members have been added to the college faculty and one to the faculty of the demonstration school for the summer session. With the seventy-five regular members, there is now a staff of eighty-two.

The new members include: Miss Helen Feagin, instructor in art and industrial arts, who has been teaching in St. Petersburg since her graduation from F. S. C. W. in 1934; Miss Lucia Tryon, instructor in library science, who attended F. S. C. W. but received her A. B. in library science from Emory university in 1935; Miss Lady Jane Leudere, instruc-

(Continued on page five)

Natural Resources And Nature Study Essential

Teachers in the summer school will be interested in a recent ruling from the office of the state superintendent of public instruction relative to the law passed by the last legislature requiring prospective teachers to take courses in natural resources and nature study.

The ruling which, in effect, means that the law will apply in the case of teachers of science and social studies, states that "after September 1, 1936, all persons desiring to be certificated in science, general science or social studies in a graduate state certificate will be required to present three semester hours' credit in a course in the Conservation of Natural Resources, in addition to the credit now prescribed for such certification."

The ruling concerns a law passed in 1935 and requires, among other things, "that on and after September 1, 1936, all of the higher state educational institutions shall give instruction in nature study and the conservation of natural resources, including the habits of fish and game, soil fertility and erosion, forests and minerals and all students in said institutions preparing to be teachers shall be required to take such course of instruction."

Student Head

Beth Deane, who was chosen this week by the summer school student body, will head the college student council during this term.

Daane is Chosen Government Head

Student Body Elects New Officers at Assembly

Beth Daane was chosen chairman of the college judiciary association, and Mary Ann Moore was named as its secretary this week at the first meeting of the new student-elected house-chairmen.

The election procedure for summer school officers began at a student assembly held on Wednesday evening in the auditorium, at which time Sara Martin was elected house chairman for Byran hall, Jane Tombaugh, vice-chairman, Annie McRae house chairman for Reynolds, with Fay Ogden, vice-chairman, and Beth Daane, house-chairman for Jennie Murphree, with Mary Ann Moore, vice-chairman.

The house chairmen will compose the summer school council, which is the summer student governing body at Florida State college.

Floor chairmen Lilla Gilbert, Dora Cook, Mildred Emmelhainz, Mrs Melba Partin, Mrs Myrtle Campbell Mrs Joan Cooperman, Alma Lester, Polly Harrell, Olga Zuraschevi, Nero Conley, Lynelle Kennington, Bertie Mackey, Viola Mitchell and Mattie Lanier

Four-Day Short Course Offered This Summer For Florida Clubwomen

Building for Good Citizenship" is the short course to be presented at the Florida State College for Women from June 30 to July 3 and presented through the cooperation of the college with the Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs, the Florida home demonstration council, the Florida council of parents and teachers and the Florida State College Alumnae association

Mrs J Ralston Wells of Daytona Beach, first vice president of the Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs, which inaugurated the institute last summer is chairman of the institute this summer. According to Mrs. Wells the program is being planned to bring the Florida clubwoman up to date on the subject of health, citizenship, home making and other subjects

There will be round table conferences, lectures and exhibits, which will be held in the educational buildings Several hundred women are expected to attend.

Uses of Science Is Lecture Topic Opening Series

Dr. Richards Speaks On Potentialities For Enriching Life

Science has abundant unused potentialities which if mankind ever chooses to use them, will enrich his life almost beyond measure, Dr. H P Richards of the department of physics told a summer school audience Wednesday night. The subject of Dr. Richards' talk was "Science and Our Tomorrows."

"The world now possesses a potential abundance such as the most optimistic prophets of a half-century ago would not have dared to predict," Dr. Richards stated.

"Ultimately," he said, "if civilization ever decides to use science for all it is worth, the waving grain fields of the northwest can be turned into national parks—and the only real need of Florida citrus groves will be to perfume the air, delight the eye and provide a romantic background for love elements sprinkled—diamonds and all—in a chemica factory that can be air-cond[itioned] if you like, with perfume orange blossom perfume."

All this, Dr. Richards said, could be brought about by the application of scientific principles which already have shown how new substances can be built up in the laboratory.

State-Wide Conference For Teachers of Home Economics Held Here

Miss Boletha Frolan, state supervisor of home economics, will conduct a conference sponsored by the School of Home Economics and the state department of public instruction during the week of June 21-27 for the home economics teachers in Florida. Dean Margaret Sandels of the School of Home Economics made this announcement last week.

Miss Lelia J. Venable, assistant professor of home economics who has just completed a year's leave of absence for additional graduate work, and Miss Henrietta Stratman, assistant professor of textiles and clothing, will present each morning various aspects of the general theme of the conference, provision for housing families and the social and economic aspects which influence various factors of home life.

Dr. Ruth Connor will assist by leading group discussions on ways of adopting and using available material in teaching home economics. A similar conference held last year attracted seventy teachers.

Summer Session Finds Three Residence Halls Occupied by Students

In the three dormitories being used this summer there are at present 547 students, according to Miss Maude Flowers, director of Byran Hall. All of the rooms are comfortably filled. Of these, eighty-five students are in Bryan, 168 in Reynolds and 274 in Jennie Murphree.

Lists of desirable rooms off the campus are being sent upon application, to men and day students, Miss Flowers announced.

According to present plans, one dormitory is renovated each year. This summer Broward is being newly plastered and painted and a new system of numbering the rooms in Byran and Reynolds halls is to be established.

Graduates Asked To Order Invitations

Students wishing to order invitations for summer school graduation exercises should place their orders at the college bookstore not later than Thursday, June 25. This is the last day on which orders will be accepted.

'A' Rating Given For Journalism

Florida State Department Lauded for Work

The American association of teachers of journalism has just named the Journalism department of Florida State College for Women as one of two in Florida to receive an "A" rating for its freshman-sophomore journalism offerings.

Word to this effect was received here this week by Earl Lyon Vance, head of the journalism department at Florida State College.

Work was first offered here in journalism in 1926 when Professor Vance became a member of the college faculty. Last year approximately eighty students were enrolled in journalism courses.

Training in journalism here together with experience on the college weekly newspaper, the Florida Flambeau, and other college publications has launched a number of Florida State College students on journalistic careers. Several former journalism students now occupy positions on newspapers in key cities of Florida while others are free-lancing or teaching journalism in high school or college. Two such former students are working in magazines in New York.

Recognition has come in many instances to F. S. C. W. journalism students before leaving college. Last year one student received first prize in a contest conducted by Harper's magazine among undergraduates. This year another journalism student received honorable mention in a

(Continued on page five)

New Psychology Course Initiated This Summer

"Contemporary Points of View in Psychology," being offered here for the first time this summer, is a course according to Dr. C. P. Heinlein, in which the various points of view in psychology are correlated into a unified whole, in order to give each student a comprehensive view of psychology.

Students are to study the various theories of each school of psychology and critically analyze the assumptions on which some of them are based. The class will then attempt to integrate all the information studied, each student selecting what is to him the most logical point of view.

This course, to some degree, anticipates the program that will be initiated next fall, Dr. Heinlein said, whereby all branches of human knowledge taught in this college will be correlated in order that college work will be more meaningful and less a matter of accumulating assorted sets of facts.

Kappa Delta Pi Meets

The first summer meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary organization, was held in the Education building at 7:30 on Monday night.

Dr. H. L. Weakom, of the psychology department, was the speaker.

817 Enrolled In Florida State's Summer Session

Registration, Classes And Activities In Full Swing

Florida State College for Women began its annual twenty-third summer session on Monday, June 8 with an enrollment of 817.

S R Doyle, registrar, gave out official registration figures of the summer school session on Wednesday afternoon. They are: total enrollment to date 817, of whom 30 are men.

In the enrollment by divisions, there are: 32 in the graduate division, 126 in the college of arts and sciences; 549 in education; 50 in home economics; and 46 in music.

At the first convocation in the auditorium, the mechanics of registration got under way. S. R. Doyle, the registrar, gave instructions as to the method of procedure Each step was carefully defined and everything moved along in a business-like manner throughout the entire day.

Hundreds of serious minded students, ranging from eighteen to sixty years in age, repaired to their respective classes on Tuesday morning

At noon Tuesday a large body of students gathered in the auditorium to hear Dr Edward Conrad's welcome address. He spoke on "Truth," from the text, "Thou

(Continued on page five)

Ad Building Is Being Repaired

Reconstruction of Wing Now Well Under Way

Reconstruction of the college administration building, which was begun on May 16, by H. S. Baird, contractor and builder of Jacksonville, is well under way. Already the concrete footings and formwork for the super structure is complete.

The contract price for this project is $73,800, according to resident engineers, Mendenhall and Blinn, and the contract specifies that the work is to be completed by December 29, 1936. Although the work was three days late in starting, the resident engineers think that the building will be completed within contract time.

The interior of the wing is to be rebuilt practically as it was before the building was condemned last spring, except for a few minor changes in room arrangement. The exterior is to be of brick, laid over a sustaining structure of reinforced concrete, replacing the old building's sustaining structure of wood.

Westminster Chimes To Ring at Florida State

The Westminster Abbey chimes, which were donated to the college by the classes of 1934 and 1936, rang for the first time on Monday. Their installation will be entirely completed during the next few days.

The chimes, costing approximately $900, work automatically. Installed as much for their usefulness as for their beauty, they peal forth every fifteen minutes. On the half hour an extra note is added and still another for the three-quarter hour mark, and on the hour the number is sounded out.

Acting as a beautiful timepiece, the chimes summon all students to their classes, although they will not replace the class bells.

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students in the classes in journalism, Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1936.

Entered second class mail matter January 30, 1930, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Althes Smith
BUSINESS MANAGER. Betty Kay
Departments: Sports, Mary Boatwright; Copy, Henry Coley, Jesse Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lucy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

Why a Summer Session?

Last week Florida State College for Women welcomed some eight hundred students to its 1936 summer term, offering to many teachers from all over the state during an eight-week session the benefits of an educational and cultural college program.

Florida has kept abreast of the educational times. As changing trends in the thinking of American educators are reflected in the country's schools, the state has not lagged behind in the general forward movement in both educational theory and practice. Illustrative of this is the state's requiremeut, now being put into effect, that all teachers receiving state certificates after September 1, 1936, must have credits in a course in natural resources.

It is by such small advancing steps that Florida's teaching standards are being raised. Teachers all over the state are required to attend one summer session at an accredited college or university out of a fixed number of years. During these summer sessions, many of the state's teachers come to F. S. C. W. to fulfill their requirements. It is the function of the institution to provide a background of modern methods, subject matter, and cultural opportunity for its teachers. Florida State College offers such a background in its annual sessions, attended each summer by representatives from schools all over the state.

In Defense of Education

It seems to be a favorite occupation of the younger generation to attack the system by which it is being educated. One would think, to hear them, that the whole plan of modern education exists simply to furnish a livelihood for some few million teachers. Did any of these complainers ever ask themselves, "Where would you be without this education about which you are kicking?" Did they ever stop to think that some of the fault might lie with themselves, and not all of it with the faculty and curriculum?

The most general complaint of the college student is that his instructors try to force knowledge down his throat, and give him no opportunity to seek out learning for himself. How many students are there of the average mold that would seek out learning if given the chance? They are simply not interested. And yet it is necessary that a person wishing to succeed in the present-day civilized world know certain things taught in the colleges and have a certain minimum of culture. What, then, is the answer?

Another bitter ground of contention is most of our colleges use the grading system. The young person says that he finds himself working for grades instead of working to learn. The grading system is necessary in most institutions. It was established to help the student, not to hinder.

The grades were meant to be either an encouragement or a warning. If the student wishes to take grades as his final end and aim in college, whose fault is it?

Another thing often attacked is the variety of subjects required to get a degree. "Why did they drag that in:" and "I don't see the need of that" are often heard when the fresh man reads over the list of courses he has to take before he can graduate. The liberal course of study is pursuing an ideal—the ideal of a liberal education for everyone. The original purpose of a college was not to prepare a person for a vocation but to broaden his cultural and intellectual life. The individual attending college must try to get something besides the information and training necessary for a job when he graduates. But what a bowl is raised when the educators try to slip a little art or literature into the required course for home economics!

The first idea of public education is pursuing an ideal. The people who first began putting this ideal into practice lived in the days when even the wealthiest classes did not have the fine, sanitary school and the equipment and the range of learning that the sons of the poorest laborer can benefit from today. Education of the masses is the first step toward raising society in general out of bestiality and ignorance into a higher spiritual and intellectual level. Let us reach for education and welcome it, not condemn it!

MARY FRANCES HARTLEY

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By JAMES A. DAAR
Miami University

This week a beneficent congress resumed work in preparation to adjournment for the summer. Although it has given the Bureau of Investigation, otherwise known as the G-men, a slight raise in salary, no provisions have as yet been made for a pension fund for them if they are injured in action or a retirement fund when they become overage.

At present they are the only government agency required to "shoot to kill" on the assumption that their loved ones will be cared for if they are making "the last stand."

Congress has before it a bill to correct both of these negligencies and ought to place it on their "must calendar."

During the last week or ten days Soviet Russia has announced plans and a constitution for a Soviet Democracy. Under this new constitution all parties but one rather "party" lines are eradicated, and direct election replaces

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily representative of the student body as a whole. It is hoped that they will stimulate comment and is open to all who wish to express views and constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Audience" and mailed in the box office.

Nearly every college student has at the head of his "Veterans of Future Wars." Some of us have laughed derisively and called the movement ridiculous. Some of us have hastened to join and support it. But it has become wise. It has its good and bad points. However, it is true that if our country is ever forced to war within the coming thirty years, that practically every able man will be called on to fight. But if public opinion regarding war remains as it is today, we cannot have to do some tall and fancy yodeling to get "volunteers" to join the army. The youths of today have a pretty good idea as to war and its "realities" and it will be a hard task to get the whole of them to fight except in defense

The V. F. W. movement brings up another question. Will the youth of today fight at all? Is he a pacifist? Is he one of those who questions are that he will fight and that he is not a coward. Men of today are made up of the same stuff that their fathers, sons and brothers who fought in the last great war, but they have learned by experience. We enjoy the game of living. Why make it a rough, dirty game, the game of war? A game of mud, gas, and hot lead? A game in which every man is a target.

If this country were invaded, practically every man able to fight and capable of using a rifle in its defense, but should we involve ourselves in another war, it is of no direct concern of ours as we did the last time. Only one-third of the male population would try to get government employment. Hitler would set themselves up in the business of arms and munitions manufacture, and the last phases of capitalism would run to the Everglades or nearest swamp and let the thousand who had gotten there before them to move over. But regardless of what they do, the youth of today would still be some, far less however than would set themselves up, when the ballyhoo flies and the bands play, with tears and goose pimples of patriotism charge the enlistment office like a bunch of women advancing on a bargain counter.

If our foreign diplomats feel any dislike for the diplomats of another country an edecide that they want to fight, let's arm them and let them have it out. Then perhaps they won't feel so bellig-the present indirect system of pyramided councils. In addition to this it proclaims democratic liberties, which are considered the backbone of democracy by western democracies—freedom of speech, press, and (maybe) freedom of assemblage and association.

Continued on page three.

The fact that this constitution has been proclaimed is not the important thing. It is Russia's first dictator stated that as soon as the masses have been thoroughly educated in the principals of communism Only would be given complete political independence. The important thing is will the U. S. S. R.'s 160,000,000 people be given the political freedom announced in the new constitution or is this only a sham to strengthen the allegiance it is attempting with the three great democracies of the world?

Should Russia find it necessary to go to war with either Germany or Japan, or both it will need the assistance or at very least the neutrality of Great Britain, France and the United States.

In addition to being a sugar coated pill for western democracies, it will serve to unite all the Russias behind Dictator Joseph Stalin in event of a test at arms with one of the powers. It will give the Soviet people a sense of showing its loyalty in a manner of cooperation for the first time present loyalty through blind compulsion.

* * *

The summer prior to a presidential election is always an interesting one—all parties concerned make frantic efforts against the other parties. The "outs" charge that the "ins" have failed to keep their campaign pie in plain pledges. This charge is always correct, but no party when it attained power has kept all of the pledges it made during its campaign for the office.

The fallacy of this charge is that too much stress is laid upon all. Sometimes the pledges do die.

Two hundred years ago it would have been considered ridiculous to even suggest that the government assist its subjects financially to secure an education. Yet, during the past year throughout the U. S. A. assistance 121,317 college students were enabled to continue their education. On this number are approximately four hundred were in Florida colleges and universities.

* * *

"Let this convention declare without abridging the source of economic prosperity is freedom." With these famous words Herbert Hoover closed his career as leader of the Republican party—a party leader unrivalled in intellectual capacity and economic experience.

With Landon and Knox at the helm, the party has already begun its forward march into the forthcoming conflict, to the strains of "Oh, Susanna"—the Landon battle-hymn

* * *

Meanwhile, the Democrats are by no means idle. This week Democrats of thirteen Texas and Mississippi met to make their plans for the year. Delegates who will complete the rapidly filling roster of the national convention, which meets in Philadelphia next week to nominate President Roosevelt for re-election.

* * *

The world war veterans are cashing in. Requests for payment of the bonus in cash have poured in, and by the end of the first day after the bonds were released, many thousands of dollars in bonus bonds had been certified for payment. Industries all over the country are preparing for a "boom" turnover in sales during the next few months.

* * *

Perhaps with a thought to the

Collegiate Come-Backs

"The 'best man' is undoubtedly a relic of marriage by capture," says an article in the Farmers' Merchant College publication. As we remind you, girls, that there are only 19 more shopping days this Leap Year?

* * *

Student theme subject:
1:30 classes: "With My Eye Wide Open I'm Dreaming."
8:30 quiz: "Without a Word of Warning."

Cribbers: "Over Somebody Else's Shoulder."

A Coeducational F S C W 'Mama, Here's That Man Again."

* * *

The Texas Lasso gives us a bit of transient advice:

1. People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw cocktail parties.

2. People who live in flat houses shouldn't throw darts at jamas.

3. People who live in flat houses should pull down their shades.

4. People who live at the seashore shouldn't.

5. Parsecurickly speaking, dividuals who live in glass domiciles should refrain from hurling geological specimens.

* * *

At the University of California it is possible to graduate without ever himself against being called upon in either—even. It rates are five cents a class and if called upon, the damand to twenty-five cents. What this campus needs is a one five-cent insurance policy!

* * *

At a parting word this bit verse is offered to the prospersent feeling of the college degree!

The college professor is my shepherd and I am in dire want
Yea though my wife frown on me in the bed that I rentesh
He leadeth me to make
A feed of prompt order by cadmates.
Yea, though I burneth my lights
Until the house chairman bolts I fear much evil.
For the prof is against me—
His theories and his rallies
Pushbroom my wife from me
He assisneth me extra work
As a punishment
In the presence of mine enemies
He anointeth my quiz papers with red ink.
And my zeros fulleth a whole column.
Surely theories, exams and theses will follow me
And I will dwell in my college career
And I will dwell in the freshman class forever!

* * *

coming election, President Roosevelt has taken on the intellectual charing with Hoover the critics's front-page headlines, as the former accepted congratulations for a broadened interpretation of the United States Constitution in a speech which was indeed a virtual challenge to the Republican convention.

Taking the stand that amendment of the Constitution is not necessary to safeguard self-government, the president is arguing for an interpretation which will embrace all legislation that experience the nation's welfare

INFORMAL RECEPTION SERIES IS PLANNED FOR SUMMER TERM

Sponsored by the colege social committee, under the direction of Miss Heikenamy Pritsch, a series of informal student-faculty receptions have been planned to continue throughout the summer term.

Two student groups will be hostesses at the first of these receptions, to be held in Bryan sun parlor, and in Jennie Murphree parlors this Sunday, at 2 o'clock.

Students from the two-hundred floor of Sorin will be hostesses to faculty group including: Dr. and Mrs. Paul Pinner, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Dean Colbert Young. Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Miss Enda Mae Devitney, Dr. Cora Norman, Miss Maude Flowers, and Miss Kathryn Worren. This reception is to take the place of the informal coffee. Peggy Underwood, a member of the social committee, is in charge of arrangements.

Assisting with the serving will be the following social committee members: Polly Harrell, Mrs Genevieve Kenley Martin Whitely, Annette Marco, Alma Lester, Mary Dickinson, Maude Dean Bryan, Dame, Mary Emily Sadler, and Patsy Johnson.

To Jennie Murphree hall, students of the one-hundred floor will also entertain members of the faculty at their tea. The hostesses includes: Mrs. Dora Skipper, Miss Florence Dyson, Dr. and Mrs. William G Dodd, Mr. and Mrs Kenneth Williams, Miss Dorothy Isetz, Miss Clara Herndon, Dr. Olivia Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers and Miss Kathryn Worren.

Mary Ann Moore is the social committee member in charge Assisting her are: Jane Virginia Northcutt, Carolyn Garvin, Geraldine Miles, Norma Robinson, Margaret Hughes, Dot McCollum, Barbara Hubbard, and Jane Hubbard.

Ear To Ground; Reporter Digs Up New Tongue

News-Hound Outdoes Winchell Technique Of Keyhole

When I was a class undergraduate I used to think that the college student was the essence of perfection. What was there for me if not to bring to the overwilling student reams of knowledge which would adorn her in good stead when she faced a hostile world for the first time? Alas! How much my romantic ideas have been altered since then!

I happened to be of that unfortunate class of people who think that to get anywhere one self correctly and concisely by word of mouth is an attribute first to distinguish one from others, stood for the realization of my dreams. Alas! I was to learn that in addition to the regular courses of Greek, Latin, French, German, Spanish, Italian, and English, there are a few irregular courses pursued at all colleges and dealt with quick and farreaching results. These may be enumerated under the heading profanity and college jargon With the first, it is not my purpose to deal. For me, the former naturally proceeds from the latter. As a matter of distinguished fact, college jargon is a language all itself, an outgrowth of youthful students to avoid making themselves clear, a vocal manner of passing the linguistic buck.

It is not too remote period of my undergraduate days. I found myself practically a stranger in my native heath. I would stand on the edge of bright social gatherings of the college elite and wish that some kindly interpreter would happen along and clarify the situation for me. The confusion, if the reception by the

COLLEGE CALENDAR

Sunday, May 21

11:00 a. m.—Church services

1:45 p.m.—After dinner coffee —Jennie Murphree. After dinner coffee— Bryan sun parlor

7:15 p.m.—Vespers— Augusta Conradi theater, speaker, Dr. Conradi; special music, Mr. Sellas

Monday, May 22

7:15 p.m.—After dinner coffee—informal—Reynolds "Bird Life in Florida," Miss Mary Yon

Tuesday, May 23

12.00 m.—Convocation, Speaker, Dr. Andrews; music, Miss Dow

Wednesday, May 24

8:00 p.m.—Dr. Abbey, "Modern Trends in Diplomacy" Auditorium Conradi theater

Friday, May 28

8:00 p.m.—Physics night: physical education building

Dr. Rogers Discusses Modern Poetic Work At First Coffee

Dr. William H. Rogers was the speaker at an informal afternoon coffee in Reynolds hall yesterday evening at 7:30. All students were cordially invited to attend this coffee.

Mary Katherine Gibson was in charge of the coffee Wednesday evening. Assiting her in the serving were. Olive Dame, Virginia Northcutt, Dorothy Foster, Mary Dickinson, Patty Johnson, Martha Wright, Mary Emily Sandidge, Mrs Genevieve Kenley, Annette Marco, Marian Carson, Julia Vanderipe Murdock Lucile Audrey Farmer, and Margaret Roberts.

group was any indication, was indeed a most unsatisfactory and amusing, but triple alas, I was as famiiar with it as with my own Sanskrit. I would turn sadly away with the firm resolution that I would ask no more. But I enrolled in the course that would teach me the college slang language at which my compatriots seemed so apt. Even at the dinner table, I turned out to be a social deficit as far as making social back-chat went. I found myself unable to the words of my mother tongue which made no impression at all upon the assembled group hearing. Then I was close to a nervous breakdown and, for the sake of my health, I finally began to pick up odd bits of the new tongue and to fit them into the more sophisticated conversations with which my opportunities for study made me unintelligible to my instructors, but I had discovered that there wasn't anything in this business anyway, that Webster was a good deal wiser than I and that the only way to become a social success was to be even a little more wordly wise than those associated.

For instance, there was one unguarded moment when I decided that chemistry was the only means to my future success. Unhappy thought to be sure, but I was young then and knew no better. I had the idea that one worked in the laboratory and performed intricate experiments with chemicals which one would later record in a notebook scrupulously kept for that purpose. This I found was unnecessary. To pass a course in chemistry, if one felt that one had to pass it, the expedient was "dry-labbing" Now it took me some three weeks to "catch on" to the meaning of that expression I couldn't find it in

Personal Mention

Miss Lela Venable, who has been for a number of years a member of the home economics staff, has returned from a year's leave of absence for additional graduate study at the University of Chicago to teach in the present summer session. Miss Venable will also teach here next fall.

Miss Florence Groo had as visitors Tuesday her mother, Mrs E. L. Groo, of Foley; Miss Estelle Johnston, a former student at this college, and Mrs. J. W. Johnston.

Miss Doris Peacock of Perry returned here for a week-end visit last Saturday.

Mrs Esther Ferguson will return Saturday, June 20, to Gilbertsville where she will be official hostess to the delegates of he home economics institute and to women's institute.

Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwait who graduated the past year with honors in Latin, was a visitor on the campus for the first week summer school. Miss Thistlethwait is Sunday School teacher in University of Chicago where she will graduate work in the classics department.

Miss Virginia Long, who received her B. M. degree in piano and Mary, in organ, is now in the annual conservatory of music this summer session. Miss Long is being taught by the eminent Italian piano player, Severin Eisten Beyer.

A scholarship was awarded Miss Long as a result of her success tuition through the recommendation of Jean Ella Scobie Opperman.

Webster's unabridged, nor could Punk and Wagnalls give me any help. As a matter of fact, when I disillerated fact, I discovered that "oth texta were frightfully outmoded. "Dry-labbing" in chemistry is simply the process by which you incorporate in your notes from the material which the dumbest, that it to say, the most "A-gathering" student has been able to put together in her manual. It is simply a process of substituting verbatim that material. The derivation of the word "dry" is taken from the fact that no chemicals are used in the process, and subsequently one often washes the hands. The word "labbing" is the present participle of the word "lab" with the addition of English, laboratory. At a certain university where the students are all men, the departments in the engineering college are divided into three groups, namely, "mud," "suds." One group is termed Wide's stinking engineers, the "mud" boys, or in some universities, as "aggies." This is especially true at the agricultural colleges of Colorado and Michigan respectively.

With reference to study, the new tongue has an especially cryptic expression. It is called "cracking a book." Those presumptious individuals who take it upon themselves to do so are looked down upon most unfavorably by the members of the class who prefer to "get by" without "cracking a book." Failure to successfully complete or "flunk" a course is known to the initated as "flunking."

Individuals attending colleges and universities ¹I hate to show myself ignorant by referring to them as students" are also similarly unconcerned with the ordinary process of academic work known as "grinding." The person, unfortunate though he be, who indulges in that grossness process already referred to as "cracking a book." is known as a "grind," or in some advanced cases, as a "Greasy Grind." If he elicits any interest whatsoever in the mind his instructor is attempting to explain, he is designated as one of several types of offenders. the list being given in crder of its importance The minor offenders are known as "apple-polishers," a term brought back from the days when small children carried shiny ripe apples to their teachers. Other terms applied to these offenders include "dingling" 'University of North Ca rolina", "dumb-dora" "browning," "A-K-ing," and "dirty-nosing."

Some little attention is paid to the every day tasks that go on around the attenders of colleges and universities. In a certain Southern university, the colored charwomen are known as "swamp angels," and in another institute of higher education, they are referred to as "black spooks." The derivation of these terms is a matter that has puzzled many a man and the college students, but have as yet found no answer. However, in some remote day, I shall come upon the secret, and I shall write my doctor's thesis upon the subject. I feel that it would be a worthy contribution to mankind.

Dining or eating is known in college jargon as "chucking down the chow." I must admit that this term had me guessing for a time, but I finally came to the conclusion that "chucking" was synonymous with "throwing," and that "chow" was the name of a species of canine. What I had has to do with food consumption, I haven't as yet discovered. The edifice in which the "chucking down chow" takes place is known at one college as the "Beanery," at another as the "commons" and at yet another as the "Hash House." Meals are usually defined as being "lousy," the derivation of that word also being a little puzzling To supplement the "chow," college students usually find it necessary to resort to a process known as "dope-swilling." I really cannot say that I have ever

DORMAN HONORS SUMMER STUDENTS AND FACULTY AT FORMAL RECEPTION

Social Committee Sponsors Coffees

On Monday evening, June 22, at 7:30, the second in the summer series of informal after dinner coffees will be held in Reynolds parlors under the auspices of the college social committee.

Miss Enda Mae Devitney, of the biology department, will speak on "Bird Life in Florida" at this time, accompanying her lecture with illustrations. All students are invited to be present.

A reception for summer school students and the faculty of Florida State College for Women was given at 7:30 o'clock on Thursday, June 11, in the sunken gardens in front of Bryan hall. The reception, an annual affair, was given by the dean of students, Dr. Olivia Dorman.

In the receiving line were Dean Dorman; Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college; Miss Louise Conradi; Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls; and Dr. Estelle Gordon Andrews, director of personnel.

Miss Heikenamy Pritsch, director of religious and social activities at summer school, introduced the guests to the receiving line. Miss Anna Mae Tracy and Mrs. Ames Chalker presided at the punch bowl. Assisting at the reception were a number of alumnae connected with the faculty or staff.

as to the wisdom of this practice as concerned the physical beings of the college students. I feel that some medical authority should be consulted, but after due consideration, discovered that a "dope" was a beverage generally known as Coca-Cola, and even referred to by some colleges as cokes." They even run to such bizarre flavors as chocolate, cherry, vanilla, and lime. A "dope" also is used to designate a somewhat stupid person, and sometimes there is a sort of confusion in the mind of the uninitiated bystander as to whether a chocolate dope is a beverage or a stupid person or a flavored beverage. Only time and the can solve that difficulty; or as instructors of languages usually chirp, one can tell by the context of the rest of the sentence. The word "swill" had me practically stumped. The only word that approximated it was the English word swill which means to swallow greedily, or if used as a noun it is sometime that is fed to animals.

The instruments by which the student body of a college are governed are known as "C. O. A.'s" or "S. G. A.'s" and comn in for a fair share of college jargon. To be requested to appear before one of these bodies is known as being "called up." If the offense is a major one, and the offender is asked to withdraw from the college, the process is known as "shipping," though what it has to do with cargo, I haven't as yet discovered. The individuals who enforce whatever rules the organization has are known at Northwestern as "God-hoppers." I have often wondered if that

(Continued on page four)

We are sure that during these warm days all of you will be going to camp . . . .

HAVE YOU A

BATHING SUIT ?

We have suits in all colors and sizes—

$2.95 - $6.95

P. W. Wilson & Co.

—Since 1837—

THE SWEET SHOP
708 West Jefferson St. Opposite Gilchrist

Fountain Service
Delicious Sandwiches Cold Plates

THE LITTLE STORE
701 West Jefferson St. Opposite Gilchrist

Groceries, Picnic Supplies, Candy, Toiletries
We Deliver—Phones 1091, 1280

Stardust

Frances Langford, Sir Guy Standing and Smith Ballew head the cast of Paramount's production "Palm Springs" which opens Friday, June 19, at the State theater. And Sunday, June 21, at the Ritz theater.

This is the first time the resort near Hollywood, where movie stars rest and play between pictures, has been filmed. Because of its interesting atmosphere, it is used as the setting for the story which offers Frances Langford as a young society girl who is needlessly thrown into the gay maze of a Palm Springs vacation.

She is hurriedly seeking marriage with a playboy millionaire to save her family from poverty, in spite of the great love she already bears for a handsome cowboy. To win the young actor, she masquerades as an English nobleman. Princes almost succeed in completing the alliance when her father, realizing that she is sacrificing herself for him, opposes her.

How he frustrates the marriage, and aids Ballew, enacting the cowboy she loves, to get her, supply a fitting climax to the piece.

Five songs especially written for the picture are sung by Miss Langford and Mr. Ballew during the course of story unfoldment.

* * *

Jean Hersholt contributes another immortal characterization, in "Sins of Man" which opens Sunday, June 21 at the State theater and Monday, June 23, at the Ritz theater.

Viewed with drama, the picture is a stirring story of a father's struggles and temptations, his sorrows and triumphs. Built in an ever-swelling crescendo of emotion to its dramatic climax, it will leave the entire audience smiling mistily through tear-dimmed eyes. "The Sins of Man" is indeed an appropriate Father's Day production.

Ear to ground Reporter Digs Up New Tongue

(Continued from page three)

word had the same derivation as grain-hopper, which is a perfectly good English word.

The social life of the college individual is by far the most important phase of his existence. When he first enters his chosen university, he gets a "bid" to some "frat." This is simply a process by which the boys of a certain organization decide that he is "one of us" and decide to "rush" him. After he becomes "one of the boys" he also has an active part in painting black spots on the white marble lion belonging to the neighboring "frat," or the administering of large quantities of some alcoholic beverage to the dog of some other "frat." The spirit of rivalry which exists between separate "frats" is delicious. Membership in such organizations give one the privilege of borrowing everything from "Dad's motor" down from cars to lady friends.

The problem of "catching a drag" is a somewhat knotty one. It is endowed with no less than two complete solutions. At some of our northern universities, it has to do with dancing. At Annapolis "catching a drag" is "getting a date" or in simple, unadorned English, is asking some member of the female sex to accompany one to a dance. In certain southern colleges, to "catch a drag" means to inhale a few times of a cigarette. At one woman's college "catching a drag" was done in "Belgium" or the "filling line." This was a neat space set aside under a row of pecan trees for the express purpose of smoking. Just what constitutes the similarity between the two meanings, is a matter warranting much careful research.

In the North, a "blind drag" is the equivalent to the Southern "blind date" or in English, a feminine companion with whom one

Summer Orchestra And Chorus Classes Meet; Groups Slightly Larger

With an enrollment of thirty, a silent increase over that of last year, the summer school term has been organized under the direction of Miss Gladys Koch. The chorus meets every Monday and Wednesday afternoon at five. Thursday is the regular hall of the music annex building. Miss Koch will enroll anyone interested in chorus work if she will apply to her for membership. Only those will be admitted to join for this chorus.

The summer school orchestra, composed of approximately twelve members under the direction of Thomas Sellers, has been organized and will meet each Tuesday and Thursday at five-thirty o'clock on the stage of the auditorium.

Any one who plays a musical instrument and wishes to join the orchestra may do so on application to Mr. Sellers. One-half hour credit is also given for this course.

WPA Workers Enroll

WPA workers in rural districts of Florida are given the opportunity to attend the summer session of the Florida State College for Women. These workers are carrying on their regular WPA work with the assistance of volunteer helpers for which they receive their regular salaries. This procedure has enabled eighteen WPA workers to enroll in the school of education for this summer session.

Most of these students are taking the following courses: supervision of schools, fundamentals of music in the first three elementary grades, elementary methods for public school music in high school, orchestral methods for wind instruments, harmony, solfeggio, and chorus production.

Vocations Meet Brings Visitors Here This Week

(Continued from page one)

ination school" instruction since it deals mostly with the young worker who wishes to extend or continue his educational development in order to be better fitted for a higher quality of job performance.

The "continuation school" is the outgrowth of vocational school work under the trade and industrial division of the state department of vocational training. Enrollment for the trade and industrial division of vocational training in Florida has reached over 8,000 men and women this year ranging in age from 16 years of age and over 2,000 people have already taken up the this year as the result of this training. Mr. Stanley estimated. The other divisions of trade and industrial vocational work include a full time training program for boys and girls who want to enter a definite trade and who are willing and able to spend full time in this training; and an evening or adult program designed to extend the adult's knowledge of the trade at which he works.

The division of vocational training is a part of the state department of education. W. S. Cawthon, state superintendent of public instruction, directs the whole vocational program has had no previous acquaintance. It is a "blind date" sometimes carried on by the "brothers." as the members of a "frat" are called. I have discovered that one may attend a dance, which in the college vernacular means to "take in a struggle." Or one may "sit it out." a practice which I had rather not go into at this juncture. At a conversation overheard at a college boys' dance, I evolved this profound statement.

"Do you like this "hop"?" quoth he. A hop is a synonym for a dance.

It was at this point that I "intermitted" in my Walter-Winchelling. The "new tongue—long may it wag!

Why Did You Come Down?

An Out of State Tells Us Why She Came All Way To Florida for Her Education

By ELLA BROOKS

Nothing makes an out-of-state student feel quite so distracted or helpless as to be asked, "Well, whatever did you come all the way down here for?" Aren't there any schools at your home?"

Certainly there are schools in our home states, and this is a long way from our homes. We realize that, but we do have perfectly sensible reasons for coming here —whether the state students are capable of remembering it or not. We also realize that this is a state school for Florida girls, and we know that there are other schools in the United States closer to home, but we came here, attracted as it may seem to some, principally for education and economy.

Yes, for an education. That is the foremost of our many reasons for coming here from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Virginia, Connecticut, West Virginia, New York, Michigan, and numerous other states north and west of Florida. The courses of instruction offered at the Florida State College for Women are surprisingly varied and numerous. Consequently, it is a great many of the school that are near our homes. Here practically everything from accountant to zoology is offered to students, with no subject being neglected! It is true some courses are required, but there are found in almost any liberal college. Even the required courses, however, can be interesting if the majors chosen by the individual student and developed into a fully understandable and acceptable conception of one's chosen life-work.

This liberal institution is quite definitely preferable to the schools which train solely for training in one specific field. Here one gets a live and vivid picture of the direct or indirect bearing of other subjects on one's chosen career. In addition, the students here are given a wide field from which to chose subjects after required ones have been taken. Here one enrolls in the preferred school and is allowed to pick out a subject in which to major, and with the major subject the student may elect as others whims and desires and not be compelled to take those picked for her.

Other lesser motives for girls from far-away states attending this college are tradition, relatives, and health. Women who graduated from Florida State College years ago are now sending their daughters here from the distant states into which they have moved. In some few cases the families have moved from Florida and their sons and daughters back here to school. Also, through the influence of grandparents, aunts, uncles, and in-laws girls have come from other states. While other girls from northern states have come to escape the extremely cold winters which are notorious in those states.

All of these reasons for coming here to school are perfectly lending to us out-of-state students. Very probably the first three reasons bring a great many state girls here, also. We out-of-state students are nothing so unusual

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT
UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

IN DEFENSE OF BEAUTY AND BRAINS

So you are "beautiful but dumb," and you aren't going to succeed in business because you're a brilliant scholar.

Don't let anybody kid you. Pictures of history's fairest must famous women reveal that eight of them had plenty of what it takes. An ambitious professor read the biographies of 1030 British geniuses, and he discovered that in more than half of them special mention was made of the subjects physical beauty.

Intelligent men have a definite tendency to marry beautiful women. The result beautiful and intelligent offspring. A mirror may not lie, but it doesn't reflect I. Q.

Many a college student without a "C" average has consoled himself with the old one that the "A" students won't succeed in the big wide world because they're intelligent, and therefore not practical. What's the indication that a "below C" student is practical? He certainly isn't making the most of the things for which he or somebody else is paying.

A study of 1800 graduates from the University who had been out of life fifteen to forty-five years show 4th that of the ninety-seven who were "the most worthy, successful or eminent," eighty-seven had had some of the highest scholastic averages ever attained at that institution.

A fool can always find something with which to console himself, whether it be beauty or brains. A wise man does not need to do so.

—The Industrial College.

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATTRDAY, June 19-20—
Frances Langford
in
"PALM SPRINGS"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JUNE 21-22—
Jean Hersholt in "Sins of Man"
—TUESDAY, JUNE 23—
James Stewart and Wendy Barrie
in
"SPEED"
—WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24—
Richard Dix in 'Special Investigator'
—THURSDAY, JUNE 25—
Victor McLaglen in 'The Informer'

Dr. Homer Price Rainey To Address Institute

Dr. Homer Price Rainey, director of the American Youth commission of the American council on education, will speak here during the week beginning June 25 when a Parent-Teacher Institute will be held under the auspices of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs with the cooperation of the Florida State College for Women.

Dr. Rainey, a prominent American educator is a Democrat, Mason, Baptist, and member of the fraternities of Phi Delta Kappa and Pi Kappa Delta. He is also an author with "Public School Finance" "A Study of School Finance in Oregon," and Elementary School Pupils in Oregon," among his best known works.

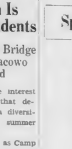
This is the way to a cool summer with fresh shadow stripe dimity. Snowy white for starchy collar and cuffs with splashes of color in prints and buttons. More than exciting, since it's a Nelly Don at a typical value-giving price.

JUST TRY ONE ONI

The Vogue

Play Program Is Offered Students

Trips to Natural Bridge And Camp Flastacowo Are Included



In order to stimulate interest in physical education that department has planned a diversified play program for summer school students.

Outings to such places as Camp Flastacowo, the college camp about five miles from Tallahassee, fishing trips and surf bathing at Dog Island, near Carrabelle, Forest Wakulla Springs and visits to historic Newport, St. Marks and Natural Bridge, as well as moonlight hikes and picnic suppers and short hikes to places of historical interest are being planned under the supervision of Miss Catherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department.

Through answers to a questionnaire and through a campus survey conducted by leaders of the summer school, Miss Montgomery has been able to make up this program in the individual needs or wants insofar as possible. Summer school students placed the Camp Flastacowo outing as the one most in demand, followed by boat, canoe and swimming canoeing or picnicking at Lake Bradford or, if they prefer, a real overnight in the camp houses—two-story buildings with running water, electric lights and other conveniences.

The questionnaire also indicated a stunning as to their popular hobby for the summer students are Tennis, golf, swimming, dancing follows in successive order. Other recreational possibilities available here for the summer students are: foil fencing, archery, baseball, basketball, life saving, leading to life guarding, quoits, shuffleboard, table tennis, badminton, folk dancing, tap shoes, croquet, contract bridge, canoeing, archery, hand, tennis, current events, nature study, amateur astronomy, reading and horse back riding.

Sport Squints

BY MARY BOATWRIGHT

Never let your roommate hear you say, "I have nothing to do" or "I'm tired of working." There's no excuse for it. What with the croquet and horse shoes set on the lawn in front of the dining hall and the ping pong tables in the lower floor of Byran, not to mention the numerous other facilities for extra-curricular sports"

Plunge period from 5:30 to 6:30 has proved to be a time when one may meet many charming people —of course not of the opposite sex. You won't find a heart throb but you will have a good time. Free instructions are given during plunge period but if you crave private instructions as well as attention. Bertie will be glad to render you this opportunity for a small service charge.

One young lady was extremely distressed last Friday night over her hot tog getting cold—after only a sudden plunge into the lake at camp. Now if you want your tog to stay in place, we suggest that you wear a cap and refrain from sitting too near the edge of the dock.

If you are feeling the effect of strenuous climbing of stairs (?) why not join the croquet or some minor sports and you'll limber up, old dear.

Some students are taking advantage of the low rates offered in golf at the country club. These rates are offered only to summer school students. And we hear that the balls are very easy to find.

Tennis seems to attract both old and young, professors and students. A certain professor may be seen almost any afternoon playing a set or two in a costume well worth noting. Come out and enjoy a set of tennis and at the same time learn a few "fits" and "aints" about the proper tennis garb.

The courts are just behind the gym. All you need is a partner, a racket, balls and tennis shoes. Your dress may be as original as you see fit.

Series of Play Nights Will Be Put on Weekly In College Gymnasium

"Playnights," held in the gymnasium each Friday night, will be characterized during the summer by dancing, singing, and playing games.

Last Friday night an all-Florida play night was held for which the gymnasium was decorated with palms bamboo, and posters bearing the name "Florida." The first part of the evening was devoted to community singing and presenting skits which showed Florida's attractions. Afterwards some entertainment was given in social dancing while others went on "tours" to Bok Tower, the SS camp, and the fisheries, waterways, and market gardens of Florida.

This Friday night the first part of the hour will be devoted to singing and musical games. Everyone will be free to dance, swim, or play games the second hour.

On July 3 a patriotic play night will be held which will show the evolution of play.

Lessons Begin Monday For All Those Wishing Any Life Saving Badge

Beginning on Monday, the college life saving corps will sponsor a series of lessons open to any students wishing to earn the junior or senior life saving badges.

According to Marian Wyche, instructor for the courses, lessons will be given to women at 10:30 a. m. on Monday and Wednesday; at 3:30 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday, and at 9 a. m. on Saturday. Instructors for men will be held also at 4:30 p. m. All classes are to be held in the college swimming pool, with eighteen lessons required for the ... badge and twelve for the junior.

S17 Enrolled In Florida State's Summer Session

(Continued from page one)

shall know truly that the truth shall make thee free."

Miss Kate Montgomery of the physical education department told of the various interests, hobbies and other activities available during the summer to all who wish to participate.

Dean Ella Scobie Opperman of the music department made an announcement of the musical program for the formation of the orchestra, chorus, and glee club respectively.

A reception given by the dean of students, Gilbert Yeuman, was held Thursday evening in the parlors and dining hall, and was attended by a large number of faculty members and students.

At the first of a series of Sunday night services in the chapel, Dr. Daniels of the Methodist church gave a short address.

'A' Rating Given For Journalism

(Continued from page one)

contest conducted by the American Mercury.

Distinction has come, too, to the college newspaper because several journalism students have edited or upon which they have served. The college paper for three years received the rating of "All American," the highest honor granted by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Week-end Offers Varied Program

The summer school recreation association has planned five outings for this week-end. Anyone wishing to participate may do so by signing in the dining room arcade.

The outings planned for this week-end are as follows: a trip to Camp Flastacowo on Friday, coasting twenty-five cents and leaving at five thirty to return at seven-thirty; a second trip to camp on Friday, costing ten cents and leaving at seven-thirty to return at ten o'clock; a free trip to camp on Saturday, beginning at one-thirty and returning at five o'clock; a trip to Natural Brirdge on Saturday, costing twenty cents, and leaving at two o'clock to return at six o'clock; and a trip to Wakulla Springs, costing one dollar and leaving at one-thirty to return at six-thirty. The trip to Wakulla Springs includes transportation a boat trip, and a swim. The trucks will be back of Bryan and will leave promptly at the time stated. Anyone who furnishes a car may make the trip free of charge, with gas and oil furnished. The SSRA plans for the summer will include all extra curricular activities such as fencing, archery, tennis, baseball, basketball, swimming, life saving, shuffleboard, table tennis, badminton, tap and folk dancing, horseshoes, croquet, bridge, carrom, checks, golf, handicrafts, singing, nature studies, and other such activities.

Mrs. Joan Cooperman, newly elected president, will lead the association during her tenure with the assistance of Elizabeth Robertson as vice president and Dorothy Henderson as secretary-treasurer. The publicity committee will be composed of Burlah Potter, Alice Revells, Evelyn Bowden, Miss Bernice Mackery, and Flavial Townsend.

New Members Are Added to Faculty

Continued from page one)

in physical education, who has been teaching in Sanford two following her graduation from ... years following her graduation from F. S. C. W., and Miss Sara Martin, graduate of the class of '36 who is a member of the summer library staff.

Many former F. S. C. W. faculty members have returned for the summer like Mae Knight Dorsey, who is a graduate of F. S. C. W. in an instructor in education.

Dr. Elinor Nims Bemis of Jacksonville, is the assistant professor of sociology.

Dr. Julia Heinlein is assistant professor of child psychology and nursery school methods.

Isaac Godfrey Sims is critic teacher and instructor in education.

Returning from leave of absence are: Miss Katherine Monigomery, head of the physical education department, who has been working towards her doctor's degree at New York University; Miss Leola Venable, assistant professor of home economics, who has been doing graduate work at the University of Chicago.

In the college demonstration school are: Miss Evelyn Bulkley, who is a graduate of F. S. C. W. She has been teaching in Panama. Clarence P. Priest, who has been teaching in Tallahassee, and is a graduate of the University of Florida. Miss Mabel Simmons from Arcadia, who received her A. B. from F. S. C. W. in 1929; Miss Mary Lois Smith, who received her A. B. from F. S. C. W. in 1930. She has been teaching at Andrew college, Cuthbert, Ga.

SPORTS CALENDAR
June 19—June 26

Friday
Supper outing to camp—4:30-7:30. Cost 10c
Evening outing to camp—7:30 to 10 ol. Cost 10c
Florida Muscle Playnight—Gym 8:00

Saturday
Lifesaving Practice—women—9:00
Men's plunge, 10:00.
Tennis, golf, 2:00 p. m.
Afternoon trip to camp, 1:30-5:30
Outing to Natural Bridge. Party leaves front of Bryan 2:00. Cost 20c
Outing to Wakulla Springs Party leaves front of Bryan at 1:30. Cost $1.00
Outing to St. Marks. Party leaves front of Bryan 2:00. Cost 10c

Monday
Life saving practice—10:00. 3:30 4:30
Handicraft group P Ed office 3:30
Contract bridge P Ed office 3:30
Badminton. Tennis 4:30.
SSRA committee meets P Ed. office. 7:30
Song in front of gym. 7:30
Tuesday
Dramatics—front of gym. 7:30
Reading circle—P Ed office. 4:30
Life saving practice 10:00. 3:30. 4:30

Thursday
Golf, front of P. E. office. 4:30
Archery, front of equipment house. 5:30
Basketball—big gym. 5:30
Foil fencing. Dailey P Ed office. 4:30
Plunge period for men.4:30.
Plunge period for women. 5:30
Equipment house open. 5:30

Informal Chorus Meets On Gymnasium Steps

Each Tuesday evening at 7:30 a group of students interested in singing old or new songs meet on the steps of the gymnasium. Camp songs, popular songs, and old fashioned melodies are sung.

Beth Duane had charge of the last group and Kathleen Cunningheims will lead the next meeting. All students are cordially invited to attend.

Pro and Con

(Continued from page two)

erent and will do more arbitrating and less agitating.

The object of this is not to defend any organization as such the "Veterans of Future Wars," but merely to point out the fact that the founders of this organization expected no monetary gain. And we're using this medium to let the nation know that "we ain't mad with anyone, and we don't want to fight.

I should be interested to hear other student opinions on this subject, expressed through this column.

—Jesse W. Parker.

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept. Saturday and Sunday Luncheon

CHOICE OF—
Roast Young Turkey and Dressing
With Egg Gravy
Western Tenderloin Steak
½ Spring Chicken, Country Style
Cold Sliced Ham with Potato Salad

25c

Choice of Two Vegetables:
Snow Flake Potatoes Frozen Fruit Salad All Bran Muffins
Turnip Greens Creamed Carrots Buttered Buns
DESSERT—HOME MADE PIE OR ICE CREAM

ALL KIND OF SHORT ORDERS COOKED AND PREPARED ANY HOUR DURING THE DAY — FANCY WESTERN STEAKS, CHOPS, COLD PLATES.

Extra Large Western T-Bone Steak—Potatoes and Drink
35c
COLD PLATE
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Fruit Salad, Peach Slice Pineapple, Potato Chips, Lettuce and Pickles, Tomato
25c
Baked Ham and Tomato Sandwich, Double Rich Malted Milk
25c
FROZEN CHOCOLATE FUDGE SUNDAE 15c
FRESH PEACH SUNDAE WITH WHIPPED CREAM 15c
GIANT DOUBLE DIP ICE CREAM SODA. 10c
Malted Ice Cream 10c
FRESH PINEAPPLE FRUIT SUNDAE 15c
LARGE FRESH ORANGEADE or LIMEADE with Sherbet 5c

Half Fried Spring Chicken—
Frozen Fruit Salad, French Limeade, Cantaloupe, Ice Cream
35c
Corned Beef and Lettuce Sandwich, and Apple Pie a la Mode
20c
FRESH FRUIT BANANA SPLIT
15c

Phone 800 — BENNETT'S COLLEGE INN PHARMACY — Quick Delivery

WELCOME!
Students and Faculty
THE SURPRISE STORE
offers all students and faculty a professional 10% discount on all purchases in our store. The leading store in Tallahassee, with a full line of Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Dry Goods, Accessories and Shoes.
THE SURPRISE STORE
CITY BLDG.
Cor. Jefferson & Adams

Blood Chosen By Governor Sholtz

Florida Beauty Attends Annual Festival

Katherine Blood, voted the most attractive girl in the class of 1936, represents Florida this week at the annual Rhododendron Festival, held in Asheville, North Carolina. Katherine was chosen by Governor Sholtz for this honor.

The fete began on Tuesday of this week, and will continue through tomorrow. Representatives from the various states will be extensively entertained by the American association of university women, the Rhodendron club, and many other organizations during their visit to the festival.

Prior to her departure, Miss Blood was further honored last week by the city and local alumnae of the college. At a meeting held at the Cyprus gardens, Dr. Edward Conradi, the principal speaker, sketched her record of leadership in her four years of college life.

Katherine is the retiring president of the college student government association, and the permanent president of the class of 1936. She was also elected May queen in the annual festival last month. Throughout her college career, she has been active in extra-curricular departments. Miss Blood is a member of Phi Beta Kappi, national scholastic honorary, and Mortar Board, senior organization.

Several hundred persons were present at the Cyprus gardens ceremony, including both boys and visiting alumnae. Guests were entertained with a musical program during the afternoon.

Reporter Offers Hints To Wise In Dinning Hall Dissertation

By ETHEL GRASSFIELD

How to get what you want at a table of inconsiderate people, most of whom are deaf, is a problem much still confronting students. As yet, an adequate solution has not been found. There are, however, several methods in vogue from which one can choose.

Many are of the opinion that patience will be rewarded. This applies to the question of how to get the salt before the meal is over. These persons (in the minority) sit quietly and fly composed tones say to their neighbor, "Please, pass the salt." If one repeats this it one minute intervals, it is quite possible that the salt will arrive before the end of the meal.

Another group of girls whose methods sometimes bring results, belong to the impatience school. A strong dose of this is necessary, for the chief method is to shout loudly "Will you please pass the salt." As time elapses and no salt is forthcoming, these persons vocalize to each other in regard the matter to themselves. Then, again, they shout. If the person with the coveted article is deaf, or is of a timid nature, she may pass the salt, and if she isn't—they keep on shouting.

The last and most energetic group is the group of ayn thom with a strong arm and a straight-shooting aim. Their method is unceremoniously to reach across the table and grab. They will admit that sometimes then on there are several different ways to remove the foreign object and to keep it removed.

The first is to eat your salad before your neighbor arrives.

Demonstration School Opens Summer Session

With an enrollment of 196 students, the annual eight weeks' summer session of the demonstration school of the Florida State College for Women opened on Monday of last week.

Special features of the present session, aside from the regular course, which includes work from kindergarten through high school, are typing manual arts, and home economics. Special emphasis is being given to character training in the kindergarten.

The college pool is again open to demonstration school students as it was last year, but the fee is ten cents per swim, whereas last year the fee was two dollars for the use of the pool for the whole session.

Twelve instructors compose the faculty, all but four of whom taught in the preceding fall session. The four newcomers are: Clara Frost, from Bessie Junior High school, mathematics; Miss Mabel L. Simmons, from the Cushman's school in Miami, kindergarten; and Miss Martha Lois Smith, from Andrew Jackson college, English. The rest of the faculty are Dr. R. Boyd Parvin, director; Kenneth P. Williams, science; Miss Florence Tryon, social science; Orval B. Harrison, manual arts; Miss Kathleen Pletcher, English and Librarian; Miss Mary E. Winters, fourth and fifth grades; Miss Ruth DeGraff, second and third grades; an dMrs. Dora S. Skipper, seventh and eighth grades.

School begins at eight o'clock in the morning and closes at twelve noon. There will be no afternoon session.

Dr. Abbey to Speak Wednesday, June 24

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department, will speak on "Modern Trends in Diplomacy" on Wednesday, June 24, at 8 o'clock.

All students are invited to hear Dr. Abbey, who is to speak in the Augusta Conradi theater.

which means before the blessing is sung. You will have to endure stares and perhaps reprimands from the ushers and your more conscientious classmates, but it usually is worth it.

The next method is to ask your neighbor (quite sarcastically) if she will please place her elbow on the table. By all means, accent the "please." After she complies with your wishes, the thing to do is to eat your salad immediately so you can stand it before she has another chance to replace her elbow. Another way is to put your salad on the right hand side. The only drawback to this is that you'll probably put your own elbow in your salad.

Still another way is to terrify your neighbor so that she wouldn't dare put her elbow in your salad. This method is only for the person with a flair for hasty remarks. The unpleasantness will undoubtedly give you both indigestion, but the salad will remain intact.

A third problem is that of how to get a second glass of water. The methods employed for this are almost the same as those of salt-getting except that you must get the glass full of water before you can start negotiating for the return. If you are not successful in this, drink some one else's water.

Some few people are agreed that the best way to cope with these problems is to "bat" all objectionable persons over the head. This insures a peaceful and enjoyable meal, but should be used only when all other methods fail.

Dr. Conradi Will Speak

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, will speak at vesper services on Sunday evening.

The services are to be held at 7:15 in the Augusta Conradi theater. Music will consist of a cello solo, played by Mr Owen Sellers.

Brother Bill Gets A Letter

Overworked Freshman Unburdens Troubles

Dear Brother Bill,

Please forgive me for waiting so long before answering your letter. You see, I just haven't had time to get anything done. First there was our Delta Packs Kard banquet, and as I was chairman of the eats committee, I had to help see to it that we gave the members a square deal, or rather, a square meal.

Then, last night we had our I. Q. Testers' banquet, and, being on the finance committee, I was so swamped with figures that my I. Q. must have suffered considerably.

But now I have a few minutes, so I will write. However, I can't promise a letter of any great length, as I must go to town for a new frock because I simply haven't a thing to wear, to the Staff Club banquet, except that blue lace, and I just wore that to the Classical Club luncheon two weeks ago.

A very interesting lecturer spoke here the other day, who stressed the need of more organization in our activities, so that students would get an opportunity to really learn how to work on committees. He was a grand speaker, tall, dark, and blue eyed. When I met him 'I was on the reception committee', at the reception afterward, I really felt rather ashamed of the way we have neglected such things. Not that we aren't a progressive college, but we just have sort of overlooked the great need for more organizations.

He (the lecturer) had the nicest smile and the broadest shoulders, and he said we needed organizations to bring students together so that instead of spending all our time studying, we would relax part of the time. Now, don't you think he was right? Take our school, for instance. I think we ought to have a Blunders-In-Lane Club, because just think what we could accomplish by getting together all the blunders-in-line for there really are lots of them here.

Then we could have a club for Saving Places, which would do a lot toward student relaxation. You would understand that better if you could see the strain which the students are under each day trying to save places for others. Then too, this club could have a

Judiciary Regulations Given to Student Body

On Wednesday evening of last week at a general meeting called to elect house chairmen copies of the summer school regulations were distributed. All situations not covered by the brief copies of regulations must be settled by the social directors of the various halls, who will be guided by the regular college handbook published during the winter session.

Graduates are to be guided by their own judgment as long as they conduct themselves at all times in such a way as to reflect no discredit on themselves or the college. However, they are asked to visit up to their former halls if they wish to return after baby talk, they are also requested to indicate that fact to the social director before leaving

Special Occasion Committee, and that organized place-saving could be made effective for Artist Series and other programs.

You see there are lots of groups on campus like these which ought to be organized. It's surprising when you realize how many there are, and remember that we hadn't thought of it before the blue-eyed man mentioned it—

The dash means an interruption. It seems that I can't get a thing done. The chairman of our place-cards committee for the sophomore class banquet just called and told me we are to meet tonight to make plans for the construction of the place cards. So I will have to rush off. I will write more later.

Love,

Betty

P. S.: Be sure to let me know if you are coming up for the Marble Shooters' banquet, as our publicity committee must know who is planning to attend

WELCOME
F. S. C. W.
Summer Students!

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT
GELBERG'S
New Store College Ave.

June Dress Sale
Special Friday and Saturday

One selected group taken from our regular stock of better dresses.

Values to $10.95—Only
$5.00

You will surely want two or more of these lovely dresses, especially at this price!

Give Father a Gift from Turner's
"YOUR STORE"
SOMETHING PRACTICAL IS ALWAYS APPRECIATED!

BONUS SALE
NOW ON!
PATENT LEATHER SANDALS
Values to $1.95.
99c
WASH DRESSES
Cool, Printed Sheers.
$1.49 Value.
84c
LIPPMAN'S
HUB STORE
101 E. Jefferson St.

Welcome Institute Delegates

The Florida Flambeau

Hear Dr. Rainey's Addresses

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JUNE 26, 1936 Number 2

Many Graduates From This Year Find Positions

Members of Class of '36 Are Being Placed By Personnel Office

Many of the members of the class of 1935-36 of the Florida State College for Women have secured positions since graduating their diplomas this May, according to Miss Parker of the personnel office in the Administration building.

A number of the appointments from out of the state show that the Florida State college has a high rating not only in this but in other states.

A list of these graduates and their positions are as follows:

Elizabeth Allen, 1935—Bell Telephone Co., accounting department, Jacksonville.

Mary Anderson, 1936—Art supervisor, Cross Creek, Fla.

Theresa Arant, 1931—Science teacher, Park, Fla.

Margaret Bailey, 1935—3rd grade, Cherry Lake Farms, Madison, Fla. Kathleen Barnes, 1936—Cadet, Jacksonville, Fla.

Mary E. Bennett, 1936—Social Worker, Jacksonville, Fla.

Susie B. Bevis, 1936—6th grade, Grove del Leon, Fla.

Annis Bowen, 1936—Home, St. Chipley.

Yvette Breaux, 1936—Stenographer, Legislative Dept., Tallahassee, N. C. Martha M. Briese, 1935—Senior math and science, Ocala Fla. Nell Brinkley, 1934—Bell Telephone Co., accounting department, Jacksonville, Fla. Evelyn Bulkley, 1933—Commerce and math, St. Cloud, Fla.

Audrey Cayson. 1936—6th grade, Blountstown, Fla. Hazel Carlton, 1936—Home, Cross Creek, Fla. Mamie Madison, Fla. Aurilla J. Chavers, 1936—Secretary, insurance and biol., Zephyrhills, Fla. Emily L. Edenfield 1936—Eng. and Span., Bainbridge, Ga. Ruth Fain, 1936—Eng. and sec. science, Cherry Lake Farms, Madison, Fla. Mrs. Jewell Fenderson, Fla. Mrs. Ethel Fenn, 1935—Sealey Memorial school, Tallahassee, Fla. Mary Fleming, 1936—Student dietitian, Harper hospital, Detroit, Mich.

Carolyn Garvin, 1936—Asst. in E. Fla. high school, Tallahassee, Fla. Mrs. Lucile Gaskins, 1935—Sealey Memorial, Tallahassee, Fla. Jean Gilbert, 1936—Secretary, English, Live Oak, Fla. Elyse Goldsmith, 1936—Math. and Social Science, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

Mrs. Lois Goodwin, 1936—White's real estate office, Tallahassee, Florida.

Frances V. Green, 1935—6th grade, Haines City, Fla. Florence B. Greene, 1936—Teacher and supervisor, Industrial School for Girls, Ocala Griffith, 1936—Eng. and science and biol., Cross City, Fla. E. Hallock, 1936—5th grade, Lake City, Fla. Helen Hammond, 1936—WPA puppets, Greenville, Fla. Frances V. Hare, 1936 Li. 1—3rd, 4th and 5th grades, Concord, Fla Lucy Houser, 1936—1st grade, Center Hill, Fla. Melba Hutchison 1936—Student dietitian, Univ. of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. Ruth Davis Isted, 1935—Sec. to dir. of pharmacy, Univ of Fla.

Continued on page six

Commencement Speakers Announced by Conradi

Speakers for the summer school graduation exercises and graduation exercises were announced by President Conradi.

Reverend J. H. Daniel, of the Methodist church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning, July 26, at eleven o'clock.

Glenn Terrell, of the Florida supreme court, will give the commencement address on Monday morning, July 31, at nine o'clock.

Library Announces Browsing Room Open

The Library has announced that the browsing room, which is up stairs, will be open to the students at the following hours:

Friday from 4 to 6—7:30 to 10.

Saturday, 10 to 12—3 to 5. Sunday, 2:30 to 5.

Honorary Group Plans Program

Kappa Delta Pi to Be Active This Term

Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary society, has planned an active program to fire summer students, according to Maud McClurie, president of the organization. Regular meetings are to be held every Monday night, social to alternate with business meetings.

Already the organization has held several meetings. At the first Dr. H. T. Wallace of High Scholarship in Elementary School Teachers."

He stressed the need of elementary teachers having a broad background and the need of responsible for teaching the whole child.

Next Monday at 5.00 p. m. Kappa Delta Pi will entertain Dr. Rainey at tea in Broward lounge. After which he will give a short talk.

During the course of the summer the organization plans to have one meeting devoted to a round table discussion of a request for new members to be chosen during this session.

Vocations Group Makes Study of Continuation School at Annual Meet

The general theme of the vocational conference meeting held last week was the "continuation school, instruction in which various devices, needs, and problems with their accompanying remedies were discussed and considered. The conference closed last night with a banquet and entertainment.

Employment in stenography, typing accounting, clerical work, and salesmanship over a ten-year period was the object of much study. The findings of the group for the last two fields which heretofore had been given less stress in vocational meetings, will be published. The first three named have been given much attention. With this in mind the vocational schools are breaking down former prejudices and are now giving the young people so thoroughly for real selling and clerical positions, that they, in turn may raise the standard to the same level as other lines of work.

A close study was made of the Florida continuation law, which a vocational student is guided in his development, special emphasis being placed on powers of judgment, the student's morale, and other excess assets.

The conference is an annual meet held this year under the direction of M. C. V. Holley, state supervisor of trades, and Mrs. Jessie Dickinson, supervisor of women's work at the Florida State Vocational school in Tampa.

Abbey Talks To Summer Students Wednesday Night

Traces Development Of National Diplomacy Through the Years

In her address on, "Modern Trends in Diplomacy," on Wednesday night, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey traced the development of diplomatic relations from medieval times down to the present. Approximately 300 persons assembled in the Augusta Conrad theatre to hear the lecture.

Prior to 1300 according to Dr. Abbey, the chief problem between countries was the question of peace or war. During the next century cumulative relations gradually assumed importance. When the great middle classes arose, they, with their wealth, creating strong national states in the 14th and 15th century, they demanded in return profitable trade relations with other countries. After the industrial revolution in the nineteenth century, diplomats were very much concerned with commercial relations. At first this question was solved by nations colonizing new lands, of which there were plenty at the beginning of the nineteenth century. In order to create markets for their goods.

After the defeat of Napoleon the Quadruple Alliance was developed, consisting of Russia, the seven states, and members were to send delegates to meetings every two years, but this plan was unsuccessful. Dr. Abbey said, briefly touching on Metternich, drew his support when the concert of Europe meddling in its internal affairs.

At the end o the nineteenth century there was a great demand for colonial expansion, and then it was that Germany considered that it was necessary to fight for markets which had already been snatched by other nations.

The conflicts for commercial interest culminated in the World War which brought about also the Treaty of Versailles. According to Dr. Abbey, this treaty has been the greatest obstacle to peace in Europe since its signing, since it virtually humiliated the victors and put the defeated nations in a position that they could not compete with the victors. Dr. Abbey mentioned the present-day policy of Italy and Germany to the Treaty of Versailles.

She further remarked that the League of Nations was designed to be a body to settle disputes and the difficulties of the treaty, but unfortunately it has been used as a means to enforce the treaty.

At the conclusion of the lecture the speaker took time to answer any questions and the audience remained for a half hour open forum.

Elizabeth G. Andrews Conducts Convocation

Convocation this week was conducted by Dr. Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel who read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews and spoke on the text "If there be no faith."

"There is no language which can express the God in which we live," she stated.

The organ solo number "Silent Night" with chimes theme, arranged by Gruber-Ouller, was played by Miss Margaret Willbey Dow.

President Conradi announced that at next week's Convocation Dr. Homer Rainey, chairman of the Youth's Commission, would speak.

College Calendar

June 24—July 4
Sunday, June 24

11:10 a.m.—Church service
7:15 p.m.—Vespers. Dr. Pinner, speaker.
Monday, June 29
5:00 p.m.—Kappa Delta Pi tea, honoring Dr. Rainey in Broward lounge.
Tuesday, June 30
12:00 a.m.—Convocation. Dr. Rainey, director of the American youth commission, will speak
12:45 p.m.—Lunch
Friday, July 3
8:00 p.m.—Play Nite in Physical Education building

Home Economics Conference Held

Florida Teachers Attend Annual State Meet

Approximately 50 home economics teachers from various parts of Florida attended the annual state conference of home economics education which was held here this week.

Sponsoring this conference were Miss Boletha Propst, state supervisor of home economics education and Dr. Margaret R. Sanders, dean of the school of home economics of Florida State College.

The theme for the entire conference was "The Provision for Housing the Family" considering the social and economic aspects which influence various factors of family life.

The conference opened Sunday evening in the Gilchrist building at which time the members were welcomed by Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college and Hon. W. S. Cavalcho, representing her husband, W. S. Cawthon, state superintendent of public instruction and executive secretary of the state board for vocational education, who was unable to be present. As he was in Jacksonville to attend the funeral of the late Governor Sholtz.

Dean Sanders presided at the opening meeting Monday morning at which time she briefly outlined the general aims of the conference. Miss Lucy Venable assistant professor of home economics at Florida State College, spoke on national and local housing and present needs, in collaboration with Miss Flora Gibson, state home demonstration agent and Dr. Ruth Conner, associate professor of home economics at Florida State College

In the afternoon session Miss Henrietta Slyver, associate professor of home economics at Florida State College spoke on modern architecture as an expression of modern life. Following this, Miss Propsn led a discussion on the standards and requirements for vocational program and homemaking program for adults with members of the conference group participating.

Tuesday "Standards for Housing" was the theme for the day with Dr. Conner presiding. Miss Slyver spoke on standards for beauty for American homes, emphasizing these standards of applying to the exterior. Miss Venable talked on the minimum standards for housing. Questions on housing problems were examined and discussed in the afternoon.

"Housing as it Conditions Family Living" was the topic on Wednesday, with Miss Frojen presiding. Miss Slyver spoke on the standards of beauty of the home with special emphasis on the interior. Miss Venable talked on the

(Continued on page six)

Youth Problems To Be Theme Of Rainey Lectures

Head Youth Commission To Address Woman's Institute

Dr H P Rainey, director of the American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education, will give a series of addresses at Florida State College for Women Monday through Friday next week.

Dr Rainey, recent past president of Bucknell University, was called from his post as a university president to direct the national enterprise of research into conditions of American youth. He brings to his task a broad experience as a school and college official, high professional and academic training, and a very keen and sympathetic insight into the needs of American youth.

Mrs. Hampton Fleming, chairman of club institutes, general federation of woman's clubs, Mrs. Thomas E. Roe, field secretary for the national congress of parents and teachers and Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, institute chairman.

Leaders in educational civic and other fields will also address the second annual Woman's Institute June 29 to July 3 at Florida State College. Sponsoring the institute are four of the largest women's groups in Florida including the Florida federation of women's clubs, the Florida congress of parents and teachers, the Florida League of Colleme alumnae association and state home demonstration council.

The citizenship will be the theme of this year's institute with Secretary of State R. A. Gray; Superintendent Lee Hutchison of Leon County, Mrs. M M. Ebert, of Lake Wales, of the state planning board, and Florida State College faculty members speaking on different phases of citizen's movement. Latest findings or policies in such fields as welfare, conservation, health and home making will be studied also.

Rainey will give an inviting message for thoughtful people who are concerned for the future

(Continued on page six)

Mrs. Edna Roe to Talk Before Teachers Here During Institute Week

Mrs. Edna B. Roe, field secretary of the national congress of parents and teachers, will give a series of lectures during the conference for the benefit of public school teachers taking courses in the summer extension as well as for all others interested.

The following schedule has been announced: Monday, June 29. 9:00 a.m., Room 401-E—Lecture before Education 466 for public parents and teachers invited. Tuesday, June 30, 11 a.m., Room 302-A—Lecture before Education 336 and visitors. Thursday, July 2, 10:00 a.m., Room 103—Lecture before Education 466 and visitors. June 30, 11:00 a.m., Room 103-L—Lecture before Education 393 and visitors. Wednesday, July 1, 4:00-6:00 p.m., Room 403-E—Lecture before Education 222a and visitors. Wednesday, July 1, 4:30-5.00 p.m., Room 401-E—Lecture before Education 222a and visitors. Thursday, July 2, 8:00 a. m., Room 201-E—Lecture before Education 101a-1 and visitors. Thursday, July 2, 9:00 a. m., Demonstration school—Lecture before practice teachers. Friday, July 3, 1:30 p. m., Room 201-E—Lecture before Education 202a and visitors. Friday, July 3, 2:30 p. m., Room 201-E—Lecture before Education 203a and visitors.

Youth Problems To Be Theme Of Rainey Lectures

Head Youth Commission To Address Woman's Institute

Dr H P Rainey, director of the American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education, will give a series of addresses at Florida State College for Women Monday through Friday next week.

Dr Rainey, recent past president of Bucknell University, was called from his post as a university president to direct the national enterprise of research into conditions of American youth. He brings to his task a broad experience as a school and college official, high professional and academic training, and a very keen and sympathetic insight into the needs of American youth.

Mrs. Hampton Fleming, chairman of club institutes, general federation of woman's clubs, Mrs. Thomas E. Roe, field secretary for the national congress of parents and teachers and Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, institute chairman.

Leaders in educational, civic and other fields will also address the second annual Woman's Institute June 29 to July 3 at Florida State College. Sponsoring the institute are four of the largest women's groups in Florida including the Florida federation of women's clubs, the Florida congress of parents and teachers, the Florida League of Colleme alumnae association and state home demonstration council.

The citizenship will be the theme of this year's institute with Secretary of State R. A. Gray; Superintendent Lee Hutchison of Leon County, Mrs. M M. Ebert, of Lake Wales, of the state planning board, and Florida State College faculty members speaking on different phases of citizen's movement. Latest findings or policies in such fields as welfare, conservation, health and home making will be studied also.

Rainey will give an inviting message for thoughtful people who are concerned for the future

(Continued on page six)

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students in the classes in journalism, Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1936.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879

STAFF

EDITOR Althea Smith
BUSINESS MANAGER. Betty Evans
Departments: Sports, Mary Boatwright; Copy, Henry Colee, Jesse Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lucy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

Youth Fights Its Own Battles!

Next week Florida State College will welcome as a guest Dr. H. P. Rainey, director of the American Youth commission of the American council on education. With Dr. Rainey, we also welcome news of the current "youth movement" which has occupied so much of contemporary thought.

Called from his post at Bucknell university to direct the national enterprise of research into conditions of American youth, Dr. Rainey has brought to his task a broad experience as a schoolman, high academic training, and a keenly sympathetic insight into the needs of youth.

This year student editorial columns all over the country have reflected a new trend in student thought. Youth has become conscious of the attentions showered upon it by educators, statesmen, thinkers over the land, and in this era of rapid crises in questions of finance, politics, economic disruption, and war-and-peace rumblings, and has taken a hand at expressing its own opinion on the momentous matters that are being discussed and settled in its name.

Every generation of young people has been accused by its elders of "going to the dogs" as fast as it can go. We've been hearing much about the pre-war and post-war youth. Such movements as the national peace emphasis drive, and the veterans of future wars wherein students have been known to walk out on their classes and to parade with bold banners, are not going so well with our elders.

We are compared often unfavorably to the young generations in European states who by donning various colored shirts are "doing their bit" toward an attempt to bring their countries out of the present economic and social crises.

So we, the collegians of 1936 are attempting to swim out from the swirling muddy waters that deluge and overwhelm us, climbing to the nearest lighthouse to survey the panorama of life below us. By getting such perspective perhaps we may be able to select from the whirlpool the [illegible] path. We see about us a chaotic world, sobered through seven years of financial depression suddenly growing intense, feverish, rather desperate as in days before the world war. We see nations furiously arming, and dark threats of another war. We see millions of unemployed, much of poverty and superstition and ignorance. We see socialists, communists, fascists and nazis, dictatorships, [illegible] even our own New Deal [illegible] being strongly condemned and as hotly endorsed in report.

But selecting is our task, and we have set about it vigorously, if not systematically [illegible] reach wisdom [illegible] Direction [illegible] Through [illegible] words at [illegible] through our [illegible] demonstrations [illegible] sort [illegible] spring up so quickly [illegible] we are [illegible] our way [illegible] common path. Our youth [illegible] the sensation [illegible] press are crude, [illegible] ruled mostly by [illegible] through which [illegible] a spark or two of thinking [illegible] shows itself.

But that spark is there!

◆

What Price Sex Education?

An everlasting [illegible] the current student [illegible] in sex education. The presence of "co-eds" on the campus for the summer session [illegible] this question at last [illegible]

We regret [illegible] the [illegible] of sex along [illegible] pragmatic [illegible] forthcoming [illegible] which we could respect. We [illegible] that [illegible] help future [illegible] reasonably [illegible]

Dr. Coyn Moore [illegible] Marriage and the Family [illegible] one of the [illegible] the College curriculum [illegible] semester. This course [illegible] to a [illegible] Moore's words [illegible] to [illegible]

M[illegible] groups [illegible] someone from the [illegible] Thus [illegible] with the students [illegible] leaders will not [illegible] ethical problems [illegible] heads or beyond [illegible] but can steer [illegible] questions [illegible] students want [illegible] for which [illegible] searching [illegible]

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

FUTURE VETERANS

A weapon that is often the most powerful of all—ridicule—has been forcibly used by a group of college students. And America is laughing in glee at the expense of New Dealers and the bonus boys, our war veterans. The national legislators and the "over there" lads have invested heavily in laughing stock; however, the vets have something to show for it in the way of monetary consideration while congressmen can at best only grin sheepishly and point hesitantly at a few uncertain votes that they may have garnered in the process.

Who today, has not heard of the "Veterans of Future Wars" organized at Princeton or the "Future Gold Star Mothers" with its first chapter at Vassar?

Princetonians seem to believe that life begins right now and they wish to make the most of it. They want their bonus right now not after they have been killed or [illegible] maimed in what they consider to be an inevitable future war. Right behind them are the [illegible] of Vassar demanding a trip to Europe to visit the future [illegible] of their unborn sons.

How can the opportunity exist for such marvelous [illegible] Truly [illegible] a sad state of a fair [illegible] when a single act can at once [illegible] mad spending spree [illegible] votes, and all future wars. —Cali[illegible]

◆

TO FIGHT OR NOT TO FIGHT

[illegible] peace [illegible] and [illegible] dozens of [illegible] up. [illegible] declaring they [illegible] United States [illegible] soil for any reason whatsoever, others are slightly modifying this statement.

Peace seems to be the main object of these organizations; there is no evidence and no visible means that anything else can be gained by the promoters.

But what about the people who are aligning themselves with the movement? Have they thought carefully and hence realized what they are declaring? Do they know what they are claiming they will do? Have they any idea what obstacles they may have to face in carrying out their declaration in the next war? Or are they being swept from their feet by a fad that is taking the country like the war spirit of 1917?

Obviously one way to keep the [illegible] out of war is not to have any men that could be drafted for fighting. But can that be done?

There is something about a soldier [illegible] the flag, maybe [illegible] his uniform, maybe it's the military music that gets into [illegible] and spreads like an epidemic. This was proved when [illegible] Wilson was elected on a platform of staying out of war [illegible] government [illegible] previous [illegible] for getting into it.

[illegible] stripped of its [illegible] splendor, its glamour [illegible] stripped when [illegible] next [illegible] conflict come [illegible] the place or [illegible] members wh[illegible] people who are [illegible] themselves with [illegible] there is [illegible] mass opposition [illegible] another [illegible] people are [illegible] to have [illegible] pass the time away [illegible] a tin h[illegible] hear a band [illegible] The Stars and S[illegible] we m[illegible] trenches [illegible] they will be [illegible]

—Campus Chat

I'll Soon Be Twenty-One

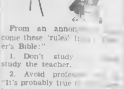
[illegible] Vote in Coming Election Expresses Her Opinions on Current Politics

By SARA RUTLEDGE

Buttons and badges and election cards are cluttering the main streets of the United States like [illegible] autumn along a country [illegible] fast rumbling with inter[illegible] flashes of applause issue [illegible] the windows and doors [illegible] the little lawn-plots up and down Main street. Red-fire campaign speeches, debates and party reports are coming over the national hook-up. It is election year and the curse of the season is upon us.

I recall the bewildering effect [illegible] emotional fireworks had on me when I was a smaller [illegible] than I am now. In my own confused mind I wondered how [illegible] grown-up made anything out of it at all. Now I don't wonder how they do it. I wonder if they do it. I wonder.

Excepting the cases of rare individuals who have a capacity for completely ignoring blah-blah propaganda and seeking the truth for themselves, the voting population [illegible] finds itself lost in a [illegible] which lands it in the lap of the party that is cleverest at self-advertisement and boldest in denouncement of the other party. True, the people always think they are [illegible] for the candidates who will [illegible] the offices—but too many times they discover later that they [illegible] been duped.



That a major party's national [illegible] may spend $6 000 000 [illegible] campaign in which have a headquarters staff of 700 paid employees with 14 different brands [illegible] departments may [illegible] button by the dozen [illegible] and spend more than $40 000 to broadcast a single speech of the [illegible] barely begins to tell the [illegible] No wonder voters find that they have been [illegible] hoodwinked after the last flush of election excitement is over. Propaganda [illegible] do not allow them to coolly consider and evaluate the candidates and party platforms at the time of the election.

I, I feel sorry for the average [illegible] of the United States though [illegible] are inadequate to express my grief at the plight of the college student who is on the verge of becoming eligible to vote or has already had her twenty-first birthday. It almost makes my [illegible] spill tears. Her ignorance is vast and in many instances it is not blissful. She has no idea as to what she is for. Does she be[illegible] in the Townsend Plan? She does not know. She pathetically asks: What does OARP stand for? She can't decide whether she is an [illegible]lationist, silverite, peace-at-any-price advocate, conservationist, or a strict constitutionalist. She knows some "nice" people that are enemies of the utility holding companies, but she also knows some "perfectly lovely" folks who believe in them—so what?

It seems strange that the world restlessness about us has not forcefully communicated itself to youth in college, for we are, just at that age, psychologists have proved when a person is more sensitive to such influences than at any other time. "But," you say, "it is perfectly natural." One must feel a personal identification with a problem before one will

(Continued on page three)

Collegiate Come-Backs

From an announ[illegible] come these 'rules' f[illegible] er's Bible:"

1. Don't study [illegible] study the teacher.

2. Avoid profes[illegible] "It's probably true [illegible] but not to a certain [illegible]

"An instructor is [illegible] maid of either sex [illegible] York professor, [illegible] valuable addition [illegible] daffynitions.

• • •

The Daily Card[illegible] sin dug these up. W[illegible] that they overlook [illegible] art of Apple-polish[illegible] F. S. C students m[illegible] pointers here.

• • •

What not to do, [illegible] wear, and when and [illegible] say what, says the [illegible] legian are sub[illegible] cussed at the [illegible] Purdue universi[illegible] words, what y[illegible] do it!

• • •

From the Junio[illegible] Los Angeles Co-[illegible] Man". Men are [illegible] marry. They drink [illegible] swear, but don't [illegible] [illegible] when at s[illegible] would it they w[illegible] are more logical th[illegible] more zoological. B[illegible] women sprang from [illegible] women sprang the [illegible]

Now we'd like to [illegible] Woman" from [illegible] masculine co-eds.

• • •

The editor of the [illegible] did some checkin[illegible] out that mos[illegible] punning, don't [illegible] more than four [illegible] one date, and don't [illegible] ing steady." So far [illegible] the rest of the an[illegible] der about. The boy[illegible] perfect girl didn't [illegible] looking if she ha[illegible] telligence, and pers[illegible]

• • •

In the Tech Torc[illegible] announce: "Graduat[illegible] Foreign Lands." We [illegible] wondering if it [illegible] tradition proceedin[illegible] back.

• • •

From Purdue w[illegible] helpful hints to th[illegible] the gentle art of kiss[illegible] We pass them on [illegible] to F. S. C. W[illegible] Leap Year tip.

1. Never try to ki[illegible] same time. Pet [illegible] apt to arise.

2. Don't try [illegible] too.

3. Shut your ey[illegible] that you don't lo[illegible] the mouth)

4. Keep a stiff uppe[illegible] is no place for weekl[illegible]

• • •

Another "ru[illegible]ed m[illegible] has come to grief at [illegible] organization, lament[illegible] eille. A Rice In[illegible] will not wear sh[illegible] here next fall, as he [illegible] ing, when the fanc[illegible] since early March. [illegible] won't wear anything [illegible] all since he won't be [illegible] come back next seme[illegible]

'Insubordination' [illegible] Dean Harry Welser [illegible] the faculty disciplina[illegible] tee's action.

"Individual liberty [illegible] the soph. "I ho[illegible] spreads."

• • •

One more week [illegible] one, and we Floridia[illegible] with you, buddy!

DELEGATES TO WOMAN'S INSTITUTE TO BE ENTERTAINED MONDAY EVENING

Delegates to the four-day woman's institute to meet here next week will be entertained on Monday evening by the latter at an informal garden party in the open theater.

The garden party is to begin immediately following the first session Monday night in the Administration Corridi little theater.

In the receiving line are to be Miss Olivia Dorman, dean of students; Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, and Miss Louise Conradi.

Honor guests for the affair will include Mrs. Hazel Armentrout, Richmond, Virginia, who is chairman of the club institute of the general federation of women's clubs; Mrs. Charles Roe, field secretary for the parent-teacher national congress; Mrs. C. F. Parker, president of the Tallahassee parent-teacher association; Mrs. Louise Rawls, president of the state home demonstration council; Mr. E. L. Gleason, president of the Florida State College for Women association; Mrs. J. G. Kellum, president of the state federation of women's clubs, and Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, chairman of the club institute of the state federation of woman's clubs.

Next Tuesday afternoon from 4 o'clock until 6 o'clock Dr. and Mrs. Conradi and president Edward Conradi will be hosts to guests at the woman's institute guests, at their home on College avenue.

On Wednesday morning from 9 until 6 Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum will entertain the delegates at a tea, to be given at their home in Idlewood estates.

Mrs. Kellum will be assisted as hostess by members of the local woman's club.

Florida's Wild Bird Life Subject For Informal Talk

Miss Enda Devinney spoke on, "Wild Bird Life of Florida," at an informal coffee held in Reynolds parlors last Monday night at 7.

Miss Devinney illustrated her talk with skins of the more familiar Florida birds.

Miss Julia Vandrige was in charge of the affair. Assisting her in serving were Marion Carson, Mrs. Genevieve Kenley, Margaret Roberts and others.

I'll Soon Be Twenty-One

(Continued from page two)

bend one's energies to completion, and after all—!" What do you think a college campus is? A cloistered place where one lives a world of economic, political and social problems? Then you are wrong right. The more I think about it, the surer I am that you are right I said you—but the others?

But whom shall we blame? It is not the fault of the student that he is not learning how to face life. While he is in college he is busy "getting an education" that he does not have time to read the letter dropped from the mailbox. If he should have time, he has never been motivated to do it. Shall we blame it, then, on those who pioneered in setting up college curricula? Is the system devised may have been adequate in training the youth of their time. Whom shall we blame? Those educational leaders who in the light of the present problems are blind to the urgent need for reconstruction of the college setup. Those who have not had the courage to separate themselves from the mold and work for changes that would enable the college to contribute to the formation worthily—its duty of preparing young people to solve their present as it now confronts them. Some few educators, it is true, have had a proper boldness of spirit, but for the most part they have been individual voices "crying in the wilderness."

An outstanding example of an attempt to prepare youth for the duties and responsibilities of present-day life occurred a few years ago at the University of Nebraska. The program of required courses for the freshman year included: Principles of Human Behavior, English Language, Modern American and English Literature, Problems of Modern Social Life, Modern History, Economics, and Modern Problems of State and City Governments. The purpose of the experiment as set up by its instigator was to develop socially-efficient American citizens.

The following is an excerpt of a letter from a member of the faculty of that institution which implies a summer of things. "The unwisdom in the selection and distribution of courses is manifest in demanding Sociology, Economics, and Political Science in the first year. These subjects do not offer the strict intellectual discipline which other subjects afford." The conservative faculty saw to it that almost before the experiment got started it ceased to exist.

It is amusing to contrast the apparent objectives of such a set-up as just described with those of the progressive schools, the colleges of liberal arts have stated their aims—to teach young people to be "good citizens," to develop "culture; to liberalize the mind." The provincial schools have each a specific vocational objective—the preparation needed for the practice of law, medicine, engineering, teaching, etc. None of them mentions good citizenship. Oh, no! The college "wants to make a student feel at home in the world; to develop the college-ible ache to hold an interesting conversation; requiring a given number of hours of work in each of four or five general fields, and a major field of study in than x hours to one."

As a consideration of the wonderful stimulation students are receiving in some of our finer colleges, I refer you to the directly from Dr. Joseph Wood Krutch:

"Recently I visited three small middle western colleges. Perhaps the institutions are not typical, and I do not offer them as a satisfactory basis for any generalization, but the record of my inquiries concerning what the students there were thinking were wholly negative. Neither students nor faculty members could find out what their fellows or their charges were thinking, and both expressed the mildly cynical conviction that the students were not thinking at all. Even if it was told, no very spirit abroad, no changed attitude toward a much changed world. Out of a student body of 1000 there may be eight socialists or communists. Here and there one can find a student who has developed a mild interest in economic affairs."

In the light of this one can almost agree with Shaw, Robinson, Johnson, William Allen White, Glen Frank and others for having doubted that education can ever aid in the advancement of civilization.

In order not to be too discouraged it is well to remind oneself that as a ray of light several rays of light, are piercing the dull grayness of our academic sky at last. Here and there a college professor dares to detach himself from our social orthodoxy sufficiently to stimulate social criticism; a student-written critic cisms which may entail rejection of even banal valuations of the present order. On a number of different occasions in recent years great intercollegiate conventions have dealt with problems of race relations, our economic sickness, and war itself with poised sentiousness. It seems that in spite of our present university set-up, some few teachers and students have realized that in the era just ahead there will be a call for a wide-awake and more intelligent and more democratic participation in the economic, political and social life of the nation. When more teachers catch the vision of trained, more intelligent and more democratic participation" and teach their views with a balanced college program, released intellects and free spirits could not do other than become increasingly sensitive to social injustices, inequalities, inefficiencies and arbitrary authority and procedure of the current economic and political control.

In setting up an effective program school authorities would have to forget barriers of departmentalization. They would have to establish a course in which the major problems of modern life would be discussed, and then ask what history, economics, sociology, etc., could contribute toward an understanding and solution of these problems. In such a course we would be training not only leaders; we would be training intelligent followers. We would be training voters to select the right agent for the right office. I am confident that even now in these United States we have some real statesmen—not politicians—who are capable of untangling many of the twisted threads in the pattern of government policies, but because the voters do not understand what the government is about, and because they are so gullible with respect to propaganda, they will let these men slip by and choose for their leaders those who are backed by the loudest boomerang.

Intelligent voters tomorrow necessitate intelligent college students today, for there is no doubt about it—they will run the community leaders after their school years. Ex-President Lowell, of Harvard, has said: "In the constructive work of life man rarely builds beyond the premises he has early sketched. He is fortunate if he builds solidly over a small part of it, and the completed

Personal Mention

Miss Caroline Apeland, of Chicago, is being extensively entertained during her visit this week with Miss Adrienne Taylor of the college faculty.

Violet Arrington will leave Friday for Trenton, where she will visit her parents.

Mrs. Viola S. Humphreys of Jacksonville was a special guest in Gilchrist hall for this week. Mrs. Humphreys attended with the home economics conference held here this week.

Miss Louise Conradi, Miss Florence Rose, and Miss Leila Tyson will spend the week-end in Pensacola.

Miss Marjorie Marston will leave Friday for Jacksonville to spend the 'week-end with her parents.

BRYAN AND REYNOLDS STUDENT GROUPS TO RECEIVE GUESTS AT SUNDAY TEA

Two student groups will be hostesses at the second of a series of informal student-faculty teas to be held in Bryan sun parlor and Reynolds hall parlors this Sunday at two o'clock.

Bryan hall students have invited a faculty group including Miss Adrienne Taylor, Miss Elisabeth Lynn, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Difenbaugh, Dr. Ruth Connor, Dr and Mrs. William H. Rogers, Dr and Mrs. C. P. Holmes, Miss Dorothy Breen, Miss Mildred Finneran, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Sandala, Miss Henrietta Silver, Miss Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P Becker.

In charge of the reception in Bryan hall parlors will be Miss Mary Ellen Tiller, and Geraldine Miles.

Guests invited to the reception in Reynolds hall will include Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Waskom, Drs. and Mrs. Herman Kurtz, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Seeley, Peter Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Lee, Miss Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mills.

Intelligent voters tomorrow necessitate intelligent college students today, for there is no doubt about it—they will run the community leaders after their school years. Ex-President Lowell, of Harvard, has said: "In the constructive work of life man rarely builds beyond the premises he has early sketched. He is fortunate if he builds solidly over a small part of it, and the completed work departs greatly from the first crude sketch: but if that is not bold in outline, the building is apt to be cramped and insignificant." Another leader, George A. Coe, says: "We of the older generation could give no better proof that some remnant of distinction abides in us than by stimulating youths everywhere to weigh for themselves the conduct of our daily affairs."

When Phoenix came to the tent of Achilles he is reported by Homer to have said:

"I, whom thy royal father sent as orderer of day by day,
When to Atridas from his court he left thee for this course.
Yet young, and whim in skill of arms thou didst not so abound
That hasted the habit of discourse that makes men so renowned.
In all which I was set by him t' instruct thee in the way
What thou might speed and prosper, and not stand in any when deeds were done;
Not all so dumb for want of words; idle, for skill to move."

Demonstration School Is Undergoing Repairs

The auditorium of the demonstration school was refloored with hardwood this week by college carpenters while preparations were made to cover the remainder of the floor with sliternaling red and mahogany Johns-Manaville asphalt tiles.

The tiles are being laid by the Albritton and Williams company of Quincy and will cot approximately $950. The floor is expected to be completed by July 2.

The cost of renovation in the school auditorium was estimated at $400

Some ides of the size of the union of South Africa 'can be had from the fact that it covers an area equal to the combined areas of California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Nevada.

Final Clearance SALE

Be Foot-Wise . . .

Choose from our selection of Whites, White and Blue, White and Brown and Pastels in your favorite summer leathers and fabrics. . . . Values to $6.50.

—NOW—

$1.94

QUALITY SHOE SHOP

East College Avenue

Dear Collegiates—
Don't forget your rendevous with a "SIZ-L-HOT" STEAK at the TALLAHASSEE CAFE
Come and Get It!
—"NICK"

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept. Saturday and Sunday Luncheon

CHOICE OF—
Old Fashion Chicken Pan Pie.
Fried Chicken, Country Style.
Breaded Veal Cutlet, Tomato Sauce.
Cold Baked Va. Ham, Apple Sauce.

25c

Choice of Two Vegetables:
Carrots and Peas — Potato Salad
Mashed Potatoes, String Beans
Lettuce and Tomatoes, Slaw and Asparagus

BREADS—Hot Grape-Nut Muffins and Hot Rolls
DESSERT—Whipped Cream Fresh Peaches, Whipped Cream

CLUB BREAKFAST
Choice of Fruit Juice, One Egg, Bacon or Sausage, Grits, Jam, Toast, Coffee.
20c

CLUB BREAKFAST
Chilled Cantaloupe, Two Eggs, Bacon, Grits, Jam, Toast, Coffee.
20c

Any Hour of Day!! Half Fried Chicken, Country Style, Mix Fruit Salad, Potato Chips, Drink, Fresh Peach Sundae—
45c

Fancy Cut Western Steak . . . Potatoes, Rolls and Drink—
35c

Cold Baked Ham, Potato Salad, Rolls and Iced Tea—
20c

Corned Beef Hash, Two Eggs, Potatoes, Tomatoes, Rolls and Coffee—
25c

FREE!
Large Mint Limeade
with any one sandwich as below:
—Chicken Salad
—Sugar Baked Ham
—Egg Salad
—Corned Beef
—Swiss Cheese
—Lunch Tongue
—Liver Wurst
—Bar-B-Q Pig
—Minced Ham
—Pimento, Olive
15c

FANCY SUNDAES
Fresh Peach Sundae 10c
Choc. Marshmallow Sundae 10c
Giant Double Dip Ice Cream Soda 15c
Dish Ice Cream, any flavor, Whip Cream and Cherry— 10c
Fresh Strawberry Fruit Nut Sundae 15c
Frozen Chocolate Fudge Sundae 15c

WE COOK AND PREPARE ALL KIND OF SHORT ORDERS ANY HOUR DURING DAY—We Specialize in Western Steaks.

Phone 800

BERNHARD'S COLLEGE INN PHARMACY

Quick Delivery

State Clubwomen Hold Conference

Woman's Institute Gets Under Way Monday

Florida clubwomen attending the second annual woman's institute June 29-July 3 at Florida State college will go "back to school" each afternoon when special classes will be arranged for the respective sponsoring organizations.

Morning and night sessions at the institute will be devoted primarily to lectures and discussions for all the participating organizations including the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Florida State College Alumnae association and the state home demonstration council.

Formal opening of the institute is Monday night, June 29, but the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs will begin a club institute Monday afternoon, June 29, at the same time the Florida congress of parents and teachers will launch a school of instruction. Mrs. Hampton Fleming, of Richmond, Va, chairman of club institutes in the general federation of women's clubs, will conduct the former and Mrs. Charles Roe, of Denver, Col., and Washington, D. C., will officiate at the P. T. A. school of instruction. A prize of $25 will be offered by the Florida federation of parents and teachers to the local P. T. A. having the largest percentage of members attending sessions of the institute.

Prominent among the afternoon programs will be an open meeting planned for Thursday afternoon, July 2, by the state home demonstration council when the other three sponsoring organizations will meet. They will hear of the recent triennial conference of associated country women of the world in a report to be given by Miss Sallie Hill, editor of the home department of the Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist publications, as well as an account of home demonstration work in Puerto Rico, to be given by Miss Mary Keown, of the state home demonstration staff who spent 18 months in Puerto Rico for that purpose. They also will witness the installation of new state home demonstration council officers and hear the reports of home demonstration work in Florida by the county council delegates. A simula ringside and tea by the Leon county home demonstration council will conclude the afternoon program

Other afternoon meetings, devoted to the subjects of food and nutrition and textiles and home improvement, will be given by the state home demonstration staff and will be open to the entire institute body.

Leading Figures at Woman's Institute

Pictured above are the speakers who will address the second annual woman's institute, to be held at Florida State college next week. Led by outstanding figures in educational, civic, economic and social fields, the four-day meet is to be sponsored by Florida's largest woman's organizations.

Welfare Work Through Keynole

Florida School Teacher Relates Experiences Gained Through Service As Federal Relief Assistant

By JOAN COOPERMAN

In the spring of 1933 I applied for a position as a teacher in the schools of my home town. I received little encouragement. In the next few days a rumor that a friend of mine would speak a good word for me in a Federal Emergency Relief Administration office reached my ears. I heard nothing more of it.

Thinking that I might as well find out, I reported to the FERA building and joined one of the many long lines. After what seemed an interminable time I reached a window and told the girl whose head appeared that I wanted to apply for the position of case aide. She asked me to fill out the regular form, and I found myself giving away all the family secrets and somewhat resenting it. When I handed her the completed form she eyed me curiously and said that I didn't need relief. I readily agreed with her. Once again I repeated my purpose, but this time used the name of my friend. It worked like magic. I was immediately escorted into the office of the social director where I, benefiting from my first mistake, prefaced my remarks with the magic name. Once again I was asked to fill out a form which differed markedly from the one I had just finished. I was a little disturbed to find that I had to give two references for character. I had lived in the community for ten years but not a name could I bring to my mind. Interval it occurred to me that perhaps the magic name would again work. Coupled with it I gave the name of a man who, I afterwards recollected, had never wholly approved of me! I was advised that I would hear in a few days and with that I left.

The next day a letter arrived telling me to report for work the following Monday morning. I was three-and-half hours late anticipating a busy day. Instead, I found that I was left entirely to my own devices, and my questions were, for the most part, unanswered.

During the next week I was taken along with a few veteran workers. A veteran, I learned, was one who had worked over three months! It seemed to me that the most complicated cases were solved with amazing rapidity. But I soon learned that it was an absolute necessity. One had to make many decisions or run the danger of letting worthy people go hungry!

When the first week had passed I had a mere glimmer of what it was all about. Until the summer had to suffice I was told that my clients were to be mercies. One kind soul told me always to go on the assumption that a negro would lie about his resources, and that with most white people I would find just the opposite to be true. I found it an invaluable aid. With the straightest of faces negroes would tell me that they had absolutely no income from any source, and so look at their scantily furnished apartments I would be tempted to believe them. Time after time, however, I discovered that they had part-time jobs which would disqualify them from receiving relief. Of course, there were many worthy cases amongst them, since the negro was the one who received the worst end of the depression. White men took jobs that in more prosperous days they would disdain. On the other hand, the negro is not too proud to let his condition be known, and it was not unusual to find families sharing whatever little they had.

One of the favorite tricks that the negro employed to get more money was to claim more children than he was responsible for having since he knew that money was given on the basis of the number in the family. He would summon a number of little street urchins into the house, represent- ing them as his. It was only when I started noticing the features of the little darkies that I found them reappearing in one home after another as the heir-apparentis!

I found that my most important job in the colored districts was to win a confidante whom I could cajole into telling me the true relations of her neighbors! Many surprises awaited me. Of course I expected to find the marital bonds loose, but I was surprised to find how loose! Women with children I found who had been married time after time without benefit of clergy or the divorced courts.

Many romances began with the woman taking in boarders. Sooner or later board and lodge were exchanged for support and husband! It seemed a very happy solution for both parties.

And what emotional people the negroes are! Many are the women who carry deep scars from wounds inflicted in moments of jealousy or anger, and few are the men who do not carry knives at all times. In passing let me remark that the negroes are not wholly to be blamed for this condition. It is the whites who

(Continued on page five)

Ornithologist Delighted By Rare Specimens

Lover of Birds Finds An Exceptionally Good Variety Here

Florida State campus has been compared to any number of things, both flattering, a hotel, for example, and unflattering, an asylum - yes, some low-lires have said it) for those mentally a-quiver.

Somebody has suggested another comparison. Florida State campus now resembles a bird cage.

Freshman, you're just a bird in a gilded cage!, or, more sweetly said, ah ativity. Every stride and feather is on call.

First of all, nature-lovers, there is the eagle. A dominant figure, surely, who has applied herself through her fourteen-odd years of schooling unusually well and deserves everything Fate and Mama and Daddy give her. Graceful as she paraging remarks from the campus sour-grapevine.

She is generally acquitted something of an intellect from constant exposure and speaks and writes quite intelligently. She is a pleasant person, too, with nothing of the cliquish attitude of being politician about her. Withal, a well-turned-out college product, thankfully without a mate.

The dove. Yes, yes, the dove, a bird-of-peace, a symbol of gayness, a bit angelic, quite pretty, and very, very fastidious. She takes college seriously, doesn't go in- tall, but is a bit apt to overlook the former for the latter, to her brother's eye. (There's something wrong about that last.)

The cuckoo bird. She, whose voice can run the gamut, from sweetness and light to the rauous and shrill in the course of a one minute flat. She is amusing company, however, and provides much laughter with her sage observations which are cellophane encased, of course, thereby inserting Professors, watch yourselves! Just a simple joke or two, though, for conversational material for the next six months is found

The sparrow. In this little number is always whistling around. She is disastrously cheerful at times and is the universal scapegoat for the blues. She reads Hemingway and Dorothy Parker (a preference to the English literature book and hops about in dances a lot.

Buzzards: have you seen them? Well, you will shortly, more observative brethren have left the dining room and then hop with celerity upon their victim's remainders. Hunsee is the greatest scorn, even for our feathered friends.

The canaries are well represented on campus. They may be identified by their golden hair and ferry. Likewise is the odd fluttering motions they make against the bars of their cages (they are not to be let out and never comes back for sat- nore bather education

The red bird is easily known by the saudy pin feathers She is pugnacious and seems to have a brash personality to match. She is the point of scintillation of any crowd and then is the target the species is even brighter, but, then, you wouldn't be apt to notice that.

The last, biologists, is the parrot. The parrot repeats every thing said to her, everything she hears, and the naughty "boods", even "eaves drops" a bit. It's all due to a natural inclination to talk, which she indulges in freely. She may be easily taught catch phrases and slang, sometimes even picking them up by herself. All this about parrot's swearing is, of course, positively incorrect. And so we all have virtues. Do our worthy instructors think so?

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—JUNE 26-27

Kay Francis in "White Angel"

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—JUNE 28-29

Bette Davis with George Brent in

"THE GOLDEN ARROW"

TUESDAY—JUNE 30

Mary Boland with Charlie Ruggles in

"EARLY TO BED"

WEDNESDAY—JULY 1

Jane Withers in "Little Miss Nobody"

THURSDAY—JULY 2

Claire Trevor with Brian Donlevy in

"HUMAN CARGO"

Sports Program Plans Diversions

SSA Organizes Activity For Coming Week

Summer school recreational ion has organized a num- diversions as a part of the program" for the summer se interested in archery ially in at five-thirty and on Tuesday at eleven o'clock in front equipment house behind the ium. Fifteen are taking se of this opportunity, the special leader has been as- the group.

Tuesday night at seven- a group meets on the sym- for a half hour of simula- Tuesday night a large group ion were led in singing camp songs under the Miss Mil- Enmelheiser.

Thursday night at eight- those interested in amateur ony meet in front of the al education building to lis- the constellations and to be- familiar with the heavens at season.

teams of two members have been meeting, playing matches every day at four- in the little gym on the floor of the gymnasium.

Monday at four-thirty who want to play contract in the Reynolds parlor the leadership of Miss Pearl Miss Peary South will as- the players at the next meettudents desiring to take hike- ests of local interest see as- Miss Natalia Lawton and the ers of the Tallahassee Girls' ce so by making arrange- with Miss Marion Weeks in the Murphy hall.

ulene wishes to join

- Now is your chance to buy those dresses you didn't have time to make before summer School.
- We are putting on a storewide sale of ready-to-wear, curtains, sheeting and many other items that will be of interest to you.

Friday and Saturday!

P. W. Wilson Co
—Since 1837—

Sports Calendar

Monday.

Life saving practice for women 10:00 and 3:30.

Life saving practice for men 4:30

Contract bridge in Reynolds parlor 4:30.

Tuesday.

Tap dancing, bu. gymn. 5:30.

SSHA meets in city, ed. office 7:30.

Baseball, gym. steps. 7:30.

Wednesday

Reading circle, gym. office 4:30.

Life saving practice for women 10:00 and 7:30.

Life saving practice for men 4 3 Diamond ball. Front of gym. 5 :30)

Thursday;

Pool fencing, front of gym. 4:30

Golf, front of gym, 4:30

Archery. From to equipment house 5:30.

Basketball. Big gym 5:30.

Tap dancing, bu. gym, 8:30.

Friday.

Supper at camp 5 :30 to 7:30.

Dwining at camp 7 :3 o to 10:00.

Play night 8:00 to 10:00.

Week-end parties leaving Friday and returning Sunday or Monday.

Saturday;

Life saving practice for women 9:00.

Life saving practice for men 10:00.

Men's plunge period 10:00.

Women's plunge period 11:00.

Afternoon trips to Wakulla springs, natural bridge, and Port Leon.

Daily

Plunge period for men 4.30

Plunge period for women 5.30

Equipment house open 5:30.

WELFARE WORK THROUGH KEYHOLE

(Continued from first page)

eagerly tapped this treasure of the well-hoarded.

Disease runs rampant in the deepest levels of society. It was by the weak-lived spend-thrift in search for five cent drinks of cheap wine or cocaine. Home people were of the type who, having lost their jobs, their money, without wealth or credit. Had broken abandoned.

All in all, however I found my days in the poor-stricken districts pleasant. The people were happy under the most unfortunate conditions and in spite of poverty, I believe their state of affairs—existing to add a little more food to the table and corn to the hip-pocket!

It was, however when I started invading among the people that I found that my head, tired. In a shrunken and wizened cripple three inside a dis. a comfortable house and a new car every few years as he necessities of existence. I found that my past began to find with these people living in miserable shacks, with boxes for furniture and beds, with pregnant mothers, undernourished, on a diet consisting of beans. A gallon of pig's feet have paid for three of their family. No credit, no money to spend, and never any sunshine to lighten. Bitterness and misery and hopelessness. I developed no sympathy. The many of these fellows I had met and lived quite happily and soul been doing so for many years before the depression.

Whites, people on relief, I soon discovered, were not confined to the lower classes. In every district of those were families dependent on unemployment relief. In between economic wealth and culture I found uncertainty victims of life and circumstance, to whom even they were asked for relief until they were.

these groups may do so by meeting with the group at the time stated.

M & N CAFE
SPECIAL AT ALL TIMES:
STEAK DINNERS 40c TURKEY DINNERS 60c
PHONE 1051 119 JEFFERSON ST.

Series of Short Hikes Arranged to Points Of Historical Importance

Beginning today there are to be a series of short hikes arranged for students interested in Tallahassee's historical surroundings. The first hiker, according to Miss Katherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department, will start from the gym at noon, and will include a tour of the Tallahassee cemetery on wheel are located the graves of the Prince and Princess Murat.

Achille Murat, a nephew of Napoleon's sister Caroline and the French ill Napoleon, came to Jefferson county in 1825 where he later he married the lovely young widow, Catherine Willis Gray who was a niece of Gouvre Washington. They lived near Tallahassee at intervals for the remainder of their lives.

Another interesting points of historical interest is to be found by the hikers are the tallest bank, the supposed site of the Indian village of the Prodo Indian council, the old cemetery and the Governor's mansion.

Dr. Gove, Good food, estate of Senator Hodges, the Mayparty lake, and Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college.

Tennis Courts Lighted

Plans are being made to equip the two tennis courts behind the gymnasium with lights. Each court will have a battery of nine tank mounted reflectors, emitting a total of 6.50 watts per court. Switches will be placed over the center of the courts, each court having an individual switch. Approximately $1 per will be between the courts and the reflectors.

I turned to the Town, out a burning in the years, the pitiful tale would be told. In some homes one would find only bed and chairs, everything possible and as a very last resort, turned in for pawn-brokers. Will find white people I found that they would go without shoes there in the winter, and then, unselfishly sacrificing their pride, they would humbly ask for help. It was in such lives that the race aide was required to use at the earliest.

There were many who sought aid who were not victims of circumstances depression, but who were outcasts of our industrial system. Old men and old women, who had denied themselves classified as such when the younger generation refused to take their jobs, prevented one of the most pitiful as well as one of the most disgusting problems their problems required more than temporary relief and encouragement and still do.

But, along with these needy people there was a large class of shiesters who hampered one's efforts. They would accept relief fully realizing that they were undeserving to receive it and give nothing in return who would take what they were destitute. Often I found discovered that some member of the family earned far more than the relief given, but nevertheless, accept relief. With a heavy case load it was impossible to discover all the people who and about their incomes, but it was with the greatest of pleasure that I reported those guilty of playing relief I suspected. As in the cases with relief workers, I would try to maintain one's self into the neighborhood enough confidence to gain the clues. And woe to the case aide who exposed the source of information. Always with in this work that one encountered the greatest danger as well as the greatest excitement. Twice my life was threatened, but the lives only added a little zest to

Sport Squints

Have you your swimming ticket yet? Nots. Well—let Dr. Moore look over your box and he will give you a small bit of paper which enables you to a swimming ticket obtainable at the business office. It's free! Doesn't your swimming form need improving?

And have you heard about the ping-pong tournament that will be sponsored soon by the summer recreation association? Start practicing up for it now. For all you know you may be the next champ.

On young lady became so enthusiastic over the "see Tallahassee first" idea that she set out early Sunday morning to see some of the historical spots—Prince Murat's grave. After looking through the cemetery for two hours without any luck, she gave the task up as a bad job. On seeing her story to a friend she was informed that she wasn't looking warm—she went to the wrong grave-yard! And she's what the hikes now being planned are for—so you'll go to the right cemetery next time.

At camp Flastacowa one has an excellent opportunity to develop a crack shot. You really should take advantage of it, for after all some day you may have a husband to take a shot at—or perhaps you've already one to practice this sport on.

— E —

Do you want a horse—a great one horse? If so, jump into that riding kit and stroll out to the stables where Mr Middlebrooks will be glad to accommodate you. For seventy-five cents an hour you can ride at any time. If you've never had the joy of an early morning canter, then start now, by all means—for your appetite's sake!

— E —

On Tuesday night after dinner wander out to the gym and spend an enjoyable half-hour in sinatime. Although you may not think you're once a good, you're wanted just the same. Many makes the world go round, you know.

— E —

Any job. In some parts of the state case aides were unable to go out as both interviewer and client never felt that the threats were meant.

I encountered almost constant friction in the way the work of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration was handled, and hundreds cases of it was unfounded. On the other hand, given to the average person to pull on his shoulder and cry, was the only ones who could need to be on relief finally by professional pull and manipulation. Friends of the executive were often expert cases which in many cases could find no right to been held by relief workers. With such conditions existing in the office, one could hardly blame the applicants themselves. I myself found, a little too often to be pleasant, that after I had worked danger as well as the greatest excitement. Twice my life was threatened, but the lives only added a little zest to

Trips to Natural Bridge And St. Marks Included In Tomorrow's Program

Outings planned by the summer school recreational association for this week-end include a trip to St. Marks, which entails seventy cents and a trip to natural bridge, which costs twenty cents. Both trips will begin Saturday at one-thirty. There will also be three trips to camp this week-end, one of which costs twenty-five cents and leaves from four-thirty until seven-thirty Friday afternoon; another one Friday evening from seven-thirty until ten o'clock which costs ten cents; and a third, which is free, starting at one-thirty and returning in time for supper.

The college camp on Lake Bradford is open to students at any time from Friday noon to Monday morning to students who have permits, Miss Hieronymus Fritsch. These permits may be obtained in the Byran business office daily from two o'clock to four o'clock p. m.

Sports Equipment Made Available to Students

Students may find equipment for extra-curricular sports in the locker house behind the gymnasium in the dressing room.

Here equipment for archery, baseball, basketball, shuffleboard, badminton, and golf are ready for use. Any students may use this equipment each afternoon.

Finner Conducts Service

On Sunday, June 28, Dr. Paul S. Finner will conduct the vesper service in the Augusta Conradi theater at 7:45. Music will be the form of a song service.

GELBERG'S
New Store College Ave.
DOLLAR DAY FRIDAY!

Munsing-wear Panties
Newest Summer Styles. Non-Run. Value to 19c. DOLLAR DAY! 2 Pair for $1

Brassieres
One Lot Small Sizes Only Assorted Colors and Styles. Value to $1. DOLLAR DAY! 4 for $1

Jama Shorts
Sizes 16 to 20. Printed Broadcloth. Dotted Swiss and Plaids. Dainty Pajamas. DOLLAR DAY! $1

Beautiful Linen Handkerchiefs
HOSE
Perfect quality Lady Slipper full fashioned with hose—newest summer shades. Per value. DOLLAR DAY! 2 Pr for $1

DRESS SALE
Newest Summer Styles, Washable Silks, Plaid Silk Suits, Travel Prints. Special Friday—
Val. to $5.95 $2.98

Stardust

Kay Francis brings to the screen the beloved character of Florence Nightingale, famous wartime nurse whose story is so widely known. The picture is the "White Angel" showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

* * *

An added attraction with this feature is the first showing of the Schmeling-Louis fight pictures on the screen. Fight fans will be treated to a close-range view of the blows and results that brought surprises to the world last week.

* * *

On Sunday and Monday, "The Golden Arrow," starring Bette Davis and George Brent, comes to the State theatre. It is a tale of the wealthiest social set and their friends among the nobility. The richest girl in the world can fall in love just the same as her poorest sisters. Her romance with one young man, who is not after her money, provides an unusual conflict which makes this picture the most glamorous love story of the season.

* * *

Go early to the show Tuesday night and choose a seat near the aisle, because you are going to want to roll in it before Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles finish their latest bit of mad teamwork in "Early to Bed."

Your aisle seat may be a good investment, too, for Tuesday night is Bank Night, and the amount this week hits the three-hundred dollar mark!

* * *

Jane Withers returns to the invable harum-scarum type of role that first brought her fame, in "Little Miss Nobody" opening at the State on Wednesday. The story of the "Little Miss Nobody" who, incidentally, turns out to be quite a somebody, is concerned with a mischievous orphan whose pranks are the joy and despair of the asylum officials. The Withers miss is more roguish than ever and further adds to the general hilarity by singing a brand new song— Then Came the Indians."

Screens fans—don't forget your pencils, hairpins, and lipsticks for Wednesday's performance!

Youth Problems to Be Theme of Rainey Talks

(Continued from page one)

of our country. All of his lectures at Florida State College for Women will be on the problems of youth.

The schedule of Dr. Rainey's lectures has been announced as follows:

Monday, June 29, 8:00 a. m.—

Young aisle seat may be a good Bank Night, and the amount

Rehearsals Announced

The hours for orchestra practice and chorus practice have been reversed, for the remainder of the summer school term.

Orchestra will meet commencing next week on Monday and Wednesday at five o'clock and chorus on Tuesday and Friday, five-thirty, according to Dean Opperman, of the school of music.

in Education 101a-1 and visitors. Monday, June 29, 5:30 p. m.—Room 202E. Round table with members of Kappa Delta Pi. Tuesday, June 30, 12:00 a. m.—Auditorium. Lecture before the students body, representatives of the federation of women's clubs, members of the P. T. A., the faculty of the college, and the public. Tuesday, June 30, 8:00 p. m.—Auditorium. Address before the constituent assembly. Faculty and public invited. Wednesday, July 1, 9:00 a. m.—Little Theatre. Lecture before institute, faculty and public. Wednesday, July 1, 11:00 a. m.—Room 201E. Round table. Faculty and students interested in guidance invited. Thursday, July 2, 9:00 a. m.—Little Theatre. Lecture before women's institute. Faculty and public invited. Thursday, July 2, Room 201E. Lecture before class problems of rental and home ownership as it rela'es to and conditions the distribution of the family income. In the evening Mr. J. F. Williams, Jr., state supervisor of Vocational Education of the state department of public instruction, spoke on the agricultural teacher's contribution to home making through landscape gardening, and Miss Proj'en discussed the home economics teachers' contribution to a homemaking program.

Home Economics Conference is Held

(Continued from page one)

Thursday's discussions were on the "Improvement of Houses," with Dean Bishop presiding. Miss Venable and Dr. Conner spoke on the inadequacies in Florida homes and the possibilities for improvement. Discussions and group suggestions were led by Dr. Conner, Miss Venable and Miss Projen. Renovating the home was discussed by Miss Venable, Miss Sivyer, and Miss Moore, the home improvement supervisor of the state home demonstration staff, Florida State College for Women. Miss Sivyer's and Miss Venable's topic was the "Need for Future Research."

On Thursday evening, the leaders in allied fields were invited to address the conference on "State Programs Contributive to State and Family Life." The speakers included the following: Mrs. Viola Humphries, Jacksonville, sixth vice president of the courses of parents and teachers and chairman of home economics in the same organization; Mrs. J. G. Kelhun, president of the Florida federation of woman's clubs; Mrs. Martella Wilson, Jacksonville, supervisor of vocational training; division of education, Florida Work Progress Administration; and Mr. Glen B. Chalmers, Jacksonville, school and college aid supervisor of the National Youth movement. "The State Home Economics Program" was the theme for Friday. Dr. Conner presiding. Reports were given by members of the conference group on effective procedure observed in local situations. Miss Projen and Mrs. Herbert Butterfield, state chairman of students' clubs, discussed the development of high school students socially and professionally through student home economics clubs. Miss Projen discussed the state program of work for 1936-37.

The final address was given by Dr. M. R. Hinson, state director of instruction of the state department of public instruction, on "The State High School Testing Program."

Many Graduates From This Year Find Jobs

(Continued from page one)

Gainesville Margaret C. Johnson, 1936—Asst. prin., Lawtey, Fla. Mary E. Bette Johnson, 1936—L. 1—1st grade, Century, Fla. Jewel C. Kelly, 1936—Commerce, Winter Garden, Fla. Evelyn Kennard, 1935—Art and English, Sarasota, Fla. Mary M. Key, 1936—Jr. high math., Live Oak, Fla. Helen Kibler, 1936—Commerce, Arcadia, Fla. Clarissa Knight, 1936—Bookkeeper, bus office, F. S. C. W., Tallahassee. Sarah Krentzman, 1936—English and librarian, Zephyrhills, Fla. Geneva Ora Lamb, 1935—West Bros. Lumber Co., Winston-Salem, N. C. Susan Lester, 1936—Intersrades, Buckingham, Fla. Ruth Lovejoy, 1936—English, Sneads, Fla.

Rosenia Merriwether, 1936—2nd grade, Sealey Memorial, Tallahassee, Fla. Geraldine Miles, 1935—L. 1—4th grade, Lake City, Fla. Jane Moyer, 1935—Commerce, Eau Gallie, Fla. Eleanor M. Mur-

11:00 a.m.—Room 302A Lecture before Education 336 and 393. Friday, July 3, 9:00 a. m.—Little Theatre. Lecture before institute. Faculty and public invited. Friday, July 3, 2:30 p. m.—Round table. Faculty and students interested in high school problems invited.

College Library Has Added Many New Books

Among the new books that have been added to the library of the Florida State College for Women is "SOUTHERN REGIONS," a study of the south by rsdius, of North Carolina University for the Social Science Research Council. A book pertinent to all of the southern states.

Another recent addition is "12 MILLION BLACK VOICES" by Parker, Southern regional fieldagent, for the American Library Association. This is a unique library development in the south from 1930 to 1935.

Novel Entertainments To Be Offered at Gym

Students attending the summer session at the state college will have an opportunity to play table tennis, croquet and golf on the north terrace of the gym, which will be lighted by flood lights.

As is the custom, the first hour of playnight will be devoted to group games, followed by mixed badminton, table tennis, and checkers. During the second hour the games will be continued, and the addition of social dancing to the big grist.

Dr. Coyle Moore Honored

Dr. Coyle Moore, popular professor of the sociology department has been honored by a professional appointment for a short course at the U. of North Carolina Chapel Hill, N. C.

This short course was an institute for teachers of social sciences.

Dr. Moore left here last Friday and is expected to return Sunday.

College Library Will Hold Daily Exhibits

An exhibit will be held daily in Room 307 of the library in connection with the women's institute which will be in session from Monday to Friday of next week.

Summer school students as well as members of the institute are invited. There will be many kinds of story and picture books for small children and boys and girls of all ages.

rill, 1936—Home ec., Live Oak, Fla. Ruth McAnulty, 1936—Grades, Panama City, Fla. Jack McCown, 1936—1st grade, Winter Garden, Fla. Virginia McKaughan, 1936—1st grade, Sesler Memorial, Tallahassee. Dora McKenzie, 1936—Student technician, Washington Univ., St. Louis. Gladys Oliver, 1936—4th grade, Campbellton, Fla. Claire Oliver, O'Brien, 1936—P. S. M. Zephyrhills, Fla.

Mary F. Pemberton, 1936—P. S. M., Mt. Dora, Fla. Mary F. Poitier, 1936—H. E. and gen. science, Ft. Myers, Fla. Marcita M. Reflick, 1936—Orchestra and glee club, Wildwood, Fla. Marcia Scott, 1936—Student dietitian, Mass. gen. hospital, Boston, Mass. Dorothy Sealey, 1936—3rd grade, Century, Fla. Helen Shepard, 1936—Sec. home demonstration office, F. S. C. W., Tallahassee. Edna Shuler, 1936—Social Studies and Science, Bethlehem, Fla. Audrey Smith, 1936—So. Bell Telephone Co., Jacksonville, Fla. Myrtle Smith, 1936—Asst. in PEDnursery school, F. S. C. W. Tallahassee.

Nellie Taylor, 1936—Librarian, DuPuisk Springs, Fla. Ella Thomas, 1936—P. S. M., Archer Newberry and Forest Grove, Alachua Co. Shirley Turner, 1936—L. 1—6th grade, Greenwood, Fla. Ava Grace Vickers, 1936—L. 1—6th grade, Chipley, Fla. Opa Wamble, 1936—L. 1—Primary grades, Lee Co., Buckingham. Mary F. Whisnant, 1936—Jr. high English, Ft. Myers, Fla. Edna I. Williams, 1936—History and health, Live Oak, Fla. Katherine Young, 1936—English, Live Oak, Fla.

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE
Our
SEMI-ANNUAL SHOE CLASSIC
CONTINUES!
Practically Our Entire Stock
— Reduced to —
ONE LOW PRICE
$4 formerly to $11.50
a pair
Kidskins...Patents...Buckskins...Fabrics...
Calfskins...Reptiles.
Pumps...Sandals...Oxfords...Ties
MEXICAN LOVE SANDALS—all colors—reduced to $2.50
VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
Tallahassee
None Charged No Approvals No Mail Orders

Forum Lecture This Week

The Florida Flambeau

Wishing You A Happy 4th

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JULY 3, 1936 Number 3

Many Marriages Reported Among Former Students

Florida State Furnishes Its Full Quota Of June Brides

June is the month of weddings and many reports of the traditional event have found their way into the Alumnae office from students who have been married this last month. Among them are the following:

Graduates Who Married

Alice Kuklan from St. Augustine, graduate of B. A. 1931 was married to Haywood D. Smith of North Carolina where they will make their home. Miss Rena Campbell, graduate L. I. in 1929 of Leland was ordered to appear in court to claim goods for her left in the possession of another person and found upon following instructions a basket of gifts to a wedding shower she is to receive on William Statler on July tenth.

Miss Mary Bell Crenshaw, graduate B. S. 1932 was married to Elwyn Lacy Williams, Jr. and will make her home in Leesburg. Va. Marguerite Miller of Graceville who graduated with honors in A. B. degree, was married to John Robert Smith of Atlanta, Georgia, during the summer holidays. Her mother's wedding gown made of ivory duchess satin and trimmed with Irish point lace. Miss Esther A. Daffin, graduate A. B. 1933 was married to Mr. Ralph Lee Chapman Spann on June 18 and they are to reside in Dothan, Alabama.

From Atlanta, Georgia, comes the announcement of the marriage of Miss Ruth Hamilton, graduate of B. S. in 1926 to Harry P. Dobbs, president of Harry P. Dobbs, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia. After graduation she was head of the Educational Department at Grady School of Nursing.

Other Marriages

Miss Sunda Hamilton, graduate L. I. in 1933 from West Palm Beach was married to Emmit Bryan Mc-Campbell in Glendale, California. She is a member Kappa Delta Sorority.

From South Bay near Lake Okeechobee comes the announcement of the wedding of Miss Edna May Crow graduate B. A. 1935 to Mr. Wade Wilson. They reside in South Bay

A very pretty wedding was that of Marguerite Hudson, student of the Florida State College and member of Kappa Delta Sorority to J. Burke Johnson of New York City, where they will make their home.

From St. Petersburg the news

(Continued on page two)

Miss Murphy Will Head Demonstation Council

Mrs. Nellie Murphy, of Miami, is now president of the state home demonstration council. She was elected to the position at the closing meeting Wednesday afternoon in Florida State College for Women, where the home demonstration women are taking part in the annual Women's Institute. Mrs. Murphy succeeds Mrs. Louise Rawls, of South Bay. Installation of officers will take place at an open meeting of the council at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Augusta Conradi theater.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Murphy were: first vice president, Mrs. Amos Davis, of Mount Pleasant; second vice president, Mrs. J. Harvey, Jr., Whitehouse; secretary, Mrs. T. C. Wilson, Clearwater; treasurer, Mrs. J. P. Love, Tallahassee (re-elected).

Students Invited To Watermelon Cutting

All summer school students are invited to a watermelon cutting to be held in the dining room arcade tonight at nine o'clock. Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietician is in charge of the affair.

Moore Attends Regional Meet

Development Institute Plans Research

Dr. Coyle E. Moore, of the Florida State College sociology department, returned this week from Chapel Hill, North Carolina, where he attended the Institute of Southern Regional Development, held at the University of North Carolina from June 17 to June 27.

The institute worked out plans to bring about better co-ordination and coordination in teaching research and extension services among the various state universities of the southern region. A coordinated and controlled agency was projected to put the above plans into effect. Plans and programs were formulated, looking forward to the organization of regional agencies to promote plans and programs considered as a result of regional study and research. Such agencies to exist for the purpose of interpretation, for bridging the gap between research and reality.

The institute proposed that the state conference of social workers be pool their resources and efforts in an effort to promote legislation and to use such legislation to alleviate the social conditions of our times. The institute decided that the social problems of the southern regions should take definite steps to develop a regional conference of social workers.

The institute was financed by the general education board, which also furnished funds for study and research in the southern region. The composite of national figures presented at the institute was that something united and distinctive was being set in motion, and that if it could be brought to function it would make a significant contribution to American life and social science.

Highlights from Institute Meeting

The following are excerpts from speeches made at the second annual women's institute June 29-July 3 at Florida State College for Women:

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, Washington, D. C. director of the American Youth Commission: "There is literally an unrest, among our youth and there is danger of their exploitation by political groups by patriotic organizations or those who think they are patriotic and by different pressure groups."

Earl L. Vance, associate professor of English and journalism at Florida State College: "The newspaper influences opinion more than any other institution—more than the government, the church, school, clubs, movies or radio—and therefore the knowledge of this country is the most urgent knowledge for newspapers."

Representative Leroy Collins, of Leon county: "This is a time when our governmental needs should be studied very carefully . . . today there exists an overlapping, duplicating and confusion of efficiency and taxing units in Florida . . . and Florida may come to the attention of various forms of government for purposes of economy as a result of which we cannot regulate the functions of various county departments."

Dr. C. E. Holden, past president of the Florida State Medical Association: "Women in the field of quality and the medical profession, emphasising early diagnosis and treatment, will be the greatest in the solution of the problem of cancer which claims annually 30,000 lives, causes of death."

Mrs. Hampton Fleming, Richmond, Va., chairman of the Institutes, General Federation of Women's Clubs: "Women's clubs of 1936 are determined to carry on in America the splendid ideals of democracy set by the pioneer women of America."

Mrs. Charles Roe, Washington, D. C., director of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers: "Through the application of most of the school program in its relation to life situations rests outside of school, our children spend 75 percent of their waking hours."

Dr. Paul F. Finner, director of psychological labratory at Florida State College: "We desire harmony, control, domination and the ap-

(Continued on page three)

Dr. Rainey Gives Origin Of Youth Movement

When asked about the origin of the American youth movement, Dr. Homer P. Rainey, director of the movement said, "The American Youth Commission was created by the Council of Education in 1918 when the colleges of the country sought to develop a higher type of service and leadership to the government. Five years ago, a large research project for a comprehensive study of youth between the ages of 12 and 25 was undertaken. The commission is financed by the Rockefeller foundation which in turn enables us to study, demonstrate, and experiment in evolving the youth problem for the next five years."

"The survey that we are making is not like other surveys that usually end on a shelf. We have set out to attain a very definite goal and we are already getting results."

Dr Rainey said that the youth of today are characterized by intellectual honesty, frankness, moral idealism, and a strong sense of social responsibility. Youth is exacting in its standards but once it becomes disillusioned it abandons and does not return. We find high qualities in the leaders in government and industry but we find a lack of moral idealism.

If the high moral idealism of youth is to be conserved a permanent citizenship values it must be matched by honor, integrity and a definite purpose among government and business institutions.

"The American youth commission has determined on two major problems. The first is the educational orientation of problems in detail of the youth and then on a composite picture of American youth; second, an effort to evaluate the contributions that youth by agencies working for youth. Twenty-three states are now national agencies. These must be organized and correlated to focus on the same problems."

"The youth problem has emerged so recently and the factors are varied and complex. Some, however, are very definite Some had their origin back in our national life and are just reaching maturity. Some are a part of our cultural heritage. Others are related to our political and economic life and still others are a part of our moral and religious values of life. There is such an interplay of these factors on the present situation it is impossible to make any adequate analysis of their functioning and of their influence."

The first factors in this problem deal with numbers. There are thirty million persons between the ages of twelve and twenty-five years in America. Seven and one half million are employed on non-work relief jobs. Seven and one and a half million out of school and unemployed. Nearly one million of these are on relief in some form or another. Two hundred and fifty thousand are in tramps. These five and a half million constitute "America's Lost Generation." They are a nucleus for a great social upheaval or for a serious repercussion in our social system. It was the youth of a country that put Hitler and Mussolini where they are today. The Russian government

(Continued on page five)

Former Student Is College Dean

Mrs. E. C. Solomon Holds Position at Dodd

Mrs. E. C. Soloman, formerly Mary Helen Gray who graduated from Florida State College in 1933, has recently been named acting dean of women of Dodd College in Shreveport, Louisiana. Mrs. Soloman served as director of personnel there this past year, having under her guidance a group of four hundred girls.

At the same time that Mrs. Soloman was appointed dean of women her husband, Mr. Edward C. Soloman, received the appointment of president of Dodd College, which gave him the distinction of being the youngest college president in the country.

In addition to her many other plans, Mrs. Soloman is personally conducting a tour from New Orleans to New York this summer. She is taking a group of girls on July 18 and returning August 8.

While at F. S. C. W. Mrs. Soloman was prominent in various campus activities. She was also the editor of the Flastacowo in her junior year, and in her senior year was chosen the most intellectual student on the campus. She was a member of Mortar Board, senior

(Continued on page five)

Plans Completed to Put Linoleum in Corridors

Plans have been completed to put linoleum on the corridors and bedroom floors in Broward and Reynolds halls and on the whole of the dining room floor. The linoleum will be laid by the rug and drapery company of Tallahassee, who will begin work about August 1.

The work is expected to be completed by the opening of the fall session. The project will cost approximately $8000.

Independence Day Will Be Observed

On Saturday, July 4, Independence day will be observed with a flag ceremony in front of Bryan hall. Dr. Raymond Bellamy will speak on the meaning of the fourth of July.

Miss Helenmay Pritsch is in charge of the arrangements for the ceremony.

Floridians Go Back to School At Annual Meet

Five-Day Institute Sees Gathering of Over One Hundred

Florida State College for Women has just witnessed a "back to school" movement this week among approximately 100 Florida clubwomen gathered here from Monday through Friday for a series of lectures, conferences and discussions on such topics as welfare, citizenship, health, and conservation.

Sponsoring this event known as the annual woman's institute were the Florida federation of women's clubs, of which Mrs. J. G. Kellum, of Tallahassee, wife of the college business manager, is president, the Florida congress of parents and teachers, with Mrs. C. F. Parvin, of Manatee, as president; the Florida State College alumnae association with Mrs. B. L. Becson, of Groveland, as president; and the state home demonstration council of which Mrs. Louise Rawls has just completed her term as president.

National Figures Present

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, of Washington, D. C., director of the American youth commission; Mrs. Hampton Fleming, of Richmond, Va., chairman of child welfare in the general federation of women's clubs; Mrs. Charles Roe, of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the national congress of parents and teachers, were nationally known figures addressing the institute.

Other speakers have included Secretary of state R. A. Gray; Representative Leroy Collins of Leon county; Dr. G. R. Holden, past president of the Florida state medical association; and state college faculty members including Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Earl L. Vance, Dr. Paul F. Finner, Miss Ruth Young, Dean Ernest R. Sandels, Miss Louise Richardson, Dr. Ruth Cromer, and Dr. Coyle E.

(Continued on page three)

Summer Lecture Series Planned Each Year By President of College

Several years ago President Edward Conradi inaugurated a plan whereby he secured the services of people of national importance to spend a week at Florida State College lecturing in their chosen field. In this way students have had the opportunity of hearing such men as Dr. W. E. Dodd, former head of the history department of Chicago and present ambassador to Germany; Edward K. Hart, head of education at Vanderbilt and well-known author and lecturer, William McPhee, professor of education at the Teacher's College, Columbia University, and an authority in elementary school education; P. Caldwell, director of research at the Teacher's College, Columbia University, and a leader in science. Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the famous Tolstoy and an independent thinker in his own right, Dr. W. A. Evans, health commissioner in Chicago, and Mrs. Marietta L. Johnson, director of the New Hope school for girls.

This past week Dr. Homer P. Rainey, director of the American Youth Commission, gave a series of lectures in accordance with Dr. Conradi's plan.

The services of Dr. Ben Wood of Columbia College and Columbia University, a well-known author and an authority on educational guidance, have already been secured for a series of lectures for the summer session of 1937.

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students in the classes in journalism, Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1936.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Florida, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Althea Smith
BUSINESS MANAGER... Betty Evans
DEPARTMENTS: Sports, Mary Bruewright; Copy, Henry Coles, Jesse Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lacy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

Another Look Through the Keyhole

Realizing only too well how often it is that the "other side" of any question is overlooked, the Flambeau is doubly glad to present in print a convincing-ly-written article by one of Florida State's faculty, composed in answer to "Welfare Work Through a Keyhole" which appeared in last week's issue. The writer has given us a glimpse through the other side of that keyhole—it's only fair that we pass on to you, in the words of the writer herself, this challenge to "consider the facts as well as the fancies of this desperate situation":

Misconceptions Begotten In Depression

The years since 1929 characterized by economic and social chaos have brought with them many human tragedies. There is the tragedy of men, women and children starving because there is no work. There is the tragedy of the skilled man whose mind and soul is torn because of reduced income, but more especially because of the necessity of forsaking the field of his training and experience.

Perhaps the greatest tragedy of all is the distorted point of view and the utter thinking that have been the unhappy heritage of many thrust into the work of trying to do something about the present chaotic situation without the knowledge, experience, training, but above all, without the social philosophy necessary for the maintenance of a balanced point of view. "Welfare Work Through a Keyhole" appearing in The Florida Flambeau for June 26, 1936, reflects vividly the misconceptions which can be generated by a fleeting glimpse of the kaleidoscopic picture of human needs.

No social worker can hold a brief for the mal-administration of relief under the pressure of hundreds of persons in desperate need of the elementary necessities of life. Time has been at too great a premium to give those drafted into service even the measure necessary knowledge of social and economic conditions in the particular locality, to say nothing of the skills acquired through training and long experience. So the raw recruit, therefore, a few rules of thumb were dictated, these had to do primarily with the routine of administration — writing grocery orders, securing a doctor, and so on. Common sense and keen observation were depended upon largely to supplement such sketchy instructions. The result was that so-called case aides often went through the motions of case assistance, being swayed by feelings of pity on the one hand and by feelings of prejudice on the other; being liberal to those who aroused pity, but being niggardly to those who aroused prejudice or disgust. To the insecurity of the economic order such case aides added the insecurity borne of the likes and dislikes which were largely the product of her culture. How erroneous to conclude from a brief experience that all the members of the dominant group in the community are honest! How easily erroneous become persuaded that all members of the minority group are dishonest! How can persons—regardless of sex, color, or social condition—be? That is the "good old general front"! Psychology has contributed largely to our understanding of human nature and understanding which everyone dealing with people should possess.

Social workers, furthermore, are not detectives. They care not so much that a person has fibbed, but that the false statement has significance. Such comments as "With a heavy case load it is impossible to discover all the people who lied those I suspected. It was with the greatest pleasure that I hunted down clues to expose those I suspected. "I" it was that "knew no better one's self into the neighborhood gossip's chance to expose others," would have no place in the thinking of a social case worker. O men may be permitted to err, but not so those skilled in the rehabilitation of persons who have lost step with the changing social order. The impersonal approach, reserving judgment until adequate data are in hand, skilled analysis of situations—such objective case procedures characterize the work of the case worker in the true sense of the phrase. No skilled action may be developed also, hit with it goes a sureness of touch which is developed only through careful training based upon adequate knowledge of the fields of the social and biological sciences which provide the background of straight thinking and clean-cut analysis.

The "lay of the novice" above quoted, which spells so loudly of one of the great prizes we are paying for our failure to integrate the social sciences with-in the framework of our present-day economic order. The inevitable result of the social case worker suggests, perhaps, the thoughtful approach of those trained, too few in number, to be sure, to deal with existing problems and to aid in thinking through to possible control these larger problems of social and economic organization.

—Elinor Nims Brink
Asst. Prof. Sociology.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK . . . . . By Evans

HEADLINES and FOOTNOTES

By JAMES A. DAAB
Miami University

This week a number of "moneytouched has beens" sent a declaration to the Democratic convention calling upon all Democrats who are too old or too scared of a scrap to "take-a-walk."

In this group were two ex-governors, an ex-senator, and ex-secretary, and an ex-justice

The leader of this group has apparently forgotten his "sidewalk days" since going to the top of the Empire State Building. At one time, a time when money had not removed him so far from the feeling and needs of Mr Average Working Man, he tried to uplift the down trodden, secure old-age pensions, recognize labors' right to bargain collectively, and to protect women and children in industry. That was all when he was still in Congress. It was with his voices on New York's side-walks.

Now that he hears only the jingle of coins from Long Island, New Jersey, and Connecticut, these measures are proclaimed anti-Liberty, Home and the Associates un-Democratic.

It is, at the very least, rather difficult to understand how the large financial interests of the country can say that the administration of President F. D. Roosevelt has been a failure.

The weekly business index of the New York Times for the week ended June 13 shows a 100.9 average, as compared with 84 for the week ended June 15, 1935. One hundred is considered normal. Three months after ex-President Hoover came into office business reached a high of approximately 118. When he left office his corporate-veterans had dropped the national business average to a low of approximately 63. This is what the present administration had to begin with. Because of its progressive measures it has been able to lay a solid foundation and has brought the country slowly but surely out of depression.

If these policies have brought back the good times the financial section of every newspaper indicates, it seems reasonable to conclude that the likes of these policies and under the leadership of the persons who have sponsored them.

Which is the opinion generally expressed by key-noters of the conventions. Which slogan is suggested as a battle cry for the coming election, "After three years—we want more Roosevelt!"

* * *

Life in the navy and problems confronting it are brought home to the most insular and inland American in Southerland Denlinger and Charles B. Carry's book, "War in the Pacific."

It is written so well that although it is reputed to be technically correct, interest never lags from beginning to end.

The book is divided into three parts. Part 1 deals with the types of ships in the navy, contact and training of men and officers; Part 2 considers the strategy of a Pacific Conflict, the geological aspects of the seas in which the fleets operate, and the political, economic, psychological elements that lead to war; and, Part 3 deals with an imaginary battle between Japan and the United States in which only the navies of the two nations are engaged.

* * *

Beginning this fall all students graduating from high schools in the State of Michigan will have to complete a course including instruction in traffic rules, regulations and problems. This is only a part of the far reaching safety program being planned by state through He safety director.

Every state in the Union would do well to copy Michigan's program. Youth must be impressed with the responsibilities it has regards to the safety of other citizens. Too many of them get away with reckless driving and apparently are quite unaware of the danger to others as well as themselves in their foolish attempts to show off or give the passengers a thrill.

* * *

Gradually but inevitably, due to geographic and economic interests North, South, and Central America are being linked closer and closer together.

Pan-Americanism is no longer a dream of the future—it is here! Florida, and especially Miami are the logical centers of Pan-Americanism. There is still need of better understanding between the peoples of the Americas.

Latin-Americans feel that we do not show them the proper respect. This is probably due largely to our seemingly native lack of formalities and Latin Codes, which usually portray Latin-American as scoundrels.

The University of Miami, Coral Gables, has since its inception in 1925 striven to break down this barrier by giving a number of scholarships to the sons and daughters of prominent American nations each year. By so doing the name of the University of Miami, and of the cities of Coral Gables, Miami, and Miami Beach are being placed before these people with systematic regularity. The resultant of this is that Dade county more than any other one spot in the nation is benefiting by added Pan-American business.

If other schools throughout the nation would do likewise it would

(Continued on page five)

Collegiate Come-Backs

The fault-finding expert who complains that the modern era lacks the patience exhibited was so liberally endowed with evidently doesn't have to roll his hat up every night.

* * *

"For the number one position on the black list might we suggest the originator of the idea that three tardies should count as an absence?" inquires a northern university newspaper. There is where F. S. C. W. would be more than willing to extend the hand of fellowship across the Mason-Dixon line!

* * *

"The American university campus is breeding an effeminate type of cocky eater." Slip Matigan, coach of St. Mary's rowers, of football fame, deplores the way of co-education. Florida State's thirty male "co-eds" are in a fatal spot then—they're outnumbered about twenty-six to one.

* * *

According to a mid-Western college paper, a newspaper in Nohaj Arkansas, took a vote among its habitants of the bill region to learn as to whether they were ready for their next U. S. president. Final tabulations showed Lincoln Landon with seven more votes, with Theodore Roosevelt a close third . . . Ignorance or intelligence?

* * *

"The one lone male enrolled at Wellesley college has many domestic talents," comments He is working for his bachelor's degree, comments the Florida Alligator. Considering the fact our own "co-eds" to worry about . . .

* * *

The Carolinian scores this time at that ever-popular game of tomfoolery:

"From examination papers submitted on that examination.

An epigram is a verse put on a tombstone about the dead.

The people wished the king would marry and have an air

"Lycidas" is a pastoral constitution."

* * *

And just to keep the ball rolling, here are a few choice bits from Freshman examination statistics:

Robert Burns had two households pets: a louse and a mouse of which he was very fond. He used to poetry poems about 'em.

Al Capone is the senator from California.

In the middle of the 19th century, all the morons moved to Utah.

Mrs Smith has given $10,000 to build a home for indignant women.

The Ford is a fine car, with a good body and good engine.

One of the main causes of duel is janitors.

* * *

Be your own detective Dedon where your last week's allowance went.

* * *

The Toreador has an up and coming advertising manager. We gave him a box of engraved soap chips for the following effort at the way of a want ad:

"Thank you for the flowers you sent," she said
As she smiled and blushed and dropped her head.
"I'm sorry for the words I said last night,
Your sending flowers proved you were right.
Forgive me—" He forgave her—
And as they walked and talked beneath the bowers.
He wondered who in hell had sent the flowers

MANY SOCIAL EVENTS GIVEN WOMAN'S INSTITUTE DURING ITS STAY HERE

The garden party given by the college for the Woman's Institute last Monday in the open air theatre was the first of several entertainments given for that organization this week.

Miss Anna Mae Tracy greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line which included the following: Dean Olivia Dorman, Dr. Jane Carmichael, Miss Louise Conradi; Mrs. Hampton, of Richmond, Va., chairman of club meetings for the General Federation of Woman's Club; Mrs. Charles E. Rice Washington, D. C., field secretary; assistant counsel of the Princess and teachers; Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, Daytona Beach, institute chairman; Mrs. Louise Rawls, South Bay, president; home demonstration council; Dean Hunter, of Salley; Mrs. C. F. Parvin, state president, P.-T.A.; Mrs. Harwood, Cloverdale, president of FSCW alumnae association and Miss Florine Watson, state home demonstration agent.

Floor hostesses were Miss Kathryn Monsonmiller, Miss Margaret Sandal, Miss Louise Richardson and Miss Flavia Gleason. Miss Brehmann, Miss Pringle, Miss Mima Maude Flowers presided at the punch bowl. Assisting them in serving were Miss Charlotte Stevens, Miss Margaret Gaillard, Miss Bramblett and Miss Mary Kathryn Gibson, Miss Julie Vandergrift, Miss Betty Jean Hamilton, Miss Marion Carson, Miss Caroline Garwin and others.

A trio composed of Miss Martha Beddick, violinist; Mrs. Foy Toynsend, Ogden, pianist; and Owen Sellers, cellist, played during the reception hour.

Last Tuesday afternoon Dr. Edward Conradi entertained at an informal tea in honor of the delegates at their home on College Avenue.

Miss Kathryn Abbey greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line. Those in the receiving line were Miss Louise Conradi, Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Mrs. Hampton Fleming, Mrs. Charles P. Roe and Mrs. Harlan Bryan. Mrs. C. F. Parvin, Mrs. Louise Rawls, Mrs. T. B. Green, and Mrs. E. L. Beeson.

Miss Flavia Gleason and Miss Anna Tracy poured punch.

Dr. and Mrs. Conradi were assisted in entertaining their guests by past presidents, the executive board, and members of the administrative staff of the Tallahassee Woman's club.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum entertained the Woman's Institute with a linen party at their home. Glenwood Beadle, Mr. and Mrs. Kellum were assisted by members of the local woman's club and the ice cream and cake.

Those in the receiving line were Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Mrs. Louise Rawl, Mrs. C. P. Parvin, Mrs. E. L. Beeson, Mrs. Charles E. Roe Mrs. Hampton Fleming and Mrs. I. S. Green.

Music Projects Group Honors Presnell At Formal Banquet

In honor of Miss Jewell Presnell, state WPA music supervisor, and a visitor to the Florida State College for Women last Wednesday the WPA orchestra music projects attending the college this summer gave a banquet in the college dining room Wednesday evening of last week with eighteen members present among them being Miss Maxine Presnell, sister of the supervisor.

Miss Presnell expressed herself as much pleased with her visit to the college and before leaving Thursday for New York was presented with a floral corsage and silver vase by the music project students.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

July 4—July 11

Saturday—July 4

6:30 a. m.—Flag raising ceremony

Sunday—July 5

11:00 a. m.—Church services

7:15 p. m.—Vespers — Augusta Conradi theatre, Reverend Caldwell, speaker

Monday—July 6

7:15 p. m. — Miss Elizabeth Thompson, reading of play by Booth Reynolds Hall

Tuesday—July 7

12:00 m.—Convocation

Wednesday—July 8

8:00 p. m.—Dean Bailey, "Can Education Save the World?" Augusta Conradi theatre

Thursday—July 9

7:30 p. m.—Recital of geography teachers — Augusta Conradi theatre

Friday—July 10

6:00 p. m.—Play night—Physical Education building

9:00 p. m. — Watermelon cutting—dining room arcade

SSRA Will Entertain Institute at Lake Bradford Today

The physical education department and the student section of recreational association will entertain the members of the woman's institute with a picnic supper at Lake Bradford beach from 6 until 8:30 o'clock tonight.

During the evening the guests will be divided into groups and conducted tours to various places in the state, which will include: Bok Tower, Silver Springs, a visit to the beaches, canoeing, and fishing. Cars will be running which will be furnished by Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian, and camp song will be sung on the dock.

Conradis Entertain For Dr. Rainey

Dr. Edward Conradi and Miss Louise Conradi entertained Dr. Stephen Rainey, of Auburn, Alabama at their home on college avenue Thursday.

Those included included Dr. Rainey, dr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Mrs. Hampton C. Fleming, Mrs. Charles E. Roe, Dean and Mrs. Nathaniel Salley, Mrs. T. V. Moore, president of the state federation of woman's clubs, Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, Mrs. C. F. Parvin, Miss Flavia Gleason, Dr. Elisabeth Andrews, Dean Margaret Sandel, Dr. William Dodd, and Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons.

Miss Lynn Entertains Student Physicists

Tuesday evening the eventful class in physics, 101 B, was pleasantly surprised when Miss Elizabeth Lynn, instructor, invited the class to partake of some luscious watermelons. The class had completed an experiment with spectroscopes.

Those students present were: Mrs. S. McGeachy, Sara Camp Norfleet, Virlda Johnson, Hannah Brock, Julia Daniel, Martha Wilson, Katherine Blood, and Mr. Henry Coles.

Miss Thomson to Read At Informal Coffee

On Monday, July 6, Miss Elizabeth Thomson will read Sir James Barrie's The Old Lady Shows Her Medals at an informal after-dinner coffee to be given in Reynolds hall parlor at 7:15.

Mary Catherine Gibson, of the campus social committee, is in charge of arrangements.

Personal Mention

Miss Gwendolyn Leavins will leave Friday afternoon for Ponce de Leon, where she will visit her parents and friends. Miss Leavins will return Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Oliver visited her family in Chattahoochee last week-end.

Miss Margarete Hamilton and Miss Edith Wynne will leave Friday afternoon for a week-end in Milton with their parents.

Mrs. Kathryn C. Gillis returned to her home in Jacksonville last Monday because of illness.

Miss Viola Mitchell visited her home in Graceville last week-end.

Miss Mary Anne Moore visited Miss Lida Rae Spooner of Sneads last week-end.

Miss Martha Whitaker who graduated from this college in 1935 and who has been attending Yale university for the past year doing work towards her master's degree in government has been a visitor on campus during the past week. Miss Whitaker was a guest in Gilchrist hall.

Miss Kathleen Lennon spent the past week-end at her home in Jacksonville.

Miss Kitty Benson spent last Sunday with her parents in Tallahassee.

Miss Blanche Bilinski was the week-end guest of Mrs. S. Keller in Jacksonville last week-end.

Miss Gwendolyn Adair, Miss Edith Adkison, and Miss Mary Kathryn Mickler spent last week-end with friends at Carrabelle Beach.

Mrs. Emma Kennedy and Miss Margaret Kennedy visited their parents in Malone last week-end.

Miss Kathryn Warren, secretary to the dean of students, left Tuesday to attend the summer session of Columbia University in New York City. Miss Warren will return August 15.

Miss Myrle Kyle spent last week-end in Hinson as the guest of Mrs. D. P. Hinson.

Mr. Edwin Gillis visited in Defuniak Springs last week-end.

Mrs. Lallie Lasita Wimberly will leave next Tuesday for Black Mountain, N. C., where she will spend the rest of the summer.

Miss Sarah Harrel will visit her parents at St. Marks this week-end.

Miss Louise Chafin visited Lake Iamonia and Wilkinson Father last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Foye Barefoot spent last week-end in Graceville visiting her parents.

Mrs. Joan Cooperman left Tuesday for St. Petersburg, where she will visit her husband. Mrs. Cooperman will return on Sunday.

Miss Evelyn Bowden will spend this week-end in Leesburg with her parents.

Miss Nita Pyburn, who has been an instructor in the department of education, is taking a year's leave of absence to continue her studies in the University of North Carolina. She will return in the fall of 1937.

Dean Salley Will Speak

Dean Nathaniel Salley will speak on "Can Education Save the World" at the forum lecture to be held in the Augusta Conradi little theater next Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

CAMPUS RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS ARE HOSTS AT MANY SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Several social events have been given by the various religious organizations for the students of Florida State College this summer.

During the past month Miss Julia Cechini, secretary of the Episcopal student body was hostess at Rage Hall at a tea honoring the summer school students.

Miss Gehan is at present in attendance at Camp Weed at Beacon Beach. Rage Hall is open to all college students during the summer who wish to enjoy the hospitality offered.

Cars are available at 10, 45 each Sunday morning for Episcopal students who wish to attend seven o'clock service at St. Johns church.

Presbyterians Enjoy Fishing

About forty-eight students and friends who are attending Mr. V. O. Phillips class at the Presbyterian church this summer, which meets every Sunday morning at 10:30, enjoyed a fishing trip to the bay last week and caught about seventy-five fish.

A picnic supper was served later in the evening on the boat. Reverend E. N. Caldwell, who is pastor of the Presbyterian church, will speak at vespers next Sunday evening at the Augusta Conradi theater.

Methodists Plan Play

Miss Winnie Lee Davis, secretary at the Methodist hall, is planning a sacred play to be given in the near future.

A lawn party was held Friday evening of last week at the Methodist hall, four short plays being given, with a musical program consisting of a cello solo by Professor Owen Sellers, two vocal solos by Virginia Peace Johnson, a trumpet solo by Thomas Brooks and a vocal number by Marion Herber.

Light refreshments were served to the seventy-five students attending.

Floridians Go Back To School at Annual Meet

(Continued from page one)

sfoore. Speakers from the state home demonstration staff whose headquarters are located at the college included Miss Anna Mae Sikes, Miss Isabelle Thurby, Miss Virginia F. Moore, and Miss Clarine Belcher.

Exhibits Featured

Exhibits have been a prominent feature at the institute. Cooperating in furnishing displays have been the American society for the control of cancer, the national safety council, the state federation of women's clubs, Pictorial Review magazine, and the motion picture producers and distributors of America.

Women here for the institute were housed in Gilchrist hall and took their meals in the college dining hall. The majority of meetings have been held on the Augusta Conradi theater; however, afternoon sessions of the individual organizations were held elsewhere.

Social events have formed a prominent part of the institute. A garden party Monday night in the open air theater in honor of the first of a round of social affairs which also included an all-day Tuesday afternoon by President Conradi and his daughter, Miss Louise Conradi; an at home Wednesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum, with members of the Tallahassee Woman's club assisting; a tennis display and tea yesterday afternoon by the Leon county home demonstration council; and a picnic supper tonight at Camp Flastacowo.

Formal opening of the institute took place Monday night with Dr. Abbey, head of the state college history department, sounding the keynote of the institute good citizenship program. "Courage, justice, faith and intelligence are like radium so rare and so priceless that mankind cannot afford to lose one drop," Dr. Abbey told the group, as she said the problems of today may well turn his attention to creating of himself the type of social individual who will help and not hinder the problems of his generation."

Committees in Charge

President Edward Conradi of the college and Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students, greeted the institute folk at their initial meeting. Serving on the general

With Compliments from McCrory's "The Middle Dixie Store"

Many Marriages Reported Among Former Students

(Continued from page one)

was received of the marriage of Miss Aly Pilkington, a former student and Pi Beta member to Mr. Ruben Hamilton Dowling. They will make their home in St. Petersburg.

Miss Virginia Poslon, who has been instructor in Washington College in Bennettsville and a former Florida State College student, married Keith L. Hanna of Davenport, Louisiana last month. Miss Eleanor Pulford of Jacksonville, a student of Florida State and pledged to Kappa Delta Sorority, was married June 18 to Mr. Isaac Cronn Beauty, third, of Birmingham, Alabama. Miss Eleanor Rennemann, a student at St. Petersburg, has just been united in marriage to William F. Peters of Tampa, Fla.

Highlights From Institute Meeting

(Continued from page one)

glance of others are among the motives of people today that render the machinery of government and the enactment of laws ineffective."

Arrangement committee of the institute were President Conradi, Dean Nathaniel Moss Bailey, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Anna May Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Miss Flavia Gleason. Institute faculty members also shared in plans for the program. Chairman of the institute was Mrs. I. Ralston Wells, of Daytona Beach.

We will close Saturday, July Fourth.

We will be open Monday, July 6th, as usual.

We will be glad to serve you.

The Vogue

Imps of Satan Drive Faculty

Profs March to Tune Of Bells in Dream

A sharp command of "Forward, march" is heard. Dignified professors, with a persecuted look in their eyes, march into the order of columns of four they march. Behind them, little red devils are brandishing their pitchforks. The parade gets under way. Devils are prodded with the sharp prongs of the pitchforks.

There is a loud clanging of bells. "Ranks dismissed," cries the large-lunged imp of Satan. The brow-beaten professors are led to class rooms. There they are seated on hard chairs to sit for an hour. A green-eyed monster approaches them, armed with a drill. Soon a grinding noise is heard, and the victims are tortured as holes are drilled into their aching brains. Pitiful sighs of relief are given as another bell is heard.

The professors are led into another room for punishment. Mathematics is pirating. "Without a Word of Warning." A blackboard is erased, and another popsest is put upon it.

What would be the next form of torture? Ah, the library! The professors are seated before mountains of books. Weary heads begin to droop. A sharp rap on the head cause them suddenly to resume their weary work.

Still another bell sounds, breaking the silence. Struggling, the professors rise. Weak from hunger, they laboriously attempt to reach the dining hall. Those nearest of feet reach there first to stand for an endless length of time until a gong is struck, mustin their ears. Others lacking strength to hurry, reache the dining hall, panting, to face a blazing sign of "Closed."

With discouragement written on their faces the professors are called into ranks again. As the sun boils down on them, they march toward the far-distant gymnasium. There are no smiles of appreciation for an hour of play. Too soon they will have to put their weary bodies into action. Some are sent to the hockey field for torture where their efforts are unmercifully whacked by sharp sticks. Others move their weary feet to music while the less (or more) fortunate ones must indulge in a fast game of ping-pong.

"You shall now find what a solid fish meat endures. Prepare for a posture exam," orders their master. Thus, the professors take a posture exam. Tired and aching bodies are forced into stiff unnatural poses only for the suffering ones to be told that another year of wearing physical education must be undergone in order to improve their posture.

"Now, my victims, you shall have recreation," cries a devil. "If you have the price, you may trudge up and down hills to a boring picture show. If you do not owe a dime, rent fine at the library. you may borrow a book for parallel reading." So, according to the state of their finances the unfortunate ones select their recreation.

"Those leaving campus," continued the leering devil, "be sure to fill out a card, stating your name, your destination, the year of your birth, the color of your eyes, and your father's political party. Beware of failure to do so!"

Lights are flashed, signifying that all must retire, whether work is accomplished or not. Little red devils are on guard to see that the professors obey all of the rules.

Clang! Clang! Clang! Another bell is sounding. She awakes with a start. As she looks around, her roommate questions. "What sort of pleasant dream

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

BACK SEAT DRIVING AIDS SAFETY

Lou Boedecker, head of the Montana Highway Patrol, states, "What this country needs is more good back seat drivers." He stated further, "Don't hesitate to bawl out any auto driver if you're riding in the back seat and he violates the rules of safe driving. Remember, your life may depend on it."

The nation-wide campaign for safe driving has been picked up in part and slogan, but never before has the writer been shown much use in the helpful assistance of the driver from another occupant of a vehicle.

The proverbial back seat driving has long been blamed for the most part upon women in the crowd. Who really knows the blame is shifted, when a director of the highway patrol endorses the action?

Forthwith, the women part of the population will be expected to continue the diversion and do so above reproach.

A good thing is worth working for. Avoidance of traffic fatalities is a good thing. It remains whether back seat driving is lauded or ridiculed.

—Texas Lasso.

And yet the paradox of the situation is that now, just when we most need freedom and fearlessness in their great challenging of the basic issue of the time, waves of prejudice hysteria against a free and fearless schoolarship begin to beat over the schools." And yet, as Heywood Broun, Glen Frank views with alarm.

"The kind of men and women which the state colleges and most of the other great colleges are turning out of their great state—— are mediocre. Their work is pretty poor stuff." Emporia's whitenaired editor, William Allen White usually knows what he's talking about new in education.

—Toreador.

THE PALLACY OF 'BUY AMERICAN' GOODS

One of those unpopular misconceptions which seems to have been passed around like a plagued nickle is the frequently heard phrase "Buy American made goods. Keep the wealth at home."

When men lived in caves and exchanged spearheads with neighbors for skins and later when barter exchange was prevalent in isolated communities, such a practice was entirely practical—economically and socially. But many years have passed since those times and today such a practice in an increment of economic complexity. Man still depends upon his neighbor for those goods for which he is lacking, but not his next door neighbor. Our friends across the seas and across national boundaries are our neighbors now.

If a well meaning Chinese gentleman followed the popular American fallacy of advocating buying only Chinese made automobiles, all the Chinese would be walking, for only in the last few years has the automobile manufacturers seen fit to establish factories in China and these are mostly Americans.

And reverse the picture from one of a Chinaman refusing to buy goods for the Chinese to one of foreigners raw materials like silk in the United States. If we did not purchase a large portion of our silk from foreign countries, for example. American women would all be garbed in cotton or some other substitute.

It is simply the question of reciprocity. A country cannot buy if it doesn't sell. An individual will not buy if he doesn't have money derived from selling his services or his goods.

No city, state or nation is self-sufficient—everything that everyone wants cannot be produced at home. Limited resources, labor, or capital determine this proposition. Let us take the state of Florida for example. If a man desired a silk shirt, and was incensed with the desire to 'buy American,' he would go down to the store and buy a shirt which would more than likely be made in the United States. But the man who sold him the shirt at home would have to pass the money on to the foreign grower of cotton in payment for the materials to make the shirt—or would have to stock Florida goods.

There is no such thing as increasing the prosperity of a country by buying only those goods made in that country. The prosperity of buying depends upon the prosperity of every other nation with which it trades. And the United States trades with many. A dearth of wheat, of sugar, of certain fruits, of rice, coffee, and of innumerable other agricultural goods as well as manufactured goods in some foreign country would cause an economic depression. Other countries depend in a like manner upon the prosperity of the United States.

There are no national boundaries in international trade. If we build them, our business will tear them down.

—Daily Texan.

GAMBLING IN LIFE

There are many kinds of gamblers. One bets his money on games of chance, in which the odds are against him. The other believes in a correct life and develops and enthusiastically bets his time, money and effort to materializing it without receiving the odds.

Both gamblers may lose but the chance-taker who has ideas and ability has the better chance of winning. Many of our largest industries began on what at one time considered half-baked ideas emanating from the minds of crackpots. We should be a backward nation today were it not for the early gamblers of America who backed their visions with all they had.

—Florida Yellow Jacket.

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

There are many faults, it is said, in the present educational system, and one of the most noticeable is that brought about by the passing of the student from his professors. This is due, perhaps, to the lecture system commonly used in American university systems today, and to the formal manner in which classes are conducted.

Methods have been made to remedy this fault, among them the round table method now being used at Harvard, and at Dartmouth Academy. These methods, although they are a step in the right direction, are not of themselves sufficiently advanced to make the present system to any great extent.

An excellent suggestion, "Utopian" though it may be, has been offered by Prof. Stuart Courtis of the School of Education. His idea is a college without prescribed courses and the routine of definite program of classes. Any materialisation of this scheme is far in the future, but it is not difficult to see its advantages. First of all, it will bring much closer

(Continued on page six)

Youth Movement Unjustly Opposed

College Girl Gives Views On War Prevention

By EVELYN FISHER

The red breath of radicalism has stolen upon the campus. No one is to believe many of the criticizers of the Home Fire Division Post of the Women's Overseas War Movement, organized this spring. In spite of the fact that whole movement has been explained over and over again as a satire on the disinterestness and hopeless pettiness of war, there are still a large group of individuals on the campus who can not or will not see the significance of such a movement.

The reaction of any campus to a movement of this kind reflects the general trend of the college in progressive matters. Judging by the reception of this movement by a large bloc of the student body, Florida State College for Women has little claim to the description of progressive. Faced with the means of doing their part in a national youth movement against war, many of the Florida State students have shown by their own responsibility in the movement that they will not be placed under the dread title of a radical.

With this question before our very eyes we must ask, what is a radical? Is it one who is a radical just because he refuses to accept non-intelligent standards, because he proceeds to question issues in an original manner? The term radical, as it is commonly misused in describing the V of W W movement, is decidedly incriminating. What individuals who have participated in this movement done except to show that they are out of tune with war?

There has been a great deal of discussion about the attitude of the whole movement. Many criticize it as the hare-brained idea of a rollicking college cut-up who saw a good chance to get his name before the newspaper world. Such critics are unjust and do not try to see the significance behind the movement as a whole. They should realize that this is one of the most serious things that the youth of America has ever done —this cooperative movement to make war futile.

Some of the fiercest criticism is aimed at the first of the movement. Anti-agitators point out the ridiculousness of the whole idea. Defenders of the movement have tried unsuccessfully to show that the idea is not any more ridiculous than thousands of others that have started wars. If they had not used the unusual method of presenting their plea it would have died at the beginning at which it started. There have been thousands of peace movements among students but it needed one with enough originality in it to attract the attention of thousands. The youth of today has at last realized that satire in their most valuable means of fighting the horrible war-monster that constantly threatens them.

The significance of the entire movement lies in the fact that at last the youth of the country has united in a widespread effort to face an issue. Even if they accomplish little towards their objective—the mere fact that over 400 colleges have groups acting in cooperation with other groups is encouraging and stimulating. True, there will always be those who are carried along by the majority, and will shout for war or peace just as the current and the persuaders demand, but there are also a definite group in this movement who are doing some genuine thinking, who are working towards something which they believe will help to destroy the threatening shadow of future wars which hangs over the youth of today.

As a movement which unites youth on a vital question, as a movement which battles with one

"Many A Slip" Says Freshman

When Sarah Lou left home her parents said to her "It is going to be a hard life. There will come many times when you will wish you were back home with us. But since you have chosen this life, you must be brave."

Sarah Lou lies very still in the little room. "I should have more patience," she thinks. "But it is so hard to just lie and wait. Nothing I can do—only wait." She closes her eyes, and with a deep sigh turns to face the opposite wall.

In the big airy office they had said to her: "Just a few more days dear. You must be patient. Don't worry. There is no need for that."

"They do not understand though, these people in the office," thinks Sarah Lou. "Why this is the most important moment in my whole life." Musing in this thought she eventually goes to sleep.

Some days pass.

Slowly Sarah Lou opens her eyes. Dare she look? It is for this moment that she has been waiting so long. It is for this moment she has been so patient and brave. She takes a peep. An exultant cry escapes from her lips. They are her own, her very own! "My grades, my grades! I've made them! This is the happiest day of my college life."

If the grimest aspects of civilization, the Veterans of Future Wars movement can be termed a reaction to acceptance or denial on this campus will serve to indicate the kind of thinking that students here are doing.

Vogue Prints in SHARKELLA By CO-ED

A gaily printed smooth sleek fabric. Cool as a shaded brook.

Price Only $5.95.

Sold Exclusively By

GELBERG'S

New Store College Ave.

Faculty Members Take Boat Trip

SSFA Plans Party For College Staff

In addition to its regular outings to Wakulla Springs, St. Marks, and Camp Flastacowo the summer school recreational association has planned a trip to Carrabelle for members of the faculty.

The party will rent a boat in Carrabelle and will spend the while in the gulf will go swimming at Dog Island. Both lunch and dinner will be served on board the boat.

Tickets, which were $1.75, have been sold to the following: Miss Peggy Smith, Mrs. Mary Clarke, Miss Sarah Herndon, Miss Etta Mathews, Miss Florence Bethea, Miss Frances Haines, Miss Hazel Allison Stevenson, Miss Enda Denney, Miss Gladys Koch, Miss Rachel Pritchford, Miss Kathryn Pitcher, Miss Margaret Hutchison, Dr. Raymond Bellamy, Dr. Hugh Watkins, and Miss Katherine Montgomery.

There is to be a similar party next week for students and faculty combined. Tickets, costing $1.75, can be purchased from Marian Weeks in the physical education office. As usual those who take care of the tickets, such as Miss Montgomery has asked that those wishing to attend apply early since there will be only four official drivers who will receive free tickets. Miss Montgomery also advises that those wishing to go unless made their reservations early.

The parties will leave Saturday morning at 8:30 and will return about nine o'clock p. m.

Headlines and Footnotes

(Continued from page two)

be but a few years more complete and lasting understanding and accord would take place between and the Americas.

* * *

Shirley Temple, according to an "IQ" test given her by Dr. Terman of Stanford University, is a genius. Her score is 155! Her English vocabulary consists of 750 words and in addition to that she has learned 300 French words and an converse fluent in the new language.

* * *

It is to be wondered how the Republicans, IF ELECTED, will keep their platform "balanced budget—not by increasing taxes, but by cutting expenditures, drastically and immediately" and still provide the social security they advocate in their platform. They cannot keep both pledges—they criticized the New Deal for being guilty of spending old age pensions—perhaps they know of a way to pay increased benefits without increasing taxes. Or perhaps they only consider the term "taxes" to apply to increases only on the higher brackets; and, perhaps they have a hidden tax plan for the consumers which would distribute the burden of taxation equally so that each per every wage earner whether he earns 1,000 dollars annually or 100,000.

* * *

Discussion is actually being sponsored in Russia by the Central Committee and dictator Joseph Stalin itself on the proposed constitution or charter. Newspapers devote three and four pages daily to local and foreign discussion of it. And, believe it or not the "comments" are even allowed to criticise it.

* * *

A recent find in the Rare Book Room of the Library of Congress brings to light the fact that a grandson of Benjamin Franklin, Benjamin Franklin Bache and one Dr. M Lieb are the real founders of the Democratic party.

At this time it was known as the Democratic Society of Pennsylvania. The two major parties were the Republicans and the Federalists. The first page of the booklet dated 1794 it is "the principles, articles, and regulations agreed upon by the members of the Democratic Society in Philadelphia. May 30, 1793.

* * *

Puerto Rico is now crying for recognition. It has had a drought of more than six months duration, crops have failed—what was once a leisurely farming district or almost a small unit farm has been turned into commercial agriculture on a large scale.

Its population is placed at 1,- 700,000 in area is about that of Connecticut. Many of the workers—half or more of whom are always unemployed receive as little as $150 per year in wages.

Clothing is so expensive that when the men go to church on Sunday they carry their shoes until they reach the village in order to save them as much as possible.

Under these conditions it can little be wondered that they feel anything will be better than what they now have.

SPORTS CALENDAR

Monday

Life saving practice for women 10:00 and 3:30.
Life saving practice for men 4:30.
Contract bridge in Reynolds parlor 4:30.

Tuesday

Tap dancing, big gym 5:30.
SSRA meeta in phy. ed. office 7:30.
Singing, gym, steps 7:30.

Wednesday

Reading circle, gym office 4:30.
Life saving practice for women 10:00 and 3:30.
Life saving practice for men 4:30.
Diamond ball, Front of gym 5:30.

Thursday

Foil fencing, gym. office 4:30.
Golf, front of gym 4:30.
Archery. Front of equipment house 5:30.
Basketball. Big gym 5:30.
Star gazing. Front of gym. 8:30.

Friday

Supper at camp 4:30 to 7:30.
Evening at camp 7:30 to 10:00.
Play nights 8:00 to 10:00.
Week-end parties leaving Friday and returning Sunday or Monday.

Saturday

Life saving practice for women 10:00.
Life saving practice for men 10:00.
Men's plunge period 10:00.
Women's plunge period 11:00.
Afternoon trips.

Daily

Plunge period for men 4:30.
Plunge period for women 3:30.
Equipment house open 5:30.

Rainey Gives Origin Of Youth Movement

(Continued from page one)

depends on its youth to carry on its ideals and purposes.

"Each generation has had its difficulties to overcome but it had faith and hope and a strong motivation to achieve. Our whole social structure has been undermined. The old ideals and intellectual forces baffle us. Chaos and confusion reign in our standards of economics and government. We are threatened with decadhocracy. Youth questions it and displays a willingness for a different type of government."

"The most serious factor in the degeneration of our society can not take care of its people. Frustration confronts youth on every side. We can not tell the youth that there is no place for them. We must meet their needs through constructive, creative employment. We must give opportunity to work, youth's problems would soon disappear. An outlet must be found for their services. We must reorganize and expand the

Did You Know?

Did you know that:

The demonstration school probably has more students enrolled in proportion to the white population of Tallahassee than any other city in the United States?

Ninety per cent of the pupils enrolled in the demonstration school are there because they or their parents want them to attend and not because of failure?

Upon completion of the hardwood floor in the auditorium pupils of the demonstration school are going to celebrate with a dance?

The auditorium is equipped with a beautiful Victor radio, costing approximately $600?

Dr. B. Parsons is proudly surveying the laying of the asphalt tile on the corridors in the lower floor of the school?

Mr. Ward Pletcher, instructor of mathematics, is working towards his master's degree at Duke University this summer?

Patriotism is Featured At Play Night Tonight

Patriotism will be the theme of the play nite tonight. During the first hour swimming will be held in the flag rush and cannon ball salute, any participants desiring will be taught. Three members of the folk dancing class will do dances during the first hour.

During the second hour social dancing and games will be added to the program.

The only decoration will be a large flag over the doorway.

FORMER STUDENT IS COLLEGE DEAN

(Continued from page one)

honor society, Spirogira, Odd Jaw, erstin society, Phi Kappa Phi, general scholastic honorary, Alpha Chi Alpha, journalistic honorary, Beta Pi Theta, French honorary, and Pi Beta Phi, social fraternity.

Amateur Astronomists Spend Evening Indoors

Because cloudy heavens prevented star gazing the amateur astronomers group met in the big gym the physical education building last Thursday night for their regular meeting. Miss Kathrine Montgomery told the group the following stories from the constellations: The Story of Andromeda, Cephus, Cassiopheia, Pegasus, Cetus, and Perseus, the flying horse.

school curriculum to meet the new types of needs."

The present commission is divided into seven major areas with a director in charge of each. The data collected is used as a yardstick.

"One of these factors in the youth problem is health, the objective of which is to guarantee to every child and youth a sound body and mind and to eliminate physical defects in youth. With the advancement in science this will soon be done. Physical ills cause mental defects. Today there are more people in American hospitals for mental illnesses than for all other illnesses combined."

"The other major objectives are social and economic security, education, recreation, social participation, training in citizenship towards delinquent youth and a spirit of international understanding and cooperation that will foster world peace."

"To these seven objectives we have the criteria by which we can judge the value of all our efforts in behalf of youth. They constitute the 'good life' for youth. To the degree that these objectives are realized our society may feel that, to this extent, it has discharged its obligation to its youth."

Sport Squints

BY MARY BOATWRIGHT

Have you taken that trip to camp yet? You haven't! If you're wondering what to do this week end, and could fill in part of the time by spending a day at camp. You will enjoy canoeing, swimming and other camp activities. If you do not like this sort of thing you may take a good book and enjoy it under the shade of a nice big tree. How about it, are you coming?

It is said that baseball affords one much pleasure. No, you do not have to be an excellent player, in fact, you may even be a beginner to participate in this sport. And there is no time like the present to learn. The hour is 5:30 on Tuesday.

A great many are taking advantage of plunge period. If you aren't one of these lucky ones. Swimming may be enjoyed by anyone, and it also stimulates the appetite.

It has been rumored that certain individuals have requested that the Physical Education Department have an extra-curricular class in step climbing. The request is due indirectly to the fact that Miss Thompson's class speech has been moved to the fourth floor of the History building. Seventy-one steps to be exact. Now, that you really don't think that this needs supervision!

Some of the students are becoming quite adept in fencing. It's lots of fun because you may imagine that you are a gallant lover dueling for a fair lady's hand. It's exciting! Try it yourself.

Have you noticed the croquet players? They look as if they are enjoying the game don't they? Just a nice little game to play after dinner in the cool of the evening. Oh yes, he may play with you. It's quite alright. Congratulations if you have a be.

Caldwell Will Speak

Reverend E. N. Caldwell of the Presbyterian church of Tallahassee will speak at the vesper services this Sunday night in the Augusta Conradi little theater on the topic, "Jonah Paid His Fare." Miss Marion Carson, a lyric soprano, will sing "Light" by Robert Louis Stevenson. Miss Carson will be accompanied by Miss Gladys Koch.

Botanists Make Field Trip to Apalachicola

The field botany class under the direction of Dr. Kurz went on a field trip yesterday to Apalaxa landing, on the Apalachicola river in the heart of Gadsden county.

According to Dr. Kurz, this region has over a hundred species of trees and shrubs, all distinctly different. "It is here," says Dr. Kurz, "that many of the northern plants reach their southernmost distribution."

The object of the trip was to familiarize the students with the relationship that exists between a plant and its environment, to recognize the various plants and learn to recognize them on sight. The trips, so far, have been both interesting and educational, according to students making them. On the trip before last, the class saw one of Florida's rarest snakes, the copper head moccasin.

Mrs. E. L. Beeson Is President of Florida State College Alumnae

At the annual alumna meeting held at the Florida State College on May 23, Mrs. E. L. Beeson of Groveland was elected president for the coming year. Miss Nina McAdam of Miami will serve as vice president.

Other officers elected were Miss Ruth Schornherrt of Tallahassee, secretary, Mrs. Raymond B. Seasabaugh of Tallahassee, treasurer, and Miss Rowena Longmire of Tallahassee and Mrs. J. W. McCollum of Gainesville, representatives at large.

The following people are to serve as district chairmen: Mrs. Hugh Mathieson of Pensacola district 1, Miss Gladys Polsom of Monticello, district 2, Miss Caroline Middlestone of Jacksonville, district 3, Mrs. Lucie K. Miller of Tavares, district 4, Miss Katherine Stood of Winter Haven, district 5, Miss Louise Houck of Bristol, district 6, Miss Charlotte Chase of Miami, districts 7, and Miss Maud B. McCall of Clearwater, district 8.

Dr. Becker Will Speak To Geography Teachers

An illustrated lecture on some phases of conservation will be sponsored by the Florida council of geography teachers at a meeting on Thursday, July 9, at 7:30 p. m. in the Augusta Conradi theater. The speaker will be Prof. H. P. Becker. At this time plans will also be made for a series of field trips in and near Tallahassee.

All who are interested are invited to attend.

A wind tunnel, similar to those used in testing airplanes, has been installed in Pittsburgh to test streamlined locomotives and street cars.

STATE THEATRE

—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, JULY 8-9—
W. C. FIELDS in "POPPY"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JULY 5-6—
WALTER ABEL
in
"WE WENT TO COLLEGE"
—TUESDAY, JULY 7—
ANN SOTHERN
in
"DON'T GAMBLE WITH LOVE"
—WEDNESDAY, JULY 8—
LYLE TALBOT
in
"MURDER BY AN ARISTOCRAT"
—THURSDAY, JULY 9—
MELVYN DOUGLAS
in
"AND SO THEY WERE MARRIED"

Yearly Fete Scene of Gaiety and Pageantry

News-Hound Interviews Delegate to Annual Flower Festival

By JESSE PARKER

Lady Miss Katherine Blood chosen by Governor Sholtz to represent Florida in North Carolina's tenth annual Rhododendron Festival, stepped from the train in Asheville to find herself in the midst of a mountain June. June finds the southeastern mountain country decked in the fresh green of early summer; the majestic slopes of Great Smokies are spotted with fields of wild flowers and thickets of mountain laurels. A magnificent skyline of mountain peaks and ridges rearing skyward, half hidden in a smoky haze to form a perfect setting for the thousands of acres of rhododendron that are seen throughout the country, for it is then that the rhodendron are in bloom, adding their fragrance and color to the vibrant beauty of their surroundings.

Tuned to come when the beauty of the mountains is at its height is Asheville's annual festival, sponsored by the chamber of commerce in honor of the rhododendron, a period of carefree celebration with its holiday gaiety, pomp, pageantry, and parades, exhibitions of beauties, the finest of dances, social events and laughter. This week of merriment ushers in the summer vacation season, bringing thousands to Asheville's climes for the festivities.

Presiding over the social events of the festival are Kins and Queen Rhododendron, both elected by the chamber of commerce from students of most elite circles. Attending the Queen are eight maids in waiting, while the King's guard consists of thirty men.

The feature of the brilliant Rhododendron ball was the coronation of Miss Dorothy Kimberly. As Queen she will reign over the mythical Rhododendron kingdom for one year. During her reign, the queen will hold a coronation as colonel-in-chief of the Rhododendron Brigade of Ouards, colorful military unit of the realm, and will also hold several knighthy orders.

His majesty, King Rhododendron was crowned along with the Queen. Chosen for this honor was Mr. Frank Sheridan Kennett, who will as king also reign over the mythical monarchy. He also will reign for one year. He will hold the office of commander-in-chief of the rhododendron brigade of Guards, and as commander of several knighthy orders of the kingdom.

The mythical Rhododendron Kingdom consists of the following ten southern states: North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi. Each state is asked to send a girl from one of her state colleges as a representative or sponsor. Each of these sponsors was accompanied by a chaperon, in most cases, her mother. On arriving, the sponsors were met at the train and accompanied to their hotels by a police escort. Also preceding the sponsors were the King's guard, dressed in colorful uniforms which sported an assortment of highly polished brass buttons. Each sponsor was furnished with a car and an escort during her entire stay. The sponsors were active in all the social activities. They were presented to the King and Queen during the magnificent coronation ball which was held at the Carolina pavilion, a social event that embraced all the splendor and ceremony of the eighteenth century.

The first day of the festival featured tours to several Rhododendron areas, and an art exhibit at the city hall. Tuesday, French broad river gardens were toured, and that evening the grand ball and the coronation of the Rhododendron Brigade of Guards was held Wednesday. The Rhododendron Parade was held. Miss Blood rode Florida's float in this parade through Asheville's business section. Cherokee Indian games, pioneer sports, band concerts, drills of the Rhododendron Pageant at which there was a cast of over a thousand from neighboring towns, brought off the days' activity. Thursday: The Golf tournament was held. This was an infanlile imitation of the preceding day's parade. The climax of the festival came that night with the coronation of the king and queen at the Rhododendron Friday: This was the day of "tapering off." The morning festivities were the Governor's Cup Golf.

The carnival parade of grotesque and ugly floats was held that afternoon under the direction of the local American Legion post. That night was held the carnival ball and the sponsors ball. Saturday was the day of tomato fuice and ice packs. It was the day that the vacationists who had come there to relax departed for home, work and some real relaxation.

Miss Blood met several notable

Stardust

W. C. Fields comes to the State Theater Friday, July 3, in his latest screen success, "Poppy".

As Professor Eustasse McGargle, Fields is a roving, carnival-following patent medicine man, guardian of an eighteen-year-old girl, Poppy, who has known no other life since childhood. The pair set up their concession in a show just opened in a small Mid-Western town.

While vending his "Purple Bark Sarsaparilla" and running a quiet shell-game on the side, the Professor scores a success he learns that an enormous estate lies in the hands of Poppy's long-lost eighteen-year-old heiress. He decides to palm off his ward as the girl.

Meanwhile, Poppy has fallen in love with Billy Farnsworth, son of the mayor She knows nothing of her guardian's being practiced by the Professor, and her happiness is complete when she is welcomed as the intended heiress.

But her joy is short-lived, for the swindle is speedily exposed. The Professor hurriedly prepares to return to the carnival when it is discovered that the heiress is a deception, she actually is the rightful owner of the estate

No one is more pleased than the Professor, who is invited to remain with Poppy and Billy and live in their new home. But he's unable to enjoy any life but that of the road, and he returns to his ward, in search of new "yokels, their pockets bulging with filthy lucre."

Walter Abel, popular young newcomer, takes a bow this Sunday, July 5, at the State Theater screen

In the occasion of the annual reunion at his alma mater Walter Abel, a successful brick manufacturer, returns to the scene of his young manhood. He considers the reunion both as a diversion and a matter of business, because the college is about to build an addition and he hopes to sell the bricks.

He is accompanied by his wife. One of his classmates, now a professor, is married to an attractive woman who has wearied of the dull routine of college life They launch a flirtation that leads to series of unexpected incidents the affair threatens to become a scandal.

With the timely aid of his business partner, college chums, the old grad escapes the headlines, saves his marriage and sells the bricks, but until he has experienced a series of amazing adventures in the swift tempo of modern college life.

School of Music Plans Joint Recital Program

According to Dean Ella Scobie Opperman of the Florida State College school of music there are forty-two students now engaged in this department this summer, besides students in other schools who are taking individual lessons in the enlarged elementary grades of public school music.

Miss Irene Kelson Reed, who is in charge of the chorus, and Prof. Ernest Williams, leader of the orchestra, are making plans for a joint recital The date will be announced later.

The school of music had planned to give a series of recitals during the summer school but on account of heavy enrolment and the very heavy load of teaching necessary, all recitals by the faculty have been cancelled.

Them's My Sentiments

By A. Cow

Should some unlitiated visitor question one of the veteran co-eds about his life here, he would probably get the following answer: "Have I ever been lonely here Nay, brother, not at P. S. C. W! Remember, when——, but that's another story. Long about the middle of March, when I first visited these parts, dears were scarcer than hen's teeth. Now look at the campus and see what a change! One day I held out my hand to stop and five of ten were shaking it before I could wipe the scowl off. It's getting so that now —— well, I'm getting choosier, keep close to the streetlights."

I see in the Editorial column that we have all the makings of a ——— Security brawl.

I Can Do Without:

The yodeling which goes on at odd hours downstairs in the practice rooms. It is a diversion.

The installatde inquisitors who ask, "Why did you come here?"

How times have changed since I was a mere lad in my teens! Only yesterday I heard a conversation in which words were used we're misused. When, I asked their meaning, however, it was informed that they were "Hollywood" slang. See if you remember these obsolete words:

Bird—A raspberry, or Bronx cheer. Once man's feathered friend.

Horse—A joke or trick, as in "That's a horse on you."

Cute—One man's quality. Now variously translated as bow-legged, freckle-faced, or beautiful.

Line—Something that stops you of men. This particular kind exits astride a stool in a drug dispensary. Hence the sobriquet "drug store cowboy."

Hen—The mother of the hen. Now these poultry pellets refer equally well to some co-eds of our acquaintance—"He's a good egg."

Dog—One's best clothing. "She's putting on the dog."

* * *

As a warning to those profes-personages on her trip, among whom were four justices of North Carolina's Federal District Courts, whom she met at a Rotary club luncheon. Miss Blood reports that the festival was a huge success, and that everyone including herself had an impressive and enjoyable visit.

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are those of individuals and not necessarily those of the paper. It is a column of personal opinion and is open to all who wish to submit short, constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Flambeau" and mailed in the post office.

* * *

LIGHTS OUT!

When you come to the end of a perfect day—and are interrupted rudely by light-flashing what a let-down! Now is the time for all good students to come to the aid of their party or parties—since parties are generally reserved for week-end, we've heard, and it's week-end we're quibbling about).

During the winter session at F. S. C. W., lights are flashed one hour later on week-ends than on week nights. Now that the hour of grace given to us during the summer is under or answer—younger? The reason for light regulations has often been explained to us with nearly light flash attributed to consideration of health. But what on earth can a single hour have to do with our physical well-being?

What student doesn't recall many an interrupted movie, when a mad rush for the dorm ended the day on a sour note?

Life is short. Summer school is shorter. Why can't it be made as pleasant as possible? We'd like to be Epicureans for a few weeks, anyhow—but we're well on the way to becoming Stoics!

Signed: Jennie Murphree.

* * *

sors who are often late to class, let us cite the example of the prof in a northern college who opened his class late and found his audience there the next day he upbraided them for leaving. "Why, I waited ed," couldn't you see I was here? But has we not taken the same? The students looked properly repentant. When the ingenuous prof arrived the following morning however, no students were in evidence. On every desk was a hat.

Recreational Meet Held Tuesday Night

At the regular meeting of the summer school recreational association held in the big gym in the physical education building last Tuesday night the following were present: President Jesse Cooper, Vice President Elizabeth Roberts, Secretary-Treasurer Dorothy Henderson, and the following publicity committeemen: Iris Rily, Evelyn Bowles, Grace Miller, Mary Louise Kersey, Flavival Townsend, Bernice Smith, Bertie Mackey, Beulah Potter, and Alice Nevels.

Contemporary Student Thought

(Continued from page four)

relations between student and faculty. That this is necessary for a truly comprehensive learning is undoubtedly true. Furthermore, the statement, himself directing his efforts, will experience a sense of independence and responsibility which will prove of value in later life.

Professor Courtis' plan would also give the student a broader background, one richer with experiences which are not to be met in a classroom or lecture, experiences which cannot be included in more formal education. The knowledge, which would include more true learning, that the student is now able to amass in four years of directed study would also be more practical, in that it would have encountered face-to-face the experiences which he will later meet in the actual struggle for his existence. There are only a few, and perhaps the most superficial, of the advantages.

Utopian? perhaps, but the be goal is often that which seems so far that the future so to be attainable, and there is no harm in striving than toward this goal which is as near perfection as as yet suggested.

—Michigan Daily

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept Saturday and Sunday Luncheon

CHOICE OF—

Baked Young Turkey and Nut Salad with Grated Egg
Southern Style Chicken Pan Pie
Western Tenderloin Steak

25c

Choice of Two Vegetables:

Au Gratin Macaroni — Garden Peas
Snowflake Potatoes — Steamed Spinach

Chilled Vegetable Salad — Cold Drink
Bran Muffins — Buttered Rolls

DESSERT—FRUIT JELLO WITH WHIPPED CREAM

Club Breakfast 25c
Two Eggs any style, Breakfast Sausage, Fresh Orange Juice

Cereals With Cream 10c
Post Toasties, Corn Flakes—All Bran—Shredded Wheat—Ripe Krispies—Grapenut Flakes—

Club Breakfast 20c
Choice of Fruit Juices, One Egg, Bacon, Grits, Buttered Toast, Jam, Cup of Coffee.

Try Our Western Steaks—All Kinds of Short Orders Cooked and Prepared Any Hour of Day.

20c
Pineapple & Cream Cheese Sandwich, Fresh Pineapple Sundae

Extra Special!
10c
Fresh Peach Sundae

Toasted Cheese Sandwich, Hot Coffee

15c
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Lemonade.

Marshmallow Sundae — Frozen Fudge Sundae

Toasted Cheese Sandwich, Hot Chocolate

15c
Ham Sal. Sandwich, Chocolate Milk Shake

Chocolate Sundae — Jumbo Ice Cream Cone

Toasted Ham Sandwich, Iced Tea

20c
Cold Spiced Ham, Potato Salad, Any 5c Drink.

Dish of Ice Cream, Fruit Ice cream.

25c
Fruit Cold Plates

Pineapplade With Sherbet — Fruit Cold Plates

Russell McPhail Double Rich Ice Cream, pt. 25c
Bennett's Special Ice Cream, pt. 15c

Phone 800

Bennett's College Inn

Quick Delivery

The Florida Flambeau

Invite Your Favorite Prof To Dinner

Don't Forget That Watermelon!

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 | TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JULY 10, 1936 | Number 4

Courses to Be Rearranged In Winter Term

Dodd Announces Opening Of General College At Florida State

For the first time in the history of Florida State College for Women, a general college will be inaugurated next fall, Dean Dodd told students in convocation Tuesday morning.

In addition to the growing criticism among laymen and educators themselves that colleges are not properly fitting students for life, the curriculum committee has devised four general courses to be offered to freshmen and sophomores, each of which is intended to teach them the significance of a great field of knowledge, rather than any definite technique in a special subject.

New Courses Offered

The courses to be offered are Physical Science, to which the departments of physics and chemistry will contribute; Natural Science, to which the departments of botany and zoology will contribute; Social Science, to which the departments of history, economics, sociology, geography, and political science will contribute, and the Humanities, to which the departments of English literature, art, and philosophy will contribute. Dean Dodd remarked that she thought this course as much in content, but rather in point of view.

To this program of courses others will be added as time goes on. Sciences will be grouped into some sort of course in homemaking. Dean Dodd said that in his ten years of service on the committee on student affairs, "I have yet to see a student without a problem which has not grown out of bad home and family conditions."

Motion Pictures Among Various Innovations At Demonstration School

The renovation of the demonstration school is going along rapidly, according to Dr. Rhea Boyd Parsons, principal. The auditorium floor has been laid in the auditorium preparatory for the spring and dance which is being planned for Friday of next week.

All classes, except the one over two hundred children, are functioning smoothly and will soon be appropriate closing exercises in the classrooms at the end of the session.

Of special interest, according to Kenneth Williams, is the portable moving picture machine which was purchased for the school during the last session. During that period about sixty pictures were shown. Narrow non-inflammable films are used, chosen by the school for as low a price as two dollars, while others may be had by paying for the transportation. Picture description and music are included in the price.

These films are shown to the pupils of the different grades to emphasize the different points of the subjects on which they are studying. Geography pictures have been shown to the students of the lower grades, and science, including plant growth, plant roots, and flowers and their work. Two pictures of insect life were shown Tuesday morning of this week, depicting the struggle for existence in the insect life, illustrating the "survival of the fittest." The fighting mopecta, the praying mantis, fighting wasps, spiders and scorpions, were shown in their native surroundings and are warring

(Continued on page four)

COLLEGE CALENDAR
July 12th—July 18th

Sunday July 12th
11:00 a. m. Church Services.
7:15 p. m. Vespers. Augusta Conradi theater, Dr. Christie of Baptist church, speaker.

Monday, July 13th
7:15 p. m. Informal reception, Reynolds hall Dr. Olivia N. Dorman, speaker.

Tuesday, July 14th
12:00 M. Convocation — Dr. Mark DeGraff, speaker.

Wednesday, July 15th
8:15 p. m. Joint recital, chorus and orchestra, auditorium.

Friday, July 17th
8:00 p. m. Play night, gymnasium.
9:00 p. m. Watermelon cutting, dining hall arcade.

Music Students Offer Recital

Orchestra and Chorus To Give Joint Program

The summer school chorus and orchestra will give a recital in the college auditorium on Wednesday evening, July 15, at 8:15 o'clock. The chorus is under the direction of Gladys Oliver Koch, and the orchestra under Owen F. Sellers. The public is invited to attend. The program is as follows:

Chorus: Ave Maria, Duke of Saxlad, A. Botsidjo; Schubert Suite, Schubert, A. Marcel Poot; Barcarolle, b. Rosamunde from Ballet Music.

Chorus: Morning 'Peer Gynt Suite'; Oreg, Spiritual; Were Ye There?; Burleigh; Ashes of Roses, Woodman; The Cuckoo Clock; Goodwin; Lullaby Song of Bohemia, Deems Taylor.

Orchestra, Dance: A True American, Mackie-Beyer.

Artist Series Announced

Dean Opperman, chairman of the Artist Series, announced that contracts have been signed with Grete Stueckrold, soprano from Metropolitan Opera; Orville Gordon, String Quartette, Dalles Prantz, violinist, and Gregor Piatigorsky cellist, for the 1936-37 artist series performances.

Rare Old Books Recall History Of Early Days

Picturesque Record Of Pioneer Florida Is Given Library

Days of earlier Florida when statistics concerning snipes and Indians were considered vital in the lawbooks were recalled here recently with the presentation of several rare old books and newspapers to the Florida State College library.

Reference to dealing with the Indians and to livestock among slaves is made in one of the gifts —an original copy of the "Acts of the Legislative Council of The Territory of Florida in 1831," presented to the library by Mrs. Brough of Miccosukee. One statute provides punishment by fine of $500 or corporal punishment not exceeding 39 lashes "on the bare back" to any person selling, bartering, or exchanging with any Indian or Indians rum or any other spirituous liquor, ammunition, or anything at any place other than a storehouse or stores licensed for that purpose.

The college library welcomes all such gifts, however small and considers the preservation of this material one of its services to readers to the state," Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, explained. Some of the publications the other recent gifts as follows:

Florida Sketches, by Caroline Lee Girl," by Maurice Thompson, also donated by Mrs. Yarbrough.

Dr. Briggs has held his present position with the Florida State college for the past six years. He was a member of the faculty committee on the campus and a member of the state committee for reorganizing the state educational course of study. He was also a member of the committee of the Florida Educational Association for setting the qualifications of teachers. He is one of the board of directors of the Leon County Welfare association.

Dr. Briggs was graduated from Maryville college where he had been a student for eight years, four of which were spent in the preparatory school. While there he was president of the literary association. For several years he belonged to the football, basketball, and track teams. He was on

(Continued on page four)

128 Candidates For Graduation Are Announced

One hundred twenty-eight students will be candidates for degrees at the close of the 32rd annual summer school commencement, July 31, at Florida State College for Women. This is the largest number of potential summer school graduates within the past five years, according to Registrar E. D. Sills of the state college.

Of the 128 students seeking graduation, two are candidates for the master's degree; 54 candidates for the four-year degree and 72 candidates for the two-year degree in education.

The school of education with 39 students leads in the number of candidates for graduation. The college of arts and sciences has 34 candidates and is closely tied with seven candidates each for the four-year degree while the school of music has one candidate for the four-year degree.

The candidates for graduation will receive their degrees or diplomas only upon satisfactory completion of requirements for such degrees. Registrar Doyle has announced, and are as follows:

Master of arts: Marion Frances Morse, West Palm Beach; May Denham Partridge, Tallahassee.

Bachelor of Arts: Lucy Frances, Bachelor of Arts: Clara Bright, Bailey, Jr., Miami; Florida State Hastings; Florence Eulalie Devine, Miami; Tess Droskin, Jacksonville; Mary Lou Dunlap, Miami; Marguerite Holder, Tampa; Elinabeth Murray, Miami.

School of Home Economics, Bachelor of Science: Mamie Lee Brinson, Madison; Sara O. Camp, Lake North; Anita Ruth Hurley, Fort Beach; Nina Gladys Howard, Dade City; Sara Edna Myrick, Tallahassee; Doris Bevis Quisenbury, Miami; Ruth Woodward, Quincy.

School of Music, Bachelor of Music in Public School Music: Tehel Ardella Thomas, High Springs.

School of Education, Bachelor of Arts in Education: Florence Alard, Genevieve H. Blow, Mrs. Ardelle V. Davis, Virginia Irving, Genevieve Capps Kenley, Ina McCall Land, Cora Lee Bell Thompson and Virginia Wilkinson, Tallahassee; Jessie Middred Campbell, Tallahassee; Mabel Daniel Caraway, Miami; May Bird Carmine, Chalers, Lucille Hollar, Carroll, Marianna; Mary Elizabeth Dickey, Stuart; Elinabeth Pauline Durden, Jacksonville; Fay, Panama City; Jewell Baker Gillum West Palm Beach; Dorothy Eslick Gulford, Winter Park; Myrtis Monnette Heisler, Gracewille; Norma Josephine Hodges; Verna Scruggs Knight, Apalachicola, Antoinette Brown, Le Rocque, Miami; Marguerite Litschi, Tampa; Rosenia Merriwether, Wewahitchka; Eachlen McLean Morrison, Pensacola; Grace Alexander Norton, Apalachicola; Margaret Laura Pinkston, Gainesville; Margaret Bonner Roberts, St. Petersburg; Belle Steffee Taylor, Winter Haven; Ida Mae Davis Stripling Tallahassee.

Bachelor of Science in Education: Margaret Cabot, Perrine; Betty Evans, Miami; Jessie C. Perrell, Tallahassee; Alice Bradford Whitehead Gehan, Tallahassee; Flora Gertrude Gillis, Dr. Pinlak Springs; Willie Jessie Larkins, Bonifay; Bertie Mackey

(Continued on page four)

Faculty Dinner To Be Held Soon

There will be a faculty-student dinner for the summer school session on Wednesday, July 23, at 6:30 p. m. in the college dining room. There will be a list posted on the bulletin board of the lower floor of the administration building on which individual students are requested to sign their names and the names of the faculty members whom they have invited to be their guests at this dinner. Students may invite one or more faculty members. In case of duplication notice will be given. Students are urged to invite faculty members at the earliest possible date and to sign on the bulletin board immediately after the invitation has been accepted. Announcements concerning the serving of the tables will be made later.

Briggs Accepts New Appointment

Education Professor Will Head His Department At Maryville

World Reform Is Topic of Lecture Given by Salley

Faults of Educational Methods are Pointed Out in Speech

Nathaniel N. Salley, dean of the School of Education of Florida State college, gave a forum lecture Wednesday evening at the Augusta Conradi theatre on the subject "Can Education Reform the World?"

During his lecture Dean Salley said that instructors liked to picture themselves as reformers of the world but be neglect of the man with one book and one idea.

Education is the ideal of Americanism and he told of how in his childhood days in the south the poor children of the community were sent to the public schools while boys of more wealthy parents went to the Academy.

The growth of the public school system has become one of the wonders of the times, when we realize that over one million teachers and professors are now engaged in the task of education, we realize its power.

He hopes the time will come when every college will limit the freshmen coming from high schools to those best equipped in character purpose, leadership, etc., rather than those who have enough money to pay the college fees. He considers that the state should not give or lend money to help students go to an institution but should feel it a good investment to give the best students an opportunity for an education.

The theory that all high school students should go to college is not practical, however, those best fitted should have that opportunity, for talent has a way of turning up in a hovel as well as in a mansion.

Dean Salley also spoke of the difference in opinion in the between of parents and environment which should be compromised.

Because of the good that they hope to do, those believing in environment put the emphasis in their belief while the others ask the question, "Where are the projects without background?

All good institutions, he says, are working for the good of man and are very effective upon his life in fact, whatever man comes in contact with influences him, and by education we have a wider and wider horizon.

He advised the listeners to study the life of Louis Pasteur who was the son of a tanner and was the founder of medicine as we know it today, and more in the medical line to revolutionize the world than any other man in history.

If one devotes oneself to the cause of humanity he will find himself a leader in whichever line he may follow.

President Conradi To Attend Board Meeting

President Edward Conradi of Florida State College for Women will leave soon to attend a meeting of the Board of Control on Monday of next week at the George Washington Hotel in Jacksonville.

The board consists of the following members:

George H Baldwin, chairman, Jacksonville; Alfred H Wagg, West Palm Beach; Oliver Semmes, Pensacola; H. C. Duncan, Tavares; Thomas W. Bryan, Lakeland; J. T. Diamond, secretary, Tallahassee.

Mr. Diamond, whose office is in the educational building, expects to also attend.

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students in the classes in journalism, Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1936.

Entered as second class mail matter January 6, 1930, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 2, 1879.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Althea Smith
BUSINESS MANAGER.. Betty Evans
Departments: Sports, Mary Boatwright; Copy, Henry Crane, Jesse Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lucy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

Can't Florida Beach?

Florida's responsibility as educator is tremendous. Not only must she educate her own children, but those of other states who make up her immense tourist population. Not only must she keep pace with the times—she should keep a little ahead of them.

It is not easy to view Florida's hampered strides forward in the field of education without impatience. Educators again and again make various and sundry proposals to the people—to the schools—to the legislature, to little avail. Why?

One of the sharpest thorns in the side of the state administration is the competition for positions in the schools between the college graduates and the holders of certificates through examination. Decade by decade educators lobby to raise the certification standards. The deplorable fact is that in order to teach in the elementary grades, for instance, a candidate need not even hold a high school diploma, but is asked merely to take a simple examination. High school posts are entrusted to many teachers who pass similar examinations. Many have not even a college degree. Many have had no training in education whatsoever.

Teachers holding two-year college certificates are also far too numerous, as are teachers who, though they hold college degrees, have fulfilled their certification requirements with as little as six hours of education.

Many fine recommendations have been made by Florida's leading educators. Perhaps the most forward looking of those is a proposal submitted recently to the Florida Education association through a state committee, outlining a gradual procedure for the strengthening of requirements for teaching. This proposal, at whose framing Dr. Briggs of our own school of education assisted, would abolish immediately all certification by examination, would, by 1937, abolish all certification given for less than two years of college work; by 1938, for less than three years; by 1940, for less than four years; and by 1945 would require four years of college plus a year of "internership" at teaching before a candidate might receive permanent certification.

Education, as a profession, must frame its standards on a professional level. And it is only by just such stringent remedial measures that Florida's educational level will rise to meet standards that mount steadily higher through each era of progress.

Attention needs to be given to the matter of certification, to the matter of administrative procedure and training for administrative jobs, to the allotting of powers and duties to board members and others in power, and especially to the raising of standards on the basis of which citizens elect their educational leaders.

Florida is one of the forty-four states providing vocational rehabilitation service. But there is much yet to be done in this field. Practical courses of an occupational variety are of obvious value. We need more of them.

Conclusions and recommendations that would revolutionize a sluggish system are at Florida's fingertips. Can't she reach

From Bricks To Boquets

The college youth of America is showing evidences of emerging from its adolescence into maturity.

Developing in an era of melodramatic propaganda, the younger generation has known of only one way to express mass opinion—blatant histrionics.

Demanding more privileges, more responsibilities, we showed our unpreparedness to assume them by the immature, melodramatic manner in which we made the requests.

Youth saw no humor in its brick-throwing, wildly gesticulating demonstrations. Yet to our more analytically youthful bluster and blaringly inventive strewn criticisms of our elders we received hoarse throats, the threat of the removal of the privileges we did possess, and perhaps a few cracked skulls.

Now obviously we are beginning to initiate a new procedure. We are taking a step in the direction of advocating movements by subtle, quietly forceful ridicule rather than loud, uncontrolled yiegling.

Progeny of a generation which waged wars for which we are to pay we do demonstrate our refusal to repeat their actions. Not, however, by shouting "Down with war!" Our sincerity is not disguised by the supposed facetiousness of our Future Veterans movement. It is only taking a different form.

We have progressed from ex-

Them's My Sentiments Exactly!

By A. COED

Did you Know—

Mamie Eyeman's little boy David is doing all right by himself. Nell Woodham was quite worried because the boy friend thought she had another date Tuesday night. Harrel "Sweet William" Knight's clothes got a bath in the fish pool —he was inside them . . . Miss Rose of J. M. Hall, does not approve of our lying on the lawns (what're they for?) . . . That star fishing trip, plotted by coeds and local lads, failed to entice enough investors . . . It was indeed to Auburn Hood's date Tuesday night, but the name didn't matter. Frank "Heart-throb" Brannan is enrolled in Sociology? . . .

* * *

The Spark of Genius—

Brief—Electrical light, usually a warming of danger.

Biotry—The act of marrying when already married to one or more persons.

Bridge—A place of detention for lawbreakers.

Brief—Extreme woe or sorrow.

Bumps—A crowded river boat.

Broom—The male member of a marriage ceremony

Lobster—The fat meat of a whale. Used extensively as a food by the eskimos.

* * *

We propose—

Matrimony to financially independent maidens.

Three-day school, with time off for good behavior.

Police office light flash, or better yet—none at all.

That a house be set aside for coeds at night.

* * *

We Nominate—

"Screwball" Parker as campus sunflower.

"Strawberry" Syfrett and Marianna Acuri as the perfect couple in the Partridge Family campus calendar.

Billy Rickards for local Adonis.

* * *

We Recommend—

Jesse Parker's apartment to matrimonially-minded couples (hot water on Saturday nights).

"Zoology" course ("I'd walk a camel for a smile).

That you relate all your pet grievances to Professor Sammy.

* * *

Sammy: "Did you know Alec is sick from eating some kind of fish?"

Pedro: "Croquette?"

Sammy: "No, but he's awful sick."

* * *

Faculty Foibles—

"The nicest thing about horseback riding is the contacts one makes."—Dr. Paul Pinner.

* * *

"I can't answer my own questions."—Dr. Wm. H. Rogers.

* * *

"Frankly, my idea of heaven is not a place where I'll play a harp."—Dr. David Briggs.

"Candid Camera" Turned On Profs

From all reports the Carrabelle trip was a huge success . . . cloudless sky, lovely breeze and all the rest of the things that so to make a perfect day . . . due to the presence of large bats, long sleeves, etc., no one was sunburned . . . a few cautious ones even wore their bats swimming, according to the observant, Miss Katy. Too bad someone wasn't around with a candid camera in time to catch Mrs. Simmons pouncing on an escaping mackerel with all fours . . . or Dr. Waskom—he caught the prize fish, a thirty-three pounder . . . or Miss Mathews robbing the cradle of the deep—she caught a fish much smaller than her bait . . . Mrs. Kenneth Williams was the champion crabber. However, we award a medal for honesty to Dr. Bellamy—he refused to catch crabs with a net, but used his bare hands (and feet) . . . We hope the trip tomorrow will be as much fun.

Students and Faculty Take Carrabelle Trip

The summer school recreational association has planned a trip to Carrabelle for the summer school students and the faculty next week-end in addition to the regular outings to Camp Flastacowa, Wakulla Springs, and Lake Marks. The trip, which is to begin Saturday afternoon at one o'clock in front of the administration building, will cost $1.75 and will include such amusements as fishing, surfbathing on Dog Island, crabbing and catching flounders after dark.

The party will leave Carrabelle about eleven o'clock on Saturday night

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily opinions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal opinion, and is open to anyone who wishes to make constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Pro and Con" and mailed in the post office.

* * *

IN ANSWER TO

"MISCONCEPTIONS REGARDING DEPRESSION"

Without a doubt the writer of "Misconceptions Regarding Depression" throws a fresh light on many of the misconceptions about social service in the mass mind. I ever will know, but I should like to justify some of the remarks which I made in my previous article. Both the article and in the one appearing in the Florida Flambeau for June 19, 1936. I confine all my remarks to the cases with which I have dealt in my own community.

Perhaps it would be fair if we both agreed that it is very unfortunate that the case aide had all too little to do with social service in the true sense of the term. The case aide's work was primarily to administer relief and, in so far as possible, to help the client to adjust satisfactorily to social conditions.

It is expressing a point of view and not a fact to say that "no social worker can help the client in the mal-administration of relief under the pressure of hundreds of persons in desperation of economic necessities of life." I think that it applies only when the mistakes are not intentionally made, but when they are made unintentionally. I think that the case aide, as well as anyone else, is entitled to criticism for intentional mistakes. When such mistakes are made it means that the taxpayer money is wasted, and even more important that clients will suffer a little more than is necessary. For example, creating a place for a person who is not on relief and who is not absolutely necessary in the carrying on of the program is cheating the taxpayer and robbing the client of a little more help he might have had.

I have no doubt that in some communities case aides were liberal to those who aroused pity and disagrity to those who aroused prejudice or disgust," but in the emotionality no case aide could do anything but niggardly with the amount of money with which she had to work? Because a sob act was worked out on the basis of a good many months and, if less severe, even years of experience with the government and the number of people to be provided for. The head of the family (or a similar person) received anywhere from 90 cents to $2.40 a week with 9 cents in addition for each dependent! With this money the family had to meet all its obligations. It was impossible for the case aide to do more and, if less were given, a good reason for doing so had to be stated in the monthly report. This was checked by the social director, a woman who had a great deal of experience. In most instances the reason for giving less was that the client had a supplementary income.

My experience convinced me that most of the negroes in my community lied about their incomes. Proof of this was the include that all negroes are dishonest. My theory is that a few many more colored people than white were on relief, because they had been hardest hit by the depression, and that they, or at least a good many of them, willingly sacrificed the dignity of having their neighbors. One can hardly blame them for concealing their incomes, tiny as most of them were, when he considers that a negro was given a small less than white client. Heaven only knows how some of them would have lived unless they had had a supplementary income. Furthermore the negroes did not try to put up a "good front" but rather a "bad front." Most of them knew that less money they earned and the more children they had, the

(Continued on page three)

STUDENT-FACULTY FUNCTIONS HEAD SOCIAL ACTIVITIES FOR THIS WEEK

On Sunday, July 12, at two o'clock p. m. the third in a series of faculty-student coffees will be held at Reynolds and Jennie Murphree parlors.

Members of the faculty invited to the coffee by Reynolds are Jennie Till, Dr. Rhey Boyd Parmon, Miss Cecile Brown, Dr. Mrs. Lawrence DeGraff, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Dr. and Mrs. Ruth Washburn, Dr. and Mrs. Gayle Moore.

Those invited to the Jennie Murphree affair are Miss Ruth Goodhart, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Mrs. Clark, Miss Dorothy Taylor, Miss Sadie Young, Miss Katherine Abbey, Miss Lucretia Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer, Cotter Cotterill, and Dr. and Mrs. William H. Rogers.

Julia Vanderipe will be in charge of the coffee in Reynolds while Kathryn Olson will be in charge of that in Jennie Murphree hall.

Dorman To Speak

Dean Guilds Dorman will speak at an informal reception to be given in Reynolds parlor Monday, July 13, at seven fifteen o'clock.

Members of the social committee of which Mary Katherine Gibbs is chairman, will serve.

Pro and Con

(Continued from page two)

During the last session of the legislature, colored case aides were employed to handle colored clients. Not just after the colored, mind you—came to the office because that is the white case aides handle their problems again. A great many complaints were given, but I suspect, if I may be entitled to my own opinion, that the reason that the complaint was that the colored case aides were among them and knew which ones were earning their assistance which were entitled to relief.

While I was working with white clients I found fewer people who were at all unwilling to accept aid when turned to the government for relief as a last resort. However, when they did lie it was much harder to find it out.

Now it is perfectly true that social workers are not detectives," but the case aide found that among the several score of the methods of a detective some people would receive aid who were not entitled to it. These people were not those "who had lost step with the changing mode of ver," but rather a group of citizens who were taking advantage of a lamentable situation! It may be inconceivable to some that people who were earning less than much as the government could allow would unhesitatingly apply for relief and lie to get it. Not only could they lie but they would get the people to swear that they needed it!

For example, I had one woman client who, according to the case history, was a widow. Her son had recently been killed in the World war. Previous to that time she had received relief regularly. One of her neighbors told me that she was married and that her husband was working in the Coast Guard. She further stated that he paid her bills. I found that he came at the boat on which he was stationed and discovered that he was married to the client and that she was earning about $20.00 a week, which was sufficient for a boto to her! I experienced a great deal of delight in closing her case and in others which I found similar.

True, it matters not so much to a social worker that "a person has fabricated, as that the false statement has significance." The greatest significance to a case aide in this situation is that such a client was depriving others more worthy of relief.

To conclude, I strongly doubt that "perhaps the greatest tragedy of all is the distorted point of

Personal Mention

Martha Wilson, Susan Lester, Doris Olsen, and Bet'e Mackey visited the latter's family in Carabelle last week-end.

Students who visited in Milton last week-end include Dell Smith, Nancy Lee Moore, Edith Hildreth, Margarette Hamilton and Hazel Ates.

Marjorie Oliver visited her family in Chattahoochee last week-end.

Edith Reese spent last week-end with her family in Freeport.

Mrs Alyce B Leuders will be a visitor at Camp Flatacowo this week-end.

Georgia Barrow and Pearl Nelson were the guests of Mrs Frank Maddox, Tallahassee last week-end.

Eva Cox visited her home in Wanaui last week-end.

Pauline Crawford spent last week-end visiting her parents in Ponce de Leon.

Mary Anne Moore spent last week-end with her parents in Madison.

Wynona McCroy visited her home in Pensacola last week-end.

Mrs O. E. McGeuchy spent last week-end in Tallahassee.

Edna McLinis returned to O'Brien for a week-end visit with her family last week-end.

Mrs Wilbur Brown visited her husband last week-end at Lake Butler.

Mary Berryhill visited her family in Lakeland, Georgia, last week-end.

Ruby Chesney visited Mrs McDonald in Pensacola last week-end.

Virginie Mae Lee and Maggie Hunter visited the latter's mother Mrs. J. F. Hunter, in Bneads last week-end.

Henrietta Lisk spent last week-end in Port McCoy.

Gwendolyn Leavins visited in Ponce de Leon last week-end.

Pauline Musser returned to Grand Ridge for a visit with her family last week-end.

Myrtle Oyle spent last week-end with Mrs Hodge in Sopchoppy.

Margaret Kennedy visited her family in Maxine last week-end.

Mrs. I. R. Rowan, director of Reynolds hall has gone to Athens, Tennessee to visit friends for a short time. Mrs Rowan will spend the remainder of the summer with her family at Biloxi, Mississippi.

Mrs Melanie Turner has gone to Baltimore, Maryland to visit her sister, Mrs. Kennedy, for the remainder of the summer.

Louise Johnson spent last week-end with her family in Arcadia.

Doris Jones visited her home in Grand Ridge last week-end.

Merle Cason left yesterday for Jasper, where she will visit her family. Miss Cason will return Sunday.

Helen Terry visited her home in O'Brien last week-end.

Kitty Benson spent Monday and Tuesday of this week with her parents in Tallahassee.

Thelma Williams visited her home in Bonifay last week-end.

Edna Kunde visited her parents in Crestwood last week-end.

Monteen Council visited Mrs. W. R. Heyward in Mobile, Ala.

Lucille Dixon spent last week-end with her parents in Branford.

Lorraine English visited Mary J. H. Lanier in Anniston, Alabama, last week-end.

Coradel Chesshire visited Mrs. T. W. Conely, sr., in Marianna last week-end.

Myrl Garrett spent last week-end in Baker.

Grace Green returned to Bonifay for a week-end visit with her parents last week.

Minnie Sarah Harrell visited her parents in Saint Marks last week-end.

Marion Hepps spent last week-end visiting her parents in Jacksonville.

Isla Barber visited her parents in O'Brien last week-end.

Mrs. Mary Clarke, Mrs Ethel Brooks, and Miss Florence Okard

Play Night Will Begin Early So Students May Attend Melon Cutting

Play night will begin at seven forty-five tonight instead of the usual hour, eight, and will be over by nine so that students attending play night may also be present at the watermelon cutting to be given in the dining room outside at nine o'clock.

Folk dancing will be featured during the entire evening. Members of the folk dancing class will do special dances, after which all those present will be given opportunity to learn the simpler dances. There will be neither modern social dancing nor swimming; but the usual games will be played.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance will chaperon.

Stardust

The long awaited "San Francisco" will show at the State theatre this Friday and Saturday, bringing to the screen a great entertainment which, in the words o. the reviewer "is generally worth all the adjectives that should and undoubtedly will be bestowed upon it—proving its power by making an early morning New York audience break out in spontaneous applause."

"Jeanette McDonald has never sung better or looked lovelier. Gable gives a dominating characterization," lauds another reviewer.

"Packs a wallop that is felt in every foot of film. I defy anyone to sit unmoved," says a Chicago critic.

And Tallahassee audiences are now to be treated to one of the season's best.

* * *

On Sunday and Monday, July 12 and 13, Richard Dix and Karen Morley come to the State screen in "Devil's Squadron," another air thriller.

The story concerns Paul Redmond, war ace accused of "bailing out" on a student flyer, who is hired by Dana Kirk as a test pilot for the Colonel Dawson airport. The Colonel is killed in a test flight, and his son, another flash, promptly loses his nerve and commits suicide. Kirk, in love with Martha Dawson, suspects Paul of betraying him by making love to Martha.

What Paul does to prove his loyalty to Kirk, and to remove the black mark on his record is for you to discover, when you come to the theatre this week-end.

will spend this week-end in Jacksonville visiting their families and friends.

Madge Wallace will spend this week-end in Jacksonville.

Lucille Anderson visited Mrs. J. O. Reed in Bristol last week-end.

Edith Adkison went to Milton-Oaskes for a week-end visit with Mrs. Jim Herring.

Blanche Bilinski visited her parents in Montecello last week-end.

Olivia Bradley visited Mrs. Henry Wester last week-end.

Mrs. Cora Lee Thompson spent last week-end in Jacksonville.

Christie Vespers Speaker

Dr Luther Rice Christie, pastor of the first Baptist church of Tallahassee, will speak at the vesper service Sunday in the Auditorium Conradi theatre at seven-fifteen o'clock. There will be a song service.

Free Moving Pictures To Be Shown Next Week

A moving-picture program of educational films is to be shown here on Tuesday, July 14, at 4:30 p. m. in the Augusta Conradi theatre, according to an announcement made by Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, this week.

The pictures will include drama'c picture of the thrills of stunt driving, in a safety film, and a rel ef cursing revival is also to be shown. There will be no admission charge, and all students are invited to attend.

Social Dancing Initiated

Beginning next week there will be a class in modern social dancing each Wednesday at five-thirty o'clock in the big gym in the physical education building. Florence Devine and Muriel Leibman will instruct the class. There will be no fees charged or credit given for this course.

Rare Old Books Recall History of Early Days

(Continued from page one)

well remembered in Tallahassee where she was born on September 9, 1825, and where she now has descendants living. Among these are Mrs. Leroy Collins, nee Miss Mary Call Darby, a graduate of Florida State College in 1933, and Dr. E. M. Brevard, also of this city. It is said that Ellen Call Long knew personally every Floida governor from Jackson to Broward as well as the business of history of the territory and state. She also organized the Kate Vernon association; aided in the organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Florida; and assisted in the preservation of the Hermitage, General Jackson's old home.

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—JULY 10-11
Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald
in
"SAN FRANCISCO"
SUNDAY AND MONDAY—JULY 12-13
Richard Dix and Karen Morley
in
"DEVIL'S SQUADRON"
TUESDAY—JULY 14
Gloria Stuart and Robert Kent
in
"THE CRIME OF DR. FORBES"
WEDNESDAY—JULY 15
Randolph Scott and Frances Drake
in
"AND SUDDEN DEATH"
THURSDAY—JULY 16
Lew Ayres and Florence Rice
in
"PANIC ON THE AIR"
COMING FRIDAY—JULY 17
"GREEN PASTURES"

It Pays to Shop at
GELBERG'S
College Avenue

FINAL SHOE CLEARANCE

Our Entire Stock of Fine Summer Shoes and Sandals. . . Values to $6.00. Reduced to one low price—

$1.95

Styles:
Pumps, Straps, Ties, Oxfords.

Leathers:
Fine Kids, Genuine Backskins.

Colors:
White, Pastels, Brown and White, Blue and White.

All Widths—Sizes to 9.

Signed: Joan Cooperman.

FSCW May Have New Buildings

Appropriation Asked For Dormitory, Additions

Appropriations providing for three new buildings for the Florida State College for Women are believed by Mr. I. O. Keilun to be available soon. Plans for a new dormitory and additions to the infirmary and dining hall are included.

The building program has been asked for through the PWA and it is hoped that with the new appropriation that has been made by the government it will be approved, Mr. Keilun stated.

Nothing definite is known at present but it has been approved by all the boards and awaiting the donation of the money.

The plans for the new dormitory, costing about $400,000 have been completed. It is to be built of concrete and steel and constructed similar to Gilchrist hall and will accommodate 400 students. The present plan is to erect the new dormitory south of Gilchrist and work will begin as soon as the appropriation is made. The building will require about twelve months to complete.

128 Candidates For Graduation Announced

(Continued from page one)

Carrabelle, Helen Griggs Stark, Miami; Alice Maige Ward, Tallahassee; Helen Young, St. Petersburg.

Two-year diplomas in education, Junior High School: Blanche Martha Bidinost, Monticello; Mildred Booth Brewster, Zella Kathleen Bradford, Wilhelmina Fay Va; Lula B. Brown, Jacksonville; Mildred Elisabeth Cheif, Jacksonville, Frances Roberta Crews, Lacoochee, Elizabeth Edney Guthrie, Cortez; Sara Evelyn Harvey, Tarpon Springs, Edwinola Jordan, Nichols; Hazel Kerney, Wynnehaven Beach; Florence Catherine Mayfield, Marianna; Eula Mae Mims, St. Petersburg; Ida Pearle Miller, Miami; Rubylea Palmer, Tallahassee; M r i a m Ramsey, Bosta, Ga.; Effie Sourry, Monticello, Julia Turbyfill, Gkeechobee; Ethel Mary Turner, Greenwood.

Intermediate grades: Marion C Anderson, Pensacola, Exa Cox, Wausau; Dorothy Helen Dobbs, Jay; Ila Mae Lucia Flemming, Pensacola, Hazel Mary Guttings, Pensacola, Sarah Glover, Ruth Marks, Rachel Jennie Griffin, New Smyrna, Emmie Florida Gunn, Pensacola, Eunice Gwendolyn Hall, Pensacola, Muriel Hutchinson-Jacksonville; Dorothy Brunell Johnson, Bradley Junction; Loka Louise Johnson, Arcadia; Marjorie Kent, Fort Myers; Annette C. Marcox, Jacksonville; Geraldine Elizabeth Miles, Panama City; Evansneie Jane Morford, Dania; Beulah Elizabeth Potter, Ocala, Virginia Eleanor Rhodes, Key West; Jeanette Wickham, Eau Gallie.

Primary-Kindergarten: Maxine Levan Beatty, Pensacola, Olivia C. Boland, Wauchula; Evelyn Wilis Bowden, Leesburg; Lucette Revere Branham, Miami; Eunice Clawson, Tallahassee, Meda Fuhrer, Jacksonville, Lilla Gilbert, Monticello; Kathleen Crawford Gladden, DeFuniak Springs, Grace Green, Bonifay, Wanda Mary Greer, Jacksonville, Maude Griswold, Dade City; Eloise W. Hall, Jacksonville; Susan Harrison Lester, Fort Myers, Alla Kathryn Little, Fort Meade; Perla Marwell, Tallahassee C. Louise McCall, Sarasota; Mary Kathryn Mickler, Tampa, Viola Mitchell, Gracewille, Nancy Lee Moore, Laurel Hill; Jessie Nelson, Clearwater; Doris Irene Olson, Lake Worth; Stella Richardson, Pensacola; Ennis Robinson, Jacksonville; Leone Many Smith, Quincy; Dorothea Louise Stahman, Tallahassee; Edna Marvin Stanfill, Quincy; Nelle Ruth Stokes Baker, Clara M Stringfield, Pensacola, Ada Belle Tallahassee; Lucile Weeks,

Sport Squints

By MARY BOASWRIGHT

Play night this week will be an extra-special affair, for besides the regular sports and dancing program there will be every where will be a watermelon cutting in the dining room arcade at nine o'clock. Come on out to the gym and play until nine, when you can stop for the pause that refreshes.

There are two sides to everything—the bright and the dark. We have discussed the bright side of the picture before in this column, but not until this week have we had an opportunity to view the dark side of the game.

It seems that the maids and janitors in Bryan have discovered the delights of the ping-pong tables, too, and if you pass through the lower section most any time you're apt to find a tournament in progress played before an enthusiastic gallery.

Saturday evening, July 4, the Tombaugh-Battle company presented the opera "Carmen" in the kitchen of cabin number two, Camp Flatacowo. This performance is an annual event, and is looked forward to with keen interest by veteran summer-schoolers and neophytes alike. The performers wear the brief but apt costumes and their musical score is rendered difficult to the accompaniment of that melodious instrument, the dishpan.

When the car turned over last Saturday night, Bertie had the sensation of being kicked in the shins during a soccer game, of looking forward to with keen interest by veteran summer-schoolers and neophytes alike. The performers wear the brief but apt costumes and their musical score is rendered difficult to the accompaniment of that melodious instrument, the dishpan.

What the well-dressed young gentleman should wear for swimming was demonstrated by virtually all of the "co-eds" at Atlanta. In the wierdest of costumes, several of them were observed making for the pool one day. Interested onlookers were soon amazed to see the swimmers immediately begin to undress in the water, and relieved to discover the reason—the disrobing test for self-dressing examinations.

Brooksville. Fulda Catherine Swindle, Pensacola; Florence Vashtye Thaft, Tallahassee; Blanche Weeks, Newberry; Virginia Louise Westbrook, Clermont; Mary Esther Wills, Pensacola.

Meet Your Friends at Culpepper-Pratt Drug Co.
300 S. Monroe

Magazine Thumbings

By MARY N. CLARKE

THE BOGEY OF MOSCOW
By Walter Duranty
North American Review.
June, 1936.

When Al Smith told the members of the Liberty League that in this election the people alone would have to choose between Washington or Moscow, Duranty says he did not know what he was talking about. "Perhaps," says Mr. Duranty, "he was trying to frighten his hearers with horrors as the English nurses did long ago when they told the children that if they were naughty old Boney would eat them." Meaning Napoleon Bonaparte. What Mr. Smith might have meant was that if the rights of capital were infringed on how can the poor man know that they won't take his dime, too, or take it out in taxes."

The present administration's ventures into state ownership and control have been very timid and cautious. Staid and conservative England has gone farther to the "left" than we have with their state controlled telephone and telegraph lines, their banking laws, and their check upon the stock exchanges.

Moscow has complete state control over all business, banks, railroads, industry, and, in fact, everything. All profit is prohibited. Anyone who dares to take a profit is sent to Siberia under the protection of a kindly member of the G. P. U.

The state planning commission or Gosplan controls the whole economic life of the country. So U. S. S. R. is a long way from Russia.

Mr. Duranty says that some of F. D. Roosevelt's policies have been, as y and ill-considered but that doesn't mean we are on the way to socialism and Russia. The only danger is that a sentiment may be created in the minds of the masses for reckless expenditures and that the state will find jobs for them and increase the cost to the community.

Have the Russians the right key to the solution of the economic problem after all? It would involve the submergence of the individual and that is one thing we Americans won't stand for. We are men and not slaves to the dictates of a dictator. Perhaps that is what Mr. Smith meant, but he didn't express himself very well.

* * *

DOWN TO EARTH
By Rexford G. Tugwell
Current History, July, 1936

In this article Mr. Rex Tugwell discusses land problems and people's adjustments to them. Because there have been dust storms, droughts, and floods, there is no excuse to conclude that the lands suffering from these disasters should be used only to grow grass and trees. It is all a question of adjustments which, in turn, involve a careful analysis of the relation of different kinds of soil to the right kinds of crops it will support. Farming and grazing practices must be brought into harmony with the requirements of nature.

Erosions and dust storms are social problems. In some cases the remedy is very simple while in others there is a need for conservation. The soil conservation service reinforces the work of other agencies. Its primary job is to help and advise. The Resettlement Administration makes adjustments. It helps as many farmers as its funds will permit. It acquires title to lands and attempts to put them to some use other than agriculture. It develops resettlements on good lands.

Mr. Tugwell believes that farming must be subjected to social accounting, that is, no one should grow anything that does not contribute. The farmer must adopt better practices and learn to cooperate with the soil and nature. Products that bring increased per acre because of better knowledge of crops, rotation, pest control and various other improvements.

The farmer must know that the product he produces will be used and that he will get a fair profit on it. This links the whole economic system. We must keep the two in "balance," as Secretary Wallace terms it.

Mr. Tugwell concludes, "Land and the people. These must think together and work together in a national unity. The battle is beginning from the pioneer stage in thinking of personal relationships. We have definitely set our faces towards the future; and it is a future that does not look too dark."

* * *

COLUMBIA SUMMER SESSION
Fortune, July, 1936

Fifteen minutes from Times Square is a city the size of Santa Fe, bounded on all sides by a swarming metropolis. A city without a city is Columbia summer with its 1200 students. These students come from the four corners of the globe. Their qualifications consist of anything from a Ph.D. to never having been inside a university before. Their social standing ranges from members of Philadelphia's elite society to those who fear being lynched back home in Columbia summertains." Their politics may run the gamut from royalism to Marxism. Their purpose in coming to Columbia is from learning how to run a large city system to washing a lover.

The income from this huge plant approximates a million dollars for each summer session.

Final Reductions

Every shoe in stock now including famous Golo Deluxe Patent Sandals. All colors . . . lo and hi heels.

$1.94

PAIR

All Sizes All Widths

QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

East College Ave.

BRIGGS ACCEPTS NEW APPOINTMENT

(Continued from page one)

the inter-collegiate debating team for three years.

Marrville is an endowed, coeducational, Presbyterian institution with a student body of 800. Every year approximately forty Florida students attend there

Dr. Briggs, with his family, will leave here in August to assume his new duties.

In speaking of Dr. Briggs, Dean Nathaniel M. Bailey, head of the department of education, said "He has rendered a distinct service here in teacher-training and has made many useful contacts for the college."

Dr. Brigs' successor has not yet been named.

Motion Pictures Among Various Innovations At Demonstration School

(Continued from page one)

on each other. Also shown were the spider that builds her best and cleanest home with her and the wasp who stupifies her victim and places the insect in a small hole in the ground.

Visitors are always welcome at the demonstration school and will find the educational films topics of interest for everyone, according to Dr. Parsons.

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept.
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
Choice of:
Roast Young Turkey and Dressing, Egg Gravy
Cold Baked Tender Made Ham with Apple Sauce
Fried Spring Chicken, Country Style
No. 2 ..... 35c No. 1 ..... 25c
VEGETABLES:
MASH POTATOES
GARDEN PEAS
CREAMED CABBAGE
FRUIT SALAD — DRINK
GRAPENUT MUFFIN
—DESSERT—
Cantaloupe a la Mode
VEGETABLES:
GARDEN PEAS
MASHED LYONS YAMS
LETTUCE AND TOMATOES
DRINK
—DESSERT—
Fruit Jello with Whip Cream
Try Our Western Steaks—All Kinds of Short Orders Cooked and Prepared Any Hour of Day.

EXTRA SPECIAL
Fresh Fruit Banana Split
With Fresh Peaches and Cantaloupe Topping, Whipped Cream and Cherry.
15c
Russell McPhail Double Rich Ice Cream, pt. 25c
Bennett's Special Ice Cream, pt. 15c
Phone 800
Bennett's
Quick Delivery

More
Watermelon Tonight

The Florida Flambeau

Hear
Dr. Heinlein Speak

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JULY 17, 1936 Number 5

Board of Control Appoints Seven Faculty Members

New Teachers are Elected To Fill Vacancies For Next Term

Miss Katherine Byrd of Tallahassee, Fla. was appointed director of residence halls at the meeting of the board of control held on Monday of this week at the George Washington hotel in Jacksonville.

Miss Byrd will succeed Mrs. Carrie Scandrett, who has been social director for some years and who resigned her position on the advice of her physician. Miss Byrd is a graduate of the Florida State College for Women of the class of 1922. For the past few years Miss Byrd has been active in welfare work in Florida.

New Faculty Members

Miss Ruth Fiarman was appointed assistant professor of Latin and Greek for the coming year to take the place of Miss Edith West who will be on leave of absence. Miss Fairman has her master's degree from Wellesley, Mass. and additional work toward her Ph.D.

Miss Marion Louise Conway was appointed instructor in education for the coming year to take the place of Miss Ella Agnew who will be on leave of absence. Miss Conway has her master's degree from Peabody college.

Mr. Clarence Priest of Tallahassee was appointed supervisor in the intermediate grades of the demonstration school. He is a graduate of the State College of Florida.

Miss Martha Lois Smith of Quincy, Fla. was appointed teacher of high school English in the demonstration school. She is a graduate of the Florida State College for Women and has her master's degree from Emory university.

Other Appointments

Miss Evelyn Bulkley of Tallahassee, Fla. was appointed secretary of commerce and secretary to the superintendent of the Demonstration school. She has her A.B. in commerce from the Florida State College for Women.

Miss Margaret Dasher was appointed assistant dietitian to take the place of Miss Ruth Carpenter who has resigned. Miss Dasher has been working for the past year in the dining room as a student dietitian.

At the same time that these appointments were made the board of control acted upon the American Legion scholarship to be used at this college to Miss Homer Kreamer Harris of Bonifay, Fla.

Florida High Students Open New Auditorium With Hop for Students

A dance will be given at the demonstration school of Florida State College for Women tonight in honor of Florida high school alumni and summer students. Others invited are Florida high school winter students and a number of other guests.

The affair will be given in the recently completed auditorium from 9 to 12 p. m., and dancing will be to music of the new radio and victrola at the demonstration school.

On the committee planning the event are Lavine Vose, Howell Collins, Mrs. Dora Skipper and Miss Florence Tyron.

Students Invited To Melon Cutting

Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian, has announced that there is to be a watermelon cutting in the dining hall arcade tonight at nine o'clock.

All members of the student body are invited to attend.

Orchestra Gives Initial Recital

Program Is Directed By Owen F. Sellers

The first recital of the summer was given by the summer orchestra and chorus of the school of music on Wednesday evening in the college auditorium.

The orchestra under the direction of Mr. Owen F. Sellers gave the program as follows:

The Call of Bagdad, a Boleldieu
Schubert Suite	Schubert
a. Marche Heroique
b. Rosamunde from Ballet Music.

Miss Gladys Olive Koch directed the chorus which rendered the following numbers:

Morning (From Gypi Suite), Grieg
Spiritual: Were You
There? Burleigh
Ashes of Roses Woodman
The Cuckoo Clock Grant-Schaefer
Song To Bohemia, Deemo Taylor

The program closed with a march, "A Prince Passes," by Mackie-Beyer. Splendid technique and fine interpretation was displayed in each number given.

Members of the chorus: Miss Ursula Ale Adams, Miss Ruth Springs; Miss Marion Carson, Daytona Beach; Mrs Leslie Clark, Jacksonville; Mrs. Mary Fields, Bradenton; Mrs. Hannah B. Gassaway, Jacksonville; Miss Ruth Herbert, Jacksonville; Miss Virginia Johnston, Dunnellon; Miss Genevieve Kenly, Jacksonville; Miss Edna Moon, Tallahassee; Mrs. Ruth Mosher, Petersburg; Mrs. E. E. McDowell, Lake Butler; Miss Irene Perry, Tallahassee; Mrs. Cevie Post, Ocala.

Second soprance — Mrs. Lula Belle Buchlin, Dade City; Miss Christine Carter, Tampa; Mrs. Grace B. Hatfield, Haines City; Mrs. Myrtis Hinton, Molino; Miss Ivy May Johnson, Tallahassee; Mrs. Cornelia P. Long, Starke; Miss Pearl Miller, Tallahassee; Mrs. Emogene Smith, Williston; Miss Leonora Stewart, Bradenton; Miss Ethel Thomas, High Springs; Miss Charlotte Veith, Jacksonville; Mrs. Edna Williams, Williston; Miss Marion Worley, Jasper; Mrs. Edna Coutant, Stuart.

First and second altos—Miss Ruth Bearden, Ocala; Miss Margaret Eckland, Tampa; Mrs. Mary Nadin, Melbourne; Mrs. Ethel Farrow, West Palm Beach; Miss Marion Morse, West Palm Beach; Mrs. Bessie B. McKinnon, De Funiak Springs; Ines Newman, Miss Johnsonville; Miss Lucile Lawson, Daytona Beach, violin; Miss Mildred Hurst, Tallahassee, French horn; Miss Irby Johnson, Tallahassee, tuba; Miss Zella Williams, Williston, drums; also Miss Martha Reddick, violin, Bill Hosford, string bass; Mr. Price, saxophone, and Walter Rieke, clarinet, the latter non-students.

Reporter Looks At Amateur Side Of Palm-reading

Student Fortune-Teller Travels Picturesque Road to Romany

BY JOAN COOPERMAN

Since fortune tellers had been taking a good deal of my dad's well-earned money, I thought one day that it would be less of a drain if I could learn to tell my own fortune in such a way that I could convince myself of all my latent possibilities and of all the adventures life had in store for me so that fortune tellers would hold no further allurement for me.

This thought was the result of my casual perusal of the children's page in a Sunday paper where my eye had alighted on a column entitled, "Learn to Tell Fortunes."

Each Sunday thereafter I closed myself away from the prying eyes of my friends and studiously memorized the lines in the children's page where I spent an absorbing half-hour figuring out that the lines in my hand proved all the things I wanted them to prove.

More or less to convince myself of my ability to read all up I had many misgivings), I started telling the fortunes by reading the lines in their hands. I found that most of them were eager to tell me their, and all were just as anxious as I to believe that my fortune-telling figures were coming to them in the not-too-distant future. I found that it was easier to convince them that I knew whereof I spoke by simply memorizing a few remarks in such a way that they sounded like compliments. For instance, it would be impossible to the listener to be called "unfortunate" disappointed.

After once establishing the life line, the head line, the heart line, and the money line I had a limitless field for my imagination to rally to its support. The only calloping to conscious leads to disastrous results. I failed to convince! I discovered that it was much more effective if I stopped the line in my hand and half closed my eyes as though I were peering into the future. An expression of deep mysticism is appealing to the listener. During these agonizing moments one can either catch up on a little back sleep or plan such details from the person's appearance as will help him.

In these days of knowing how to judge others by their dress, shoes, hands, ears, hair, clothes and even lipstick, it is a simple matter to have some standard by which to judge. One fortune teller of my acquaintance always glanced at the shoes of her customer. If they were old and well kept she would suggest "Mother" as the main action of the depression. It is an easy generalization in any case. Those of us who are fortunate, or unfortunate, enough not to be dressed in the depression are in the great minority, and even so we can claim past glories in better times and with a little addiction and certainly none from fortune tellers.

There are other generalities even more effective. One is that one is a young girl, one can, without a great deal of mental effort, conclude that she is in love, or at least thinks she is, which is just as useful. Then since the path of love rarely runs smoothly one can suggest that there is some obstacle. The safest one for the fortune teller is that there is someone close to her whom she does not suspect who

(Continued on page four)

COLLEGE CALENDAR
July 19-July 25

Sunday

11:00 a. m. Church services.
2:00 p. m. Informal reception, Bryan sun parlor. Informal reception, Jennie Murphree parlor.
7:15 p. m. Vespers, Dr. Bellamy, r. s. Baker. Song service.

Monday

7:15 p. m. Informal reception, Reynolda hall, Miss Leila Venable, speaker.

Tuesday

12:00 m. Convocation, Dr. Conradi, speaker. "The Public School Teacher and the Spiritual Life."

Wednesday

6:30 p.m. Student faculty dinner, dining hall.
8:00 p. m. Dr. Christian Heinlein, speaker, Auguste Conradi theater — subject, Emotional Effect of Wagnerian Opera."

Thursday

5:00 p. m. Alumnae tea for graduates.
p. m. Kappa Delta Pi banquet.

Friday

8:00 p. m. Play nite—gymnasium.

Dr. DeGraff Is Chapel Speaker

Outlines State Program Of Testing

Dr. Mark H. DeGraff, professor of education, was the speaker at convocation on Tuesday. His topic was the state testing program being used in the high schools throughout the state.

Approximately 8000 mental and psychological examinations have been sent out by the department, said Dr. DeGraff. These tests are designed for each grade level for measuring ability and accomplishment of each pupil. Although such tests are not absolute or final, they give a definite indication of the student's standing in that particular time and particular measurement. They act as a guide in vocational and educational guidance.

From results obtained, Florida rates satisfactorily with the national standards; one boy having made a score in a psychological test as high as the highest made in a group of 40,000 college freshmen.

The testing committee hopes that by these tests each school in Florida will have a definite idea of how it ranks with other schools in the United States.

Dean Sandels Returns From Annual Home Ec Conference in Seattle

Dean Margaret Sandels, of the school of home economics, returned this week from the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association, in Seattle, Washington.

Miss Sandels attended the conference in the capacity of southern regional counselor. She was elected vice-president of the association for the coming year, and will serve a term of three years.

Miss Sandels took an active part in the conference program as the leader of two discussion groups. Her subjects were "College Curricula for Home Economics," and "Standards for Low Cost Diets."

Honoraries Issue Bids to Eleven Summer Students

Initiation Will Be Held By Both Groups Within Coming Week

Bids have just been issued, it was announced this week, to eleven summer school students at Florida State College by Phi Kappi, and Kappa Delta Pi, national Greek-letter associations.

Phi Kappa Phi is a general honorary scholastic fraternity, and Kappa Delta Pi an honorary educational fraternity. The local chapters represent the only two honorary organizations which are active on the campus during the summer term.

Phi Kappa Phi Bids

Receiving Phi Kappa Phi bids, announced by Miss Florence Tyron, president of the Florida State College chapter, were Miss Gladys Howard of Dade City and Miss Cora Fay of Panama City.

Students receiving Kappa Delta Pi bids were announced by Miss Margaret McCurdie, president of Alpha Delta chapter here. They are Mrs. Gertrude Maxey, Miss Florence Akard, Miss Ardelle Davis, Miss Mary Almyra Davis and Miss Ocie Wirt, all of Jacksonville; Miss Frances Lois Nippert, St. Petersburg; Miss Cora Fay, Panama City; Miss Mary Greeland, Port Pierce; Miss Kate Mc-Pherson, Bradenton, and Miss Vera Barefoot, Graceville.

Initiation will be held by both groups within the next two weeks.

Mrs. Finner Entertains

Mrs. Paul F. Finner, counsellor for the local Kappa Delta Pi chapter, entertained at an after theater coffee on last Saturday to which members, pledges and their families were invited. An initiation banquet is to be held later.

Educational Pictures Shown to Students At Demonstration School

Three educational moving pictures were shown at the demonstration school last Monday morning by the Chevrolet Motor Co., featuring the necessity of education in all the branches of industry.

After the exhibition Mr. C. P. Priest, teacher of the sixth grade, gave his students the opportunity to interview the film demonstrator. Each week the students of the sixth grade edit a column of news articles for the Florida State News" consisting of short sketches and a little poem.

One unit on the trend of the westward movement in this country was illustrated in the study of the history, games, and folk dances of the people of that section. Mr. Priest is anxious to instill in the minds of his pupils the realization for knowledge and travel in our own country.

They have a collection made by the students of scrap books, elementary wall paper designs, decorated tiles, book ends and woven mats.

Influence of Opera Topic of Forum Speech

Dr. C. P. Heinlein will speak at the forum lecture to be held at the Auguste Conradi little theater next Wednesday night at eight o'clock. His topic is "Emotional Effect of Wagnerian Opera."

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students in the classes in journalism, Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1931.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1914, at the post office at Tallahassee, Florida, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

STAFF

Editor ..... Althea Smith
Business Manager. Betty Evans
Departments: Sports, Mary Boatwright; Copy, Henry Colee, Jesse Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lucy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

My Kingdom For a Co-Ed!

Co-education is a question that has aroused much attention here and at the university during the last year. By singing several of the summer school students and asking them what they thought of co-education at F. S. C. W. I encountered a variety of opinions.

It seems that none are heartily opposed to the idea, and no one cares enough about having coeducation here to get the lend out of their shoes and work for it. They all seem to be in favor of it "if someone else will do all the work."

The first girl questioned gave me a very icy stare and replied. "Oh, I don't much care—you know the co-eds that we get here ain't so hot." I wonder where she got the idea that co-eds come here in the summer for the purpose of catching the heat, or whatever she was talking about. Maybe if a few of the would come here during the fall term we could with the able assistance of that young lady, become "Hot co-eds."

The next girl questioned immediately and enthusiastically replied "Oh boy, I'm in favor of it," then turning to her companion she said, "Just think how much better chance we would have of getting married if our school were co-education-al!" Just think of the effect that might have on a prospective co-ed.

Another responded that she was in favor of it, but that she was afraid it might keep her from making the honor roll again.

The most marked differences of opinion come from the high schools of Tallahassee. The boys seem to feel that the idea is "lousy," while the girls of Tallahassee vote whole-heartedly for it.

Most of the mature students interviewed this summer are not in favor of co-education. They think that the boys and girls both do better work in separate schools.

Co-education will have little effect on the grades of those who really want an education, is another popular opinion. Some think that co-education would lower the moral standards of the students. But a majority of those interviewed votes the quibblers down.

One of the most important things to learn in college is how to mingle with people. When we get out in the world, all of our social activities are not going to be with those of our own sex. We need a broader cultural and social education, the kind that can be gotten only by associations with both men and women. If the school officials think that co-education would increase the skullduggery, let them double the ranks of "the college girls' stool pigeon association."

Co-education in either of Florida's state colleges is very likely to be difficult to bring to reality. But as for that, any radical change or reform is likely to be. The first step in a campaign of this sort is to get the interest of the student body aroused over the question. Get their support as well as their interest. Organization and cooperation are essential—there will be plenty of opposition from parents, professors and other "pests," but "nothing is going to be done without work, and plenty of it, on the part of several persons. A real organized fight for this issue might make it a reality and not merely a subject for conversation.

In short, what this college needs is a good five cent cigar —and a few men about to smoke them.

—Jesse Parker

War and Peace

Not only must we keep a mental picture of all war means and all it involves but we must react emotionally. Not by useless ranting farcial demonstrations and like but by vigorous enthusiasm and heartfelt eagerness.—Wheaton News.

* * *

The next war will be won by the nation having the best supply of chewing. Dr Harrell Fenske, Pennsylvania State College.

* * *

Graduate Education

For years, the public has wondered about the value of a grnduate educatiou. Just what is the difference between a four year man and a six year man? Well, the university office has been kind enough to clear up the question in a little pamphlet of instructions that was distributed among those lucky boys and girls last spring. It reads: "The bachelor's gown is fastened in front by a hook; the master's and doctor's gowns are not closed in front. The latter are kept in place by the tie strings which are brought forward over the shoulders."

At last we know the difference.—Brown and White.

HEADLINES and FOOTNOTES

By LOUISE MAE FARROW

The traditionally friendly relationship between Austria and Germany was recently re-established in accordance to an official statement from the foreign office.

By the terms of the agreement Austria was to consult Germany before she takes such step as a member of the Rome pact signed by Austria, Hungary and Italy. Germany is not joining the Rome pact but merely is taking a friendly attitude towards the arrangement. She will not in any way interfere in the other's internal affairs, and the Austrian form of government is not changed, but slight additions have been made.

Edmond Diale Hortaens, director of war archives, becomes minister without portfolio in the Austrian cabinet.

From Rome comes the announcement that Premier Benito Mussolini expects a full approval of the Austro-German accord and in a telegram to Chancellor Karl Schuschnirg of Austria called the pact "a notable step on the road to normalcy in Europe."

* * *

A grave situation exists in the Far East through disagreement over the use of a rifle range in a section part of the area east of Tsitsen A detachment of Chinese troops were routed by a Japanese detachment several rifle shots were fired by both sides during the argument. The Chinese claim to be regarded as serious as it followed so closely the bombing of a Japanese civilian in Shanghai last week. Officials immediately opened negotiations for settling the conflict.

* * *

With President and Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt attending, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens, United States Minister to Denmark, was married this week to Captain Boerge Rohde in Washington, D. C. Denmark's King Christian. The ceremony was performed in James Chapel, the Roosevelt family's church, in Hyde Park, N. Y. Reverend Samuel Shoemaker, rector of Calvary Episcopal church, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the former William Jennings Bryan and the first woman envoy of the United States. President and Mrs Roosevelt were hosts at a wedding supper at their home in Hyde Park

* * *

Because of German discrimination against certain American imports the Treasury department announced it would put into effect the countervailing duties that were ordered a month ago under the authority of the Tariff Act of 1930.

These duties were imposed for bounties granted by the German government to exporters of certain articles.

The state department action was a retaliatory measure, authorized by the Trades Agreement Act of 1934, but taken reluctantly by the official announcement.

* * *

Uncle Sam is soon to test the advisability of building moderately priced h o m e s, electrically equipped, for rental during moderate incomes.

More than 2,000 applications are on file for the 604 new residence units built through the FWA for low income project in Atlanta, Georgia, for the government.

The project is a city within a city; it covers eleven blocks facing the Georgia Tech campus. The unit will include offices for doctors and dentists, a supervised playground and kindergarten for children.

According to D. A. Calhoun, families will be selected whose incomes range from $1,200 to $1,800

(Continued on page three)

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

FEAR AND THE PROBLEM OF LABOR

Antagonism, bitterness, strife, conflict, greed—brands seared all over the hide of the industrial and economic life, the life that most of us will enter—that is the impression created by Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, in his talk Tuesday night at the Union.

Mr Martel was exceedingly definite in his analysis of the origins of the evils of which unsightly blemishes disfiguring the world of supply and demand outside of college.

They arise, in his belief, fundamentally from the failure of industrial owners to allow industrial workers the "inalienable American right" to bargain collectively, collective bargaining organizations, and the resultant failure of employers to command a "fair share" of industrial income and a reasonable assurance of steady employment.

These are familiar charges, and his audience at the Union was inclined to be skeptical. When he pointed out the "unreasonable opposition to organized labor, particularly the blind, unintelligence of proponents of organized labor—the racketeering and the sabotage and the destructive practices of which labor en masse has not been entirely innocent.

Yet the intelligent reaction, it seems to us, is neither one of attack against nor of support for the arguments of Mr. Martel. The intelligent reaction is one of analyzing the social situations that produce these arguments.

—Michigan Daily.

OPPORTUNITIES AWAIT

To you graduating students we might, if we were pessimistic, point with gloomy predictions, to the 10,000,000 unemployed and the many college trained minds await you upon entering into the competitive outside world.

But the fact is that opportunities for positions are much better than they were last year at this time, or for that matter five years. True, conditions are far from ideal. There is much to be asked for, unemployment and the dead ulcers resulting from the evils of the present system still loom before us like a spectre. These are some of the obstacles you will have to meet, and do your part in solving the complexities of these problems.

We do say, though, that you graduates, who have fortified yourselves with trained minds, ability to meet life's situations, initiative, and a strong character (including a pleasing personality) will be preferred to those who have not the college education. Commerce, industry, business and the professional fields desire college graduates, as their employment surveys. Gradually, college graduates will be separated entirely those so-called "self-made men.

—The Aquin.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF SUMMER

Students who for lack of time miss the proper amount of physical exercise during the school year will be acting wisely if they will arrange for physical training this summer to play outdoor games

(Continued on page three)

Magazine Thumbings

By LOUISE MAE FARROW

AMERICA AND CHINA'S SILVER

By Eliot Janeway
Asia, July, 1936.

The agreement with the government of China by which the United States treasury will buy silver directly from the China Bank of China, announced by Secretary Morgenthau on May 31, Mr. Janeway says, is nothing in official admission that the silver crusade has failed.

For years ago the United States hoped to "rehabilitate silver" in China, the writer remarks, the theory being that from increased exports to the famine stricken market and to the halting of the Japanese expansion. Instead, when the United States began buying silver at London, the Chinese began hoarding it to sell in London, and the steady drain of silver from China depressed conditions to the breaking point, he says. China has abandoned silver, he remarks, her position began to improve.

Mr. Janeway concludes that the United States has defeated its own purpose, and the silver must now fall because China, the main strongpoint, is no longer a customer for it. Moreover, he adds, English influence is again predominant in China, China is the expense of American prestige. Mr. Eichelberger will soon be able to agree upon the term of an international loan to China. Mr. Janeway says, and he find themselves playing an extra role in Asia, that of Japan's dream of conquering all of China would collapse.

THE NEWEST MEDICAL RACKET

By Henry Morton Robinson
American Mercury, July, 1936

Child malpractice suits are becoming a familiar specier in doctors, the writer says. Although less than one-tenth of the population is successful, in 1935 six times as many patients sued their doctors as in 1921, and recent figure indicate that in 1936 approximately one doctor in every 17 will be a defendant in a malpractice suit, according to figures he quotes.

Mr. Robinson attributes the situation in most instances to the fact that ordinary people expect too much of a doctor, and that the doctor rarely realizes these expectations too tenderly "Doctor, I'm sick," or "I'm afraid I'm forthcoming: but when the prescription fails or the disease proves stubborn, there is a painful contraction of confidence that leads to suits, to accusations and recriminations. to another suit for malpractice."

AMERICA'S PEERAGE

By Datus C. Smith, Jr.
Forum, July, 1936

The writer claims that "politics is the only consideration when the colleges each year select the new members of America's Peerage." He declares that our universities make a joke of honorary degrees by a system which is simple who, judged by the standards which a university would apply a democratic and a democratic way—and-rate. Conservatism be set, be sure to be well represented. In the honorary degree slate, while almost every instance liberalism is ignored. If Jeremiah Bentham or Thomas Jefferson were alive today they would have no honor for existence: "insofar as they do attract notice they make little integrity of a professional football and the butt of ribald jokes." He concludes, "It was ill for this that the colleges were founded."

HUMOR AND AMERICA

By Max Eastman

(Continued on page four)

Our nation, born in an era of

(Continued on page four)

NEXT WEEK'S SOCIAL CALENDAR WILL INCLUDE WIDE VARIETY OF EVENTS

Members of the summer school graduating class will be honor guests at a tea to be given by the alumnae association in the Y. W. C. A. Thursday from five thirty until six o'clock in Jennie Murphree parlors. Guests will include members of the committee cooperating with alumnae executive council of Florida State college, the alumnae officers, town alumnae, and alumnae on campus.

Miss Anna May Tracy will introduce the guests to the receiving line which will be composed of Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi, Miss Olivia Hunter, Dean, Miss Katherine Blood, Miss Ruth Schoenherst, and Mrs. Annie Colin Sensabaugh.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Mrs. Ruth Carpenter, Miss Anna Mae Sikes, and Mrs. R. H. Leslie. Assisting the committee in entertaining will be Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Mrs. Frances Tibbetts Johnston, Mrs. Frank Moor, Mrs. Dora Skipper, Miss Florence Tryon, Miss Maude Powers, and Miss Cecil Lord.

Faculty Dinner

On Wednesday, July 22, the regular faculty-student dinner will be given in the college dining hall at six thirty o'clock. The dead line for signing faculty members will be Saturday noon. Dr. Mildred Bryan is general chairman for reserved tables in the dining room. No party less than ten in number will be given a table. Lists of the table numbers will be posted in the dining hall Tuesday on Tuesday. Since all regularly reserved tables will be cancelled for the dinner it is recommended for all students who eat in the dining room that they attend in especially reserved tables.

Vesper Services

At the Vesper vesper night vesper services Dr. Raymond Bellamy will speak on "The Methods of Jesus." Music will consist of a song service.

Faculty-Student Coffee

Next Sunday the fourth in a series of faculty-student coffees is to be given by Bryan cottage and Jennie Murphree parlors at two o'clock p. m.

Guests invited to Bryan are Dr. and Mrs. David Briggs, Mrs. Ada Bell Allen, Miss Velma Cook, Dr. Mark DeGraff, Miss Enda Mae Devitney, Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Stewart, Miss Edith Van Dean, Olivia N Dorman, and Miss Callie Williams. Miss Mary Catherine Gibson is in charge of this coffee.

Those invited to the coffee in Jennie Murphree are Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons, Miss Margaret McCurdie, Miss Velma Cook, Miss Elizabeth G. Andrew, Miss Jean Andrews, Mr. Clarence P. Prist, Miss Marianne Dow, Miss Cecile Strong, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Cullman, and Mrs. Ida White Simmons. Miss Julia Vanderpie is in charge.

Informal Reception

Next Monday night at seven fifteen in Reynolds parlor there is to be an informal reception at which Miss Leila Venable, who is from the department of home economics and who is in charge of the home management house, will speak.

Members of the social committee, of which Miss Mary Catherine Gibson is in charge, will serve.

We are pleased to offer you a large and interesting selection of Gifts for the Summer Graduate.

Fitzgerald's

GIFT SHOP

206 Adams St.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Foy Townsend Ogden will spend this week-end in Jacksonville, where she will visit her husband.

Lillian Bliss will visit her family in Waushula this week-end.

Ethel Thomas will leave this afternoon for High Springs, where she will spend the week-end with her family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wheeless who have been visiting in Bainbridge, Ga., stopped in Tallahassee yesterday to visit their daughter Betty, on their way to their home in Sanford.

Merle Chason spent last week-end in Jasper with her family.

Charlotte Vetis visited her parents in Jacksonville during last week-end.

Beatrice Miner and Norma Robinson were guests of Mr. Rupert Matthews; at a fish fry held at Wacissa last Tuesday.

Miss Helen Davis and Miss Margaret Williams spent last week in Savannah to spend the week-end with Chi Omega Daubers' family this week-end.

Miss Katherine Montgomery spent last week-end in Jasper with her mother who is seriously ill.

Fenton Woodward will spend this week-end in Quincy, where he will visit friends.

Rachel Griffin and Betty Evans visited in Gainesville last week-end, where they were the guests of Miss Lamartine Griffin.

Muriel Liebman and Margaret Wiggins spent last week-end in Pensacola.

Mrs. Alice Pearce will spend this week-end in Waushula, where she will visit her husband.

Contemporary Student Thought

(Continued from page two)

and in doing so exercise their bodies.

Bodies of young men and women lacking in exercise tend to become less efficient at an early age. Since we all know that the mind is so closely related to the body, we realize, if we stop a moment to think, that our minds and learning capacities become dull when our bodies become sluggish.

So if you wish to enjoy a healthy winter and be fresh for quick thinking next fall, take advantage of the many summer outdoor exercise you can have, provided you exercise sensibly.

—The University Hatchet.

Right

"The right to search unimpeded and unhampered for truth, and to express what one finds to be right freely, courageously, and with the best of his ability" Harvard's President, James Bryant Conant records his conception of academic freedom for the benefit of Massachusetts' legislative oath advocates.

"After all, it is necessary that by all odds the first" There always will be conventions of progress and that no educated man can afford to neglect, but variations in minor matters should not be suppressed." Boston university's Prof. William G. Hoffman staunchly defends regional variations in speech.

"The only two present candidates for the republican presidential nomination of whom I heard much mention were Senator Borah of Idaho and Governor Landon of Kansas." Columbia's president, Nicholas Murray Butler reports a startling discovery after a 13 weeks' trip through the U. S.

—Toreador.

Students Go Fishing

Twenty-one men and women went on the Carrabelle trip sponsored by the summer school recreational association last Saturday. Although a coming squall drove the party in earlier than was expected, it was reported that a good many fish were caught.

Marion Weeks and Mildred Emmelhainz acted as hostesses for the party.

Headlines and Footnotes

(Continued from page two)

a year and each family must be a cohesive family without lodgers. Rents will be $22.47 for three-room apartments and $28.10 for six-room units.

The formation of an association or League of American Nations, to be a permanent American Court of Justice, was advised by Dr. Adrian Recinos, Minister of Guatemala, at the Institute of Public Affairs held at the University of Virginia.

Dr. Recinos said, "Fifteen American republics joined the League of Nations in 1919 because they believed in the mutual benefits of collective security for the maintenance of peace and mutual assistance in the event of aggression. The fate of Ethiopia and the entangled conditions in Europe as well as developments in the Far East convince me more convinced a number of Latin American countries of the necessity of looking for security on this side of the Atlantic."

He added, "the present policy of the United States towards closer and more friendly relations with the Republics of the south will help to draw them together and will favor the setting up of a new and more efficient organ of peace, solidarity and cooperation."

* * *

From the New York Times comes the following notice of conditions in Europe:

"Reports from Ethiopia disturbed Rome, for despite Italy's conquest of the country, Ethiopian bands continue their guerilla warfare against the Italian invaders, killing and destroying railroads, and cutting telegraph lines around Addis Ababa."

More distressing to the British were the reports of expenditures for the army, navy and air, estimates submitted to the house of commons which amounted to 200,000,000 pounds indicating, despite all talk of peace, that Europe is looking more to its guns than to its diplomats.

Stardust

Friday and Saturday, July 17 and 18, Marc Connolly's immortal "Green Pastures" comes to the screen of the State theatre. Rex Ingram who plays the part of "De Lawd," is supported by many of the original cast. The universal appeal of this picture lies in the clever portrayal of incidents typically negroid and which will be appreciated especially in the south.

* * *

The Sunday picture, "Hearts Divided," co-starring Dick Powell and Marion Davies is the love story of Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon, and Betsy Patterson, a young Maryland belle. This picture will be of interest to Tallahasseans because of the city's historical connections with the Bonaparte family.

* * *

Jessie Mathews 'dancing divinity' brings to the screen Monday another amusing story with an intriguing title. Forced by circumstances to don the masquerade of a boy, Miss Mathews finds herself in many queer predicaments in "First a Boy 'Then a Girl'." You will enjoy hearing and seeing the solution to all of her troubles.

In addition to this most entertaining picture the State offers as a stage attraction, Tallahassee's most beautiful girls.

* * *

"Three Cheers for Love" brings us three new song hits and a cast of clever youthful stars on Tuesday.

* * *

You'll see a few more stars if you win the $100 bank nite award

* * *

With the usual Wednesday "Screeno" comes a hilariously entertaining picture entitled "Bunker Bean." Mr. Bean who is the sad possessor of a inferiority complex, fails in love with his irate boss' daughter. From then on things really hum.

* * *

Friday, July 24, Little Miss Shirley Temple again dances her way into the hearts of the theatre-goers. Her new picture is "Poor Little Rich Girl."

* * *

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—JULY 17-18
"GREEN PASTURES"
SUNDAY—JULY 19
Dick Powell and Marion Davies
in
"HEARTS DIVIDED"
MONDAY—JULY 20
Jessie Mathews (Dancing Divinity)
in
"FIRST A GIRL" (Then a Boy)
Special Stage Attraction—Beauty Pageant
Tallahassee's Most Beautiful Girls!
TUESDAY—JULY 21
Eleanore Whitney and Robert Cummings
in
"THREE CHEERS FOR LOVE"
—BANK NIGHT—
WEDNESDAY—JULY 22
OWEN DAVIS, JR. in "BUNKER BEAN"
—SCREENO—
THURSDAY—JULY 23
Robert Young, Betty Furness, Bruce Cabot
in
"THREE WISE GUYS"
FRIDAY—JULY 24
SHIRLEY TEMPLE
in
"POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL"

Primary Association To Present Annual Banquet

The Florida branch of the American Association of Childhood will hold a banquet at the Three Torches tearoom, at 6:30 on Monday evening.

All Florida State College students interested in primary work are invited to attend the banquet, which is an annual affair.

Miss Margaret McCurdie is in charge of the program for the occasion, whose theme is to be centered on the subject: "What Makes a Good School?" Mrs. Mae Knight Clarke is the main speaker of the evening. Representatives of units of the association in Jacksonville, Sanford, and Miami, will also make reports at this time.

Anyone interested in attending may sign up on the dining room arcade bulletin board, Miss McCurdie announced. Tickets for the banquet are sixty cents.

College Students Have Part in WTAL Program

Mary Boatwright and Jesse Parker, Florida State College student, will represent the college as a part of the "WTAL Players" cast, in a skit to be presented over the air tonight at nine o'clock.

Mrs. Maude Haynes Hollowell, of Tallahasee, is in charge of the play, which is entitled "Thompson's Luck."

The WTAL Players are also rehearsing a skit to be given from the State theatre stage at the next of the auditions, which are sponsored each week by the Alford Chevrolet company.

GELBERG'S

July Clearance

SALE

Store-Wide

Begins Friday

All Summer Merchandise Greatly Reduced

DRESSES

Every Dress in Store Must be Sold!

Values to $10.95 NOW $3.59

Values to $16.50 NOW $6.59

One Special Group Taken from Our Regular Stock. Values to $7.95—

$2.59

Shop Early While Selections Are Best!

GELBERG'S

College Avenue

Style Plus Economy

Them's My Sentiments Exactly!

By A. COED

I Guess—

J. B. Kennington must have kissed a girl who was chewing gum—he has shaved his mustash. Bob Johnson survived his Miami jaunt—he's back on the campus. There must be something in this horse-back riding—all the lassies are trying it. Somone would get mad if I told what happened to four watermelons last Friday night. I'd better not say anything more about Miss Rose's viewpoints. Tony Diffenbaugh is hereby voted a handpainted geranimu for the tallest stories. After playing four sets of tennis I could be arrested for fragrancy. Everybody must be scared to tell on their pals—they're closer than a Scotch banker. Those romances must be fading; for instance—what has happened to Peggy Underwood's Clarence, Marianna Acuri's Doodoo, and my peace of mind? I'd better stay away from dark alleys until Kennington gets over the milk I spilled in his lap. Auburn Hood, J. B. Kennington, and I are going to grow misplaced eyebrows. Hood thinks I have cheated—Mine has been growing for a week and he can't see it yet. One of those Valentuls has gone in for Divine comedy. Teacher says I can quit after that one.

Faculty Foibles—

We vote a lead medal to the precocious youngster who, after taking his I. Q. test, turned in Dr. Waskom and said, "now let's see how fast you can do it!"

After minutes of valiant attempting to resain attention, Miss Young, history instructor, said that singing has been that bad for years, and it hasn't hurt anyone yet."

My Dictionary for Chatfishoochee Primates—

Abe—The fur of a north Europe mammal.

Baboon—A wind instrument forming the base for the oboe, clarinet, etc.

Cylinder—A chronological register of time. An organized list of people, events, or things.

Dawgs—A species of the greeting, "How do you do?"

Ego—A verb meaning to move toward. Example, "I tank ego home."

Moron—A religious sect which sanctions bigamy.

Scandal—A shoe consisting of a sole fastened to the foot by straps over the instep.

Wrestler—A cattle thief.

Zeus—The liquid contents of a fruit.

Period

Magazine Thumbings

(Continued from page two)

skeptical common sense, takes a cultural direction entirely different from that of Europe, created in an age of imaginative belief, declare Mr Eastman. American culture, he says, began in the nineteenth century in the humorous mythology of the western front, in which legendary heroes were taken as a joke. It was continued, he remarks, in the humor of Ambrose Bierce, whom Artemus Ward was the prince whose humor was the mature enjoyment of nonsense.

In contemplating writing a history of American culture, the writer says that he would remark that, 'imaginative culture grew to its height in Mark Twain and his contemporaries, and then, about the time of his death, suddenly burgeoned out all over the sky and with a violent hilarity and a certain thinning of the life-sap."

Reporter Looks At Amateur Side Of Palm-reading

(Continued from page one)

wishes her harm. A word of warning exposes her interest and belief! If the listener is a married woman, it is really being conservative to say that she has considered divorce. What married woman has not?

If the listener is a man, one can remark that she sees a change of occupation. The average man chances his occupation four times in the course of his life, according to some statistics I have gathered. If he is not stalling for time for a good lead, one can remark that she sees a trip in the near future that one has not contemplated and who doesn't take a half dozen trips in a year that he hasn't previously considered?

Of course the guide that the fortune teller follows in most instances is the listener's expression. At the age of three months, if not earlier, babies are able to register approval and disapproval with amazing distinction. Later they are more comforting, often without the aid of words. Many of the little things that people reach the ' 'ben they are interested in ...tune their voices to match masters in the art of facial expression. There are those people who are able to control their expression, but most of them are too absorbed in what the fortune teller is telling them to concentrate on being careful not to reveal anything. Sometimes when the expression does not tell the reader that he is on the right track, the listener gives himself away by his unconscious habit of facial control. If both these methods fail the reader can always resort to the direct method of questionable subtlenesser.

Many times the listener comments during the reading which helps immeasurably, for then if some mistake is made the fortune teller has the opportunity of rewording her remarks so that the listener is at least partially convinced that she has remarkable powers.

The reputation of the fortune teller's "remarkable powers" increases in direct proportion to the length of time elapsing between the interview and the fulfilling of it. As time goes on we remember only those things told us that we want to remember, or that were strikingly true!

The crowning achievement of my brief fortune telling career came to me last summer. As I raced along the boardwalk in Atlantic City, exactly taking in one sights after another, I saw a gypsy's booth in which a young girl was sitting. Excitedly I went in to ask for a reading. My reader dealt in the most illuminating generalities. Many of which were not true. All of her remarks were concluded with "You understand, no?" She wasn't hard for her to get on the right track!

When she had finished reading my hand and nodded that that was all, I asked her if I might read her hand. She looked on me in amazement, but, to my amusement and momentary consternation, she opened her hand and spread it out before me. I studied her face carefully as I made one generality after another—trouble —poverty. She was taking in every word I was uttering. I was almost convulsed. One fake meeting another!

For a moment anger darted across her face, and considering her Latin temperament, I feared I was going to be thrown out. My children's name had not stood me in good stead! But, to my utter amazement, she said, "What are

Dr. Hinson Will Fill Vacancy in Education Left by D. H. Briggs

To fill the position of Dr. David H. Briggs, who was elected to a professorship in Maryville College, the Board of Control appointed Dr. Roy Hinson.

Doctor Hinson has his doctor's degree from Peabody college and has been for many years an active worker in the schools in Florida. He has held the position of State Superintendent of Public Instruction he was for some years a high school principal in Florida.

Graduation Means

GIFTS

and Gifts Mean—

HOSE

BAGS

PANTS

SLIPS

GLOVES

PAJAMAS

HANDKERCHIEFS

P. W. Wilson Co.

Since 1837

WATCHES

CLOCKS

JEWELRY

College and Sorority Plaques

W. W. PUTNAM

Jeweler

Certified Watchmaker

209 S. Monroe St.

Sport Squints

By MARY BOATWRIGHT

Now that the time is fast approaching when the life-saving exam will be given, some of the older members of the corps look back upon their own experiences with the test.

Beth Deane reminisces of the time when she was doing the "tured swimmer's" carry with her victim. All was going well and Beth was nearing the end of the pool, when the wily victim suddenly decided to try what is technically known as the "front strangle-hold." Deane forgot her life-saving completely, and with a gasp of surprise, swam to the side of the pool and wept bitterly for fifteen minutes!

Never let it be said that a student at Florida does not excel in dance. Especially since everyone has the opportunity of learning how at the extra-curricular social dancing class.

The class, under the direction of Annette Marco, meets on Wednesday afternoons at 5:30, in the large gym. Forty people turned out for the first meeting.

If you want a thing well done just get Henry (Co-ed) Coles, Jim and Tony Diffenbaugh, and Harrell Knight to do it for you.

Last Friday when the men who you trying to do? Who are you? A professional?"

Recovering my composure I replied solemnly that I knew very little about it. She assured me that I could make my living doing it. Thus the crowning achievement led to my complete disillusionment—but, who knows

Sports to Be Featured At Play Night Tonight

Many sports will be featured at play night tonight. Tournaments in table tenis, dart archery, ogromia, indoor horseshoes, and badmington will be featured in the big gymn durnig the first hour. Tournaments for both beginners and more advanced players will be held separately in all events.

Play night will be over at nine o'clock sharp on Friday as last week so that those who wish may attend the watermelon cutting to be held in the dining room across were unloading the trucks full of melons the watermelon cutting that night, they offered to help. The offer was accepted joyously by the laborers, and the work finished in a jiffy.

When it was too late for the real reason for such altruism leak out. Henry, Harrell, Tony and John had decided to have a watermelon cutting of their own.

While we're on the subject of watermelons, may we remind you that there's another feast on the dining room arcade tonight, right after play night.

(And still another item: We can't help but notice Jennie Murphree's enthusiastic response to the lure of watermelon, lolling from the mount of "trading" room to and the motion trucks on in front.)

We've known for some time that Dr. Heinlein is a tennis expert. Dr. Washburn reports a great deal of time with a rod and reel. Mr. Bellers likes to spend hours riding the waves. Our newest sports enthusiast, however, seems an interested gallery—for Dean Salley is the campus cream champ!

—EAT AT BENNETT'S—

Saturday and Sunday Menu

25c

—Choice of—

CHICKEN PAN PIE
WESTERN PRIME RIB ROAST OF BEEF
OVEN ROAST DUCK with CELERY DRESSING
SUGAR BAKED HAM AND SLICE PINEAPPLE

—Choice of Two Vegetables—

COLD SLAW WITH MINCED TOMATOES
CREAMED WHIPPED POTATOES
MACARONI WITH CHEESE
YOUNG TERNIP SALAD
BUTTERED RICE AND GRAVY

—Breads—

HOT BRAN MUFFINS AND HOT ROLLS

—Drinks—

COFFEE, ICED TEA, BUTTERMILK, SWEET MILK

—Dessert—

PEACH MELBA SUNDAE

EXTRA! 10c BUYS A JUMBO DOUBLE DIPPED SPECIAL

Peach Sundae
Choc. Marshmallow Sundae
Caramel Sundae
Frozen Fruit Sundae
Frozen Fudge Sundae
Giant Ice Cream Soda
Fresh Orangeade With Sherbet
French Limeade
Dish Ice Cream, Whip
Cream, Cherry

EXTRA! 15c BUYS ONE SANDWICH BELOW AND A CUP OF McPHAIL SHERBET

Minced Ham Salad
Swiss Cheese
Lunch Tongue
Liver Wurst
Deviled Egg
Olive and Tomato
Sardine and Pickle
Corned Beef, Lettuce
Spiced Ham, Pickle
Pimento Cheese

RUSSELL McPHAIL ICE CREAM, pint 25c
BENNETT'S SPECIAL ICE CREAM, pint 15c

Phone 800

Bennett's

Quick Delivery

Here's To Happy Vacation Days

The Florida Flambeau

Hail To
The Caps And Gowns

Published by Summer School Students of Florida State College

Volume 23 TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, JULY 28, 1936 Number 6

Heinlein Holds Last Of Summer Lecture Forums

Speaker Demonstrates Instrument Of His Own Invention

Dr. Christian P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, gave the last of the forum lectures for the summer session of the Florida State College on Wednesday evening at the Augusta Conradi theatre.

At this time, Dr. Heinlein demonstrated an instrument which he invented recently. The instrument is called a "visiomaster" and illustrates the spatial character of pitch in music when translated into light. It consists of a keyboard upon which is a series of miniature lights, through which the operator can reproduce the pitch of different melodies by pressing the proper keys.

Dr. Heinlein's topic for the evening was "Emotional Effects of Music" which he illustrated with piano, victrola, and colored lights.

Music and the Nerves

Opening with the question, "What is an emotion?," and closing with the statement that "doctors are advocating the use of music with their patients and that all mental and nervous disorders may be related to music," the speaker brought out the fact that music is made up of notes each with its certain characteristics of pitch in the musical scale, duration in time, and intensity or quality of tone. All musical structures suggest harmony, rhythm and rhythm, and single melody with its rise and fall and repetition form a rhymatic pattern.

Each individual, according to the speaker, expresses himself in music according to his past habits. Dr. Heinlein illustrated the quality of the notes with the colors thrown on the white cylinders of the victrola. Selections of three old songs he asked his audience to choose the one played by the quality of the colors while he played silently on a hidden keyboard. This was done by amber lights on a large backround the song "Suwannee River" was recognized by the audience.

Musical Effects

The different qualities of music produce various effects on the listener. The soft, mellow, brilliant bright, happy exhilarating effects for one expects the chordial harmonies, while in the minor chords being denied fundamental harmonies, there exists a more depressing and melancholy effect. "It is of interest to note," he said, in connection with the latter that by modern composers, which has a depressing effect with the moderns while Wagner brings out a

(Continued on page two)

President Conradi Is Convocation Speaker

Although we have ruled creed and dogma out of our schools, the school is the choice place for the building of the spiritual life, Dr. Conradi told students last Tuesday morning in convocation.

Saying that outstanding men in the field of education recognized the importance of building the spiritual life in school, Dr. Conradi urged teachers to recognize the mission in their hands.

Students Asked To Attend Graduation

"According to the policy of the college, all summer school students are expected to be present on the campus until noon on Friday, July 31," was the announcement made by Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college today.

Attendance at the commencement exercises on Friday morning is accepted in lieu of the regular class work.

Two Hundred Are Given NYA Work

Selection Made on Basis Of Need And Ability

Two hundred and one students have been appointed for work on campus under the national youth administration for next year, Doctor Elmsheath Gordon Andrews has announced.

Selection has been made, Dr. Andrews says, on the basis of need, scholastic record and ability to do the work assigned. Students will receive thirty cents an hour and will be given the opportunity to work not to exceed six sixty hours each calendar month.

Average grades in college must be maintained and the work must be done in a manner satisfactory to the person directing the project. Failure in either of these may result in the appointment of another in the student's place.

All applications received since July 13 have been placed on file for consideration in case of possible vacancies. The two substitutions are that there will be very few substitutions as appointments have been accepted almost unanimously.

Mrs. Ferguson Suffers Injury to Leg In Fall

The many friends of Mrs. Esther B. Ferguson will be glad to know that she is convalescing rapidly in the infirmary after her accident of last week. While walking in Broward Hall with Mrs Selwyn Chalker she fell down the stairs. Upon examination it was found that two ankle bones were broken. Mrs Ferguson will be confined to her room until the first of September.

Mrs. Heinlein Attends Institute for State's Education Directors

Dr. Julia Heil Heinlein returned last week from Columbia City, Penn, where she attended the regional institute for state directors and state supervisors of the WPA education division, held at the summer session of Millersteachers college, from July 8 to July 18.

At the institute, Dr. Heinlein acted as consultant on the training of rural public school teachers.

After vacationing in the mountains of western North Carolina, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, Dr. and Mrs. Christian Paul Heinlein plan to attend the annual meeting of the American Psychological association which will take place at Dartmouth college in Hanover, N H, during the first week in September.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Heinlein are members of the association.

Enrollment For Winter Session Increases Daily

General College, Begun On Building, Among Innovations

The fall and winter session of the Florida State College for Women for 1936-37 opens on Monday, September 14. The enrollment at present far exceeds that of the same time last year; the greater portion coming from the southern part of the state, according to S. R. Doyle, registrar.

All dormitories will be filled including Bryan, Broward, Reynolds, Jennie Murphree, and Gilchrist Halls. Besides the five halls there are seventeen recently houses and twenty-four off campus houses.

Innovations Made

The interior of Broward Hall has been renovated with new plastering and painting, small repairs have been made at the entrance of the dining room and the Music Room will be laid on the dining room floor. All will be ready for guests for the opening of college.

A general college for freshmen and sophomores will also be inaugurated in the fall session with special study classes. The courses to be offered are as follows: physical science, including physics and chemistry; botany and zoology, social science which will include history, economics, sociology, geography, and political science, and a fourth course in the humanities, including English literature, study of the arts, and philosophy.

Faculty Yields To Wanderlust As School Ends

Teachers Plan Vacation Jaunts From Cuba To Canada

The wanderlust spirit pervades the air in the summer as well as in spring. After eight weeks of observing, directing, teaching and everyone longs to be on his way. The faculty per se makes no to the rule.

From all reports members of the faculty will take—if possible—as much delight in exchanging text books for freedom as will the students. Some of them are remaining in the U. S. A. for rest and others to the lure of the mountains, while the less adventurous set sail for Europe or at home.

Dean Ella Scobie Opperman is planning an interesting vacation. She will sail on August 8 for San Francisco, thence to the Hawaiian Islands. Using Honolulu as a central point, Dean Opperman will visit the islands Maui, Kolai, Hawaii, and the island on which Honolulu is located.

Mr Clarence Patrick Priest is spending the remaining four a week in Sanford with his parents. Mr Priest will spend a week in Miami, after which he will go to Cuba for a week.

Miss Evelyn Bulkley has also planned an extensive trip. She is going to Cuba for the first six weeks visit with relatives and old friends. Miss Bulkley will be accompanied by her mother.

North Carolina seems to be attractive to our faculty. Dean William Dodd is going to Otteen, North Carolina for a few weeks—though not to the government hospital in Otteen, he was careful to explain.

Another North Carolina bound

(Continued on page two)

COLLEGE CALENDAR
July 26—July 31

Sunday—July 26
11:00 a.m. Baccalaureate sermon, Rev. J. H. Daniels, auditorium
Tuesday—July 28
12:00 m. Convocation—special organ music
Friday—July 31
9:00 a.m. Commencement address, Judge Glenn Terrell

Change Is Made In Homecoming

Thanksgiving Not To Be Occasion of Reunion Next Year

Alumnae of Florida State College for Women hereafter will have their annual Homecoming at some time other than Thanksgiving, it was announced today by President Edward Conradi of the college and Mrs. E. L. Besson, of Groveland, president of the alumnae association.

However, the college will maintain its custom of inviting parents of students to visit the campus during Thanksgiving week-end when the usual holiday activities including athletic events and student dramatic productions will be carried on because the college wishes to have a definite time to devote to both parents and alumnae. Dr. Conradi said.

The change in Homecoming is being made partly because many alumnae state they cannot leave their families or husbands at Thanksgiving time to return for Homecoming and partly because better accommodations can be provided and better provisions for entertaining the alumnae can be made if they come at different times, President Conradi stated.

A plan to combine Homecoming for the alumnae along the lines of an institute or "alumnae college" where the graduates may confer with the college faculty members on various subjects and have short entertainment can be planned particularly for the returning alumnae now is being considered, according to college and alumnae officials.

Summer Students Given List of Alumnae Clubs

For the benefit of the summer school graduates, a list of Florida State College for Women alumnae clubs with the name and address of the club president is given below.

Chipley, Mrs. F. B. Calloway; Clearwater, Miss Maud McCall; Cross City, Miss Ruth Poer; Ft. Lauderdale, Mrs. Hugo Dichtenmueller; Ft. Pierce, Mrs. Alto Adams; Gainesville, Mrs. Ben Benton, W. University Ave.; Gravsville, Mrs. Ben Johnson; Jacksonville, Mrs. Truman Hoyt, San Jose Blvd.; Key West, Mrs Nell Risinger; Lake County, Mrs. Reed Edmunds, Leesburg; Live Oak, Miss Ruth Hunter; Marianna, Mrs. Hugh Middlebrooks; Miami, Mrs. Charles M. Fisher, 1244 S. W. 13th Court; Monticello, Miss Katherine Johnson; New Smyrna, Anne Patillo; Panama City, Mrs. Sidney Delffin, jr.; Pensacola, Mrs. W. E. Gunn, 1815 E. Jackson St.; Quincy, Mrs. Ben Bostick; Sanford, Miss Virginia Earle; St. Petersburg, 2931 6th Ave., N.; Tampa, Mrs. Bradford Ansley, 2810 Neptune St.; New York City, Mrs. G. C. Williamson, 83 N. Walnut, LaFayette Apts., East Orange, N. J.

Reverend Daniel Opens Graduation Services Sunday

"Open Doors" Is Subject Of Address Heard At Baccalaureate

Rev. J. H. Daniel, of Tallahassee, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, Sunday told the summer school graduating class at the baccalaureate service at Florida State College for Women that "a well balanced mind is man's richest possession."

The minister called mind "the controlling power of life" and said in that center "all the powers that make or mar human life have their source."

"Open Doors"

His subject was "Open Doors," and it was based on the text "Behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it," Revelation 3:8.

"There are two sets of doors to every life—one set the property of man and circumstances, having to do with human environments, and material opportunity and privilege—and another set of doors not in the mercy of man and circumstances," Rev. Daniel said. The latter are "inner doors and they are our doors, doors which do man can shut," he said.

"No man empty lives until he learns how to use these doors which no man can shut," the minister stated, adding that "success indeed is that life that feeds only on the surface and . . . such persons are ever at the mercy of conditions over which they have little or no control."

"Some of these open doors are the door to high thoughts, the door to good will, the door to God and Fellowship with Him," the minister said.

Famous Illustrations

Rev. Daniel illustrated his sermon with accounts from the lives of Helen Keller, Paul and Silas, Jesus, Thomas A. Edison, George F. Pruitt, the president and others.

The summer school chorus of 32 voices, directed by Miss Gladys Koch, of the music faculty, took part in the baccalaureate service.

Candidates for degrees at the summer session were garbed in caps and gowns for the first time in the eight-week session which will close July 31, Marion Glenn Terrell of the Florida supreme court will deliver the Commencement address on that day. Completing their work at this time will be approximately 50 candidates for degree and about 72 candidates for the two-year diploma in education.

Amateur Astronomists Locate Constellations During Summer School

The amateur astronomers under the direction of Miss Kate Montgomery have learned to locate the following constellations this summer; Cephius, Cassiopeia; Ursa major; Ursa minor; Draginis; Hercules; Lyra; Corona; Lyra, which contains the bright star Vega; Cygnus, known as the northern cross, Delphinus; Bootes, which contains the bright star Arcturus; Corona; Leo the Lion; Serpens; Capricornus; Aquila, which contains the bright star Altair; and other minor constellations. The planet Jupiter was located also.

During the summer rain and cloudy skies forced the group to hold several indoor sessions in which they studied legends concerning the located constellations.

Mrs. Beeson Is Reelected Chief

Association Has Annual Election Meeting In May

Mrs. R. L. Beeson (Cecil Jenkins '18) of Gainesville was re-elected president of the college alumnae association at the annual alumnae meeting held Saturday morning, May 23, in the Augusta Conrad Library.

Other officers include Miss Nina McAdam, Miami, vice-president; Miss Ruth Southerland, Tallahassee, secretary; Mrs. Annie Houston Sensabaugh, Tallahassee, treasurer; and Miss Berenea Longmire, Tallahassee, and Mrs. Caroline LaFontaine McCord, Gainesville, representatives at large.

Elected to direct the activities of the alumnae in the various sections of the state are Mrs. Rachel McKinnon Middlebrooks of Marianna for Escambia, Santa Rosa, Okaloosa, Walton, Holmes, Jackson, Washington, Bay, and Calhoun counties.

Miss Gladys Poisom of Monticello for Gadsden, Liberty, Franklin, Wakulla, Leon, Jefferson, Madison, Taylor, Lafayette, and Dixie counties.

Miss Katharina DeMontigne of Jacksonville for Hamilton, Suwannee, Baker, Bradford, Duval, St. Johns, Clay, Union, Bradford, Putnam, Alachua, and Gilchrist counties.

Mrs. Lucile K. Miller of Tavares for Levy, Marion, Citrus, Hernando, Sumter, Lake, Pasco, Pinellas, Seminole, and Orange counties.

Miss Madeline Blood of Winter Haven for Polk, Osceola, Brevard, and Indian River counties.

Miss Louise Hosch of Sebring for Hardee, Highlands, DeSoto, Charlotte, Glades, Lee, Hendry, an dCollier counties.

Miss Charlotte Chase of Miami for Okeechobee, St. Lucy, Martin, Palm Beach, Broward, Dade, and Monroe counties.

Miss Maud B. McCall of Clearwater for Pasco, Pinellas, Hillsborough, Manatee, and Sarasota counties.

Executive secretary of the Alumnae association is Mrs. Laura Strunk Leslie.

Faculty Yields To Wanderlust

(Continued from page one)
professor in Mr. Earl L. Vance, journalism instructor. Mr. Vance says that he isn't visiting relatives but mountaineering.

Miss Elizabeth Lynn and Miss Enda Devitney also are Carolina-bound. Miss Lynn is going to Smokemont, the only town in the Smokey Mountain national park, and Miss Devitney is going to Julian just to "traveize."

Dr. Herman Kurz is planning to spend his vacation visiting relatives in the midwest. He will first go to Chicago. From Chicago he will go to Lake Geneva, Wisconsin; to St. Paul, Minnesota; to Grand Forks, Iowa, and then home again in time for the opening of school.

Dr. Richard Conradi plans to visit his brother in New Bremen, Ohio for several weeks.

Like many others Miss Kathleen Fletcher and Miss Mary Winters have not fully decided on the extent of their travels this summer. They are going to visit in Louisiana and from there contemplate a visit to the Texas Centennial. Another interesting-sounding trip is the boat trip to New York Miss Martha Lou Smith is planning to make.

Mr. Kenneth Williams is going to spend a real Florida vacation. He has chosen Ocala, Monticello, and Daytona Beach as the scenes of his summer's play. Not so with Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons, however. After he visits his mother, who lives in Mayfield, Ky. he is going to the Texas centennial in Dallas. Dr. Parsons is also planning a trip to Chicago this summer.

Library Announces Graduation Hours

All library books are due Monday, July 27. The library will be open regular hours through July 30, and open for visitors immediately after commencement.

Louie Poucher
Librarian.

Student Review Development of FSCW Campus

Lists Steps In Progress From Foundation To Present Day

In 1851 the legislature of the State of Florida passed a resolution that two state colleges should be established, one in a section east of the Suwannee river and the other in a section west of it. The board of trustees of "The Florida Institute" offered $10.000 and the property of the school to the legislature if they would select their location.

In the year 1857 the offer was accepted and the college was organized under the name of "The Florida State College" until 1905. At this time six educational institutions were being supported by the State Legislature of Florida, and under the Buckman Bill of 1905 they were all closed and two only re-established, the University at Gainesville for the men and the Florida State College for Women, to be opened in the fall of 1905. Appropriations are made for the colleges each year that the State Legislature is in session and the seal of the college was adopted in 1911.

Dr. A. A. Murphree was president from 1905 to 1909, when he resigned and Dr. Edward Conradi, and Dr. Edward Conradi was made president and has remained in the head of the college ever since.

In the early days of the colonies there were very few but two hundred students attending, and they lived in Ocean Hall, built in 1907 and named in honor of Senator W. J. Bryan. This hall contains the Registrar's department, office of the director of residence halls and suite of rooms for the students. There was another dormitory, Old East Hall, which was used by the Spanish-American War, but was burned. The dining hall was erected in 1911 and additions were made in 1918 and 1932, giving a seating capacity of one thousand students in the main floor and four hundred and fifty on the lower floor.

During the year of 1935-36 there were between sixteen and seventeen hundred students enrolled; some living in the five dormitories, seventeen Sorority houses, twenty-three off campus houses, and many students roomed in the city.

The grounds cover about eighty acres, and the oldest building is the Administration building, which was built in 1910 and 1923. It contains laboratories, class rooms, offices for the deans, the book store and offices of president and deans of the college. Other buildings on the campus are the Education building, Science Hall, History building, Home Economics building, music annex, physical education and gymnasium building, the five dormitory halls, the dining room, infirmary and demonstration school.

Several valuable bequests have been made to the college, and it is prepared to carry out the purpose of such gifts.

To encourage young people who desire assistance with their education there are about eighty-five scholarships offered in the college

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

HE CALLS HIS WIFE 'MOTHER'

Alfred Mossman Landon, the Kansas governor who balanced his budget because he had to, a potential menace to the nation.

Every indication is that Landon points to his choice by the Republican National Convention as the G.O.P. presidential nominee. Chances are that no Republican will receive the chance of being elected, so large is the Roosevelt support shown by preliminary indications in national polls, but if one should, and if Governor Landon except his backnominee, it would be, to our mind, nothing short of a calamity.

The Daily has nothing against Governor Landon except his backers and his general lack of What-it-Takes. But the very fact that his nomination is being pushed by such men as Hearst and by association as William Randolph Hearst and the American Liberty League, and by such men as Malcolm W. Bingay's Detroit Free Press, makes us opposed to him.

And Governor Landon's personal qualifications for the office of President of the United States are three, best summed up by the fact that

1. He has run Kansas on a Democratic platform, something Daily pointed out the constitution required that he do.

2. He fired his cook-ala in the kitchen.

3. He calls his wife "mother."

—Michigan Daily.

COLLEGE MINUTE-MEN

Those courageous souls of the American Revolutionary militia who "fired the shot heard 'round the arms on a minute's notice are being replaced today by another group of minute-men. This time they are students who, without the slightest warning, have to pass one semester's work.

Requisites for being a modern minute-man are:

1. Forgetting a movie you have promised to attend.
2. Throwing away Esquire to purchase a College Outline series.
3. Substituting a knife for a dancing slippers, perfume and paint, for a bottle of ink, a pencil and some paper.
4. Having black circles under your eyes from the glare of the texts rather than from the previous day's party.
5. Refusing a nice juicy bit of gossip in preference to a few facts on Mesopotamia.

So the remarkable change is complete. The girl is no longer prone to ding the "all quiet, besin writing now" signal.

But when the last drop of ink is dry, the same minute-men will return to the carefree life of the collegian.

Lines of worry will change to lines of laughter as examinations "what difference will it make 20 years hence" and the survey "—Syracuse Daily Orange.

—Michigan State News.

SURVEY OF STUDENT CRITICISM OF PROFESSORS REVEALS CHIEF FAULTS

Most professors enjoy criticising the manners and attitudes of undergraduates. The college student who does not know what his professors think of him must have done much more class snooping than is good for him.

But professors seldom get a chance to hear what students think of them. Students, in their positions keeps them in benighted ignorance of their faults. This editorial is written in the belief that most professors would honestly like to know what shortcomings of theirs are the most objectionable to their students.

Here they are as reflected in bull sessions on this campus:

1. A narrow, bigoted, know-it-all attitude of mind. This attitude is particularly objectionable when the guilty professor insists irrequently that he has a "broad, scientific outlook."

2. The inability to admit a fault or grant that the student may be right on a question.

3. Bad temper.

4. Discrimination in grades because of personal dislikes.

5. Asking questions about irrelevant details instead of about the significant facts. Such questions as "When was Charlemagne born?" or "What were the following (line of poetry)?" arouse doubt in the student's mind as to the teacher's grasp of the subject.

6. Personal mannerisms which depart too far from the normal.

7. Dullness.

8. Retailing a chapter in the text and calling it a lecture.

9. A pharisecical attitude.

10. Failure to keep up with the progress made in his field.

—Kansas Sunflower.

* * *

A RECIPE FOR COLLEGES

Again the Crimson beat us to it. Persons who read the last quotation were forced by them to chew rice to determine the source of their statements. If when the rice was spit out, it was wet, the statements were issue of dry, they were lies.

Dr. Leonarde Keeler has again favorably experimented with his lie detector. It acts on the principle that when there is a tap in the body whether physical danger or detection is the result of lies.

It's not a lie detector machine couldn't be used for quizzes and final exams as it stands. Results would be more accurate.

—Industrial Collegian.

* * *

THE RIGHT DIRECTION

An Alabama court has awarded to the parents of a lynched negro youth $2,500 in damages for the loss of their son. The deputy sheriff was cited for obstructing justice, and for being an accessory to the crime. The fine imposed was $2,500 to be paid to the parents of the dead boy.

A white jury after reviewing the evidence, in which the deputy sheriff was accused of handing the negro's arms while the angry mob was preparing to hang him from a bridge, and after considering the confession of the step-father of the girl whom the negro was supposed to have killed, rendered a decision in favor of the parents of the deceased.

This is a large step in the right direction. In Alabama, where the white natives would "lynch a nigger as soon as look at him" such action by a white jury shows that even in this state there are some persons who do not entirely agree with the law of the rope.

This is promising, but until one case does not suffice. The Scottsboro negroes have been in prison for nine years, on an unfair charge. John Sobieski is still under sentence of death in Connecticut, Kentucky. But decisions as rendered in the Alabama case show that "we are on our way, and headed in the right direction."—Chatchnatl Times Record.

* * *

AMERICAN YOUTH HAS STRONG NEGATIVE COMPLEX

A negative complex has settled over the minds of American youth within the last several years due to the large part it played in the depression. There are too many young people in and out of the colleges today who are rated "against" or "opposed" to everything.

Instead of exerting their efforts in promoting movements which strive "for" something, advocating something new, to solve the problems of today, the modern youth is spending his energy and wits trying to tear down everything within his reach, whether he

(Continued on page six)

Seniors Prepare For Life's Work

Now that the seniors are "graduated" most of them are going on into the world to share their knowledge with the ignorant. This is what some of them have to say about what they expect to do:

Elizabeth Edwards, president of the graduating class: "I am going to teach the second grade in the Quincy school."

Marian Morse: "I expect to teach history in Palm Beach high school."

Mrs. Verna Knight: "I am going to continue teaching first grade in Apalachicola."

Mrs. Mable Caraway: "I shall teach again in the fifth grade in Miami."

Mrs. Grace Norton: "I am going to teach in the junior high at Apalachicola."

Mrs. Cora Lee Thompson: "I am going to teach first grade in the Pickett school in Duval county."

Nettie Mae Campbell: "I shall continue my work in the Hastings high school."

Bertie Mackey: "I am going to teach English and physical education at Chiefland."

Mrs. Dorothy Gulford: "I shall continue teaching the third grade at Wilson park."

Margaret Roberts: "I have great ambitions to enter the pedagogical profession."

Mrs. Virginia Peace Johnson: "I expect to continue teaching the sixth grade at No. 5 in Jacksonville."

Elizabeth Dickey: "I am going to continue my work in the first grade at Bristol."

Kathleen Morrison: "I am secretary principal at Pensacola high school next year in that capacity."

Mrs. Anna Belle Taylor: "I am going to continue taching at Wilder Haven."

Florence Akard: "I shall teach mathematics in John Gorry junior high, Jacksonville."

Mrs. Jessie Ferrell and Mrs. Maybird Carmline: "We are going to teach at Mt. Dora together."

Helen Stark: "I shall continue to teach in Miami."

Ethel Thomas, B.M.: "I am going to teach in a public school in Alachua county."

Mrs. Virginia Irwin: "I am going to stay home and take care of my husband and children."

Heinlein Holds Last Of Summer Forum

(Continued from page one)
fering of grandeur and power in the Wagnerian musical effect.

When tones move in contrary meandering motion like streams of passion which is easily illustrated in the conductor with warm gestures he brings the music to a climax. With descending motion and soft tones he can find repose with its soothing qualities advantageous to the nervous audiences.

The speaker believes his visimeter may have possibilities for research to determine the effectiveness of advertising signs. It consists of a screen equipment with the "visiometer" to see how the brain organizes visual patterns in horizontal and vertical positions; and to determine the correlations between right and lateral patterns.

Gives Demonstration

After the lecture Professor Heinlein more fully demonstrated on the piano the beauty and descriptive qualities of Wagnerian music, playing and illustrating passages which he told the story of the Opera "Tristran and Isolde."

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS
BY RACHEL PITCHFORD

Inside College Gates

After almost eight weeks of trying to entice good grades out of our teachers, most of us are ready to sing "Home, Sweet, Home." Just for fun let's take a look at some of the doings and undoings around school the last few weeks.

We regret very much the fact that Dr Briggs will not be here next year as he has accepted a position with Maryville school, but we wish him continued success. He has been here six years and has been a popular instructor all the time he has been here. Again I say we regret very much seeing him leave.

* * *

Dr. H. P. Rainey gave a series of lectures during the week of June 29-July 3 at the girls' state youth problems. He addressed the Women's Institute as well as various student groups. He was well received and the many who heard him expressed their appreciation of his ideas.

* * *

The workers are making fine progress on the new wing of the Ad building, and we prophecy that by the end of next school year the vines will be as thick as ever. Those of you who haven't seen the Ad building lately while it was partially demolished can't imagine what a relief it will be to drive through the front door and get out of administration completely restored.

* * *

The social side of our college life this summer was opened with a student-faculty tea, informal coffees, the annual student-faculty dinner, play nite, and countless other diversions. The social directors did an excellent job of keeping our leisure hours occupied with worthwhile amusements.

* * *

With Superintendent Riley Boyd Parsons as principal the summer session school has had an enrollment of about 1000 students. During summer the auditorium has been remodeled, and a new radio and piano have been added to the school equipment. The new auditorium was opened with a banquet for the students, alumnae, and invited guests.

* * *

The school of music, of which Miss Ella Scobie Opperman is dean, gave joint concert July 15. Miss Gladys Koch, director of the chorus, and Prof Owen P Sellers, leader of the orchestra, were the instructors.

* * *

The industrial vocation teachers met here for a short term of lectures which were held in the education building. A little later the Florida Federation of Women's clubs sponsored a second annual woman's institute. One hundred representatives of clubs were joined with lectures and library exhibits.

* * *

Each Wednesday evening during the summer there was a lecture presented in the Augusta Conrad auditorium by one of the professors of the college. Every Tuesday noon has found the students together for conversation. And on Sunday evening vespers has attracted us.

* * *

The alumnae association held its annual meeting, May 23 in the Augusta Conrad theater, and re-elected Mrs Bessie, of Groveland president. The association elected an able staff, and we have confidence that the work of the body will progress as smoothly as ever before.

Modern Mother Mixes Marriage With Education

Mrs. Gehan Graduates After Daughters And Son

Rearing a family has not kept one Florida woman from going back to college to get her degree.

She is Mrs. Frederick W. Gehan, of Tallahassee, mother of six daughters and one son, who on July 31 expects to receive her four-year degree of bachelor of science in education at the summer commencement at Florida State College for Women here exactly 26 years after she first enrolled in college.

This Tallahassee mother has attended the state college in this city at the same time three of her daughters have enrolled here as students. She first attended the state institution when it was known as the Florida Female college, receiving her elementary training after which she did stenographic and secretary work, stopping in 1909 to get married and move to Connecticut.

It was in the summer of 1926 when she moved back to Tallahassee that Mrs. Gehan decided to resume her college work. She wanted to teach school now that her children were almost all grown and so one summer day she walked into the office of the county school superintendent, took the teacher's examination and passed it with honors and came out with a first grade certificate. Then she immediately proceeded to enroll in the Florida State College summer session that year and has attended every summer session since then as well as the full winter term of this past year. In these 10 years Mrs. Gehan has been absent from class only twice, both times because the public schools of Tallahassee most of that time.

With her degree almost realized and a first grad life certificate in her possession, Mrs. Gehan is looking forward to resuming her teaching duties in the fall semester and her only son already have been graduated from college and are successfully in the business world.

Many Celebrities Are Presented During Meet Of Woman's Institute

Florida State College Alumnae association joined three other women's organizations June 29-July 3 at Florida State University held at the state college here. The meeting was called a week of "back to school" movement where appropriate addresses and lectures attended a series of lectures, conferences, and discussions on such subjects as child development, home health and conservation. Other organizations represented were the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, Florida Federation of Women's clubs, and the state home demonstration council.

Mrs. E. L. Adams, of Groveland, president of the Alumnae association, presided over one of the informal luncheon sessions.

A highlight of the Alumnae association activities during the institute was an informal meeting of Dr. Homer P. Rainey, state superintendent, Dr. Rainey is the American Youth Commission.

With Dr. Adams and Dr. Rainey, former president of Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa., spoke on "Alumnae Interests," and part of the time was given over to an informal discussion.

Conferences with different members of the faculty were arranged for the alumnae also. Among other speakers at the institute were:

(Continued on page six)

President Gives Year's Summary

Association Makes Its Report Of Work For Past Year

In order that alumnae of Florida State College for Women, who found it impossible to be present at the annual alumnae meeting during commencement week, may know more in detail concerning the activities of the alumnae association during the past year, a portion of the report of the president, Mrs. K. L. Beeson, is given below.

In reviewing the work of the past year of the alumnae association of Florida State College for Women, we must bear in mind that the general object of the association is to advance the interests of the college and to inspire the enthusiasm of the individuals of the group. To these ends all our purposes have been directed throughout the year; working for consistent and harmonious progress.

"Specifically, the aims of the association are: (1) to be loyal to the needs of the college and of the alumnae association; (2) to give study and action to those constructive plans which will enable the association to become the best possible advantage in serving the college and the ever increasing number of alumnae in the coming year; (3) to lay a foundation for the time to be reached by coming of age of our association in its development of alumnae life.

"There are three lines of work in the advancement of general alumni life. The first is called the social

Marriage Course Proves Popular

Students of Florida State College for Women are becoming more and more interested in how to make successful marriages, it appears here.

Since a course on "Marriage and the Family" was established at the state college six years ago, the enrollment in the course has trebled—from approximately 20 students in 1926 to almost 60 during the past winter—and now it is necessary to repeat the course annually instead of only for one semester.

Problems of courtship and marital adjustments are taken up in the lecture-discussion course offered on alternate years in the origin and development of the family and the factors which contribute to its stability.

Twenty students are now enrolled in the summer course in marriage and the family, married and unmarried students, widows and divorced persons. Some of the students are from divorce homes.

Teaching the course is Dr. Coyle E. Moore, who holds his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago. Dr. Moore, himself married and the father of one child, is president of the Florida chapter of Social Work and is a member of the state board of public welfare.

"Divorce is never brought about by one person alone, but is the result of a combination of things," Dr. Moore declares. "The most important trait to remem'ber in marriage is adjustment. To be able to sit down and approach problems rationally. Birth, marriage and death are the most important events in a person's life," he says. "About the first and the last the individual has no choice hence it is highly desirable that he or she give the utmost attention to the most important of the three—choosing a mate."

Destitute Dames Develop Dinero Diggin' Devices

Fickle Finger Of Fortune Finds Femininity Infallible

No one could say that students at Florida State College for Women are not resourceful! In addition to preparing their work for nine hours college credit, many students find time to earn money. And not just a little money! Some earn a goodly part of their expenses and a great many earn all! Shek, spending money. But how do they find jobs when so many people grow footsore and weary looking for work in much larger cities? It's worth investigating!

The college personnel office has acted as fairy godmother to fifty students this summer. Thirty-seven girls have been awarded dining room scholarships; five girls have been employed in the college pantry; seven girls have been employed as dormitory office assistants and one girl has been employed as "special assistant."

The board of control has helped eighteen college students by appointing them to work in different departments of the college.

But there are many students who have not been fortunate enough to have had fairy god-mothers or godfathers find work for them and have done the best-in-hunting themselves. Fifty-seven and fifteen girls have found work in tearooms, restaurants, or two have been employed as salesgirls in the department stores in town. Other college girls have found work by soliciting for shoe parlors.

Some girls have found it just as profitable to set up shop in their own rooms. One girl has the bulletin boards and word-of-mouth reports of numerous customers, they have found that they can't keep up with the rush of business. What business? A great variety of it! Some specialize in giving finger waves at reduced rates for which no union scale has been established. Others charge from ten cents to twenty-five cents. Other type papers of all descriptions, charging as little as five cents a page. Coaching in any and all subjects, including swimming, is a profitable racket.

By far the most lucrative business is that of writing term papers for students who are too occupied to attend to writing them-selves. As much as five dollars a paper has been charged and received!

stage, when alumnae seek to perpetuate the friendships of college days through organization. The second stage is the financial stage, when alumnae definitely give material assistance to the college. The third stage is attained when the designated the education era, the period of service, when the present concept of college-alumnae relationship is that the graduate is a member of the college for life and that he is, therefore, concerned in the various phases of the development of the college.

"What then, have been the accomplishments of the alumnae association of Florida State College for Women this year in the light of these aims? Broadly speaking they are still of a foundation nature.

"Homecoming, November 27-28 was marked by a four-fold program of well-balanced activities. New and special features were announced which, with the regular entertainment features of homecoming, emphasized the social ties of the alumnae with the college and among themselves.

"The second annual alumnae institute held during the homecoming season marked the second progression toward our anticipated 'Alumnae College.'"

"The plan for the award of honor, designed to honor graduates of Florida State College for Women who bring distinction to themselves and upon the college by outside achievement, was discussed at the second alumnae institute.

"The semi-annual meeting of the board of directors of the alumnae association was held with the faculty committee on cooperation with the alumnae November 28, 1931. At this meeting plans for unified programs for the G. W. Peek memorial years in advance were discussed. The council went on record in recommending reconsideration of the entire homecoming procedure, making parents' day and alumnae homecoming separate because of conflicting interests and lack of space.

"In keeping with plans made at the meeting of the executive council to stimulate under-graduate

(Continued on page six)

Alumnae Honored With Medallions

Seven Get Distinguished Achievement Award In May

Presentation of the first "alumnae medallions" in recognition of the "distinguished achievement" of seven Florida State college graduates took place at the college May 23, during the commencement Week.

The seven alumnae singled out for this honor were Mrs. Clara McDonald Glaco, Gainesville, teacher; music in the field of education; Mrs. Kathryn Reece Haun, New York City, for musical distinction; Mrs. Orita Bradford Van Doren, New York City, liberal arts and literature; Miss Rowena Longmire, Tallahassee, for service to the college; Mrs. J. W. McCollum, Gainesville, for civic service; Miss Shirley Long, New York City, literature; and Miss Mary Frances Sloan, deceased, who attained prominence in the profession of medicine.

Dr. Mildred Christian, professor of English at Agnes Scott Newcomb college, New Orleans, was the speaker at the awards ceremony at the Augusta Conrad theater. Her subject was "Woman's Place" and she told how woman's face had changed in physical appearance as she was granted more and more privileges of different fields.

Dean Jeffry Alfriend, local Episcopal minister, gave the invocation. Miss Nina McAdam, of Miami, dean of women, Miss Olson, Mrs. J. W. Reece, of Tallahassee, received the medallion for her daughter and little eight-year-old Shirley Long of Tallahassee, received the award for her aunt, of New York City. Mrs. Thomas T Sloan, of Jacksonville, was here to receive the medallion for her daughter, Mary Bailey, deceased.

Sketched on the obverse side of the medallion is a close study of the portals and towers of the Administration building. The interior of the college, as shown on the reverse side, is a study of plant life on the reverse side represents beneficient productiveness. Design for the medallion was executed and executed by the Gustav Bohlands, of Miami, nationally known sculptors.

The Florida Flambeau

Published weekly by the students Of Florida State College for Women, Summer Session, 1936.

Entered as second class mail matter January 20, 1912, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

STAFF

EDITOR ..... Althea Smith
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Betty Evans
Departmenta: Sports, Mary Boatwright; Copy, Henry Coles, Jane Parker; Circulation, Rachel Griffin.

REPORTERS

Louise Mae Farrow, Lucy Kelly, Mary Clarke, Joan Cooperman, Jesse Parker.

Hail And Farewell

Once again at the inevitable parting of the ways, Florida State summer students look back on a full eight-week program.

Gathered together for the session, teachers and students from all over the state have spent a profitable summer on this campus.

We have been privileged to enjoy a well-organized group of forum lectures led by our faculty members; we have been entertained by our orchestra and chorus; we have been given the opportunity to sit in on sessions of the various conferences held here during our two-months stay, and we have taken part in a well-rounded program of sports and social activities.

As another school term draws to a close, another group of hopeful grads is about to encounter the problem of finding its place in the world—a brave new world. If the many words of wisdom annually offered the graduate goes, as usual, in one ear and out the other, he must depend upon his own resourcefulness and adaptability. In this age of enlightened educational theory and practice, it is to be conjectured that the college graduate of 1936 is well armed for the fray . . Good hunting!

"Isms" And "Ologies" . . .

Lullaby A La Mode

Go to sleep, darling, sweet peace to your soul!
Mother will pray for your motor control;
Check up statistics on mental hygiene.

Look at your brain through an X-ray machine.

Hushabye, darling, it's mother's ambition
To get all your reflexes into condition.

Mother is wise in the new sociology.

Psycho-analysis — Endocrinology.

She'd like to sing to you, but the psychologist,
Pre-school authorities, learned biologists,
Ban lullabies for the kids of the nation,
Lest they develop the "mother-fixation."

Make your "Good-night" scientific and formal,
Don't run the risk of a complex abnormal.

Angels are watching o'er each berry and baby,
Hushabye, lullaby, ain't science grand!—Texas State College.

Cheating . . .

"Yes I believe that cheating is very prevalent at Miami, but I think that women do most of it." a Miami University (Oxford, O.) student tells an inquiring reporter. Michigan Daily

Guest Editorial

This Exam Question

Many people seem to be of the opinion that if a census were taken in order to find out the amount of good as weighed against the amount of harm that is brought about by examinations, the harm would so outweigh the good as to bring about the abolition of final examinations.

During each school year—twice—the entire student body, and the entire faculty are plunged into a wild uproar which usually subsides into a serious nervous condition—and all this is on account of the semester and final exams to which the students are subjected, and because of which the faculty also must suffer. Summer students go through a milder form of the same manis.

A final examination is no criterion of the amount of knowledge that has been gained by a student through the year. It is impossible for a teacher to ask questions on the exam which pertain to every single phase which has been covered in her course during the year.

Examinations are unfair. If weekly tests were given throughout the year, all students could be fairly tested on all the material covered by the course.

Many students are unable to do their best work; and it is an unquestionable fact that the majority of students are keyed up to a high degree of nervousness during the entire week of examinations.

The majority of professors place too much value on the grade of the final examination, while if weekly tests were given, an occasional low grade would not be fatal to a student.

When examinations are abolished, a true step in the direction of progress will have been made.

—Elizabeth Turner

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK . . . . . By Evans

HEADLINES and FOOTNOTES
BY MARY N. CLARKE

Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, in accepting the presidential nomination, pledged himself "to restore our government on an efficient as well as constitutional basis." Following are excerpts from Landon's speech of acceptance:

"The time has come to unshackle initiative and free the American enterprises. We must end the unceasing government intimidations and hostility . . . from the effects of an arbitrary and uncertain monetary policy, and through a vigorous enforcement of anti-trust laws we must be freed from private monopolistic control . . . Those who need relief will get it. We will not take economies out of the allotment of the unemployed, we will take them out of the hides of the political exploiters. The sanctity of all of us depends on the good management of our common affairs.

A simple inquiry into the facts and figures will show that our growing debts and taxes are enormously out of proportion. Millions of borrowed money may create a temporary appearance of prosperity, but in the end the taxpayers have yet to pay the bill. We must establish responsibility in the handling of government finances. The administration through its program of security has gambled with the needed food and food supplies of the country. It overlooks the fact that mother nature can not be regimented."

• • •

In speaking before the Nazi aviation officials at the air club in Berlin last week, Colonel Chas. A Lindbergh deplored the present signs of war clouds hanging over Europe. "Aviation has brought a revolutionary change to a world already staggering from changes. It is our responsibility to make sure that we do not destroy the very thing we wish to protect," he said. "Aviation has become a new conception of security necessary in that it has abolished defense. It requires more intelligence to operate an airplane than to dig trenches and to shoot a rifle. The education which is required in aviation must also teach the value of civilized institutions," he declared. A new type of security must be found. Aviation must not static, a security which rests on intelligence and not force."

• • •

Through the expediency of passing a few simple ordinances, the National Socialist government of the free city of Danzig, laid the basis for the coordination of Danzig with the German Reich. One measure states that any association propagating reports against the interests of the state must be dissolved as such attacks endanger the feeling of good will existing between Danzig and Germany. Because of the activities of the opposition parties, these measures were deemed necessary by the government. All papers not favoring the government have been suppressed.

• • •

The League of Nations has been Danzig's guardian but the free city has repudiated any of its attempts to interfere. All opposition parties have been prevented in appealing to the league. The Vorposten, official socialist newspaper states, "Danzig is German, and therein lies the Peuhrer's will."

• • •

The fact that re-armament is gaining in Great Britain was revealed by Sir Thomas Inskip, minister of coordination and defense in the house of commons last week. Pursuit planes capable of a top speed of 300 miles an hour are being turned out to defend the towns and cities against air attack. The planes will be delivered in ever increasing numbers. The government will carry out its program to meet any foreign air force. The amount spent on carrying out the program is not excessive after taking into the fact that Germany spent $4,000,000,000 on war preparations last year and will probably spend a like amount again this year.

• • •

Officials estimate that at least 1,000,000 persons in the northwest will receive government aid this winter. Emergency relief is being extended to drought sufferers at present. The WPA has increased its job quota to 50,000 for the Dakotas alone. The WPA will carry out a water conservation project in which wells will be dug on public property to supply communities with water.

• • •

At the Museum of Sciences and Industry in Chicago, Wednesday night, a robot machine lectured on machine employment for fifteen minutes. With records to substantiate its arguments, the robot proved that machines make jobs instead of increasing unemployment. According to the machine, population in the United States has increased 219 per cent while machine employment has increased 291 per cent in the same period.

• • •

Civil war continues in Spain between the government forces and the Fascist and Monarchist rebels as each fights for the possession of the capital city of Madrid. Though the militia has taken many of the insurgent strongholds heavy fighting continues on several fronts, particularly around the capital. The government claims that the revolution is under control, however, Premier Jose Giral and his Popular Front government are apprehensive as to the outcome. Great anxiety is felt for Americans in Madrid who are unable to leave because of the lack of transportation facilities

Them's My Sentiments

By A. CORD

I See—

Rex Yates has been showing these girls the difference between real love and just crazy. The haircut Kennington gave Hood still looks like something the cat had but wouldn't keep. Maybe it wouldn't take a dare to use look a scaking. Mrs. Clarke, the pleasant little lady who refuses to give me the right due bathing suit, has made everyone envious with her plans to visit the Texas centennial. Life-saving is fascinating. I have to sink about. Hood, Kennington, and Harriet Knight decided, about one o'clock Saturday morning, to go to Gainesville. They returned about noon and tried to get by with the story that Hood's animated sacrifice can get erase 68 miles an hour all the way back. This golf business ought to be prohibited—very time I serve I discover a new sore spot developes. I averaged eight strokes per hole). This afternoon I turned out the copy room window and spayed Herman Hare, the rollicking rabbit, placidly eating in munch behind the history building. I think it was the ghost of the late lamented "Woolsey."

About That Dem School Dance—

It has been one week and four days since Mary Clarke had a dip that turned into a tailspin. Was the girl faintly tinged with crimson when he discovered that his trousers had acquired a perfect fit of the waves? Was he a-jours on the floor? I like to cram and I like to dance, but that dance was the first time I tried to do both at the same time. It was that night that Jesse Parker had to take a swing at the pumik bowl fountain. "Bo Willie" Rickards was there in all his glory, or rather, his dad's new car was. Bo Willie Rickards, in person of Lucy Kelly, was representing everything everything it was some stuff.

I Overheard—

Marian Weeks: "I'm hot. I think I'll go swimming and pool off."

Beth Daane: "Wet for me."

Marian: "Moisture always be slow?"

Finish Exam
Then Exam
To Beach
To Bash
Or Burn.
Return
To Mourn.
Why Was I Born!

Faculty Foibles—

Dr. Briggs, after concluding his lecture, called on members of the class for contributions. After nearly everyone had dutifully said, "I agree," it came Dell Eyman's turn. He brightly responded, "I am in the same boat." "Indeed, Mr. Brisco, disgustedly. "The boat is overcrowded. It looks like you will sink"

Alliteration—

Cotey caches car on college curb. Awkward auto amiss around Anderson Court. Little Lizzie leaks lots of loose pars. Damage deduced. Darndest device devised.

Period.

CHILDHOOD EDUCATION ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL SUMMER BANQUET HERE

Approximately fifty summer school students, teachers and others interested in pre-school or primary education attended the annual banquet of the Florida branch association of Childhood Education Monday night at the Three Torches tea room.

Banquet theme was "What Makes a Good School?" Programs were paper cut-outs of miniature school houses on the windows of which were written the A. C. E. interests—adequate housing, living, definite learning experiences, encouragement, regularity and promptness, and thrift.

Principal speaker was Mrs. Mae Knight Clark, of the Gainesville school, Miami, who also is past president of the A. C. E. Other speakers and their subjects: Miss Frances Support of St. Petersburg, "Socialized Living"; Mrs. J. E. Medlock, Marianna, "Definite Learning Experiences"; Miss Mary Lamont, Sarasota, "Sportsmanship"; Miss Elizabeth Austin, Leesburg, "Regularity and Promptness"; and Miss Evelyn Bowden, Leesburg, "Thrift." Giving reports on A. C. E. branches in other cities were Mrs. Courtney D. Guilford of Winter Haven and Madge Wallace, Jacksonville; and Miss Emma Lee Carpenter, Orlando. Mrs. Clark reported for Miami.

Miss Margaret McCurdie of the demonstration school staff was in charge of the affair.

Guests attending were, Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Nathaniel Moss Bailey, Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons, of the college faculty; Miss Sinoyer Pope, Miss McCurdie, Miss Ruth Deutsaf, of Tallahassee; Miss Mable Sullivan, Miss Antoinette La Rocque, Miami; Mrs. Annie Bowden Hartt, Mary Ignatia and Miss Almyra Davis, Miss Kathleen Lennon, Mrs. Mary A. Clark, Jacksonville; Miss Mary Esther Wills, Miss Lou Faris, Miss Maxine Bassett, Miss Florence Smith, Pensacola; Miss Lucile Weeks, Brooksville; Miss Ida Miller, Lakeland; Miss Nell Gould, Miss Lois Alexander, Fort Myers; Miss Christine Clayton, Tampa; Miss Ruby Lilley, Starke; Miss Emma A. Owen Sanford; Mrs. Olive B. Ward, Miss Willie McDonald, Defuniak Springs; Miss Celia Hardaway, Mrs. Oscar Stokes, Mrs. George Rivenbark, Mrs. Mary Tompkins, of Milton; Miss Nell Stokes, Miss Eunice Hartt, of Baker; Mrs. Katie McSween Smith, Chipley; Miss Mary Smith Dickey, Stuart; Miss Nancy Lee Moore, Laurel Hill; and Miss Flossie Sharp, Fort Lauderdale.

Graduating Students Guests Of Alumnae At Tea Thursday

The members of the graduation class were the guests of the alumnae association at a tea Thursday afternoon in the Jennie Murphree parlors. The guests were received by Dr. Rhey Boyd Parsons, Miss Louise Conradi, Dr. Olivia Dorman, Miss Katherine Blood, Miss Ruth Schornherst and Mrs. Annie Collins Senasbaugh. Miss Anna Mae Tracy introduced the graduates.

Assisting Miss Ruth Carpenter in entertaining were Mrs. Laura Leslie, Miss Anna Mae Sikes, Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Mrs. Nora Skipper, Mrs. Francis Tippets Johnston, Miss Florence Tyrone, Miss Maude Flowers, and Miss Gaillard.

Congratulations Summer Graduates!

Select Your Gifts at

GELBERG'S

College Ave.

Flowers And Tracy Arrange For Guests

According to Miss Maude Flowers summer school graduates may make arrangements for housing their guests in the dormitories.

Miss Anna May Tracy, dietitian of the dining room, has made the following announcement to all students who take meals in the dining hall:

"If you are getting a bachelor's degree you may have two guests without charge, for meals in the college dining hall, at commencement, beginning with dinner Wednesday, July 29, and ending Friday noon after lunch, July 31. These guests must be parents or members of your immediate family. All other guests must be paid for at regular guest rates. "Cash only; no accounts."

"Alumnae are guests of the college on these same dates.

"Town students who have not been boarding in the dining hall do not have the above guest privileges.

"Graduate students who have been boarding in the dining hall have the same guest privileges as seniors."

Cigar Progress Board To Give Scholarships As Prizes For Slogans

Ambitious young men and women who are seeking to continue or extend their education will be afforded an opportunity by a contest announced today by the Cigar Progress Board, 200 Fifth avenue, New York. Eight free scholarships totaling in all over a $500 scholarship as the principal award, will be given for the best original slogan, essay, poem or poster, in which the pleasure, joy, comfort or relaxation to be obtained from smoking cigars, is best described.

The nationwide contest, which opens today and closes September 15, will be the executives of the American Institute of Graphic Arts, Rockefeller center, New York City.

Since its organization, the foundation has handled more than forty scholarships and is recognized as one of the outstanding agencies for the promotion of higher education in the United States. Included among its honorary directors are:

Com. Donald Barcley Beard, Boy Scouts; Mrs. Frederick Eddy, past president, Girl Scouts, Inc.; Mrs. Ivy Lee, of Ivy Lee Associates, president of the United Parents' assn. of New York; Dr. Frank A. Vanderlip, asst. com. for vocational and extension education, the University of the State of New York; Hon. Royal S. Copeland, U. S. senator from New York; Henry W. Taft, Bessie Clarke Drouet is the director.

The contest is open to all persons who aspire to attend colleges, universities and vocational schools. Entrants may submit short essays of not more than 200 words; slogans, not more than 20 words, or poems. Art students may send in posters suitable for reproduction for window display purposes, using the theme "Cigars Are Dad for Christmas."

Two million entry blanks are being distributed this week through retail cigar outlets, summer schools, clubs, CCC camps, art schools, Chambers of Commerce, YMCA's, etc.

In addition to the first prize of $500, there will be additional scholarship prizes of $200, $150, $100, two each of $75 and of $50. The awards will be made in cash either directly to the winners or

(Continued on page six)

Personal Mention

Mrs H A Irving will have as her visitors for graduation ceremonies her husband, two children and her mother, Mrs J S Rogers of Jacksonville.

* *

Thelma Williams spent last week-end in Bonifay visiting her family.

* *

Mrs Margaret Saynor will leave Saturday for Asheville, North Carolina, where she will visit for several weeks.

* *

Mrs Wilbur Brown visited in Bonifay last week-end.

* *

Mrs Ina Land visited in Jacksonville with her husband last week-end.

* *

Miss Rose Denham will leave Saturday for Hendersonville, North Carolina.

* *

Mrs Virginia Peace Johnson, who is to graduate next Friday, will have her mother, Mrs Peace of Jacksonville as a visitor.

* *

Mrs Ina Land, a member of the outgoing seniors class, will be visited next week-end by her husband, Mr. Reece Land of Jacksonville.

* *

Sarah Harrell of St. Marks visited her parents last week-end.

* *

Mr. H. A. Davis of Jacksonville will attend the graduation of his wife, a graduate of the summer school graduating class, next Friday.

* *

H. D. Mendenhall, resident engineer at Florida State College for Women, is in Fort Benning, Ga., to attend the engineer officers training camp for fourteen days. Mendenhall, a lieutenant colonel in the reserve corps, left Sunday for Fort Benning.

Gay Gypsy Party Is Given At Baptist Student House

Many of the summer students, dressed in bright costumes, followed the Romany trail on Friday night to the gypsy camp at the Baptist student house.

Upon their arrival they were suddenly kidnapped by a band of gypsies and were carried to the gypsy king who ushered them into the mysteries of gypsyhood. Those who wished to know more about their heart affairs or what the future has in store for them, hurried to the fortune teller's booth; while others played their games or sang gypsy songs.

Each gypsy brought a gift to be traded off, and much fun ensued as this was done. Cooling ices were served later in the evening.

Plans For Observance Of Third "FSCW Week" Announced By Alumnae

A departure in plans for the observance of the third annual "F. S. C. W. Week" March 1-6 was announced today by the executive board of the Florida State College alumnae association and the faculty committee on co-operation with the alumnae, who are in charge.

During that week the college faculty members will be available for talks on subjects in their respective fields, their appearances before civic, alumnae or public clubs in various parts of the state to be arranged by the alumnae clubs. In this way it is felt that the college can best serve the interests of the community. In former years the faculty members have spoken chiefly about the college showing its relationship to the state.

Turning Over A New Leaf

Miss Louise Richardson, Librarian Recommends For Summer Reading, An Interesting Collection of New Books

The coming of vacation will bring on many leisure hours, hours that can be spent both pleasantly and profitably. The last year has given out more than its share of good books. Listed below are some books especially recommended by Miss Louise Richardson for vacational reading. Among other new books of fiction, biography, and travel.

Spring Flight, Peveril, is a first fictional contribution of Mrs. Bess Streeter Aldrich. This book captures the spirit and zest of life on the early prairies, from the evanescent, wild flowers trodden under foot by the heavy oxen of the westward caravan, to the hurtling blasts of the winter blizzard. This book is remarkable for its clear characterizations, its insight, and its progressive interest in description of emotional incidents. It is a stirring narrative of a stirring era.

Edna His Wife, late fictional work of Inez Haynes Ayers Barnes, is a story of pretty little Edna Lorimer, who, like others from her two suitors the handsome unknown Paul Jones. During the years that follow, Edna remained simple and unsophisticated, while Paul prodigiously rose to fame and fortune. In 1935, Edna awakes to find herself with every material thing that money can could desire, a lonely middle aged woman of fashion and social children have grown far from her.

Life With Father, a biography by Clarence Shepard Day, is one of the most chuckling books of our time. Although it is written with the same gentle wisdom and affectionate humor of 'God and My Father', this volume has a wider view, more amenity, and more opportunity to entertain. The scenes are delightful, out of all proportion to their canvas. What happens seems perfectly natural. . . . The author has selected the most characteristic details, and the most typical colloquialism with which to tell it. That is what makes its pages so easy to read aloud.

North of the Orient, by Mrs Charles A. Lindbergh, is one of our rarest travel books, one that reveals it every not only the spirit of the places they see and people they met, but it reveals Mrs. Lindbergh . . . and the revelation is a rich and lovely one.

In this book, Mrs. Lindbergh gives us a picture of her adventures that no other could do so well; she has indicated, almost unpretentiously, the self reliance, and the enormous precaution, without which such jaunts would be hazardous for any grandchildren.

Other new books recommended by Miss Richardson are:

Allen—Lords of creation. Harper. (Fiction)

Bagnold—A diary without dates. Morrow.

Bienhorn—Flying firi. Goeffrey Books.

Boileau—The map of days. Dutton. (Fiction)

Cobb—My shadow as I pass. Viking Press. (Fiction)

Bridge—Illyrian Spring. Little. (Fiction)

Brown—Brownstone fronts and Saratoga trunks. Dutton. (Travel) (N. Y. City)

Boyd—Discovery. Putnam.

Calher—Lucy Gayheart. Knopf. (Fiction)

Cobb—Paths of glory. Viking Press.

Dela Mare—Early one morning in the spring. Macmillan.

Doble—San Francisco tales. Appleton. (Short stories)

Driggs—The pony express goes through. Stokes. (Travel)

Durants—I write as I please. Simon & Schuster. (Biography)

Poet's Corner...

MY ROOMMATE

Between the dark and the daylight
When the day is beginning to lower—
Comes a rush from the arms of Morpheus—
Which is known as the study hour!

I hear in the bed beside me
The rustle of he-man feet,
The sound of a door that is open
And a growling far from sweet.

From my half-shut orbs I watch her
Return and flop in a chair,
And begin to draw pictures for Destey
With a half-professional air.

I lie and try to be peaceful;
My conscience begins to stir,
And the pain of truth confronts me
I must join the ranks with her.

So I master the courage of martyrs
Who have stained this road I tred,
And I rise like a lamb from slumber
And stagger out of my bed.

A whisper and then a silence;
And I know by her pansy eyes,
She's really not thinking of art at all
And will soon throw off the disguise.

She tells me of letters she's gotten;
Then at my uncombed hair;
I must learn the names of microbes—
Or else be considered a square!

But she seems to be everywhere.
She draws some reactions for Finney;
For Mac Curdie she prints a card:
She tries to pretend she's studying
And strains a look so hard.

Do you think O, blue eyed roommate,
Because you've awakened at day,
Such a bacteriologist as I am
Can be fooled in such a way?

I know why you wake so early,
And go down the hall with a start,
It's not that you have to study—
You're writing letters to Carl.

Mabel Daniel Caraway.

TO FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE

Your sloping hills bathed in sunshine,
Your gold pines gray mosses entwine.
The stately buildings ivy clad
Bring to me now a message and.

Soon I shall say farewell to all your grace;
No more, by night, shall I see the moon's pale face
Shining o'er your towers like ecstasies old.
Revealing all your beauty manifold.

Until eternity, with nature's help
Shall you with me be blessed,
Your ivy fingers round other hearts will be pressed;
Through drooping eves this they will look up and find peace;
By knowledge and faith in mankind our souls are released.

Genevieve C. Kenly.

Seniors Are Honored By Novel Dinner

Last Wednesday night the seniors at table seventy-five were honored by the other students at the table.

A color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the candles, floral decorations, and menu cups. Japanese fans were given favors.

The honor guests, Mrs. Mabel Caraway, Mrs. Verna Knight, and Miss Lucette Bracken, were presented with gifts during the evening. Others attending were Mrs. Myrtle May, Mrs. Mabel Howard, Mrs. Minnie Dupree, Mrs. Flossie Sharpe, Miss Lois Farris. Miss Maude Simmons, Miss Odessa Stanford, and Miss Daisy Wilson.

Summer School Enrollment Is Near 300 Mark

Coeducational Session Offers Three Types Work for Degrees

Over three hundred students have already enrolled in the coeducational summer session at Florida State College for Women which will open Monday, June 6, and will last until July 31. There probably will be a large increase in the enrollment before the opening date.

Three dormitories opening June 8 will furnish ample rooming facilities for women. Bryan hall has been reserved for graduate and married students, and special privileges will be granted those living in this hall. Reynolds and Jennie Murphree halls have been reserved for undergraduates.

Seventeen single room are available in Reynolds and Jennie Murphree halls at the same price as a double room while other rooms in these halls will be available for students who wish to occupy a larger room alone. The dining room will also be opened June 6 this summer, operating on the regular rates.

The college summer school offers opportunities to both men and women for three types of work: regular college work leading toward a degree; college courses for teachers who wish to satisfy the state certificate requirements; and graduate work for those who are candidates for the Master's degree. Students, by a sequence of studies, from summer to summer, may build up a series of credits leading to a degree.

Among the course offered are bacteriology, bot ny, nology, chemistry, economics, education, English French, Spanish, Latin, history, home economics, industrial arts, journalism, kindergarten, library science, mathematics, music, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, sociology, speech and drama.

Classes run daily from 8:00 to 12:00 and from 1:30 to 4:30 except on Saturday. The weekly calendar includes regers in open air theater at 7:15 Sunday night; informal after-dinner coffees with speaker, Monday at 7:15, Brown-ard club room; convocation in the auditorium, Thursday; a forum in each Wednesday night, and play nite every Friday at 8 o'clock.

Astronomy Club Elects Ware to Lead Officers For Next Year's Work

Gladys Ware was elected president of the astronomy club at the last meeting of the year held last Wednesday. Other officers elected are, Dora Helen Baggett, vice-president; Lynn Hammond, chairman of the telescope team, and Florence Evers, secretary and treasurer.

After the election of officers Dr. Harold P. Richards, head of the college physics department, gave a talk on catastrophes among the stars. He pointed out that great catastrophes are continually occurring in the universe but that we are so far removed from them we do not notice them.

Marjorie Harris, past-president of the club, will entertain the old and new members at a ten o'clock coffee in her room next Wednesday evening.

talya Compiles Teachers' List

Continued from page five

cago, Illinois—Forty-eight "Tuition Service Leaflets." These are leaflets on the collection and preservation of insects and plants, on balanced squaria, rearing silk worms, feeding aquarium animals, studying nests, etc. Send for list.

Holstein - Friesian Association, 448 West Washington Ave., Madison, Wisconsin—Wal, chart, colored, of phantom cow, with data on production.

Irradiated Evaporated Milk Institute, 203 North Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.—Booklets and reprints on the history of evaporated milk, nutrition and health, fa nily budgets, etc., including a play "The Laughing Moon," concerning nutrition. List obtainable.

Kellog Co., Battla Creek, Michigan—"Junior Craftsmen Blueprints" (includes blueprints for log house).

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., School Service Bureau, Industrial Division, 1 Madison Ave., New York City—Series of biographies, "Health Heroes"; bulletin, "Health Through the Ages"; bulletin, "The Battle of Health"; disease prevention bulletins on cancer, colds, infantile paralysis, malaria, hookworm, infantile paralysis, malaria, measles, pellagra, scarlet fever, smallpox, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, whooping cough; "Health Material for Schools—another list"; list of films and filer strips.

National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—List of National Geographic Magazines of recent years available at $1.00 for 10 copies, list of separate color sheets from National Geographic Magazine (minimum purchase, 48 sheets at 30 cents).

National Parks Association, 837 13th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.—Charts and bulletin dealing with the use of time in agriculture and the making of concrete, by schools.

National Society of Audubon Societies, West, 1775 Broadway, New York City—Bird leaflets, 3½ x 5 in., 8 cents each; bird cards, 3 sets of 30 cards each for the color, lar; "List of Literature."

Nature Study Review, 166 Front St., New York City—Reprint, "New Uses for An Old Metal."

Northern Supply Co., 1750 North Ashland Ave. Chicago, Ill.—Booklet, "A Brief History of Yeast, two pages.

Ralston Purina Co., 8th and Gratiot St. St. Louis, Mo.—A large wall chart, "The Nutriment Value in Grains of Wheat," showing longitudinal and cross sections of a grain of wheat; "Hot Cereal Studies for Health Classes" (with literature and experimental material—booklet).

Republic Steel Corporation, Republic Building, Cleveland, Ohio—Pamphlet, "Sheet Iron—A Primer"—24 pages—cost limited to sheet iron and covers historical aspects of iron and its alloys).

Rudd Manufacturing Co., 2924 Smallman St., Pittsburgh, Pa.—Booklets and charts on water heaters.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.—List and bulletins are free. A wide range of topics covered by these bulletins. They ar not limited to agriculture. List of educational charts on agriculture and home economics. Charts 12 x 18 inches, one cent each. Some suitable for elementary science.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Forest Service.—"The Forest —A Handbook for Teachers," 72 pages, 30 cents; map showing forest regions of the U. S.; charts concerning fire prevention; chart,

End of S Require Ann

Rules for Co Guests and School

Regulations comments for comm leaving at the clos been announced Flowers, director balls.

These rules tells Only four-year have guests in the during conferences having a guest f ment; please regist the director in yo are invited from May 22, through e

Any student graduation day m

"How a Tree Grow tree and cross-s showing effects d disease, etc.); lis Interest to Teache

U. S. Departme ture, Bureau of H —List of publicat

Whitman Publi cine, Wisconsin— about 100 pages w color and describ trees, flowers, and moths. Available at ten cents each.

Wild Flower Pr ciety, 2740 Olive Washington, D. C. culars varying in for five cents to on wildflowers; o to be colored; o cent each in lots or more; color flowers, trees, a about one or two

Visitor Explains Junior Red Cross

National Representative Comes To Campus

Mrs. Ethel B. Matson, formerly principal in Lake Worth and a representative of the national Red Cross for the past seven years, spent last Wednesday and Thursday at Florida State College for Women acquainting students and teachers with the work of the Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. Matson told students that three phases of junior Red Cross work include world friendship, service and health. To foster world friendship, she said, the Junior Red Cross conducts an exchange with fifty-four different countries. In addition, she added, the Red Cross sponsors an intersectional exchange and an exchange with the Indians. The Red Cross service also includes the fostering of good citizenship and character building. The health program is carried out by supplying materials to teachers for use in classrooms.

Membership not only saures members of the magazine published by the Junior organization, but also entitles members, pupils of the exchange services and to secure materials for the various phases of the Junior Red Cross work.

Many Celebrities Are Presented During Meet Of Woman's Institute

(Continued from page three)

stitute were, Mrs. Hampton Fleming of Richmond, Va., chairman of club literature in the General Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Charles Roe of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Secretary of State H. A. Gray; Representative Leroy Collins of Leon county; Dr. G. R. Holden, past president of the Florida State Medical association; and state college faculty members including Dr. Carolyn T. Abbey, Earl L. Vance, Dr. Paul F. Pinner, Miss Sadie Young, Miss Margaret R. Sandels, Miss Louise Richardson, Dr. Ruth Connor, and Dr. Cora Mae Dameron. Others from the state home demonstration staff whose headquarters are located at the college included Miss Isabelle Thursby, Miss Virginia P. Moore, Miss Clarine Belcher, and Miss Mary Keown.

Social events formed a prominent part of the institute. Dr. Edward Conradi, college president, and his daughter, Miss Louise Conradi, as well as Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, gave "at homes." A garden party, music display and tea, and a picnic supper at Camp Flastacowo were other social features. The women were housed in Gilchrist hall and took their meals at the college dining hall.

President Gives Year's Summary

(Continued from page three)

ate interest in the association, a breakfast for all the students of Florida State College for Women was held May 10 by the alumnae association.

"Much effort has been spent to make this College a quiet, distinctive event in the life of the alumnae association. This occasion should be a time of bonding the ties between the college and the alumnae more closely than ever and should serve as an inspiration to the alumnae to work unitedly for the benefit of the college. As an association we have been for years deeply indebted to the college for financial aid. We should at this stage be nearer self-supporting as an organization. It will be impossible for our association to attain success in the present era of alumni life in general—the era of post-collegiate education— without a thorough foundation in the pre-requisites: the social stage developed into that of serious attention to the college. We must continue to build on the sentiment of our college and for our association and to strengthen that sentiment so that it will become a foundation for the growth of our educational and alumnae life. Just as our responsibility to our college is real, so is the continuing interest of our college in the alumnae genuine.

"As an association numbering approximately 5,000 members we have unlimitable possibilities. May we remind you of what we told you two years ago: this association has untold potentiality. Shall we allow it to remain potentiality or shall we develop it into actuality?"

Stardust

The story, "Two Against the World," which comes to the State theater screen for the first time Tuesday, July 26, concerns a woman who, after she had been made the object of a scandal through betrayal by the man she loved, has built her life into one of luxury. She is about to see the fruitation of her struggle in the marriage of her daughter to a scion of a wealthy social family, when her whole past history to dug up and dramatized for a radio program. Disgrace drives the woman and her husband to seek death and leave the daughter to face the scorn of a thoughtless public. Her lover comes to her side and together they face the world.

The bank night award this Tuesday night is $150. We hope that you will be the lucky winner!

"The Lone Wolf Returns," the Wednesday night feature story of Michael Lanyard, debonair jewel-thief, known as the Lone Wolf, who escapes into the home of wealthy Marcia Stewart after stealing the famous collection of Marcia's neighbors. They both fall in love at first sight. Michael resolves to "go straight" but the Mallsons, former confederates, attempts to involve him in the planned theft of the Stewart jewels. Michael not only refuses, but by a clever ruse, traps the Mallsons and saves the gems with Marcia finally won! Complete and satisfy yourself as to the finish of this exciting story. Wednesday night is Premiere night, with a first prize of $100 and a second of $25. Besides many other smaller cash prizes.

"White Fangs," sequel to Jack London's "Call of the Wild" comes to the State theater Thursday night. The cast includes Michael Whalen, Jean Muir and the dog, Lightning. Chesterfield-Velie brings the comedy interest.

Friday, we are pleased to announce, brings us the ever popular Bing Crosby in "Rhythm on the Range." The picture is a story of the western range and is chuckfull full of romance, and rhythms Supporting Mr. Crosby will be Frances Langford and Bob Burns of radio fame.

Scholarships Awarded

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, announces that ninety-one dining room scholarships as well as 16 other miscellaneous positions have been filled for the year 1936—1937. Notice of the appointments have been mailed.

Magazine Thumbings

By LOUISE MAE FARROW

HOLLYWOOD GODS AND GODDESSES
By Ruth Suckow
Harpers' July, 1936.

The writer asks herself the question, "Why do the figures of the screen loom so large today?" and answers, "because they have come to represent certain national ideals reduced to the lowest common denominator. "The screen," she says, "reduces while it magnifies, trends down when it exalts into the typical."

She views Greta Mix as the symbol to the child's hero, Valentano as the handsome foreign lover and Clark Gable as the typical small town good fellow. "Mary Pickford," she says, was the first element of the nation's sexual and spiritual childhood, while Clara Bow was the popular symbol of flaming youth. The writer analyzes the charm of Greta Garbo and finds it to be that of the adolescent, the child. "Now that we are growing up, but only to observe that we are backsliding in the direction of sexless goddess, Shirley Temple! She remarks that Shirley is the commercial idiot on the screen are Charlie Chaplin and Mae West.

Of all the American motion pictures, in spite of the ill that does exist in their making, there is unconscious social document rather than an art."

Lewises Find Mexico Land Of Picturesque And Romantic Beauty

Mexico as a land where nature's beauty is lavish and where the romance of serenaders and the picturesque Indians have delights for the tourist, is pictured by Dr. and Mrs. Leland J. Lewis of this city in letters received at Florida State College for Women. Dr. Lewis is head of the commercial department at the college.

Dr. Lewis, with Miss Helen Lastra of Tampa and Miss Isabel McKinnell, state college chemistry instructor, left several weeks ago for Mexico over the new Mexican highway which they call "the most picturesque and extraordinary highway in the world."

A visit to the Indian village among the many things which the Lewis party plans soon, according to their letters, will have been fortunate in making interesting contacts. They said, with missionary friends of Miss McKinnell and have found Miss Lastra invaluable in making contacts with the natives.

An account by Mrs. Lewis—

Mexico, D F
July 12, 1936.

"Only a year ago many people coming to Mexico by automobile returned by train and shipped their car back with a loss that repaid the frightful experiences of mountain driving. Some left their cars at Tamazunchale, repelled by the warnings sent out of land slides, narrow roads and unbridged rivers. Today, the dangerous gaps are all closed and the last bridge has been opened so one comes over the most spectacular and extraordinary road in the world with less than five minutes detour. Instead of harrowing thrills of danger one enjoys graceful curves and fantastic scenery too vast and too inspiring for words.

"We shot down the 45 miles from Loreto with hardly a curve and presently came into sight of the crests of the Santa Rosa mountains like far away clouds. Climbing and curving gracefully the road passed through the mountains to Monterey After that we were either in the midst of mountains or below them or on top of them.

"Turning off the main highway only a mile, one can visit the enchanting Indian village of Mon-

Sport Squints

By MARY BOATWRIGHT

It looked as if the whole social dancing class attended Play Nite in a body Friday night. If you noticed the pauses between the music they were due to the various announcements by the instructors. May it also be said that in this class there are famous people. No, don't ask us to tell you who, for it wouldn't be fair.

"Out goes the bad air, in comes the good air,"—this seems to be the theme song of the week among certain people, namely the candidates for Senior Life Saving. If you don't know what this means just ask Ruth Agnes McClean or Dixie Glet, victims of the operation. They'll tell you all about it.

Hearts of Volusia county strike the same ping pong ball in very exclusive games. One may see this pair indulging in this activity at various times of the day and night.

No doubles allowed—didn't we tell you they were exclusive games!

If you went to the swimming pageant Friday night, skip this paragraph. It was quite impressive to see how much progress has been made by the students. The Dem school and the college were represented, and the pageant was held for the purpose of showing outsiders the progression in the work of the classes. You certainly missed an enjoyable hour—aren't you sorry you were lazy?

We haven't heard yet who is the champion of that redoubtable golf trio of Battle, Lemont, and Zugrevet. It has been rumored that Battle is going into the red—buying dopes for the other two.

temorelos. Upon asking one native school boy to jump on the side of the car and point out, we found the entire population of the small boys eager to show us their delightful village but we chose only three. The Indians received us into their crude huts with friendly courtesy and answered all our questions about the make of tooth around the baby's neck to make the teeth come in straight and the cross on the door in remembrance of the baby who had died in another place.

"All along new hotels and tourist camps are springing up and the natives are beginning to cater to American desires. One will have to hurry to get the natural atmosphere for it is passing fast With the invasions from the north. However at Cliudad Victoria we were awakened at 3:30 a. m. by a serenade at our window. Beautiful voices to the accompaniment of a guitar and while the night full of romance and beauty and we knew now that we were really far from home in a land of romance and music and charm where the passing of time is forgotten and only the joy of happy living is considered."

Sports Summer Students Offer Aquatic Demonstration

A swimming demonstration to which the public was invited was given at 8 o'clock on Friday night at the college gymnasium. The demonstration was given by the physical education department.

Taking part were summer school swimming classes from the college and demonstration schools showing the progress made in the summer's instruction.

Different strokes, diving and stunts made up the program which lasted one hour. Swimming for the summer school students, social dancing, and games followed.

When you figure out whether they'll loser or winner—place you bets.

"Courting" isn't listed in the catalog as a sport but may we discuss it here? Jo Ervin Braun is always surrounded by a flock of feminine admirers But what on you expect in a woman's college a which there are only a few male students? At any rate David is certainly doing well by himself. Also there are a few who are running a close second. Are you one of those taking part in this summer sport? Don't get us wrong we aren't encouraging you.

Cigar Progress Board To Give Scholarships As Prizes For Slogan

(Continued from Page Five)

to the registrars of the schools which they select.

The Cigar Progress Board recently concluded a Cigar Slogan Contest among customers in the Albany, N. Y. area, and another national contest for automatic-eyy resenting cigar manufacturers and distributors. Some of the prize-winning slogans were:

—Smoke Cigars for Companionship

—Serve Cigars for Friendship'

—Wherever You Go, Wherever You Are, Find Real Pleasure in a Good Cigar"; "Enjoy a Cigar Wherever You Are"; "The Perfect Host Wi Always Toast: 'Gentlemen—Cigars'"; and "There's Pleasure Ahead for the Man Behind a Good Cigar."

Contemporary Student Thought

(Continued from page two)

has something with which to replace it or not.

The personal opinions of students have become generally a collection of "againsts." He is "against" war, or he is "against" compulsory military training Exactly what is he for, what does he suggest or plan to do in order to relieve or remedy existing situation besides being against them?

Any person who intends to accomplish something in life today must have his own convictions and must be able to suggest new ideas for reforms. Mere criticism or political reforms are not brought about by opposing existing orders.

American students must turn about and be "for" something, get behind it and build it up instead of spending time trying to tear down.—Junior Collegian.

SALE OF DRESSES

Friday, Saturday, Monday

1000

SILK DRESSES

Values to $6.95

STATE THEATRE

Tuesday, July 28
HUMPHREY BOGART-BEVERLY ROBERTS
"Two Against The World"

Wednesday, July 29
MELVYN DOUGLAS-GAIL PATRICK
"The Lone Wolf Returns"

Thursday, July 30
MICHAEL WHALEN-JEAN MUIR
"White Fangs"

Friday, July 31
BING CROSBY-FRANCES FARMER
"Rhythm On The Range"

It's the right quantity of this Turkish tobacco blended and cross-blended with the best home-grown tobaccos raised in this country that give Chesterfields their mildness and better taste—another reason why Chesterfields Satisfy.

X
070.5
F636
1936/38

FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN
LIBRARY
TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

Everyone Buy Annual Tickets Early

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, October 2, 1936

VOLUME XXIV. NUMBER ONE

Society Invested Tuesday Night

26 Are Added To Staff For 1936-37 Term

Administrative Officers Named and Faculty Is Enlarged

TWO UNIVERSITY GRADUATES USED

Seven F. S. C. W. Alumnae Are Included On This List

Twenty-six new faculty members and administrative officials have been added to the staff of Florida State College for Women for the 1936-37 term. Of this number seven are alumnae of this school and five are graduates of the University of Florida in Gainesville.

New History Instructor

Miss Mary Alice Eaton, of Evanston, Illinois, instructor in history and geography, who holds a master's degree from the University of Chicago, will take the place of Miss Adrienne Taylor, who is on leave to complete her master's degree at the University of Chicago.

Dr. M. H. Hinson, of Tallahassee, state director of education in the office of the superintendent of public instruction, is now associate professor of education. He was for some time principal of high school in Florida and holds his doctor's degree from Peabody college. Dr. Hinson succeeds Dr. David H. Briggs, who has resigned to accept the position of head of the psychology and education department at Maryville college, Maryville Tennessee.

Miss Bellck Teaches Zoology

Miss Bessie Bellck, of Hickory, North Carolina, is instructor of zoology. She has been teaching in the zoology department of Alabama college, Montevallo, and received her master's degree in June at the University of North Carolina.

Miss Mary Rita Thistlethwaite, of Fort Lauderdale, who was graduated from Florida State College last May and who has been studying for her master's degree this summer at the University of Chicago, is part-time instructor in the classics and part-time assistant in the residence halls.

Robert D. Miller, of Camden, New Jersey, is assistant professor of philosophy and religion. For the past three years he has been assistant instructor in philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Marie Davis, of Madison, Wisconsin, who has been teaching in the department of French and Italian at the University of Wisconsin, is instructor in French and Italian. She is a graduate of Ohio State university and had a fellowship for study in Florence and Rome.

Miss Adams On Absence Leave

Miss Ray Frazier, of Brooklyn, New York, who is instructor of physical education, will take the place of Miss Elizabeth Autrey, who is on leave of absence to work on her master's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

Ralph Adams, of Weldon, Illinois, a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan university, is instructor of art and English in the Demonstration school.

Miss Ruth Coleman, of Birmingham, Alabama, is instructor in the Demonstration school. She was graduated from Alabama college, Montevallo, Alabama, in 1935, and has been teaching in high school in that state for the past year.

Dorothy Lounsbury, of Orlando, Florida, who was graduated from the University of Florida in 1934, is teacher of physical education and health education for boys in the Demonstration school.

Miss Richey Former Missionary

Miss Helen Richey, a graduate of Florida State college, is filling the place of Miss Henrietta Sitzer, instructor in clothing and textiles, who is on a year's leave of absence. Miss Richey was at one time a missionary in Japan and for the past few years has been teaching in Japan college.

Miss Eunice Hurst, of New York city, instructor in physical education, takes the place of Ida Mary Settle, who is on leave to obtain her master's degree this year at New York university.

Dr. Minna F. Koch is a doctor in bacteriology, taking the place of Miss Elizabeth Griffing, who has resigned.

Miss Sallie Louise Conway, of Nashville, Tennessee, takes the place of Miss Mina Pybum, in-

Continued on page two

N. S. F. A. Meet

Polly Eveleth, president of the National Student Federation of America, who will have charge of the first meeting of this organization, October 19. Polly is also junior sponsor of the freshman class.

Marian Carson Selected Head Of Glee Club

Thirty-five New Members Added to Group By Miss Robertson

Marion Carson, senior, has been elected president of the college Glee club which has been announced this year by thirty-five new members. The new singers were chosen from one of the largest groups ever to try out, Miss Ina Robertson, director of the group announced.

At a meeting of the old members of the club Monday night other officers for the year also were chosen. They include Jane Bowen, vice president; Sarah Beasley, secretary-treasurer and Marion Ward and Marion Herbert, librarian.

The first program will be the annual Christmas Vespers; December 12.

The glee club is made up of the following girls: first sopranos—Josephine Bilnon, Sara Hallcom, Edna Moon, Marie Spurlock, Margaret Gourlis, Betty Wilson, Marion Carson, Margaret Mosher, Betty Triplett, Marian Herbert, Louise Thrasher, Ines Lanier, Charlotte Kamper.

Second sopranos—Lois Bowen, Margaret Peacock, Jean Zacharias, Charlotte Veitch, Catherine Finner, Julia Rosen, Anabelle Ina Mae Robinson, Zulleene Wessell, Edna Warren, Sarah Adams, Ryta Hensford, Jane Louise Dorsett, Dorothy Scott.

First altos—Betty Bartholf, Evelyn Beasley, Amanda Arasi, Bette Breuneiser, Ella Gene Bivins, May Belle Fred, Aileen Meacham, Jane and Barbara Hubbard, Mary Taylor, Maxine Ward, Elizabeth Kasans, Ruth Knight.

Second altos—Margaret Bridgeman, Mary Lowery, Florence Wasner, Frances Moss, Pearle Sheppard, Esther McWhirter, Betty Jo Parson, Emily Blackwell, Helen Benson, Betty Reed, Sarah Beasley, and Jeanette Wickham.

Social Direction Is Changed in Gilchrist

Several changes have been made in the social direction of residence halls. Miss Katherine Byrd is the new director of Gilchrist and has taken the place of Mrs. Carrie Benedict who resigned because of illness. In Lynnoda, Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwaite is assistant director to Mrs. Ida Rowan. Miss Mamie Andrews, former director of Reynolds, will assist in the direction of all residence halls.

The directors have office hours which are posted on the door of the offices. Permissions will be granted only during these hours.

Miss Maude Flowers, director of halls, will be in her office on any day, except Saturday and Sunday, from 10:30 to 12:30 and from 2:30 to 4:30. Students are asked to pay special attention to these hours.

First N. S. F. A. Forum Planned In Near Future

Polly Eveleth Will Lead Discussion in First Session of Year

DEBATING TEAM ARRANGES TOUR

Florida Flambeau Chosen To Establish South African Exchange

The local organization of the National Students' Federation of America will hold its first open forum of the year Tuesday, October 12, in Room 403, Education building, with Miss Frances Situation in Spain" as the topic for discussion, Polly Eveleth, chairman, announced at a week in outlining the year's program.

Debate Team Travel

A new interest will be added to the local N. S. F. A. in its efforts towards a traveling debating team, Polly said. Although plans were formulated last year for a team no definite plans had been made until this year. The immediate objective of the group is to have a debate with the University of Florida. State College debaters that will make several visits to other colleges during the year for the purpose of discussing vital questions. A few debates have already signed up for the debating group and all students interested in the opportunities offered by the new movement are urged to be present and attend the meetings of the organization each Tuesday night at 7:30.

Flambeau Recognized

The chairman also announced she had received word from the national headquarters of N. S. F. A. that the Flambeau, has been one of 24 z-lege newspapers in the United States selected to establish a permanent exchange with the Student Union at Grette, Schmer, in South Africa. The selection made by a special committee of N. S. F. A., was determined on the basis of the location of the college, the type of students body represented, and the rating of the paper.

Miss Eveleth said there will be a rotation of material, international and campus topics will receive consideration at the forum meeting which was introduced on the campus in the 1935-36 term, to stimulate new interest on the part of the student body, members of the organization planning to present speakers, including faculty members and other campus authorities.

Officers for the N. S. F. A. this year include: Polly Eveleth, chairman; Janice Berton, Senior representative; Jane Bowen, sophomore; Betty Wynn, secretary and sophomore representative; Mary Katherine Autrey, rehearsals; Ruth Wynne, publicity; Miss Frances Gatrell, music; Frances Williams, programs; Winifred

Continued on page two

Vocation Talks To Be Presented

Dr. Andrews Arranges Weekly Series

In order to inform students about some of the leading occupations open to women, a series of vocation talks has been arranged by Dr. Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel, to be given Thursday afternoons at 4:00 o'clock during the first semester.

Attendance is on a voluntary basis. Any student desiring to secure help in the selection of a vocation may obtain information about the requirements and possibilities of any of the occupations discussed.

The first meeting will held October 8, in 203 administration building on the subject, "Choosing a Vocation." At this time Secretary Andrews will also be given a chance to orient themselves in general. Other meetings which they might wish to attend later in the year.

The series of talks will include the following subjects: October 15, "Choosing a Vocation;" October 15, "The Field of Social Work;" October 22, "Medicine, Allied Professions;" October 23, "Opportunities in Retail Stores;" November 12, "The Laboratory Technician;" November 19, "The Field of Personnel;" December 3, "The Woman in Business," December 10, "Secretarial Work;" January 7, "Possibilities in Public Office;" January 14, Home Economics and Related Fields."

French Student Tells of Strict Schools Abroad

Girl Notes Differences Among Colleges She Has Attended

Except for one final examination at the end of the year which covers the entire course, students attending French universities have no quizzes, no quarterlies, no mid-semester worries. This is one of the outstanding differences between the American and French universities according to Alma Thomas, the French foreign exchange student at Florida State College this year, who is being sponsored by the International Relations club.

"In order to take this one final examination," Alma explained, "the student has to write to the head of the school asking to take the exam, and he has to decide 150 francs (6¼). But still," she stressed, "many do not pass their course and have to repeat the same subject two or three times before they receive their certificate of 'Licence.'"

Another notable difference between the French and American method of education that she mentioned is the fact that the French universities the students do not have to attend classes in certain subjects; they must pick one field and take only courses related directly to it.

Classes are almost entirely conducted by lectures, Alma said, only practically no class recitation. Pupils are left to themselves. Classes at their own free will, but when too many classes are missed, the student loses the grade, and "the exams are hard enough anyway," she asserted.

France has a centralized educational system which is operated by the government. About two years ago, Martha stated, a law was passed in France making education free. Before this time there was not ready for this step and it is the first country to make great an increase in what Americans call "white collar workers" who scorn everyday laborers' tasks. The schools are now so crowded that many cannot find jobs, she stated, this being done by making the examinations more difficult.

The average French student usually is required to devote much time to his studies, Alma

Continued on page three

Rehearsals For Ceremony Begin

Virginia Dell is Elected Chairman of Hop

Rehearsals for Torch Night will begin the latter part of next week, Betty Wynn, president, announced at the meeting of the sophomore class in the auditorium building Wednesday night.

This year the script for Torch Night has been completed, members being laid upon the torch race of ancient times, Lampedromia.

The cast is as follows: Alma Mater, Anna Tiden; Pallas Athene, Becky Cannon; Apollo, Valerie Hunt.

The committees in charge are: Julia Mullis, costumes; Sunny Dell, torches; Doris Reed, statute; Katherine Autrey, rehearsals; Ruth Wynne, publicity; Miss Frances Gatrell, music; Frances Williams, programs; Winifred

Continued on page two

Faculty Members Travel Widely During Summer Vacation Period

Some Professors Visit Foreign Countries While Other Members Have Varied And Interesting Holidays

Vacations this summer meant for a number of the faculty of Florida State College for Women, Alaska, Canada, Spain, France, Italy, England, Germany, Switzerland, Russia, Others visited in various part of this country, while still others found rest and leisure in Florida.

The civil war in Spain was the occasion for some excitement for a time for two faculty members—Dr. Mary Wilkins, professor of Spanish, and Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education, who fled Spain in United States gunboats. Both were in the wartorn land. Dr. Burke was at the International university at Santander, and Dr. Hay at the Centro Estudios Historicos, a Spanish school in Madrid. Curiously enough, Dr. Hay was taking a course in "Spain of Today" when the civil war broke out. She and Dr. Wilkins left the United States embassy one night. She also visited Italy, France, Switzerland, Germany and England.

Miss Lucy Lester, associate professor of romance languages at the University of Paris this summer during her seventh trip to that country. During the World war Miss Lester was in charge of women's work at Issoudun, a large aviation center, where she was stationed with the Y.M.C.A for 11 months.

Returning from Mexico were Dr. Leland Lewis, head of the chemistry department. Mrs. Lewis and Dr. Mabel Rhodes, chemistry instructor. They spent seven weeks there during which they

Continued on page three

Make-up Work Is Under Way

Frances Forth Announces New Staff Positions For Flastacowo

PICTURE SALE STARTS TODAY

Edition to Incorporate Three Divisions On Campus Life

Work on the 1937 edition of the college annual, the Flastacowo will begin next week with the taking of freshman pictures Frances Forth, editor-in-chief, announced her complete staff for the coming year and general plans for the year book which will come out during the latter part of the school term.

Frances Forth, editor-in-chief of the Flastacowo, who has announced her complete staff for the coming year and general plans for the year book which will come out during the latter part of the school term.

Editor

Pictures of freshmen will be taken this week and the remainder of the student body next week, Miss Forth announced. Pictures for the annual will be taken on the campus. In connection with arrangements for the photography of the book a studio has been secured in the top floor of the Leon county school for the picture taking. Pictures will be made by appointment to avoid the long lines of past years. These arrangements are being made for the convenience of the student, Miss Forth stated, a special request to students that they keep their appointments. The photographers will be here for only a limited time.

Staff System Started

A completely revised system of work on the book will be carried out this year, according to Miss Forth's recent announcement. More definite assignments will be given on the staff assigned work definite duties will be the order of the management. This year there will be an editor for each of the three books that will make up the annual. These three books will attempt to present the life of the campus during the nine months of student activity and to explain and supplement the campus traditions and college standards.

Freshmen Appointed

In line with Mortar Board's new policy of freshman training a new position has been added to the staff. This year time a freshman editor has been appointed who will work on the staff with the editor.

The entire staff will include: Frances Forth, editor-in-chief; Mary Lou Bowden, business manager, associate editors Grace Whitaker, art editor, photography editors, Mary Margaret Pfeiffer and Mary Ellen Tiller; freshman editor, Martha Baker, assistant editor, Book I, Anne Mizell, assistant editor, Book II, Betty Wynn, assistant editor, Book III.

Picture tickets will be sold in the bottom floor of the Ad building from Monday to Friday of this week-end. Appointments will be made when the tickets are purchased. The price will be two dollars and fifty cents. If pictures are taken by the appointment time the scheduled time they will not be available any other time in the year.

New Education Program Takes Definite Form

Freshman Class Studies For Broad Background In Revised System

Freshmen beginning their courses at Florida State College for Women this fall will be the first to participate in the new general education program put in force after its passage by the faculty senate last winter.

Plans for this revised curriculum were drawn up after a two year study by a faculty committee of seventeen headed by Dr. Jennie Smith, professor of plumbing and chemistry and nutrition. With the exception of the School of Music all divisions of the college are affected by the change. The idea of requiring a broad general training during the first two years of college is part of the modern trend in education. Its purpose is to provide a broad background for the work and to equip a general knowledge of the basic facts underlying human and society through the study of a series of integrated courses covering large fields of thought.

Under this system the student does not pick her major subject until her junior year, but by taking the survey courses in the orientation period she has

Continued on Page Seven

CGA Announces New Cut System

Revision Made Necessary By Changed Curricula

Announcement of an entirely revised cut system has been made by the Student Government Association, due to alterations made in the curricula and changes in the method of grading.

Excepting first semester freshmen and students on probation, all students having an average under "B" may have eight cuts a quarter. Those having an average of "B" or above may have sixteen cuts a quarter.

When a student has taken the total of allowed cuts for any one quarter, she will be notified by the Registrar. Should she exceed the total of allowed cuts, a fine will be placed on administration probation, and a fine of $1.00 per cut will be placed on administration probation, and a fine of $1.00 per cut will be deducted from the total of allowed cuts for the quarter.

If, after the two above actions, the student cuts again she will be called before the executive council of the college. Should she fail to make a satisfactory explanation, she will be asked to withdraw from school.

Absences due to illness in the college infirmary will be excused up to 72 hours per quarter for all students on academic probation.

Miss Montgomery Better

Students and faculty members of Florida State College for Women will be glad to hear that Miss Katherine Montgomery who underwent an operation for appendicitis September 23 at the college infirmary, is rapidly recovering and will soon return to her position as Director of the Physical Education department.

Executive Council Explains Policies

Registration Figures Show Big Increase

One Hundred and Five Transfer Students Are Enrolled

The initial enrollment of 1705 students at Florida State college this year exceeded any past records, and is expected to approximate 1800 by the end of the term, according to S. R. Doyle, registrar.

This present figure shows an increase over the recitalment at the same time last year of eighty-eight students. The largest beginning enrollment previously recorded was in 1931 when registrations totaled 1,742. However, the largest total enrollment, 1,782 was reached during the 1930-31 1932-33 terms.

This year there are 105 transfer students, 27 entered as freshmen, and 78 as upper classmen.

The total enrollment for the college has shown a great many respects in the past five years. Although is cannot be pointed out as being altogether typical, the enrollment from the different sections of Florida and from other states has definitely affected the total enrollment for the college.

In comparing total enrollments for the past five sessions, 1935-36, 1934-35, 1933-34, 1932-33, 1931-32, with the enrollment for the first term of the 1936-37 term, it is noted that the total enrollment has varied greatly from year to year. The lowest number enrolled in the 1933-34 term being 1,794. The lowest was recorded the next term, 1933-34, with only 1,861 students enrolled. A steady increase has been made from this low point. The 1,830 students registered for the 1934-35 term and 1,876 students for the first semester of the 1935-36 term.

With this rise and fall of the total registration for the past five in the enrollment of the number students from the many counties of Florida and other states is noticeable. Last year sixteen and sixty-six counties were not represented. Combining these counties into districts, central Florida had the majority of students enrolled, North Florida held second place, and West and South Florida held third place with the fewest enrollment fell from ninety-two students. The highest enrollment was in the 1930-31 term, to twenty-five at the beginning of last year, 1935-36. Three fifths of out-of-state students has not yet been determined.

Thirty-two states have been represented by students enrolled during the first semester. Of the surrounding southern states, Georgia has had the largest while in the northern enrollment Pennsylvania heads the list.

Department of Speech Plans Varied Programs For Each School Week

The first of a series of full-length plays presented by the speech department this year is "Seventh Heaven," a romance and comedy in three acts to be given the latter part of October.

The department has planned a program for each week to which the public is invited. These programs will consist of various things including presentation of prepared speeches, oral interpretation and a reading circle.

Mrs. Mary H. Bufford, head of the department of speech, stated that public speaking and interpretative work will be stressed in the department this year. A group of seven tickets for little theater productions has been worked out also. As a new educational feature this year in the department public speaking and interpretation of plays as soon after publication as possible will be inaugurated.

A "speech clinic" will be given again this year to aid any students in any speech defects.

A new feature of this year will be a course in public speaking which is open to everyone and for which no pre-requisite training is required.

On Friday night of Freshmen week the first recital of the speech department was given by Frances Gatrell, Mary Lou Bowden, Barrie Gray, "Seven Women."

McKay Hopes Students Will Come to Know Government

PAST SET-UP TO BE FOLLOWED

Expression of Campus To Be Sought In Forums

The executive council of the College Government association today made public a financial statement of its policies for the current year.

Mary Jeanne McKay, president, said, "This is an attempt to crystallize in the campus mind, as well as our own minds, the attitudes under which we shall carry on during the year. We believe that by publishing them we will give the members of the association a chance to know and understand their government."

Six Members of Council

Besides the chairman there are six members of the council. The senior representatives are Martha Mackemson, Jo Bilnon and Marie Taylor. Vera Cowin and Marjorie Raulerson are junior representatives, while Ruth Wynne is first is the sophomore representative.

The list of policies of the council includes statements which are designed to cover the field of college government. The first, which has to do with the initial agreement for the founding of the association, says:

"We declare our belief in the fundamentals of democracy as the agreement between the faculty and the students concerning the founding of this association, and we are willing to accept the responsibilities of democracy."

Martha Mackemson Comments

Martha Mackemson, judiciary chairman, in commenting on this policy, mentioned the willingness on the part of the individual officers to do their work, and a realization on their part that they set the campus attitude. She further stated that they were trying to make the students understand that the standards of conduct are not what the officials will make them.

"Unless they see this point," she said, "the fundamental principles of our government will be misunderstood."

Second Statement Given

The second statement is: "We believe in the educational program established by the past executive council and in the progressive continuity in our organization."

In commenting on this statement Jo Bilnon, treasurer, said, "This point is meant to say for us that we think it important to hold on to the traditions left us by last year's council. We understand that it would be absurd to continue work already begun no progress is possible. No single group of girls or even a government can make a perfect system all by itself."

She illustrated her statement by telling of the strides that have been made in the student program within the past few years.

Third Statement Follows

The third statement follows: "We desire a democratic efficiency in the administration of student affairs, especially with regard to the department heads and reports. We determine on the part of the individual officers to increase our personal efficiency."

"To my mind, this is a vital spot in the program," declared Miss Winifred Ewart, secretary. "We are going to try to have all reports that can adequately take care of student government. However, it's really a test to see if we can govern ourselves. Without keeping records, we have no way to build the progressive continuity that Jo mentioned. Besides that, about time that other organizations were relieved of the burden of taking care of bits of us. Then, too, if we increased our efficiency we shall bring about a more closely knit organization and will improve the machinery of government."

The fourth statement is: "We shall keep in communication with student thought and opinion so that we may be able to represent it to its best advantage."

Margaret Rawlerson Quoted

Marie Taylor, senior social vice president and sophomore council leader, remarked of this policy,

Continued on page three

Seniors Lead Honor Roll Of Last Semester

Sophomore Class Takes Second Place, With Freshmen Third

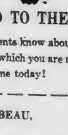
The Senior Class of 1935-36 led the approximate list at the close of the 4th quarter of the same year. 89 of its members making an average of "B" or above. The total number of students qualified for places on the scholastic honor roll was three hundred and twenty-six.

The Sophomore class ran a close second with 80 of its members making the requirements. The Freshmen class was third with 69 members, and the Junior class last with 54 members.

Daisy Parker, member of the Junior class, led with honors of "A," having 17 to her credit. Jamie Jonas, Frances Douglas, and Jean Zacharias, of the Freshman class, followed with 16 hours of "A" each.

Freshmen who made a B average were: Sara E. Adams, Betty Ambler, Rebecca Ashton, Louise Barshell, Mary Eloise Bennett, Victoria Bonnoni, Elizabeth Bullock, Elizabeth Boyd, Petrea Gerald Brown, Mary Frances Campbell, Nell Carroll, Marie Castellano, Nell Colvin, Fay Covey, Virginia Craig, Lelia E. Davis, Frances Douglas, Harriet Duke, Mary E. Ensign, Florance Ewen, Winifred Ewart, Amanda Finch, Doris Geiger, Eugenia Glass, Elma Guth, Katherine Harper, Betty Hendricks, Betty Hatch, Martha Hayes, Lucinelle Hazelton, Winifred Hill, Joyce Hinckley, Eileen Horsfall, Frances Howell, Annie Jennings, Jamie Jones, Cecil Kinney, Ann Knight, Marine Lastra, Dawn Latham, Sara Lewis, Sara Lytle, Mary Manning, Alice McNeiry, Mary Merriweather, Beulah Mitchell, Dorothy Molnar, Barbara Moore, Catherine O'Mara, Mary E. Parker, Lucirelle Patterson, Ruth Pemberton, Carol Ramage, Elisabeth Ransom, Nancy Rapley, Frederica Roberts, Mabel Rogers, Elizabeth Root, Mildred Rose, Leona Rubin, Ruth Rubin, Elizabeth Simpson, Mary Elizabeth Stevenson, Marie Swilley, Florence Wagner, Mary Wallis, Alma Warren, Nellys Woodham, Joan Zacharias.

Sophomores qualified for approbation were: Clara Anderson, Eloise Andrews, Edith Arbuthnot, Phil Asher, Frances Baldwin, Dorothy Barclay, Hattie Barco, Elisabeth Bary, Del Bellamy, Lela Bowen, Ella Virginia Brooks, Beverly Brown, Jean Brown, Mary L. Bryan, Lillian Burford, Mattie Bussells, Isabel Clark, Margery Cole, Lillian Collier, Janet Cook, Kitty Mae Cranley, Pauline Eveleth, Evelyn Fisher, Inez Frink, Mercedes Garriga, Louise Gehret, Phyllis Gevin, Nita Gillespien, Evelyn Glaster, Sarah Graham, Kathleen Gruppe, Annette Harris, Marian Hosford, Edna Earl Hobbs, Pamcis Hobbs, Mollie Holden, Marjorie Horton, Billie Hotard, Kathleen Hughes, Elisabeth Hulsey, Ethel Jones, Elisabeth Knapp, Nelle Lawson, Ernine Lawrence, Martha Lester, Frances Lewis, Mary Lopez, Sharman Lufburrow, Dorothea Marsh, Betty Anne McKenzie, Mona McLean, Geraldine Meyers, Darween Morrell, Geneva Nelson, Virginia Northcutt, Sallie Nunnn, Elisabeth Ostlund, Gennette Perry, Mary Proffer, Dorothy Phillips, Virginia Phillips, Elisabeth Pierce, Ruth Prather, Edith Ramsaur, Jane Rice, Eileen Safer, Isabelle Sands, Sarah Beasley, Rachel Rothstein, Rose Robinson, Sara Shaw, Pearle Shepard, Virginia Shiula, Marguerite Sizemore, Marcia Smith, Marianne Swank, Iris Tyrrl, Lucille Williams, Barbara Womack.



Members of the Junior class on approbation were: Betsey Anderson, Elisabeth Beach, Eleanor Bogers, Josephine Bunion, Hazel Bowman, Mary Burgoon, Alma Butler, Marvion Carson, Helen Cato, Jean Clark, Dorothy Crews, Beth Deane, Olive Dane, Margaret Delany, Virginia Early, Myrvia Everett, Frances Forth, Miriam Frye, Betty Ann Graham, Rosemary Healy, Sara Hethcox, Mary Ann Hills, Marguerite Holder, Ruth Howard, Margaret Hames, Louise D. Johnston, Mrs Jamesta Kinnard, Alma Lester, Arline Lockheart, Betty Mack, Katrena Marston, Florence Maxfield, Mary McGunnagle, Grace Mc Kee, Ida Miller, Fay Mitchell, Margaret Neff, Marjorie Noggle, Anne Norris, Bernice Oliver, Cloride O'Rourke, Pearl Overshiner, Ethel Pacheco, Daisy Parker, Mary Reynolds, Sara Ruisledge, Ruth Seller, Hazel Sangster, Mary E. Simpson, Pari Smith, Mary E. Tiller, Marjorie Tillis, Bonnevere Tomlinson, Helen Turnbull, Shirley Turner, Julia Vanderipe, Anna Van Dobien, Holly Waker, Marine Ward, Jeanette Wickham, Frank Widman, Eleanor Williams.

Seniors qualified for approbation included:

Bernice Allan, Margaret K. Anderson, Carolyn Allen, Elizabeth Beach, Mary Elsie Benner, Kathrine Blood, Agnes Campbell, Charlotte Carlton, Virginia Cary, Virginia Cromartie, Barbara Cresland, Douglas Dabney, Elsie D. Davis, Ether Davis, Ruth Dillard, Mary E. Duffin, Mary C. Drennan, Minna Dunn, Mildred Dunnavant, Betty Fellows, Harriet Foster, Carolyn Garvin, Patricia Gavin, Lorid Gould, Margaret Graham, Mary Alice Graham, Sara Graham, Janet Griffith, Anna Greenway, Margaret Groover, Irene Hainsville, Winifred Hansen, Mary Harkness, Marjorie Harris, Edith Marie Hobson, Dorothy Howe, Marilyn Howard, Nina Hughes, Mebe Hutchinson, Doris Isted, Rebecca Keith, Jewel Kelly, Charlotte Kinzie, Elisabeth Kirby-Smith, Elaine Klepper, Clarice Kilpatrick, Mary Huntsman, Gertrude Kuhn, Geneva Lamb, Opal Langley, Rosbe Lastra, Celia Lavery, Goldia Levinsky, Mary Lischagi, Ruth Loveless, Manvis Lusher, Rula Marchetta, Mary E. Marshall, Sara I. Martin, Laura Mathis, Virginia McKaughn, Doris McKnight, Sara Mikell, Ann Mitchell, Ruth Mock, Sara Bell Palmer, Rosalind Parker, Ruth Parson, Alice Porter, Dorothy Price, Martha Patrick, Minnie Reddick, Lois Rutherford, Marcia Scott, Miriam Stein, Leona Stinson, Lelia Taylor, Hylma Thurber, Ruth Ray E. Tuhistenhwaite, Ruth Toland, Lillian Turlington, Alice Wahl, Grace Webster, Ida Weintraub, Margaret Wilkinson, Mary Wilson, Mary Frances Wilson, Katherine Younque.

Special students making approbation were: Margaret Campbell, Mrs. W. Clark, Mrs. L. Davis, Cora Fay, Helenmary Fritsch, Mrs. Alice Goban, Esther Roder, Beverly Horn, Edna Howell, Elisabeth Love, Kemper Moore, Mrs. Everetta Munroe, Mrs. Frank Nolen, Sara Thompson, Scott Turbull, Mary Whittington, Rosebund Willard, Mary E. Wilson.

Graduate students who made a average included: Margaret Biggs, Helen C. Everett, Elyse Glendanner, Eunice Nicholson, Christian Scarborough, and Eva C. Walker.

A WORD TO THE WISE!

Let your parents know about the campus world of which you are now a part.

Send this home today!

FLORIDA FLAMBEAU,
Tallahassee, Fla.

Please send me the FLAMBEAU for the year 1936-37, for which I enclose one dollar ($1.00).

Send to .....

Address .....

City and State .....

Reading Material Suggested For Inquiring New Students

Writer Consults English Professors and Lists By Critics to Find What Well-Informed Freshmen Should Peruse

By ARLINE ORAY LOCKHART

High school graduates come to college for many reasons. It is assumed, however, that they come to be educated. But to be educated, as some famous writer once defined it, is to know all the best that has ever been thought or said in the world, which is an impossibility. So, dispensing with the idea of ever being educated, the question arises, is it possible to glean even a faint knowledge in the four years that the average has ever been thought or said? And the answer is, "Yes, but a very faint knowledge."

Nevertheless, a studiously serious and inquiring freshman will not be satisfied with that answer. Neither will he be satisfied with merely doing the work required daily in her course, for having once discovered rows upon rows of books in the campus library she will feel that at least to come in contact with, all the riches stored there, "But I can't read them all," she wails bewilderedly. "What shall I read?"

It is to her then that your writer has the temerity to suggest in this article many well-informed first year student should read.

At the outset, however, may it be stated that the author does not pretend to be an authority on literature, that she has not attempted to read all the books listed and that she is fully aware that such a list would be a matter of controversy even among eminent literary critics. Also, after consulting several well-known professors of English on campus she was informed that such a subject required at least five columns instead of one.

Despite all this, it is to be hoped that the list will prove of service to the freshman who enjoys reading, desires some understanding of the world, and wants to know the "Common-sense-best literature."

Dr. Edwin Mims, widely known literary critic and head of the English department at Vanderbilt university, recently selected what he believes to be the 25 most worthwhile books published since 1900.

Here is his list: Galsworthy's "Forsyte Saga"; Conrad's "Lord Jim"; Nazmun's "Growth of the Soil"; Lewis' "Babbitt"; Cather's "My Antonia"; Roberts' "The Time of Man"; Masefield's Poems; Hardy's Poems; Frost's Poems; Robinson's Poems; Master's "Spoon River Anthology"; Sandburg's "Queen Victoria"; Wells' "Outline of History"; Beard's "Rise of American Civilization"; Bergson's "Creative Evolution"; Whitehead's "Science and The Modern World"; Edington's "Nature of the Physical World"; More's "Shelburne Essays"; Babbitt's "Rousseau and Romanticism"; Mumford's "The Golden Day"; Sherman's "The Genius of America"; Shaw's "Man and Superman"; O'Neill's "Strange Interlude"; Sergay's "Saga of the Western World"; Adam's "Education of Henry Adams."

Mary E. Duffin, Mary C. Drennan, Minna Dunn, Mildred Dunnavant, Betty Fellows, Harriet Foster, Carolyn Garvin, Patricia Gavin, Lorid Gould, Margaret Graham, Mary Alice Graham, Sara Graham, Janet Griffith, Anna Greenway, Margaret Groover, Irene Hainsville, Winifred Hansen, Mary Harkness, Marjorie Harris, Edith Marie Hobson, Dorothy Howe, Marilyn Howard, Nina Hughes, Mebe Hutchinson, Doris Isted, Rebecca Keith, Jewel Kelly, Charlotte Kinzie, Elisabeth Kirby-Smith, Elaine Klepper, Clarice Kilpatrick, Mary Huntsman, Gertrude Kuhn, Geneva Lamb, Opal Langley, Rosbe Lastra, Celia Lavery, Goldia Levinsky, Mary Lischagi, Ruth Loveless, Manvis Lusher, Rula Marchetta, Mary E. Marshall, Sara I. Martin, Laura Mathis, Virginia McKaughn, Doris McKnight, Sara Mikell, Ann Mitchell, Ruth Mock, Sara Bell Palmer, Rosalind Parker, Ruth Parson, Alice Porter, Dorothy Price, Martha Patrick, Minnie Reddick, Lois Rutherford, Marcia Scott, Miriam Stein, Leona Stinson, Lelia Taylor, Hylma Thurber, Ruth Ray E. Tuhistenhwaite, Ruth Toland, Lillian Turlington, Alice Wahl, Grace Webster, Ida Weintraub, Margaret Wilkinson, Mary Wilson, Mary Frances Wilson, Katherine Younque.

Special students making approbation were: Margaret Campbell, Mrs. W. Clark, Mrs. L. Davis, Cora Fay, Helenmary Fritsch, Mrs. Alice Goban, Esther Roder, Beverly Horn, Edna Howell, Elisabeth Love, Kemper Moore, Mrs. Everetta Munroe, Mrs. Frank Nolen, Sara Thompson, Scott Turbull, Mary Whittington, Rosebund Willard, Mary E. Wilson.

Graduate students who made a average included: Margaret Biggs, Helen C. Everett, Elyse Glendanner, Eunice Nicholson, Christian Scarborough, and Eva C. Walker.

Kurz Discloses Dastardly Deed

A dastardly crime has been committed in our midst. No longer are priceless articles safe. The Unknown stalks among us seeking those things most dear to us. Dr. Herman Kurz's notebook has been stolen. It was accompanied by his automobile.

In coherent moments it was gathered that the notebook contained valuable data collected by Dr. Kurz last year with the aid of advanced botany students and that the material it contained was being prepared for publication. Dr. Kurz described the notebook as being gray, bound, 7½ by 9½ inches, and "full of description."

"Magnolia," pencilled on the cover.

The tragedy occurred on Adams street, near the Dutch Kitchen, where Mrs. Kurz, attending bank services, had parked the black, 1932 Ford V-8, "X" marked the spot where Dr. Herman Kurz, also with the car, was spirited.

It was not learned whether Dr. Kurz will offer a reward—hours in botany to any student offering clues leading to the recovery of "Magnolia," but it is suggested that any young G-women meet with him in the Hall of the History building to discuss pointers concerning the crime.

Leacock's "My Discovery of England"; Morley's "Modern Essays"; "The Essays of Montaigne"; G. K. Chesterton's "Tremendous Trifles"; essays of Hazlitt and Carlyle.

Poetry well worth the reader's time includes Masefield's "Right Reason, Shelley, Robert Browning, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Carl Sandburg, and A. E. Housman's "Shropshire Lad."

Freshmen with a syrge's love of travel should read John L. Stoddard's "Lectures", and the books of Hallburton, Byron, and William Beebe.

To strike a deeper vein in modern literature the zealous first year student ought to read: H. G. Wells' "The Science of Life"; Huxley's "Ape Here"; Sir James Jean's "The Mysterious Universe"; T. E. Lawrence's "Seven Pillars of Wisdom"; John Gunther's "Inside Europe."

For a daily "sesquicentennial" re-world reading in the line of periodicals there are: the New York Times Weekly Review, and the Christian Science Monitor, which affords an international point of view; Time magazine, which gives a complete, rather satirical, report of the week's news; the Literary Digest; The Survey, a journal of social work, and The Survey Graphic, a social interpretation for sociological problems; in science, The Science News Letter, and for those not having much technical knowledge of science, Science Ideas, an American quarterly review containing detailed expositions of International relations; for critical views of the contemporary scene—Harpers, Current History, Scribner's, Atlantic Monthly, Forum, Saturday Review of Literature, provide a more liberal attitude, the Nation and the New Republic.

If at this point the Freshman still finds time heavy on her hands, she may delve into Hillyer's Reader's Encyclopedia or into some of the Greek and Roman literature such as Homer's Iliad, or the Odyssey, and the philosophies of Plato or Socrates.

Drama: Shakespeare: the complete plays of Gilbert and Sullivan; selections from James M. Barrie, and in the contemporary field the works of Robert Sherwood, Maxwell Anderson, Clifford Odets, Henrik Ibsen, Synge, George B. Shaw, Eugene O'Neill, Noel Coward, for sheer entertainment.

Biography: Ludwig's "Napoleon" and "Bismark"; Hackett's "Henry VIII"; Lewisohn's "Upstream"; Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson"; Frye's "Diary"; Lincoln Steffens' "Autobiography."

In the field of essays: Stephen

26 Are Added To Staff For 1936-1937 Term

Continued from page one

structor in education, who was granted a leave of absence to study at the University of North Carolina.

New Language Professor

Miss Ruth Florida, Mansfield, Massachusetts, is assistant professor of Latin and Greek. She has been Latin instructor at Bryn Mawr college, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, and is taking the place of Miss Edith West, who has one year's leave of absence for study at New York university.

Miss Elisabeth Blue, who is a graduate of Florida State college, is an instructor at the Demonstration school.

Carolyn Priest, of Tallahassee, who served on the summer school faculty, will teach in the intermediate grades at the Demonstration school.

Demonstration School Has New Teacher

J. B. Kelley, a graduate of Kansas State college, is a new instructor in the Demonstration school. He takes the place of Kenneth Williams, who is on leave of absence studying at the University of Chicago.

Miss Martha Lois Smith, Quincy, has been appointed secretary to the superintendent of the Demonstration school. She served on the summer school staff, also, and is a graduate of Florida State college.

Two members of the faculty have returned from leaves of absence. They are Dr. Alice Lee Eyman, professor of education, who has been teaching at the university of California, and Gertrude Vermilya, instructor in chemistry, who has been working on her doctor's degree at Duke university.

In the department of English there are also several changes. Miss Sarah Herndon, instructor in English, has been granted leave of absence to study on her doctor's degree at New York university. Mary Bethel Hilliard, instructor in English, will take the place of Miss Herndon, and Miss Hilliard's place will be filled by Miss Alfriend, graduate assistant in English.

Assistant Registrar

A new position, that of assistant registrar, is held by Miss Florris Mathis, of Tampa, who has a master's degree from the University of Kentucky.

Miss Madeline Duncan, of Summerfield, Florida, a graduate of Florida State college last year, is secretary to the dean of students and to the head of the school of home economics.

Miss Carlene Knight, who also graduated from here last June, is now bookkeeper in the college business office.

Miss Boyd is Social Director

Miss Kathleen Byrd, of Tallahassee, is social director of dormitories. Mrs. Carrie Scandrett, who resigned the following day, Miss Byrd is a graduate of Florida State college and has had service in social welfare work in Florida for several years.

Miss Mary Lou Gill, of DeLand, Florida, former dietitian at the Duval county hospital in Jacksonville and a graduate of Florida State college, is now an assistant dietitian at the college dining hall.

Miss Margaret Dasher, student dietitian last year, is also an assistant dietition. Miss Dasher succeeds Miss Ruth Carpenter, who resigned to accept a teaching position at the University of Tennessee. Mrs. Norma Bauer White, assistant dietitian, has resigned also.

Dr. G. W. Brown, of Tallahassee, a consultant ear, eye, nose, and throat specialist for the college infirmary, Miss Maud Bishop, R. N., Jacksonville, is assistant nurse.

Because of the increased enrollment of music students, Clara Martin Guerry has been added to the music faculty. Miss Guerry will teach piano and voice.

YWCA Has Charge Of Devotionals

Janice Borton Speaks On The First Program

The devotional services of all convocation programs throughout the year will be in charge of the Young Women's Christian association on this campus, with the exception of those times when there will be special speakers.

The first service was held last Tuesday at the regular convocation, when Janice Borton, president of the Y.W.C.A. on campus, opened the first service with a discussion of the aims of the organization. She said that the

Continued from page one

Ewart, properties: Marjorie Stewart, freshmen. Betty Bialock is chairman.

The sophomore voted in favor of sponsoring the sophomore-senior breakfast given each year by the class. Virginia Dell was elected to serve in the place of Anne Knight, who resigned as chairman of the sophomore hop. Additional plans and committees will be announced later.

Y.W.C.A. aims to bring about a more creative way of living through religious association, and that the ultimate goal of the organization is truth.

Sunny Lowry continued the program with a brief discussion of the three new committees which have been named to assist in carrying out the plans of the organization. Those committees are social service committee, which will endeavor to carry on service where it is needed today; a study committee that will organize groups interested in discussing religious topics; and a recreational committee, which will carry on activities similar to the playroom project of last year.

The Y.W.C.A. Vespers will be held each Sunday evening at 7:15 according to an announcement made by Polly Eveleth during the program. A variety of discussions, pararnts, programs, and music will be prepared by the respective committee. In addition, each Wednesday morning at 7:05 outdoor worship services will be conducted in the Open Air theatre.

Rehearsals For Ceremony Begin

Continued from page one

sistant dietitian, has resigned also.

Dr. G. W. Brown, of Tallahassee, a consultant ear, eye, nose, and throat specialist for the college infirmary, Miss Maud Bishop, R. N., Jacksonville, is assistant nurse.

Because of the increased enrollment of music students, Clara Martin Guerry has been added to the music faculty. Miss Guerry will teach piano and voice.

Day Students Hear McKay on N. S. F. A.

Mary Jeanne McKay addressed the Day Students at the first meeting of the year yesterday. She centered her talk around the purposes and accomplishments of the college unit of the National Students Federation of America, which was established here two years ago.

The Day Student's organization is composed of "town girls" who live at their homes in Tallahassee while attending Florida State College. In order to become acquaint these students with campus organizations and activities a series of talks by campus leaders is being planned for this year.

GREATEST SHOE VALUES IN TOWN

Introducing . . .

Linden's NEW LOW PRICES

First and foremost collection of the styles the smartest women wear—values which you will agree are outstanding.

Suede and Patent
Suede and Calfskin
Suede and Kid

$2.95

50 New Fall Styles
"All at one low price"

Made to sell at $4.00

Straps — Pumps
Ties and Oxfords

Brown — Green — Black — Burgundy
AAA TO B—3 TO 9

Expert Fitting Assured Always

—SWING TIME SPECIAL—
Dish Neopolitan Ice Cream, Chocolate Sauce, Salted Nuts, Whip Cream
10c
SPECIAL HOT LUNCHEONS AND ALL KINDS OF SHORT ORDERS PREPARED ANY HOUR DURING THE DAY.

BENNETT'S WEEK-END SPECIALS

30c Ipana	29c	KOTEX 12s, 19c ... 36s, 51c 48s, 67c
Shu-Milk	17c	25c Lanor Dusting Powder	39c
25c Soothette	19c	50c Rubbing Alcohol, pt.	13c
Tooth Paste	19c	10c Lux Soap, 3 for	14c
35c Dr West Tooth Paste, 2 for	33c	10c Jergen's Lotion	29c
25c Ex-Lax	19c	50c Mum	29c
50c Squibb's Milk Mag.	29c	50c Noxzema	15c
50c Phillips Milk Mag.	29c	50c Golden Glint Shampoo	19c
50c Marchand's Golden Wash	39c	50c Carter's Liver Pills	19c
50c Carter's Liver Pills (10's)	17c	50c Dr. Butler Tooth Brush	39c
Modess, 2 for	35c

Motorcycle Delivery Phone 800

What a boy at 59¢

THEY'RE SO SHEER! THEY WEAR SO WELL! THEY'RE REALLY RINGLESS!

Want sheer stockings for everyday wear? Want them to be able to "take it" when it comes to wear? Stock up on these! Sheer, clear and ringless, they are reinforced for a long life. All the important new Fall shades!

Jaunty Cafe Clair Taillear brown 3 pairs for BOX OF $1.75 Gunmetal Cinnamon Smokytaar

LINDEN'S Fashion Shoppe

Art Exhibits Are Scheduled By Department

First Display Will Be Prints by Various French Artists

Opening its exhibition season on October 9 with a display of fifty prints by French artists, the art department will bring to the campus this year a series of five exhibitions and one of lectures demonstrating the technique of various arts.

The October show, which will continue throughout the month, will feature wood cuttings, dry point, and lithographs from the work of such artists as Segonzac, Waroquier, Labourer, Lautrec, Valadon, Matisse, Picasso, Forain, Asselin, Ormeaire, and Daumier.

In March the College Art association, the New York City club, and an exhibition of new forms in art. At this time geometric and biomorphic paintings from the studios of neoplastic constructionist and sur-realist artists will be open to the public to show the new forms created by the abstract artists. Also at this time the school's oiled slate for this display.

Watercolors of American artists who exhibited work in the seventieth annual exhibition of the American Watercolor society will comprise the show to be held April 12-24. Gladys Atwood, Wayman Adams, LeForce Bailey, George Elmer Browne, John Costigan, Julius Bc os, George Pearse Ennis, Paul Oil, Chauncey Ryder, Jacob Getlar Smith, and John Wenger are members of the society whose paintings will be shown.

Plans are also going forward to secure the work of six of the foremost sculptors of the present day — Barlach, Despiau, Epstein, Kolbe, Lachaise, and Maillol. Each of the sculptors will be represented by a life-sized head and by a small figure. All the sculpture is in bronze, cast from the original modeled clay.

In November, in January, in February, and in April, respectively, four exhibitions furnished by the Museum of Modern Art in New York city will be held in the rooms of the art department. The displays will be made up of reproductions of living American art. twelve paintings to be shown at each exhibition.

As an innovation this year a film produced for the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston by the Harvard Film service is to be a part of the exhibition series.

Faculty Members Travel Widely During Summer Vacation Period

Continued from page one

studied at the University of Madrid. Miss Helen Lastra of Tampa, former student here, was also at the university.

Other faculty members on similar trips were: Miss Ella Scobie Opperman, dean of the School of Music, who visited Hawaii. Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian, who visted Canada. Miss Sara Meador, instructor in textiles and clothing, who visited Alaska; and Professor Arthur Williams, college vice president, who spent two months visiting relatives in England and Wales.

President Edward Conrad chose to spend his vacation at New Bremen, Ohio, his old home, where he visited relatives. J. O. Kellum, college business manager, took a motor trip into the New England states and Canada.

Study at the University of Chicago attracted Dr. Paul F. Fisher, head of the psychology department, for part of the summer.

Dr. Charles Paul Henbest, professor of experimental psychology, attended the meeting of the American Psychological association at Dartmouth college, Hanover, New Hampshire, during a portion of his vacation.

Dean Margaret R. Sandels of the School of Home Economics, attended the meeting of the American Home Economics association in Seattle, Washington, this summer, where she was named vice president for a three-year term.

Miss Rowena Longmire attended commencement exercises at Yale university where her niece Miss Edna Williams, received her doctors' degree. Later Miss Longmire left for New York and Philadelphia. In Philadelphia she attended the Democratic convention and the summer school at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Marian D. Irish did some extensive traveling in Europe, visiting in England, Wales, Holland, Belgium, Germany, France and Scotland.

Earl L. Vance, professor of English and journalism, spent several weeks in the mountains of North Carolina.

Miss Ruth Schoenherst, professor of biology, spent the summer in Tallahassee taking care of her dogs and house. Later she visited one week in the mountains of Georgia.

Dr. Guy Diffenbaugh taught here at the summer session but spent the month of August at Daytona Beach.

The North Carolina mountains were the attraction for Dr. Coyle E. Moore, of the sociology department. Miss Reda Devivey, Dr. Jessie Tilt, and others.

Professor Williams' visit to England proved to be a family reunion as he saw there two sisters and one brother for the first time in 43 years. Dr. Pinner was accompanied by Mrs. Pinner this summer. She attended lectures at the University of Chicago, and visited their son, Winn, who is working on his doctor's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

Students Stray To Kitchen Now

Uncatalogued courses in amateur detective sleuthing seem to have been installed in the college dining hall each Sunday evening when students wander back and forth with pained expressions and distressingly empty water pitchers, bread plates, or fruit bowls, searching for the viands which they are sure are spread somewhere in some obscure hotel.

The buffet style Sunday supper which has just been inaugurated in the dining room has elicited much comment in the ranks.

"Ida seems to have some, maybe he it's over there!" exclaimed one damsel who had made a tour of the whole room from end to end in very vain.

"Why, no it isn't," her companion whose hunger replied, "I just saw her borrow that dish from table thirty-six."

For the benefit of those who have to forage for their favorite table-mates next week, all "seconds" are on the kitchen tables directly in front of the chimney where Mable invariably meets Billie and every girl in school, with the dreadful, infected wisdom tooth that has been giving her no rest for days, will make the gestures that occur while you dive like a jack rabbit to get them and meet your own friends downstairs.

Not only are the various dishes said out there in glad array but also there are to be found pitchers of milk, tanks of water and almost any other little article your considerate classmates might desire.

Playnight Changed For Church Parties

There will be no playnight tonight, according to an announcement from the office of the dean of students. This change in the usual week-end schedule has been made due to the various church parties which are being held tonight.

French Student Tells of Strict Schools Abroad

Continued from page one

down on her recreational time. Marsha found great fun in dancing, although many of the French girls are excellent dancers. "We have less opportunity to participate in some sports. For instance at this college there is a swimming pool and riding stables. I am very anxious to learn to ride horseback, for in France it is very expensive."

Although just 22 years old, Marsha has studied and traveled extensively in England, Spain, Algeria, and Italy. The International College for Women at Cannes in the southern part of France is the school she attended, was a special college where girls from all countries come abroad, representing many countries. In September she crossed the ocean aboard the boat "Paris" with fifty other foreign students coming to the United States to enter various universities. Forty were girls, and ten, boys. most of whom came here to learn the English language so they could go back to France and teach English, or stay in this country and teach French. Marsha, however, does not care to be a teacher. She is taking here as a special student and is taking typing, shorthand, German, American literature and American history.

She is the daughter of Louis Thomasse, "Medecin en chef de la Marine," and was born at St. Pierre et Miquelon, a small French colony near Newfoundland. Having attended school at Southsea-on-the-Sea, in southern England, while rather young, she speaks English fluently now, with only a slight accent.

When asked what she thought about this college she replied, "It is very interesting; it is very nice. The people are very friendly and helping. I like the green grounds of your campus, and your equipment is very fine. Then too, I think life is more family-like on this campus; people do not pair off so much and go their own way unless they do abroad. You do not study as much as we."

"Your food here," she added, "is very good, but in France it is customary to serve four instead of three meals a day; breakfast is served at 7:30, dinner at 12:00, "goutter," which consists of bread and jam, or chocolate and milk at 4:00 and supper at 7:00."

When asked about her future plans she said next year she will study in Germany, but would like to return to America to live.

Senate Plans Year of Study

Elects Everett to Head Extra-Curricular Committee

At their first meeting of the year, held Thursday of last week, the College Government senate elected Myrvin Everett as chairman of the extra curricular committees.

This committee is a combination of the former point system committee and the student activities committee, and has as its duties the study of campus organizations to suggest improvements and prevents overlapping, and the administration of the point system. It works in close cooperation with the committee of presidents in the discussion and attempt to solve campus needs. The chairman appoint four assistants and Myrvin has announced that Bettie Stevens, Betty Jane Mullen, Dorothy Crews and Anna Marie Mitchell will comprise the committee.

The senate also passed a measure to appoint a committee to draw up legislation concerning the impeachment of college government officers. This matter is the outgrowth of campus suggestions last spring concerning constitutional improvement and has received wide comment in the college publications.

The chairman of the senate, Marion Cain, has announced that she will conduct a course in correct parliamentary procedure for this group of lawmakers, with a view toward stimulating and

Executive Council Explains Policies

Continued from page one

"The sounds as if we're not going to do anything concrete about it." She then outlined various projects which the council has formulated for making clear and using the legitimate channel of expression open to students. These plans include essay contests, forums, and open and convocation meetings.

The fifth statement is: "We shall investigate and make public the conclusions of these three problems; the faculty-student relations, the day student problem and the off-campus problem."

"We do not assume that all of the student body problems," said Mickey Conn, senate chairman, who is also first vice president of the association, "but we shall find out by investigations." She commented on the fact that these situations have been frequently mentioned in the past in election campaigns, rumors and informal get-together around campus.

Sixth Statement Is Listed

The sixth statement is: "We shall cooperate with any other organizations or group of students in any project for the betterment of college life. We find especially try to stimulate interest in the N. S. F. A. forum and the newly organized debating committee."

Marie Taylor, treasurer, said spreading the desire for better procedure to other organizations

In the future, this body will meet regularly at 4:30 o'clock on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. Marian has requested students who have matters of importance to refer to their representatives to note this change in time. She also has extended an invitation to the student publication visit sessions and observe the senate in action.

College Renovated During Vacations

Fresh Paint, Linoleum Improve Appearance In Dormitories

Returning students this year found an Alma mater that showed proudly about a rapidly growing new Administration building wing, an enclosed dining room arcade, new tennis courts and varied internal improvements accomplished in two dormitories during the summer.

The crowning effects emanate every half hour from a would-be improvement installed in the li-

"We are anxious to help any organization," and she explained that special comment was given to the two clubs because they have a great deal to give to the students and they are comparatively recent.

Several statement is: "We shall attempt to educate the student body in a knowledge of their responsibilities as members of the association, and to create in them the desire to be constructive members of the society."

Of this policy Mary Jeanne said, "Here is the ideal toward which we are working." She further said that if they were able to carry out all other policies, this one will be automatically accomplished.

Hours Set for Playing Carnegie Gift Records

The hours for the playing of the Carnegie music records have been set for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30 in room 133 Administration building.

The program will be in charge of Miss Cali Kinney, who will place on the machine the records selected by those attending. It would be advisable for those wishing to hear certain records to turn in the request the previous evening so that the program can be planned in advance.

The Capehart reproducing instrument with records, scores, and books on music, was given to the college over a year ago. The records cover all periods of music and are selected from the best reproductions made.

brary tower by thoughtful members of the class of '36. Student opinion seems to be divided over the desirability of this newest campus addition—namely, the bubbly Coldstream girls sleep on new mattresses fashioned after the "Beautyrest" idea. In the dining room students trod on new sounddeadening linoleum. 1,320 feet of it, according to statistics released by Miss Anna Mae Tracy. In short, earnest efforts have been made to make the college one of the most up-to-date institutions in the country.

Hostess Plan Arranged By Dining Room Group

The new hostess plan of the Florida State College dining room committee went into effect Monday of this week. Under this arrangement a student hostess is assigned to each upperclassman table for three meals per week through Thursday nights. Each hostess invites nine of her friends to occupy the table with her, and it is her duty to guide the conversation and direct the conduct of those at her table.

come accustomed to the sonorous tones which right now are only a severe headache, so to speak.

No doubt remains in the minds of students rooming in Broward and Reynolds as to the improvements effected there, however. Walls, woodwork, and stairways have been repainted. Showers have been done over, and furniture upholstered. Reynolds freshmen now wield their brooms over floors covered with linoleum.

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it gloomy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can tell you by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves bookkeeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the likes economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 36 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 458-R
Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Start the Fall Term

With the Pen That Students Rate Highest
BY ACTUAL VOTE

Invented by a College Professor to Bring You Higher Grades

A college professor noticed that poor grades are often due not to brains running low but to pens running dry!

So he worked out an utterly different and basically better pen principle — and Geo. S. Parker engineered it to perfection.

Then came the revolutionary Parker section Vacumatic that has superseded every old style pen—both ink-type and clutch.

Recently the student editors of 30 college papers asked 4,000 of their readers, "Which make of pen do you write with and like best for perfect?"

To both questions more students answered "Parker," than any other two makes of pen COMBINED!

One reason is that the Vacumatic ink supply is EVER-VISIBLE, the ENTIRE length of the barrel. It isn't merely a little visible—it doesn't merely show when your pen is empty. It shows down almost WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW, so it can't run dry against your will.

The Vacumatic's working parts are sealed in the ink WHERE THE CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them. That's why the ink must be GUARANTEED mechanically perfect.

And the Parker Vacumatic has no rubber ink sac or lever filler—hence has room for 102% more ink without increase in size!

Its luminous, laminated Pearl style has won every pen Beauty Contest by 2 to 1. Its cost per year is under an average 5¢ size selling pen. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

To Make Any Pen Clean Itself
Try the utterly different writing ink—Quink. Dissolves instantly. Clean-flowing. Will not corrode. Used by ordinary inks. Quink contains solvent that keeps pen clean—writing smooth. Costs more selling ink. 26 cent flat bottle.

Parker
FACSIMATIC
GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT
Junior, $5. Over-size, $10. Pencils, $2.50. $3.50 and $5

GET YOUR COLLEGE RING
Bearing Official Seal
Certified $2.00 Value only 25c with the purchase of a bottle of Parker Quink
at 11c—Total 36c ... YOU SAVE $1.75
This amazing offer is made to bring you new Parker Quink—the miracle ink that dissolves in the pen. Writes and flows ON PAPER 25% faster than pen-clogging inks!
Simply go to any store selling Parker Quink and ask for Ring Offer No. 2. FILL NAME of your school or college, ring size, and your name and address in the coupon in The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 77, Janesville, Wis. Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, or supply lasts.

TUNE IN the Thrills
MARYLAND AMA
NEW YORK
IOWA
Silvertone ELECTION MODEL

The Radio of the Year and Only
GOLDEN JUBILEE FEATURE
$10.90
Super Silvertone Tubes
5" Electro-Dynamic Speaker
Range, 540—1720 Kilocycles
Two Watt Volume Output
BACK VIEW
Here's streamlined beauty you never saw before! Cabinet molded in bakelite, made in one piece, entirely enclosing the set—front and back. You can't see a tube or wire. Use it on a table in the middle of the room or on an office desk—from every angle it presents a smart unbroken appearance.
Reception radically different from any you've learned to expect from sets its size. Full rich tone and clear reception that will astonish you. A range of 100 miles or more in the daytime with its built-in aerial. 2-mile more distance at night. It took Silvertone engineers a full year—and 20,000—to build a 5-tube set so fine!
1936
SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.
1936
Tallahassee, Florida Telephone 1440

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glasier; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Features, Jane Quinn; Literary, Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Seeley; Columnists, Ida Claude O'Rourke; Society, Margaret Claire Lafferty and Milma Agress; Assistant Special Reporting, Arline Lockhart; Sports, Ella Virginia Brooks and Elizabeth Turner.

Feature Writers, Mary Lynn Massie, Jane Gallemore, Sylvia Feigs, Mary Boatright, Jewel Turner.

REPORTERS, Hazel Adams, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Barclay, Blanion Barrett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Bowman, Teresa Calhoun, Elisabeth Causey, Theresa Christel, Glenn Corner, Coleman, Virginia Davis, Hazel Dennegan, Maxine Fugate, Mary Gober, Margaret Guthrie, Ruth Holman, Lenora Howe, Betty Lou Ingermann, Lucy Kelly, Anne Ladd, Betty Leach, Martha Lumpkin, Anne Lofdahe, Mary Alice McKay, Alicia Measham, Mary Noble, Alberta Patrick, Janet Pierce, Marion Purviance, Nancy Rogers, Jane Shelton, Lavina Spaulding, Elizabeth Spicer, Mary Sullivan, Alma Warren, Frances Waterhouse.

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE ..... Business Manager
JANE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Adver. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Enter as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

To You, Freshmen!

Florida State College has extended her welcome in many ways during the past two weeks. The Flambeau could not add much to what has already been said and done along that line. But the Flambeau can point out your potentialities, the new responsibilities which you have undertaken, the opportunities which will be yours during the next four years.

You come here newly endowed with many of the graces of adulthood. Your college expects you to cherish those graces and to keep them on the proper level. You can look forward then to the granting of other adult privileges as you prove yourselves worthy.

Florida State College operates upon the basis of student government. Remember that and do not force the administration to play nursemaid to you. Do things for yourselves but always with an eye to the betterment of the community as well as to your own personal betterment.

You are the students who will see that college government and extra-curricular activities operate effectively during the next few years. You are an integral part of the spirit of Florida State College for Women. Be a reflection now of what you would have your college be in the future.

Seniors Still Disagree on Custom

In spite of a majority vote for seniors' continuing to wear caps and gowns on convocation, disfavor has since been expressed by a number of seniors on the matter.

The reasons stated at a recent class meeting for continuing the custom were that caps and gowns added dignity to the occasion and besides, by the time students were seniors they should be proud enough to appreciate wearing some outward form of recognition.

Yes, agree the unsatisfied minority, but if we attend convocation in our caps and gowns every single Tuesday of the school year, then what added significance will our caps and gowns have on the very special occasions in the year when seniors are supposed to stand out as a group from the student body? Among the occasions to which would mean a lot to seniors' wearing their caps and gowns are investiture, senior tables in the Christmas dining room dinner, and graduation.

Others added that they were glad enough to attend convocation every Tuesday and sit in the senior section but that they were not willing to rush to their rooms after a ten-thirty class, don caps and gowns in five minutes; rush back to convocation, then have to wear or carry the gowns to the dining room at lunch for lack of time to take them home again.

All this may be laziness on the part of a minority but at least it's honest confession and after all the steps and minutes it may waste, the unsatisfied few hope the majority voters will wear themselves out wearing their caps and gowns and the tradition will of itself wear out.

Guest Editorial

Editor's Note: The following editorial was written by Mary Jeanne McKay, president of College Government, at the invitation of the Flambeau staff. We believe it exemplifies the fundamental spirit behind true student government.

Many current magazine authors and feature writers tell us that this is a generation of young people who are realists, of youths who know which side their bread is buttered on, and that they will follow only the gossip ideals. They want performance not dreams! They are the children of a materialistic age and philosophy. They are pictured as a security-seeking, cautious, tolerant young people, who have no delusions as to the practical values of life. War and depression have inflinened them, it is said. They want no part of the fantastic, derring-do future that go with following ideals. They want comfort and contentment. Let the next generation hitch wagons to stars.

This is true, they tell us, in the college world as well as in any other eleas of young people. They have learned to measure by concrete results, not by aspirations. Surrounding them they see no democracy but a numerous few, privileged cists who control every privilege and who act only to relieve the faculty of certain administrative and disciplinary details that gaid assistants could do as well or better.

Accepting this as a frank analysis of the attitude of the students in general, then what is the attitude of those institions, the campus leaders? How can these officials fit into the modern picture of youth? Is but time to learn the very essentials of how to earn a living?

Any normally intelligent student officer is aware of the tremendous clash of cross purposes immediately after she takes office —after the shine has worn off and the glory has dimmed. It is then she begins to ponder the value of working herself into an early grave doing small duties that go unsung. She, being young, finds little solace in her work. She is part of the system that is necessarily fraught with personalities, inexperience, and red tape. It seems only when she becomes an ex-officer does she feel capable of her position.

What, then, is the incentive that perpetuates the college government system? It cannot be for the benefit that is supposed to be youth's by-word because rare indeed is the college that pays for the service of directing student affairs. It is hardly for glory, for that is a much proved negligible. Can it be for ideals? Do they seek to know and champion the truth?

What is our answer to the deluge of young people who go from each spring to take oaths of service to other colleges? Students are there, of course, by virtue of juggled campus politics, some by personal popularity, and some few, let us assume, by ability. But they all fall into the habit of—either indifference or antagonism by their constituents and an inability to know their full tasks. Perhaps this may be one answer to the strange animal phenomenon. Perhaps they are young people seeking to find a better way of life, stilted as that phrase may sound even to the officials themselves. Perhaps they see in student government a way to find it.

They may conclude that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are still the fundamental needs, and they may dare to use the phrase even in an age when a twenty-word quotation becomes trite—and triteness is one of the seven deadly sins. They perhaps see in life a need for order—in liberty, a necessity for maintaining that delicate balance between individual and group rights, and in pursuit of happiness, a spiritual value, the need and desire to serve. Being a practical and security-loving generation perhaps they see more than a means to an end in life through a government of democratic structure.

Although they see democracy in its textbook form they hold to the truth that it can work. They resent the chaos left by a generation that would not meet its obligations, and they do not wish to leave such a heritage for their children. They wish to leave the works of a generation of intelligent voters. They see and approach many ideals of citizenship by making use of the training ground that college government affords them.

This explanation of student government, however, is hardly consistent with the appraisal of youth advanced by many older writers. Yet, can we discard the concrete truth offered by youth itself that it is true —that youth has not forgotten how to dream?

MARY JEANNE McKAY,
President, C. G. A.

Magazine Thumbings

"YOUNG ASIA ON THE CAMPUS"
By A. Douglas Rugh
Asia, October, 1936

The author, a professor of English, has taught in two Eastern universities during the last four years: American University of Beirut, Syria, and Yenching University near Peiping China.

One of the chief problems in Eastern Universities, he has observed, is the tendency of students to adopt Occidentalism, particularly every phase of western culture. To them, even determined they learn to despise native traditions, morality, literature, music, and sometimes religion.

Mr. Rugh found his students in the Syrian college a heterogeneous group, conscientiously aggressive, fanatically nationalist, and ready to become acquainted with. In marked contrast, the Chinese university students displayed an attitude of reserve and calm, religious tolerance and indifference, and layers of conventional courtesy hard to penetrate.

S. S.

"GOD BECOMES A CONVENIENCE"
By Pearl S. Buck
Forum, September, 1936

Pearl Buck, whose early life in China as a missionary's daughter has given her a detached and analytical way of evaluating American life, discusses in this article the present revival of interest in religion in the United States. This she cites as an example of our national adolescence. Infantilism and constant flux from one extreme to another.

There is abundant evidence indicating a general return to religion. In such a trend, Mrs Buck sees a renewal of spiritual fascism" of the church, an increasing power of the creed and standards of conduct, and the strengthening of a religious force that will make itself felt in every phase of life.

Perhaps the outstanding fault of Mrs Buck's discussion is her failure to develop the conception that religious thought, constantly changing like every phase of our culture, is developing and must consider the writings of numerous leaders and not only the forms, if any, when she becomes an ex-officer does she feel capable of her position.

What, then, is the incentive that perpetuates the college government system? It cannot be for the benefit that is supposed to be youth's by-word because rare indeed is the college that pays for the service of directing student affairs. It is hardly for glory, for that is a much proved negligible. Can it be for ideals? Do they seek to know and champion the truth?

What is our answer to the deluge of young people who go from each spring to take oaths of service to other colleges? Students are there, of course, by virtue of juggled campus politics, some by personal popularity, and some few, let us assume, by ability. But they all fall into the habit of—either indifference or antagonism by their constituents and an inability to know their full tasks. Perhaps this may be one answer to the strange animal phenomenon. Perhaps they are young people seeking to find a better way of life, stilted as that phrase may sound even to the officials themselves. Perhaps they see in student government a way to find it.

They may conclude that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are still the fundamental needs, and they may dare to use the phrase even in an age when a twenty-word quotation becomes trite—and triteness is one of the seven deadly sins. They perhaps see in life a need for order—in liberty, a necessity for maintaining that delicate balance between individual and group rights, and in pursuit of happiness, a spiritual value, the need and desire to serve. Being a practical and security-loving generation perhaps they see more than a means to an end in life through a government of democratic structure.

Although they see democracy in its textbook form they hold to the truth that it can work. They resent the chaos left by a generation that would not meet its obligations, and they do not wish to leave such a heritage for their children. They wish to leave the works of a generation of intelligent voters. They see and approach many ideals of citizenship by making use of the training ground that college government affords them.

This explanation of student government, however, is hardly consistent with the appraisal of youth advanced by many older writers. Yet, can we discard the concrete truth offered by youth itself that it is true —that youth has not forgotten how to dream?

MARY JEANNE McKAY.

'Spirit of the Week — By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

By CLOTILDE O'OURKE

A major international development occurred this week with the devaluation of the franc by decree of French Premier Minister Vincent Auriol, and the approval of the Chamber of Deputies. The move was attended by an important and significant agreement among London, Washington, and Paris. The three democracies agree upon a policy of monetary stabilization, and spoke out for freeing international trade. A result is to be established between the franc, the dollar and the pound sterling and the three governments will undertake to maintain the relation that is set up. The gold standard of the franc is considered by London and Washington as a step toward a "lasting of equilibrium" in international exchange.

With the gold content of the franc cut by one-third, the rapid flight of capital from France (1,000,000,000 francs in the past week) will be reduced; for foreign tourists, France will become a cheaper country to travel in; for foreign business houses it becomes a cheaper market to buy in. In the meantime, Finance Minister Auriol must devise a plan to protect French government security holders, safeguard wages and pensions, and prevent the rise of living costs.

* * *

The currency agreement between Britain, France and America caused a sensation throughout the remaining gold bloc nations of Europe. Switzerland and Holland immediately followed the French lead by declaring they would devaluate. Italian stock and money markets remained closed all week, with no decision forthcoming. Although Germany has the gold, the finance dictatorship announced that the mark would not be devaluated. Both the lira and the mark are stabilized at too high a value and are at a high discount on the Paris exchange. The devaluation of the franc will cause an even greater discrepancy. Germany and Italian foreign trade is in for a boom.

* * *

Three months of bitter fighting in Spain's civil war culminated this week in the capture of Toledo by the rebel forces of General Francisco Franco. At the same time, Hundreds of rebel sympathizers were released from the Alcasar after withstanding seventy-one days of seige, bombardment and air raid. Yesterday, the rebel conquerors had pushed to Illescas only twenty-two miles from Madrid, the goal of the insurgent forces. Loyalist officials fled the capital now pin their hopes on a defense line from Guadalajara to Aranjuez, the last large settlement blocking the northern drive.

* * *

With the presidential election date so near, Republican candidate Alf M. Roosevelt and Republican candidate Al Landon are beginning to fly at each other with both fists—verbally at any rate. The Democratic candidate remains at Syracuse, New York, and the Republican candidate campaigns in the hasty are the immediate audiences of the candidates Landon delivers his speech at his headquarters at the straightforward attacks of the New Deal with direct, unequivocal words. He declares the social security act "unjust, unworkable, unjustly drafted, unfairly administered" and pledges himself and his party to "repeal it." Roosevelt counters himself with a strong defense of the record and attacks the Republicans on broader ways. He maintains that his record shows "consistent advance to the letter and spirit of the American form of government." His reputation is unchallenged in sport, saying that the previous Republican Administration was run by communists by his "do-nothing attitude." And he makes a slam at the G. O. P with the remark, "Most serious threat to our institutions come from those who refuse to face the need for change."

* * *

Southwest Oregon was prey to severe forest fires this week with thousands of acres of timber and several towns destroyed, and many lives lost. Meanwhile, a population of 1500 saw their residences burned up in flames and with a property damage estimated at $1,250,000. The determined efforts of 5000 firefighters and the dying of high winds finally brought the fire under control.

At the same time, floods were ravaging central and west Texas, leaving four dead and many homeless at Waco. Hundreds of families in Mc Lennan, Brazos and Leon counties fled before the rising of the Brazos and Little rivers. Property damage in the San Angelo area is estimated at $2,000,000 with thousands receiving aid from National Guardsmen and the Red Cross.

* * *

The General College at the University of Minnesota is offering a course this year which proposes to develop the student's sense of humor. It is discovered by those in the catalogue among the offerings of the English department under the title "Types of Humorous Literature." Mr. W. E. Moore course instructor, feels that the sense of humor is acquired, not inherited. He proposes to develop the student's ability to view life from the standpoint of a spectator at a comedy, to perceive comic elements in persons and situations without being upset by them, and above all, to recognize the comic elements in himself. There will be no cheering in this course. Mr. Moore has decided that the best test of humorous perception to be given at the beginning and end of the semester to measure results.

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT
University Editorials

FUTURE War Veterans have been seen sitting at the writing desks while college students have their vacations. The New York Times informs us.

"Declaring that the great threat to the American system of government is the bloc of organized minorities the Veterans of Future War dedicated need to the Preliminal candidates today a set of questions designed to test their attitude toward pensions and wartime conscription of capital, and labor.

"Among the questions in the questionnaire, signed by Lewis J. Gorman, Jr. national commander of the Future Veterans declares, 'We cannot reward money grabbing profiteers who would use war as a threat to our future security. We are resolved to give our sacred vote to those who will stand against the unpatriotic profiteering of our future opportunities.'

THESE are the questions asked. Were you in favor of the draft in time of war?

Are you in favor of an increase in pensions for widows and orphans of those veterans who died in the war?

Are you in favor of the draft in time of war?

Are you in favor of veterans preference?

Are you in favor of conscription of capital in time of war?

Are you in favor of conscription of labor in time of war?

MEMBERS of the American Youth Congress are following closely with a biter also to all five of the Presidential candidates.

The letter said the replies to five questions were being availed by the Student Christian Movement, National Industrial and National Business and Professional Councils of the Young Women's Christian association, American Student union, New England Division of the Workers Education Association of America, International Workers Order and other groups."

Providing a large amount of youth in the trade union movement and youth interested in politics and outright social and international affairs."

The letter asked:

"Do you make the American Youth Act a must item in your legislative program?

"What action will you take against such groups as the Black Legion, Ku Klux Klan, and similar terrorist visitative bands?

"Do you support or oppose military training in C. C. C. camps?

"Will you support the Nye-Kvale bill as a first step toward unemployment and relief in high schools and colleges? How do you propose to finance the bill? Explained? Do you believe international cooperation is necessary?

"WILL you support legislation supplying equal educational opportunities for the American youth by furnishing Federal funds to communities financially unable to maintain adequate educational facilities? As a step in that direction will you support the proposed Pfeiffer-Harrison bill?

"What steps will you take in the event of lynching? Will you support the Wagner-Costigan bill or a bill based on similar principles?

"What proposal have you for the solution of unemployment?

"Pending passage of the American Youth Act, are you in favor of extending the National Youth Administration to include youth between the ages of 16 and 21 on projects at trade-union rates, increasing the number of students and young workers receiving wages, grants and scholarships?

"Do you support the right of workers to organize into unions of their own choosing without outside interference by employers? Are you opposed to company unionism?

(Note: Information in this column from articles in Ne York Times.)

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of controversial and is open to all who wish to express their views in constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Flambeau" and mailed in the postoffice.

The hostess plan initiated this week in the dining room comes as a suggestion from a recently appointed committee of the council. Some of the major dining room problems.

Each table will have a girl at its head who acts as hostess for a month, and she will be in part to form the duties of hostess as she would in her own home.

Needless to say, she will see that all students at her table have been introduced to each other, that the conversation hall is kept rolling, that table is in a model of conduct for those at her table. Further, she will try to make dinner a little more attractive also by dressing for it when possible. Also she will have certain competitive sports at the dining room table, such as flipping a spoon into a glass, catapulting grapes from a glass, or racing with the other table.

The last mentioned is useless this year, according to Miss Anna Mae Tracy, head hostess, because one table will not be served dessert, but the students at the other table have finished their first course.

With each student having a definite table at which to sit every night the committee members hope that one of the methods of finding places and crowding into the dining room at the last minute will be avoided.

Then at the end of the first five trial weeks another committee at each table will assume the responsibility of hostess at that table or get up a new table.

Any student who wishes to be a hostess for the second month is asked to notify Mary Ann Hills, chairman of the hostess plan committee, within the next three weeks.

Signed: Eleanor Williams,
Member of Dining Room Committee

* * *

Editor Flambeau:

Why is it that students are so short, bi-weekly rest cures just before our hardest classes as there is no rest at least, Score one for the other side

* * *

The Bates Student reports the need of a hair-like filament, ordinarily used in electric lightbulbs, as a leader to attach a hook to a line the purpose of which device being to attract the poor fish, who are deceived by the invisibility of the line. Wonder if we could rig up a similar instrument to catch the professors.

* * *

From the Blue Stocking we learn that Cornell scientists are beginning a six-year search for the cause of the common cold tendency. If they include spinach or eggs in the diet, they can leave us out. We wanna die.

* * *

EPITAPH
Here lies the body of an athelete,
Alas,
All dressed up and no place to go.

—Junior Collegian

* * *

If all the people who sleep in classes were laid end to end they would be a lot more comfortable.

* * *

An exchange informs us that the University of Texas is developing a process for the location of hurricanes by static. If they run out of hurricanes any time soon, we suggest that they turn on static and find out if one of our professors whose car was stolen Tuesday. On second thought, they'd better not do so—he might break it.

* * *

The codfish lays a thousand eggs
While the helpless hen lays one.
But the codfish does not cackle
To inform us what she's done.
And so we scorn the codfish lay-er,
But the nosey hen we praise—
Which indicates to thoughtful minds
That it pays to advertise

—Alabamian

* * *

Complains the Daily Illini: Why is it professors can wear purple ties,
Haphazard haircuts and coats in the wrong size?
Trousers too short and the color grotesque?
Yet flunk me in English because of my style?

Collegiate Come-Backs

Every year we are impressed by the dumbness of the new crop of freshmen. This year, however, we have the incredible news that a new species has at last descended upon us; at least, she has a sense of humor. Asked on her personnel blank if she had any physical defects, the said young lady wrote in a heavy hand, "Bad heart—Broken)."

* * *

We hope the freshmen have already discovered that Florida State College works under the honor system. The faculty has the honor, the students have the system.

* * *

Strike up the funeral dirge. All of the dear sisters who, through consistent effort, mostly parental, and hard work, and mostly parental, have at last won the privilege of donning mortar boards will be with us for common herd, come every Tuesday and convocation. Now that's unbearable cruelty? Our guess is that those in authority feel the need for a bit of beautiful as well as intelligent faces to greet all convocations speakers so that explains why the faculty wants assured to pinch-hit for the wrongend seniors.

* * *

DISSIPATION
To flirt is a crime wrong;
I don't.
Wild youths chase women,
I'm tame and song.
I don't.
I have no girls, not even one:
I don't even know how it is done:
You wouldn't think I have much fun;
I don't.

—Junior Collegian

* * *

After reading over the cut system in the new handbooks, we're not trying to discover a new and effective way of suicide. We can bear up semi-nobly under it but the infirmary cuts. That gets us. We'll wager there won't be as many colds on short, bi-weekly rest cures just before our hardest classes as there will be at least. Score one for the other side

* * *

The Bates Student reports the need a hair-like filament, ordinarily used in electric lightbulbs, as a leader to attach a hook to a line the purpose of which device being to attract the poor fish, who are deceived by the invisibility of the line. Wonder if we could rig up a similar instrument to catch the professors.

* * *

From the Blue Stocking we learn that Cornell scientists are beginning a six-year search for the cause of the common cold tendency. If they include spinach or eggs in the diet, they can leave us out. We wanna die.

* * *

EPITAPH
Here lies the body of an athelete,
Alas,
All dressed up and no place to go.

—Junior Collegian

* * *

If all the people who sleep in classes were laid end to end they would be a lot more comfortable.

* * *

An exchange informs us that the University of Texas is developing a process for the location of hurricanes by static. If they run out of hurricanes any time soon, we suggest that they turn on static and find out if one of our professors whose car was stolen Tuesday. On second thought, they'd better not do so—he might break it.

* * *

The codfish lays a thousand eggs
While the helpless hen lays one.
But the codfish does not cackle
To inform us what she's done.
And so we scorn the codfish lay-er,
But the nosey hen we praise—
Which indicates to thoughtful minds
That it pays to advertise

—Alabamian

* * *

Complains the Daily Illini:
Why is it professors can wear purple ties,
Haphazard haircuts and coats in the wrong size?
Trousers too short and the color grotesque?
Yet flunk me in English because of my style?

OF INTEREST TO NEW STUDENTS

President Will Invest Seniors Tuesday Night

First Tradition of Year Is to Be Observed At Investiture

The seniors of Florida State College for Women will be invested in their caps and gowns Tuesday night as they receive the original symbols of their ownership in the college.

This ceremony, which is accompanied by all the pomp of the faculty in traditional robes and by the solemn procession of black gowned seniors and white-dressed sophomore sisters, is the first of the series of traditions observed each year on this campus.

Three hundred forty seniors will take part in the ceremony this year as Dr. Edward Conrad addresses the students.

Early in the year the religious entrance of freshmen into the college will be recorded by one of the most beautiful campus traditions. The Y. W. C. A. reception service. Flickering candles all around the fountain give the circle of light that marks the ceremony.

The three symbolic torches of the college enter into prominence a little later as the freshmen class is formally welcomed as a unit into the college in the annual ceremony of Torch Night. Held in the open air theater and featuring a theme of devotion to the Alma Mater the torch night is a dreidal pageant in which the members of the sophomore class pass to the freshmen the torch of their alma mater.

Several weeks following Torch Night, the Peaky ceremony in which the freshmen are tried and found guilty of their class' pledge allegiance is held. The Peaky ceremony takes the form of a mock trial held in the college auditorium.

The peak of traditional events on the campus is reached during the Homecoming activities at Thanksgiving time. Florida State Even rivalry at a fever pitch the college takes part in events unequaled for tradition at any other time of the year! The Odds march in solemn and beautiful lantern parade and the Evens burn the Odds in effigy at a roaring bonfire and raise the Even bones with a ghostly chanting march over the campus. The high spot of the entertainment of Homecoming comes when the Odds and Even demonstrations in which Odds and Evens compete with entertainments are directed, planned and acted out by students. On Thanksgiving morning the rivalry of the Odds and Evens is settled in the annual volleyball and basketball games and later in the day the college dining room is the scene of the annual "March of the Turkeys."

Later in the year just before Christmas the seniors are again the important factors in a ceremony as they march into the dining room in the caps and gowns for the traditional Christmas dinner.

Soon after the second semester the mid-winter festival is presented—also a part of the established tradition of observing an FSCW week during which faculty members and students from the entire state to make addresses about the colleges and take part in the big scene of several entertainment features.

As the height of spring tradition comes the May Day pageant. At this time the queen of the campus is crowned in a setting of the lovely open air theater.

Dancing and paternity characterize the ceremony which is climaxed by the arrance of the May Queen elected by the student body and her court which includes the most beautiful girls on campus.

As a final display of the traditional ceremonies of the campus comes the event of graduation and all the ceremonies surrounding the filling of black gowned seniors and white dressed sophomores in the much cried breathing the carrying of the daisy chain on class day as seniors, juniors and sophomores march side by side in an old custom in which the seniors transfer their responsibilities to the underclassmen; and the final pomp and ceremony of the most traditional event in the campus year—graduation.

WHO'S WHO on the CAMPUS

Mary Jeanne McKay, president C. O. A.
Martha Makemson, chairman of judiciary.
Mickey Conn, first vice president C. O. A.
Marjorie Hutchinson, second vice president C. O. A.
Winifred Ewart, secretary C. O. A.
Marie Taylor, treasurer C. O. A.
Jo Binion, freshman chairman.
Shirley Stevens, chairman of residence halls committee.
Catherine McGarry, chairman of off-campus committee.
Mary Kathryn Gibson, senior representative to judiciary.
Betty Peck, senior representative to judiciary.
Louise Gehan, junior representative to judiciary.
Dorothea Marsh, junior representative to judiciary.
Ruth Cox, junior, sophomore representative to judiciary.
Ann Gilbert, sophomore representative to judiciary.
Martha Baker, Sue Whitaker, senior representatives to senate.
Frances Lewis, Eileen Robinson, junior representatives to senate.
Dot Bordens, Betty Skinner, sophomore representatives to senate.
Janice Borton, president of Y. W. C. A.
Beth Dane, president of athletic association.
Hazel Bowman, editor-in-chief of Flambeau.
Frances Puth, editor-in-chief of Flastacovo.
Betty Hunter, editor-in-chief of Distaff.
Betty McGonagle, president of Panhellenic association.
Katherine Autrey, chairman of social committee.
Dorothy Bellamy, president of Der Kleine Deutschverein.
Mary Miller, president of senior class.
Ruth Spradlin, president of junior class.
Helen Strelich, sponsor of the freshman class.

14 Professors Publish Works

Books and Articles Now Placed in Library

Of the 101 instructors of Florida State College 14 are the authors of books and articles now available in the college library. These recent publications include subjects in the field of applied sciences, biological sciences, social sciences, philology, literature, languages, and geography.

Among those dealing with the physical sciences is Dr. Richard's book on all the physical sciences, which emphasizes the educational trend towards integrated courses. Dr. Mann has written one of the articles "Electrification by Impact," and "Contact Electricity of Metals." Dr. Mann is the head of the chemistry department is the author of "Qualitative Organic Chemistry" for college and university students.

Dr. Rucker, biology department Miss Eda Deviney has contributed also articles on the Behavior of Isolated Pieces of Acidian Stolon as compared with Ordinary Bodies." Dr. Rucker is the author of the written "A Botanical Survey of the Florida Everglades." Dr. Wise comes closer to home in his article on "Arrowarts of North and Central Florida."

In the field of the social sciences Dr. Richard has written two histories and several historical articles in addition to the administration building. Archery will be taught by Frances Thuli each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

No Dormitory Vacancies Expected Till New Term

Reports from Miss Maude Flowers, social director of residence halls and off-campus houses, reveal the dormitories are full and overflowing. Never before has the campus had such a backlog of rooms, and only those who applied early in the year were lucky enough to get a room in the residence halls.

Last year with forty-one off-campus houses, 378 students lived off the campus. This year there are fifty-one off-campus houses and 414 students living off-campus. Probably few vacancies will occur until the beginning of second semester, Miss Flowers said.

Four Colleges Are Included In FSCW Set-up

Broad Sphere of Training Offered to Students Enrolled Here

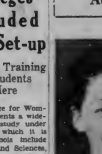
Florida State College for Women offers six new students a widening and sphere of study under the four schools of which it is composed. These schools include the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Education, School of Music, and School of Home Economics.

The College of Arts and Sciences has a wide scope, not only offering a broad cultural education but also specialized professional training, including journalism, bacteriology, art, library science, speech, sociology, pre-med and pre-law courses. Students in this college may also by taking the required amount of work in education and psychology qualify for teaching positions. There are two degrees, A. B. and B. S. given in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The purpose of the School of Education is the professional preparation of teachers and educational leaders. Students taking the four year curriculum leading to the bachelor's degree are trained to teach from the nursery and kindergarten through the high grammar grades, junior and senior high subjects, and special subjects such as industrial arts and physical education.

The four year curriculum prepares students for teaching from the kindergarten through the junior high school. The Education student is required to do practice teaching in the college training school.

The two purposes of the School of Home Economics are to train students in the principles of home-making and to train graduates to take up professional work in the field. The work in the School of Home Economic prepare students to enter research, dietitians and technicians in state institutions and hospitals, home demonstration and teaching.



The subject matter of the Home Economics curriculum falls under seven divisions: the family and its relationships, family economics, the home, foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles.

Students in the School of Music include those taking the course as cultural development and those who are preparing for a professional field. Subjects of instruction in the professional field are divided into three categories: major in piano, organ, voice, violin, and public school music; composition and supervisor of public school music. Students graduating from the schools of the college may take advantage as an elective for cultural reasons.

Extra-Curricular Plans Being Made by Leaders

Extra-curricular classes will be resumed under student leadership this week, Although a complete schedule has not been arranged several student instructors have already announced their programs.

Marie Jolfre, who is chairman of the dancing classes, says that he held Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:30 o'clock. This will be a class in fundamentals of good form and technique. A beginner's class is offered under the direction of Marie Taylor on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Students interested are asked to sign on the bulletin board in the administration building. Archery will be taught by Frances Thuli each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Jo Binion, who is adviser for the freshman class. Jo is assisted in the orientation program by members of the freshman advisory council. A senior duty Jo was chosen for this position in the elections last spring.

5 Clubs Have Started Again

Meetings of Organizations Getting Underway On Campus

Of the ten clubs functioning on campus five have reorganized this year. These include the Classical club, the International Relations club, the Astronomy club, the N. S. F. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

The Astronomy club, to which anyone interested in astronomy is eligible for membership will be led this year by Gladys Ware, president; Florence Evers, secretary-treasurer; Lynn Hammond, chairman of the telescope team, and Betty Thistlethwaite, chairman of the bulletin board committee. The science club is composed of Sara Beth Davis, Betsy Bassett, Mercedes Garriga, Marie Jolfre, Helen Birmingham, Ethel Runyan, Winona Ireland, Betty Knapp, Betty Pinth, and Gladys Ware (ex-officio). At the first meeting of the club held Wednesday, Dr. Harold P. Richards, the faculty advisor, spoke on "Our Relation to the Universe." The next meeting of the club, which will be held Tuesday will be devoted to naked eye observations. Telescopic observations, especially of Saturn, will be made October 6.

The Classical club is organized this year under the leadership of Kathleen Robinson. Other officers of the club include Holly Walker, vice president; Marie Smith, secretary; Hazel Viertel, treasurer; Twila Jones, publicity manager, and Gladys Ware, keeper of the bulletin board. The Classical club is open to students in the classics department who are interested in the parallel between Roman and modern life. Miss Grace Fox, Latin professor, is the faculty advisor for the group.

The International Relations club, which will be led this year by Mary Kathryn Gibson, president; Marie Mitchell, vice president, and Nan O'Shaughnessey, secretary-treasurer. The first meeting of the club was held yesterday when plans for the year were discussed. Anyone wishing to join the club may do so by attending the next meeting which will be held October 6.

The National Students Federation of America forms another leader for this year Polly Eveleigh, who will act in the capacity of chairman. Other officers include Janice Borton, senior committeewoman, whose duty is to plan programs: Sarah Sealey, junior committeewoman, who keeps the Schedule Board; and Betty Wynn, sophomore committeewoman, who acts as secretary. The forum meets twice a month to discuss international, national, and campus questions. Its main objective is to improve knowledge of participatory procedure on campus. Every meeting of the N. S. F. A. is open to every one. The first meeting will be held October 13 and will be devoted to a discussion of the Spanish situation. During the year the forum will have student speakers, faculty speakers, and others who are not connected with the college. The N. S. F. A. is represented in senate so that problems which are discussed and approved by the forum can be presented to this body.

The 4-H club which is composed of former 4-H girls who show a good achievement record, elected Margaret Delaney as president; Elsie Barrett, vice president; Lillian Schulte, second vice president; Geraldine Meyers, secretary; Loretta Lorea, assistant-secretary, and Opal Walker, treasurer. The club meets the first and fourth Tuesday. Miss Anna Mae Rikes is the faculty sponsor of the club.

Freshmen Make Usual Mistakes Of New-Comers

Boners of Current Year Far Surpass Those Of the Old Days

This year's freshmen at Florida State College haven't failed to live up to the new student's traditional reputation for making boners. In fact, authorities agree that some of the slips made this year even surpass those of former years.

As proof of this there is the story of the freshman who had registered late and was unable to find a room. When Miss Maud Flowers said to her, "Well, I guess I'll have to put you in Reynolds smoking room," the girl innocently answered "Oh, but Miss Flowers, I don't smoke."

A freshman answer reports that when she was telling some of the students on her hall that first period class at 10:10 P. M., one girl queried, "Is that before or after?"

Then there is the freshman who wrote on her engagement card in the upper right hand corner "Name of the boys calling on her.

The dining room girls report boners on the part of freshmen freshmen make during meal times. One girl, who failed to see the sign at the head of the table, naturally had all the food passed to her first. Later she was heard to remark to a friend: "People think so much of me that they pass everything to me first."

A dinner guest—a freshman ordered a meal from the dining room girl serving her table and the waiter failed when she discovered that she could not have what she wanted.

Another boner a freshman made concerned the new system in use on Sunday night in the dining room by which the dining room girls take their orders for second helpings. The freshman said, "I wonder what all this double talk is about—oh, I know, it's the maid's night out." Another freshman who had been dining room girl at home about what courses she was taking said, "I don't intend flunking school, I thought you only worked here."

Even the boners are not made by freshmen. Two sophomores on the campus failed to see the reading lists was written an author's name. Smith, and after it "Rev. Ed. D." The sophomores concluded that the writer's name was "Rev. Edward Edward Smith." After looking for a Reverend Edward Smith in the card index in the library and finding only books by Frederick Smith, one of them questioned the librarian, and learned that "Rev. Ed." means "Revised Edition."

Freshmen Are Offered An Orientation Course In Physical Education

An orientation course in physical education is being offered to all freshmen, according to Miss Grace Fox, director in physical education. It is being introduced for the first time this year. The purpose of the new arrangement is to acquaint new students with the various sports on campus.

This course offers the following activities: basketball, baseball, volleyball, golf, tennis, archery, hockey, archery, swimming, and rythmic fundamentals.

About 55 students compose each of ten numbered sections. With the exception of swimming, the sports throughout the year will be the same for each section. Three weeks will be devoted to each sport. The schedule of the classes is arranged so that the even sections and odd sections will not take the same kind of activity at one time.

Adviser

Work Begun On Three Campus Publications

Complete Staffs for The Coming Year Named By the Editors

Florida State College for Women has three publications on its campus. These are the Flambeau, weekly newspaper of the college, the Distaff, the critical literary magazine of the campus which comes out four times a year, and the Flastocowo which is the yearbook of the college.

Frances Puth, editor of the Flastacowo has had in following the trend of the Morrar Board Training School. Helen Brown, a freshman, has been appointed to the minor position—freshman editor.

The staff will consist of Frances Puth, editor; Marjorie Tillis, and Helen Robinson, associate editors, art editor, Grace Whitaker; photographic editor, Mary Hutchinson; athletic editor, Felicia West, assistant editors book one, Martha Baker; book two Jane Mundy; book three, Betty Wynne and Marjorie Hutchinson, typists. The Flastocowo has two purposes this year: first to present—life on college campus for the next months we live here, and second to preserve memories of the significance of campus traditions and college standards. All students are invited to make suggestions and snap-shots.

Hazel Bowman, editor of the contributions of any student of the college. The staff consists of Daisy Hunter, managing editor; Ann Gilbert, assistant editor; Sarah Sealey and Jane Mundy, associate editors; Grace Whitaker, art editor; Eloise Trent, circulation manager; and Alma Butler, business manager. Plans are pending to arrange a section in one issue of special recognition to the freshmen. The editor plans to introduce a new form of book this year. It will give greater sentence to feature articles, one-act plays and outstanding poetry. In order to stimulate interest in the one-act play an award will be given for the best one that is ever submitted. The magazine will include the following types of sections: short stories, poetry, satires known as "All Wool," and "Morning Glories" which is composed of book reviews. The deadline for material submitted for the first issue will be October 20. If students wish their articles criticized and returned they should indicate the fact in the margin.

Material for the Flambeau is written by members of the journalism classes, with a few exceptions. The staff consists of Hazel Bowman, editor; Elinor Hutchinson, managing editor; Twila Baker, assistant editor; Pearle Shepard, managing editor; Ruth Parker, news editor; Evelyn Glazier, art editor; Virginia Early, exchange editor; Mary Carol Arbuckle, editorial editor; Sarah Beth Davis and Ruth Sealey, literary editors; Gertrude O'Rouke, outside newsbureau; Margaret Claire Lafferty, society editor; Mary Lyon Massie, society editor; Evelyn Lockhart, special writer; Ann Gilbert, special writer; Virginia Brooks, sports editors; Mary Lynn Massie, Jane Quinn, advertising manager; Nan O'Shaughnessey, assistant advertising manager, and Mercedes Le Brown, circulation manager. The Flambeau comes out Friday of each week.

Guerry Instructs Here

Miss Clara Martin Guerry began her duties as instructor in piano, voice and solfeggio in the School of Music on last Monday. Miss Guerry is a music graduate of Oberlin College and Conservatory and has done advanced graduate study at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City. Miss Guerry comes highly recommended in her profession. She began her work with a full schedule and has relieved considerably the overloaded enrollment of the various teachers.

College and Sorority Plaques

W. W. PUTNAM

JEWELER

CERTIFIED WATCHMAKER

(Opposite Dime Store)

THE GIFT SHOP

Corner Adams and College

Extends You a Cordial Welcome

Freshmen May Now Buy Annual Tickets

Freshmen! You can buy your annual picture tickets this week—and next week in the lower floor of the Ad building. Appointments will be made when you buy your ticket.

Campus Offers 14 Honoraries

Opportunities for High Recognition Given To New Students

New ati dents on campus who are interested in attaining recognition for high standards of scholarship, will find that fourteen honoraries, seven established and three local, award membership to students in many fields.

Phi Beta Kappa, installed on this campus in 1935, awards membership to those students in whom programs high standards of scholarship in liberal arts and sciences have predominated, while other honoraries on campus base membership upon high standards in special lines.

Florida chapter of Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalistic honorary society, was the first to be installed here. The society recognizes two years of successful service on college publications in addituting students to membership.

Pi chapter of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary, was the first to be installed in a southern institution. Omicron Nu holds standards of admittance are based on scholastic achievement, and membership is limited to seniors and second semester juniors who can be admitted to the chapter who fulfilled a specified number of hours in home economics requirements.

Chi Delta Phi, the only honorary literary fraternity, was installed in 1924, by Charles Morse, its founder. The purpose has for its purpose the stimulation of literary activities among college students.

Kappa Delta Phi, the honorary fraternity in education, originally founded mainly for graduate men and women who are particularly interested in education and who expect to continue with the work. Active membership is for the upper quartile of the school if they have fulfilled certain requirements.

Phi Kappa Phi, the first fraternity for honors in general scholarship, was organized by a group of students at the University of Maine. Phi Kappa Phi chapter here was installed in 1918.

Phi Alpha Theta, installed here in 1933, is the only one in the founding at the University of Arkansas, recognizes students in scholarship in history and relative subject matter. The society endeavors also to foster interest in historical aspects of history.

Sigma Phi Phi, the classical honorary society, was installed at Florida State College for Women has for its purpose the fostering of appreciation of Greek and Latin culture through study of the lives of great men of Greece and Rome. Only juniors and seniors who have had five semesters of Latin or Greek with an average of B in all Latin or Greek courses are admitted.

Theta Kappa chapter of Beta Pi Theta r installed here in 1925 to promote an this campus a greater interest in the study and understanding of the French language. Scholarship is the admittance requirements, both in the field of "french and in the remaining fields of education.

Phi Beta Sigma, local Spanish honorary, was established here in 1927. The purpose of the organization is to maintain high scholarship in Spanish and a knowledge of the language, and promote interest in the customs and literature of Spain.

In 1931, the local senior honorary, Torchbearers, established here in 1925 to encourage leadership and scholarship in the four years

CGA Will Give Test On Rules To Freshmen

Examination Will Be Part Of General Program Of Orientation

All freshmen and transfer students will be given an examination on the college government association rules included in the freshman bulletin Tuesday morning, October 6, at 11:30. The test is a part of this year's orientation program for the new students at Florida State college.

Among many new features that have been added to the orientation program for this year are the freshman class meetings held in the auditorium every Thursday morning at 11:30. The programs at these meetings consist of addresses by faculty members and campus leaders on the various phases of college life, and presentations of musical numbers, readings, or skits by freshmen. The schedule of talks for the remainder of October is: October 8, "The Meaning of Honor," Miss Katherine Warren, secretary to the president; October 15, explanation of Judiciary, Martha Makemson, chairman of judiciary; October 15, "The Meaning of Scholarship," Miss Lulie Richardson, librarian; October 29, election of student honoraries by students. October 22, Miss Mary Sharpe Cocke plans to include several Florida State college students in her program. Guild an Avocation," Dr Harold P. Richards, head of the physics department, will give an explanation of extra-curricular activities by a committee of student presidents.

The year orientation program was smaller, consisting of nine freshmen and a group meeting that was trained for her position by a month's course given to orientation leaders by Miss Ernie O. Dorman last spring. These groups of ten will hold meetings every Monday afternoon and for six weeks will eat at special tables in the dining room with the girl that freshmen may get better acquainted with each other and learn to evaluate and enjoy all phases of campus life. The orientation leaders are those selected in this work by members of the sophomore council.

Another improvement in the orientation system concerns the freshman handbook which this year include information that enabled the freshman to arranger her program for the term with college, detailed instructions about the program for freshman week and general information about college life and regulations.

of college life, was accepted as the "Torchbearers" chapter of Mortar Board, national senior honorary; whose standards are scholarship, leadership and service.

Orchesis, national dancens honorary was installed on this campus in 1927. The society exists for the purpose of study of and interest in the dance.

Two other local organizations on this campus are Esterea, Even honorary, and Spiragis, recognizing outstanding members of the Odd class. Esterea, whose purpose is keeping high even spirits was established in 1930, and Spiragis, which stands for leadership, loyalty and service was organized in 1924.

MAND N CAFE

Steaks, Fish or Oysters 40c

Served Anytime

118 E. Jefferson Phone 1054

We Cordially Invite You to Attend the Formal Opening of the College Slipper Shop

102 East College Avenue

Friday, October 2nd. 1936

We Will Give Free One Pair of Full-Fashioned Chiffon Hose With the Purchase of One Pair of Our Popular Price Footwear

COLLEGE SLIPPER SHOP

"THE HOME OF BEAUTIFUL SHOES"

102 E. College Ave. Tallahassee, Florida

Salley Addresses Women

"What can a Woman's club do to cooperate with the institutions of higher learning from the standpoint of selection of students?" was the subject of a speech given yesterday by Dean N. M. Salley of the School of Education at a luncheon given by the Woman's club of Perry, Florida.

Another book, which is used as a reference book for literature classes is "Some Love Letters in Chaucer and Gower." The only textbook written by a faculty member is the Practical Spanish Grammar of which Dr. Seymour is joint author.

In addition Mr. Becker and Miss Pawley are joint authors of an article entitled "Some Exercises in Geography and Study Technique for Freshmen" which has been accepted by the Journal of Geography.

Sport Squints

It really seems like school days again to be seeing three pitiful little F Club goats being heckled by the esteemed members. The goats are those creatures who look like a clock "coo-coo" everytime the chimes peal out the hour.

Many ex-summer bathing beauties are spending their allowances on bleaching creams hoping someone decided that the new fall shades make the tanned wearer assume a slightly yellowish cast.

Somebody told me she saw Hazel Bowman and one of her contemporaries trying to wrake Dr. Pinner the other day. It seems that they were just before attempting to coerce him into joining their lowly game of marbles in which they were indulging at the time. It might be interesting to hear the psychological slant on such tactics.

The new lighted tennis courts will be quite a set-up when they are completed and they will undoubtedly afford many e happy hour of recreation on these calm cool nights for poor imposed upon over-worked college girls.

In contemplating the new cut system and Saturday classes, it looks like we'll all be forced to join the Cutting club in order to get away from school occasionally.

What kind of a party was that going to camp last week-end, anyway? Gym majors hobbling gym teachers as hostages, and such--sounds like injuns.

Girls living in East Gilchrist and West Broward rooms were struck dumb Monday night, shortly after light flash, upon hearing a ribald and animated conversation between a girl in Broward and a girl in Gilchrist. For several minutes the proctors were too awe-struck to call the imperative "Quiet please," but when they finally uttered the words, the guilty ones were goodnights hastily and subsided on a gale of goodly giggles.

The post office has actually grown to represent the grim--at least the atmosphere is practically the same around four in the p. m. So anxious are the children for a look into time times out of ten an empty box that they trek by the doorsta to the p. o in shorts, gym rompers, and slacks. Nothing like informality.

What most of us are desirous of knowing is the present use and the ultimate purpose of that slightly bluish and decidedly greenish carpet that is to be found all over the stairs in Brow-ard hall. To date, we've seen exactly fourteen people trip gracefully, not so gracefully, all the way down two flights of stairs just on account of the paper being spread all over and therefore concealing a step or two.

The nights and days of last week-end make us believe that the college powers that be have ordered plenty of fresh air. Judging from the scores of people seen resting or shall we say recreating in the open-air theater won't be so very long until Thanksgiving games roll around and if the numbers who swarming out for Odd and Even volleyball and basketball ice are indicative, the com- on will be keen.

A recent roar craze on campus is the bowling alley which was attempted recently off-campus. The pins are using Coca-Cola bottles for tennis and oranges for the balls. At the last attempt to participate in the game, however, the bowlers were bowled over at meeting with some opposition on the part of the authorities of the house, and the case is now up before the grand jur with the decision pending.

THE SWEET SHOP AND STORE
201-206 W. Jefferson Telephone 1091
Opposite Gilchrist We Deliver
—WEEK END SPECIALS—
LARGE LIMEADE WITH SHERBET 10c
15c CHEESEBURGER 10c

Life Saving Club To Meet Once Monthly

Classes Will Be Offered For Girls Wanting To Pass Exams

Intended to insure participating students of safety in the water, the Life Saving classes held each Saturday morning at 11:30 are under the leadership of Captain Frances Thill and Instructor Evelyn Edwards.

The forty-one members of the group are sub-divided into smaller classes according to their swimming ability. The four classes, instructed by Janet Cook, Valerie Hunt, Dorothy Colburn and Katherine Rawls, are for students wishing to renew their senior life saving certificate or to practice for their examiner's tests, for girls who wish to take their senior life saving test for the first time, and for girls who wish to practice swimming prior to working for their emblems.

Valerie Hunt is sponsoring a movement to institute a club for Florida State college swimmers that would be comparable to the Swan club of the University of Miami.

Business meetings of the life saving corps, it was decided at the meeting last week, will be at 11:30 the first Thursday of each month in the gymnasium, or in the event of a called convocation, on the following Thursday.

Frances Thill, in charge of the Thanksgiving water sports, is being assisted by Evelyn Edwards and Ruth McClain.

Girls working for their examinations in license are Janet Cook, Valerie Hunt, Beth Deane, Sara Hethcox, Evelyn Edwards and Eleanor Flint.

Those who wish to earn or renew their emblems may obtain applicatio are Jane and Barbara Hubbard, Mildred Jean Cook, Mary Anne Pilcher, Kitty Brown Ford, Elizabeth Brown Ford, Elizabeth Lounder, Jane Hamilton, Yvonne Marcheseau, Audrey Cooper, Margaret Sanger, Harriet Dunn, Jane Stambaugh, Nan Clark, Ruth Oliver, Patricia Barringer, Margaret Holway, Bunny Lowery, Marion Weeks, Ruth Wilson, Margaret Walker, Felicia West, Dorothy Colburn, Ruth Barrett, Elizabeth Alford, Connie Ash, Dorothy Kramer.

Girls who are interested in Thanksgiving water sports are Frances Hales, Mildred Seekins, Ruth Hendricks, Patricia Mack, Albertine Fox, Sidney Moore, Mary Nichol and Mary Ruth Clayton.

Outing Club To Meet Next Week

Plans Will Be Made For Future Activities

The first meeting of the Outing club will be held next week, Pelicia West, president, announced Wednesday. At this meeting a faculty sponsor will be chosen to replace Miss Dorothy White, who did not return to her post as physical education instructor this year.

Plans will be made to sponsor the Saturday truck to camp which leaves the back of Bryan Hall at 1:30 P. M. and returns at 4:30. Among the scheduled events are moonlight hikes to camp, steak fries, and fishing trips to the coast. Winona Ireland will assist Miss West this year.

Work Begins On Courts

Construction of two new asphalt tennis courts behind the Physical Education building has started Monday of this week, according to an announcement made by H. D. Mendenhall, resident engineer.

The new courts are to be fifty feet wide and one hundred and ten feet long, approximately less than the regulation-size court. The two concrete courts, which were completed last May, are regulation-size courts.

In addition to these improvements in the tennis equipment, a standard lighting system is to be installed on the four courts. Already the light poles have been set up, and Mr. Mendenhall declared that night tennis will be a possibility by the end of this month.

Ninety Start Training For Sport Teams

Faculty Members Coach Odds and Evens For Important Game

A total of ninety seniors, juniors, sophomores and, freshmen turned out this week for the respective first games of the Odd and Even basketball and volleyball teams according to Odd-Even leaders, Mary Miller, Louise Gehan, Felicia West, and Martha Makemson.

This year each team will be coached by a faculty member instead of receiving assistance from the leaders only as was done in former years. Miss Betty Washburn will coach the Even basketball team this year while Miss Rcy Frazier will be in charge of the Odds. The Odd and Even volleyball teams will be coached by Miss Ruth Lehman and Miss Eunice Hurst respectively.

Members of last year's Odd basketball team, with the exception of one member, have returned this year and they are enthusiastic over chances for a victory in th e traditional Thanksgiving game. Felicia West, Even leader, said jokingly, "Miss Betty Washburn's coaching and almost daily practice will make some surprising results. Thanksgiving is almost two months away, and the Evens will continue hard practice every Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday until the day of the game."

Mary Miller, Odd director, declared that no attempt was being made to persuade the players to return to training. She said, "They have all had athletic experience before now, and we believe that they are mature enough to know what they should or should not eat, and whether or not to smoke, or not, and what hours are likely to put them off their game. Training is not going to be individual."

Practice periods for the Odd teams fall on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 4:30 o'clock and Saturdays at 3:30 o'clock, the instructors announced. Even practices are held on Mondays, Thursdays, and Fridays at 4:30, and Saturdays at 3:30.

The Evens who reported for the first basketball practices were: Dorothy Colburn, Ruth Cook, Ruth Agnes McClain, Evelyn Glasier, Frances Pfaffle, Ruth Arnold, Ann Brown, Marjorie Marvich, Patricia Mack, Frances Fryer, Frances Hales, Mildred Seekins, Pern Robertson, Marie Thede, Flavil Townsend, Jane Fox, Jean Bennett, Charlotte Rawls, Judy Triplett, Lucy Emsminger, Marjorie Hendricks, Ruth Heflin, Helen Benson, Yvonne Marcheseau, Sara Jane Hazelwood, Mary Noel Smith, Mickey Hearon, and Margaret Gallalee.

The list of Odds who will definitely make a try for the basketball team has not been completed, but last year's teamsters who were on hand for practice were: Sara Lytle Ferry, Pelicia West, Viertel, Mary Miller, and Doris Butler.

Almost the entire volleyball team of last year reported for Odd practice. Those who were out included Beth Deane, Shirley Stevens, Martha Makemson, Marie Taylor, Jackie Borton, Margaret Maxwell, Dorothy Rickard, Estyhe Stanley, Mary Ann Hood, Helen De-Vreis, Florence Ward, Melbe Parks, Ruth Barrington, Betty Mitchell, and Dorothy Moore.

The Evens had a great freshman representation out for volleyball practice, but very few of last year's team were present. The girls who reported this week were: Marjorie Horton, Frances Lewis, Betty Jane Hunter, Louise Gehan, Viola Brooks, Katherine Pratt, Mary Frances Blake, Marjorie Rauschenson, Helen Daniells, Marie Joffre, Edwinna Jordan, Evelyn Fisher, Mary Ruth Clayton, Nan Clark, Peggy Price, Ruth Rogers, Ernestine Makemson, Elaine Fleischer, Doris Cahoon, Althea Lloyd, Norma Jean Sapp, Betty Bernweuer, Alisa McKelley, Dorothy Schooling, Connie Ash, Ruth Irvine, Kitty Ford, Clifton Van Brunt, Rosalind Silverberry, Evelyn Hammond, Mary Nichls, Hazel Adams, Gertrude Hecht, Sybil Jean Olson, Laura McCaughn, Mera Heimo, Agnes Vincens, Lynette Thompson, Martha Robbins, Alise Ford, and Lela Iverson.

All four teams will be selected either one or two weeks before the big Thanksgiving games, the leaders stated.

Olympic Star Welcomed

Martha Makemson, Odd volleyball leader, and Katherine Rawls, Even leader, welcome Kathryn Rawls of Olympic fame who entered Florida State college as a freshman. Kathy, as she is known to the sporting world, is shown here with Miss Mary Jeanne McKay, president of the College Government association.

Katherine Rawls Discusses Olympic Games In Interview

Admits Eleanor Jarrett Wrong; Present For Full Program

By NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY

Katherine Rawls is with us.

I approached the girl, who makes of diving an art, on the subject of the Olympic games.

"Superior," she said, "far superior to the last ones—in California. We sailed on the fifteenth of July. Dorothy Dickerson and Lenore Kight Wingard were my roommates. We had a great trip, except for the training rules. We had to go to bed at ten o'clock at night. As we neared Europe, we gained time and found ourselves sent to bed while it was still daylight. We got up at seven to practice in the pool; the change in time had us rising at about six every morning. The water in the pool was cold; to say the least, and the nearest I came to swiftness was swimming in it. They had a diving board rigged up on deck, with bells for the divers to wear. The bells were attached to ropes, so that you could dive, but wouldn't land. I wrenched my back on the thing."

"When we got to Hamburg, they had a reception for us. Soldiers marched up and saluted. We had instructions that the salute for us would be: women—eyes right; men—hats on their chests. One of the athletes asked with him "Who vote if he couldn't do tie Heil Job. He was refused. There was a lot of comment upon the fact that we didn't salute in the Nazi manner. The other athletes did."

"Where did we stay?" We were at the Reich sport field. It's built just like a college, except that the buildings are all stadiums. It is now being used for a sport collegs. The swimming pool is marvelous—all marble with a temporal bronze tower. They had regular college dorms for us to stay in. I hear there was something in the papers about the food we were given. It was good food, German, of course, but it didn't expect them to cook especially for us. The Germans were really wonderful to us."

With the morbid curiosity of a Liberty fan, I inquired interestedly after Eleanor Holm Jarrett.

She grinned. "I was afraid of that. Ella's one of my oldest friends and I don't like to enlarge on the episode. She was given three chances and let down each time. She was in the wrong, but, as I say, she's a friend of mine."

I asked about the opening ceremonies of the Olympics.

"The games were opened by the runner who entered the stadium, circled it, and ran up to the torch in the center, lighted it. The torch burned through the whole games. The athletes marched in by countries and lined up on two sides making a lane in the center. Herr Hitler entered then, walking with his guard down this lane, while the band played the national anthems of all the countries. It was awfully spectacular.

"After each event during the games, they played the national anthem of the winner, as they did in California. I was really thrilled then. In Berlin I felt just a bit disappointed because the three winners stood on gradated platforms, and I was standing on the second platform, instead of the first, as I had planned.

"The close? Oh, that's always pathetic, because as soon as the athletes finish their events, they go into tours. Many of them had left, but we stayed to the end and saw the torch put out."

I asked Miss Rawls if she knew when she caught me up with: "Oh, and I saw a woman kiss Hitler!"

THE LADIES SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
(NEXT TO STATE THEATRE)
JUST RECEIVED 500 DRESSES!
Up to the minute in style and color. All sizes. Those should sell for much more. We are featuring them—
2 DRESSES FOR $7.00

THE THREE TORCHES
Weekly Specials for Students
Chocolate Pie 5c
Crushed Nut Milkshake 10c
Pork Bar-B-Q 10c
Filet Mignon 25c
Minced Ham Sandwich 5c

Sports Events Are Announced

Teams Start Practice For Intra-Mural Games Of Next Seven Weeks

Teams have started practice for basketball and volley ball intra-mural games to be played during the next seven weeks, Maxine Weeks, senior intra-mural manager of the athletic board, announced recently. Secretly, Spirogira, Esteren, church, dormitory and dining room teams will participate during this time. Following these games the traditional Thanksgiving day games between the Odds and Evens will climax the basketball and volleyball seasons.

Following the basketball and volleyball games archery will occupy the intra-mural calendar until Christmas vacation. If weather conditiocs are unfavorable at this time the archery season will be postponed until the spring.

Swimming will follow archery during the remainder of the first part of the second semester. Tennis matches and several tournaments in the out door sports will complete the year's activities.

Field events will be held on Friday nights throughout the year. Swimming, the diving pond and shuffle board will be featured on these nights.

Demonstration School Install New System

During the summer months the Demonstration school has been completed many changes in curriculum and furnishings.

A new system is being carried in the schedule of teaching. For the first time home economics is being taught to the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades; wood work is also taught one day a week to every child who desires it, swimming is taught all the college students swimming pool once a week.

A $300 motion picture machine has been purchased for the educational films in the class room.

A grand piano and a $900 radio phonograph and 350 new records have been obtained for the public school music. New stage equipment includes a velvet curtain and a flame proof scenery.

New typewriters were purchased due to the increased enrollment in commerce. Over four hundred books have been added to the library. The last few months in the library is composed of teaching material and visual education. Physics equipment and machines for manual training classes have also been purchased.

Changes have also been made in the football schedule for the first time in the history of the college. Demonstration school, an eight game schedule of six man football is to be pun in practice.

The games each are to be played with Monticello, Madison, Bristol and Chattahoochee. Four games are to be played on the local high school athletic field.

"After each event during the games, they played the national anthem of the winner, as they did in California. I was really thrilled then. In Berlin I felt just a bit disappointed because the three winners stood on gradated platforms, and I was standing on the second platform, instead of the first, as I had planned.

"The close? Oh, that's always pathetic, because as soon as the athletes finish their events, they go into tours. Many of them had left, but we stayed to the end and saw the torch put out."

I asked Miss Rawls if she knew when she caught me up with: "Oh, and I saw a woman kiss Hitler!"

Who's Who in Sports For Coming Season

Habel Viertel, president of P club and Odd basketball leader.

Louise Gehan, vice-president of P club and Even volleyball leader.

Fay Corry, secretary and treasurer of F club.

Sara Heathcox, president of Life Saving corps and Odd swimming leader.

Eleanor Flint, secretary and treasurer of Life Saving corps.

Frances Thill, captain of Life Saving corps.

Evelyn Edwards, instructor of Life Saving corps.

Valerie Hunt, leader of the Odd tennis team.

Mary Miller, Odd basketball leader.

Martha Makemson, Odd volleyball leader.

Janet Cooke, Even swimming leader.

Hilda Spradlin, Even tennis leader.

Felicia West, Even basketball leader and president of Woman's Athletic Association.

Beth Deane, president Woman's athletic association.

Sara Lytle, treasurer of W. A. A.

Marjorie Horton, secretary W. A. A.

Extra-Curricula Sports to Begin

Rules for Attending Camp Flastacowo Given

With the opening of school the athletic activities on campus have taken their place in the calendar program. Included in the plans for the coming year is the extra curricular work, which is open to all students, tha Odd-Even games, and the sports that take place at Camp Flastacowo.

Extra-curricular sports will be: Basketball, hockey, volleyball, archery teams will be organized in preparation for the group competition which will take place among the various classes, fraternities and campus organizations. The climax of the year will be reached with the Thanksgiving basketball, volleyball and hockey games between the Evens and the Odds.

At Camp Flastacowo there is much opportunity for students who wish to participate in individual sports. Swimming, canoeing and canoeing there in rifle range practice for all who are interested.

For the benefit of newcomers at the following information has been given out by Miss Maude Flowers:

Students may sign up for camp no longer than a month ahead of time.

There must be at least ten girls in a group and they must be accompanied by a member of the commission.

The truck leaves for camp Friday between noon and five o'clock and Saturday from nine o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the evening.

Students will not be permitted to swim unless a member of the life saving corps is present.

Students must sign up on pleasure slips at their own discretion before leaving for camp.

Plans For Year Made By F Club

Lowry, Horton, Glazier Chosen New Members Of Organization

Bunny Lowry, Marjorie Horton, and Evelyn Glazier were announced as new members of the F club at its first meeting September 22 the purpose of which was to make plans for the F club camp to be held in the near future.

The club has decided to carry on the customs of water sports day in April and the annual Christmas dinner at which time presents will be given to the poor children of Tallahassee.

Hazel Viertel, president, announced that the new pledges to be the following members of the year's F club: Martha Baker, Ella Barrett, Janice Borton, Viola Brooks, Janet Cook, Audrey Cooper, Beth Deane, Sarah Beth Deyo, Sara Heathcox, Marie Joffre, Frances Lewis, Martha Marie Marsh, Martha Makemson, Margaret Maxwell, Mary Miller, Anna Mae Mitchell, Sallie Burt Munson, Betty Oatland, Kathryn Pratt, Ellen Robbman, Mildred Seekins, Ruth Snyder, Shirley Stevens, Marie Taylor, Marion Weeks, Felicia West, Fay Corry, Frances Fryer, Hilda Spradlin, and Valerie Hunt.

Graham Puzzled Concerning Owl

New Reporter Determined To Feature Hooter

By ANNA LADD

The bewildered new sophomore reporter approached Dr. Graham with shaky knees and trembling voice. This was her first assignment. She must remember the right things to say.

"Hello, Dr. Graham. I'm from the Flambeau. What hear you have an owl."

Dr. Graham looked up in surprise giving a puzzled glance which made the interviewer shrink six inches. "I've an owl?" she asked.

"Yes, they told me you had a pet owl. I have to write a feature story about him."

"How long is a feature story?" was the question asked the poor reporter who was finding writing easy.

"Well-er, you see that is--well I just started working on the Flambeau this year and, that is, well I don't exactly know."

Dr. Graham smiled, "You see" she said, "I don't have a pet owl. There is an owl that lived in a tall tree in the back yard of my house. Several times years. Some times he hoots but I haven't seen him or his wife with him. Now I wonder how the Flambeau could have heard that I had a pet owl. I mentioned some parents the other day that an owl lived in the tree in my back yard."

The new reporter, quite dazed by this time, walked home slowly wondering how she could write a feature story about Dr. Graham's "pet owl." After all the Flambeau couldn't expect her to write a whole feature story about an owl that sat in a tree and hooted.

FOR YOU COLLEGIATES
We are Featuring Apparel For Any Occasion
Frocks For:
CAMPUS SPORTS
STREET - EVENING
Coats and Suits For:
SPORTS AND DRESS
Also Accessories
SKIRTS - SWEATERS - BLOUSES
JACKETS - UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY
When on College Avenue Stop at The DIANA SHOP

The Social Week

Sororities Fete Freshmen At Annual Pledge Banquets

With the close of rush week this year approximately 360 girls were pledged to the various sororities on campus. Gay parties, banquets, and breakfasts honoring these pledges have been in progress for the past week and will be concluded in the near future.

Alpha Xi Delta

Members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority will entertain with a banquet at the Dutch Kitchen tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock honoring their new pledges.

Jewelry chests with the sorority crest on top will be given as favors to each of the honor guests at the time. Clotilde O'Rourke is in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Pledges of this sorority are Helen Brown, Frances Fryer, Evelyn Mechtold, Murrey Lou Andrews and Edith Tyndall. Dot Hamilton and Mary Pollard were re-pledged at the beginning of the year.

Kappa Alpha Theta

The Floridan hotel was the setting for the annual pledge banquet of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which was held following pledging services, September 21. Black and gold, the sorority colors, were carried out in the place cards which were in the shape of the Theta kite. Stationery with the coat of arms seal embossed on it was presented the pledges as mementos of the occasion.

Honor guests at this time were: Marjorie Graham, Amelia Avaro, Myrtle Kaper, Doris Edwards, Rosemary Mathews, Dorothy Kramer, Ilma LeBarr, Betty Mann, Dorcas Merritt, Betty Miller, Alice Virginia Newbern, Frances Oliver, Murray Ann Pilcher, Katherine Rose, Mary Ruth Waters, Ruth Terrell, Madge Williams and Ruth Williams.

Phi Mu

Pledges of the Phi Mu sorority were entertained Saturday night, September 22, with a banquet in the Floridan hotel.

The sorority colors, rose and white, were effectively used in decorating for this affair. Favors were wall plaques with the Phi Mu seal.

Girls pledged to this sorority are: Hilda Adams, Betty Bennett, Betty Simmons, Doris Cahoon, Claire Wells, Mildred Stovall, Nancy Peggy Pepper, Mary Ann Gay, Gertrude Rodgers, Helen Stewart, Mary Jane Johnston and Ethel Jones.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Lovely bottles of perfume purchased by some of the members in Paris this summer, were favors at the Alpha Gamma Delta pledge banquet held in the Floridan hotel, Thursday night, September 22.

Pledges, honored at this time were: Janie Cochran, Jane Cooper, Elaine Plesher, Willyne Gaines, Alma Cochran, Mary Rodgers, Irene Hutchinson, Betty Little, Elizabeth Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Louise Reed, Mary Virginia Ruff, Laura Cola Trawick, Joyce Vick and Edith Underhill.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Beta Phi pledges were entertained with a banquet last Friday night in the Woman's club. The sorority colors, wine and ethereal blue, were used in decorating the banquet table, while the motif for the evening's entertainment was carried out in the place cards which were small doll heads.

Favors for the honor guests were handmade pocketbooks.

Pledges of this sorority are Chive Alterman, Mary Alley, Jane Anderson, Margie Anderson, Miriam Bedell, Mabel Bennett, Eleanor Bushnell, Reuben Coleman, Betty Curtis, Mary Ellen Destryker, Betty Gordon, Mae Dorothy Louise Fossato, Mary Holliday, Virginia Holmer, Janet Jewel, Virginia Johnson, Mary Catherine Jone, Margaret Kennard, Mary Alice Lanier, Ella Lee, Caroline Love, Janet Mattern, Jean Miller, Caroline Mills, Frances Moon, Katherine McCready, Harriet Post, Martha Robbins, Mary Susan Rawley, Katherine Savarse, Lucille Smook, Catherine Stevens, Lillian Taylor, Barbara Tyler, Betty Vanning, Juanita Wiggins, Dot Marsh, and Frances Woodward.

Chi Omega

Members of the Chi Omega sorority had a pledge banquet Saturday night with a banquet at the Dutch Kitchen, featuring the Chinese table as a theme. Centering the banquet table was a large arrangement of flowers forming the Greek letters Chi Omega.

The pledges received dainty outdoor bottles of perfume as favors of the occasion.

Honor guests at this affair were Martha Baxter, Jane Bishop, Dee Bryant, Amelia Gordy, Marion Hussey, Mary Swearingen, Anne Towson, Betty Bloodworth, Nancy Horney, Minnie Clarke, Martha Lee, Frances Slade, Patricia Stewart, Wilda Finlayson, Isabel Ramsey, Margaret Rodgers, Betty Sutton, Nancy Taylor, Roberta Towne, Lottie Mitch, Anita Jackal, Marjorie Baller, Jean McCord, Margaret Salley, and Barbara Watson.

Alpha Omicron Pi

The Cherokee hotel was the scene of the Alpha Omi pledge banquet last Saturday night.

Place cards were in the form of the pledge pin and the table was decorated with red roses and slender tapers of the same color. Each honor guest received a compact as a favor.

Pledges of this sorority include Virginia Early, Janet Cook, Mary Finner, Ella Goodwin, Betty McMullian, Rosalie Merritt, Dorothy Schooley, and Margaret Tyler.

Delta Delta Delta

The members of the Delta Delta Delta sorority entertained last Saturday night with a banquet in the Dutch Kitchen honoring the pledges.

Silver, gold and blue, the sorority colors, were used in decorating the banquet table. Boxes of stationery with the sorority crest were presented each of the pledges as a favor.

Honored at this time were Charlotte Barlteu, Letitia Bowden, Mary Ann Brown, Dot Carruthers, Carolyn Collins, Mary Mollins, Charlotte Connell, Merle Dekle, Lorraine Grahn, Marjorie Jessup, Frances Jones, Dorothy Kramer, Jerrie Martha McAnnally, Mary Lou McCall, Mary Moseley, Emily Pearce, Jane Reagan, Janice Simmons, Jean Story, and Nancy Vale.

Kappa Delta

A desert motif was carried out in the decorations and favors at the banquet held in the Floridan hotel, Saturday night.

The sorority colors of blue and grey were effectively used in carrying out the desert with the programs and place cards in the shape of the Kappa Corsages of blue roses and silver leaves were presented the honor guests.

Pledges of this sorority are Marie Theos, Margaret Patterson, Dorothy Barr, Mary Alice Alpha O'Neal, Williamette Green, Barbara Reed, Louise Reed and Isabel Schowe.

The sorority also entertained with a breakfast at tea during which the patrons and friends of the pledges were invited to meet the new pledges.

Kappa Delta

Honoring the pledges the members of the Kappa Delta sorority entertained with a pledge banquet Sunday night at the Dutch Kitchen.

The sorority colors, green and white, were employed in the floral decorations of the banquet table. Compacts with the letters K. D. were presented each of the pledges.

Girls who have pledged Kappa Delta are Peggy Alvis, Martha Ballenger, Mary Alice Clifford, Anne Cone, Mary Catherine Edwards, Emma Elebash, Elsie Insram, Harriet Kent, Virginia LaMotte, Jeanne Lundell, Alice Miles, Helen Murphy, Vonelle McClooky, Josephine Newton, Anita Peek, June Quina, Margaret Robinson, Mary Ruth Sapp, Ora Simmons, Pearl Turnbull, Clifton VanBrunt, Martha VanBrunt, Lavine Voss, Suzanne Weaver and Hilma Young.

Sigma Kappa

The theme of the annual Sigma Kappa pledge banquet held last Friday night in the Floridan hotel was a treasure hunt. Place cards were small inscribed ships with key clues. The favors of small nautical pins and clips were hidden on "desert islands." Small chests filled with candy were presented each girl.

Sigma Kappa pledges are Kitty Benson, Nagel Donegan, Edith Ott, Phyllis Parramore, Adelaide Ruth Mary Catherine Smith, Virginia Sullivan, and Mary Wallace.

Alpha Chi Omega

The Alpha Chi Omega pledges were entertained with a breakfast Sunday morning in the Dutch Kitchen.

A "Back to School" motif was carried out with the place cards being small school boxes filled with boxes of Alpha Chi Omega stationery.

Pledges of this sorority are: Sara Frances Blackwell, Ruth Brooks, Alberta Lloyd, Alice Lloyd, Camille Mullon, Louise Taylor and Elizabeth Ann Wells.

Delta Zeta

Honoring their pledges the members of the Delta Zeta sorority entertained last Wednesday night with a formal banquet in the Floridan hotel.

The sorority colors, rose and green, were carried out in the decorations with pink roses, the sorority flowers, arranged in a centerpiece on the table. Chromium bookends were presented as mementoes of the occasion.

The pledges are: Kathryn Davis, Karolyn Patterson, and Charlotte Haws.

Other Sororities

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority is planning a dance honoring their College Faculty And Staff Are Honored With Lawn Party

The annual reception given by Dr. Edward Conradi and Miss Louise Conradi honoring the faculty and staff of Florida State College for Women was held September 26 on the west lawn of Gilchrist hall.

Daily colored lights illuminated the lawn where the guests were greeted by Miss Anna Mae Tracy and Miss Maude Flowers. Introducing the receiving line was Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students.

Assisting in receiving the guests were Mrs. Melanie Turner, Miss Kathrine Hill, and members of the college executive council and their wives. Members of the council include Dean W. O. Dodd, Dean M. Salley, Dean M. Gaillard, Dr. Thomas Ella Hoole Opperman, Elmer S. Smith, J. G. Lindhum, Dr. Frank Pierce Hixon, Andrews, and S. R. Doyle.

Punch was served during the afternoon by Mrs. Ben Denham, Miss Ida Rowan, Miss Mamie Anderson, Mrs. Lelia Hamilton, Mrs. Lolis Wimberly, and Mrs. Margaret Saynor.

KAT'S Entertain New House Mother With Formal Reception

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained last night with a reception in honor of their new house mother, Mrs. Laura F. McMullen.

Present in the reception line were Dr. Jennie Till, Mrs. Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Mildred Pinkston and Mrs. Laura F.

The house was decorated in a flower motif and refreshments of punch, cakes and sandwiches, served during the evening.

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority are: Clarice Sanders, Mary Veach, Dorothy Barr, Marjorie Horton, Patricia Hamilton, Helen Donaldson, Catherine Mary Quaser, berry, Mary Ennels, Barbara Hamilton, Mary Schmidlin, Kitty Craney, Margaret Rudy, Mary Lee Hopkins, Lilian Burford, Virginia Hamilton, Mary Frances Champ bell, Bank Woods, and Mary Ann Hills.

4-H Club to Give Tea Honoring Freshmen

The 4-H club, sponsored by Miss Anna Mae Rikes, will give a tea tomorrow afternoon, from four-thirty to six in Broward clubroom, honoring all freshmen.

Margaret Alford, chairman of the program committee, has arranged a series of lectures featuring members of the faculty and the Sunday night at the Dutch Kitchen.

The club plans to meet every fourth Thursday.

The officers are: president, Margaret Delaney; vice-president, Elsie Barrett; second vice-president, Alma Schultz; secretary, Geraldine Meyers; assistant secretary, Loreta Lorenz, and treasurer, Opal Walker.

Members this year are: Lucille Hudson, Albert Austin, Doris Jones, Gwendolyn Leavins, Lincoln Thompson, Mary Frances Pemberlin, Christine Harris, Willyne Young, Hansford Lee, Josephine Rish, Beatrice McDonald, Dixie Lippencott, Agnes Vincent, Donna Hasley, Lizella Kratt, Marjorie Presnell, Mary Lillian McConnell, Edna Sims, Lois Behrens, Dorothy Emerson, Roberta Bronon, Ruth Sanderson, Geraldine Albritton, Marie Byrne, Thelma Ham, Laura McCaughan, Beatrice Arnold, Shirley Dale, Mary Carpenter, and Mamie Ruth Baggett.

Pledges which will take place next month. The pledges are Pamella Adams, Grace Anderson, Jean Bennett, Betty Bowden, Virginia Bunting, Mildred Durst, Gayle Gaithright, Eileen Gill, Betty Graves, Marian Grinnell, Reva Hemphill, Maxine Hopkins, Frances Milton, Betty Munson, Mary Ann Nolan, Billy Pearson, Mary Nell Pope, Billy Rawls, Frances Scarbrough, Jean Schreiber, Martha Sherman, Kathryn Sullivan, Eleanor White, and Elizabeth Margee.

The Beta Phi Alpha sorority will entertain one night this week with a banquet for their pledges at the Dutch Kitchen. Gladys Holdsworth, Alicia Sierra, Mabel Sutton and Mary Wynn.

Also entertaining in the near future will be the Delta Phi Epsilon sorority whose pledges are Margaret Benjamin, Natalie Macklin, Ruth Silverberg, Alice Lippman, Kathryn Kass, Muriel Black, Shirley Ross, Lee Peifenbaum, Rosalie Fuinberg, Lillian Fleet, Frances Gold, Jeanette Rosenfield, Jeanne Manches, Jennie Sterzer, Marjorie Herbert, Tepper and Clara Trubnik.

Tallahassee Cafe
107 East College
STEAK DINNERS OUR SPECIALTY

SOCIAL COMMITTEE TO INAUGURATE PROGRAM OF INFORMAL WEEKLY TEAS

Beginning October 12, the social committee is inaugurating a program of weekly teas to be given in all of the dormitory parlors for the purpose of giving students a chance to become better acquainted with the girls living in their dormitory.

Students are to attend the teas given in their own halls and may invite faculty members as the honor guests. Girls living off campus are invited to any of the dormitories.

These informal affairs will be held each Tuesday in Gilchrist and Broward, Wednesday in Byran and Reynolds, and Thursday in Jennie Murphree, from 4:00 to 5:30 o'clock.

Hostesses in the dormitories will be: Marion Carse, and Helen Rex, Willie Cantrell, chadwick Mcleod, Lucinda Patterson, Frederica Roberts, Jane Crallo, and Kathryn Todd.

Newman Club Honors Catholic Freshmen At Informal Tea

Honoring Catholic freshmen the Newman club entertained with an informal afternoon tea in Broward lounge Wednesday, September 23, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Late autumn flowers were used in vases and bowls to decorate the lounge for this event. During the afternoon assorted cookies and punch were served to the guests who called on the freshmen.

Receiving the guests were officers of the club including: the Rev. William Cantwell, chaplain; Clotilde O'Rourke, president; Angelina Grillo, secretary; Elias Beth Lounds, recording secretary; Margaret Crain Miller, corresponding secretary; Marie Joffre, treasurer, and Jane Quinn, parliamentarian.

Girl Discusses Year of Study At University

Music Student Compares Rules at Columbia With Florida's

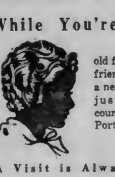
Margaret Meiner, who has just returned to Florida State College for Women for a year's work after a stay at Columbia university, finds it rather difficult to compare the two schools.

The collegiate atmosphere which exists here is lacking at Columbia for various reasons. The school is run on a larger scale and little time is left for the student activities which we enjoy.

The Columbia campus is divided into numerous sections, each of which is almost a school within itself. The buildings are all very modern and equipped with the latest conveniences. Every department in the school is rather interesting. It is situated on Amsterdam avenue, between Morningside and Riverside drive. Though it occupies a goodly number of New York blocks, little space is given to dormitories and the majority of the students commute to the university, some of them from nearby beaches, while others live in rooms from apartments where they keep house for themselves.

The Columbia library uses the same system as is used here it is much larger and more completely equipped than ours. In spite of this fact it is used for only part of the work for a good deal of required material must be got from the stacks.

Margaret's account of the student life is enough to bring forth a sigh or two from the envious set. There are no rules concerning smoking and drinking as students living in the dormitory must be in at a certain hour each week night, they are allowed unlimited week-ends off and as for drinking, well, I guess there are numerous fraternities and sororities, all of which sponsor dances throughout the year.



"Don't get the idea from this that students at Columbia do not take their work seriously," said Margaret. "On the contrary, they are exceptionally mature for their age and all seem determined to make the most of their opportunities. Cutting classes is an unheard-of thing as students realize that they can't cut and still do their work well." After a slight pause, she added, with a touch of bitterness in her voice, "They come to the music recitals—every one of them!"

New Education Program Takes Definite Form

Continued from page one

may begin specialization much earlier. By taking achievement tests the student who can show a thorough knowledge of the subject matter of any course may be exempt and use the time thus old friends at home and new friends, too, will appreciate a new portrait of you. Not just any photograph, of course, but a Personality Portrait by Pike's Studio.

While You're in College

A Visit is Always Appreciated

PIKE'S STUDIO
317 West College Phone 1315

Flowers Speaker Before Freshmen

Explains "Art of Living Together" Thursday

"The Art of Living Together" was the subject of a talk given Thursday morning in freshman class meeting by Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls.

Miss Flowers emphasized the fact that friendships and the ability to get along with other people "constitute the difference between learning and refinement, between information and culture, between knowledge and social power."

Although friendship should be a fully mutual relationship, said the speaker, a friend who strives harder to be understood than to understand will never be satisfied with his friends. In a true friend must know how both to give and to receive freely and graciously.

Miss Flowers gave the following rules compiled by Dr David Mitchell, psychologist, for getting along with others:

"1. Learn that human conduct is caused.

"2. Watch exactly what the other fellow does when you say what you do; in other words, study without prejudice or emotion how he reacts to your behavior.

"3. Deliberately overestimate the value and importance of the other fellow's point of view.

"4. Be sure yourself and do not try to play a dramatic part or put on airs or be somebody else.

"5. Don't try to get along with other people if you have to carry old grudges.

"7. Remember if you interfere with other people's impulses, responses, you are going to set up irritations.

"7. Remember bright people must learn to listen and be patient with slower people.

"8. Learn to compare yourself favorably and honestly with other people."

"The whole business of getting along with others," said Miss Flowers in conclusion, "goes to the heart of the process of manners; and manners go to the very core of a man's philosophy. They embody his conception of the amenities and values of social intercourse. They are the outward expression of his feelings for the rights of others. Manners is the mirror in which everyone shows his image."

Two New Courses Give Instruction In Music And Family Functions

Two four hour courses, one in home and one in music appreciation never before offered here have been included in the curriculum for 1936-37, according to S. R. Doyle, registrar. Both of these are introductory and are open to

GELBERG'S
COMPLETE STORE FOR LADIES
COLLEGE AVENUE

For Smart Wearing Apparel at Prices You Can Pay!

DRESSES
—for—
STREET AFTERNOON EVENING
$5.95 - $16.95

NEW FALL COATS
Cloth and Fur with and without Fur Trim.
$10.95 to $19.50

Smart Fall Footwear
All Styles . . . All Heels.
All Sizes.
$2.96 - $6.00

Campus and Street Oxfords
$2.95 and $3.95

Welcom FSCW!
Drop in and See Our Smart Line of Shoes
BROWNBILT Shoe Store

Your first Nelly Don fall wool

The experienced hand of Nelly Don gives a tailored elegance to this woven dot wool. Cut with skill, made with the "just-right" Nelly Don fit, this frock looks much more than 10.95

The Vogue

Girls Suffer Under Burden Of Saturdays

Leisure of Former Years Replaced by Regime Of Activities

Saturday classes! For most, the name of our college conjures; for some, a way to fill up an empty week-end. Instead of sleeping late and spending a leisurely morning cleaning up rooms and answering the correspondence which has piled up over the week, students fill the dining room for breakfast, and a book replaces the broom.

In former years, Friday noon was the signal for the end of the school week for many girls. Now, it is just another social preceding classes, classes, and more classes. This new schedule means little or nothing to freshmen, as they have never known the sweets of Friday faced with two days of fun free. The more thought sends a thrill of happy remembrances up the chutes of upperclassmen.

One senior reports that she woke up in a cold chill that Friday after realizing that she had not prepared a single assignment for her four classes. Her next door neighbors slept through their classes thus taking care of many of their most jealously hoarded cuts. This will make some future week-end much shorter, chilling thought.

Friday is no longer a week-end night. Dating privileges have not changed, it is true, but who feels equal to the strain of staying up a whole hour longer than usual? Freshmen must use an extra sixty minutes for studying, which is probably one of the salutogenous points from this school week is not finished, there is more incentive than formerly, when 'Oh, 'tl study in the morning,—anyway' is a thing of the remark. Play Night is not quite so well attended, and the various fountains that are the joy of the usual week night crowd about light-flash time. Men are a little all students of the college with out prerequisites.

The first is music 141. will comprise a consideration of the elements of music with their practical application to the study of composers and their reactions to life's activities. Emphasis is laid the relation of performers with instrumental, vocal, and orchestral compositions.

Home economics 186 is designed to acquaint the student with the purposes and functions of the home and family in modern society. A study will be made of such factors in successful living as budgeting and spending, and utilizing leisure time, and including the current standards of efficiency through proper nutrition and tasteful habits of dress and adornment.

scarcer until Saturday afternoon, which is a good thing for many. Informal dress and the least dash of make-up, hair stiffened and rolled into curls are more noticeable.

Perhaps the greatest effect is on the library. From the morning drove of parallel-seekers is later in separating, and somewhere remains there all afternoon. There is not so much demand on fiction as during the week time for recreational reading. The freshmen have but the former Friday afternoon grouch, but have relieved an increase in the Saturday attendance.

Perhaps, however, Saturday classes may prove a boon to the man-struck girl who has only another "boy-friendless" week-end in which to look forward. Yes, the boys from Gainesville have companions for the day and they no longer have to bear up under their academic burdens alone.

Playwriting Contest Is Open to Students

To all college dramatists the Bureau of New Plays has opened a playwriting contest with not only six prizes of $500 each and a number of fellowships and scholarships attached, but also with the actual production of a Broadway stage production promised.

The contest, which has four weeks to go, is open to all undergraduates and those who have graduated or left college in the past three years. Each script submitted must be accompanied by a recommendation from the head of the dramatic or the English department of the author's college or university. Manuscripts should be addressed to the Bureau of Plays, Inc., 1270 Sixth Avenue, New York city.

Many Students Get Positions

Others Continue Studies In Graduate Schools Over Country

Ninety-two per cent of the two hundred thirty-eight members of the 1936 graduating class of Florida State College for Women have been placed in positions by the college placement bureau, while many others are continuing their studies in graduate universities.

Dr. Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel and of the placement bureau, stated that this record tops placement records of all universities and colleges in the United States.

Seventy-six per cent of the grad uates in the school of education have already been placed and although the complete list will not be available until November first, the following information concerning last year's graduates has been given.

Sara Hoss is teaching English in Miami; and Martha Reddick teaches English in Chattahoochee. Valerie Stubbs is instructor in English and Latin in Williston. Marie Herold is in Miccosukee teaching the same subjects, and Mary Claiborne Dremen is in Palatka teaching English and Science.

Mathematics teachers include Minna Dunn, who is in Ponce de Leon, Virginia Cromartie, who teaches in Dunnellon; Nancy Williams, who teaches in Melbourne; and Lilian Turlington, who teaches mathematics and Latin in Alachua.

Katheryn Barrs and Nadia Grainger are substituting in Jacksonville Grainger, while Margaret Graham is a substitute in Tampa schools.

Margaret K. Wilson is art instructor in Cross City and Edith Kennard teaches art in Sarasota.

Jane Tambaugh is instructor in physical education and science in Manatee, Janet Griffitts teaches physical education in Cross City; Caroline Alton has a position in Winter Haven teaching physical education and science; while Mildred Emmelhainz teaches physical education in Ponce de Leon.

Ruth McAnulty teaches in the grade schools in Panama City.

Clarizelle O'Steen teaches in Zephyrhills, and Anne Leigh Rolins teaches at Cherry Lake Farms.

Mary Etta Thatcher is a tutor in this campus as an assistant in the Latin department. She is also working in the social director's office in Bryan Hall.

Betty Brooks teaches commerce in Pensacola, and Betty Aken teaches science in Orlando.

Katherine Blood is taking graduate work at Columbia University. Lucy Gee Linn is studying at Western Reserve. Yvette Breaux is studying at Duke University. Dessie McKenzie is doing graduate work at Washington University, and Emily Johnson is studying in Pasadena, California.

Edith Webb and Laura Mathis are doing social case work in Jacksonville, and Carey Parabee is in social welfare work in Tampa.

Anita Jones is working in the registrar's office at the University of Florida, and Barbara Crosland is working in the general college office at the University of Florida.

New Home Demonstration Agent to Replace Miss Gleason in Work Here

The state home demonstration staff met this past week with Miss Mary E. Keown, recently appointed state home demonstration agent here.

One of its most important duties was to make appointments in the five newly organized counties, Madison Hardee, Sumter, Gilchrist and Putnam. The organization of the home demonstration work in this state indicates the rapid trend toward increasing activity in home demonstration work in this state. Several other counties are planning make the arrangements to establish the work soon

During the week of October 19, the agricultural extension service staff, both county and state, will meet at the University of Tallahassee in Gainesville for their annual conference.

The college 4-H club, an increasingly active organization on campus, is also under the guidance of Miss Keown, and it is the policy of the office of home demonstration work to aid the 4-H clubs on campus whenever possible.

Miss Flavia Gleason, who served as state home demonstration agent for the past thirteen years, 1923-1936, was married to Henry M. Mims of Natchitoches, Louisiana, September 12. Miss Keown, who was district agent for nine years, 1927-1936, in the east Florida district, was appointed as her successor on September 15.

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

Religious Year Opens Tonight

Churches Plan Varied Entertainments

The programs planned for the opening school year by the various church groups represented on campus will begin tonight with a party given by each group for the freshmen of their denominations.

The Baptist party will be in the form of a banquet at Rugg hall. Special guests to be present are The Right Rev. Frank A. Juhan, D.D. Mrs. Frank A. Juhan, The Right Rev. John D. Wing, D.D. Mrs John D. Wing, The Rev. W. J. Alfriend, Mrs. W. J. Alfriend, The Rev. Ambler M. Blackwell, Mrs. Ambler M. Blackwell, Dr. Edward Conrad, Miss Olivia Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers, Sallie and Mrs. A. Maconius Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Lewis, Mrs. Elisabeth Cobb, Miss Louise Lange, and Rev. Hamilton West.

The party will consist of speeches by both bishops, a musical program by Rugg hall, and a welcome speech by Miss Julia Tutwiler, director of young people's activities.

The Methodists will give a reception at the home on the college lawn. Music and other forms of entertainment will be arranged for the occasion.

The theme of the Presbyterian party will be a tin-can tourist party. Supper will be served and be held at the church, and a "filling station" representing coffee will be served at the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Caldwell's home. Guests are to come dressed in rags.

Tomorrow morning at 7:30 a Holy Communion will be held at Rugg hall to the Episcopal faculty members by the student vestry. The Right Rev. Frank A. Juhan and The Right Rev. John D. Wing will be breakfast guests.

Some of the church groups are planning to spend week-ends at Camp Flastacowo. On October 16 and 17 the Presbyterians will hold a retreat for the junior and senior young people's groups, thirty in number. Also the council plan to take students as well. Tomorrow night at the Methodist freshman plan to go to camp.

October 18 will be affiliation day for students of all denominations. At this time students will be given a chance to affiliate with the local churches for the duration of their stay in Tallahassee.

Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Methodist student director, has announced that the leader for Religious Emphasis Week, which will begin October 31 and end November 3, will be Dr. W. A. Smart, professor of Bible at Emory university. Dr. Smart specializes in young people's work.

At the beginning of the school year the Presbyterian student council issued to all new students a manual entitled "A Little Presbyterian Blue Book for F.S.C.W. Freshmen." This book contained a message from Miss Rachel Wyble, the student director; a list of the senior and junior council members; a program of the church services; and a section on "Some Thoughts Worth Repeating to Your Roommate." The Presbyterian council is also planning to issue a bi-monthly news sheet.

Physical Education Majors Total Forty; New Students Feted

The total number of gym majors enrolled in the Physical Education department this year is forty. Of this number eighteen are freshmen.

The upperclassmen gym majors gave a party at Camp Flastacowo last Saturday afternoon and Sunday for the freshmen and transfers who are newly enrolled in the department, and for the three new physical education instructors, Miss Emma Hurd, Miss Ray A. Frazier, and Miss Ruth Lehman.

The gym majors, who dress in white in order to be distinguished from the other students at the gym are required to assist their instructors in the various physical education classes This year, in addition to their other work in the department, three of the gym majors are assisting in the work of the physical education department of the demonstration school

Alumnae Clubs Plan Full Year

College to Be Publicized Throughout State Again in March

The college alumnae association has planned a varied program of activities for the 1936-37 term.

Foremost among the alumnae projects is the third annual Florida State College for Women Week, scheduled March 1-8. During this week faculty members of the colleges will address civic and women's clubs over the state on topics which the clubs themselves will choose. In past years the speakers have talked on such subjects as the various phases of college activities. Initial plans for the week were made this summer by the faculty committee in co-operation with the administrative executive committee of the Alumnae association.

Another project which will be undertaken this year is "alumnae college," a week-end set aside in honor of the alumnae alone. Lectures, music recitals, and other entertainments are being arranged for the alumnae who plan to attend.

A definite program of activities will be carried on this year among the twenty-one Florida State College Alumnae clubs. Tentative plans are now being made.

The program planned for the Alumnae association for the current year include special work for undergraduates who participate in students in the college and the alumnae association, a finance committee for "alumnae college," and Mrs. Frances T. Johnston of Tallahassee, is chairman of the committee for participation in the annual session of the Women's Institute; the sponsoring of an alumnae bulletin board on the campus; the revision and revision of the constitution and by-laws of the association.

Mrs. E. L. Breeon, of Groveland, president of the alumnae association has appointed the following committees to head the various projects for the current term:

Committee on undergraduate interests is composed of Miss Maude Flowers, chairman; Mrs. Lucy E. Miller, Miss Katherine Montgomery, Miss Mary Etta Thatlethwaite, Miss Charlotte Bechtel Pritchard and Mrs. Selwyn Chalker, of Lake City.

Committee on activities for alumnae clubs is Miss Nina McAdam, chairman, Miami, Mrs. Bechtel Pritchard, Tampa, Miss Nancy Lutz, Jacksonville; Miss Lorraine Stubbs, Petersburg; Mrs. Burton Amers, Gainesville; Miss Charlotte Chase, Miami; Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Pensacola, and Miss Margaret Pace, Miami.

Committee on finance: Mrs. Clara R. Hayden, chairman; Miss Sallie Williams, Miss Olga Larson, Miss Bechtel Pritchard and Miss Velma Cotten, all of Tallahassee.

Faculty play committee: Miss Elizabeth Thomson, chairman; Miss Eleanor Mizell, Mrs. Evelyn W. Henry of Tallahassee.

Printing committee: Mrs. R. H. Leslie, chairman; Miss Lillian Cross, Miss Sallie Nicholson and Miss Rowena Longmire, Tallahassee.

By-laws revision committee: Miss Dorothy Dodd, chairman, Tallahassee, Mrs. J. P. Ashmore, Graceville; Miss Katherine Byrd, Tallahassee; Miss Rowena Dumond, Coral Gables, and Miss Miriam Perrell, Tallahassee.

Miss Katherine Warren of Tallahassee, is chairman of the committee for "alumnae college," and Mrs. Frances T. Johnston of Tallahassee, is chairman of the committee for participation in the Women's Institute. Mrs. R. H. Leslie is chairman of the finance committee.

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, appointed Miss Anna May Tracy, chairman; Dr. Olivia Dorman, Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Ruth Schornherst, Miss Florence Tyron, and Mrs. R. H. Leslie as the faculty committee to carry on the work of Florida State College for Women Week.

Few Freshmen Able To Pass Examination Tests In English and French

Exemption tests which were open to freshmen who had made a sufficiently high grade in the placement tests were given last week in Spanish, Latin, French, and English. Those who passed are exempt from taking the freshman course in that subject and may take the second year in the same course or some other subject.

Those freshmen who passed the English exemption test are as follows: Marjorie Beisel, Dot Carruthers, Mary Henry, Nancy Horney, Lalia Iverson, Harriet Kent, Alice S an Miles, Frances Moss, Ruth Pettigrew, Beverly Roser, Gladys Silvender, Mary Vargove, Lollie Stella Watrous and Bettie Young

Those passing the French exemption test were: Dot Caruthers, Eleanor Miller Mary Anne Noland, and Frances Slade.

No students were exempt from taking Spanish and Latin.

New Committees Are Made Known

Faculty Groups for Year Named by Conradi

This year's faculty committees appointed by President Edward Conradi were announced last week:

Admission: Mr. Stewart, chairman; Messrs Becker, Doyle, Smith; Misses Briley, Sivyer; Mrs. Hay.

Curriculum: Miss Lester, chairman; Misses Briley, Dreiberg, Montgomery, Opperman, Sandels, Stevenson, Wilburn, Messrs. Cottrill, Dodd, Doyle, Eyman, Painter, Moore, Richards, Rogers, and Vance.

Graduate work: Mr. Pinner, chairman; Messrs. DeGraff, Diffenbaugh, Cuhi, Lewis, Misses Briley, Burks and Connor.

Honors work: Mr. Kurt, chairman; Messrs. Eyman, Hamilton; Misses Abbey, Andrews, Disher and Larson.

Library: Mr. Dodd, chairman; Misses Liddell, Richardson, Sandels; Messrs. Bellamy and Salley.

Student affairs: Miss Dorman, chairman; Messrs. Diffenbaugh, Dodd, Eyman, Smith, Waskom; Misses Dreiney, Longmire, Shores and Till.

Student publications: Mr. Richards, chairman; Palmbeu; Mr. Vance, chairman; Mr. Diffenbaugh and Miss Moore. Distaff: Mr. Richards, chairman; Miss Stevenson and Miss Henry. Flaccowo: Miss Richardson, chairman, Miss Richey and Miss Thrush.

Tests and examinations. Mr. DeGraff, chairman; Misses Abbey Andrews, Burks; Messrs. Diffenbaugh, Doyle and Richards.

Athletics: Miss Montgomery, chairman; Misses Larson, White; Messrs. Kurs, Lewis, Moore and Waskom.

Commencement: Mr. Rogers, chairman; Misses Dreiney, Pinner; Messrs. Cowles and DeGraff.

Cooperation with the alumnae: Miss Tracy, chairman; Misses Dorman, Krown, Longmire, Richardson, Schornherst, Tyron; Mrs. Leslie.

Publicity: Mr. Vance, chairman; Messrs. Cowles, Kellum; Mrs. Lester, secretary.

Recitals, plays and art exhibits: Miss Opperman, chairman; Mesdames Buford, Williams; Misses Dorman, Moore and Wburn.

Scholarships and student help: Miss Andrews, chairman; Messrs. Doyle, Kellum, Miss Tracy.

Sororities: Miss Stevenson, chairman; Misses Dorman, Flowers, Lester, Venable and Young; Miss Warren, secretary.

Student health: Doctor White, chairman; Doctor Moor; Misses Andrews, Dewbrey Dorman, Graham and Montgomery.

Nursery school committee are: Council Miss Andrews, chairman; Messrs. Pinner and Salley; Miss Sandels, and supervisory committee: Miss Andrews, chairman; Misses Bean, Connor and Disher.

128 Graduate During Summer

Summer Session Features Lecture Series And Short Course

Eight hundred seventeen students were enrolled in the Florida State college co-educational summer session this year.

The events of the 23rd session of summer school were climaxed by the graduation of 128 students in August.

Among the students seeking graduation were two pursuing a masters degree, fifty-four after a four-year degree, and seventy-two who were completing the two-year course in education.

Several short courses were given including those offered by the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, the Florida home demonstration council, the Florida council of Parents and Teachers and the Florida State College Alumnae association.

Other features of the session were play nights held in the gymnasium; return to faculty members; guest speakers, among whom appeared Dean Nathaneal N Sawyer of the School of Education; Dr. H. F. Richards of the department of Education, and Miss Abbey of the department of his-

Science Confirms the Truth of the Popular Phrase
"For Digestion's Sake . . . Smoke Camels"

WHETHER your meal is a banquet or a sandwich, a Camel gives it more zest. Scientists have found that Camels gently stimulate the flow of the digestive fluids . . . alkaline digestive fluids . . . necessary for good digestion. Worry and nervousness interfere with this flow. Camels increase it! With their finer, cooler tobaccos, Camels give mildness a new meaning. And they have a matchless flavor all their own!

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

WHEN WASHINGTON DINES. The Presidential Room, main restaurant of the Mayflower Hotel, presents a memorable scene as famous men . . . beautifully gowned women . . . diplomats and statesmen gather. The famous Mayflower kitchens perform a service of exacting skill. And from table after table the fragrant smoke of Camels rises. Commenting on the preference for Camels at the Mayflower, the famous maitre d'hôtel, Fred, says: "Our cosmopolitan clientele prefer Camels."

ROARING WIDE OPEN as constant vibration hammers at his throat nerves, says Ernie Smoky, Jr., (above), says: "Camels make food taste better and help me get the good out of what I eat. Camels set me right!"

FIRE-CHIEF Frank Gillies (above) forgets about food and rest till the last spark is out. He says: "Camels put back into easing the joy that nervous strain takes out of it."

HOLLYWOOD RADIO TREATS Camel cigarettes bring you a FULL HOUR'S ENTERTAINMENT! Two great orchestras, a glamorous Hollywood Guest Stars. Tuesday—9:30 pm E.S.T., 8:30 pm C. S. T., 7:30 pm M. S. T., 6:30 pm P. S. T., WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

LONG ASSIGNMENTS call for increased mental effort. Camels help you with their cheering lift.

Enjoy Camels, too, for their aid to digestion. Camels never jangle your nerves or tire your taste.

YWCA Sponsors First Retreat

Committees Make Plans For New Year, Hear Four Speakers

Forty students attended the first retreat sponsored by the Young Women's Christian association at Camp Flastacowo last week-end. Y. W. C. A. plans for the coming year were discussed and new projects were outlined.

The meeting opened Saturday afternoon with a short devotional led by Polly Eveleth. Dr. Alma Forbes Lodzki then explained the purpose of the retreat in the following summarized form:

"To get entirely away from college environment so as to devote all efforts to the Y. W. C. A. program.

"To thoroughly complete and finish a written record of all plans.

"To bring our feet back to earth: too much of the time we walk on pavement."

The general purpose of the Y was presented by Janice Brewer, president of the organization. In her talk she included the national movement and the Y. W. C. A. member's relation to it.

Dr. Ralph L. Eyman spoke on the "Need for Christian Living in Present Day Situations" and showed how present day living individually and in general, is unchristian.

Dr. Paul F. Pinner then discussed the "Modern Use of the Bible in Present Day Living" and how it is necessary to continually keep building one's life and character.

All the Y. W. C. A. plans for the year were presented to the group. This included reports of the membership, teasers, morning worship, social service, church, playground, finance and building committees.

Following the Sunday morning worship service led by Dora Heinz Baggott, a round table discussion on the subject of the "Essentials of Personal Christian Living" was conducted by Katherine Todd.

The last measure of the day was given by Mr R. D. Miller on the subject "Principles and Ethics of Jesus."

SPARKS
STATE
PHONE 180
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
AMERICA'S GREATEST DANCING TEAM IN THEIR FRED ASTAIRE and GINGER ROGERS
in
"SWING TIME"
with
HORACE HEIDT and His BROADCASTING BRUNSWICKERS
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
Helen Hunt Jackson's Immortal Romance
Loretta Young
in RAMONA
with
DON AMECHE
ERNEST TAYLOR
Pauline FREDERICK
Kent TAYLOR
Katherine DeMILLE
—TUESDAY—
LAUGH OF THE GARDEN SPOT!
DON'T TURN 'EM LOOSE
with BOB BURNS
—WEDNESDAY—
JAMES DUNN
in
TWO FISTED GENTLEMAN
—THURSDAY—
Joel McCrae - J. Bennett
"TWO IN A CROWD"

Hear Mrs. McCollum Speak At Chapel Tuesday

The Florida Flambeau

Let's Try Out For Odd-Even Demonstrations

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, October 9, 1936 NUMBER TWO

Mrs. McCollum To Be Speaker During Chapel

College to Take Part In Human Security Week Observance

FORMER STUDENT WILL COME HERE

Governor Dave Sholtz Appoints Conradi On Committee

As part of the state observance of Human Security week, October 13 to 17, Mrs. J. W. McCollum, of Gainesville, will address the students and faculty of Florida State college in convocation Tuesday morning.

By proclamation this week has been set aside for this purpose by Governor Dave Sholtz, who has appointed a committee of thirty-six citizens of the state to plan and help carry out the program. Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, is one of these members.

Program Planned

The program for the week will include addresses before various groups in all sections of the state, radio broadcasts, newspaper releases, posters and other methods of reaching the general public.

Three members of the college faculty will address civic clubs, parent-teacher associations and church organizations next week in Tallahassee and nearby cities as a part of the observance. They are Cozie E. Moore, president of the Florida conference of Social Work and also a member of the state board of social welfare; Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department, and Dr. R. L. Lyman, professor of economics. Dr. Moore is also associate professor sociology.

State Will Decide

In the general election of November 3, the people of Florida will decide whether they will spend the state consideration appropriated for social security, including unemployment compensation, public assistance benefits of old age pension, aid for the blind and mothers' aid.

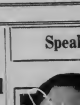
"It is hoped," the proclamation states, "that the people will vote to accept these benefits—what they are and how they will be secured and administered—will be brought before the public, and the needs of the aged, the blind and the dependent children explained. If the constitution is amended in the November election, the proclamation further explains, the state will be able to secure matching funds from the federal government for any social security benefits to those needy people.

Further plans of the Human Security committee will be explained by Mrs. McCollum on the

Continued on page two

Sororities Hear Dorman Address

Dean Speaks at Meeting Of Panhellenic



In an informal talk addressed to the members of the Panhellenic association Monday evening, Dean Olivia M. Dorman urged the new sorities social scorities on campus to adhere closely to the high ideals which they stand.

Tracing the history of the pioneer sorority, Dean Dorman stated that they had established ideals which were followed during the early days of Greece. It was a high honor to belong to one of the orders, and the initiated members seemed set apart from the rest.

"One of the common faults of many organizations of today is that too much emphasis is placed on the glorification of the group. The sorority should strive to aid the individual in developing her talents to the end in order that she may cultivate a well-rounded personality," said Miss Dorman.

"The new sororities should be encouraged to participate in campus activities, but to do more than that is good for her both physically and mentally. Her academic work should not be pushed out of the picture by outside or extra-curricula interests," Dean Dorman said.

Dean Dorman concluded her speech by asking the sororities not to disappoint the idealists by falling short of the principals for which they should exist.

Speaker

Mrs. J. W. McCollum, Gainesville, who will be the speaker Tuesday morning at convocation. Mrs. McCollum who is a member of the state board of social welfare and a graduate of Florida State college is speaking as part of the state observance of Human Security week.

Andrews Talks About Choosing Of Vacation

Series of Lectures Will Be Presented During First Semester

"Choosing a Vocation' was the subject chosen by Dr. Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel, yesterday afternoon when she opened a series of ten talks which she has arranged to inform students about the fields of work and occupations open to women.

This series of talks will be given on Thursday afternoons during the first semester at 4:30 o'clock in 203 Administration building. Attendance is on a voluntary basis and any student may call for information or help in the selection of a vocation.

Dr. Andrews conducted the introductory meeting yesterday afternoon. Dr. Andrews gave the students a chance to orient themselves in preparation for meetings which they might wish to attend later in the series. She also told the students how to go about choosing a vocation.

"Get knowledge and experience before making your final choice," Dr. Andrews said. "Know yourself! Face the facts of your ability as determined by your achievement and tests. Are you financially able to make the required preparation? Have you the perseverance and industry necessary for success? Are you a specialist trained?

"Avoid too much advice from parents and friends. Don't choose a vocation because you admire someone in that field. Avoid letting your wagon to too high a star. The bush if you can't be a tree."

These were among the points brought out by Dr. Andrews.

"Choose a vocation for preservation because new occupations are constantly arising, and new specializations in old fields are also constantly arising. Study all fields in which you have interest. Get the information from those who have definite information about them. The library has good reference material. The vocational office can give you bibliographies. Vocational guidance meetings may help considerably.

"Get specific information such as: Does your personality suit you for preparation; cost of education; schools available for specialization and preparation; requirements; possibilities of advancement, positions open, remuneration, and where during the early days of Greece. It was a high honor to belong to one of the orders, and the initiated members seemed set apart from the rest.

"One of the common faults of many organizations of today is that too much emphasis is placed on the glorification of the group. The sorority should strive to aid the individual in developing her talents to the end in order that she may cultivate a well-rounded personality," said Miss Dorman.

"The new sororities should be encouraged to participate in campus activities, but to do more than that is good for her both physically and mentally. Her academic work should not be pushed out of the picture by outside or extra-curricula interests," Dean Dorman said.

Dean Dorman concluded her speech by asking the sororities not to disappoint the idealists by falling short of the principals for which they should exist.

Cowles Names Freshman For Concert Head

Sellers Directs Little Theatre Orchestra Again This Year

SYMPHONY WILL PERFORM TWICE

Many Radio Programs Anticipated Over Station WTAL

Florida State college's two orchestras, the symphony and the Little Theater, have been reorganized and practices began last week, Walter R. Cowles is director of the symphony orchestra while Owen F. Sellers is in charge of the Little Theatre group.

Julia Rosser, freshman from Jacksonville, was appointed concert-master at the first meeting of the symphony. Preparations for the two big concerts of the year, one December 15, and one in the spring, are underway.

Plan To Play For Plays

The year's work for the Theatre orchestra will play for all dramatic productions given in the Augusta Conradi Little Theater, including the annual Thanksgiving comedy and light opera selections to make up the repertoire. Presentation of several radio programs over WTAL are also anticipated.

Personnel Included

Personnel of the symphony orchestra includes:

Violins—Marjorie Tills, Marion Herbert, Jeanne Bell, Betty Baker, Betty Parker, Viola Evans, Betty Hatch, Sue Wicker, Eleanor Andrews, Bonnie Agnes Marr, Jan, Karolyn Patterson, Frances Pollard, Virginia Beverly Hann, Nancy Donna, Jean Hampton, Lelia Royce, Alice Proctor and Virginia Barber.

Violincellos — Gordon Epperson and Jane Bullock.

Violas—Annabelle Larson, Katherine Bacon, Evalyn Patterson and Mildred Barber.

Cellos — Marilin Wilkerson, Charlotte Yelth and Clara May Simmons.

Other Members

Clarinets—Eleanor Daniels, Nellie Dickerson, Dorothy Sawtelle and Jane Chandler.

Flute—Merryday Rosser.

Cornets—Carl Hettmansberger, Ed Trumpets—Mildred Heron and

Continued on page three

Demonstration Plans Started

Tillis and Asher Are In Charge of Odd-Even "Battle-Plays"

With the approach of Thanksgiving, plans are already being made for the Odd and Even demonstrations to be held during that week. Committees have been appointed by Phil Asher, chairman of the Odd committee and by Marjorie Tillis, in charge at Odd demonstrations.

Conferences with Phil on the script committee for the Evens are: Evelyn Phillips, Mary Livingston, Nellie Lamar, Minna Agnes, Ermine Lawence, Sarah Lee Wooten, Mary Hudson, Margaret Thompson, Viola Brooks, chairman. Those on the committee for BettyOuthand and Dot Hill as her assistants.

Dance committee chairmen include: Betty Bow and Eleanor Hutchinson, costumes; Lines, stage manager; Madge Glenn and Jane Lewis, music; Evelyn Fisher, publicity; Mary Loper, lighting; Mickey Coon, make-up; Lewis, ushering; Hilda Spradlin, Even table,; and Helen Daniels, Even color guard.

Try-outs for speaking parts will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 in the auditorium.

Serving with Marjorie for Odd demonstration are: Dede Asher, Eleanor Williams, Arline Gray Chenault, and Virginia Bell, script committee; and the following committee chairmen; Jo Binkley, costumes; Ellinger, dramatic adviser; Sarah Beth Davis, business manager; Polly Pitt, costumes; Mary Kathryn Gibson, programs; Maxine Ward, stage manager; Betty Harrison, properties; Dot McLeon, publicity; and Jean Clark, advertising.

Try-outs for Odd demonstration will be held in the auditorium today, Friday, from 3:30 to 5:30, and Saturday from 1:30 to 3:30.

108 Girls Come From Other Colleges To Attend FSCW

This Year's Enrollment Of Transfers Tops Last Year's Total

One hundred eight students from sixty-five other colleges located in eighteen various states and the District of Columbia are included in this year's enrollment at Florida State college. Seventy-seven students from other colleges were registered here a year ago.

The institution from which the "transfers" came are located within an area extending from the Atlantic on the east to San Antonio, Texas, in the west; Valley City, North Dakota, in the north, and Miami in the south. This group does not include Florida State college students who have attended other schools and returned. It does include students from this institution would extend over a much larger area, reaching from the Atlantic coast of Florida to the Pacific coast of California.

Names of the transfers and the college which they attended follow:

Eleanor Jane Andrews, St. Petersburg Junior college; Ruth Scott Atkinson, Alabama College for Women; University of Miami; Lois Behrens, Princeton, University of Miami; Marjorie Beisel, Tallahassee; Rollins college; Margaret Bell, Palmetto; Ringling Junior College and University of Florida; Mary Lou Bell, Miami; Dakota Central, Mandan; Mary Earle Berry, Tampa, University of Tampa; Margaret Boord, Duke University; Florida; Mrs. Bennie Melson Brannaman, Tallahassee; Rollins college; Edith Brown, Lyons, Ga., Georgia State Womans college; Mary Ella Brown, Tampa, University of Tampa; Edna Burnham Junior college; Beverly Burrows, Florence Cameron, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college.

Jessie Mae Cappleman, Winter Garden, Rollins college; Mrs. Mirabella Bernice Cason, Auburndale, Transylvania College, Lexington, Kentucky; Mrs. Mary Baldwin college; Lynn Ora Chadwick, Milton, University of Florida; Mary Virginia Christine Chitty, Wesleyan college; Mary Tallahassee, Tampa, University of Tampa; Mrs Annie B. Clay, Tallahassee, University; Claudia Crisler, Lloyd, Park college; Alpha Curry, Kansas City, Kansas, University of Missouri; Helen Dennis, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college; Ann Eastman, Lake City, Berea college; Emma Ehrbach, Pensacola, Pensacola Junior college; Mabel Fletcher, Pahokee, Florida State University; Mary Fossaze, Ward Belmont.

Margaret Gaston, DePunak Springs, Florida State College for Women; Leoline Gates, Coral Gables, University of Miami; Grace Gill, Tampa, Georgia State College for Women; Charles Gillis, DeFuniak Springs, Florida college; Farroncita Goodell, New Orleans, Tulane; Elspeth Griffin, Tampa, University of Tampa; Esther Marie Haessler, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college; Helen Hardee, Fernandina, Lander college; Mrs. Mary Hodges Hall, Tallahassee, State Teachers college; Daisy Harris, Jacksonville, Bessie Tift college; Georgene May Hart, Sanford, Stetson university; Mildred Hall, Decatur, Georgia, Agnes Scott college; Ruth Hoisman, St. Petersburg, State Normal college; Mrs. Ingerman, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach Junior college.

Elizabeth Jones, Brookville, Ky., University of Kentucky; Margaret Johnson, Jacksonville, St. Petersburg Junior college; Helen Dietitian

Continued on page two

Head Dietitian Goes to Boston

Miss Tracy Will Attend Dietetic Meeting

Miss Anna May Tracy, head dietitian at Florida State College for Women, left early Monday morning for Boston, Massachusetts, where she will attend the annual convention of the American Dietetic Association beginning Monday. She was accompanied by Miss Margaret Becker Sandels and Dr. Jennie Tilt.

Miss Tracy will speak on "Manuscript committee"; and the following committee chairmen; Jo Binkley, costumes; Ellinger, dramatic adviser; Sarah Beth Davis, business manager; Polly Pitt, costumes; Mary Kathryn Gibson, programs; Maxine Ward, stage manager; Betty Harrison, properties; Dot McLeon, publicity; and Jean Clark, advertising.

Try-outs for Odd demonstration will be held in the auditorium today, Friday, from 3:30 to 5:30, and Saturday from 1:30 to 3:30.

YWCA To Admit Freshmen Into Organization

Service Will Be Held In Auditorium Sunday After Supper

The annual Recognition service of the Young Women's Christian association, at which new members are admitted publicly to full rights of the organization, will take place Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

The new members of the last few years the program will be divided into two parts; the first which will take place in the auditorium and the second part which will be held around the fountain in front of the Administration building.

The old members will be seated in the side sections in the auditorium. The new members form lines in the hall outside where they are given unlighted candles.

The processional will be led by the cabinet members and the choir to the strains of "Lead Kindly Light" after which will be the choral call to worship and the Lord is in His Holy Temple." The vice-president will offer the prayer and the scripture.

New members are given their vows which is followed by the recessional leading to the fountain, where the candles are lit. The service is closed with the choir singing, "Brial Away."

All girls invited to attend whether or not participating in the initiation service participating are to wear white.

The sophomore council girls will usher.

Three Here Are In "Who's Who"

Conradi, Salley, Opperman Have Been Listed As Educators

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, Dr. Nathaniel Moss Salley, dean of the School of Religion, and Dr. Ralph Waldo Opperman, dean of the School of Music, have been listed in the 1937 edition of "Who's Who in America."

President Conradi received his education at Indiana university and Johns Hopkins university. He is honorary degree from Rollins college at Winter Park. He has been active he was superintendent of schools at Carlisle, Indiana, and from 1905 to 1910 principal of the Normal and Industrial school at St. Petersburg, Florida. He has been held the position of president of Florida State College for Women.

The various organizations of which Dr. Conradi is a member include National Education association, Association of College Presidents, and in Southern states, the American Geographical Society for Scientific Study of Education, Florida Historical society, and Florida State Chamber of Commerce. His contributions to magazines have been in the educational and educational topics.

Dean Salley attended the South Carolina Military academy at Charleston and later studied at Wofford college in Spartanburg, South Carolina, the University of Chicago, Columbia university, and the University of Wisconsin.

He has held the position of principal of the academy at Bamberg, superintendent of the city schools at Laurens, superintendent of the public schools of Greenwood, and has been professor of education and the dean of the Schools of Education at Florida State College for Women since 1919.

Dean Salley is a member of the National Association of Secretaries Teachers of Education, the Kappa Phi Kappa fraternity, an honorary committee for revision of curricula in the public schools of Florida.

Dean Opperman received her B. A. degree at Wesleyan and later received her artist diploma in piano and music at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She was the piano pupil of Jedlicka in Berlin, of Monskowski at Paris and Leschetizky at Vienna. At Paris for two years, and studied later under Godowsky and Philipp.

She became a member of po-

Continued on Page Six

Music Series Will Include Famed Artists

Gordon String Quartet Will Present First Concert Program

FAMOUS CELLIST WILL BE SECOND

Stueckgold and Frantz To Give Recitals Second Semester

Beginning in November with the Gordon string quartet this year's Artists Series, as announced by Ella Scobie Opperman, dean of the School of Music and chairman of the committee for the arrangement of the series, will include a Russian cellist, a Metropolitan soprano, a violinist, and possibly an organist and reader.

Quartet to Open

The Gordon String Quartet will open the series sometime between November 15 and December 15 concert was acclaimed by the Pittsburgh press as playing "by far the most distinguished chamber music heard since the Flonzaleys." The quartet is led by Jacques Gordon, first violin; and includes David Sackson, second violin; Milton Thomas, viola; and Naoum Benditzky, cellist.

Second Concert

Platigorsky, the great Russian cellist, will appear during the night of January 20. Platigorsky appeared last season with the Philadelphia Philharmonic - Symphony orchestra. Critics commented on his technique with "the greatest 'cellist of our day."

March 11, the committee will present Greta Stueckgold, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan opera company, and leading concert recital and radio star. She has sung with Beecham's Opera in Berlin before coming to the Metropolitan company. Stueckgold is considered both here and abroad as one of the most popular and successful sopranos now before the public.

Famous Pianist

Dalles Frantz, pianist, will come to the school on March on the last program scheduled so far. Frantz is known as the "Titan of the Keyboard" and since his debut in 1933 has been a "pianistic phenomenon." In the most recent edition of "Who's Who in America," Frantz has also appeared successfully as soloist with the Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Portland, Montreal and Toronto symphony orchestras.

Arrangements are being made for a fifth number to be given later in the series, but definite plans have not been announced as yet.

Visiometer Made By Dr. Heinlein

Professor Completes His "Tune-Illuminator"

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, announced the completion of the construction of a visiometer by which he has named the "tune-illuminator." In a demonstration of the instrument during the summer months he played the popular folk songs as "Old Black Joe" and "Old Folks at Home" "Suwannee River." This year he plans to perform a number of experiments with the illuminated apparatus.

The instrument, which illustrates the spatial character of pitch in music and consists of a translucent screen, a keyboard which controls a series of miniature lights and by means of which the operator can produce in light the tones of different musical combinations.

Notice of this invention appeared in numerous throughout a large part of the country this past summer. One of the latest comments is that of Leo Reiman, well know N. B. C. radio orchestra leader, who praised Dr. Heinlein in using the visiometer in his experiments.

Dr. Heinlein believes that his visiometer may have possibilities for research to determine the effectiveness of advertising signs; that pitch measured with his instrument will reveal how the brain functions to organize and to relate sound and visual experience; and that it may prove a means of bringing music to the deaf through sight. He explained

Continued on Page Six

Mocking Bird Battles With Kith and Kin

When a mocking bird picks a fight with his own kith and kin it would seem to indicate that little bombs, either inside or outside of their nests, don't agree. However, under the following circumstances, the difference is definitely that the little feathered battler should see a psychologist at his earliest convenience.

Several days ago one of those imitating assessors ruffled up his feathers at the reflections in the bright top of parked automobile, and began to peck at it with a vengeance. Finally becoming weary of his bargain, he admitted defeat—for the time being. The next morning he was seen hard at work attempting to defeat his vanquished foe, but in vain.

The suggestion has been made that the owner of the car place a "No Trespassing" sign on the top for the benefit of the singing champion.

Work For Year Announced By Council Group

Non-Sorority Girls to Be Honored at Banquet By Panhellenic

Continued on page two

Non-sorority members of the Sophomore council who delivered the date cards for Homecoming to all during "rush week" will be honored at a banquet by Panhellenic council tonight at the Dutch Kitchen.

Replacing Freshman Cabinet and Freshman Commission this year, the Sophomore council has charge of the big dance and many various activities to accomplish its chief aim, that of serving as a link between the administration and the campus.

The council intends to do most of its work this year through standing committees. The program committee will have charge of the council's co-operation programs, the social committee will direct the devotional services at the weekly council meetings, and the project committee is the general working on plans for an alumnae house to be built for the convenience of Florida State college alumnae visiting in Tallahassee.

Every committee is under the officio member of the college government association and the Young Women's Christian association. As members of the former they make sure to see that no spend-the-night books in the dormitories, or leave the flag in front of Bryan hall, and see that the college campus and dormitories rooms are kept clean. As members of the latter they are always on hand when the service of a group is needed.

One of the Council's chief activities is helping with freshman orientation. All council members were required to be on the campus for the beginning of freshman week and to wear their white caps and white skirts during the time in order that the freshman would know for whom to ask questions. Continuing with the orientation, the work of the council will consist of freshman class meetings; help to which by the various classes give tests, such as the orientation test and the psychological examinations, and have charge of orientation meetings of groups of girls which meet every week.

As the bulletin boards are the responsibility of the council, all notices must be signed by a council member before they can be posted. An effort toward neater boards will be made by using uniform size paper for all notices.

At a recent council meeting Sara Little was elected vice-chairman to replace Jane M Brown.

Dr. Connor Departs On Speaking Tour Monday

Dr. Ruth Connor, associate professor of Home Economics, will leave Monday for Pensacola, Milton, and Bonifay where she will give talks on "Family Relationships" before the Women's Clubs. Home Demonstration clubs and the P-T A's of Escambia, Santa Rosa, and Holmes counties.

While she is away Dr. Connor will consult with the Home Demonstration agents of the three counties, who are Miss Ethel Alkinson of Escambia, Miss Emma Barton of Santa Rosa and Miss Ruth Sherriff of Holmes, on the work the agents accomplish in their respective counties.

Burks to Speak on Share of First YWSF Meeting

The N. S. F. A. will hold its first meeting at nine o'clock Tuesday evening in room 403 of the Education building.

Dr. Burks, of the Spanish department will tell of some of her personal experiences in Spain during the Revolution. After her talk a short discussion will be held in which the students may take part.

All students are invited to attend this meeting, as well as the officers to be held throughout the year.

244 Invested As Seniors At Symbolic Rite

Mortar Boards Placed On Heads of Upper Class By Dr. Conradi

ABBEY DELIVERS INSPIRING TALK

Miss Margaret Dow Gives Organ Number at End Of Program

The right to wear caps and gowns, formal symbols of their rank, was given to the 244 seniors of Florida State College for Women by Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, at the traditional investiture service held last night in the college auditorium.

To the tune of "Pomp and Circumstance" the black-robed seniors, led by the two oldest sophomore sisters, led by the senior class officers, marched into the auditorium and on to the stage, where Dr. Conradi took each senior's mortar board from the hand of her sophomore sister and placed it on the senior's head.

Officials Set On Stage

Dressed in their formal robes and watching the movement from their seats on the stage were the deans of the different divisions on campus, the dean of students, the secretary of the faculty, the business manager, the director of personnel, and the registrar, who together with President Conradi constitute the executive council; Dr. Nathaniel Moss Salley and Dr. Ruth Lee W akom, the faculty advisers for the senior class.

Dr. Abbey Delivers

Dr. Abbey delivered the main address. The occasion of the investiture of the seniors has come to be an annual event in the life of the campus," she said. "It is a symbol of credits gained, progress made from the first year which they have all had for four years, to bachelor's degree. Inwardly, it is the symbol of a more complete and valuable achievement, namely the growth and enrichment of mind and spirit, which has charted out the course of their adult life.

"Education never be finished.

"It has been a garnering of knowledge, a formation of habit and attitude, of taste and points of view," she continued. "And now they are approaching the end of the contribution which this college has made for a process, their thought should be directed toward the future, not to the past but to the use of what they already have.

"The use of human qualities for social purpose which, for want of a better name, the service has many aspects of advantage and disadvantage, of pitfalls and opportunities.

"One danger is the failure to were required to be confidential," the speaker said, "which the individual may be tempted by the degree to which he reflects the fundamental forces of life it is the task of the people below. whoever the bearer may be. And the second is the danger of using one, this reflection must grow and demand, otherwise its restrictive quality will be lost. Life is constantly remade, truth is being constantly re-made and he who would serve must know these things to be sure that he might first be saved himself. He can

Continued on page two

Mortar Board To Present a Skit

Some Vodvil Units Will Be Included Also

"Feud for Thought," a Kentucky mountaineer skit, and several vaudeville units will be presented by Sept. Mortar Board on Friday, April 16, it was announced yesterday by Marjorie Tills, president. The program will be held in the Augusta Conradi little theatre at 7:45 o'clock.

Students from this show will be used for the Mortar Board Service project and one of the major projects of the organization

General chairmen are Jeanne McKay and Elenmy Williams. Other members of Mortar Board will take part. Marjorie Tills, Mary Gibson, Jo Binkley, Polly Pitt, Martha Mulvaney, Dare and Sue Whitaker.

FSCW Students Are Teaching At Dem School

Hundred Twenty-Eight Practice Education Methods

There are 128 Florida State College for Women students practicing teaching in the college demonstration school.

Those from Jacksonville who are practing teaching in high school grades are: Mrs. Lottie Clark, Martha Hamilton, Margaret Lafferty, Eleanor Redlinger, Dorothy Crews, Lillian Simmons and Anna Von Dohlen: grade teacher: Jewel Rollins, Elizabeth Compton, Magaret Peacock, Shirley Screven, Mary Ethel Richardson. Those from Orlando who are teaching in high school grades are: Kitty Craney: grade teachers: Ruth Ester Rosen and Martha Wright. Those from Tallahassee teaching in high school grades are: Mrs. Ruth Buechly, Ruth Myrick, and Louise Schwaderer: grade teachers: Montine Foster, Irene Foster, and Laurene Bulkley. Ft. Myers teaching in high school grades are: Sara Mae Davis: grade teachers: D. V. Lippincott and Mary E. Gerald. Those from Miami teaching in the high school grades are: Betty Ettlinger, Leonel Trapnell, Mildred Seekins, Elizabeth Boyd, Mary L. Hopkins, Lula Mae Mooty; grade teachers: Betty Hammond, Marion E. Usher, Angela Griley.

Ft. Lauderdale, high school: Maxine Parris; Bradenton: high school: Connie Howard and Anne Norris in grade school: Boca Raton: high school: Dorothy Kamiya, Hevana: high school: Eleanor Lee, grade school: Veran Raker: Bertow: high school, Sara E. McGregor, Elizabeth Whidden: Callahan; high school: Marie Spurlock Sanford: high school: Marjorie J. Tillis: grade school: Adelaide M Richter; Pensacola: high school: Mary Ellen Tiller: grade school: Mary Higgins and Dora Etta Solomon: Shady Grove: high school: Ava Williams; Daytona Beech: high school: Eleanor Williams; Bellair: high school: Amber Turner.

Ft. White: high school: Mrs. Fannie Belle Nibiack, Tampa: high school: Peggy McMichael, Katherine G. Kyle, Dee Carroll, Mary K Gibson, and Aleyne Clayton: grade school: Josephine Barone, Cornelia Davis, Martha Edwards, and Louise Hill: Malone: high school: Margaret Kennedy, Monticello: high school: Nell Carroll; grade school: Christine Mays; St. Petersburg: high school: Adele Barnard and Eunice Moe, Auburndale: high school: Eleanor Biggers: Atlanta, Georgia: high school: Ellen Fleming, Belle Glade: high school: Beth Daane: Quincy: high school: Virginia Clayton and Pearle Overhultz: grade school: Eileen Arnold, Pauline Arnold and Martha Flake; Lakeland: high school: Sara Rutledge; Branford: high school: Clara Belle Lipsey; grade school: Lucille Dixon and Mary Anne Lipsey; Lake Wales high school: Victoria Curtis and Twilah Taylor: grade school: Evelyn Edwards.

Moore Haven: high school: Doris Pounds; Hilden: high school: Kathleen Robinson: Manatee: high school: Julia Vanderipe, Palatka: high school: Doris Francis Godard: grade school: Mary Fearnside, Betty A. Bichan, and Ona Jean Merrill; West Palm Beach: high school: Emilie Lockwood: grade school: Dorothy Borden; Beresford: high school: Marion Weeks: Chattahoochee: grade school: Evelyn Smith: Plant City: Grade school: Lois Collins, Bascom: grade school: Emma Louise Boone, Oakland: grade school: Mary E Neel: Oraceville: grade school, Willie Joiner; Hastings: grade school, Mary Elizabeth Dancy.

Bushnell: grade school: Alma Bevill and Jessie McCollum: LaBelle: grade school: Nancy Sta- t; Cross City: grede school: th Hays Effinger: Brooker: y Eloise Shaw.

renton: grade school: Clarice ms and Edna C. Browning: metto: grade school: Mona ean: Kissimmee: grade school ty Phay: Leesburg: grade ool: Marion Kirkland and Vir- a Taylor; Fellsmore: grade ool: Vivian Sanborn: Home- d: grade school: Valera Fitch Ella Maria Arazarena: hyrhills: grade school: Sarah sons; Sebring: Oine McAdams; Avon Park: grade school: Leroy Mae Bachand.

St. Augustine: grade school: Margaret Eberhart; Pomona: grade school: Dorothy Main; Tarpon Springs: grade school: Mary Ferguson; Key West: grade echool Jennie Mae Johnson; Eustis: grade school: Sara Hethcox; Waldo: grade school: Lilyan Marks; Haines City: grade school: Hazel V. Elliot; Dade City: grade school: Ercel Anderson; New Smyrna: grade school: Nell McCray; Madison: grade school: Marshlea Cottingham; Cedar Keys: grade school: Wilda Mack and Fort Pierce: grade school: Dorothy Dame.

Flastacowo Ticket Sale to Continue

Picture tickets for the Flastocowo will be on sale for freshmen through Saturday of this week. The freshman pictures will be taken the week starting Thursday, October 8, on the top floor of the Demonstration school. Dark clothes with white collars will be worn instead of drapes.

Sophomores may buy their annual picture tickets during next week, starting Monday and continuing through Saturday.

Junior and Seniors will have their pictures made later, the time to be announced.

108 Girls Come From Other Colleges To Attend F.S.C.W.

Continued from page one

Kickliter, New Smyrna, Southern Junior college; Marjorie Inez Lanier, Cocoa, Stetson university; Martha Lila Lee, Jacksonville, Sullins college: Pearl Lewis, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college; Dorothy Lord, University of Florida: Martha Lumpkin, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college: Sarah Ada McCook, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college: Edith Macleod, Tampa, University of Tampa; Betty Ellen Mann, Coral Gables, Stratford college: Mrs Alma Richardson Martin, Alachua, University of Florida; Honor Maynard, Micanopy, University of Florida: Elizabeth Meigs, DeFuniak Springs, Palmer college; Anne Lois Moore, Palmer college: Helen Murphy, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach Junior college; Mary Louise Nickel, Sanford, Piedmont college: Mary Wyland Noble, Jacksonville, Wesleyan college; Marjorie Oates, Lake Helen, Brenau college; Eleanor Olson, Horicon, Wis., University of Wisconsin; Alberta Patriek, Daytona Beach, Westmoorland college, Annie L. Peak, Tallahassee, Andrew college; Anise Pendleton, Dunedin, St. Petersburg Junior college; Mildred Porter, Waldo, Lees-McRae college: Virginia Schreiber, Jatibonico, Cuba, Gulf Park college.

Jacqueline Texeda, University of Florida; Ruth Unland, Tampa, St. Petersburg Junior college; Kathleen Van Alst, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college; Alene Vercoe, Florida City, Stetson university; Frances Waterhouse, Daytona, Dickinson college: Mary Margaret West, Live Oak, University of Alabama, Mildred White, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college; Margaret Wiggins, Hartsville, S. C., Coker college; Edna Lee Williams, Dunnellon, Shorter college; and Eleanor Zimmerman, St. Petersburg, St. Petersburg Junior college.

Priscilla Adams, Jacksonville, Duke, Virginia Allen, Brooksville, Maryville college; Flora Melba Averitt, Jennings, University of Florida: Marjorie Benson, Starke, University of Florida; Frances Bloodworth, Lakeland, Southern college; Janet Cook, Tampa, Nebraska Wesleyan university; Jessie Merle Dixon, Brinson, Florida Southern college; Lillian Douglas, Weirsdale, University of Florida; Doris Goedert, Jacksonville, Young L. G. Harris college; Elizabeth Griffith, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach Junior college, Eleanor Hocker, Orlando, Hood College: Gene Charlotte Kerns, Copper Hills, Tennessee, University of Chattanooga; Ilma LaBar, Winter Haven, College of St. Genevieve of the Pines; Willie Lawhorne, Gainesville, University of Florida; Helen Massey, Selma, North Carolina, Salem college.

Celeste McCranie, Cedar Key, Georgia State College for Women; Rothe McElhannon, Lakeland, Florida Southern college; Bette Ruth Oliver, Pensacola, Ripon college; Lynette Patten, Jacksonville, University of Florida; Lottie Mae Pennington, Jasper, University of Florida; Daphen Reynolds, Jacksonville, University of Florida; Margaret Richards, Tampa, Brenau college; Letha Royce, Lake Worth, Maryville college; Dorothy Sanford, Tampa, University of Tampa; June E. Simmons, Miami Beach, University of Miami; Elisabeth Slaughter, Perry, University of Tampa; Helen Frances Taylor, Ft. Myers, Flora Macdonald; Louise Taylor, Tampa, university of Tampa.

Library Gives Study Sources

Freshmen Will Find Good Facilities for All Types of Work

Florida State College for Women offers an excellently equipped library to its new students.

The main desk, where books are checked in and out and general information is given, is located in the lobby to the left of the entrance.

Opposite the main desk is the periodical room, where the latest magazines and newspapers are kept. Bound copies of magazines are arranged on the shelves alphabetically and according to the dates they were issued. This room is also used as a study room.

The card files are located directly across the lobby from the main entrance. There are three methods of looking up a book, and this information is posted above the file cabinet. The door at the end of the main desk leads to the stacks, where all the books listed in the files can be found. Directions for locating them are posted in the room.

To the right of the stacks is a room containing encyclopedias, and other reference books. They cannot be taken from the room, and must be used there.

In the lobby is a stairway leading up to the browsing room, and down to the reserved book room. Downstairs books are placed on reserve by teachers for the use of students. They are read in this room and are only checked out over night and on week-ends. On week nights books can be checked out from nine in the evening until nine the following morning, and week-ends from one-thirty Saturday afternoon to nine o'clock Monday morning.

The browsing room on the top floor of the building is open Wednesday through Friday from four to six in the afternoon, and seven-thirty to nine-thirty in the evenings, on Saturday afternoon from one-thirty to five, and Sunday two-thirty to five.

The regular library hours are: Monday through Friday, eight-thirty to twelve-thirty in the morning, one-fifteen to six in the afternoon, and seven-fifteen to ten o'clock in the evening. Saturday the library is open from eight-thirty until twelve-thirty noon, and in the afternoon from one-fifteen to five. The library is closed on Tuesday for convocation, and on nights of the Artists series.

Mrs. McCollum To Be Speaker During Chapel

Continued from page one

Tuesday. Mrs. McCollum has been very active in the Alumnae association. She was president from 1926 to 1928 and was one of seven alumnae to be chosen for an "award of honor" here last spring. The awards were made for "notable achievement," Mrs. McCollum receiving hers for civic service.

She is also a former president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, and at present a member of the State Board of Social welfare.

This is Mrs. McCollum's second occasion to speak at Florida State college, her first address having been made at the dedication of the gymnasium in 1929.

244 Invested As Seniors At Symbolic Rite

Continued from page one

not give what he does not possess.

Points Out Danger

"A second danger is the short view, Dr. Abbey explained, a failure to realize the magnitude and breadth of human effort. One becomes interested in some activity and immediately its completion identifies itself with the personal achievement of the individual as a matter of fact. Nothing having the elements of truth and permanence is limited to one life or to one generation. The individual is the workman at the bench; beginning something he will not finish, finishing something he has not begun, or merely working on some precious object for the space of one brief life.

"Yet in spite of all these things the struggle of the human race for self-development," said Dr. Abbey, "is magnificent and its many defects and temporary failures only show evidence of its magnificence. And those who think profoundly and see penetratingly know beyond doubt that to contribute to this process is the supreme achievement of a life. It is a task which strains the full quota of self-knowledge and humility as well as dauntless courage and creative genius. The onward toiling of mankind is perpetual but now and then come epochs of increasingly swift change and modification. Such a one is the present. It is no time for youth to be discouraged or afraid with so much waiting to be done. Meet it fearlessly armed," she directed, "with all you have made of yourself in these passing years and what you will learn from future experience. And remember what the Python said to Mowgli in the Jungle Tale, 'A brave heart and a courageous tongue—they will carry you far through the jungle, Manling.'"

Miss Dow Plays

Following this speech Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, professor of organ, gave an organ solo, "Fantasia." The ceremony closed with the benediction by Dr. Conradi and the recessional of the seniors.

Seniors Listed

The seniors that were invested are:

Mary Edith Adams, Betsey Burton Anderson, Leah Estelle Andrews, Jeannette Elizabeth Annin, Sarah Savard Anthony, Sara Elizabeth Ayala, Dora Helen Baggett, Nellie Frances Bahrt, Martha J. Baker, Marjorie Beach, Eleanor Louise Biggers, Josephine Moran Binion, Dorothy Borden, Janice Oria Borton, Hazel Lois Bowman, Mrs. Bennie Nelson Branaman, Doris Carl Brigman, Mary Ella Brown, Mary Draper Burgoon, Alma Dekle Butler, Florence Cameron, Nell Carroll, Marion Carson, Ann Elizabeth Carter, Frances Merle Cason, Helen Dorothy Cate, Janet Watson Charles, Jean Dudley Clark, Lottie M. Clark, Aylene Clayton, Mary Jo Clayton, Virginia Clayton, Lois Collins, Lydia Craig, Dorothy Crews, Victoria Catherine Crisp, Jane Hill Crook, Bar ra Indus Curry, Victoria Inez Curtis.

Beth Daane, Martha Douglas Dabney, Lucile M. Dale, Olive Key Dame, Rosalyn Daum, Emily Davis, Sara Mae Davis, Sarah Elizabeth Davis, Eileen Dayson, Margaret Elizabeth Delaney, Helen Dennis, Mary Helen DeVries, Roberta Diamond, Mary Elise Dickenson, Mary Elizabeth Dolfin, Julia Anne Donnell, Emma Louise Doyle, Virginia Alice Duke, Virginia Ea ly, Hazel V. Elliott, Frances Annette Ellis, Mary Alma Ennels, Betty C. Ettlinger, Sarah Myrvin Everett, Maxine Yorke Farris, Marion Jo Ferrill, Martha Engle Flake, Ellen Fleming, Eleanor Lincoln Flint, Frances Forth, Patricia Neale Foster, Mary Katharine Gibson, Marie Ginn, Anna Love Glen, Martha Godard, Doris Frances Godard, Helen Virginia Godwin, Betty Ann Graham, Mary Green, Angela Amelia Griley, Mrs. Irene Gunn.

Eva Lucille Ham, Elizabeth Fleming Hamilton, Martha Virgina Hamilton, Rosemary Haskell Hamly, Betty Adaline Hammond, Helen Elizabeth Hardee, Kathleen Laurel Harris, Marian Harrold, Abbie Vennette Herron, Sara Josephine Hethcox, Louise Frances Hill, Mary Ann Hills, Mary Louise Hoenshel, Ruth I. Holman, Mary Lee Hopkins, Beverly Edith Horn, Lottie Ruth Howard, Barbara Hubbard, Jane Hubbard, Glenn Hunt, Mildred E. Hurst, Adelaide Ireland, Winona Fisher Ireland, Pauline Ruth Jacobson, Margaret Mary James, Mary Roberts Jetton, Louise Dudley Johnson, Yvonne S. Johnson, Alice Nelle Jones, Masuka Dorothy Kamiya, Elsie Lorella Kersey, Mrs. Jeanette Kimsey, Katherine Glover Kyle, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Annabelle S. Larsen, Elizabeth Anne Leach, Little Alma Lester, Catherine Louise Levey, Pearl D. Lewis, Ruth Lind, Frances Conder Lingle, Clara Belle Lipsey, Emilie May Lockwood, Lorena Lorenz, Mary Ellen Lovelace, Oine McAdams, Mrs. Ella Mae Hewitt McAnley, Maggie Madeline McCall.

Catherine L. McGarry, Rosemary McGlinchy, Alice A. McGlone, Sara Elizabeth McGregor Mary Gertrude McGunagle, Mary Jeanne McKay, Grace Eleanor McKee, Dorothy Jane McLean, Peggy McMichael, Bettye Alden Mace, Betty Mack, Annie Maggio, Marjorie Sunshine Maines, Marthe Ella Makemson, Edith Kemper Manford, Marjorie Marston, Elizabeth Yates Matheny, Margaret Louise Maxwell, Jessie Mead, Mary Hamilton Meginniss, Mamie Messina, Ida Pearle Miller, Mary Margaret Miller, Anna Marie Mitchell, Margaret Kathleen Mizell, Dorothy Eloise Moeller, Edna Adele Moon, Francis Clarke Moore, Frances Morrow, Margaret Murray, Ruth Noline Myrick.

Mable Margaret Neff, Marjorie Jane Noggle, Annawilda Norris Bernice Erma Oliver, Emily Olson, Clotilde Marie O'Rourke, Pearl Overhults, Betty Parker, Daisy Parker, Betty Peck, Anise Pendleton, Virginia Peyton, Emily Virginia Pinney, Mary Magdalene Pollard, Alice Margaret Reedy, Leona Mildred Rebbinder, Mary Ola Reynolds, Margaret Kathleen Robinson, Roberta Rogers, Ruth Esther Rosen, Mrs. Charlotte Rosenberg, Martha Sara Rutledge.

Miriam Ruth Sadler, Anne B. Sams, Hazel Austine Sangster, Lillian Schulte, Louise Campbell Schwaderer, Mildred Eileen Seekins, Clara Mae Shepherd, Alicia J. Sierra, Lillian Ellis Simmons, Betty Sweet Smith, Mary Bowman Smith, Pearl Edna Smith, Rita L. Snyder, Olivia Sorenson, Emily Pauline Spencer, Marie Elizabeth Spurlock, Shirley Stevens, Syrena May Stockbridge, Jo Olivia Taylor, Marie B. Taylor, Twilah Marie Taylor, Beulah Virginia Taylor, Vivian Marie Testa, Jane Elizabeth Tharin, Frances Anderson Thomas, Margaret Thompson, Mary Ellen Tiller, Marjorie Jean Tillis, Bonnevieve rence Tomlinson, Gertrude Tomkies, Martha Elizabeth Touchon, Helen Mary Treis, Helen Denham Turnbull, Amber Vivian Tur- Sarah Suzanne Tweed.

Kathleen Van Alst, Julia Katherine Vanderipe, Mary Veach, Charlotte Eloise Veith, Hazel Lucille Viertel, Anna Marie Von Dohlen, Holly Maud Waker, Anita Marie Walder, Sally Marie Walder, Opal Walker, Maxine Ward, Margaret Elinor Ware, Beulah Watkins, Betty Lou Weeks, Madalaine Merrill Weeks, Marian Gerbutt Weeks, Anne Elizabeth Whidden, Grace M Whitaker, Sue Whitcomb Whitaker, Mildred White, Mae Whitten, Jeanette Wickham, Frank Martha Wildman, Martha Lee Wilkerson, Eleanor Brown Williams, Jean Sinclair Willis, Fenton Woodward and Lynnora Young.

Sherbet Causes Mental Detour

How did your fish taste Friday night? Did you notice anything queer about it? And the lime sherbet, did you find any sinister bits of red wax lurking in its icy greeness? If you can say "no" to all this, let the horse and buggy days return! Let the dark ages envelop us once more! Let the marvels of electric lighting be lost forever—at least your eating habits will not be affected.

For Friday night the college kitchen was in darkness save for the fitful gleams of occasional candles, and it was indeed a romantic setting. Red tapers left over from Christmas dinners added just the proper festive note, while white ones added a saintly tinge much to be desired. Such a pleasant environment was not long to last, for the electricians soon arrived. Then followed a series of illuminating flashes while the kitchen staff found their bearings, but once more total darkness. This continued until dinner was over and the whole effect might have been a little hard to understand except for one thing.

The electricians were eating lime sherbet! Won't it be terrible if they've acquired a taste for it? Or will it be? You said your fish was all right, and candles do add such a romantic note.

Flowers Makes Reque

A request has been made Miss Meude Flowers, director residence halls, that all stude who wish to attend camp on we ends, sign up in her office 11:30 a. m. on the Friday of week-end that they expect leave.

This must be done in order a definite schedule can be m

FOR HIGHER GRADES IN COLLEGE

Get the Pen That Never Runs Dry in Classes or Exams

The All-American College Favorite

With Double Ink Capacity and Full-length Visible Ink Supply Shows DAYS AHEAD When It's Running Low

Do the thing that you know is the thing to do—replace your old-style pen with this miracle Vacumatic—Parker's revolutionary invention that holds 102% more ink WITHOUT INCREASE IN SIZE—that shows the ENTIRE ink supply, not merely the last drop—shows not only when your pen is empty, but shows DAYS AHEAD when it's running low, so it CAN'T run dry against your will!

Today the Parker Vacumatic is the world's long-distance writer and Style and Beauty Winner—the sacless marvel whose simple working parts are sealed in the top—never touched by ink, hence won't corrode or fail. That's why it's GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect.

In the hands of millions of users, using all kinds of ink, this marvelous pen has repeatedly proved that it "can take it" anywhere and any time—it never leaves its owner gasping for ink in classes or exams.

If you'll go and try its marvelous SCRATCH-PROOF Point of precious Platinum and Solid Gold, you'll give your old-style pen to the rummage sale. Look for the smart ARROW clip—this ARROW identifies the genuine. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5 Over-Size, $10 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

BEFORE TOO LATE GET YOUR COLLEGE RING

Bearing Official Seal Certified $2.00 Value only 25c with the purchase of a bottle of Parker Quink at 15c—Total 40c...YOU SAVE $1.75

The Parker Pen Co makes this amazing offer solely to induce you to try Parker Quink—the remarkable new ink that cleans your pen as it writes—that dries ON PAPER 31% faster, yet does NOT dry in a pen.

Get Quink today from any store selling ink. Tear off the box-top, and on the back write the FULL NAME of your school or college, ring SIZE, and style wanted (man's or woman's) and your name and address. Then mail box-top with 25 cents in coin to The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 730, Janesville, Wis.

Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, if supply lasts.

Tallahassee's Newest Shoe Salon

COLLEGE SLIPPER SHOP

102 East College Avenue

Latest styles in Sport Oxfords and Saddle-Straps. In black, blue, brown and green.

SEE THEM!

$2.95

Values to $5.95

Announcing the Opening of

JUANITA'S HAT SHOP

On October 15, 1936

Located at the Fairy Tale Shop

114½ East College Ave.

Juanita Dedge, Mgr.

Formerly with the Band Box

Sport Squints

The new breakfast plan seems to be working out all right except that it produces a lot of unnecessary exercise for some of the off-campus girls. Lots of times called Imeke Jesse Owens look like a piker.

The awfully-ill looking group of girls which have been haunting the rearooms for consolation since misery loves company, have started much conjecture among the passers-by, people and the student body concerning the fortieth anemia. The secret is at last out—they are the F goats who will get all that is coming to them in the way of retribution when the F clubs takes them out to camp this week-end for that little initiation. If you have any enemies among this unfortunate crew, cheer up, for vengeance shall be yours—indirectly.

Fall in the air puts football there or vice versa. Anyway the main topic of conversation on campus these days seems to have to do with that fur coat and chrysanthemum sport of the gridiron. And every week-end now, quantities of our most studious students take off to unknown but distant only to lose their voices. Some fun! Many last week even resorted to the local high school game.

And that reminds us of the surprise party meeting we were called upon to witness last Friday afternoon when the high school as a whole descended upon us and violated the sanctity of our campus with their rousing cheers for dear old Tally or something.

Our interclass competition seems to be greater this year than ever with more and more people coming out for sports all the time. There are lots of girls who kick about the fact that Florida State has no intercollegiate sports but according to a recent issue of the Collegiate Digest Emory university is now leading itself in the question of forerunner of a reform movement. For over forty years, Emory has participated in no intercollegiate games in major sports, those games being confined to interclass and inter-organization contests. Intrigue in the movement is now being shown by many colleges of the country who are aspiring to Emory for information as to the fine points of the system.

On the rainy days we've been cohercerned in there's something comic in overhearing a student say she's going out to the gym to a swimming class.

The above paragraph reminds us of seeing Marjorie Horton looking so fagged out the other day—we thought naturally it had to do with goating but as she gasped and fell into a chair she told us in weak tones that she had just passed her swimming exemption exam. We've been told it's even more strenuous than hiking behind a truck to camp!

The days toward Thanksgiving are swiftly passing, and so we are warned by the increasing number of little groups formed in the smoking area singing Odd or Even songs. Color schemes in some rooms are indicative, and Marie Joffre even has tiny live turtles their shells painted yellow and gold, bearing the inscription, "Bonus." Incidentally, the turtles have caught the spirit of the thing and persist in taking up out of the water in their bowl.

In almost every other college in the United States athletes have training rules which they must obey before their respective games, but at Florida State? Our athletes are so conscientious that such mundane superfluities are entirely divorced from their scheme of things. Of course, smoking half a pack of cigarettes every afternoon after volley and basketball practice is almost essential to their well-being; any remarks to the contrary would be unkind.

Old Member of FSC Dies

News has been received here from Philadelphia, Pa., of the death of Dr. Anne Young, former faculty member of Florida State College.

Dr. Young will be remembered here by many faculty members and Tallahassee people. She was resident physician and professor of hygiene in the college from 1931 to 1925.

Queer Animals Will Inhabit College Camp

Semi-Annual "F" Goating Ends at Flastacowo Monday Morning

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, a dinosaur, an acanthus, and a last year's bird nest will meet behind Bryan hall and hike to Camp Flastacowo. These creatures are also commonly called "goats," but they are of a peculiar species. They are "F" goats.

Goats Bunny Lowry, Evelyn Glasier, and Marjorie Carter are now in the process of "goating," which began last spring when these three girls received their "F's" and is to come to its climax at the annual "F" camp. If the three girls survive the intensified goating of this week-end and if the other members are satisfied at 10 their qualifications for membership in the club, the goats will be given full-fledged members.

Since they received their "F's," Bunny, Evelyn, and Marjorie have worn the letters inverted. On Monday morning they will carry uniforms from camp, they hope to wear them right-side-up.

The life of a goat is a rather hard one, but it is made purposely so in order to test to the utmost the qualifications of the prospective member.

For their protection, each has a goat-mother. Hazel Viertel is goat-mother to Bunny, Martha Weeks for Evelyn and Beth Deans for Marjorie. The goat-mothers are back-chiefs and have tried to make life as easy as possible during the trying period.

This will be the first year the goats have not had to wear their Friday classes dressed as impossibilities. Due to adverse criticism, this tradition has been dropped. The tradition of having goats clean the floor of the "F" club members is being continued, and a new tradition is being added. The goats must bow each time the chimes ring. Sassy goats are not tolerated, but are punished by being assigned absurd tasks.

Committee in charge of "F" camp arrangements are: Transportation, Frances Thill and Vashti Hunt; food, Felicia West and Martha Baker; initiation, Louise Gehan and Sarah Hethcox; Goat Master, Marion Bonnell; goat-mother Deane; complaints, Marie Joffre.

Hazel Viertel is president of the "F" club, with Louise Gehan as vice president, Mary Pat Corry as secretary and treasurer. Other members of the club include: Elise Barrett, Janice Brantley, Mary Brooks, Janet Cook, Audrey Cooper, Sarah Beth Deans, Marie Lewis, Dorothea Marsh, Martha Mekemson, Margaret Maxwell, Ruth Miller, Anna Mae Mitchell, Sallie Burt Nunun, Katherine Pratt, Eileen Robinson, Mary Seekins, Marie Taylor, and Hilda Spradlin.

The "F" club is the only honorary athletic organization on campus. It was organized by the Athletic association in 1931-1934 for the purpose of promoting activities on campus. Then the only qualifications for membership were winning varsity basketball out. Usually though," she reassures, "it doesn't take many less'ns to let the student find out what is expected of her." Evidently the old tale of the maiden who "liked riding better than any other sport because the horse had to do all the work" has been worn out.

Students who are now enrolled in riding classes are Mary Elizabeth Husson, Gertrude McGeown, Helen Dillard, Margaret Walker, Janet Pierce, Mary Lopez, Alberdine Fox, Jane Floyd, Janet Jewell, Emily Orr, Marcia Ramsey, Ruth Whaley, Betty Ann Graham, Anne Eastbrook, Anita Peaks, Ruth Stonecipher, Elaine Fleisher.

Esther O'Byrne, Mary Ann Chapman, Marjorie Bussey, Jane Jackson, Amelie Gordy, Elisabeth Pierce, Peggy Price, Mary Louise Baker, Elaine Britt, Dorothy Colburn, Blythe Stanley, Lois Coleman, Connie Ash, Nan Tyler, Francis Ellis, Louise Whitting, Virginia Wells, Melba Parks, Marguerite Browne, Lillian Lukens, Katherine Kirby Smith, Marcia Richer, Audrey Cooper,

Cowles Names Freshman For Concert Head

Continued from page one

Mildred Hurst.

Tuba—Lillian May McDonald.
Tenor Saxophone—Betty White.
French Horn—Margaret Tyler.
Trombone—Hazel Bowman.
Tympani—Lois Ann Wood.

Little Theater Group

Members of this year's Little Theater orchestra include:

Violins—Julia Rosser, Veola Evans, Betty Parker, Evelyn Patterson, Virginia Barber, and Marjorie Tilla.

Clarinets—Betsy Anderson, Eleanor Daniells and Mary Bagg.

Cornet—Helen Sellers.

Viola—Annabel Larson.

Cello—Charlotte Veith.

Bass—Bonita Lee Watterson.

Trombone—Hazel Boaman.

Drums—Louise Johnson.

Forty Join Riding Classes Under Direction Of Taylor

Eight Lessons a Quarter Will Be Included In the Course

Among the forty-odd students who enrolled in Merle Taylor's extra-curricular riding classes last week there was at least one who had never before been astride a horse, and there was another many taking advanced work after two previous years' study with her.

Although no credit is offered for enrollment in one of these classes forty girls are already signed up for the course of eight lessons a quarter. Marie, who has herself ridden since she was "knee high to a grasshopper," is conducting her classes, as she has for the last three years, in addition to carrying on her regular school work.

"It's really great fun for me," she said smilingly, "It's better ride than eat, I believe, and to have a perfectly legitimate excuse for spending hours each day in the saddle thrills me to death."

For the last five years she has been riding instructor in a camp in North Carolina and has shown horses both in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, and at Camp Mayer, N. Y. Her riding class here this year is larger than ever before.

Beginners learn to "stick on" in the great fenced circle near her stables but more experienced riders venture out on the roads for longer and more interesting rides.

"It's no fun to go on long rides, though, unless you can post easily and sit a canter with calmness," Marie explained when questioned about her method of "teaching" wherein the instructor simply has the pupil hoisted aboard her mount and allows her to "learn by experience."

"I spend as much time in the ring as is necessary before we go and tennis singles. In 1914-1918, all winners of first places in field day and the best all-round athletes were awarded the college letter and were eligible to membership in the "F" club.

Gradually the entire system of eligibility has changed so as to broaden the requirement for eligibility in the "F" club, and to encourage mass participation in athletics. Now a girl is awarded to all those earning twenty-six points in any athletic year, twenty practice points and six game points, and those having earned "Fs" are eligible for membership.

In order to remain an active member each member must earn ten points each season.

Three members of the faculty will also be initiated. They are Miss Gym Cabaniss, Miss Eunice Hurd, Miss Ray A. Frasier, and Miss Ruth Lehman. Other members of the faculty who are members of the "F" club are: Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, Miss Getty Washburn, Dr. Dorothy White, Miss Grace Fox, Miss Helen Davis, Miss Margaret Campbell, and Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwaite.

W. A. A. Head

Miss Beth Deane, senior from Belle Glade, Florida, is this year's president of the Women's Athletic association.

Main Purposes Of WAA Stated

Participation in Sports Is Offered Girls

The Women's Athletic association on this campus holds as its main purposes the promotion of athletic accomplishment and stimulation of interest in a program of physical activities, according to Beth Deane, president.

In an effort to secure mass participation, the organization sponsors intramurals, tournaments, field days, camp trips, play nights, and other organized athletic activities.

The organizations under the direction of the association, namely, the "F" club, the Nuleral club, the Three Torch club, and the Life Saving corps, try to reach all girls, despite health restrictions, with some type of activity to which they are suited, and in which they are interested.

The active members of the W. A. A. endeavor to follow the ideals of health and good sportsmanship

Hurd Elected Faculty Head Of WAA Board

Association to Arrange Intra-mural Sports Program Soon

Miss Eunice Hurd was selected faculty advisor of the Woman's Athletic association at its first meeting last Wednesday night.

The officers of the club, elected last May, are Beth Deane, president; Felicia West, vice-president; Marjorie Horton, secretary, and Sarah Hethcox, treasurer.

The association will sponsor intensive intramural and faculty-student activities, in addition to the usual competitive sports, Marion Weeks, senior intra-mural representative, will announce her program next week.

Janet Cook was appointed chairman of Play Night, and Beth Deane, Betty Collard and Miss Elisabeth Washburn have charge of the skit to be presented on that date, October 26. All organizations on campus are participating in this skit which will be held in honor of the new students.

Practice for Odd and Even games, to be held at Homecoming, is under way and Beth asks that notice be taken of the hours for practice. For Odd volleyball, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4:30, and Saturday at 3:30. For Even volleyball, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday at 4:40, and Saturday at 3:30. Odd basketball—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4:40. And Even basketball the same as Even volleyball. Martha Mekemson and Miss Ruth Lehman are respectively captain and faculty advisor for Odd volleyball, Louise Gehan and Miss Hurd for Even volleyball, Mary Miller and Miss Ray Frasier, Odd basketball, and Felicia West and Miss Washburn, Even basketball.

at all times, stress being laid on playing the game for the game's sake.

Officers of the Women's Athletic association for this year are:

Washburn Leads Playnite At Gym

Janet Cook Directing Committee to Plan Year's Program

Miss Betty Washburn, physical education instructor, will be in charge of Playnite tonight at eight o'clock in the college gymnasium. The swimming pool will be open from sight until nine, and there will be dancing from nine until ten.

Janet Cook, junior, is chairman of the Playnite committee for this year, and with the help of other members, to be named at a later date, plans to present clever playnite programs than have been offered previously. Miss Eunice Hurd is the faculty advisor for this committee.

All available campus talent will be used for the entertainments throughout the year and any volunteers of talent will be welcome. Also, each week there will be swimming exhibitions and intramural play-off of sports.

Beginning with second semester Miss Hurd's class of recreational leadership will take charge of Playnite proceeds.

Andrews Talks About Choosing of Vocation

Continued from page one

week. Women often fail because they use their vocation as a temporary means to the end-marriage. Even though you may possibly marry, prepare yourself for vocational work as if it were the chief aim—as it may turn out to be.

"Not all of us can aspire to be

Beth Deane, president; Felicia West, vice-president; Marjorie Horton, secretary; Sara Lytle, treasurer; Marian Weeks, senior manager of intramurals.

Joffre Divides Fencing Class

Thirty-One are Enrolled For Popular Course In Use of Foils

Interest in fencing has increased to such an extent that the class must be divided, according to Marie Joffre, instructor. Instead of one large class meeting twice a week, there will now be two small classes meeting for one hour each at days and hours to be arranged.

This sport, popular in many other colleges, has been among the extra-curricular sport activities for several years here. The object of the course this year is to teach form. The same physical benefits as those from swimming are derived by the participants in this activity, as it, because of this, many leading athletic directors and trainers recommend it as one of the most beneficial sports known today, Marie said.

Among the girls meeting on the lawn north of the gymnasium to learn the art of using foils are Billie Ravis, Mary Nell Pope, Elisabeth Lounds, Elisabeth Anne Webb, Dianne Webster, Dorothea Kloeppel, Tegz McMichael, Riva Hemphil, Frances Slade, Natalie Weichert, Mary Cochran, Erskin Makemson, Virginia Makemson, Irene Ford, Priscilla Pifer, Gayle Gathinight, Jean Cappleman, Tass Christel, Eileen Gill, Eunice Sachs, June Quinlan, Dixie Cervelero, Mildred West, Linnea Luttes Creigh, Sarah Adams, Patricia Mack, Eleanor Miller, Anita Peek, Elaine Fleischer, Charlotte Connell, and Marjorie Jessup.

President, although one of you may be, for much can be read in the field of her choice."

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

GELBERG'S
COMPLETE STORE FOR LADIES
Now Showing Fashion Firsts in New Fall
DRESSES
$5.95 $7.95 $10.95
SILK UNDERWEAR
ACCESSORIES
DRESS MATERIALS

Famous Kollege Girl
OXFORDS
In Suede and Kidskins.
Sizes AAA to B—3 to 9.
$2.95

For Digestion's Sake . . Smoke Camels

With Camels, mealtime is more pleasant—digestion is stimulated—alkalinity increased

THE FIRST DAYS of the semester are usually crowded. But Camels help a lot. Camels give you a welcome "lift" in energy—stimulate digestion—bring a sense of well-being. And they never jangle your nerves.

IN our busy lives, mealtime is apt to catch us at a disadvantage. We're often under nervous tension and physical strain. As a result, the free flow of digestive fluids is slowed down. How quickly Camels change this. For when you enjoy Camels the digestive fluids are gently and naturally restored to fuller flow. Alkalinity is increased. Time and again, physiological laboratories have checked this welcome effect of smoking Camels.

Camels are mild—you can enjoy them any time. They never jangle your nerves or tire your taste. Camels set you right!

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

PLUCKY DARE-DEVIL. Miss Uve Kimmey (left), America's outstanding girl parachute jumper with 46 jumps to her credit, says: "I smoke Camels for digestion's sake. They encourage digestion in a pleasant way."

"THERE'S NOTHING like a Camel to set you right," says Bill Ferguson (below), crack salesman. "Camels give me an extra sense of well-being and contentment. I always smoke them as an aid to digestion."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

CULINARY MASTERPIECES by the chef of Washington's famous Hotel Shoreham. Here the joy of living is the keynote of the cosmopolitan patronage. Rare dishes gathered from world markets delight the taste. And Camels are the tables of the diners. Robert—matre d'hotel of the Shoreham. "People demand the finest in foods and they also demand the finest cigarettes. That's why Camels are the outstanding favorite."

ROLL YOUR OWN! TREAT Camel Cigarette brings you 8 FULLBLOOM CIGARETTES (AVERAGE)! Two great exclusive and glamorous Hollywood Quarrikan Tuxedos—9:30 pm E.S.T., 8:30 pm C.S.T., 7:30 pm M.S.T., 6:30 pm P.S.T. WABC-Columbia Network.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... Associate Editor

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Cloutier, Exchanges, Virginia Estes; Features, Jane Quinn; Library, Sarah Bell Davis and Sarah Seeley; Outside News Cecilia O'Rourke; Society, Margaret Glover, Betty Jo Hafferty and Minna Acree; Assistant Special Reporting, Arline Lockhart; Sports, Ella Virginia Brooks and Elizabeth Turner.

Feature Writers Mary Lynn Maxie, Jane Galbreath, Belva Pegg, Mary Burleigh, Marion Turner.

REPORTERS Hazel Adams, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Barclay, Blanton Barrett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Brunson, Petra Cabanas, Elizabeth Causey, Theresa Christel, Glenn Coarsey, Bonnie Coleman, Virginia Davis, Mary Donnegan, Maxine Fussie, Mary Gober, Margaret Goudie, Ruth Hoitsma, Lorraine Howell, Betty Lou Ingermann, Lucy Kelly, Anne Ladd, Betty Leach, Martha Lumpkin, Anne Loftdane, Mary Jeanne McKay, Alicia Mascham, Mary Noble Adkins, Patrick, Janet Pattillo, Marian Purviance, Nancy Rogers, Jane Sharon, Lavina Spaulding, Elizabeth Spears, Mary Sullivan, Alma Warren, Frances Waterhouse

Entered Member

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE ..... Business Manager
IZNE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
MAY O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Advertising Manager
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1913, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Senior To Freshman

Most students come to college to find something to them, personal development.

In turn these students if they use an hideous or absolute respect for authority having contributed something to a movement or organization on campus that makes the college just a little better than they found it.

What opportunities does college offer such students? In general there are two approaches, neither of which can be entirely isolated from the other, yet which we classify here for convenience.

First there are academic courses as well as extra-curricular activities.

As to the first, it is needless to say that a student gets from her courses just as much as she puts into them for that is true of everything in life. At we can add is that a spirit of open-mindedness and a sincere endeavor to apply the facts and attitudes gained from academic work to one's every day thinking and living can go a long way in helping the student develop her inner self.

She may further deepen enrich herself by attempting to know her instructors in more than a passing way. If she is particularly interested in a professor's field, she must try to fight the collegiate "grade-chasing" attitude by seeking out his opinions and advice on problems or reading references or anything else on which she is interested. Instances of disparaging remarks from fellow classmates.

Through extra-curricular activities she should seek to develop her personality and ability. However, whether these activities really add much to the student's own particular self depends on the choice she makes for participation.

If she is primarily interested in sports she will go out for the class teams and the Old-Gym teams. If she is interested in dramatics and impromptu courses, she has the three student publications and the new experimental laboratories. If she is interested in social service and supervising interest and work, she can volunteer to work for the Y. W. C. A. If she is primarily interested in world problems in reading more than the ordinary items upon the tables. They continually have to pledge a little dream-bargain groups of young ladies strolling leisurely down the aisles or holding meetings of the Catfish club in the entrances to the dining hall.

It is surprising that all regard for the comfort and convenience of others is totally lacking in some members of the student body. The use of a little common sense would greatly facilitate traffic conditions in the dining room aisles and eliminate a great many of the inconveniences which have become an annoying part of the dining room. Try it and work this fall.

tained offices in several student organizations is that they cannot do justice to their campus positions and their academic work, too. If they hold office in just one organization in which they were particularly interested, they could carry their responsibilities well but they hold offices in some organizations to which they no longer willing to devote of their time and efforts. Besides, they have come to college to subject themselves to certain courses of study, and they naturally feel their studies should be their first and foremost consideration.

Thus we advise the freshman to choose an extra-curricular activity that correlates in some ways with her major interest in studies. Then no becoming an upperclassman and a responsible office-holder, she may have enough peace of mind, realizing how much her participation in the particular activity she selected will further her individual, to-service willingly time and effort to that organization.

Only through such a determined course of action can we even faintly prophesy for the ambitious student a right to fame, a claim to immortality on this campus.

To You At Twenty-One

In connection have recently reached the age of twenty-one citizenship is based upon you. Whether you are interested or not the fact remains that registration books have been placed at the Spic and Span for your convenience and as a full-fledged citizen, you should register for the November election.

The surprising thing about human beings is that when they haven't a certain privilege they get terribly perturbed about the matter and demand the use of them. But when they have the privilege the final publish shows that they lose interest like a child loses interest in a toy which has grown monotonous to it. Before woman suffrage was a part of the political set-up of the United States women clamored loudly for the rights which were being withheld. Today in usual examination of voting statistics shows that women are not using their rights" are not bothering to take advantage of them. The weekly bridge party and school basketball affairs take every spare moment.

Several universities in this country are backing a movement which calls for a revision of the suffrage laws so that youths of eighteen may vote. The thing sounds so futile that we feel it warrants no further waste of space than to proclaim it another parcely American fancy of the sort that sweeps this country periodically. But if these same universities would get themselves honesty behind a movement to make eligible voters participate in what we term 'democratic'' government they might some day see tangible results.

The young idealists that it matters very little whether you as an individual vote or not. At the moment you are right. But consider how the hundreds of other voters who feel as you do. They haven't voted either. In the end the fellows who did take a few minutes off had the final say-so. And in a few months you complain about the taxes and the party losses in your government.

Voting is probably an easier duty of citizenship in the United States than anywhere else where popular opinion is so expressed. At a great expense to the tax payers you are provided with the materials for making your presidential choice. Regardless of what you think of the system you inherit this mark of citizenship as you reach twenty-one. Don't be too thoughtful to take advantage of your opportunity in government small as it may be.

The Other Side

After nine weeks of jingling, pushing, awaiting the end of annointed conversations in the aisles, and expanding much elbow energy in three-times-daily attempts to get into the dining room we feel like starting a campaign for the abolishment of lines.

Consider the plight of the dining room girls, for instance, as they perform the gymnastic feat of placing butter and other last-minute items upon the tables. They continually have to pledge a little dream-bargain groups of young ladies strolling leisurely down the aisles or holding meetings of the Catfish club in the entrances to the dining hall.

It is surprising that all regard for the comfort and convenience of others is totally lacking in some members of the student body. The use of a little common sense would greatly facilitate traffic conditions in the dining room aisles and eliminate a great many of the inconveniences which have become an annoying part of the dining room. Try it and work this fall.

Magazine Thumbings

HARVARD: THE FUTURE"
By Alfred Whitney Griswold
Atlantic Monthly, September 1936

The center of civilization and culture says Mr. Griswold, has shifted through the age from the shores of Greece, Mediterranean to the western coasts of Europe to the North American shores of the Atlantic. Harvard, celebrating its tercentenary this year, is now reaching maturity and has as its task to "fashion the intellect of the twentieth century." The word Harvard' is used to designate that particular institution and also the Ivy League universities of the Eastern states.

Going back to a consideration of the nature of knowledge itself the noted philosopher discusses the aim of education. An educational institution, he says, can never exist apart from a close association with the practice of life and without constantly comparing its orthodox theories with those of life. His conclusion is that the ideal of a university—and of the college life—is "the discovery, the understanding and the exposition, of the possible harmony of diverse things involving and exciting every mode of human experience."

—S. S.

IS THERE WORK FOR THE MILLIONS"
By Joseph Lee Lawrence
Scribner's, October, 1936

The first difficulty in determining lies in the word unemployment, says the author, is the fact that the federal government, the statistical and competent authority to make a enumeration of the unemployed, has done nothing about making one. Lawrence distrusts the estimate made by the American Federation of Labor—11,159,-000—because of the fact that business has recovered more than two-thirds of the ground lost during the depression.

The economist shows by statistics and pictorial charts that while the total gainfully employed in the United States has risen 276 per cent since 1870, industrial machinery does not destroy jobs: "2) that wages are higher today than ever before, in terms of real goods; 3) that only 25 per cent of 26 socially significant new inventions displace or decrease labor; 4) that industry has employed 85 per cent of its 1926 level and should have passed it; and 5) that the idle 5) that jobs have increased 45 per cent since 1932 and payrolls, 114 per cent.

His conclusion is that if the unemployment figure is as high as is commonly supposed, blame must be laid on governmental industrial practices.

—S S

CANADA WON'T GO WAYNE
By Sinclair Lewis
In American Mercury
September, 1936.

The vituperative aroused by British newspapers over what they call the "anti-British policies of Canada" prompted Mr. Lewis to write this article. Enalend seems to be seeking to stir up the patriotism of tourists, football teams, students, and statesmen against the United States and Canada is promoting a strong and friendly relationship that could not exist in real a political union of the two countries.

An amalgamation of these two countries, he says, will never occur, the writer believes, until the remaining nations of the world are ready to join in forming a great international government "The truth is," he states, "that what we have in Canada and the United States is not what all the world must set or perish. It is universal peace, nothing World solidarity can only come through a fusion of ideas, of interest, and of understanding. Mr. Lewis considers that as a first step in accomplishing this peace, the English run down to Germany some weekend for a fishing trip, and that the French come up to Berlin for a game of hockey.

—S. D

IS GANDHI'S LIFE WORK RUINED?
By Anup Singh
In Asia October 1936

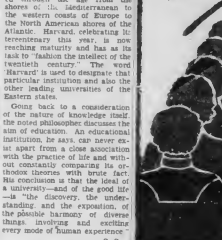
Although Gandhi himself stated "My life work is ruined," Mr. Singh thinks that the Mahatma is not completed. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, "more public record and abilities have already overshadowed preminence only to Gandhi, is also destined to play a little dream-bargain in India's immediate future. The two leaders are in many points, but they stand resolute on one matter: that the social system of India need reconstruction.



Nehru looks upon communism as the most outstanding feature of our dismal age," while Gandhi favors a caste system based upon varying human aptitudes. The former finds industrialization and socialism the only way of ending poverty. Gandhi dreams of an "oasis of small villages, rehumanized through cottage industries.

Despite these great differences Nehru will cheerfully march at his opinion" between Gandhi and his foremost leaders, Mr. Singh prophesies that the mahatma will soon be called upon to march at the head of his people and that

—S. D.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

Ah, This Cutting Story

Touching Mid-Winter Scene Depicts Cut-Savers Gamely Ignoring Infirmary, As Girls On Pro Grimly Reform

By DOROTHY BARCLAY

"No excuses will be granted for absences from classes except to first semester freshmen and students on probation." Can I you that fancy the class of mid-winter Scattered throughout the room will be sufferers in the various stages of common cold—sniffling eyes and red noses, here and there will be a full blown case of flu—chills and fevers and chatter-ing teeth perhaps we'll even have a few less-common ailments mixed in somewhere. And to add variety to the scene and excitement to the lives of those hardy individuals who have developed nothing yet and are undecided about what to catch.

Picture the scene and then let your auditory imaginations begin to whistle a three stringed be-bop hefty, beware the professor—"Beware" goes the common cold "Snuffle" goes the full blown case of flu. "Kaff, kaff," joins the tuberculosis. "Sneeze" sneezes the infinite snuff, snuff" goes the head germ trying to outdo all the thing Who ever would have thought that community coughing could be so delightful? Just hear those fine crescendo and diminuendo passages! Fascinating. It's like a symphony now—several intermittent "cuff-cuffs"—and then a glorious "Whoopee" when I'll be up from the distance a few die-hards in scholastic stubborn) and bringing up the rear.

"Maybe I" muses the professor why they're not in the infirmary Last year we couldn't keep them out."

"Maybe I ought to be in the flu, but after all when you've only got eight cuts and you've got to go home Jeanie's wedding and there's that week-end at Gainesville."

Later: The professor opened watering eyes to greet the new day. "Now when I'll be up from and around again," he moaned softly "It's terrible to desert my staff, sniff."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

Politics is the keynote of the day. This week newspapers are filled with political news, saturated with politics, streets homes and clubs were filled with politics.

The outstanding political event of the week was the opening of Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign Heretofore, his campaign has consisted only of hearty, optimistic speeches, delivered in the best Roosevelt style. Although he continues to rely on the force of personality, he is now arguing and explaining the aims made by the New Deal. Seventy-five thousand people at Pittsburgh turned out to hear the President on industry affairs, coupled with anticipation of an early balancine of the Federal books. National income, he said, had grown from $38,000,000,-000 in 1932 to a sum in excess of $60,000,000,000 for 1936. On the basis of this, he said the budget would be balanced, to include relief and all other expenditures necessary, by 1937 without an increase in taxation.

The President stated in a press conference Wednesday that he was in favor of continued emergency relief appropriations, provided in the government. The government, he felt, should be armed with emergency powers to prevent a destruction of domestic values by unexpected action by any foreign nation. This statement was taken as a hint that he will ask Congress for a continuance of the dollar devaluation power when it expires January 30. Expected at the same time is the authority for the government's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced he would recommend continuance of the fund, now a vital influence for international currency stabilization.

Governor Landon made no formal speeches this week. His cause was ably upheld, however, by ex-President Herbert Hoover, and ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith in Detroit and Boston, respectively. The Federal tax on undistributed corporation profits as tending to "lessen initiative, result in inefficient enterprise, to cost men jobs." Mr. Hoover later declared that he was talking "objective sociology, not politics."

At Carnegie Hall, New York City, Al Smith, whom Roosevelt pushed to the convention floor, then he nominated him for president in 1928 urged the nation to elect Landon. He said that all the Mr. Roosevelt, he said, headed a "personal administration in which every communist was welcome. He denounced the New Deal an amateurs of "class hatred" and as a "dismal dull, dark and dreary failure." His s, cork marked the final break with his old friend, Franklin Roosevelt. Republicans feel that the speech will switch 1,000,000 votes to Mr. Landon.

University Editorials

The Los Angeles Junior College lingual blossomed forth with a new idea last week. They say why not vote at the age of eighteen? They even had the audacity to suggest that Russiana do. They must not have considered the fact that Adolphe we'll let our Los Angeles friend tell you girls who aren't registering at the Spcik this week where to get off:

Among the many revolutionary changes inserted in the revamped Russian constitution is the privilege granted the youth of Russia above eighteen to vote. In America, today, the period limit stations for the first time becoming interested in politics as a group.

While Russia's youth seats its ballot at eighteen, America's young men and women must pass their twenty-first birthday before voting. Many are the arguments in favor of keeping the age limit at twenty-one' Few are those seeking to lower it. The Principal argument of those wishing to retain, if not raise the age limit, is that the average is not fully developed he reaches the required age is politically immature, lacking the moderate understanding of the functions of government. What makes them think they are reaching twenty-one our young men and women have had time to gain a more thorough understanding of government and politics?

If before reaching twenty-one, a course is given the interest in his country to find out the basic principles and functions, he is more than likely to forego ever learning them.

Naturalized American citizens are given as examination in essays and attend citizenship schools before granted their right to vote. Why shouldn't native-born Americans be forced to take a similar exam, with those failing to pass being allowed to vote until they have learned enough about their government to pass such a test?

—Hornet

Because the North Texas State Teacher's college thinks all college papers should take a stand on the problem of war, pacifism, pacifists who herewith offer for your consideration the following brief comment an editorial found in their columns

It is time that all college papers take a definite stand on the current wave of super-patriotism that is sweeping the country and filling school teachers' oath laxet. It especially important that college and all other persons whose writings or utterances directly influence the thinking of others take the general public. Intended as an attack upon the pernicious private influences in public schools. Those who have become a means by which our government has been seriously mumbled in a number of states. Those who have left free and unhampered by political servitude to voice the great sentiments of humanity. All systems of political and economic organizations should be subject to free and constantly discussed in our classrooms just as chemical compounds or guinea pigs are taken apart in the laboratory and an effort made to determine their functions and worth. Such a method if not indoctrination or propagandism is teaching. If we are to continue to progress economically and politically as we have scientifically not only the freedom of the press and of speech must be maintained but teachers must be allowed to enjoy the same privileges of freedom The time is coming when we make this year to its students so that they will realize the significance of this movement and be prepared to resist it—Cayuha Arrow.

—Hornet

According to the Indian, the right hand of Mona Lisa painted by Leonardo da Vinci is said to be the most perfect hand ever painted. That may be artistically true but give us Barbara Hutton closing a check made out to Daughter.

—Hornet

COLLEGE CRIMES

Hinhway robbery. Stealing on any senior as a good example. Monkey business. Stealing on a monday.

Money under false pretenses. Ten dollars from Dad for books books.

Bribery Offering the professor a good excuse for poor work Perjury Writing Mother how hard you studied.

—Hornet

According to the Iowa State Daily, the real purpose of Iowa State say it is difficult to tell a freshman from an upperclassman nowadays. If you can't tell a senior here at Florida State. She's the one who has the permanent she has been so worn down by four years at hard labor that she goes around in a daze.

—S. S.

Says the Yellow Jacket: "Pictures must be handed in with themes at Northwestern University so that the professor will know whose work he is grading. It would save the thoughtful Northwestern are dumb, according to grades, anyway.

Collegiate Come-Back

We tried to hold up the quality of Investiture last week but don't some of the seniors be rare with caps two and one-half inches too small? Still this is give the impression that the best of the wearer is weighty in knowledge—or a bushy permanent.

From an anonymous person who signs herself "A Person Paris." we received the following heart-plus-two-cents:

To Helen of the Dining Hall
The face that launched a thousand ships
And caused the fall of Troy;
The beauty, whose romantic fame
Drained Greece of man and boy;
The mortal whom a goddess chose
As loveliest of mortals—
Was made the toast of ebony and snow
But placed within Paines penthouse.

Our Helen scorns a passive fleet. She moves a set-up of meat. She never stoops to drama grease.
But just displaces her graces
That Helen stirred a Rommer affair.
Our Helen's feat is greater:
She made me look up from the Iliad
Forgot my sweet "potater."

The Junior Collegian reports that from a questionnaire submitted to students by the superintendents the following helpful bit of information was obtained. One student remarked that a recitation is asked in class that I can't answer." Which calls for a particularly bright pupil and the professor usually calls on the "A" in slack and alas. what if there aren't any bright students? Or what if the prof doesn't fully fraternize with telepathy? A vicious circle, eh, what?

—S. S.

One member of the graduating class of '37 Eureka, in the newest words of tongue or pen attended Junior Prom in the flesh of our hand book. "A senior may rise at any time."

From the Daily Trojan we delve into the depths of the little dirty of the seniors of yester-eve:

To college, to college,
To learn all you can
Home again, home again,
Still in a coma.

According to the *Creighton*ian Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently withdrew all married alleaches and clerks from the American embassy and replaced them with bachelors. We don't have any report on when the next boat leaves for Madrid, girls.

—Hornet

Also from the *Creighton*ian we learn that the present day custom of osculation, kissing if you, shocks and puzzles our Japanese brethren. They don't think anything for the Japs to kiss their wives in public instances where this practice has brought about temporary unconsciousness.

—Hornet

An exchanger tells of the New York professor who asserts that the student who relaxes and rests during the week-end loses the greatest amount of information. It would in the case maybe we should give A.B.'s and B.S.'s at the end of two, instead of four, years

—Hornet

Love is like an onion;
You taste it with delight
But in a while you wonder
Whatever made you bite.

—Hornet

According to the Indian, the right hand of Mona Lisa painted by Leonardo da Vinci is said to be the most perfect hand ever painted. That may be artistically true but give us Barbara Hutton closing a check made out to Daughter.

—Hornet

COLLEGE CRIMES

Highway robbery. Stealing on any senior as a good example. Monkey business. Stealing on a monday.

Money under false pretenses. Ten dollars from Dad for books books.

Bribery Offering the professor a good excuse for poor work Perjury Writing Mother how hard you studied.

—Hornet

According to the Iowa State Daily, the real purpose of Iowa State say it is difficult to tell a freshman from an upperclassman nowadays. If you can't tell a senior here at Florida State. She's the one who has the permanent she has been so worn down by four years at hard labor that she goes around in a daze.

—S. S.

Says the Yellow Jacket: "Pictures must be handed in with themes at Northwestern University so that the professor will know whose work he is grading. It would save the thoughtful Northwestern are dumb, according to grades, anyway.

The Social Week

Parties Honoring Pledges Begin With Pi Phi Circus

Beginning tonight at 8 o'clock with a circus given by the Pi Beta Phi pledges, the pledges of the seventeen sororities on campus will be entertained by a series of similar parties honoring pledges of the other sororities.

Carrying out the circus theme there will be booths and side shows arranged in the back yard of the Pi Phi house, each of them having as the main attraction a fat lady, snake charmer, bearded lady, or some other circus freak. There will also be a fortune teller.

During the evening hot dogs, lemonade, and peanuts will be served to those attending the circus.

Hostesses at this affair will be: Olive Adamson, Mary Allen, Jane Anderson, Marjorie Anderson, Marian Bedell, Mabel Bennett, Eleanor Bennett, Mathern Coleman, Betty Curtis, Mary Ellen Destrey-lat, Betty Davis, Mac Dunaway, Louise Fogarte, May Holliday, Virginia Holmer, Janet Jewel, Virginia Johnson, Margaret Johnson, Margaret Kennard, Mary Alice Lester, Eula Ley, Caroline Lowe, Janet Mattern, Joan Miller, Caroline Mills, Frances Moore, Katharine Savarese, Katherine McCready, Harriet Nelson, Mary Robbins, Mary Susan Rawley, Lucille Smoak, Jeanne Stanley, Lillian Taylor, Berbara Tyler, Betty Virning, Juanita Wiggins, Dorothea Marsh, and Mary Woodward.

Kappa Alpha Thets

The Kappa Alpha Theta pledges will entertain at 7 o'clock tomorrow night with a marine party honoring the Theta pledges on campus.

The house will be decorated to resemble a large ocean liner. The front door will be arranged as a gang plank and the side porch will represent the deck of the ship. Hostesses will be costumed as sailors.

During the evening the guests will join in singing nautical songs and dancing the hornpipe, after which chocolate and doughnuts will be served over an improvised bar.

Pledges of the Kappa Alpha Theta society who will be hostesses at all the time are: Marjorie Adams, Doris Edwards, Frances Oliver, Kathryn Rawls, Ilma Lebar, Betty Miller, Amelia Avant, Virginia Newbern, Ruth Terrell, Dorothy Kramer, Margaret Robertz, Dorene Medlin, Murrey Ann Pelcher, Rosemary Hoffman, Myrtle Butts, Betty Gaskin, Ruth Williams, Dorothy Steele, Madge Williams, Virginia Eager, Lavina Spaulding, Annie Laurie Polk, Annie Laurie Sanchez, Ruth Fisher and Helen Ransley.

J. W. G. Elects Daum To Head Group For Ensuing Year

The Jewish Woman's organization formally opened its program for the year with the election of officers Friday, October 2, when the group met at the Delta Phi Epsilon house.

Heading the organization this year will be: Rosalyn Daum, president; Ruth Rubin, vice-president; Judith Wilksy, secretary; and Sylvia Feigo, treasurer.

Committee chairmen appointed by the president were: Hannah Bancow, program; Rose Levin, social; Minna Agress, publicity.

Members present at the meeting were: Rosalie Feigenbaum, Rosalyn Barr, Frances Gold, Rosalind Silverberg, Rosalie Prithery, Lillian Fleet, Jean Manken, Jenny Sterkies, Mariel Tepper, Jeanette Kronenfield, Helen Shawkowsky, Jeanette Spector, Florence Kenaeck, Harriet Tobin, Edna Feinberg, Margaret Plahler, Maxine Braverman, Irene Braverman, Jene Gergenheimer, Cynthia Pearlman, Jeanette Rubin, Muriel Lieberan, Rose Levin, Ruth Esther Rosen, Ida Pearl Miller, Beatrice Grus, Nathalie Hackel, Katherine Kass, Margaret Benjamin, Elsie Lippman, Rose Appel, Ruby Bronstein, Idella Baumstein, Jerry Rosenberg.

Dormitory Teas Begin Tuesday in Parlors

The social committee wishes to remind students of the weekly informal teas to be given in the dormitories beginning Tuesday, October 13.

Teas will be given in Gilchrist and Bowers halls Tuesday, in Bryan and Reynolds Wednesday, and in Jennie Murphee Thursday afternoons at 4:30 o'clock.

Students are requested not to attend teas other than those in their own dormitory, and they are encouraged to invite members of the faculty to be guests at these affairs. Off campus students may attend teas in any of the parlors.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Frederick Heinlein of Baltimore, Maryland, parents of Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, are today celebrating their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary.

Miss Virginia P. Moore has returned to her duties connected with the home demonstration extension service after a month's absence during which time she was at the rural sanatarium in Madison, Tennessee, and visiting relatives in Nashville and Cedia tia.

Miss Ruby McDaniel, district home demonstration agent for west Florida, who was injured in an automobile accident on a return trip from the national 4-H club congress in Washington, D. C., last June, has returned to her home in Pensacola to resume her duties here at an early date.

Mrs. Carl Fleming of Atlanta, Ga., visited her daughter, Ellen, at the Alpha Delta Pi house yesterday.

Miss Ann Cartwright of Orlando was a guest at the Delta Delta Delta house this week.

Alpha Gamma Deltas Entertain Tea Feting Faculty

Members and pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained yesterday afternoon in the chapter house with a tea party given with an informal tea honoring members of the faculty.

The house was appropriately decorated with early fall flowers for the affair and during the tea hour hot tea and cookies were served by Miss Ann Gilbert, president of the sorority.

Hostesses at this time were: Betsy Gilbert, Frances Bishop, Madge Collier, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Dee, Mary Jane Gallemore, Helena Godwin, Yulia Harrison, Mary Ann Hay, Dodie Hill, Mary Lucy, Miss Lucy Henderson, Mrs. Lilla Mae Ketchum, Lindsay Page, Mrs. Pearl Bernay, Miss Clarissa Knight, Miss Esther Hooker, Mrs. Leah Sistle, William Budd, Miss Rachel Pitchford, Miss Sue Pitchford and Miss Etta Burleson.

Village Vamps Hold First Meeting To Elect Officers

The first meeting of the year was held by the Village Vamps Wednesday night in the Kappa Delta house to elect officers for the new year.

New officers are: Peggy Van Dyke, presiding lady; Danner Baker, tax timer; and Hill, keeper of the dates; Leona Howe, chief goldigger; Mickey Mickler, keyhole peeper. Committees were appointed for the year to take charge of the annual dance, party and Glee club tickets, which the club has been managing for the past two years.

Coffee, mints, and sandwiches, arranged on a silver service, were served by Peggy McMichael, former presiding lady, at the end of the business meeting.

The next meeting will be held in the Chi Omega house.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject — it will cost only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 638-R
Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

NON-SORORITY SOPHOMORE COUNCIL HONORED TONIGHT BY PANHELLENIC

That Panhellenic executive council interprets the "bread cast upon the waters . . ." adage literally will be proved tonight when the members will honor the non-sorority sophomore council girls at a banquet to be held at the Dutch Kitchen in appreciation of their assistance during "rush week."

Place cards illustrating the friendly bond between the two groups will carry out the garnet and gold color scheme. A colorful effect will be obtained by the use of draped streamers and a centerpiece of garnet and gold carnations.

Members of the Panhellenic council in charge of the dinner are Mary McGunagle, president; Ruth Garcia, secretary; Kay Harris; Ruth Sadler; and Pat Foster.

Sophomore council girls to be honored are: Maarjorie Rauleson, sponsor, Eloise Trott, Dorothy Bishop, Margaret Wolcott, Sara Lytle, Nell Colvin, Betty Russell, Frances Douglas, Harriet Dabel, Florence Ward, Dot Marwick, Katharine Bacon, Charlotte Kemper, Esther O'Bryne, Marion Usher, Jean Zatharias, Nancy Elsinger, Sue Pinner, and Bunny Lowery.

Sorority representatives invited include: Kay Harris, Katherine Smith, Pat Foster, Ruth Garcia, Ruth Sadler, Sara Moore, Winona Ireland, Jane Brown, Janet Charles, Mary Emmels, Pat Hamilton, Sue Whitaker, Jean Bowman, Frances Lingle, Marjory Bunn, Frances Morrow, Marion Heper, Lurline Goodman, Emily Blackwell, Kitty McGarry, Betsy Anderson, Virginia Peyton, Mary Phillips Chalker, Margaret Wilson, Lillian Simmons, Elizabeth Spencer, Ruth Lind, Olivia Sorenson, Lois Hughes, Madeline McCall, Jane Sutton, Jean Wilde, Edna Feinberg, and Margaret Fuhler.

Alpha Omicron Pi Has Treasure Hunt For Rushees Saturday

The active members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority entertained rushees and friends with a party and treasure hunt Saturday night in the sorority house on Park avenue.

Following the treasure hunt bridge was played by the guests after which the pledges served refreshments.

Hostesses at this time were: Doris Godard, Madeline McCall, Betty Barr, Jane Sutton, Frances Hobbs, Hassel Noe, Sybil Cheshire, Marjorie Goss, Jeanne Magnus, Virginia Early, Betty McMillen, Lucille Dale, Cita Goodell, Janet Cook, Mary Brent, Rosalie Merrell, Mary Jo Noe, Margaret Tyler and Angela Griffey.

Watson, Miemter Clark, Edith Hays Effinger, Ceala Effinger, Freddie Frink, Caroline Lowe, Florine Morris, Elisabeth Whitden, Florence Mayfield, Betty Deaton, Betty Bostain, Jo Shelley, Jean Death, Victoria Crisp, Peggy Williams, Elizabeth Griffey, Eugenia Glass, and Dot Rickards.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance To Entertain Flambeau Staff Members

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lynn Vance will entertain members of the Flambeau staff with a flounder party at Wakulla beach tomorrow afternoon and night.

The party will leave at 2:30 o'clock and will motor to the beach where bathing and beach sports will be enjoyed. Later a picnic supper will be served and the party will begin the flounder expedition around 8 o'clock.

Members of the staff who will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vance at this time are: Hassel Bowman, Eleanor Williams, Pearle Shepard, Evelyn Fisher, Jane Quinn, Sarah Beth Davis, Sarah Dealers, Helen Agress, Arline Lockhart, Ella Virginia Brooks, Mary Mayer, Lillie McGuire, and Nan O'Shaughnessy.

Y.W.A. To Have First Meeting

Baptist Students to Be Installed Tonight At Campfire

New officers of the Young Women's auxiliary, the mission-ary organization of the Baptist student union, will be installed tonight at the first meeting of the year. The meeting will be in form of a campfire service under the direction of Sadie Anderson, who will lead a discussion on the life of Ann Hasseltine Judson for whom all Young Women's College auxiliaries are named. Mrs. W. W. Blount will speak for the Inez Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church.

Tuesday night the Young Women's auxiliary will hold a special meeting with Miss Louise Sandefer, Baptist young people's leader, and Dr. R. Plainfield, a missionary worker from the Italian Baptist mission in Tampa.

The officers of the auxiliary include: president, Esther Goodwin; vice-president, Dorothy Crews; personal service chairman, Ines Lanier; secretary-treasurer, Frances Parmer; publicity chairman, Mary Ann O'Neal; missionary study chairman, Elsie Benfroe; music chairman, Evelyn Hamlin; social chairman, Vernelle Brewer; circle chairmen, Ethel Hudgins, Josephine Brewer, Annis Pendleton and Margaret Tyler; off-campus representative, Lucile Robinson.

The student society, the executive council of the Episcopal auxiliary, held a supper meeting last Tuesday. Members of the society include: president, Lotsie Lingo; vice-president, Mildred Seekins; secretary, Betty Bow; assistant secretary, Middie Moore; treasurer, Katherine Bacon, and Elisabeth Matheny; librarian, Charlotte Kemper; music chairman, Sue Pinner; social service chairman, Sallie Ratliff; food committee chairman, Frances Lingle; Betty chairmen, Polly Flint and Victoria Crisp; membership chairmen, Louise Gehan, and Betty Harrison; transportation committee chairman, Mary Hamilton Mesginnis; United Thanks-Offering chairman, Helen Cate; athletic chairman, Betty White; altar guild chairman, Mary Louise Weaver; social chairmen, Betty Cottingham; music chairman, Frances Lewis.

After supper an informal discussion was held to formulate plans for the year.

Clock Invention Spurs Heinlein

There is no longer any need for dilly-dallying around the office waiting for Dr. C. P. Heinlein's return in order to ask him the psychology or why one can't concentrate on French idioms just before noonah with the scent of cabbage, fish, or apple sauce greatly wafting in the window from the kitchen, or any other such profound questions of life and psychology. To prevent the loss of valuable time Dr. Heinlein has constructed an efficient though quite simple device for letting everyone know just when he will return to his office.

This device is in the nature of a clock, printed on a sheet of plain cardboard. At the top is printed "Out; I will return—" with either a "today," "tomorrow," or "Monday" sign in place and with the hands placed at the approximate rather than accurate (according to the student assistant) hour of his return.

It is to be outdone by their professor Dr. Heinlein's student assistants have made another clock similar to the original invention. On this clock are two pairs of hands, red for Marguerite Sisk, and green for Mary Lucille Hazelton.

There are rumors to the effect that another ingenuous invention of efficiency will soon appear to sign stating "No parking here—This is my busy day."

Nobody feel that Dr. Heinlein should have his inventions patented.

Topic Planned For IRC Meet

Members of International Club Will Discuss Spanish Crisis

"The Changing World" and its manifestations in Spain will be the topic of the first few meetings of the International Relations club, according to Anna Marie Mitchell, program chairman. All students interested in International relations are welcomed at these bi-monthly meetings held in the Broward club room at 8 o'clock every other Thursday.

Various new thought trends and current events will be discussed in open forum meetings, and speakers from throughout the state and country will address the group.

Requirements for gaining entrance to the club are to attend three successive meetings and to show one's interested in world affairs.

The International Relations club here is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and is one of 600 such clubs scattered throughout the world for the purpose to bring about friendly relations among nations by acquainting understanding of the problems faced by each.

Loftin Given Position As Demonstration Agent For County of Sumter

Miss Evelyn Loftin, newly appointed home demonstration agent for Sumter county, began work there on Monday of last week, it was announced by Miss Mary McKevlin, state home demonstration agent.

Miss Loftin is a graduate of Summerfield high school in Marion county and is expected to receive a degree from the University of Florida next summer. Miss Loftin has taught home economics at Oxford, Summerfield, and Dunnellon for the past eight years. She will work with rural women and girls in Sumter county.

Lucky for You — It's a Light Smoke!

KIND TO YOUR THROAT— A Light Smoke

There's a friendly relation in every puff and a feeling of comfort and ease when your cigarette is a light smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco — A LUCKY.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES

Luckies — a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936 The American Tobacco Company

As Gentle as it is Delicious!

For Lucky Strike is not merely mild and mellow in taste, but a genuine light smoke which always treats you gently. You will find it easy on your throat, kind when you inhale, friendly all day long. If you believe in a gentle smoke, you believe in Luckies! Among all cigarettes, this is the one which offers you the welcome protection of that famous process known to the world as "It's Toasted." And this is the one that millions turn to—for deliciousness, for protection, for all-day smoking pleasure! Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

★ ★ NEWS FLASH! ★ ★

"Sweepstakes" employs 6,000 to address entries!

Over 6,000 people are employed in addressing return entry cards for that "Sweepstakes" contest game, Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes." Entries come from every State in the Union.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your Luckies—a flat tin of 50 delicious Lucky Strikes? Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the music—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them, too. Maybe you've been missing something. You'll appreciate the advantage of Luckies—a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

AAUW Arranges Club Calendar For This Year

Organization Expects To Complete Scholarship Fund of $2000

At its initial meeting in September the American Association of University Women announced its club calendar and set forth its aims for the forthcoming year.

The organization will cooperate with all organizations and movements whose interests are correlated with those of the A. A. U. W. Their interest will be directed particularly in the fields of cultural and education. Furthermore, the club expects to complete its $2,000 Receiving Scholarship fund this year. Contribution toward the million dollar fund also scored as an educational project by the national A. A. U. W. is a part of the program also.

In addition to the regular business and social meetings six forums are being sponsored.

Monday, October 12, the club will entertain prospective new members with a reception at the home of Mrs Leland Lewis in the Country Club estates. At this time Dr. Marion Hay will talk on Spain. Mrs. Earl Vance and Miss Ruth McKinnell have arranged a travelogue to follow the talk. Also the international relations committee will conduct a forum.

At the November meeting the education committee will present a forum accompanied by a travelogue.

December brings a business meeting, and in January a musical program and a forum are scheduled.

Reading and reviewing plays followed by the senior party is on the February calendar of the club. At the March meeting a panel discussion will be conducted. Later in the month officers for 1937-1938 will be elected.

The April program centers around a forum and a review of modern novels. The club's official season closes with the installation of officers, at which time a report of the state meeting of the A. A. U. W. will be read.

Officers of the A.A.U.W. for 1936-1937 are: Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, president; Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, first vice-president; Miss Anna Forbes Liddell, second vice-president; Miss Margaret Campbell, recording secretary; Miss Annie M. Popper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Breen, treasurer; Miss Kathryn Abbey, Miss Ruth Conner, Miss Julia Gehan, members of the board.

Members of the A.A.U.W. committees are: Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, chairman of program steering committee; Miss Mildred Pinnegan, chairman of legislative committee; Mrs. Leland Lewis, chairman of education committee; Mrs. Gordan Long, chairman of finance committee; Miss Julia Gehan, co-chairman of finance committee; Miss Venilla Shores, chairman of graduate loan fund committee; Mrs. H. F. Becker, chairman of membership committee; Mrs. Ada B. Allan, chairman of international relations committee; Miss Helen McKean, chairman of hospitality committee; Miss Katherine Warren, chairman of publicity committee; Miss Jennie Tilt, chairman of million dollar fund committee; Miss Sadie Young, chairman of committee on economic and legal status of women in the United States.

Demonstration School Loses First Game With Six-Man Football Team

The college demonstration school played its first game of six-man football with Monticello Tuesday, losing by a score of 24-0.

The purpose of six-man football is to assist schools that cannot support a larger team. The present form eliminates the two guards, two tackles, and a half back; the fundamentals of the game are the same.

Those boys playing on the Florida High team are: David Skipper, captain; H. B. Rossch, halfback; Robert Lee, end; Frank Gray, quarterback; Jack Richey, fullback; Ben Ervin, end; Earl Smith, center; Rufus Keel, tullback; Ralph Causseaux, end; William Baker, end; Fred Miller, end; Keith Kent, end; T. J. Hawes, center and Jack Whiddon, end.

The coaches are Mr. Oval Harrison and Mr. Donald Loucks; the trainer is Mr. J. B. Kelly.

Three Here Are In "Who's Who"

Continued from page one

ano at Wesleyan and later was teacher of piano and theory at the Cincinnati Conservatory. Since 1912 she has been the dean of the School of Music and professor of piano and organ at Florida State College for Women.

Dean Opperman is a member of the Music Teachers National association of which she is the assistant secretary, the National Association of the Schools of Music, the American Guild of Organists, and the Florida Music Teachers association.

Cellophane Vs. Caberdine Is New Issue

Leaky Raincoats, No Hats Supplanted by Hoods And Slickers

College girls now come "wrapped in cellophane" — particularly on rainy days.

Take a rainy day like yesterday. From every corner of the campus girls in cellophane — red, green, blue all the colors of the rainbow —darted from the administration building to the dining hall and then on to the gym in their new "slick-able" raincoats.

With the craze to be "wrapped in cellophane" sweeping the campus some discussion for and against the latest rain-breakers is being handled about among fellow students. To date such samples scenes have been witnessed.

Girl in cellophane to girl in trench coat: "You have to lug an umbrella around, but I don't. This hood contraption keeps my head as dry as toast."

Cellophane addict in grey to a close friend: "This grey cellophane makes me positively lyrical. You must read Shelley's latest verses called 'Rain Over Tallahassee.' Why, the Dizzell threatens to publish it."

A home economics major, evidently the strongest champion of cellophane yet: "Why, I have four of them. To match different dresses, you know. In clothing we learned—"

And now the new style.

Girl in a snug fitting gaberdine to a girl in cellophane: "Those cellophane things will probably stand up under a light summer shower, but watch them fold up when the monsoons set in up here."

Girl in a sturdy suede-finish coat: "Cellophane is so deceptive looking. I'd feel like I was getting wet even though I wasn't."

The debate, pro and con, goes on. For the present it looks like the girls in cellophane know all about stormy weather.

Personnel To Finish Files

Upperclassmen Interview New Students During First Quarter

A selected group of upperclassmen has been chosen by the Personnel office to interview all freshmen and transfer students during the first quarter of the school year. One of the important functions of the personnel office is the keeping of complete records of each student in school. The information secured in these interviews is of a strictly confidential nature.

The records are kept up to date by the addition from time to time of students activities, honors, grades, health, or any other items of interest, and at the end of the four years a very complete record of the student's college life has been accumulated.

Letters will be sent out to new students notifying them of the time of interview. If there is a conflict in schedule students may call at the personnel office before the time of the interview and change the appointment. The time required for an interview will be about twenty minutes.

The group of interviewers this year contains many girls who are leaders in campus activities. They are: Janice Borton, president of Y.W.C.A.; Marian Conn, first vice-president of C.O.A.; Betty Mack, treasurer senior class; Lillie McGuire, business manager of Flambeau; Peggy McMichael, vice-president senior class; Anna Jane McRae; Ann Norris, chairman of personnel of Y.W.C.A.; Bernice Oliver, Gilchrist house chairman; Daisy Parker, editor-in-chief of The Distaff; Marjorie Rauberson, second vice-president of C.O.A.; Hazel Sangster, holder of Gilchrist scholarship, Pearl Edna Smith, graduate nurse—assistant in nursery school; Marjorie Tillis, president of Mortar Board; Beulah Watkins.

Mrs. Clark Is On List

The name of Mrs. Lottie M. Clark, senior, was inadvertently left off of the approbation list published in the Flambeau last week.

Art Department Offers New Individual Study Course for Art Majors

A new individual study course is being offered by the art department in answer to the requests of students who wish to do advanced work in some specific field.

Juniors and seniors who are majoring in art are eligible for this course, which is similar to the program followed by students doing honors work in that each girl may choose the instructor under which she will study. Since there are no regular classes scheduled for this course, the students are put into study groups consisting of four or five girls.

There are a number of fields from which the student may choose the subject for her advanced study. These are courses in interior decorating, costume illustration, design, figure sketching, graphic arts, head life, and stage craft.

Students Will See Movie

All students are invited to attend the sound motion picture production to be presented by the education department of the Chevrolet Motor company October 29 at 4:30 in the Augusta Conrad Little theater. The two films, one of which is built around the principle of inertia and the other on safety, are to be presented with the permission of the personnel office.

There is no admission charge, and a half hour of interesting and educational entertainment is promised.

Kellum Outlines Building Plans

Ad Building Completion Set at Christmas Holidays

Building improvements now being carried on on the campus and those planned for the future were recently disclosed by Mr. John G. Kellum, Business Manger, who sets the date for the completion of the north wing of the Administration building at the Christmas holidays or January 1. at the latest.

The work now being done on the dining room arcades has been slowed down by lack of material and workmen. However, they should be ready for use by November 1. The glassing in of the arcade will provide for students a more comfortable place to wait on cold and rainy days. Seats will be placed along the sides and the floor covered with linoleum.

No definite appropriations have yet been made for a new dormitory, but plans are underway toward its construction. The present plans of the proposed dormitory, which will accommodate about 400 students, provides for its location to be north of Gilchrist Hall with a west front.

An open-air theater and formal gardens north of the new dormitory will be included in this project. An added feature in the landscaping will be a drive leading from the new dormitory west to Calhoun street.

Improvements for the dining hall will consist of building small units on the west end of the kitchen, thereby providing more room and also economical serving. The present dining hall and kitchen were so planned in the beginning to enable this future need for expansion at the slightest cost. Only a pantry need be added on the west end of the kitchen to allow it to serve all units at once.

Money is being reserved also to go toward making Bryan Hall a student activity building. When other space is provided, Bryan Hall will be remodeled into a well-equipped building with game rooms, student offices, reception halls and meeting rooms. A possible addition of several floors will provide comfortable lodging for students' parents visiting them on campus.

Eight Letters Bring Drudgery To Any Student

Campus Joys Forsaken By Martyrs Wishing To Read Parallel

Parallel, though a word of only eight little letters, conveys to the mind of any college girl the idea of long hours of drudgery.

It may be just a word meaning "having the same course" to the world at large, but to the student it means forsaking the campers, the strollers, and the Sweet Shop addicts for the skimming of numberless pages. These pages may contain information regarding the analysis of current sociological questions, the characteristics of the religious ceremonies of the early American Indian, the physical appearance of the Teutonic invaders of the Holy Roman Empire, or worse yet, the description of the parietal bone of primitive man in the paleolithic period. The one requirement necessary is that the material must be hopelessly boring.

Some of the martyrs to this small tyrannical world may gather on Saturday night after the blessing in order to wait in line for a book in the reserve room. They belong to the group of conscientious study-bugs who read parallel each week during the semester. Many of them go so far as to read a few extra books in the hope that they may impress some hard-boiled professor.

A much less clever and a much more popular way is to neglect the reading until the last week of the semester and then take out a book merely to copy chapter headings and page numbers.

No matter what the system for doing it may be, parallel reading is a most annoying trial for every student. It's a strange and cruel phenomenon that one little word can mean so much.

Visiometer Made By Dr. Heinlein

Continued from page one

that a deaf person who at one time had had an audible appreciation of tone and musical progress might readily associate the light patterns with imaged musical melodies. He plans to conduct experiments in the field of color rhythm and believes it will be of value in determining the attentive powers of persons, especially those of pre-chool childrens.

State Board of AAUW Meets in Gainesville

From the October meeting of the State Board of the American Association of University Women held in Gainesville Mrs. Christian Paul Heinlein, State Chairman of the Education Committee of the Florida Division, brings word that two important decisions regarding the State and National meetings have been made.

Since the Biennial Convention of the A. A. U. W. will be held on March 15-19, 1937, at Savannah, Georgia, the board considers it advisable to concentrate on this national meeting and to dispense with the annual state meeting in the spring. However, district meetings in Florida have been scheduled for the fall. The Tallahassee branch plans to meet the Panama City and Pensacola branches in a district meeting in the northern part of the state.

SPARKS STATE PHONE 180

Friday and Saturday

A CALL WITH THE WORLD'S GREATEST STARS! THE BIG BROADCAST OF 1937

Sunday and Monday

FOUR FAMOUS FEMININE STARS IN LADIES LOVE

Tuesday Only

3 MARRIED MEN

Wednesday Only VICTOR McLAGLEN in "The Magnificent Brute"

Thursday Only

LOVE—IN A QUANDRY! Janet Gaynor and Fredric March in WALKING ON AIR

BENNETT'S WEEK-END SPECIALS — EXTRA SPECIAL — Bar-B-Q Chicken on Hot Bun, Potato Chips, Lemonade Fruit Salad, Whipped Cream, Cherries, Chilled Pineapple with McPhail Sherbet 25c

25c Ex-Lax	17c	60c Squibb's Tooth Paste	25c
10c Lux Toilet Soap, 3 for	13c	25c Bayer's Aspirin	18c
50c Squibb's Milk Mag.	29c	60c Parker's Shampoo	44c
25c Nurn	29c	50c Lazar Dusting Pow.	24c
25c Ipana Tooth Paste	29c	Kotex 12's	19c
		Modess 12's	17c
		Kleenex 200's	13c

PHONE 800 MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY

Chesterfield Mins

... they're milder

they have a more pleasing taste and aroma

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Music Lovers Keep Wednesday And Thursday Open

The Florida Flambeau

Don't Forget Address By Dean Brown In Tuesday's Chapel

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, October 16, 1936 NUMBER THREE

Clarence Nice Directs "Aida" Here Thursday

Two-Day Music Festival Will Bring Symphony And Grand Opera

200 MUSICIANS TO PARTICIPATE

Federal Ensemble Tours State, Performing In Main Cities

A two-day musical festival including a symphony orchestra concert and the presentation of Verdi's grand opera "Aida," will be presented at Florida State College for Women by the Federal Music Project under the direction of Dr. Clarence Carter Nice, Wednesday and Thursday October 21 and 22.

This festival will mark the first appearance of the combined symphony units from the Tampa, Jacksonville, and Miami orchestras under the baton of Mr. Nice who is the former music director of the Philadelphia Grand Opera company and for many seasons guest conductor of the San Carlos Opera company in Cuba.

Federal Music Project Orchestra

Combined choruses from Tampa, Jacksonville, and Miami have been assembled by the federal music project to support the opera star from New York who will take the principal roles. The entire group including the symphony orchestra from these cities forms a company of 200 members. The final performance Wednesday night will present a symphony orchestra of 125 musicians and the entire assembly will take part in the operatic performance Thursday night.

Admission for the two performances will be one dollar. Tickets may be purchased at the business office from Mrs. Pearl Beverly or at the college book store. Tickets will also be on sale at the Rexfern music store on the corner of College ave. and Monroe street.

Performance Begins Tour

The appearance of the Federal Music Project at Tallahassee will allow a two day festival in Asheville and will be the beginning of a tour during which the program will be presented in the larger cities throughout the state.

The production will have as stage manager Frank T. Vaughan, former New York stage director of the Theatre Guild productions. Scenes which included "The Desert Song" and the screen version of "Tennesse Nights." The scenery will present a setting of Egyptian columns, terraces, and a wide and river Nile for the Verdi opera.

Studio Party Will Be Given

Freshmen Will Be Told Of Campus Groups

A studio party will be held in the big gymnasium next Saturday night, October 24, for the benefit of all freshmen. The object of this party is to explain to the freshmen the purposes and work of the various organizations on campus.

This entertainment, which will be in the form of an informal studio party, is being sponsored by the committee on activities of the freshman classes and organizations.

The following organizations will present skits: Young Women's Christian association, Women's Athletic association, college government association, international relations club, Panhellenic, and Mortar Board.

DAR Chapter Will Be Established on Campus

The Florida society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is planning for the installation of a chapter at Florida State College.

The chapter is to be established for girls on campus who are eligible for membership and are interested in D. A. R. work.

Students who are eligible and wish to become members of the college chapter are requested to communicate with Miss Louise Casanisin; regent for this chapter at Campanile, 611 West Jefferson street.

Women Voters Will Hear Talk by Abbey

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, professor of history, will speak to women voters at a Democratic rates to be held at the Tallahassee Woman's club on Wednesday, October 21 at 3 o'clock. Dr. Abbey's subject will be "Trends in Modern Government," and her talk will be non-partisan. Students of voting age are especially invited to attend. The tea is being sponsored by the Democratic women of Leon county.

Andrews Talks Of Social Work Open To Women

Lists Divisions Included In That Field; Says Chances Good

Continuing a series of talks on vocations for women, Dr. Elizabeth Andrews talked to students yesterday afternoon on the subject "The Field of Social Work."

Dr. Andrews began her talk by listing some of the divisions of work included in the social field, such as placement, which includes community organization; group work, which concentrates about the work and club work; social case work, and administration of unemployment, are divisions of the social field.

"Women's opportunities in this field are superior to those of men," Dr. Andrews said. "The demand for them has exceeded supply."

In listing personal requirements, Dr. Andrews said: "If you don't like to work with people don't go into social work. Character, honesty, courage, fair and square dealing, respect for human rights, willingness to make personal adjustments for the good of others, a sense responsibility, a passion to help the cause of humanity, should go to find a way to eliminate them, and equally as strong a desire to secure social justice for all, are all-importance requirements for social workers. Physical and mental health, self control, hopefully modern and decently liberal, are other factors important in social work.

"The physical aspects of the work include close contact with all sorts of people, irregular hours, heavy responsibility, dealing with the emotional and unstable, much walking and stair-climbing, concentration of attention, accuracy of information, and no set hours.

"The educational requirements for a social worker are: general education; four years of college with economics, sociology, political science and history as prerequisite courses; specialization of two years in a graduate school; work which includes case work, mental hygiene, health work, recreation, child welfare, community work, social work, social statistics, social legislation, labor problems, and so on.

"Types of social work include: family service and relief, child welfare, visiting nursing, medical care for insane, psychological and psychiatric service, probation, hospital social service, health education, recreation, crippled children, women's work, rural work, vocational guidance, teaching.

Continued on page two

Dr. Hay to Give Talk To Alliance Francaise In Jacksonville Meet

Dr Marion Hay of the department of romance languages will leave to give a lecture before the French Alliance in Jacksonville, Nov 2. The lecture will be given in French on the subject, "The Effect of the Napoleonic Revolution in France."

The Alliance Francaise members are composed of the entire former French citizens, French teachers, or those interested in speaking the language. It has branches in the same cities which have French colonies.

Dr. Hay is president of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish. She has spent every summer for the last six years in Spain. She was in Spain last July when the revolution broke out and remained there until August when she crossed the border into France.

Her lecture will be based on her personal experience in revolutionary Spain and her class contact with the Associated Press while in Madrid. In her talk she will explain the causes of the present struggle for power and the probable results when either party is victorious.

First Exhibit Of Art Opened By Department

Work of Twelve Modern Painters Featured In Display

BRIGGS TO GIVE LECTURE TUESDAY

Show is One of Series Of Four to Come Here This Year

The first exhibit of Living American Art opened yesterday at noon in the rooms of the art department. This show began simultaneously at 350 points throughout the United States. The main purpose of the venture is to bring about a widespread distribution to America of works of fine art.

At the exhibition yesterday afternoon Miss Amy Briggs, assistant professor of art, gave a lecture about the pictures shown. She will give another next Tuesday afternoon at 4:30. Those present at the lecture received a catalog, containing pictures of the artists, biographical sketches of the artists, and comments about the pictures by the artists who painted them.

Twelve Artists Represented

The exhibit consists of a selection of twelve modern paintings reproduced by means of the collotype process. The titles of these pictures are: Mountain Landscape by Raphael Soyer; Japanese Toy Theatre by Ben Shahn; Portrait by Yasuo Kuniyoshi; High Taller by Reginald Marsh; The Senate by William Gropper; Punch and Judy quan by William J. Glackens; Portrait by Stuyvesant Peck; Their Hair by John Sloan; Landscape Near Chicago by Aaron Bohrod; Cafe Du Dome by Doris Lee; Dr. DuBois: Stamford Harbor by Niles Spencer; Portrait by Elsa Brun; The Nosegay by Peggy Bacon; and Central Park by George Overbury Hart.

All of these painters are living and are working in America. The prints on exhibition are for sale.

Continued on page two

Societies Tap Eleven Girls Within Month

Omicron Nu Makes Plans For Scholarship Cup Award Nov. 10

Eleven girls have been tapped by local honorary societies. Phi Alpha Theta, Theta Kappa, and Omicron Nu within the past month.

On Tuesday, October 5, the national history honorary, Phi Alpha Theta, pledged Mary Margarette Barnett, Ruth Lanier, and Rosalyn Daum. The initiation was held that night at the home and a supper for the members of the honorary was given afterwards.

Those present for the initiation were Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Venila Shores, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Cotterl, Anna Marie Lanier, president of the society, and Daisy Parker. Other guests were Mrs. Richardson and Miss Flo-ence Tyron, Miss Louise Coursel, and Miss Dorothy Dodd.

Theta Kappa, local French honorary, tapped six new members last Wednesday. Those tapped were Martha Thomas, Evelyn Fisher, Gennelle Perry, Geneva Nelson, Evelyn Glazier, and Darlene Morrell. Pledging will be held next Tuesday in Broward Dining.

These six girls will be the first to be pledged by the new organization, which was formerly Beta Pi Theta, a national honorary society. Last May members of the group the charter was turned in to the national office, and Theta Kappa was established. The officers of this new organization are Pearle Overhults, president, Dorothy Crews, vice-president, Anna Glenn, secretary, and Jo Bunce treasurer.

At its meeting held Tuesday night, Omicron Nu, honorary home economics fraternity, tapped Elizabeth Turner and Jo Bunce Johnson. These two girls will be initiated in the near future.

Orientation Examinees Give Highest Officials Hysterics

Precocious Freshmen Puzzle Weary CGA Graders With Barrage of Boners in Answer To Test Questions

Weary student government officials who spent harassed hours grading the papers of the orientation tests in the political section of their task made lighter by the answers of occasional precocious freshmen.

For instance, there were several interpretations given to the trite and stereotyped question that was designed to find out the extent that the government was divided into three branches, the executive legislative, and judicial. One answer shamed the officials by comparison of its own idealistic view with their hard materialism. The three divisions of government were, it was stated, "honest, truthful, and loyal." Then another also startled all concerned when it brought to mind the oft-repeated definition of America as a nation of works of fine art.

"The United States is a democracy," was the definition given by Yasuo Kuniyoshi; High Taller by Reginald Marsh; The Senate by William Gropper; Punch and Judy quan by William J. Glackens; Portrait by Stuyvesant Peck; Their Hair by John Sloan; Landscape Near Chicago by Aaron Bohrod; Cafe Du Dome by Doris Lee; Dr. DuBois: Stamford Harbor by Niles Spencer; Portrait by Elsa Brun; The Nosegay by Peggy Bacon; and Central Park by George Overbury Hart.

All of these painters are living and are working in America. The prints on exhibition are for sale.

Continued on page two

Freshmen Will Pledge Fealty With Ceremony

Event Will Climax Formal Orientation Program On November 7

Finally, the traditional ceremony in which the Florida State College freshman class pledges its allegiance to its alma mater, will be held in the auditorium, November 7, the date for the end of the formal orientation period, it was announced by a director of freshmen, and as many freshmen as possible are urged to assist in production.

Louise Lange has been appointed general chairman with Katherine Autrey as her assistant. The songs connected with the ceremony are Ashton, chairman, Betty Wynn, Lutrelle Palmer, Mary Elizabeth Evard, Dora Helen Baggott is chairman of the costume committee with Mary Lou Bowden and Mary Ann Hart as assistants. Janet Lockwood and Jane Hendricks have charge of the dances. Lois Bowen and Ann Norris of the music, and Frances Lee and Eileen Wilson, son of the stage properties. Betty Hatch and Dot Harwick head the publicity committee, Charlotte Kamper has charge of the properties, and Becky Ann Wilson is adviser. The try-out committee consists of Kathryn Autrey, chairman, Winifred Ewart, and Lucile Patterson.

Mrs. Richardson Speaks To Freshmen at Their Fourth Class Meeting

The freshman class held its fourth monthly meeting yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the auditorium. Three announcements have been held every Thursday since the beginning of school for the purpose of helping the freshmen to become acquainted with the organizations on the campus and with their classmates.

At the meeting Mrs. Richardson spoke on "The Meaning of Scholarship," and explained what is meant by honor's work. The scope, purpose, and requirements of Mortar Board were told by Marjorie Tillis. Representatives from all scholastic honoraries were present to give the scholarship requirements of their several organizations.

After the talks, members of the freshman class entertained the rest of their classmates. Julia and Mary Day Rosser gave a violin and flute duet. Mrs. Otic Alford, Jr., sang Brief-Marie. They were accompanied on the piano by Pauline Morrow. Lacer Kathryn Rawls told the class of the Olympic games in Berlin.

Annual Appoints Turner

Elizabeth Turner has been appointed literary editor of the Annual, Jacowo the position having been left vacant by resignation of Priscilla Rose.

Poor Richard." No one denied the wisdom of the answer which, when asked the proper time to dismiss a class, "Varied answers on problems."

Elements of the superhuman and of black magic were found to be present in the baby class, according to the observation of one of its members, who commented on the use of study signs. Said she: "Only a psychic can pass through a study sign." Some skeptics gasped disbelief.

Many answers were the conceptions of the Honor code. To define it seemed relatively simple —for one, at least. She summed the whole of this controversial question into a single sentence. "The Honor code is," she remarked, "that all students shall attend convocation."

Another said, quite gravely, "Don't steal, no matter how small the object." Apparently, one should not only refrain from pocketing stray grand pianos, but from carrying off stray change and loose diamonds, as well. But perhaps the best interpretation of the whole creed of the Honor code was this one. "Any girl who is found guilty of cheating in any way ought never to be called a lady." All agreed that she had something there.

Dr. Burkes Is NSEA Speaker At First Forum

Beginning of Spanish Revolt Described In Address

Speaking on her experiences in Spain while studying at the Universidad Internacional this summer, Dr. Margie Burkes gave a vivid account of the first stages of the revolution, in an address to the N.S.F.A. Forum on Saturday evening.

Her present impressions of Spain are very different from those she received on a previous visit there in May, 1935. Dr. Burkes stated, the people seem to be afraid of their own lives. There is little gayety, and many Spaniards have ceased to be prosperous. Much poverty is on every hand, beggars are more numerous than before, and the cost of living is high.

"The newspapers are carefully censored," Dr. Burkes said, "and little news of the world may be found in them." The subject matter is mainly devoted to strikes among railroad workers and in the factories attended by secretary of the papers are given to strikes which have occurred, and are always reported as "improving." The first evidence that Dr. Burkes gained of the revolt was in Madrid where the unfinished paving and taller stones attested to the unsettled feelings of discontented workmen.

Rumors of the possibilities of war reached the Universidad in Barcelona, where Dr. Burkes was situated. Little could be learned from the newspapers because of the censorship, but there were always close sayings and the murmurs of the people could be picked out, causing much uneasiness among the students. The situation rapidly became worse, and eventually the university was cut off from all outside means of communication. Armed cars passing constantly through the town gave the usual war tension added to the general anxiety, in spite of the many official promises by the American consul.

After being warned by authorities that it would be unsafe for foreigners to leave the country, Dr. Burkes hired, unsuccessfully, several times to obtain transportation. Finally, however, one of several liners that had docked there. Great rejoicing was felt by the passengers when they left the Oklahoma, an American ship, steamed into the harbor.

Tickets Are on Sale

Sophomores are urged to buy annual picture tickets as early this week as possible, since the schedule of appointments must be filled by Saturday noon. Girls are asked to wear informal class clothes, dark dresses and white collars preferred.

Fresh Version Of Torch Idea Used For Fete

Lampadedromia is Theme Of Annual Pageant For Freshmen

ATHLETIC FIELD PROVIDES STAGE

Betty Wynn Writes Script And is Chairman Of Ceremony

A new and larger setting and many versions of an old theme borrowed from an ancient Greek torch race—the Lampadedromia —characterized the 1936 edition of Torch night at Florida State College Tuesday night.

Athletics Field is Stage

The athletic field provided a spacious stage for the pageant. At one end of the field an outdoor stage, with a natural backdrop of shrubbery and both artificial light and starlight, was marked off. From the opposite end of the athletic field, at the appointed hour, a group, numbering one hundred strong, marched up to the stage in single file and loyalty to their Alma Mater.

The Torch Night script, composed by Betty Wynn, who was also general chairman of the ceremony, was based largely on the traditional theme suggested by the college motto, "Not to be served, but to serve." Dora Helen Baggott holds forth the three phases of college life—learning, skill, and character.

Greek Deities Bring Gifts

The Five Muses—Clio, Apollo, Pallas Athene, and Aphrodite, who typify these characteristics, bring their gifts to the pageant—knowledge, wisdom, truth, and character to the inspiring altar of Alma Mater. From her altar the sophomore torch racers carry the light unto the ends of the earth. The honor class, the freshmen, Holding high their flaming torches, the freshmen gather at Alma Mater's altar to pledge loyalty to the college.

Serving on the Torch Night committee with Betty Wynn were Betty Bialock as co-chairman; Julia Mann, in charge of costumes, Bunny Dell, responsible for the torches; in charge of stage and rehearsals, Dora Reed and Kathryn Autrey, respectively. Frances Williams, chairman of programs committee, and Ruth Wilson, who directed the dance and pantomime.

Members of the cast were: Alma Mater, Anna Thomas Montgomery, Peggy Jackson, Beauford

Continued on page two

CGA Conducts Investigation

Impeachment Legislation To Be Made by April

At a meeting Wednesday afternoon, the senate of the college government, under the supervision of a commission for the purpose of constitutional study revised the constitution.

This commission was the outgrowth of a suggestion contained in the report of the committee that drew up impeachment legislation. Dorothy Crews, chairman of senate, explained that this committee had found that constitutional revision seemed necessary in many instances, on the basis of private investigation of the constitution left by former officers. The commission appointed by the senate members to be made until next April to conduct its research, at which time a complete report of activities is due.

Dates for First Four Artist Series Programs Announced by Dean

According to Dean Ella Scobie Opperman, chairman of the artist series committee, the dates for the first four concerts have been definitely arranged. The first of the series is to be given by Dalies Frantz, pianist, on Friday evening, December 4. The next three programs include: Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist, on January 26; Gordon String Quartet, February 15; Stuteskgad, Metropolitan Opera soprano, March 15.

In keeping with the request of the committee that no other calls honor for their convenience, all A list Series this year will begin at 7:45.

Dean Brown of Yale Will Speak Tuesday

Mortar Board Mountaineers To Give Skit

Honorary Raises Funds For Spring Course In Leadership

Mortar Board's mountaineer skit which is entitled "Feud For Thought" and which has been heralded on bulletin boards by cartoons from a popular men's magazine, and a unique announcement in convocation this week will be presented along with a leadership act in the Auditorium at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

Mortar Board's purpose in presenting this entertainment is to replenish its treasury in order to carry out its purpose to sponsor a leadership training school on campus next spring.

The skit which was written by Eleanor Williams and Mary Beaufort McKay, who also directed it, is a farce depicting a Tennessee mountain feud.

The cast is as follows: The Heroine, Eleanor Williams; Mammy, Daisy Parker; Pete, Marie Daniels; Henry Jones, the city slicker, Mary Jeanne McKay. Jeb, one of the hill boys, Billie Jo Stevens; Abner, his cohort, Martha Mahoney; Ezra, the local sheik specialist, Hazel Bowman; Hettie Mae, Jo Binion. The Brat, Mary Catherine Gibson; Mandy Lou Bunion, piano medly by Frances Porth; a saxophone solo by Hazel Bowman, and a song trio, composed of Marjorie Tillis, Jo Binion, and Mary Jeanne McKay.

Council Names Contest Topic

Hopes to Secure Opinions Of All Students On Governing Body

At a meeting of the college government association Tuesday in convocation, the president of the executive council of that organization announced an essay contest which is open to all Florida State College Student Government on This Campus.

The contest, which closes at midnight, November 2, offers a prize of Five dollars. All the student who submits the best criticism of the existing form of student government. The criticisms were made as to the length of the paper, and the organization of its condition when submitted.

Subject material may deal with a specific or general criticism of the association. Contestants are requested not to sign their manuscripts, however. Names and addresses of participants must be enclosed in an envelope attached to the essays, and submitted to Constance Jones, box 1, Florida Union.

The contest is begun as one of the projects of the executive council to keep the student body in touch with student opinion.

Classical Club Holds First Meeting Of Year is Outlined

At the first meeting of the Classical club held last night in Broward club room, the faculty members, Dean Ella N. Dorman, Miss Ruth Fairman, and Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, introduced to Freshman Katherine Jinson, gave short welcoming speeches. Holly Walker, vice president, outlined the progr.n of the Classical club for the year.

The purposes and the qualifications for membership of Eta Sigma Phi, classical honorary, were explained by Mary Kathryn Gibson, president of Eta Sigma Phi. After the business of the meeting refreshments were served.

Officers of the club introduced last night are: Kathleen Robinson, president; Holly Walker, vice president; Hazel Viertel, treasurer; and Marcia Smith, secretary.

Any student interested in classical subjects may become a member of the Classical club.

Arrangements Made Last February for His Appearance

WILL BE GUEST OF MR. COWLES

To Appear at Colleges Throughout State Of Florida

Dean Charles S Brown of Yale university will speak in convocation Tuesday morning Dean Brown is an eminent theologian, a distinguished orator, a minister and the writer of a number of well-known books.

Grows Here From Asheville

Dean Brown will speak Asheville, N. C., on Sunday and will come directly here. After his talk at the college Tuesday he will go to the University of Florida at Gainesville and from there to Rollins college at Winter Park.

A pupil of Henry T. Dean Brown is frequently engaged to be the guest speaker at Sunday services as far as two years in advance. Arrangements were made last February for Dean Brown to speak here.

To Visit Cowles

During his short stay in Tallahassee Dean Brown will be the guest of Wallace Cowles, former professor of music, whom he knew at Yale university.

Among his books in the college library are: Those Twelve, Why I Believe in Religion, and Yale Talks. Others he has written are, Two Parables, The Social Messages of the Modern Pulpit, The Modern Man's Religion, and The Quest of Life and other Addresses.

Dean Brown was a special lecturer on ethics at Leland Stanford Junior university from 1899 to 1906. From 1906 to 1909 and again from 1923 to 1932 he was a Lyman Beecher lecturer. In 1909 he was a special lecturer at Cornell, and at Columbia in 1911. He has served as the Pacific School of Religion, he was a John C. McNair lecturer at the University of North Carolina. He is now dean emeritus of the theologian school at Yale.

Hay Prepares Two Articles

Both Will Be Published Before Next Year

Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education, has prepared two articles for publication in "The Journal of the Florida Education Association." The first, "Revolution in Spain," will appear in the November issue of The Journal and the second, "Mrs. and Why's in the Teaching of Modern Foreign Languages," will come off the press in December.

"Revolution in Spain" is a first hand account of the present revolution in its genesis. Dr. Hay, who was located in the midst of revolt, described typical scenes of war-torn Spain, meanwhile telling of the peace of the 140 American refugees by the "U. S. S. Quincy" in the ports of Barcelona with, "Revolutions have forever lost any appeal for me."

In "How's and Why's in the Teaching of Modern Foreign Languages" Dr. Hay discusses the value of foreign languages. French and Spanish being her subjects for discussion. She cites the most effective types of methodology to use in teaching and gives the results of research conducted to determine the best teaching policy.

Anita Mitchell Writes

Anita Mitchell, a graduate of Florida State College for Women in the class of 1933 is the author of an article with original illustrations appearing in the September issue of School Arts, a national magazine for drawing and art in the schools. Anita is now teaching the sixth grade in Gainesville, Fla. The article called "Art Correlations" was concerned with the correlation of art and arithmetic in her class.

Church League Retreat To Be This Week End

Rev. A. B. Moore to Open Meeting Using Theme Of Individuality

The Presbyterian Student league will hold its annual retreat for officers and active members of committees at Camp Flastacowa this week-end.

The theme for the retreat is centered around the individual. Friday night the Rev. A. B. Moore, Thomasville, will speak on the subject, "If We Should Dare to be Christian." Saturday afternoon Pauline Borton will discuss methods of personal contact, after which Dr. Sarah Parker White will speak on "A Spiritual Diagnostician." Following her speech, Dr. White will lead an open forum. Saturday night Dr. E. N. Caldwell will have for his subject, "What Have I To Share." A campfire consecration service will be the climax of the retreat.

The council members include Sara Hethcox, president; Lillie McGuire, vice-president; Marjorie Horton and Geneva Nelson, secretaries; Ann Harrold, treasurer; Alice McGlone, spiritual life; Adele Richard, missions; Ruth Myrick, social service; Sarah Nance, dramatics; Maxine Ward, music; Ruth Hubbard, publicity; Syvena Stockbridge, dietitian; Kitty Pratt, social; Frank Wildman, student house chairman; Grace McRae, junior-senior president; Louise Brown, sophomore president; Kitty Kyle, Agnes Sligh, Mary Smith, and Alice Proffitt, freshman sponsors.

Members of the junior council of the Presbyterian Student league include: Mary Emlyn, president; Bets [illegible], vice-president; Mary Lou Duncan, secretary; Lorraine Cowan, Betty Hartsell, spiritual l[illegible]; Elizabeth Finch, missions; Mary Neal, social service; Pat Campbell, dramatics; Eleanor Daniella, music; Peter Cabaniss, dietitian; Harriet Duke, dietitian; Doc Marwick, social.

The Methodist Student organization will have charge of the services in the local church Sunday morning for the purpose of conducting its annual affiliation program together with the installation of the officers for the year.

The officers are Mary Ott Reynolds, Anna Marie Mitchell, Genevieve Clayton, Ruth Howell, Dora Helen Bagnell, Esther O'Byrne, Sara Lewis, Marjorie Rauschenbach, Josie Laurie Polk, Christine Mays, Sara Martin, Frances Clements, Margaret Holway, Martha Herbert, Martha Hazue, Carl Brisman, Myrvin Everett, Florence Jones, Frances Rovella, Charlotte Carleton, and Marsares Delaney.

The Episcopal auxiliary holds a confirmation class every Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 p. m. at the parish hall. All students interested in receiving confirmation instruction, or any others interested in attending these classes, are invited to come at that time.

Fresh Version of Torch Idea Used for Fete

Continued from page one

Thrower; Frances Dupont, Elizabeth Athene, Becky Ashton, with Sunny Bell, Frances LaMotte, and Frederic Frink as attendants; Apollo, Valerie Hunt, archers, Dorothy Barr, Elva Martin, Elma Guth, Dorothy Marwick; Eurenia Cannon, Aphrodite, with Nelson Brooks, Nellie Fain, and Dannye Baker as attendants.

Ethel Young, Kathryn Patterson, Margaret Wilson, Evelyn Edwards, Jean Gillies, Jane Brown, Anne Knight, Anne Ladd, and Vyx Brown, carrying symbols of all branches of learning, represented the nine muses.

Nine torch racers, Harriet Dukes, Lois Louise Brown, Dorothy Broward, Betty White Marvin Walcott, Dorothy Molner, Ivy Barringer, and Betty Hatch, and the freshman torches.

Freshmen Participate

Freshmen participating in each Night were: Margaret Sperry, Lenora Hopkins, Frances Slade, Marian Grinnell, Lucy Grant, Jean Bennett, Marjorie Hunter, Ina Margaret Robinson, Evelyn Silverberg, Lucy Grant, Cecilia Sullivan, Elaine Fischer, Jane Stambaugh, Helen Jones, Frances Taylor, Charlotte Barlowe, Laura Trawick, Mildred Stovall.

Flora Morley, Betty Hodgson, Janice Simmons, Charlotte Cornell, Ruth Byrd, Janet Rose, Jeanne Webster, Janet Jewett, Bill Johnston, Lucille Smoak, Betty Jane Lewis, Natalie Hendricks, Janice Brown, Carolyn Miles, Margaret Thorpe, Gail Cartwright, Frances Moss, Mary Allen, Lynette Patton, Jean Jernigan, Peggy Ayala, Janet Mattern, Dorothy Rose, Mary Wallace, Marjorie Anderson, Mary Ellen Dewyer, Margaret Kennard, Martha Robbins, Mary Taylor, Mary Finney.

Minter Clarke, Louise Hirth, Marion Bussey, Evelyn Bussey, Ruth Eyman, Marjorie Perkins, Ann Cummins, Myrle Butt, Ruth Whaley, Agnes Schopke, Vivian Betts, Charlotte Rawls, Doris Cahoon, Virginia Eager, Frances Oliver, Betty Mann, Louise Taylor, Pixie Townsend, Alberta Lloyd, Alma Lloyd, Helen Bradley, Jo McGowan, Joan Miller, Katherine Graham, Jane Byrd, Lillian Usher, Wilda Finlayson, Carmen Lytle, Betsy Vinning, Eula Ley, Kathryn Bavarese, Frances Sevarese, Phillis Parramore, Beiva Button, Mary Kathryn Smith, Kitty Benson, Adelaide Belle, Mary Alice Leary, Betty Jane Jacoa, Anita Jackell, Izay Ramsey, Jane Cooper, Jean Sloy, Eleanor Bushnell, Harriet Post, Harriet Kent, Janet Cook, Camelle Mullon, Edith Ott, Ella Fay Post, Louise Rice.

Chosen Head

S. R. DOYLE

S. R. Doyle, registrar, was chosen lieutenant governor of the northwest district of Florida at the Kiwanis convention held in Lakeland this week.

First Exhibit of Art Opened by Department

Continued from page one

and each institution showing them has agreed to purchase one. Royalties will be paid to the artists from proceeds of the sales. Although there is no law establishing the rights of artists to such protection, those directing the Living America Art plan expect to set a precedent to be followed hereafter. Since it may furnish new source of income for artists, art societies throughout the world are watching this movement with great interest.

Jury of Artists

This exhibit is the first in a series of four that will be shown this year in the United States. The jury which selected the forty-eight pictures to be reproduced included three well-known artists, Louis Brown, Alexander Brook, and Adolf Dehn, and also Professor Hughes Mearns of New York university. The jury receives the advice and council of an advisory board which represents all sections of the United States. Therefore the work of artists all over the country receives full consideration.

Many of these paintings in the exhibit were prepared by the color-type process from the originals. Which were sent over to Vienna for that purpose. Dr. Adolf Dehn went from America to supervise the process and was assisted by the leading Austrian painters in checking the proofs.

The colortype process is considered by artists and technical experts to be the most faithful now available. Until recently the cost of this process prevented the widespread use of it, but national distribution undertaken on a large scale by the Living America Art plan has greatly decreased this cost.

In this process the color reproduction negatives are printed in

Doyle To Head Kiwanis Clubs

To Have Governorship Of Northwest Florida

At the state Kiwanis meeting held in Lakeland this week, S. R. Doyle, college registrar, was elected lieutenant-governor of the Kiwanis clubs for the northwest Florida district. He will take over his duties for a one-year term January 1. He succeeds John Cox of Pensacola.

Mr. Doyle has held a perfect attendance record since he joined the Kiwanis club more than ten years ago.

Cities on his district include Pensacola, Crestview, Milton, Panama City, Marianna, Perry, Monticello, DeFuniak Springs, and Tallahassee.

Andrews Talks of Social Works Open to Women

Continued from page one

ers of social work, social research, and writing for publication."

"A wonderful new field in social service is that of women in police work," Dr. Andrews continued. "Women in trouble respond to other women. The softening influence of women is needed. Young women with knowledge of psychology and sociology are needed in this field. Children in danger of delinquency, delinquent girls, and women in maladjusted school children, are all types of this work.

"Salaries of social workers begin at $900 to $1000 a year. In the schools of social work training the salary is $900 to $1200. After one year of experience it is $1200 to $1800. Women usually receive about $2000 with the limit at $10,000. Case experts receive from $2400 to $5000. The hours are about forty-eight to thirty-nine each week and much overtime work is necessary.

"Schools of social service include New York School of Social Work, University of Minnesota, Washington University at St. Louis, Tulane, Western Reserve University of Chicago, Simmons College in Boston, Pennsylvania School of Social Service in Philadelphia, and the University of California."

Library Exhibit Takes Daily Etiquette Forms Major as Feature

The new exhibits in the library this week-end deal mainly with the social conventions. The center of the lobby is given over to the art of table setting. On this table are six pictures showing correct ways of setting the table for formal and informal occasions.

On the table in the left corner of the lobby are books which stress everyday manners. Points of guidance are here for the hostess, the guest, the traveler, the bride, the sorority girl, and for the business person.

Another table is devoted to a discussion of flower arrangements. This table contains several copies of Field and Home, which have pictures and articles on this subject, and four books dealing with table decorations.

On the left side of the lobby this week is a display case showing children's books among which are books for every season of the year.

gelatin covered glass plates to obtain a fine grained image approximating the continuous tone of a photograph of the half tone "dots" of the screen method. An offset lithography the colotype plate is alternately rolled with water and ink, the image being directly transferred to the paper. The prints are then varnished before being sent to exhibitions.

Motorcycle Delivery — Phone 800

The Box		KLEENEX—500's	31c
Soap, 3 for	13c	Ex-Lax	17c
10c Lifebuoy Soap, 3 for	19c	Carter's Liver Pills	17c
25c Spans Tooth Paste	29c	Sal-Hepatica	39c
25c Squibb's Tooth Paste	19c	50c Yeast Foam Tablets	39c
25c Gordon Glint Shampoo	19c	25c Quest	29c
$1.00 Hesitogast's Dusting Pow.	89c	$1.00 Lavoris	79c
25c Kotex	17c	25c Squibb's Mineral Oil	19c
25c Modess	17c	50c Vick's Nose Drops	39c
KLEENEX—200's	15c

Anderson and Lamar Tell About Their Impressions of Continent

Raineage of Cellophane Creates Sensation At Olympics

Betsey Anderson, senior, and Nellie Lamar, junior, have different opinions about the people of Europe.

The two students spent two months in Europe this past summer traveling by car through parts of France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Czechoslavia, Germany, Belgium, Holland, England, and Scotland.

Betsey is convinced that the American people are far happier and more contented than any she saw on the other side of the Atlantic ocean. The Europeans look tired and drawn without the expression of alertness and cheerfulness you see in so many American faces," she said. "This is especially true of the people in France, Italy and Germany.

"The people of Switzerland, however, seem happy. I think this is true because they are so prosperous and have so much tourist trade. I was told that the Swiss bankers did such a wonderful business that one has to pay them to make a deposit unless he is a native of the country."

On the other hand, Nellie thinks the people of Europe look as happy and contented as any American. "I think this is especially true of the English people," she said.

When asked about the clothes of these people, Betsey remarked, "most Europeans, according to American standards, are really not well dressed. They may be clean and neat but their outer clothes lack the quality and the cut that one generally associates with American clothes.

"It is said that in Europe an American woman's nationality can be readily recognized by her silk stockings. This is so because over there the use of stockings is restricted to the wealthier class of people.

"In Germany the people seemed particularly clean, and one gets a definite impression of their efficiency."

Nellie said she saw the best looking clothes in Rome. "The people there were dressed beautiful," she stated. "They seemed to be especially fond of black because a great deal of the dresses were of that color.

"The attire of the men in London impressed me a great deal, too. The men carried canes and wore gloves and derbies. Personally, I thought they looked very nice."

Being a girl, I did not get a first-hand view of the active war preparations which are being talked about so much," Betsey replied in answer to a question of war preparations being made abroad. "However, we did see soldiers everywhere, more, perhaps, in Italy and Germany than in any other country.

The two girls were in Berlin during the Olympics and had the opportunity of seeing a hockey game between Japan and the United States. "That game made the Americans look very awkward," Nellie said. "The Japanese players ran so fast that often the Americans were left behind.

"One of the girls in our party were a cellophane rain cape to one of the games. I was really quite amused at the curiosity of a large number of people there. Many of them came up and touched the cape, wondering what it was made of and how it was dyed. Such a material could prevent one from getting wet."

"As for individual attire," Nellie continued, "I liked London best of all. The accents of the people is particularly appealing to me. I think one can ride on the double-deck buses or street cars, which, by the way, are very similar to ours, for one penny in English money—two pennies in American.

"On the other hand, Oxford is not very much to my liking. I disliked that place very much. A number of Harvard colleges that make up the university. The beautiful streams and gardens look very pretty around the buildings of medieval architecture.

"But in general, I liked all the buildings are, I'll tell you what one of the guides told me. He pointed to one of the buildings saying that it was one of the newest, having been built in seventeen hundred and something!"

"I thought Budapest was one of the most charming places to see in all Europe." Betsey remarked. "The hotel I patronized was fine, the food served there is splendid. Few spots anywhere are lovelier than the Danube river. Too, the side-walk cafes with their Hungarian orchestras are delightful."

New Home Ec Course Has Been Introduced

A new home economics orientation course is being carried out this year in order to give practical aid to students.

The course is given in units which cover three or four weeks each. The units include work in the foods, nutrition, family economics and family relationships, house furnishings, textiles and clothing. During class period various colorons are tried to bring out the personality of the individual. Proper make up and hair arrangement is shown to each student. Correct dress for all occasions and the combination of proper accessories are also shown. The student is taught how to make practical purchases and to consider the quality of material.

WINS the Beauty Contest AMONG MODERN FOUNTAIN PENS

Esquire

We Asked One Question of 200 Men and Women

"Which Pen is Your Choice for Style and Beauty?"

And 2 to 1 Selected Parker's Laminated Pearl*

—The sureless Vacumatic with Ever-Visible Ink Supply and 102% More Ink Capacity than Old Style — GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect

Yes, other things being equal, style-minded people would choose the Parker Vacumatic for beauty alone! But other things, including Parker performance, make this revolutionary invention the national favorite by a still huger margin—by 2 to 1.*

The Vacumatic's 102% more ink supply is ever visible—the ENTIRE length of the barrel. That it shows above ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW.

Another great difference is the patented Parker filler. There's no other like it. It requires no sliding piston immersed in ink—its working parts sealed in dry. So WHERE YOU CAN NEVER TOUCH IT THERE can never decompose them.

The Parker point is Scratch-proof —precious Platinum combined with solid Gold.

Every student needs this miracle writer that doesn't "let you down" by running dry in classes or exams.

Come and see this new, laminated Pearl Beauty at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5 — Over-Size, $7.50

Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

*Patented Parker Laminated Pearl

Tack Clean-up Gives Victims Heart Attack

Nail Driver-Inner Gives Tearful Confession About Crimes

The price of tacks has gone up definitely.

Warned that anything I say will be used against me, I still insist upon unburdening myself on this soul-stirring subject, so close to my heart.

There's nothing strange about it. Didn't I chew my fingernails to a pulp as I watched one of the powers-that-be count nineteen (19) tacks one night and one safety pin (the latter slightly bent) in my mail? Didn't I see her record it in her little black book and try in vain to think up sufficient cutting remark as she walked out with a cheerful, "Tsk, tsk, what a shame!"

What with the new let me see, exactly four dollars and twenty cents. Didn't I almost forget my cup bringing as she beamed at me on the way out?

If I were so inclined, it would be easy to be Pollyanna-ish about the whole affair. I could be oh, only martyr on campus. Others have been bemoaning their fate—in no uncertain terms.

Strange though it may seem, the task has become the chief topic of conversation in the best of circles. Far, far into the night hours (sometimes not so vague) mutterings can be heard, in various forms punctuated with an occasional, ". . . highway robbery that's what," or "It's a blimey" . . . Tack, huh!" or even a would-be-clever, "I don't pay it, see?"

One tearful damsel confided to me that it was bad enough to spend the allowance on a "new

Miss Moore to Tour

Miss Virginia P. Moore, home improvements specialist of Florida State college, will go on a home demonstration tour being conducted this week. She will visit various exhibits, including poultry, orchard, home improvement and pantry exhibits. The tour, under the direction of Miss Aleise Laffitte, county home demonstration agent of Gadsden, will leave from Quincy on Friday.

Astronomy Club Meets

At the second meeting of the Astronomy club, held Wednesday night, the members were divided into groups for the purpose of instruction and guidance.

This business was followed by a telescopic observation of Saturn and the Pleiades.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Dollar Specials From Your Previous Annual Negatives—

One 8x10 Unmounted $1.00

One 5x7 Mounted $1.00

Three 3x4 Mounted $1.00

Six 3x5 Glossy Unmounted $1.00

Adams Studio

"Photographs that Please"

Styles for every time of day! Tailored and dressy crepes . . . novelty woolens . . . peplums, tunics, one and two piece styles, princess lines . . . braid, metal, velvet trims . . . flattering necklines, interesting new sleeve treatments. Black and all the rich autumn colors. Sizes for women and misses.

EXTRA! SPORTS COATS

All smart new styles, well-tailored. New colors.

Up to $15.00

$9.95

Your New Fall Frocks Will Fit Smoothly Over These New

Pure Dye Satin Slips

Regular $1.95 Values

$1.49

Two piece bias and four gore styles . . . tailored or lavishly lace-trimmed. Never-rip seams, straight or V-tops. White or tea rose. Sizes 32 to 44.

"Never Buy Before You Try"

LINDEN'S SHOPPE FASHION

Sport Squints

By JINKY BROOKS

Army meets Navy! Yale and Harvard battle it out! The Princeton Tigers roar! And all on this campus! Evidently overcome by the football atmosphere pervading the countryside, the archery teams have adopted these stirring college names and are fighting valiantly to the last bull's-eye with their bows and arrows, tournament style.

The time is drawing nigh for the start of a new sport on the campus—the shaking of pecans. If there are any former Ga-hoo sitters or grassed-pole climbers on campus they'd better keep it a secret, or else charge for their services.

Judging from the length of the limbs of the shinnaubobs that the shoes former F-coats bravely attempted to illustrate last week, the F-clubbers must have been house thumping division of late—for if they 'meaning the members' not any blisters from the unusual activity?

Soon the noble game of tennis will be the day-light will become a thing of the past, no doubt what with the new courts likely illuminated for night-time exercise. It will want people the night-life of tennis.

We can see by the lessened batting and weak groans of those who suffer from physical-ed-itis now, that they're either getting used to the sames or giving up the notion of limping. However, new cases of sore-throats and sprained ankles-arms have been reported by speech students. Just another form of exercise!

Dr. M. A. Brides, Columbia University diet expert, just announced that there does not exist a fruit, vegetable, meat, fish, or other food which in itself is capable of reducing physical weights as much as one thousandth of a pound. Well, we can start eating and again with a clear conscience, with that for an excuse!

Good speaking of food, the Associated Collegiate Press and Dunsel Inc. "they're even putting starch in the backfield men at the University of Florida. So you see it isn't just a matter of stiffening up that line. The seventy ravenous eaters of the squad are food for potatoes, eating about 650 pounds of them each week—which amounts to about nine and one-half pounds for each player." Yes, sir, we're no football squad. In spite of the amount of potatoes we get in a week!

The Campus Chat, publication of the North Texas State Teachers college, offers the following a praise of intramurals: "Devoted to offer exercise and fun to each student who wants it, the college's intramural program, directed here by Walter S. Knox, deals much to the day-by-day activities of the average Teacher's College boy. It is often the case that fellows who are really great athletes are prevented from showing their prowess by having to devote their time to something else besides varsity sports: they cannot afford to put in the training hours that are required for participation in strenuous intercollegiate games. To these, intramurals are a boon.

"A second group which is helped by intramurals is composed of boys who have neither the ability nor the strength to compete in the varsity football and basketball. Put up against varsity timber, these fellows find their weak spots exposed; instead of a pleasure, the game becomes horsesome. . . . But in intramurals, where they can battle opponents of their own rank, the vim and vigor of boisterous contests fight returns.

"Last but not least, intramurals afford a place for beginners to try their hand. Experience, though

THE SWEET SHOP

701 West Jefferson

Try Our Western Steak Sandwich 15c
Home Made Chili 10c

WEEKEND SPECIAL

Hot Chocolate 5c

F Club Brings End To Misery Of Sad Goats

Initiates Lowry, Glazier, And Horton at Camp Flastacowa

Saturday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, a shnook, an acanthus (a Greek play), and a last year's bird nest met behind Bryan hall and hiked to Camp Flastacowa in a pouring rain. These strange creatures were F goats, and were on their way to finishing a period known as "rooting" in order to become full-fledged members of the "F" club.

Goats Sunny Lowry, Evelyn Glazier, and Marjorie Horton survived the ordeal week-end in fine spirits. Upon reaching camp they became an oxy-coloroinster, a skeleton, and a sex-pressed. The goat-mothers of these queer creatures showed no pain but fellow-ing swimming safety test: float, tread, float for three minutes; modified crawl, jump in deep water and swim, dive from edge of pool, entrance of one circle under any two strokes. In addition to this they had to pass the tests in rhythmic activities, team sports, and individual sports.

The swimming tests were under the direction of the physical education instructors. They were made to wash the dishes and do other menial tasks that came into the category of "initiation."

The rhythmic activities examination was under the direction of Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson and Miss Flora Belle Cleveland. It included the fundamental and basic principals of modern dancing, folk dancing, and tap dancing.

Miss Ray Fraser, Miss Ruth Hudson, and Miss Betty Washburn had charge of the team sports tests. These sports included soccer, field hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball.

Individual sports consisting of tests in golf, tennis, and archery were given by Miss Fraser, Miss Lehman, and Miss Ann Lee.

All the students passing these exams are exempt from physical education.

Physicists Dunk In College Pool To Test Theory

Students Are Perplexed After Damp Delving Into Science

"One, two,three, ready . . . DUNK!" The girl went down once—twice—sputtered a couple of times, and bobbed to the surface again. The anxious group hovering at one end of the swimming pool exchanged shakes.

"Well, by all calculations she should sink!" one girl muttered.

"Try it again." Once more the figure sank. One arm extended above the surface held the nose of a rope, and the other clung firmly to a fat-sided brick. In two seconds both figure and brick rose above the water line. Disappointed murmurs rose from the group on the side of the pool.

"Can you beat that? Whew! Some buoyant force, I'd say."

"But it can't be the buoyant force. It's the density of the body. Still she should sink for at least a little while."

"Do you suppose it's the upward force exerted by the pressure of the water coming from the grill in the bottom?" "How about the spring balance—are you sure it's adjusted properly?" Serious questions. Worried voices. Bewildered faces. But all became Eulenstein Russell, first victim, rather sullen of the new physics experiment regarding the density of bodies and buoyant forces refused to sink; even when weighted with ninety-five pounds of mass matter, a brick, and an extra ounce physical education department bathing suit.

The source of all the excitement was Dr. Richards' suggestion that several interest students try to verify Archimedes' principle of buoyant force; to wit, "A body immersed in a fluid is buoyed up by a force equal to the amount of fluid displaced by that body." Of course, in order to displace any fluid at all the body must necessarily fall to a certain level. Owing to Zuline's inability to sink, and to the fact that only half a dozen students reported at the pool last Saturday afternoon, no startling results are ready to be presented to the world of science immediately. But Eulenstein and Lillian Hunn, in charge of the experiment, have not yet abandoned the plan. If they need a fifteen or more willing subjects who will submit to temporary immersion for the sake of science. Valuable information may be obtained; besides, think of the enduring fame that would be directed our way if the experiment is successful. Florida State—the college of student dunkers!

Girls Tested For Exemption

Most of Eligibles Pass Swimming Test

Approximately one hundred and fifty juniors and seniors took physical education exemption tests given during the first two weeks of school.

The large majority of this group passed the swimming exemption test. To be able to take this test it was necessary to have an A or B health grade and an A or B posture grade. The person, if physically able to take swimming, had to pass the swimming exemption test and two of the following rhythmic activities, team sports, individual sports. The swimming test included float, tread, float for three minutes; side stroke, change of trudgen or crawl, surface dive, standing front dive, rummin front dive, endurance of four circles.

Those physically unable to take the swimming test were put on follow-ing swimming safety test: float, tread, float for three minutes; modified crawl, jump in deep water and swim, dive from edge of pool, entrance of one circle under any two strokes. In addition to this they had to pass the tests in rhythmic activities, team sports, and individual sports.

The swimming tests were under the direction of the physical education instructors. They were made to be passed either in class period or during the first two weeks of each semester.

The rhythmic activities examination was under the direction of Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson and Miss Flora Belle Cleveland. It included the fundamental and basic principals of modern dancing, folk dancing, and tap dancing.

Miss Ray Fraser, Miss Ruth Hudson, and Miss Betty Washburn had charge of the team sports tests. These sports included soccer, field hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball.

Individual sports consisting of tests in golf, tennis, and archery were given by Miss Fraser, Miss Lehman, and Miss Ann Lee.

All the students passing these exams are exempt from physical education.

Newly Improved Tennis Courts Near Completion

A new feature of the athletic department which will be completed within two or three weeks is the addition of two hard surface tennis courts.

The tennis courts will be constructed out of material which has been especially recommended after having been tried out successfully in other sections. It gives a hard surface which is said to be much better than concrete and is not nearly as hard on the feet of the players.

The two concrete courts and the two new courts are to be lighted in order to provide for night tennis playing. The lighting of the four courts will make it possible for the students to play until the dinner hour when the days have become shorter. It will also be possible to stage tennis tournaments at night hereafter.

Societies Tap Eleven Girls Within Month

Continued from page one

At the Omicron Nu meeting annual plans were made for the freshman scholarship cup to be awarded November 10. Members of this honorary include Dr. Maryanr E. Sendels, Miss Helen Richey, Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Helen Davis, Gladys Howard, and Shirley Stevens.

Sarily fall to a certain level. Owing to Zuline's inability to sink, and to the fact that only half a dozen students reported at the pool last Saturday afternoon, no startling results are ready to be presented to the world of science immediately. But Eulenstein and Lillian Hunn, in charge of the experiment, have not yet abandoned the plan. If they need a fifteen or more willing subjects who will submit to temporary immersion for the sake of science. Valuable information may be obtained; besides, think of the enduring fame that would be directed our way if the experiment is successful. Florida State—the college of student dunkers!

Dance Classes Try New Method

Experiment Will Employ Rhythm and Movement

The classes in modern dance this year are trying an experiment by using two different methods in learning to dance, according to Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor.

The group has been divided into two sections for this purpose and although the experiment is not scientific as the beginning groups are unlike, the purpose of it is to decide at the end of the semester which approach has proven to be the more successful.

The first section will use the rhythmic approach with students learning the fundamentals of rhythm into which later they will fit movements. Compositions to dance to have been exact rhythmic responses to a given step pattern. The walking and using step patterns they more into different formations; floor patterns are changed by changing direction, but the step patterns remain constant.

The other section will use the movement approach with students in this group learning the movements of all the qualities expressed in dancing. They are not regulated by rhythm, but are concerned primarily with the use of space and the application of force. So far several kinds of movements have been invented in the compositions.

A dance demonstration is planned for later in the season at which time each group will present for the other group the compositions that have been completed in class. The public will be invited and will be notified of the date of the demonstration by posters and announcement in the Flambeau.

Costumes for the modern dance classes have been ordered for the first time since the classes began. The costumes are one-piece leotards with high necks and long sleeves, and with separate adjustable, short, circular skirts. They come in three colors: royal blue, scarlet, and green. The costumes will be the permanent property of the physical education department, and will be used just as regular gym suits.

An advanced group of students in modern dancing will have optional meetings but not be organized into a class because of scheduling conflicts. Those girls who made "A" and "B" grades in modern dancing last year are eligible to join the group which will dance at student programs and will assist with the extra-curricular classes in dancing. These extra-curricular classes will start next week with Betty Outlund in charge.

Try-Outs Announced For Debating Society; Club Will Conduct Classes

Phil Asher, chairman of the debating society, wishes to announce that tryouts for the club will be held the latter part of next month.

After the members have been chosen a series of classes will be conducted and after a sufficient number of lessons, work on serious debating will be begun.

For the first time this year the debating society is an independent organization and it is hoped that it might be possible to carry on debates with other schools.

Miss Elizabeth Thompson is the faculty adviser for the club

Many Students Try For Teams

Odd and Even Volleyball Players Practice

Interest in team sport grows apace as the autumnal comes that class teams will be chosen in about three weeks from the present Thursday, writing coach Ada Cody.

Odd volley ball leader, Martha Mackenzie, and Even volleyball leader, Louise Gehan, both state that the number of candidates coming out for almost daily practices at the gymnasium continues to grow. And each emphasizes the fact that it is not too late to try for a berth on one of the teams, even without having been present at earlier training. Even practice periods are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 4:30 and on Saturdays at 3:30 p. m. Odds get their workouts Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 and Saturday at 3:30.

Athletes who have gone into training with Odd spirit are Judith Wilensky, Rose Appel, Nancy Williamson, Valeria Hunt, Ruth Wilson, Melba Parks, Winona Ireland, Helen Christopher, Dorothy Meinar, Martha More, Frances Williams, Mary Palmer, Ruth Odds get their workouts Monday,

Continued on Page Five

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week-end. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Marvin Mattly tells you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The fellow will understand. It saves keeping account, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 25 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

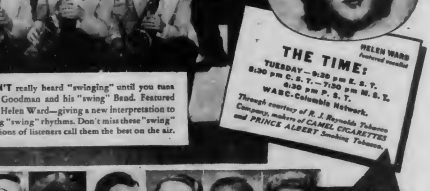
117 South Monroe St. — Phone 187
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 686-R
Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

THE "SWING" SENSATION OF THE AIR

Benny Goodman's Band on THE NEW CAMEL CARAVAN



A full hour with Benny Goodman's Band
George Stoll's Concert Orchestra
Hollywood Stars...Rupert Hughes presiding!

THE TIME!
TUESDAY — 9:30 P. M. E. S. T.
8:30 P. M. C. S. T. — 7:30 P. M. M. S. T.
9:30 P. M. E. S. T. — 8:30 P. M. C. S. T.
WABC-Columbia Network.
Through courtesy of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, makers of CAMEL CIGARETTES —and PRINCE ALBERT Smoking Tobacco

HELEN WARD Featured Vocalist

YOU HAVEN'T really heard "swinging" until you tune in on Benny Goodman and his "swing" Band. Featured with them is Helen Ward—giving a new interpretation to the fascinating "swing" rhythms. Don't miss these "swing" maestros! Millions of listeners call them the best on the air.

CLARK GABLE Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Star
ANN SOTHERN RKO Radio Pictures Star
CLAUDETTE COLBERT Paramount Pictures Star
CHARLES BOYER Paramount Pictures Star
MARY McCORMICK Star of Paris Opera
EDWARD ARNOLD Paramount Pictures Star
MADELEINE CARROLL Paramount Pictures Star

Coming Star Attractions

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE SMOKE CAMELS

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN .... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS .... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER .... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD .... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER .... News Editor

1936 Member 1937
Associated Collegiate Press

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glazier; Exchanges, Virginia Early, Features, Jane Quinn; Literary, Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Sealey; Outside News, Clotilde O'Rourke, Society, Margaret Claire Lafferty and Minna Agress, Assistant: Special Reporting, Arline Lockhart; Sports, Ella Virginia Brooks and Elizabeth Turner.

Feature Writers, Mary Lynn Massie, Jane Gallemore, Sylvia Feiga, Mary Boatright, Jewel Turner.

REPORTERS, Hazel Adams, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Barclay, Blanton Barrett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Brunson, Petrea Cabaniss, Elizabeth Causey, Theresa Christel, Glenn Coarsey, Honor Coleman, Virginia Davis, Hazel Donnegan, Maxine Fugate, Mary Gober, Margaret Gourlie, Roth Holman, Leona Howe, Betty Lou Ingermann, Lucy Kelly, Anne Ladd, Betty Leach, Martha Lumpkin, Anne Lyddane, Mary Jeanne McKay, Alicia Meacham, Mary Noble, Alberta Patrick, Janet Pierce, Marion Purviance, Nancy Rogero, Jane Sharon, Lavina Spaulding, Elizabeth Spicer, Mary Sullivan, Alma Warren, Frances Waterhouse.

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE .... Business Manager
JANE QUINN .... Advertising Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY .... Asst. Adver. Mgr
MARGUERITE BROWN .... Circulation Mgr.

Enter as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Exactly What Are Our Aims in Education?

We talked recently to a freshman who, in line with certain advice handed out yearly to new students, has put herself on a work schedule. Surprisingly enough she sticks to this schedule, which has been made up on the basis of two hours of preparation for each class hour. In addition she has found time to fit in extra-curricular activities in the form of college orchestra and dramatics.

In spite of this definite proof of her scholastic efforts someone is going to say that "she just had influence and pull" when she becomes eligible for membership in campus honoraries. Nevertheless the evidence will point to the fact that this student knew what she wanted of college and that she went after it. At the end of four years, if she succeeds in carrying through her present project, we would like to get her reactions to the experiment of a planned time economy in education.

This experiment in the process of being carried out by at least one member of the freshman class brings home more forcibly than ever the fact that college is now a world composed of two parts, the academic and the extra-curricular. Although the prime reason for the existence of an educational institution is certainly founded upon the idea of formal education, in recent years the extra-curricular bug has slowly got mixed into educational philosophy until today it is receiving much emphasis which could well be placed on the working out of a revised academic system.

For in trying to push the pendulum ever so slightly away from the old hickory-stick ideas of education we have succeeded in entirely missing a somewhat central point between the extra-curricular and the academic proper.

The old question of the value of formal education immediately springs up for what exactly lends value to this branch of the collegiate world? Is it attitude, tempered by prejudices, personal experience, and theoretical knowledge? Does attitude alone push a man to the top of the educational heap or put him on the ground floor minus both an elevator and a staircase? Do grades determine value, or professors' opinions of their students? Or is conscience a truer measure of what one is getting out of four years of life within the college?

Why do we study? What do we want to find? What did we expect to learn when we elected courses for the year? Are we learning it?

We feel that a degree based upon an accumulation of credit hours representing an apathetic attendance upon the directions of a teacher gives one nothing more than a nice piece of paper to be framed and hung in the family museum. But a degree based upon definite purpose, ceaseless effort, and a true desire for certain knowledge might well be placed upon exhibition for a now diverted college population to look to as a model.

Does disappointment in the course we elected drive us to outside activities as a solace or a substitute? Are we dropping the academic for the extra-curricular or vice versa? If so either we did not want a formal education or we are forgetting that true students have to do some digging for themselves. It is most likely the cumulative college course of books, people, and outside activities which will finally fulfill our desires. Not any one of these alone but a combination of these plus real personal effort may prove to be what we are seeking in college careers today.

We Look to The University of Capetown

Of interest in the Tattle, student paper of the University of Capetown, South Africa, is an article describing the University's Anti-War Group.

Instead of feeling apprehension and despair over the international situation, like several bodies of people overseas do, says the article, students at the South African university apparently have developed really steadfast ideas of maintaining peace.

The sole aim of their Anti-War group, which "in spite of its youth is the strongest, most active and thoroughly organized society" at the University today, is to try to find a method to abolish war by studying its causes.

The group maintains that the nations called the "Allies" were forced in 1914 to choose one of two exits—war or the tyranny of militarism. However, if certain changes had been effected in the economic structure of society a few years before 1914, nations would not have had to face this conflict.

The same forces are at work in the world today and this organization in cooperation with other peace societies throughout the world is attempting to find a means to prevent the hopeless situation of 1914 from arising again.

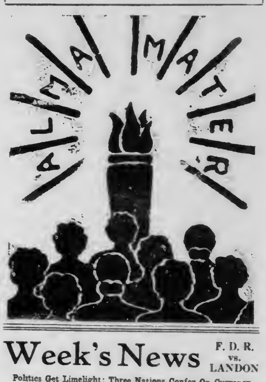
The significant point in the article to us was that the Anti-War Group was "the strongest organized" society on that campus. If an Anti-War society should become the most active, the strongest organization on the campus of every American college, then perhaps we, overseas, may not have so much apprehension and despair over the international situation.

Instead we find in glancing over a representative group of college newspapers that those things the majority of college editors still find worthy of comment on the local campus, concern either the coming football game, a dance, or the need for a new student activities building.

If Anti-War societies even became as active as our social organizations on campus we, of the generation facing war could certainly add our aid to the Capetown students' efforts and probably do much to combat the forces that are slowly but surely worming our country and other countries into war.

Freshmen, For Shame!

Freshmen this year, in an attempt apparently to be "cute" or "individual," display atrocious table manners, according to hostesses. Such action as leaving the table at night before others have finished desserts, playing with the silver, eating the food before the hostesses begin, hanging on the glasses for the desserts, all this is definitely considered bad form at Florida State College for Women. We want freshmen to have "individuality" but if thirteen hundred girls tried to express their individuality in their dining room behavior, what a boorish place our dining room would be!



Did you disapprove of the trash left on the lawn before the Administration building following the big-sister little-sister party several weeks ago?

Does whispering and giggling in convocation prevent clear hearing and disturb the general order? Do you feel as if something ought to be done about it?

Does the general disregard for public property evidenced in broken-down hedges, scarred desks, scratched-up walls disturb your ideas of the proprieties in any way?

If so, the Flambeau invites you to write guest editorials and articles protesting the continuance of such behavior on the part of some members of the student body. Address such papers to the Flambeau and drop in the campus mail box.

Spirit of the Week . . . . By Glazier

Week's News

F. D. R. vs. LANDON

Politics Get Limelight; Three Nations Confer On Currency Devaluation; Enrollment In U. S. Colleges High

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and Governor Landon carried their campaigns far afield this week, with the president speaking at Omaha and Kansas City, and Landon at Cleveland and Detroit. Landon concentrates on two subjects—relief and extravagance. Roosevelt counters: says the New Deal has brought back prosperity.

At Detroit, Landon termed the New Deal a threat to the American form of government. He pledged if elected to "recommnd to Congress the repeal of all acts giving autocratic powers to the chief executive." At Cleveland, he condemned the Roosevelt method of administrating relief as a failure and a national scandal, and proposed a program of Federal aid under state nd locl direction.

In the menwhile, Roosevelt defended his farm program in an address at Omaha. He declared it was designed to bring permanent prosperity, and outlined plans for developing it along four major lines. These are (1) conservation against land waste and soil erosion; (2) increased consumer purchasing power; (3) an attack on the evils of farm tenancy; (4) sound system of crop insurance.

• • • •

An innovation was made in the France-British-American monetary agreement this week to reduce further the fluctuation of the leading international currencies—the dollar, the pound, and the franc. Henceforth, the three countries will operate on a twenty-four hour basis, with gold prices subject to change any day within that time. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau set the price at $35 an ounce and said no change in the price will be made without careful consultation with the other nations. All gold will now flow from country to country through the central banks—the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the Bank of France, the Bank of England.

• • • •

Fascist Italy has fallen in line with the democracies on the gold question. In a series of decrees submitted by Premier Mussolini to his Cabinet and promptly ratified, the lira has been devaluated to conform with the devaluated dollar, pound and franc. The decrees cut the gold content 41 per cent but they point a difference between fascism and democracy by demanding control of prices. Prices for rent, electricity, manufactures and the like are frozen at the existing levels of last month. The government is also authorized to suspend, wholly or in part, any restrictions on movement of capital or goods between Italy and foreign nations.

• • • •

College enrollments all over the nation took a big jump this fall, according to a New York Times survey of over one hundred colleges in the country. All the Western universities have chalked up the largest registrations in their history, with an average gain

Continued on Page Six

University Editorials . . . . .

TO THOSE who are graduating year after year from universities into ten cent stores and filling stations the Sunflower offers pertinent encouragement. In other words, if no one else will defend us, let's defend ourselves:

"See that fellow over there—the fillin' station attendant? Can you imagine? He holds a college degree—just four of his years wasted, while I was gettin' ahead." How often one hears this classical bourgeoise remark in the city streets—classical in the same sense as are the comedies of Moliere.

As is too common in our everyday world, success is measured in terms of dollars and cents. The folly of such evaluation! The education that attendant has if measured in bullion, would profit him little. If we would follow such an inane manner of judgment, we must admit he has not succeeded.

The real purpose of a college education is to broaden one's scope of life, to increase his cultural background, to give him a greater knowledge of the vast world, and how it performs about him—in short, to provide him a means of really understanding and enjoying that which the Creator gave him.

The uneducated man lives on an island alone—an Elba. Closely about him he sees the confines of his knowledge—the boundaries of life. Forcing his mind to stay within these narrow confines results too often in the subsequent narrow shaping of that mind. Broad, sensible judgment is the seldom-occurring exception to the case.

The college graduate, though he be a millionaire or a filling station attendant, is treading a vast, never-ending world. Having nourished the seed of knowledge, his world grows greater and greater, and at no time can he visualize his boundaries of what he might know. "That there fellow in the fillin' station" is just an attendant. Yet he has an appreciation of Shakespeare and Montaigne, an understanding of Darwin and Einstein, and a knowledge of the fundamental high-points of human life and learning, which forever will stand in his stead. He has learned how to live and to enjoy life. He is endeavoring to drain the ever-filling cup to its last drop. Though his income may never rise past the one-thousand-dollar per year mark his life will have been made worthwhile to him through the four years "he wasted in college."

That filling station attendant is one of a vast body of students, who pursue the path of knowledge. He travels a trail which never comes to its end.

Collegiate Comebacks

We are still startled thinking over the amazing number of men haunting the campus last week-end. They sort of gave us an inkling of how our campus may look a hundred years from now with the proper masculine adornment if coeducation ever comes to FSCW. (We're really agitating for our grand-daughters.)

• • • •

According to alumni office records 7,550 Duke university alumni married as a result of campus romances. Didn't someone write a song several years ago entitled "I Never Had A Chance?"

• • • •

I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree:
Perhaps, unless the billboards fall,
I'll never see a tree at all.
—Pilot.

• • • •

An exchange quotes Walter B. Pitkin, seer and sage extraordinary, as asserting, "The only reason we tolerate incompetents in public office is because it's cheaper to run post-offices than to maintain insane asylums." Aw, Mr. Pitkin, we don't allow illiterates to vote, so we have to make it up to them in some way.

• • • •

The Junior Collegian points out that the novel may be the great American favorite in literature, but that Indiana university students prefer non-fiction material. Well, we have to get all of our experiences vicariously at this woman's institute consequently the popularity of fiction.

• • • •

Dr Charles H. Judd, reports the Creightonian, told school authorities in Chicago that memory is overrated. Wish he'd come down here just before finals and give the faculty a little heart-to-heart talk.

• • • •

In an attempt to solve the problem of keeping his students from cutting classes, Professor Herbert Bolton, of the University of California's history department, offers a daily prize for the best limerick summarizing his preceding lecture. Wonder if those students ever consult the dictionary for a one-letter word for nothing?

• • • •

"Go ask my father," was all she said.
But she knew that I knew that her father was dead;
And she knew that I knew what sort of life he'd led:
So she knew that I knew what she meant when she said,
"Go ask my father!"
—Techasque

• • • •

From the Collegian comes the warning that, among other things, men at Indiana University don't like women whose chatter runs along this line: "I met a guy, and did he fall for me—boy, I'll say." If this makes you feel uncomfortable overlook it; those for whom it is meant will be too dumb to get it.

• • • •

Her limpid eyes
Her stream-lined thighs,
Her soulful sighs,
All make my heart
Beat the way it has for years.
—Exchange

• • • •

According to the Mercer Cluster, Colgate University announces, after two weeks experiment upon six students, that a person can think faster and straighter with the head lower than the feet. At that rate, our friend across the hall from us should make Phi Beta Kappa.

• • • •

Pity the poor girl who had to use a broom handle to pry open the sleeves of an overly-starched linen suit after it was returned from our popular and efficient college laundry. Which leads us to believe that we've at last discovered a use for the otherwise useless broom.

• • • •

New York University investigators assert that the pin game requires no skill, but then they've never tried getting one from a G(ainesville)-man.

• • • •

Says the Aquin, California ships more than two-thirds of all the cauliflower grown in the United States." Californians who don't like cauliflower no doubt think this a good idea—almost as good as we'd think that of shipping to parts unknown one hundred per cent of the string-beans served at Florida State.

• • • •

Professor R. J. Morris of New York Medical School believes it is very comforting to be able to say, if someone does not agree with you, that there must be something the matter with his glands. Ah, ah! Now we know how to explain some dumb ideas of our roommate.

• • • •

Life offers the following:

He doesn't brag
Of the women he's known,
Bore me with tales
Of the seeds he's sown,
Polish his wit
On the size of my shoes,
My speaking French,
Or the bonnets I choose,
Doesn't advise
How to smoke, sneeze or walk,
But he of course will
When he learns to talk

Magazine Jotting

BY SARAH SEALEY and SARAH BETH DAVIS

The United States Redrawn

By Arthur Pound

In line with the modern rage for thing[s] under the sun comes a rather intelligent [sug]gestion for redistricting the United States [and] redistributing governmental authority. Ar[thur] Pound, who advocates such a renovation a[...] October, issue of Review of Reviews believe[s] greater simplicity and economy in governm[ent] could be brought about in this way.

Obviously, the states are, for the most [part] two small or too weak to carry out the [func]tions of government, while the unmanage[able] vastness of America and the complexity of [na]tional interests make centralized control uns[atis]factory. Mr Pound's proposal is to red[istrict] the country into twelve sections, something [like] the present Federal Reserve Board distric[ts] and to delegate to these individual regions [such] functions as control of commerce, agricul[ture,] labor, finance, employment, relief, redistrib[ution] of wealth, and all social legislation.

The federal government then would be res[pon]sible only for national defense, a postal sys[tem,] coinage of money and control of a mone[tary] unit, preservation of trading and travel r[ights] within the union, and settling of disputes [be]tween districts and citizens of different distr[icts].

Consider the possibilities for real accompl[ish]ment in a Congress comprising a House of [few]er than 150 members, and a Senate of twe[lve] acting as presidential advisers (and incident[ally] eliminating the present advisory body of [...] men, known as the President's cabinet). [Mr.] Pound also suggests moving the capital t[o a] more centrally located and less vulnerable [...] —for instance, to Illinois or Missouri.

Efficient and economical though such a [sys]tem might be, its proposal to the American [peo]ple would probably be about as enthusiastic[ally] received as the suggestion that the Const[itu]tion should be rewritten every hundred year[s]. (S. S.)

• • • •

Annapolis—Stronghold of Mediocr[ity]

By Jame Oliver Brown

A great many readers of Forum will indu[bit]ably be astonished by the article appear[ing] among its pages this month called "Annapol[is—] Stronghold of Mediocrity." Its author, Ja[mes] Oliver Brown, a graduate of Annapolis, decla[res] that the institution fails to develop the thou[ght] process, to provide a broad education, or to [de]velop character, initiative, or individual[ity]. These shortcomings are fairly well concealed [by] the strict, though unwise and unreasonable [dis]cipline, and the highly systematized training [in]flicted upon the young men enrolled, he says.

In the naval academy classroom instruct[ors] do not lecture. Instead of furnishing any kno[w]ledge whatsoever to students, they ascertain [the] amount of knowledge acquired outside the cla[ss]room. With few exceptions they are naval [of]ficers with no training in the art of teaching [and] stationed only temporarily at the academy.

Lack of education at the academy is evide[nt], Mr Brown points out, in the graduate's ign[or]ance of history and literature, of the fine ar[ts,] of philosophy, psychology, biology, geology a[nd] of other cultural subjects. A few men in [the] author's class, interested in music, philosop[hy,] religion, art, psychology the drama, governme[nt,] history, and biography, were ridiculed a[nd] classed as inferior by their classmates. One [be]gins to wonder what the majority of men [at] the academy actually are interested in.

Few men known to Mr Brown had streng[th] enough to combat the powerful routine esta[b]lished at the academy, a routine which not o[nly] hampers the further development of initiat[ive] and individuality but indeed strips the m[id]shipman of almost all he had when he enter[ed] the institution. He believes that a commissi[on] of trained men should be appointed to stu[dy] and make drastic changes in the operation [of] the academy.—(S. E. D.)

Pro & Con

Opinions expressed herein are those of the write[r or] writers and are not necessarily those of the Flamb[eau] staff. All students are invited to contribute to "[Pro] and Con."

WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?

Button, button, who's got our buttons? A[nd] our buckles, and our belts, and our washcloth[s]? To say nothing of the material that was o[nce] in our linen skirts and the weave that was o[nce] in our plaid skirts?

A bit of a shock that first brown package [we] waited for so hopefully for a week! It isn't [so] much the loss of an hour spent in rewashing a[nd] repressing—it's just the principle of the thi[ng]. After all is it fair to run our skirts through t[he] mangle and our buttons down the drain?

We do appreciate the chance to remain in [our] rooms the last couple of days each week [but] the said truth is, our professors don't seem [to] understand that "insufficient clothing" is o[ne] of the most necessary excuses for taking cut[s].

Signed: Martha Baker, Mary Sullivan, Hon[or] Coleman, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Jew[el] Groover, Rachel Leonardy, Pearle Shepa[rd,] Hazel Bowman, Elizabeth Turner, Sarah B[eth] Davis, and Evelyn Fisher.

The Social Week

Greeks Shine Spotlight On New Initiates And Visitors

Variety is the keynote of the social entertainment scheduled this week, to judge by the many affairs on the Greek engagement calendars. In the lead as favorite guests of honor are the newly-initiated members.

Pi Phi Honor Officer

A reception will be given Monday night by the Pi Beta Phi sorority honoring their national president, Miss Amy B. Onsteen. She will arrive for the annual official chapter. Members and guests of the sorority are invited to attend.

Twilight four pledges will be initiated into the Pi Beta Phi sorority at the local chapter house. They are Betty Wynn, Martha Ann Smith, Martha Rosenbush, and Burnett. The Pi Phi circus which was postponed last week will be held tomorrow night and the pledges of all sororities on campus are invited.

Theta Initiate Tonight

Miss Sara Theta Theta Theta will be formally initiated tonight at services to be held at the sorority house. The newly-elected members will be guests of honor at a banquet to be given at five members of the sorority tomorrow at the home Tuesday. Those who will be initiated Sunday are Laurie Polk, Lorraine Lending, Ruth Fisher, and Anna Mae Sanchas.

Alumnae Entertained

Five members and pledges of the Kappa sorority will be hostesses tomorrow afternoon to the alumnae at a bridge party to be held at the chapter house. Decorations will carry out the color scheme of rushing rose, lavender, Tea and cookies will be served.

Pledges will be: Miss Jane Conradi, Mrs. Fannette Bell, Miss Ruth Pitchford, Miss Mary Compton, Mrs. Eston Burr, Miss Cecil Tyndale, Miss Mary Lou Mims and Clarice Parker, Miss Susan Terrell, Mrs. Ralph Parker, Miss Gloria Atkinson, Miss Ruth Pitchford, and Miss Beth Bell.

Pledges Give Party

Pledges of Alpha Chi Omega will be hostesses tomorrow afternoon to pledges of other sororities on campus at "Four o'Clock" party.

The hostesses will be: Virginia Valenti, Dot Coburn, Connie Ellis, Christine McClellan, Lillian Turbeville, Selma Buffkin, Phyllis Parks, Jane Upton, Camille Upton, Alberta Lloyd, Althea Hall, Ruth Brooks, Louise Tay-Ruth Unland, Helen Hicker-Charlotte Veith, Alayne Clay-Marcia Ranney, and Elisa-Ann Webb.

Sorority Has Coffee

Alpha Gamma Delta sorority gave an after-dinner coffee on Friday night. The pledges will entertain with skits during the evening.

Scheduled to attend are: Betsey Bonner, Frances Bishop, Madge Potter, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Ann Mary Jane Gallemore, Helen Irwin, Julia Harrison, Mary Nell Hall, Louise Hill, Julia Hodges, Elsie Kersey, Nellie Lamar, Catherine McCarty, Midelle Van O'Shaughnessy, Mary Pinckard.

Margaret Richards, Shirley Green, Clara Stewart, Amber Carter, Dorothy Williams, Floras Bottari, Caolyn Boyd, Jessie Cochman, Jane Cooper, Elaine Fisher, Willeyce Gaines, Alma Irwin, Betty Hodgson, Irene Johnson, Helen Lane, Betty Lee, Eleanor Meier, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Patterson, Phyllis Hooks, Mary Virginia Ruff, Laura Cole Trawick, Edith Underhill, Joyce Vara, Nancy Williamson, Myrtle Wilson, and Jane Sowell.

Tea Given for Rushees

Rushees and friends of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority were guests at tea at the sorority house Thursday afternoon. During the hour refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Pledgees were: Doris Goddard, Madeline McCall, Betty Barr, Jane Sutton, Frances Hobbs, Hanoe Sybil Cheshire, Maybeth Ives, Jeanno Maanus, Virginia Ivy, Betty McMullen, Lucile Cila Goodell, Janet Cook, Mary Finney, Rosalie Merritt, Betty Jo Margaret Tyler, Viola Grilley, ana, Catherine Welch.

Supper Honors Actives

Active members and dates of the Tau Alpha were entertained Saturday night at a waffl supper given by the pledges of the sorority. Hostesses at the affair were Mary Green, Ena Pate Jett, Nell Smith, Carolyn O'Neal, Margaret Peterson, Dolly Reed, Louise Hall, Esther Schwert, and Rae Swede.

Sorority Has Dance

The Delta Phi Epsilon chapter held as their guests last week-end the Tau Epsilon Phi and Phi Beta

COLLEGE CALENDAR
October 15—Fall

Sunday—October 15
11:00 a.m.—Church services
7:30 p.m.—Vespers

Monday—October 16
4:30-9:00 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal
8:00 p.m.—Sorority meetings
8:00-8:30 p.m. — A. A. U. W Forum—Sun Hall

Tuesday—October 20
11:30 a.m. — Convocation, Dr. Chas. L. Brown, Dean of Divinity School, Yale
4:30-6:00 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal

Thursday—October 22
11:30 a.m. — Freshman rules meeting
4:30-9:00 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal

Friday—October 23
8:00 p.m.—Play night—gym
Saturday—October 24
7:45 p.m.—C. G. A. activities party

Personals

Mrs. James Dowling, of Tampa, is visiting her daughter, Virginia, for several days.

Miss Tommie Grace Faircloth, of Tampa was the guest of Annie Shelley for several days this week.

Jane Sutton and Frances Hobbs spent the past week-end in Jacksonville.

Doris Goddard will spend this week-end in Palatka with her parents. Betty Barrie will be her guest.

Agnes Goss, of Madison, was a guest at the Alpha Omicron Pi house last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Sneed of Dothan, Ala., were guests at the Zeta Tau Alpha house Monday.

Charlotte Pelfang of Miami will be a guest at the Tri Delta house this week-end.

Dr. E. G. Conradi, Dean N. M. Safley, Mrs. Louie Conradi and Miss Eunice Hurd were guests of honor at a P.-T. A. banquet held in Jacksonville last Wednesday.

Dickinson Entertains Students at Party This Afternoon

A bridge party honoring physical education majors will be given this afternoon by Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education, at her home on West Call street. Miss Dickinson has been chosen by the majors as their faculty advisor.

Guests invited to the party are: Miss Katherine Montgomery, Miss Ray Frazer, Miss Eunice Hurd, Miss Ruth Lehman, Miss Betty Washburn, and Miss Grace Fox, members of the faculty; and Janet Cook, Viola Brooks, Nan Bell, Nancy Wetherell, Mary Frances Hales, Ruth Agnes McClain, Frances Thill, Polina West, Mary Ruth Clayton, Mary Nicholls, students.

Prospective Members Of A. A. U. W. Honored

Prospective new members of A.A.U.W. were guests of honor at a first social meeting of the organization this year at the home of Mrs. Leland Lewis, Monday afternoon.

Supper was served on tables set up on the terrace.

The program, in charge of Mrs. Coyle Moore, consisted of discussions of Mexican customs by Mrs. Earl Vance and Miss Isabel McKinnel, an exhibit of Mexican art was arranged on the porch of the Lewis' home.

Coomes, Mary Sullivan, Jane Quinn, Eleanor Andrews, Louise Hollingsworth, Connie Ash, Alma Warren, Frances Howell, and Pearl Lewis.

Reynolds Girls Publish Paper

"At Home" Tea and Song Contest Are Among Activities

The Reynolds Rambler, a Reynolds dormitory publication, was issued on Monday of this week for the first time this year. The paper is published once each week on Monday and all students living in this hall are urged to contribute any news, poems, or jokes. The editors for the Rambler this week were Doris Walker and Henrietta Link.

Reynolds first "at home" tea was given on Wednesday afternoon from 4:00 to 5:30. A newly organized trio furnished entertainment for the afternoon. Those composing the trio were: Kathleen Grupps, piano; Charlotte Veith, cello; and Evalyn Patterson, violin. Several vocal numbers were also offered.

A song contest, which was sponsored by Miss Rebecca Rowan, director of Reynolds hall, closed on Wednesday. Although many songs were submitted Harriett Kent's was judged the best and she was awarded a prize of one dollar. The song winning was:

"A SONG FOR REYNOLDS"
Tune of "Florida")

We are the girls from Old Reynolds Hall
Contented and happy are we
You'll find us big buddies
In both play and studies
We're all for each other, you see.
Honor and Truth are our first ideals
Second comes staunch loyalty
So, down with that spinach
We'll fight to the finish
For Reynolds of old F. S. C.

Conradi to Attend Meet

Dr. Conradi will spend Saturday in Gainesville where he will attend the October meeting of the board of control of state institutions in the morning and the Southern Florida game in the afternoon.

Deadline Set For Distaff Material

The deadline for material to be submitted for publication in the November issue of the Distaff has been set at Tuesday, October 29, according to Daisy Parker, editor. Contributions may be handed to a staff member or dropped in the Dist.ff box on the lower floor of the Administration building.

International Club Has Meet

Students Discuss Recent Changes in Spain

"Changs in Spain" was the topic of the first program meeting of the International Relations club which was held yesterday afternoon in Broward club room.

At the beginning of the meeting a short business session was conducted by Mary Kathryn Gibson, president of the local chapter.

Miriam Herrold, chairman, opened the program with a brief discussion of the characteristics of Old Spain. She introduced the following guest speakers who gave interpretations of the major changes in Spain since the World war in its various aspects. Katharine McGarry spoke on the political conflict; Marie Jeffrey gave the social changes and Julia Vanderpe discussed the economic situation.

After the student talks an open forum was held.

Many Students Try For Teams

Continued from Page Four

Parsons, Mayzne Strange, Nell McCray, Elsie Moeller, Jean Bilyer, Marion Lesser, Betty Reed, Martha Hayne, Evelyn Edwards Ruth Porter, and Mary Boatwright.

Evens who are determined to weld their material into a strong team are Hazel Adams, Edith Atwell, Mary Ruth Clayton, Edwinola Jordan, Frances Lewis, Marjorie Haslem, Olive Alderman, Norma Anderson, Connie Ash, Susie Baker, Marion Bedell, Doris Cahoon, Elaine Fletcher, Allene Ford, Evelyn Hammond, Kitty Ford, Rodgeon, Jane Hall, Althea Lloyd, Ernestine Makemson, Virginia Makemson, Laura McCaughey, Alice Miles, Mary Nickle, Marjorie Perkins, Daphne Pittman, Frances Robinson, Frances West, Sybie Jean Olson, Agnes Vincent, Margaret Roberts, Dorothy McIlroy, Ann Plunkett, and Mary Nell Smith.

Plans Made For Demonstrations

Odd Cast Chosen; Evens Announce Dancers

Progress is rapidly being made in the plans for Odd and Even demonstrations to be held Thanksgiving week. Rehearsals are being begun today.

The first rehearsal for Odd demonstration will be held this afternoon from 2:30 until 3 in the auditorium. The cast includes:

Betty Wynn, Becky Ashton, Nancy Rogers, Clarice Sanchez, Myrtle Wilson, Martha Kennedy, Elizabeth Hardy, Edith Mashburn, Edyth Stanley, Arline Lockhart, Hazel Bowman, Florine Morris, Winifred Ewart, Anna Belle Vickers, Betty Rae and Emilie Lockwood.

Odd dances will be announced next week. The committees in charge of the demonstration are as follows:

Marjorie Tulla, general chairman; Jo Binion, dance; Betty Stillinger, dramatic advisor; Polly Flint, costumes; Betty Finch, rehearsals; Mary Kathryn Gibson, programs; Alexine Ward, stage manager; Lillian Rose, assistant stage manager; Betty Harrison, properties; Jean Clark, ushering; Frances Lingle, make-up, and Dot McLean, publicity.

The following girls have been chosen for the Even dances:

Lorraine Grahn, Ruth Brendle, Betty Graves, Ellen Greer, Lucille Smoak, Eleanor Bushnell, Marian Hawry, Martha Robbins, Janet Jewett, Ann Sconyer Ann Keener, Betty Hodgson, Virginia Brunt, Grace Elizabeth Anderson.

Jean Webster, Doc Carruthers, Virginia Ruff, Frances Sawyer, Katherine Sawyer, Dot Coburn, Lillie Taylor, Katherine Stevens, Mary Henry.

Lucy Grant, Harriet Kent, Ruth Agnes McClain, Isabella Ramsey, Mary Massey, Mary Frances Hale, Ruth Atkinson, and Mary Elisabeth Ramsey.

Arrangements cast will be announced next week Committee Reynolds Jeanne Olive, demonstration ars

Louise Lingo, stage manager; Madge Glenn and Anne Mizell, properties; Evelyn Fisher, publicity; Mary Lopez, lighting; Mickey Conn, music; Jean Lykes, ushering; Hilda Sgaraglia, Even tables; and Helen Daniels, Even color rush.

Philbert Sticks To "Cuckooing"

"Cuckoo, cuckoo, cuckoo," and Philbert dances and goes back into his little house. Philbert is a genuine German cuckoo but he speaks remarkably good English in spite of his short stay in America.

Philbert has also been called "Jeep" because he travels in a box with holes cut in it to accommodate his house. You see Philbert lives in a clock. Every half hour he comes out and indicates the time: on the hour, he cuckoos as many times as the hour hand indicates, and on the half hour he cuckoos once.

He is a rather temperamental bird. If he happens to hang the least bit crooked or if a strong wind happens to blow over him, he won't appear at all.

Philbert is made with a little blue streak on his throat, and his mouth is bright red when he opens it wide to sing. As he sings he fairly dances with enthusiasm. Sometimes instead of refusing to appear he hops out at the most inopportune times.

Although the "Jeep" lives in Broward he entertains the Gilchrist set with his antics especially is he companionable in the wee hours of the morning when nobody he and a studious senior watch the dawn.

Men On Faculty Give Addresses

Moore, Bellamy, Eyman Take Part in Human Security Week

Three members of the college faculty have made addresses before various groups this week as a part of the state observance of Human Security week. They are Dr. Coyle E. Moore, president of the Florida Conference of Social work, a member of the state board of social welfare, and associate professor of sociology; Dr. Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department, and Dr. L. Eyman, professor of education.

The major purpose of Human Security week is to enlist support for the security amendment to the end that this essential step to Florida's participation in the provisions of the Social Security act may be accomplished and that our state may continue to maintain its rightful place among the progressive states of the Union.

The ratification of this amendment will mean that one-third of the cost of granting monthly cash payments to mothers in guardians of dependent children, one-half the cost of granting aid to the blind and one-half of the payments to needy men and women over sixty-five years of age will be paid by the federal government.

The amendment is stated as follows: "The respective counties of this State shall provide in the manner prescribed by law, for those of the inhabitants who by reason of infirmity, or misfortune may have claims upon the humane consideration of society, provided, however, the legislature may by general law, provide for uniform statewide systems for

Continued on Page Six

GELBERG'S
COMPLETE STORE FOR LADIES
COLLEGE AVENUE

COOL WEATHER SPECIALS

ALL WOOL—
Twin Sets.
Sweaters.
All colors.
All combinations.

ALL WOOL—
Slip-over Sweaters.
New collegiate colors.
Skirts to match.

$1.95 each

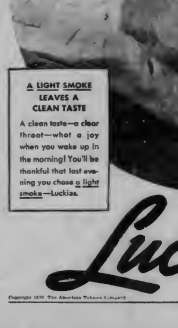
New Fall Sport Coats
Newest styles . . . Collegiate models . . . All colors . . . Usually sold for $15.00.

GELBERG'S SPECIAL
$10.95

Fall Footwear
For Street and Dress!
All colors. All sizes.
All heels.
$2.95 to $6.00

Lucky for You —It's a Light Smoke!

A LIGHT SMOKE LEAVES A CLEAN TASTE
A clean taste—a clear throat—what a joy when you wake up in the morning! You'll be thankful that last evening you chose a light smoke—Luckies.



To feel good after smoking—
It's not just the pleasure a fellow gets out of smoking Lucky Strikes . . . it's feeling good after smoking! Fresh as a daisy. A clean taste in your mouth. And when you start singing in your bath—your voice clears as a bell! That's the great thing about a light smoke. Lucky Strikes—being made from the finest center-leaf tobaccos—taste good! And because they're a light smoke, you feel good smoking them. And after smoking them, too!

★ ★ NEWS FLASH! ★ ★
"Sweepstakes" bring pleasure to war veterans

From a veterans' home in Legion, Texas, a number of cartons still in the same hand-writing come in each week. Of course we checked up to make sure that the entire conference in the rules, and one of the men explained: "Most of the boys can't get around—but I do and so I fill out their cards for them."

We're glad to say that the boys have been pretty good pickers, too.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes." And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them, too. Maybe you've been missing something. You'll appreciate the advantages of Luckies—a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1939 The American Tobacco Company

FSC Exhibits At Convention

Miss E. Hurd Represents College at P.-T. A. Congress

Florida State college was represented at the sixteenth annual convention of the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, held last week in Jacksonville, by Miss Eunice Hurd, physical education instructor, who went in place of Miss Katherine Montgomery, head of that department and chairman of the committee on physical education of the Florida congress.

The theme of the convention was "Mobilizing to Serve Childhood and Youth" and the program was centered around that idea. Among the various exhibits was one from Florida State College showing physical education activities at the demonstration school and a series of photographs depicting conditions of posture, both good and bad. Folders on the importance of physical training prepared here were distributed from the conference desk.

The committee on physical education, under Miss Montgomery, drew up a project for Parent-Teachers organizations in the state which aims to emphasize the necessity for proper training during this time. Its main features are:

Objectives:

1. The healthy functioning of the whole physical organism.
2. The development of recreational skills and interests.
3. The betterment of character, social, emotional and mental development.

Prerequisites:

1. A thorough knowledge of the child, both mental and physical.
2. Hygiene conditions of clothing, equipment, and play areas.
3. Adequate and proper leadership.

Parents' and teachers' responsibilities

1 An adequate physical examination for every child
2. Proper attention to defects.
3. Proper clothing for activity.
4 Safe and adequate equipment and play areas
5 An insistence upon professionally trained physical education instructors.
8. An understanding of the local conditions affecting the physical welfare of the child

Home Ec Girls Analyze Rest Of Campusites

Perfect Models Are Rare; Most Coeds Combine Several Types

Are you athletic, dramatic, or ingenue? Home economics students may be able to put your mind at ease when you discover that true types are rarely found and that most people are combinations.

Our straight postured and square built girl is identified as an athletic type. She walks briskly and talks low. She is of medium height, and her warm color and vigorous action makes more than one ping pong player look twice. She wears sports or tailored dresses. Her clothes denote that which speaks of strength and durability, such as tweed, heavy crepes, heavy wale in pique, Lyon velvet, or Point du Venice lace. French to you!

The ingenue girl walks with mincing steps and has delicate coloring. She has drooping posture and is round built and short. She is identified by her delicate coloring and her high and soft voice. Not the Betty Boop quality, please. She has retiring or giggling actions—no mistaken her. She dresses in stiff, soft lightweight taffeta, lightweight woolen, chiffon, voile, transkyre or chiffon velvet, net moline, or chantilly lace.

Our tall girls with languid posture, subtle coloring, and mellow voice are the dramatic type; they have a gliding walk and are languid in action. The dramatic person wears rich materials of rich textiles such as brocades, velvet, lames, metal cloth, satin.

Men On Faculty Give Addresses

Continued from Page Five

such benefits, and appropriate money therefor; but no such general law shall provide benefits to any person who shall not have been a resident of the State of Florida for a period of five years continuously next preceding his application therefor, nor shall such general law provide for benefits to any person solely on account of age who has not attained the age of sixty-five. Provided further, that where, by any law of the United States, a lesser or different period of residence, age or citizenship is required, the Legislature may require the same."

Columbia is second with 16,600, and the University of California at Berkley third with 14,034.

* * *

Father M. John Divine "Dean of the Universe," was hailed into New York county court recently for failure to meet judgments amounting to $7,600. The little man explained blandly that he had no money; that he got his shelter by acting as spiritual adviser to divine-worshipping angels; that his rolls-royce with the stuffed dove radiator ornament was not his. Reminded that he had paid cash for the cult's farm in up-state New York, he could not recall that anyone had donated or contributed anything to him in the past year.

Not one cent of Divine cash can be traced, although the offender produced a $500 bill for bail. Counsel for the creditors tried a fast question. "How much money have you right now?" The willowy nymph turned up the pockets of his suit. The yield—one key ring. Nothing more.

Week's News

Continued from Page Four

of 8.2 per cent. Southern colleges have done as well with a similar 8.2 per cent gain, and an all time high for the enrollments of the state universities of Georgia, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky and Louisiana. Held down by institutions which limit enrollments, Eastern universities show an average gain of 3.6 per cent. New York university still maintains the largest student body, with 27,926 regis-

Library Gets Latest Books

Display Case Features Bindings Fitted To Contents

Travel, romance, poetry, and biography are only a few of the subjects treated in the long list of new books acquired by the library during the summer months. Colorful covers of some of the novels are on the bulletin board at the right of the library entrance. Fall fashions in book bindings are displayed in the center case. Cloth binding in polka dot, stripes or plaid, appropriate to the subject of the book, is a fine new wrinkle in what the well-dressed book shall wear. Colored covers with a pattern engraved in gold, or with a picture from the story are used. The display case at the left of the lobby is being used for the books from which films have been adapted such as "The Gorgeous Hussy," "Anthony Adverse," and "Mary of Scotland." "Show Boat" and "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town."

Hours for browsing this year will be:

Wednesday—4-6; 7:30-9:30.

Thursday—4-6; 7:30-9:30.

senship shall be fixed in order for the State of Florida to participate in any Federal grants that might be made for such purposes, the legislature may prescribe such requirements as to citizenship, age and residence as will be consistent with and not inconflict with such Federal law."

Laundry Bag Is New Commodity

Although the request of the school laundry that all students use laundry bags may have caused dismay to many, at least one girl in our midst saw the golden opportunity it offered. While making a laundry bag for her own use, she suddenly conceived the idea of making them in large quantities and selling them at a small cost.

As soon as she came to this decision she started out to get orders, going to each room in turn. Before light flash she had taken twenty-six orders and had received several advance payments.

The next day she rushed to town in spite of the rain and bought enough material, cord, and thread for thirty bags. That evening she had made enough bags to fill over half the orders. Up to date she has made a nice profit in this enterprise, having sold 90 bags at $.30 a piece and she is still receiving so many orders that she has had to tack a piece of paper outside her door on which customers may sign their names and addresses. The line forms to the right!

Saturday—1:30-5.
Sunday—2:30-5.

Some of the new books received in the library during the past summer are: Poetry — Coffin, Strange Holiness; Frost, A Further Range; Hoyt, The Name of a Rose; Maxwell, Gilbert, Stranger's Garment; Dayton, First Lady; a Play in Three Acts; Fisher, Tourists Accommodated; Wilde, Comrades in Arms, and Other Plays for Little Theatres; Murry, Shakespeare.

Travel—Thomas, The Untold Story of Exploration; Abbe, Around the World in Eleven Years; Sinclair, Khyber Caravan; Kitch, Changing Asia; Hemingway, Green Hills of Africa; Herring, Renascent Mexico; Sheahan, The Outermost House; Frechen, Arctic Adventure; My Life in the Frozen North.

Biography—Pargeon, Portrait of a Family; Gunther, Inside Europe; McNeil, Makers of Christianity; Parson, The Way of a Transgressor; Marrot, The Life of Washington Irving; Perry, The Thought and Character of William James; Adams, The Living Jefferson; Lawford, Youth Unchained; Lorenz, My Life and Work.

Fiction — Bettley, Freedom, Farewell! Boileau, Clansmen; Du Maurier, Jamaica Inn; Krut, Woman Alive; Pallas, The Golden Pillow, Hackett, The Green Lion; Hilton, Without Armor; Horn, Farm on the Hill; Lawrence, If I Have Four Apples; Lorung, Give Me One Summer; Mitchell, Gone With the Wind; Morrow, Let the King Beware!; Morrow, Yonder Sails the Mayflower; Nordhoff, The Hurricane; Rinehart, The Doctor; Turnbull, The Rolling Years; West, The Thinking Reed; Willoughby, River House.

Some mystery stories—Crofts, The Crime at Nornes; Burton, The Clue of the Silver Brush; Crofts, Crime on the Soient; Carr, The Sight of Swords; Reilly, Mcgee of Centre Street; Knight, The Clue of the Poor Man's Shilling; Thoyer, Dead End Street; No Outlet; Gardner, The Case of the Sleepwalker's Niece; Christie, The A. B. C. Murders; Reilly, Mr. Smith's Haf, a Case for Inspector

Tampa Baptist Is Guest Here

Students Entertain For Dr. A. Plainfield

Dr. A. Plainfield, Baptist musician-worker in Tampa, was entertained informally Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist Student headquarters.

Dr. Plainfield, a native of Italy, was educated for the priesthood. He attended the same college as Mussolini and was a senior there when Il Duce was a freshman. He described the dictator as he knew him—a talented student, a powerful orator, skillful with words, a born leader, and rebellious when forced to obey.

Dr Plainfield changed his name several years ago from Pianl which means "plain" or "plain field." At that time he was helping settle a labor strike where there was much prejudiced feeling against Italians.

Dr. Plainfield told of his work in Tampa among various peoples. He explained that it is necessary for him to use five different languages—French, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, and English— in the mission, in the social service work, and in the preaching services.

* * *

McKee; Williams, The Man with the Clubfoot.

Religion — Harkness, The Resources of Religion; Aubrey, President Theodorick Frederick; Kaye, Meditations on the Cross; Hough, The Great Evangel; Buckham; Christianity and Personality; Rippy, Crusaders of the Jungle.

October Notices Newcomers Wear Autumn Clothes

With the first cool mornings of October bright summer prints and linen suits are being replaced by darker woolens.

Since we cannot take statistics, we confess that our generalizations were taken from observation, from which we notice it seems that the sweater and skirt combination is more popular than the wool dress, that orange, yellow, various shades of red, and green are the leading colors for sweaters, that ankle socks still out-number hose, and that girls cannot understand how the temperature can be seventy at noon when it was so nice and cool this morning.

The freshmen, especially this being their introduction to Tallahasee's "queer" weather, are more eager to don fall clothes than the older, wiser upperclassmen (or, yes, they rotated in pre-season wools in their time) who are not fooled by cool early-morning. A light sweater worn over a print dress will usually be their outfit, and that new sweater suit will be saved till the real thing—in fall weather.

On Saturday and Sunday afternoons and Sunday mornings, quite an interesting parade of fall clothes is viewed on college avenue. Watching these we conclude that— this year's styles feature the shorter swing skirt, the tunic, the princess lines, and for hats—the high crown. So as we announced say, we say now. "Fashions this year are lovelier, more flattering, and much more sensible

Nelle I hear your friend Roscoe knows the ropes
Belle I couldn't say. His car has No Draft Ventilation

The comfort of riding with air that is fresh and draftless in a closed car is only one of the many improvements developed in recent years by General Motors. This steady flow of betterments is made possible by the resources of General Motors, and only because of the vast quantity of GM cars sold each year is the cost of these modern contributions to safety and comfort kept within reach of all.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET PONTIAC OLDSMOBILE BUICK LA SALLE CADILLAC

Read any statement about Chesterfield cigarettes

We tell you what they are made of—mild, ripe tobaccos. We tell you that we use on Chesterfield pure cigarette paper.

We tell you that Chesterfields are carefully manufactured.

We suggest that you try Chesterfields and find out how mild they are and what a pleasing taste and aroma they have.

A great many cigarette smokers will tell you that Chesterfields satisfy— give them what they want in a cigarette.

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

—claims and facts balance

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, October 23, 1936

VOLUME XXIV. NUMBER FOUR

Help Religious Emphasis Week Succeed

Meet The Clubs Skitting Saturday Night

Religious Week Program Opens Next Saturday

Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory To Be Main Speaker During Period

COMMITTEES LAY PLANS FOR WEEK

Marjorie Rauleson Has Chairmanship Over Entire Event

The fifth annual Religious Emphasis week will be observed this year from October 31 through November 6. The activities of the "week" are centered around Dr. Wyatt Aiken Smart, who has been invited here as the speaker. Dr Smart, who is professor of theology at Emory university, spoke at the initial "week" here in 1932.

Religious Emphasis week is non-denominational, and is sponsored by all the religious organizations on the campus. The programs which are open to all students, faculty, and lectures, personal conferences, forums, and group discussions. The period heretofore has been in the spring.

Rauleson Is Chairman

Marjorie Rauleson, general chairman of the week, has appointed various committees to help her in the preparation for and the carrying out of the program. All members of the committees met last Saturday night at an after-dinner coffee in Ruge hall for the purpose of discussing their plans.

Members of the committees include:

Finance committee: Mary Ola Reynolds, chairman; Ruth Howell, Lillian Hall, Florence Carver, Isabel Clark, Mary Enslen, Katherine Benton, Helen Case, Nelle St. John, Anna Marie Mitchell, and Charlotte Carleton.

Program committee: Betty Dallas, chairman; Marian Marshall, Louise Benton, Sara Haverty, Esther O'Byrne, Frank Widman, Jane Hubbard, Louise Gehan, and Annie Jane McRae.

Other committees include:

Music committee: Sabina Ward, chairman; Marian Herbert, Sarah Hamilton, Ann Conn, Lee Bowen, Isabelle Sands, Sue Pinner, Betty White, and Margaret Mundi.

Entertainment committee: Marian Lester, chairman; Betty Dallas, Todd, Betty Harrison, Margaret Thompson, Florence Jones, Frances Howell, Dora Helen Baggett, Alcia Meacham, Sara Rutledge, Viola Bowden, Margaret Holway, Helen Daniel and Mildred Seekins.

Decorations committee: Frances Lewis, chairman; Phil Asher, Sara Nance, Henrietta Brown, Christine Myers, Margaret Delaney, Evelyn Edwards, and Elizabeth Kamper.

Hall and usher committee: Margaret Stout, chairman; Betty Knapp, Mary Ann Wynne, Ruth Butler, Barbara Hubbard, Margaret Tyler, Annie Florence Myrick, Evelyn Everett, Frances Clements, Sally Hazlett, and Betty Skinner.

Publicity committee: Sarah Sealey, chairman; Evelyn Fisher, Virginia Lee Morris, Nellie McGuire, Martha Mateseon, Cari Bjurman, Gladys Crop, Elva Hemphill, Polly Flint, and Pearle Shepard.

Sorority committee: Peggy McMichael, chairman; Mary Nell Pinkard, Jane Hall, Frances Thomas, Martha King, Frances Moore, Sara Martin, Martha Hague, Annie Laurie Polk, Midelle Moore, Betty Peck, Bertha Owen, Mary Lewis Barber, Cornelia Bell O'Rourke.

Follow-up committee: Janice Borton, chairman; Sara Hethcox, Bernice Oliver, Virginia Clayton, Lodise Lingo, Louise Doyle, and Mary Palmer.

Charlotte Kamper Will Head German Club Work

At a meeting held last Wednesday afternoon the German club elected Charlotte Kamper as its new president. Other officers elected were Betty Knapp, vice president; Annie Jennings, secretary, and Betty Coleman, treasurer.

Following the election of officers the program for the coming year was discussed. Those present at the meeting were: Miss Myrtle Logan, Florence Wagner, Charlotte Kamper, Betty Knapp, Rita Borden, Elizabeth Swart, Betty Coleman, Anna Glenn, Elvia Baumgarten, Aralee Austin, and Annie Jennings.

Attends Meeting

Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian and director of the dining room, has recently returned from the nineteenth annual meeting of the American Dietitics association held in Boston.

Three Attend Meeting Held By Dietitians

Sandels, Tracy, Tilt Are Delegates to Annual Convention

Dean Margaret Sandels, Miss Anna Mae Tracy and Dr. Jennie Tilt have returned from the nineteenth annual meeting of the American Dietetic association held in Boston last week. They were among a thousand delegates who gathered to discuss problems of research and nutrition in the dietetic field.

The introductory half of those present were dietitians engaged in hospital work. Others were engaged in public school lunch rooms, college dining rooms, commercial food sales, or teacher of nutrition and allied subjects.

The program extended from last Monday through Thursday and contained such nationally known figures as Dr. E. P. Antila famous for his work in diabetes, Dr. George Minot, renowned for his work in anemia; Mr. Vilhjalmur Stefanson, well known for his anarctic explorations, discussing his experiment concerning the various effects of meat on the body; and Dr. Mary Swarts Rose discussing nutrition problems as considered by the League of Nations.

Other well-known speakers were Miss Marian Met of the United States department of labor who spoke on "Industrial standards"; Prof. North Whitehead of Harvard university, who spoke on "Leadership in Business"; and President Bancroft Beatley of Simmons college, who discussed "Vocational Education."

The next meeting is to be held in Richmond, Va., in October, 1937; this is the first time in his week-end in different parts of the country.

Miss Tracy said some time was spent at the dining and residence halls at Harvard and Wellesley college.

Flambeau Staff Members Will Attend Convention To Be Held in Kentucky

Hazel Bowman, editor of the Flambeau, and Lilly McQuire, business manager, will attend the fifteenth annual convention of the Associated Collegiate Press to be held in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 30, and 31.

There will be several featured speakers, among whom are Herbert Agar, Pulitzer prize winner, and "Dusty" Miller of the Wilmington, O., News-Journal. The latter promises all of the wit and philosophy necessary to make the convention a success.

In addition to the speakers, there will be a series of discussions designed to present the convention a complete review of all that is new and important in the field of college newspaper publishing, of special interest to the editorial and business sections of college newspapers.

The meetings will be held in the famed Brown hotel under the sponsorship of the University of Louisville. R. E. Blackwell, assistant to the president of the university, has arranged interesting tours through the famed Southern city and surrounding country.

Another high-light of the convention will be the tour of inspection of the Louisville Courier-Journal, newspaper plants, and a luncheon to be given by the staff of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Speaker Takes His Text From Roadside Sign

Dean Charles R. Brown Of Yale Addresses Student Body

FINDS STRENGTH IN MEDITATIONS

Speaker Places Thought As Most Necessary Of Human Arts

Taking his text—"Stop, Look, Listen, Think"—from the roadside, Dean Charles R. Brown, Dean Emeritus of the School of Religion, Yale university, discussed the subject "What We Have By" at Convocation Wednesday morning.

"How fast is the restless, rushing way of living getting us? Is it really getting us somewhere?" the speaker challenged his audience. His counsel is for mankind to stop, to be still, to have a quiet time each day, for in stillness and calm there lies a strength. He would have men meditate on some great truth, musical composition, or spiritual phrase in order that they might experience the sense of something unforeseen coming to birth.

To live the good life, Dean Brown emphasized, a man must "look up to the hills and count the hills." For a man's life does not consist of things, but he has it made up of the qualities of mind and heart. Of course, man can not live by spirit alone, but he cannot really live on them. For the human mind is the spiritual part of man's material. Dean Brown brought to his audience a bit of advice for business men when he said, "Never be afraid of the ideal." Minister Stefanson, well known for his anarctic explorations, discussing his experiment concerning the various effects of meat on the body; and Dr. Mary Swarts Rose discussing nutrition problems as considered by the League of Nations.

Increase Seen In Sophomore, Junior Classes

843 Enroll in College Arts and Sciences This Semester

Eight hundred and forty-three students are enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences for this year, giving that division a large majority over the other schools of Florida State college. The School of Education is next with 656 students, followed by the School of Home Economics with 250 students, and the School of Music with an enrollment of 236.

Students by classes are: freshmen, 736; sophomores, 226; juniors, 286; and seniors, 245. In addition to these there are eleven graduate students and thirty-three special students.

The highest enrollment at the college was for the years 1930-31 and 1932-33 when 1792 students were enrolled during each year. This year's increase is mainly in the sophomore and junior classes, which are two classes showing practically the same as last year.

Enrollment by classes in the various divisions of the college is begun with the freshman year, with the corresponding increase in the sophomore and junior classes. Enrollment in the various years of division of the college are: freshman: 736; sophomore: 226; Arts Sciences, 227; School of Education, 372; Home Economics, 119; School of Music, 236; freshman: College of Arts and Sciences, 264; School of Education, 192; School of Home Economics, 85; and School of Music, 12. Junior: College of Arts and Sciences, 178; School of Education, 77; School of Home Economics, 44; School of Music, 4. Seniors: College of Arts and Sciences, 119; School of Education, 71; School of Home Economics, 46; and School of Music, 9.

Many To Leave For Gatherings

Faculty Members Attend Meets Representing Florida State

Faculty members of Florida State college will represent the school at gatherings held this week-end in different parts of the country.

Miss Lucy Lester and Dr. Marsie Burks left yesterday for Atlanta for centennial celebration of Wesleyan college, Macon, Georgia. President William MacCracken of Stetson university will be principal speaker at the ceremonial convocation which the two former alumnae trustees will attend. Dr. Hamilton Holmes, president of Rollins college, will be one of the speakers at a civic dinner during the week-end. The festivities will close with a pageant on the lawn of the campus. There will be a formal dinner at the Dempsey hotel.

Dean Margaret Sandels and Miss Lelia Venable of the home economics department will attend the annual meeting of the extension workers of Florida this week-end in Gainesville. In charge of stage hands, heavily loaded with musical instruments, there will be no fee; our unimportance and subsequent lack of funds. Dr. and Mrs. Mary E. Keon. During the conference Dean Sandels will talk on "Problems Supporting Some of the Home Economists in Florida." Miss Venable will speak on "Managing the Home," dealing with one phase of the problem, "entity knave to be Dr. Nice. Tall, ...rs. lean-faced, and moustached to a remarkable degree, he assented willingly to our somewhat embarrassed request for an interview.

Asked his opinion regarding the modern trend of music, he answered quickly and emphatically, "I believe that jazz is here on the decline and that the more refined dance music which is appearing will eventually please even the most fastidious critics of the classics. People are beginning to appreciate the old masters and are paying more of an interest to serious types of music."

He then pointed out that communities are being given an opportunity to hear better symphony through the activities sponsored by the Federal Music project. The parade with any of its kind, and it ranking is already fourth in the national music project.

Smiling in answer to our query as to whether he memorized all of the symphonies he conducts, or he answered in the affirmative, stating that he memorized the score, however,

Continued on page two

Editor Announces Upperclass Sales

Editors may buy Flantacowo annual picture tickets beginning today and continuing through Saturday, Oct. 31. The week of Nov. 2-6 has been set for seniors to purchase their tickets. Frances Furth editor, has announced that approximately 80 per cent of the freshmen class has had pictures taken and that she wishes to thank these underclassmen for their cooperation.

As Reporter Views Brown, The Speaker

McKay Follows Dean's Career from Farm Lad to Fame

By MARY JEANNE McKAY

From farm lad to fame is the Horatio Alger version of Dean Charles Reynolds Brown's career. Born on an Iowa farm, he grew up to become the dean of one of this country's most outstanding divinity schools, that at Yale university. He has been dean emeritus of the Yale school since 1911.

Not alone upon his efforts as an educator, however, does his career rest. He has written many books, several of which are in the library on this campus. Widely traveled, he began his wanderings when he studied in Egypt and Palestine as a young clergyman. Since then his activities as a lecturer have taken him many places. Per instance, following his Florida trip this week, Dean Brown is going to Canada where he will lead a series of convocations.

Dean Brown has great ability as an orator. With a style that is full and expressive, he uses a minimum of gestures and voice-raising. To listeners he gives the

Continued on page two

Miss Matthews Is Author Of History Book

"Over the Blue Wall" Is Result of Seven Year Study

"Over the Blue Wall" is the title of the book written by Miss Ella Matthews, associate professor of literary science, which is scheduled for publication by the Florida State College for Women Press in January, 1937.

The book which gets its title from the Blue Ridge mountains, is a narrative history of the Mississippi Valley from the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi river to the Gulf. It will be issued in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. It is not a textbook, but is supplementary to the texts in the schools from the fifth grade through college.

The authorities points out in the narrative the crossing of the Appalachian mountains by the white man, and the beginnings of the settlements there. Her aim in writing the book is to give young students of America a survey of the history of the Mississippi valley beyond the time of the Louisiana Purchase.

Miss Matthews is a teacher of courses in young people's literature, and has written for school libraries, and the use of the library.

"Over the Blue Wall" is the result of seven years of research and study. This is her first book and contains 486 pages with illustrations.

Dr. Clarence Carter Nice Thinks Jazz is on Decline

Reporters Find Symphony Orchestra Director Surrounded by Sea of Music Racks, Violin Cases and Drums

By LEONA HOWE and PETREA CABANISS

Surrounded by a sea of music racks, violin cases, and enormous drums, we waited in the shadowy auditorium for the appearance of Dr. Clarence Nice, state orchestra director, hoping to trap him for an interview. A steady stream of stage hands, heavily loaded with musical instruments, filed by us to feel our unimportance and subsequent lack of funds. Dr. and Mrs. Mary E. Keon. During the conference Dean Sandels will talk on "Problems Supporting Some of the Home Economists in Florida." Miss Venable will speak on "Managing the Home," dealing with one phase of the problem, "entity knave to be Dr. Nice. Tall, ...rs. lean-faced, and moustached to a remarkable degree, he assented willingly to our somewhat embarrassed request for an interview.

Asked his opinion regarding the modern trend of music, he answered quickly and emphatically, "I believe that jazz is here on the decline and that the more refined

Verdi's Opera Is Presented In Auditorium

Capacity Houses Greet Playing of Aida And Of Orchestra

DR. CARTER NICE DOES DIRECTING

Bice Eaton Sings Leading Role; Louise Taylor Is Slave Girl

The presentation of the opera Aida, by Verdi, last night as part of the two-day music festival of the WPA federal music project marked the first time that opera has been presented at Florida State college.

Capacity houses greeted both of the performances of the festival, the matinee, and the symphony orchestra concert Wednesday night, under the direction of Dr. Clarence Carter Nice, conductor. The company of more than 200 people left this morning for Pensacola, Jacksonville, and Miami. The two-day festival to be followed by similar engagements in St. Petersburg, Tampa, and Miami. The initial appearance was in Jacksonville on Monday of this week.

Orchestra's Program

The program of the orchestra was opened by the overture, "Rosamunde, Ballet," by Tschaikowsky. The first group included "Invitation to the Dance" by Von Weber and "Spanish Caprice" by Rimsky-Korsakoff. In answer to a number of encores, the orchestra played during the second half of the program "Dance of Salome" by Strauss. Another feature of this part was "Scene and Serenade" by Drdla. Both numbers were composed by F. Pierce Dorham of Tallahassee and a violinist in the orchestra. "Adagio" by Lekeu and "Italian Caprice" by Tschaikowsky made up the remainder of the program.

Appearance of Bice Eaton

The presentation of Aida marked the twenty-sixth appearance of Miss Bice Eaton under the direction of Dr. Nice. She sang the tempestuous role of Aida, heroine, whose unreciprocated love

Continued on page two

Andrews Talks About Careers

Medicine Offers to Women Many Opportunities; Field is Broad

In the third talk in a series of lectures about vocations open to women, Dr. Dorothy Andrews spoke yesterday afternoon in 203 Administration building about medicine as a career for women.

Dr. Andrews opened her talk with a discussion of Martha Tracy, Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, who was a pioneer in this direction."

Among the fields of medicine listed by Dr. Andrews were the following general practitioner; obstetrics and gynecology; dentistry; preventive work in clinics for maternity and infancy; public control of tuberculosis, venereal diseases, cardiac cases, mental and nervous diseases; work in school or college; health supervision of children; industrial medicine; work of hospital.

"There are fewer women physicians than men although the demand for women, especially in the treatment, is greater. All the outstanding medical practitioners and scientists of Florida today in our vicinity were women. Women have been all the way up and down in the field of medicine and they are now rising again. There are few medical schools not open to women.

"The required subjects are: chemistry, twelve semester hours; physics, eight hours; biology, eight hours. English, six hours; other subjects are foreign language, advanced botany, or zoology, psychology, mathematics, additional chemistry.

"A recent letter concerning Florida State College medical students from the Medical College of Virginia, says, 'The best preparation for a woman who will enter, or the girls themselves but your graduates do very well here.'"

Continued on page two

Directs Skits

Mary Jeanne McKay, president of the Student Union, will have charge of the organization's studio party at the gymnasium tomorrow night.

Alumnae Talk To Freshmen About College

Relate History of School And Work of Alumnae At Class Meeting

Alumnae of Florida State college addressed the freshmen on various aspects of their school at the regular meeting held yesterday at 11:30 in the auditorium.

The history of the college was outlined briefly by Mrs. Annie Bouton Sinebaugh of the class of '29. Mrs. Sinebaugh is Girl Scout executive of Leon county and is treasurer of the Alumnae association.

Miss Marian Gardner, graduate of 1932, described the physical growth of the college from an institution owning two frame houses and ten acres of land to the present buildings. While in college Miss Gardner was chairman of the judiciary and member of the Mortar Board. She is now employed in the Governor's office.

Mention of the outstanding alumnae was made by Miss Elizabeth Thompson, member of the class of '27 and instructor in dramatics here now. In the field of literature, she named writers for Scribners, the New York Times, and Good Housekeeping. Lawyers, teachers, social workers, and members of other professions were listed.

Mrs. Sara Emmery Coulter of '30 recounted the college traditions. Mrs. Coulter, member of the Mortar Board and senior president while an undergraduate, has been elected permanent president of the class.

The service of the college to the state was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Belle Spencer Salley. Dividing the services into tangible and intangible ones, Mrs. Salley discussed the library, the personnel office, the psychological clinic and the unpretentious but valuable work of all the alumnae. Mrs. Salley, graduate of 1927, was president of the College Government association and a member of the Mortar Board.

A dance number was given by Eleanor Bushnell and two songs by Marjorie Benson of Gainesville ended the meeting.

Political Discussion Will Feature Meeting Of NSFA Tuesday Nite

Explanation and discussion of the platforms of the major political parties in the presidential campaign will be the subject of N.S.F.A. meeting to be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in 405 Administration building.

Peggy McMichael and Frances Porth will present and discuss the Democratic platform, and Mickey Conn will present the Republican party. Hazel Bowman will discuss the progress of the other political groups.

After the talks, open discussion will be held with chairman Polly Everitt presiding.

The program is being arranged by Janice Borton, program chairman. A list of suggested books and political questions has been posted on the N.S.F.A. bulletin board.

Davis Has Operation

Miss Esther Davis, graduate in the class of '36 has recently undergone an operation at Bailey-Hospital in Chicago.

Friends can address her in care of the hospital at 950 East 59th street.

Freshmen Meet Campus Clubs Saturday Night

Studio Party Will Hold Forth at Gymnasium Under Presidents

FRENCH STUDENT TO MAKE SPEECH

Educational Skits Will Form Entertainment For Evening

A new fantasy to acquaint freshmen with the various campus organizations and their purposes will be held at the gymnasium tomorrow night in the form of a studio party. Here business and pleasure will be combined in the educational skits to be presented by the various campus organizations.

The College Government association, headed by President Mary Jeanne McKay, will present a skit to be the background around which all the other skits will be built.

Sports Reviewed

The athletic association will present a skit under the direction of Betty Deane showing the various phases of their sports activities. The history of their organization and their present activities will be the theme of the day students' contribution to the skit which Dorothy Bellamy is in charge.

A skit featuring songs of the alma mater will be given by the glee club, with Jane Hall in charge. Of great interest will be the model temping service which Mortar Board will present under the direction of Marjorie Tillis and Sue Whitfield.

Themes Talks

Martha Thomas, French student who was invited to Florida State College for Women by the International Relations club, will be the principal speakers at their skit, which is being directed by Mary Kathryn Gibson.

A news stanc with the Flambeau, Distaff, and Pharaxon for the staff, a theme of the publications' exit, of which Daisy Belva is the author, is complete, under the direction of Mary McDonald and Betty Ann Harris.

Dramatic art of the Florida State College for Women is to be presented in an exhibition of scenes, costumes, and organizations as the Theta Alpha Phi skit. There will be a campfire scene with singing

Continued on page four

Evens Choose Cast For Play

Rehearsals for Odd-Even Demonstrations Begin

After two weeks of try-outs the cast for Even demonstration has been selected and rehearsals will begin immediately. In the meantime other rehearsals are being conducted behind closed doors. The dances have been completed for a week, and Odd cast has been in rehearsal for the past two weeks. The Mortar Boarders will be selected within the next few days.

The Even cast as announced yesterday by Phil Asher, general chairman, and Mickey Brown, director, who will also have parts, includes: Edna Mae Brown as Rowley, Betty Ostlund, Jean Treadwell, Nell St. John, Del Hill, Mary Lewis Barber, Jane Hendrick, Jean Lykes, Frances Moss, Margaret Ann Hubbard, Marguerite Brown, Caroline Collins, Anita Jaeckel, Reva Hemphill, Id Lee Hall, Mary Boyce Sutton, Helen Benson, Florence Jones, Ina Margaret Robinson, Minnie Clark, Mary Alice Lester, Margaret Bailey, Lillian Burbank, Marguerite Brown, Mary Halliley, Marjorie Stump, Jean Stoy, Dorene Medlin, Catherine McCready, Audrey Cooper, Erma Engle, Margaret Meltzer, Dorothy Malone, Marjorie Jones, Edith Merrill, Barbara Watson.

Committees Arrange For Dormitory Teas

Many students have been taking advantage of the opportunity to become better acquainted with their fellow-students by attending the teas given in the dormitories every week.

The social directors have arranged for committees of girls from the dormitories to act as hostesses.

Abbey Speaks To Democrats

Seniors Attend Rally Of Tallahassee Women In Local Club

In a talk on "The Background of American Issues" before the Tallahassee women democratic rally on Wednesday afternoon Dr. Kathryn Trimmer Abbey, pointed out that "the problem of American people today is to keep democracy effective once it has been made real."

Dr. Abbey was the only speaker at the tea, which was held at the local woman's club and was attended by a large group of members from the college.

"In that country," said Dr. Abbey, "the system of social regulation or government is embodied in a document known as the Constitution." The process of amendment, provided by the Constitution, make possible the essential things and flexibility in modern government. Since the liberal movement of the 18th century, which brought forth the American Declaration of Independence, the idea that the main purpose of any syster.. of social regulation was to fit the needs and to promote the welfare of those who lived unde. it has gained acceptance throughout the western world.

Trends of government in the western civilization have been along three basic lines: first, the centralization of control; second, the attempted achievement of definite social ends through legislation; third, the extended use of public moneys for public services. The implied force in the direction of the first is "the growth of an interstate rather than an interstate domestic economy and an international rather than a national welfare economy." In finding the second requirement the government has realized that it must place the "common good of "we, the people," as its first goal. The idea of the use of public moneys for social services "is somet ing which is revolutionizing the conventional ideas of taxation."

The Fathers of the Constitution were thinking of the millions rather than the hundreds of millions, but their ideas admitted of much broader interpretation. Today the hundreds of millions are aware of this and trying to demand a more real democracy than has heretofore existed, the speaker said.

Verdi's Opera Is Presented In Auditorium

Continued from page one

brought about the death of Aida and Rhadames, her lover. This formed the plot of Verdi's musical drama of passion in the time of the Egyptian pharaohs. Miss Eaton sang the same role with the Philadelphia grand opera company and has had leading roles in grand opera productions in New York under Dr. Nice's direction.

As prima donna of the National Grand Opera company of Mexico she has appeared before audiences in Mexico City, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Valparaiso and Havana. Since her return to New York Miss Eaton has sung leading roles in several music festivals and summer productions in grand opera.

Jewels worn by Miss Eaton, although made of synthetic and semi-precious stones, are valued at thousands of dollars. The collection represents past reproductions of ancient Egyptian designers made in France for former stars of the Paris Opera.

Louise Taylor from the Chicago Opera company portrayed the slave girl, Aida. Joseph Wetzel, tenor, was Rhadames and Dan Seegle, formerly of Jacksonville, but now of Chicago, enacted the part of Amonasro, the Ethiopian King. Singers from throughout the state composed the chorus.

Freshmen Meet Campus Clubs Saturday Night

Continued from page one

featured, under the direction of Janice Sexton.

This party was planned by the committee of presidents, of which Miss Jeanne McKay is chairman. Mary Jeanne expressed the hopes that if this party proves to be beneficial and enjoyable, it will set a precedent for other years. This is the first time such a presentation has ever been given.

All freshmen are invited to attend this informal party. After the program, refreshments of punch and doughnuts will be served by Peggy McMichael, chairman of the freshman social committee.

Exhibition of Prints By Forty-nine French Artists is on Display

An exhibition of prints by French artists since Cesanne opens this afternoon in room 307 Administration building. This exhibit is under the auspices of the artists series and is open to the public from 9 to 5 o'clock every day until Friday, October 30. Miss Amy Ferris Briggs will give lectures at the exhibit on Tuesday and Wednesday at 4:30 o'clock.

The exhibit includes lithographs and etchings by forty-nine different French artists of international fame. The pictures shown in this exhibit are by Besnard, Bernard, Beaustingault, Bruet, Cesanne, Degas, Dunio, Dubreuil, de Besonsse, Daily, Panitis-Latour, Perain, Prelaut, Gaugain, Redieu, Renoir, Laborde, Lalanne, Lepreste, Laurencin, Lebeutre, Levy-Lespinasse, Matisse, Moreau, Naudin, Picasso, Pissarro, Pedon, Renoir, Simson, Toulouse-Lautrec, Vallotton, Valadon, Verge-Sarrat, de Vlaminck, Vuillard, Coubine, Wriout, Ziem, Alix Bernier, Coulbert, Gaustella, Hecht, Jaquemin, Lang, La Patelliere, Soulas, Viellard.

Man Appears In YW Rite

How would you feel if, upon going into what you thought was a dormitory, you were suddenly surrounded by the voices of two hundreds of white robed figures bearing candles, and in a well imagine the feelings of the lone boy who was caught in the last door of his hall, but the Y. W. C. A. on a Sunday night is for women.

The boy, a stranger on the campus, was looking for a certain dormitory. Unfortunately for all the buildings, he mistook the administration building for the object of his hunt. While mounting the steps he noticed a lady kindly felt as though someone was looking at him. To his supreme consternation he found himself being surrounded by hundreds of white robed figures bearing lighted candles. His first impulse was to flee as he felt he was obviously in the wrong place. It might even be heaven, for to him the figures closely resembled angels . . . but, being a deep breath, he inquired timidly of the nearest "angel" where he could find the desired dormitory. Upon receiving his answer, he departed without delay, without many titterings—glad to leave the "angels" to their solemn ceremony. It was certainly no place for a man!

Andrews Talks About Career

Continued from page one

hope we will have a great many more of them through the years."

"Closely allied with medicine is nursing. Formerly many eighth grade and high school students entered nursing but now a large percentage have two years of college and many three years plus hospital training. Nursing is the only profession in which the student is maintained without cost from the beginning of professional education.

"The qualifications for entrance into the field of dental hygiene are good personal appearance, good taste, good health and vision, neatness, integrity, high ideals, enthusiasm, initiative, courage, tact, patience, and courage.

"All these professions are not careers for the lazy, the selfish, or the physically weak, but for the courageous, enthusiastic and socially minded, who will get joy and satisfaction in work which never loses interest, and which promotes the welfare of humanity."

As Reporter Views Brown, The Speaker

Continued from page one

satisfying effect that is not straying from his subject.

As a conversationalist he is witty and gives direct attention to his partner. Furthermore, he never hurries, when talking to unimportant people, to get to the important. He is old-fashioned enough to remember to make courtly speeches to young ladies and modern enough in his thinking to be several steps ahead of today's work-a-day undergraduates. Thus a group of students at the Sunday Monday evening when they had an opportunity for an informal discussion with him.

Rain does not clear the air of impurities, according to tests in 14 industrial cities by the U S Public Health Service.

Girls Relate Past Moments Of Humiliation

Times of Embarrassment Are Many for Some Campusites

Even the intelligentsia of a college campus does not seem to be entirely removed from embarrassing moments. To take the matter a step farther, the seniors themselves must at times submit to periods of humiliation. One horrified candidate for a degree in May, 1937, admitted that her supreme moment of embarrassment centered about these solemn words: "The judiciary of college government association hereby sentences you to two weeks without dates." The strain of the moment was heightened, not by the fact that the girl had inadvertently sat through first, second, and last light-club with her hat on while swish, but by the fact that she had never been called on court before COA. Pride in a perfect record forever tramples.

From the mightiest to the lowliest moments "they would like to forget" may be found. A freshman practice teacher in music almost collapsed one afternoon as orchestra practice when her mind—and two—and one freshmen's face very, very red.

The crowning moment, in the way of horrifying ones, came, however, when a Flambeau reporter called Miss Louise Richardson, librarian, requesting her to relate her most embarrassing moment. Said Miss Richardson, "in the Flambeau? Ah, my little one . . . I could relate many an embarrassing moment, but not for the ears of a Flambeau reporter; they have caught me too many times already!"

Dr. Hinson Will Leave Today for Gainesville To Serve on Committee

Dr. Roy Hinson, professor of education, left today for Gainesville where he will serve on the committee on program of studies of the Florida Educational association at the meeting of the Middle Florida District Education association held there today and tomorrow.

This committee will consider the problems of the modern high school curriculum and endeavor to better fit it to the more complex student body of today. Dr. Hinson is the Florida State college representative.

"It has been realized for some time," Dr. Hinson says, "that the present curriculum is outfitted to the high school youth of today. Not so many years ago the schools had students only from one class, the well-to-do middle class. Most of the students had the same general cultural background. Today the high school is made up of every class. The background of the students vary from wealth and poverty, intelligence to extreme poverty where even a daily newspaper is a sacrifice. It is the purpose of the committee to work out a curriculum to fit all these children."

The committee is a new organization and much of the time at this meeting will be spent in getting the body in working order. Certain major problems will be discussed, however, and plans made for later meetings.

Student Union Convenes Here

University of Florida's Delegates Arriving This Afternoon

Approximately thirty Methodist students from the University of Florida at Gainesville are expected to arrive here this afternoon for a joint meeting with members of the Tallahassee Methodist student union tonight, tomorrow and Sunday.

The session will be opened with a banquet at the student union building. There will be a joint council meeting tomorrow afternoon and Dr. Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, will speak on a panel meeting at 4:30 o'clock. Tomorrow night there will be a formal banquet in the lower dining hall in honor of the Gainesville representatives.

The Rev. Donald Cook, student pastor at the University of Florida, will conduct a class at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning and that night at 7:30 o'clock there will be a joint choir program in appreciation of the new Methodist hymnal at the Methodist church.

Cocoa Addicts Foiled As Cows Go On Strike

"What! No cocoa?"

"No cocoa."

Thus, too, noticed that lately you haven't had cocoa for breakfast? Well, for once the dining hall is innocent. The fault is not wholly to blame.

It seems that the college cows are not giving as much milk as they did. Since there are more students who drink milk at lunch than there are who drink cocoa at breakfast, the dietitians decided to discontinue cocoa at breakfast in order to cut down on the amount of milk used.

So, until the cows give more milk, no cocoa.

1200 Students Enrolled In Physical Education

Notwithstanding the exemption of many upperclassmen, the total enrollment in physical education classes is greater this year than it was last year's enrollment.

Before this school-term began, five hundred and three juniors and seniors had been exempt from physical education classes, since that time fifteen others have fulfilled their exemption requirements.

There are now more than twelve-hundred students enrolled in physical education classes, an approximate increase of one hundred students over that of last year.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pack up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we will ship by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, or any nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 25 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping days by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 456-R
Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

New Adornments For Dorm Rooms Prove Numerous

Christmas Theme is Used By Freshmen; Others Have Horses

Usually room decorations on campus are as numerous as grits.

In a freshman dormitory, the "Santa Claus" and "Christmas Spirit" idea already predominates. In one room, which is decorated in bright red and green, a cluster of silver bells is fastened on the door as a knocker and one almost expects to hear Dancer and Prancer called to a halt on the snowcovered roof when it is used.

Another room boasts the results of an industrial arts project. A penguin doorstop, some handcarved bookends, self-dyed burnt leather, a home-made Pyrex pyrex theater add to the general but somewhat vague scheme. The enthusiastic creator explained that, "I loved them so I just couldn't leave them away."

Pillowy decorate a third unusual room. Heart-shaped, square, triangular, round, large, medium, and small pillows are to be found there. They cover the floor as a lounge on bed and window-seat heaped with colorful pillows, and try to concentrate on lessons instead of where the next pillow is coming from.

Another room belongs to an upperclassman who is a lover of rare and antique oddities. On various bookshelves, and often hideous, Oriental objects grin or glower at all observers. Among her exotic possessions is a heavy gold dagger lying ominously on the desk accompanied by a grinning metal god which keeps watch beside it.

The occupants of one unusual room probably sing, "Horses, horses, horses," from morning to day. Miniature stallions, mares and colts pose in their room on desk, dresser, small table, window drapes, rugs and cushions. There are those ranging in size from small, slender-legged colts to racing winners in this room.

Freshmen Make Perfect Scores in Examination

Twenty-five members of the freshman class passed the examination examination with perfect scores. This number is considerably larger than that of former years.

The following girls comprise the twenty-five: Dot Carnthere, Murry Ruland, Frances Slade, Helen Strathdowny, Marian Harvey, Louise Hinth, Mildred Stovall, Anita Crosbie Bennett, Edna Roberts, Frances Farmer, Janet Mattern, Louise Thomas, Ruth Weber, Opal Brooks, Mary Ann Noland, Katherine Graham, Elsie Munnerlyn, Geraldine Sweat, Virginia Hatch, Margaret Wyatt, Elsie Gutto, Lillian Douglas, Gertrude Albritton, Ruth Williams, Gladys Stivender.

Speaker Takes His Text From Roadside Sign

Continued from page one

cultivate the capacity for knowing God's will.

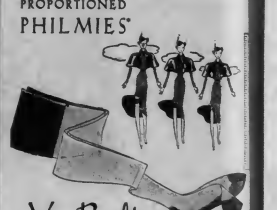
Dean Brown's final comment was, "Think. The art of thinking is a wholesome exercise. A man thinketh in his heart, so he".

when he first started conducting. When asked if he were nervous before an important concert he said, "It is only natural that a true musician be tense before a performance." With an eloquent motion of his long, artistic hands, he added, "One cannot be cold, as it were, for it is only when an artist gives that he listeners may get."

Art Students Do Practical New Designs

The lucky thirteen girls in the advanced design class are now using their talents for very practical purposes. Instead of drawing their original design on paper, they are painting them on wooden bowls and cheese plates, which will undoubtedly help to solve the problem of what to give Aunt Minnie for Christmas. The designs are done in bright colors inside the bowls, and they will make a colorful addition to any sideboard. They will be put on exhibit sometime in the near future.

Bowl painting is not, however, the only field art students have explored. They are also planning to draw designs for materials. By the batiking process, dyeing to you and me. These designs will be transferred to cloth, which may be used for wall hangings, dresses, and many other things. Batiking is an ancient art, which has taken centuries to come from Java, where it was first perfected, to Florida State college. It is now quite fashionable in thi country, being used for decorative purposes of the highest order.



Next semester each of the thirteen design students will make a folding screen of three pieces, by which will be fastened together by means of hinges. The girls are already searching the town for pieces of old screens and chairs. They will cover the screens with various and sundry materials depending on how much the individual girl wants to spend on her project. When the screens have been hinged together and covered the girls will paint designs of their own making on them. Aside from the artistic value of the finished products they will eventually serve a very practical purpose for those who have anything to hide.

Dr. Clarence Nice Thinks Jazz Is On Decline

Continued from page one

when directing an inexperienced orchestra. Before retiring each night he reads over an entire orchestration, which he has done since the age of eighteen years

There's sleek fit for everyone in these three PROPORTIONED PHILMES

by Van Raalte $7.00

Not simply three different lengths, mind you—but stockings differently proportioned from top to toe to fit average, taller and shorter women. In a beautiful three-thread chiffon. Take your pick—

PHILMY — for average women, 30 inches long. Sizes 8 to 10½.

PHILSY — for taller women, 34 inches long. Sizes 9½ to 11.

PHILMY — for shorter women, 28 inches long. Sizes 8 to 10

"because you love nice things"

The Vogue
feminine wearables
TA-LAHASSEE FLORIDA

GELBERG'S
DOLLAR DAY FRIDAY
SHOP HERE AND SAVE!

New Fall WASH FROCKS
Ideal for school wear. Values to $1.95.
$1
DOLLAR DAY

Fabric Gloves
One lot fall gloves at great savings! Black, Navy and Brown to choose from. $1.00 value.
$1
DOLLAR DAY

BAGS
New shipment just arrived. . . . New colors—new styles.
$1
DOLLAR DAY

SLIPS
Beautiful lace trimmed and tailored slips. Every one perfect quality.
$1
DOLLAR DAY

New Fall SOCKS
Plain and fancy tops to choose from. 29c value.
$1
DOLLAR DAY
5 PAIR . . . . .

Julliond Nev-a-Wet CORDUROY
A treat for those who sew their own. Ideal for pajamas. . . . 79c value.
$1
DOLLAR DAY
2 YARDS . . . . .

"TURRET TOP, SAFETY GLASS, KNEE-ACTION...THE ALL-AMERICAN COMBINATION"

The combination of features you find on a General Motors car is mighty hard to beat, and that traces to the fortunate fact that this organization has resources great enough to finance the cost of pioneering, and builds so many cars that it can produce new developments at a real economy.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

M & N CAFE
SPECIAL AT ALL TIMES
Steak Dinners 40c · Oyster Dinners 40c
Phone 1064 119 Jefferson St.

Sport Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

In "Girl's Dormitory," a current motion picture attraction, there were some excellent shots of fencing drills and exercises. It was probably the attractive white dresses, or the attractiveness of the girls themselves that got most of us; nevertheless, Marie Joffre says that the attendance at fencing classes has practically doubled since the showing of that picture here.

One of the sorority houses on campus is embracing a pet pooch these days, and the girls are getting in their fall workouts chasing, hunting season by chasing him around the block six or eight times every morning. The story is that they try to wear him out so he will stay parked under a chair for the rest of the day.

Aw, nuts again—and that student body is working off excess weight by taking long walks and climbing trees in search of sweet hickory pecans which are slowly ripening all over the place. That's all right, but lets stop dumping the hulls in roommate's bed this year.

We are progressing! Next comes the announcement of the pending construction of a three-hole golf course. The course, which will be added to later, should afford some new entertainment for lots of the students and anyone will be able to get rain anytime we want it by just planting a couple of golf balls.

It's 'round about Halloween time and a report goes around that an apple-bobbin' party is being rounded up. And that the bobbing is to take place somewhere between Thomasville—some place like the fountain out in front of the Ad building—those nobody-ever-is-sober-enough-to-bob.

The program for intra-murals for the coming year looks interesting and the number of organizations entered so far makes it look as if there will be more participants than usual.

Athletes at most colleges are usually pretty well taken care of, but San Jose State college is slightly overdoing the thing. According to the Associated College Press, that school is now entering out little-time athletic passes to graduates, who while students, proved their high quality in the field of sports.

Additions to curriculum—courses in playing house, swinging, climbing, riding kiddie-cars and blockbuilding are offered in the University of New Mexico's emergency nursery class this fall. —Associated Collegiate Press.

We understand that interest in archery has increased to a very large extent on this campus, as the Athletic association recently decided to make archery a major sport.

We all admit that it is very healthful to dance, but we do frown the line at condoning the habit of some fanatics who take dances in the showers and out in the corridors during study hour—or at six a. m.

Army Team Leads Field In Archery with Navy Still Trailing Fourth

"On, brave old Army team! Fight to the end!" After two weeks of play Army leads the field in the archery tournament being held in a physical education class under the direction of Miss Ray Preston. Yale is a poor second with Harvard and Princeton tied for third. Navy trails the parade, 73 points behind its nearest rival.

So far approximately 299 arrows have left the string, and 179 hits have been chalked up. The coveted bull's eyes have been made by eight contestants—Eyeman, Owen, Spencer, Chalker, Tofalestti, Brewer, Bou, and Ollinylan.

Archery teams are composed of about fifteen members under the direction of a team manager who oversees the play. Managers of the teams are: Army, Bershe Owen; Yale, Lois Bowen; Harvard, Catherine Todd; Princeton, Pearl Jackson; and Navy, Sarah Sealey.

Houses at Flastacowo Engaged for Armistice First Week of School

All the houses at Camp Flastacowo have been reserved since the first of school for November 11, official holiday. Due to the fact that the holiday is of such short duration that most students will not be able to go away, Lake Bradford bids fair to be the most popular place near Tallahassee at that time.

Canoeing, swimming, diving and rifle practice are being enjoyed by students during week-end trips to Camp Flastacowo. Ever since the first of school the different houses at camp have been filled to capacity.

Many groups who have gone this year include, Young Women's Christian association, Delta Phi Epsilon, Pi Beta Phi, the "P" club the Methodist student organization, the Presbyterian student organization, off-campus group, Campuside, and many small private parties.

Archery Given Major Position

C Health Students Now Eligible for Odd Even Games

Archery was made a major sport by the athletic board after much discussion at the meeting of the year last Tuesday night.

The action of the board was based on the increased interest displayed by the student body in the archery and intra-mural and the telegraphic archery shoots held last year. The board left the exact placement of the archery season in the sports calendar to further consideration by the committee. It was suggested by Miss Betty Washburn, one of the faculty advisors that the archery schedule be included in the first division of the sports program.

Among the arguments brought out in the discussion of archery as a major sport on the same basis with basketball, volleyball, hockey, swimming was the fact that C health students would be eligible to participate in the Odd-Even games. The C health students are not eligible to participate in any of the other major sports, so that this move is in line with the general policy of the Athletic association to encourage mass participation in sports rather than the elite. The details of the fitting of the new sport into the schedule of athletic events will be worked out by the board later. They will decide then if the experiment will be tried this year or not.

Miss Ray Preston was appointed official referee for the Thanksgiving tournament. She will have as a student assistant to be appointed. Miss Katy Montgomery will be the official scorer. Those selected as volleyball officials.

Further business in the meeting included a report by Janet Cook, chairman of the play night committee. The report of the chairman that a jazz-orchestra made up of students from the college will play at Playnight in the future.

Aged Window Retains Balk

An open window in Bryan—sweet night's breezes blowing through, glimmer of the stars undimmed by pane of glass, pleasant dreams of . . . then, clang, clang! We leap out of bed. The sweet night breezes feel disagreeably cool. The bright glare of electric lights blinds us to the soft twinkle of the stars. We come back to harsh reality.

Trowels, slippers, bath robe, door slam—don't forget the window sill—any gives it a quick jerk; it does not budge.

"Hurry up, the others are going." Another jerk—this time stronger—but still no movement. I lend a hand; a gym major and her roommate balked by a window! We pull downwards together putting our weight into it. No result. We try pushing. It won't go up either. We hammer; the echo of empty halls alone answers us. We stare at each other for a few moments, then at the impassive window . . . suppose this were a real fire . . . In a panic, we break for the door.

The lawn is dotted with girls laughing and dancing to keep warm. Frances Hall runs over to us to our captain and sheepishly explain why we are late . . . that window.

"Window! Why, no one has closed it in years!"

Twenty-Five Freshmen Make Perfect Scoring

Twenty-five members of the freshman class passed the Orientation examination with perfect scores. This number is considerably larger than that of former years.

The following girls comprise the twenty-five: Dot Carothers, Muryl Brown, Frances Hall, Helen Strakowsky, Merlan Hussy, Louise Hallman, Mildred Stovall, Anis Caroline Bennett, Edna Robards, Frances Farmer, Jane Mitchell, Dorothy Hall, Ruth Weber, Opal Brooks, Mary Ann Noland, Katherine Graham, Lucia Munnerlyn, Geraldine Sweet, Evelyn Lightsey, Margaret Vog, Rose Smith, Lillian Douglas, Geraldine Alperton, Ruth Williams, Gladys Stivender.

Water Carnival Plans Formed

Frances Thill Appointed General Chairman Of Exhibition

Plans have been made already for the aquatic program to be presented in the college gym Thanksgiving.

Stunt swimming, speed events, and diving will constitute the program.

The stunts are chosen both for humor and for exhibition of skill. Among the stunts planned will be the comical side, Various floats, form trios, and comical swimming and stands in deep water, shadow swimming, and the waltz crawl will be among the group exhibitions.

A demonstration of the butterfly breast stroke will be given by Katherine Rawls. Diving will conclude the program.

The committee in charge of the presentation consists of: Frances Thill, general chairman; Valerie Hunt and Yvonne Marchesseau, directors of events; Ruth Wilson, properties; Rose Smith and Evelyn Edwards, music; Ruth McClain, costumes; Mary Ann Noland, publicity Cathund, script writer and reader.

The participants in the events are: Dorothy Calhoun, Dorothy Richardson, Mary Ann Noland, Dorothy Lois Hughes, Annie Jennings, Margaret Maxwell, Martha Moore Smith, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Nancy Rogers, Bettie Skinner.

Club Plans for Student Trips

The activity committee of the Outing club held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon to discuss the various events which will occur during the year.

Miss Bunkie Hurd is the faculty advisor for the committee whose student members are Felicia Westfield and Ann Sanders.

Several suggestions are being worked on, but no definite plans can be made until the committee finds what places the students are interested in visiting. An announcement will be made in convocation Tuesday concerning paper which is to be posted on the bulletin board in the Administration building on which students may write what points of interest in or near Tallahassee they would like to see. "There will be a list of suggested trips there, also, which the girls are to check if they are interested.

Miss Hurd is working on plans for a fishing trip to Carrabelle Beach which will include supper and swimming in the ocean. Trips to Wakulla Springs and longer ones to St. Marks and Newport are being planned.

The committee also talked of the possibilities of interesting points of interest in or near Tallahassee such as visiting the Home of Tallahassee Girl, Prince Murat's tomb, certain city buildings and the Natural Bridge. It was suggested, also, that bicycling parties, moonlight hikes, and moonlight horseback rides be sponsored.

Demonstration School Edits Weekly Journal And Newspaper Column

The State News is now printing a column entitled "Demonstration School Activities" written by Mr. Clarence Priest, fifth grade teacher. The column contains items of school interest and the literary efforts of the students, such as poems, songs and stories.

Each week the students themselves edit a paper called "Florida High Lights." This week the editorial was written by Mr. Parsons, principal of Florida High, dealing with consideration for others.

This year arrangements for swimming have been made for each student and new paddle tennis courts have been installed. Rubber balls are being used instead of leather ones in all activities. The football team lost to Madison Field Friday by the score of 13-0. This week they will play Madison Field here. This is the game on their own field. Mr. Parsons urges that the college girls give their support. The team would appreciate any interest shown by them.

Kamper Will Review Ten Religious Books Sunday

Charlotte Kamper will present an auxiliary program next Sunday evening in Rugg hall, her subject to be "College Bookshelf," a review of ten religious books recommended by the Rev. T. O. White, national secretary of college work for the a Protestant Episcopal church.

The Episcopal confirmation class meets in Rugg hall every Sunday afternoon from 6:00 to 6:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. T. Alfstan. The confirmation service date has been set for Sunday, November 28.

Florida High Plays Today

The six-men football team of the demonstration school of Florida State College will play its fourth game of the season this afternoon against Bristol, at Bristol.

Florida High lost to Madison last week, by a score of 13 to 0. The team was also defeated on its first two games with Chattahoochee and Monticello. Florida High will have another chance to meet these teams, however, here on its own field in the second series of games to be played between five teams.

The new six-man football was first played here last year. The game was first played two years ago with the timing, scoring, and officiation like regular football with only a few changes in some of the rules. The game is a combination of regular football and touch, consisting mostly of tackling, blocking and passing. The field on which the game is played is smaller than the regular football field, being eighty forty-feet instead of one hundred-by fifty feet. The team consists of six men; two ends, center, one half-back, quarter-back, full-back and no tackles or guards.

C. S. Harrison coaches the Florida High team, assisted by Donald Loucks, a graduate of Florida High and the University of Florida.

Two Freshmen On State Team

Helen Benson Received Professional Offer In St. Louis

Helen Benson and Yvonne Marchesseau, two freshmen here this year, were on the all-state Florida basketball team for the year 1936-38. Helen played with Baird's Imps, an independent Gainesville team, and Yvonne played with the Pirates, an independent Jacksonville team.

Helen attended the University of Florida Homecoming in 1934 where she met the manager of Baird's Imps. She was asked to come out to practice and won a berth on the first team as forward. Yvonne received a position as guard with the Pirates.

That same year Baird's Imps won the state meet at Jacksonville. Helen was high scorer for the entire meet making sixty-eight points. Yvonne played against her several times and, as Helen said, "really gave me fits." It was at this time that they were both selected for the all-state team.

Shortly afterwards Helen and her team mates went to Wichita, Kansas, for the national basketball meet. While there she received a professional offer to play

Rating Board Committee Is Formed Here

Purpose is to Qualify Girls as National Officials

The Tallahassee board of the Woman's National Official Rating committee, was recently formed for the purpose of cooperating in the national program of furthering the best interests of sports for women by sponsoring the use of women officials.

In order to further this aim, the Tallahassee board is offering an examination which may be taken by any student in order to qualify as a national official.

A short course on basketball rules will be offered at Florida State on Oct. 28, 29, 30, as preparation for the theoretical examination to be given Nov. 4. The second part of the examination will be practical, and will consist of actually officiating for the intra-mural games. A grade of at least 85 is required for each part of the examination.

The Tallahassee board consists of the following officers: Miss Grace Fox, chairman; Miss Belle-Bond Dickenson, vice-chairman; and Marion Weeks, secretary. All students who are interested in this examination are requested to see some member of the committee.

Plans Made For New Golf Course

T three-hole golf-course will be the next new addition to the gymnasium grounds, according to Miss Katherine Montgomery of the Physical Education department.

The golf-course is now being planned, to be located on the ground acquired for a golf-course some time ago.

The plans for the course will be so formulated that it will be possible to add to the course gradually until a nine-hole golf course as was hoped for originally, will be completed.

The two new tennis courts equipped with lights, the latest addition to the athletic grounds, have been completed and will be available at any time, said Miss Montgomery.

Extra Sports Prove Popular

There are approximately one hundred and eighty girls out for extra-curricula sports now.

These classes have been organized in six sports activities, and include archery, horseback riding, fencing, tap-dancing, volleyball, and basketball. Volleyball and basketball are team sports, while the other four are individual.

The classes in archery are under the direction of Frances Thill. The enrollment numbers about twenty, and the class meets twice a week, on Tuesday's Women's Athletic association board meeting has decided that archery shall hereafter be made a major sport, and if this is done it is probable that other games will take place at Thanksgiving along with the regular Odd-Even games.

There are thirty-one girls enrolled in Marie Joffre's fencing class, which meets every Monday and Wednesday. At present the girls are working on the fundamentals and techniques of fencing.

The extra-curricula tap dancing class which was under the direction of Viola Brooks last year will be taught by Ellen Greer this year. This class met for the first time Thursday afternoon.

Marie Taylor is giving instructions in her horseback riding classes on Saturday's and Sunday's. There are forty girls taking this sport. At present Marie is formulating plans for a horse show to be given next spring. The girls in her classes now will ride in the show.

The extra-curricula classes in basketball and volleyball, in the form of Odd-Even practices, have ninety girls enrolled. Martha Mahaffey and Emilie Gehan have charge of the volleyball teams, while Mary Millar and Felicia Wet are coaching basketball.

Taylor Rides In Horse Show For Florida

Marie Taylor, instructress in extra-curricula riding here, showed Red Eagle, a horse owned by a Tallahassean, in the Centennial Horse Show in Albany, Georgia last Friday, October 21. She rode in two classes, winning a ribbon in one.

The horse show consisted of horses from three states, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The show was divided into two parts, 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 at night.

Marie rode first in the pleasure class which showed in the afternoon. This was the largest class of the show, having nineteen entrants. Due to an accident on the track which started her horse running, she had no chance of placing. Red Eagle, being a young horse has never been under saddle only four times, was easily frightened and hard to control. Marie rode the only female horse in this class. The other entrants were from Alabama and Georgia.

Marie placed fourth in the novice walking class showed that night. Red Eagle was the only Florida horse in this class, the others being from Georgia.

Marie will also ride in a horse show to be held in Tallahassee at Florida State on November 5. This show will be of horses from Florida and 3 to 5 surrounding states.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARGARET BAKER ..... Associate Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN PIRKEY ..... News Editor

1928 Member 1929
Associated Collegiate Press

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago Boston San Francisco
Los Angeles Portland Seattle

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glazier, Exchanges, Virginia Batte; Features, Ruth Bryan Owen, Jr., Ruth Bryan Owen, Mary Ellen Smith, Betty Davis, and Sarah Sparkman Outside News, Claude Gilbreths, Society, Margaret Claire Lafferty and Helen Agnes Aumiller; Assistant Reporters, Marion Lockhart; Sports, Ida Virginia Brooks and Brian Bell.

Reporters, Mary Lynn Moore, Jane Dalimore, Sallie Paige, Mary Boatright, Jewel Turner

Reporters: Rose Aiana, Bruce Alderman, Dorothy Barney, Blanton Barrett, Dorothy Belanti, Frances Bowden, Ruth Bowden, Mary Bowman, Mary Brown, Clement Chase, Clarence Chase, Hoover Clarke, Virginia Davis, Hazel Dennington, Maxine Figgis, Mary Gober, Margaret Gober, Jack Hoffman, Leona Jones, Betty Kelly, Mary Kelly, Mary Lou Kelly, Lodge Kennedy, Martha Lumpkin, Anna Lyddane, Mary Frances McKee, Doris Meacham, Mary Noble, Alberta Parrish, Jewel Pierce, Marcino Portuondo, Nancy Rogers, Jane Stevens, Lavina Sowell, Mary Stanley, Mary Stephens, Alma Warren, Frances Williamson.

BUSINESS STAFF

LESLIE MOORE ..... Business Manager
ED. BOYD ..... Assistant Manager
NAN CHALMERS ..... Asst. Adv. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30 1913, at the postoffice at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Upperclassmen, You Are Under Fire

We cannot let the reply in the Pro and Con column today to an editorial paragraph last week go by without defending ourselves, no matter how superficial the issues might be.

True it is that not half of all upperclassmen are examples of model conduct in the dining room. Nevertheless, the newly created dining room committee this year is making an honest attempt through its hostess plan to correct upperclassmen in the conventional form of behavior in the dining room at dinner.

If the upperclassmen who are acting as hostesses at the freshmen tables have not been reminded of the social amenities more than that is because they are a part of the freshmen orientation program this year and not that of the dining room committee.

Regardless of who is at fault, the significant point is that more attention is being given to dining room conditions this year than ever before, and it is hoped that the conduct of both freshmen and upperclassmen will help to remove some of the noise-clatter and nervous tension in the dining room.

Students Want Voice In Artist Series' Selection

If college government is to become a reality on this campus, many students believe they should have representation on the faculty committee which select the lecture and artist series.

As the movie which brings these artists and lecturers to the campus comes from the student activity fund, students feel they should have some channels, other than faculty, through which they will be free to make suggestions as to choice of programs.

The taste of the faculty committee is not under question. However, opportunities desirse, such as last year when the Russian ballet was on tour, when student representatives might sound out the student body to ascertain whether a majority would be willing to sacrifice for instance, three programs to bring one outstanding group here, such as the Russian ballet.

If other arrangements could be met, these students would then be acting satisfactorily with the faculty on a representative committee and the Russian ballet or some other attraction of direct interest to the majority of the students, might be brought here.

The idea of student-faculty lyceum committees is certainly not new, especially in those state where a part of the student activities fund finances these programs.

We feel that such a faculty-student setup on this campus would protect the present faculty committee members from the complaints of those of them who feel that they say the artist series are too one-sided. The reason may be that the line from which the faculty committee must choose is limited. However, until students have their own representatives on these committees, they will probably never know the exact reason why certain artists who are on tour are not brought to this campus and then will continue to unjustly criticize the present faculty committee.

Enthusiasms Can Be Important

Educational circles received another jarring blow last week as Dr. William Alfred Eddy, president of Hobart and William Smith colleges announced a four-year course in responsible citizenship as a requirement for graduation from his schools.

Members of the judiciary of New York state, representatives of more than 150 other colleges and universities, and an aggregate audience of 2000 people heard Eddy say: "The theory that a liberal education will make an citizen responsible automatically is attractive but untrue. The truth is that a student is injured by the enthusiasm of his campus, whatever they may be. Football, science, literature, or art claim his interest his life long; but where Main street and the town hall are treated as beneath the scholar's contempt, the alumnus is, not unnaturally, equally prone to carry that contempt to the grave."

It is true that during election years the mass college student body becomes interested in politics. Much of this interest, however, can probably be boiled down to a mass interest in blatant personalities, bands, flying banners, party buttons, and other forms of campaign ballyhoo. How much of it is what might be termed real interest in political issues? For instance, how many of the local students who are sporting the Landon Sunflower or the Roosevelt New Deal button have made a critical study of the issues which in the long-run constitute the present political fight?

It is probably safe to venture the opinion that not more than twenty-five members of this student body could at this moment satisfactorily pass a test on the governmental problems facing people of the United States. Could this lack of interest possibly be responsible for some present politicos' aches and pains?

If what Dr. Eddy says is true, if a student is infected by the enthusiasms of his campus, then it is time that the colleges of America looked to the whims and fancies prevalent among the students and the faculty members who gather within their walls each year. The faculty must see that the proper enthusiasms are in full force if students to nourish while students in turn must prevent the rise of petty distractions like those which characterized the recently-deceased tribal college cry.

It seems fitting that the study of government should take the place of some of the childish matters which have long been occupying student minds. The fact that lecturers go in with a bang to furnish for political matters the week before the elections and do not concern themselves with the matter again for at least two years is so well known that it has become almost traditional. It is smart today to disclaim any interest in national matters except as material for facetious conversation.

If it so desires the present generation can change the state of affairs now so obviously a part of the contemporary world, and what better place to launch the move than in the colleges?

As Dr. Eddy put it: "We believe that the worth of the state in the long run is the worth of the individuals composing it; that irresponsible citizens cannot hope to set up a responsible government; that dishonest individuals cannot expect honest public finance; that ignorant and bellicose peoples cannot operate a puerile League of Nations, and that aloof, fastidious scholars will not turn into alumni impassioned for social justice."

May We Be the First?

Students at Florida State College witnessed a great improvement in registration conditions this fall.

Instead of the long hours of waiting in line at the physical education building students had only to secure their schedule cards previously mailed to the registrar's office and have these checked for fees at the college bank. Faculty members were not required to sit for long hours checking schedules and class rolls.

On the other hand the registration staff was forced to work overtime this fall in carry out the new plan, but in spite of this S. R. Doyle, registrar, believes the new system will prove superior to the old in years to come. He commended the student body upon the fine cooperation shown throughout the matriculation period.

The Flambeau feels that members of the student body owe the registrar and his staff a vote of thanks for taking an extra burden upon themselves in order to facilitate registration.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

This Week

END OF SPAIN'S CIVIL STRUGGLE SEEMS IN VIEW

Repercussions in International Field Becoming Increasingly Loud; Russia Seeks To Aid Government at Madrid Recovering from hard times"

After three months of bitter fighting with no quarter given by either side, the end of Spain's civil war appears to be in sight. General Franco's rebel armies have fought their way to within eighteen miles of Madrid. President Manuel Azana fled the capital Tuesday while 100,000 loyalist men and women shouldered arms for a last desperate stand against the insurgent advance. A bombardment of Madrid's suburbs is the next expected move.

* * * *

While the struggle on Spain's battlefields approaches a climax, its repercussions in the international field are becoming increasingly loud. Soviet Russia, champion of the loyalist cause, has declared her friendship for and sent ammunition and war planes to the aid of the Madrid government. Italy and Germany have agreed to support the Fascist military-dictatorship in Spain when and if the insurgent armies triumph.

* * * *

In the presidential campaign, Roosevelt and Landon are now trading punches on a new drive for unemployment. Said the president, "Industrial earnings and profits are the highest in four, five, six, even seven years. Bankruptcies are at a new low. The government claims some credit for that. Said Landon the next day: "Under this administration we have made the poorest record in history in

Continued on Page Five

Collegiate Comebacks

Now that we can't use the heat for an excuse, how are we going to explain our class-room lethargy?

* * * *

One of our more wide-awake sophs suggests that in view of the constant racket from the Administration building, we rename it the Agitation building.

* * * *

From the University of Illinois comes the notice: "A wild-life club for students, graduate and undergraduate, will be organized." Oh, how we'd love to do lab work for that!

* * * *

The Toreador notes that in a certain New England college male students are not permitted to visit lady-boarders. Any students caught doing so are fined, their fine increasing in geometric ratio for every offense. And we always thought it was the woman who paid!

* * * *

The Wesley Jacket carries this belated warning to rushees:

Beware of Greeks bearing gifts,
Just beware
What they say;
Take the gifts
Anyway.

* * * *

According to the Junior Collegian, a noted naturalist has made a study of birds and has discovered that the birds that sing the sweetest lead solitary lives. They must! we haven't heard any of the solitary warblers around here trilling sweetly.

* * * *

The Lasso tells us that Lake Erie college was the first girls' school to adopt aviation as part of the regular physical education department. Higher education!

* * * *

More than 90,000,000 pins are manufactured daily throughout the world, reports the Aquin. If you send your clothes to the college laundry, it is likely that you'll need about twenty per cent of these little helpers to make you presentable for class.

* * * *

The Talone Hullabaloo reminisces:

My latest love affair
Has spent its sudden flare
And grieving ladies pour a spot
That once was pretty hot.

* * * *

An upperclassman boner made at Syracuse university, while the student was enrolling strikes a note of pity in the breasts of the inmates of a woman's institution. The student filling out the blank after "Date" with a "Yes." Our polite commas would probably have added, "Please."

* * * *

From the *Creighton*ian comes the news that a New York law allows those sentenced to sixty days or less to serve them time over the week-ends. Judging from the new cut system, that's exactly what the authorities are trying to make us do.

* * * *

The Ohio Sundial offers the following modern proverbs:

An A in the hand is bad table manners.
Success has turned more heads than baloney.
A fool and his money are some party.

If you want to remember things, tie a string around your finger; if you want to forget things, tie a rope around your neck.

* * * *

Psychologists believe says the ACP, that women are better equipped to judge judgment of character than men. After looking at the boy friends some of the most attractive girls on campus select, we are inclined to believe that they give too little attention to even the necessary amount of masculine pulchritude.

* * * *

Impartially we copy the following from the Arkansan:

With a rickety platform to stand on,
With a weaker support than they planned on,
The Republicans all
Are afraid of a fall
If they know there is nothing to Landon.

Pro and Con

Students expressed herein are those of the writer or writers and do not necessarily express the opinion of the Flambeau. All comments are limited to 150 words. Pro and Con.

FOR SHAME UPPERCLASSMEN!

Where do freshmen get those atrocious table manners reported by the hostesses? We freshmen came up here intending to follow the example set by those accustomed to the routine. This we have done and what have we gained? Criticism! Do you think for one minute that the freshmen would play with their silver, eat with their elbows on the table, or excuse themselves before the meal is completed if they had not seen upperclassmen do it? The hostesses themselves are often late arriving and then excuse themselves early. Just tonight we had an example of this at our table. There were six freshmen, three juniors, and one senior. The four upperclassmen excused themselves and left the freshmen to finish their dessert. Are they to be forgiven and the freshmen criticized? We say no! Set a good example; we are willing to follow.

—Name Given Solemn

Magazine Jottings

By SARAH SEALEY and SARAH BETH DAVIS

Literature of Today and Tomorrow

By Mary M. Colum

Scribner's presents this month an unusual review of the development of realism in modern literature and a prediction of literary trends for the future. Mary M. Colum, author of "Today and Tomorrow," says that the first realistic novels consisted of observation and note-taking to reveal ordinary life—began by Flaubert and carried on by such writers as Trollop, Dreiser, Somerset Maugham, and Sinclair Lewis. Then came the "slice of life" novel was a more scientific and physiological realism.

Now, says the author the literary cycle brings us naturally to a revolt against old forms, and the first step should be the renewal of the literary language. The age-old method of refreshing it from popular speech is no longer effective, however, because education, radio, and movies have made our "illustrious vernacular" only a degeneration of the written phrase. The way out of this dilemma appears to be in the direction taken by Edouard Dujardin who has use of the "interior monologue," which represents a person's inmost thought, "the threads nearest the unconscious," unburdened by logic or syntax. The outcome of experimentation in this field must be, if literature is to live as an art, the appearance of "a man of genius who will have so much command of the new material that he can express it in a manner both comprehensible and thrilling, opening new windows to the mind."

* * * *

Modern Life and Christmas Cards

By Eliot Janeway

Modern thought according to Eliot Janeway's article in the October Forum is invading Oxford, as modern industry has invaded America.

The Oxford where Shelley found "heavens wilting very comfortably in an easy chair, and sleeping so soundly that no one could wake them" the Oxford which has in the past tolerated, but never welcomed engineers and scientists and has even prided itself upon "being apart from life" has recently acquired a new attitude and a new spirit.

The establishment of a manufacturing center for automobiles in a little town just two miles from Oxford is one of the many signs of this change. Oxford has brought a type of citizen to its streets which was never before—overalled workingmen with lunch kits instead of dressing gowns under their arms.

Many of the "gentlemen" of Oxford have become sympathetic with these working men and have even gone so far as to help feed some of them during their labor strikes and demonstrations. A few of the students are even studying such things as engineering.

"They have awakened," says the author, "to the fact that they are living in the twentieth century while their mother Mater is still taking in contemplation of events that occurred some time between the epochs of Aristotle and Roger Bacon." — S. E. D.

Books in Pre-View

Autumn Brings Literature in Varied Fields—Poetry, History, Travel, Fiction

BY ARLINE GRAY LOCKHART

The autumn literary season gains its stride with the release of five new books—in as many different fields—this week. Publishers say.

The first of these, Arthur Guiterman's new collection of light verse, "Gaily the Troubadour," is being released this month. It would doubtless have an appeal for all would-be poets and admirers of Mr. Guiterman. This volume, the first since his most successful "Death and General Putnam," contains a hundred witty rhymes with only one serious. He pays his respect to "Humor" in asking the reader to . . .

Let austerity desert you
For a while.
Let your virtue cease to hurt you
When you smile.

In the ever-mad-and-solemn Something cracks,
So the stiffest spinal column
Must relax.

Who shall question that hereafter
Up above
There'll be humor, which is laughter
Mixed with love!

* * * *

Flambeau readers who have been cherishing a secret ambition to do their writing in Hollywood may well be interested in this warning Max Miller gives in his latest book "For the Sake of Shadows," published in September. He went to Hollywood so he speaks from experience when he says, "Stay away from Hollywood, you won't have a cent when you leave anyhow."

He continues with this warning: "Many young authors are drawn here after their first success, and hence are lost to the country forever. They come intending to remain only a year to lay a stake for future writing of their own. Such a resolution is a joke . . . They become so accustomed to living with such a large overhead that to make a break for it and to live in a shack again becomes absurd . . . There writers become only too soon poor frenzied slaves donating their life's few hours to obtain a superfluity of things they do not need, do not enjoy, and which in time will be smashed from them anyway . . . No mercy is shown for honesty in Hollywood, only for cleverness. And how more than elsewhere one must forget immediately to hold as precious

Continued on Page Six

The Social Week

Hallowe'en To Be Theme Faculty-Student Dinner

A gay, Hallowe'en theme will be used as the motif for the first faculty-student dinner of this year to be given in the college dining room Thursday night.

These dinners were inaugurated two years ago and are sponsored by the social committee for the purpose of fostering a closer social relationship between the student body and members of the faculty.

The dining-room for this affair will be illuminated by candlesticks and decorated in a black and orange color theme emphasizing the Hallowe'en atmosphere of the week.

Faculty Guests

Student hostesses and members of the faculty whom they have invited to be their guests at this time include: Mary Jeanne McKay, Dr. E. G. Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi; and Dr. Ft Williams; Mary Katherine Gibson, Miss Gloria N. Dorman and Miss Kay Warren; Peggy McMichael, Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews; Shirley Stevens, Miss Maude Flowers; Estythe Dickson, Mrs. Lucille Sass; Hazel Bowman, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers; Marguerite Brown, Dr. Margaret Burke; Betty White, Miss Ray Fraser; Charlotte Kamper, Dr. Sarah P. White; Anna Marie Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance; Anne Ladd, Dr. Dorothy Brem; Eugenia Carson, Miss Margaret Campbell; Evelyn Gunter, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Hamilton; Mary Sanchize, Miss Mary Alice Eaton; Elizabeth Lounds, Miss Myrtle Dobert; Alayne Clayton, Miss Elizabeth Shutt; Margaret Neff, Miss Mary Washburn; Valerie Hunt, Miss Isabella McKinnell; Helen Randal, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Brannan, Tex Brown, Miss Sadie Young.

Other Hostesses and Guests

Betty Cotlund, Dr. and Mrs. Nugh Woolcom; Marie Taylor, Dr. Beulah Briley, Martha Moore, Miss Dorothy Dasher; Dorothy Borders, Mrs. Ada B. Patrick Aiken; Helen Hughes, Mr. William Joubert; Mary L. Baker, Miss Gertrude Vermillion; Lottie M. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Dodd; Hazel Noe, Miss Amy Briggs; Gail Kinnory, Miss G. O. Koch; Annie Wilder, Miss Mildred Finneagn; Helen Webb, Miss Grace Fox; Mary B. Smith, Dr., Viola Graham; Marcia Ranney, Miss Edith Purrington; Virginia Bridges, Miss Ruth Schoonberg; Betty Huisinger, Miss Kemper Moore; Wernelle Bowring, Dr. Herman Kurz; Sallie Burt Nunnum, Miss Rachel Wylie; Dot Molinar, Miss Eunice Hurst; Lois Collins, Dr. and Mrs. Coyle E. Moore; Olive McAdams, Miss Elizabeth Lynn; Grace McKee, Miss Etta Lane Matthews; Barbara Tyler, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey; Betty Wynn, Miss Elizabeth Dickinson, Amelia Avant, Miss Mary Helen McKean; Mary Palmer, Dr. Hazel Stevenson.

Thelah Taylor, Miss Rut... Parman; Jane Quinn, Dr. and Mrs. Guy L. Diffenbaugh; Margaret Wolcott, Miss Mary Luella Richard; Mary Jo Nor, Dr. Auzzie M. Propper; Linrea Lundberg, Dr. V. I. Shores; Leona Rehbinder, Dean Margaret R. Sanders; Betty Annsley, Miss Olga Larsen; Frances Wade, Miss Lucy Lester; Helen Hall, Miss Zuda Mae Devinney; Dalia Brown, Miss Clara Guerry; Collise Oates, Miss Elizabeth Thompson.

Claire Wilhis, Dr. Marion Hay; Phil Asher, Mrs. M. L. Ewing; Sarah McGregor, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Hixson; Betty Barry, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill; Edith Adkison, Miss Marie Davis; Mary Frances Hales, Miss Ruth Lehman; Twilah Taylor, Florence Jones, Miss Sallie William; Caroline Blount, Miss Marian Irish; Eleanor Redfinger, Miss Caroline Garvin; Helen Merryday, Miss Marion Conway; Doc McCullough, Miss Florence Thrash; Ella Mae McAuley, Dean Ella Scobie Opperman; Dorothy Manning, Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Richards; Valers Pitch, Mr. Clarence Priest; Betty Spooner, Dr. and Mrs. R. Berry; Mary Katherine Graham, Dr. Elizabeth Dyer; Mary Scharf, Charlotte Sartlen, Miss Mildred Newing; and Sylvia Paige, Miss Fern of the week.

Alpha Xi Delta Will Fete Chaperone At Informal Coffee

The members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority will give an afternoon coffee in the chapter house on West Jefferson street Monday night at which they will introduce Mrs. Nina Horne, of Jacksonville, house mother for the sorority.

Receiving the guests during the evening will be Mary Ellen Lovelace, president, and Dr. Sarah P. White, faculty sponsor.

Chaperones of the other sorority houses on campus, Tallahassee alumnae, and patrons will be invited to meet Mrs. Horne at this time.

Arrangements for the affair will be Mary Ellen Lovelace, Winona Ivey, Martha Hamilton, Martha Weeks, Jessie Mead, Mary McGumagin, Clotilde O'Rourke, Alene Greene, Mary Pollard, Dee Hoffman, Victoria Crisp, Jean Death, Mary Brewton, Martha Baker, Frances Pryor, Helen Brown, Julia Trigent, Evelyn Mcintosh, Murray Lou Andrews, and Fay Corry.

Informal Tea Honors Alpha Gamma Delta Friends, Patrons

Patrons and patronesses of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and members of the faculty were honored guests at a tea given yesterday afternoon by members and pledges of the sorority in the chapter house on Park avenue.

Tea and cookies were served during the afternoon. The house was decorated with vases of bright fall flowers.

Patrons and patronesses of the sorority include Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Partridge, Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Mrs. H. M. Brevard, and Mrs. W. H. Covington. Faculty members who were honored at this tea were Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, Dr. Cecilia L. Shores, Dr. Beulah Briley, and Miss Gladys Fawley.

Members and pledges of the sorority who were present at this time are: Betsey Anderson, Frances Bishop, Madge Collier, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Fay, Jane Gallemore, Helen Godwin, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Louise Hill, Julia Hodgson, Elsie Kersey, Nelle Lee, Catherine McGarry, Midelle Moore, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary Nell Pinckard, Margaret Richard, Shirley Screven, Clara Stewart, Amber Turner, Dorothy Williams.

Margaret Boteler, Flo Bottari, Carolyn Boyd, Jessie Coaxman, Jane Cooper, Martha Fales, Elaine Fleisher, Willyse Gaines, Alma Godwin, Betty Hodgson, Irene Hutchinson, Helen Lane, Betty Little, Elizabeth Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Parisson, Louise Rooks, Mary Virginia Ruff, Isabelle Satterfield, Laura Cola Trawick, Edith Underhill, Joyce Vara, Nancy Williamson, Myrtle Wilson, and Jane Soloist.

Personals

Miss Christelle Fergusson of Homer, La., national officer of the Chi Omega sorority, arrived yesterday to spend a few days with the local chapter.

Mrs. M. E. Spredlin is spending several days at the Chi Omega house as the guest of her daughter, Hilda.

Mary Wine, of Winter Park, a graduate of last year, spent last week-end on the campus visiting a' Kuge ball.

Mrs. W. L. Fleet and Pearl and Marylin Fleet, visited the former's daughter, Lillian, here last week-end.

Mary Brandon, a graduate of last year, was married to Ramon Fleetwood in Thomasville, last Saturday afternoon. Elion Flemings was maid of honor at the wedding and other students from Florida State who attended were Barbara Holmes, Gibson Dey, Dorothy Lewis, Margaret Rogers, Jean Paullin, and Lois Chapman.

Student Seeks Spot Far From Madding Crowd

Campus Noises Distract With Chimes, Bells, Gongs, Clocks

Alarm clocks . . . chimes . . . whistles . . . gongs . . . bells . . . hammers . . . is there any place on campus where a distracted student can find a moment of peace and quiet?

The day of noise begins with the jarring clang of the rising bell, accompanied by the clank-clank of the steam radiators in Dodd. Various breakfast bells compete with each other over an interminable period of time, each seeming to attempt to make the most noise. Then comes the clear cry the chimes peal out to make known to the student the fact that time flies, though not so rapidly when he is in class.

At noon the whistles begin to announce to the weary student that the hour of rest has come, while Pumina Perfecta pours out her lusty pre-lunch yells. The cryings of the hungry mobs.

Classes once over, the racket does not even begin to subside; it follows the desperate student into her room and dare her to try to study. The radio in the next room croons at full blast, Gershwin goes into a high soprano, to be interrupted by a heavy discussing the present economic conditions in Russia. One resigned to life, the student suddenly becomes cognizant of the raucous chorus of

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY TO ENTERTAIN WITH BOWERY BALL FOR ALL PLEDGES

"Back to the 'good old days'" will be the gay theme of the Sigma Kappa Bowery Ball which the pledges of that sorority will give tonight at 8:30 in the chapter house on Park avenue honoring pledges of the other sororities on campus.

The parlor of the house will be decorated to represent an old-fashioned bar-room with gambling tables being set up around the floor. A bar will be arranged on one side of the room from which Coca-Cola and crackers will be served.

Bingo will be played during the evening with an appropriate prize being awarded the winner. Following the games the hostesses will present a floor show reminiscent of the nineties. Those attending will wear costumes of the period.

Hostesses for this unique party will be Kitty Benson, Nani Duncan, Edith Ott, Phyllis Parrish, Adelaide Belle, Mary Catherine Smith, Virginia Sullivan, and Mary Wallace.

PRESIDENT TO BE HONORED AT COFFEE WITH PI BETA PHIS MONDAY EVENING

Honoring the grand president of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, Miss Amy B. Onetem, who spent a few days visiting here this week, the members and pledges of the local chapter entertained with an afternoon coffee Monday night.

The sorority colors of wine and blue were employed in the decorations throughout the house at this time. Coffee, assorted sandwiches, nuts, and mints were served to the guests who included the patronesses of the sorority and Tallahassee alumnae of the chapter.

Hostesses at this affair were: Peggy Jackson, Anne Ladd, Polly Ann White, Mickey Gourlie, Marge Stewart, Eugenia Cannon, Freddie Frink, Betty Blalock, Winifred Ewart, Phil Asher, Frances Murphy, Ermine Lawrence, Dot Osborne, Eloise Frink, Rieser Williams, Arlita Lockhart, Marian Heper, Jean Clark, Lois Adkins, Florence Kerr, Kazimir Mumby, Jean Tretwell, Shirley Pemberton, Danner Baker, Maria Lee Wilkerson, Kathryn Todd, Mary Elizabeth Ramsey, Betty Wynn, Julia Burnette, Martha Hayes, and Martha Hayes.

Olive Alderman, Mary Allen, Jane Anderson, Marjorie Anderson, Marian Bedell, Mabel Bennett, Eleonor Bushnell, Reuben Coleman, Betty Curtis, Mary Ellen Dawtyler, Betty Davis, Mae Dunaway, Louise Feagin, Mary Holliday, Virginia Holmer, Janet Jewett, Virginia Johnson, Margaret Johnson, Margaret Leonard, Mary Alice Lester, Sula Ley, Caroline Love, Carmen Lytle, Janet Mattern, Jean Miller, Caroline Mills, Frances Moss, Catherine McCready, Harriet Post, Martha Robbins, Susan Rawley, Katherine Sawyer, Lucille Sawyer, Katherine Stevens, Lillian Taylor, Barbara Tyler, Betty Vinning, Juanita Wheeler, Virginia Wiggins, Dot. Marsh, and Frances Woodward.

Newman Meeting Held Thursday

Jane Quinn Talks on Life Of Cardinal Newman

The Newman Club at the first meeting of the year held last Thursday night, elected a group of new officers and committee chairmen. The office of vice-president, left vacant by the resignation of Angela Ortley will be filled by Margaret Claire Lafferty, former corresponding secretary, while Mercedes Garriga was elected to fill the latter position.

Committee chairmen appointed by the president, Clotilde O'Rourke, are Nan O'Shaughnessy, program chairman; Yvonne Marchesseau, athletic manager; and Ethel Runyon, chairman of the social committee. Other officers of the club are Elizabeth Lounds, recording secretary, and Marie Jaffre, treasurer.

Jane Quinn spoke at this meeting on the life of Cardinal Newman, patron of the organization, after which plans were discussed for entering the intramural games this fall. An announcement was also made that the Southeastern province convention which will be held at the Biltmore hotel in Atlanta, November 20, with the Newman Club at Georgia Tech as host.

Following the meeting tea and cookies were served.

This Week

Continued from page four

that country and Great Britain. Hence'forth, Belgium will remain neutral as among her neighbors The reasons for this move, according to the king, are the rapid re-militarization of Europe, the rivalries of various governmental systems, and the reoccupation of the Rhineland by German troops, any one of which might draw the little country into a conflict which did not concern her.

Cuban Health Official Inspects College Plant

Dr Domingo Ramos, health officer of Cuba, visited Florida State college last Friday as the guest of Dr. Mark F. Boyd who is in charge of the Rockefeller foundation malaria station located at the college infirmary.

Dr. Ramos, formerly a member of the Havana university faculty was quite interested in every detail of the local college organization and equipment, and was particularly impressed with recreational facilities.

STORE WIDE SALE

DRESSES - HATS - SHOES

The Very Latest Styles

$7.90 Dresses ... $5.24 · $3.95 Shoes ... $2.84
$5.95 Dresses ... $3.24 · $2.95 Shoes ... $2.24
$3.95 Dresses ... $2.24 · $2.95 Hats ... $1.84
$1.95 Dresses ... $1.54 · $1.95 Hats ... $1.24

THE LADIES' SHOP

"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"

Next to the State Theatre

STATE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
October 23 and 24

DODSWORTH

SUNDAY AND MONDAY
October 25 and 26

The Majesty of Shakespeare! The Melody of Mendelssohn! The Mastery of Reinhardt!

MAX REINHARDT'S

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27

"The President's Mystery"

The Story Started by President Roosevelt and Finished By Liberty Magazine.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28

The Screaming Finger

PAUL KELLY
MARSHA HUNT
and a Great Cast

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29

WALLACE BEERY
OLD HUTCH

For Class in Cold Weather!

OXFORDS

PHONE 800 MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY

SATURDAY'S SPECIALS

16c Woodbury's Facial Soap, 3 for ... 19c
75c Fitch's Shampoo ... 49c
75c Glover's Mange Medicine ... 59c
50c April Shower Brilliantine ... 29c
50c Ipana Tooth Paste ... 29c
50c Detoxol Tooth Paste ... 29c
50c Squibb's Tooth Paste ... 39c

50c Dr. Butler Tooth Brush ... 39c
Coty Dusting Powder ... 98c
$1.50 Ingram's Milkweed Cream ... 69c
$1 Jergen's Lotion ... 79c
60c Mum ... 49c
Frostilla ... 19c
KOTEX 12's ... 19c
MODESS 12's ... 17c
KLEENEX 200's ... 18c

Sizes 3-9.
Widths AAA to B.
Black Suede - Brown Suede
Blue Suede
Green and Brown Suede
Brown Calfskin
Black Calfskin

$2.95 and $3.95

FRENCH SHOP

Lucky for You — It's a Light Smoke!

Luckies—a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936 The American Tobacco Company

When Thrilling Events Lead To Constant Smoking!

When you're excited ... nervous ... happy and thrilled, you smoke many cigarettes without thinking about it. Make your choice a light smoke. Smoke Luckies—for Luckies are a light smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. They are made of the center leaves of the finest tobaccos that money can buy. And they are the only cigarette that gives you that all-important throat protection of the "Toasting" process. Yes, the only cigarette. Lucky Strike ... the fine-tasting cigarette ... the cigarette that "lives happily ever-after" with your throat.

 "SWEEPSTAKES" FLASH! **

17 Winners in Alaska and Honolulu!

Eleven men and women in far off Honolulu and six way up north in Alaska know their popular music so well that they have been able to name the top-ranking songs in Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes" 1-2-3 output like that. Congratulations ... and good luck to the many other Lucky "Sweepstakes" fans.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? There's music on the air. Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings, listen, judge and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them. Maybe you've been missing something.

Classics Club Outlines Work To Be Studied

Comparison of American And Roman Life Is Year's Topic

The complete plans of the Classical club for the year were announced Wednesday by Kathleen Robinson, president. The club will carry out the program submitted by Elsie Renfroe in the contest held at the close of last year.

The theme of the program is a comparison of certain phases of Roman life with modern American life. During October a discussion and comparison of Roman schools with American schools will be held. Topics on this subject will include lessons, teachers, discipline, school rooms, with the emphasis being placed on education.

In the month of November the club will have talks on the subject "Dress." A fashion show in which different styles and Roman dress are compared with American styles will be held.

"Holidays" will be the subject in December. Discussions are to be given and the observance of some Saturnalia customs will be brought up. During January "Amusements" will be stressed.

In February explanations and comparisons of American and Roman houses and furnishings will take place. There will be pictures on the screen pointing out the main differences and points of similarity.

Particular emphasis on the Ides of March and superstitions will be the theme during March. Interesting features of the Roman weddings with the staging of a Roman and an American wedding will take place in April. In May a talk on a day spent with a Roman family and a day spent with an American family will be given.

The following students are members of the Classical club:

Geraldine Albritton, Marie Anderson, Murray Lou Anders, Dorothy Barr, Mary Earle Berry, Julia Beckman, Margaret L. Beurd, Honor Coleman, Emily Davis, Dorothy Delrick, Louise De Vere, Ila Dravely, Ruth Durden, Maxine Fuqate, Mary Katherine Gibbon Mary Green, Jewell Grover, Virginia Hamilton, Evelyn Hammond, Vinette Herron, Edna Earle Hobbs, Miss Elizabeth L. Hutt, Jane Jackson, Frances Jones, Margery Jones Eunice Lasche, Irene Maupin, Alice Mears, Mary Ann Moore, Geneva Nelson, Pearle Overhults, Cynthia Pearlman, Shirley Pemberton, Frances Earle Power, Juanita Purchase, Carol Ramage, Fredrica Roberts, Mary Kathleen Robertson, Kathleen Robinson, Marcia Smith, Twilah Taylor, Lyneth Thompson, Julia Vanderipe, Hazel Viertel, Katherine Van Donlen, Holly Walker, Gladys Ware, and Polly Ann White.

University Editorials

Continued from Page Four

poetry or Oriental history. More courses dealing in marriage and sex problems would last far longer than many current problems. The eminent Mr Durant remarks "A good mother is worth a thousand Ph's."

Perhaps there is possible a college course that would include everything—and then what about specialization, the beau of the modern college?

But the possibility remains that there can be an over-supply of college graduates with the college course as it is. Wheels must be turned, coal must be mined, ore must be dug—and the immigrant labor that supplies these purposes today will be gone tomorrow. The immigrant supply has been shut off, and the foreigner's son in many cases is the college student, trained above his father's calling. The college course will some day need to be broadened out—an educational thought for the future."

WELCOME!

We Invite You to Visit Our Store for Real Values.

Largest selection of Dresses and Coats ever shown in any one store.

SHOES
$1.99 to $2.95

DRESSES
$2.98 to $6.95

COATS
$5.95 to $27.50

You Will Save $1.00 on Every Pair Shoes You Buy Here!

ALSO SHOWN—LARGE SELECTION OF BLOUSES, SWEATERS AND TWIN SETS

LIPPMAN'S
HUB STORE
104 E. Jefferson St.

Variety Of Contests Open For Entries From Students

W. P. A. Federal Theater Project Play Bureau, New History Society and Vogue Announce Requirements

Three contests open to college girls have been announced by three different agencies in New York city. The W.P.A. Federal Theatre Project's Play bureau is offering college students an opportunity of seeing their plays in production. The New History society is offering a total of $2,000 in prizes for the nine best papers and Vogue is opening its second annual Prix de Paris career contest.

To encourage latent talent among the undergraduate playwrights of America, the W.P.A. Federal Theatre Project's Play bureau will present student playwrights accepting a play for production, however, the theatre will not buy the manuscript but will rent it for $50 a week. The author retains sole possession of the play.

Extensive lists, bearing the name of plays, published or unpublished, have been placed at the disposal of all amateur dramatic organizations. The lists include the titles, authors, reviews and complete research data, regardless of the subject matter. These lists are broken down into various classifications, such as drama, satire, comedy, historical plays, mysteries and biographies.

Those who wish to submit manuscripts will do so to George Terwilliger, 218 West Forty-second street, New York city.

"Open season" is declared on armaments and munitions the world as the New History society offers a total of $2,000 in prizes for the nine best papers on "How Can the People of the World Achieve Universal Disarmament?"

Contestants from all over the world are eligible. The society gives as his reason for sponsoring a world wide contest: "The aliens population of the globe has for too long been acquiescent. Silently it has submitted to the conditions imposed by political leaders. Silently it has accepted mutilation and death." It believes that this acquiescence can be broken by expression of opinion.

The contest opens officially November 1, and continues until May 1, 1937. Information regarding the contest may be obtained by writing to the New History society, 132 East Sixty-fifth street, New York.

All seniors are eligible to enter Vogue's second annual "Prix de Paris" career contest, which according to Edna Woolman Chase, editor-in-chief of the magazine, starts November 1, and continues through May.

The winner, who will be announced in June, is awarded a trip to Paris with all expenses paid; she will be identified with the Paris staff of Vogue; and will have a chance to visit the salons of famous dressmakers and the gathering-places of smart people.

There will be also a second major award of six months' employment on the New York editorial staff of Vogue. In addition to this other contestants who show a keen fashion sense and flair for writing may be selected for positions in other departments of the magazine. Vogue will also arrange for girls who make an exceptionally high average to be given opportunities to obtain positions with leading retail stores, manufacturers of fashion merchandise and costumes, and newspapers and advertising agencies in various sections of the country.

This contest consists of six quizzes which will be graded like college examination papers, and a final thesis on some general fashion subject. Entrance blanks may be obtained from the senior president or the editor of this paper. An entry blank also appears in the October and November issues of the Vogue. The latter also contains the first quiz.

Seniors in more than 190 colleges in all but two states entered last year's contest. Two positions were promised, but the papers were so promising that Vogue created positions for two more girls on its staff and found positions for twenty more.

The winners of 1936 were: Marjorie Field, of Alison college, who was awarded a year's training in New York and Paris; Miss Josephine Rezall, of Bryn Mawr, who will spend at least six months in Vogue's editorial offices in New York; Katherine Roberts, of Smith college, who has a place in the merchandising service department and Ella Morris of Ohio State university, in the photographic department of the magazine. All positions will be permanent if the girls make good.

Five Colleges Hold Baptist Student Meet

Forty-three from Here Attend Convention At Gainesville

Forty-three Baptist students are leaving today to attend the Florida Baptist student convention in Gainesville, which is to be in session October 23-25. Approximately three hundred students are expected to represent Florida colleges: University of Florida, Florida State College for Women, Stetson, Southern, and Rollins.

Speakers on the week-end program include the following: Classer Sowr, professor of English and Baptist student secretary at Mississippi college, Clinton, Mississippi; Dean Walter J Matherly, college of business administration, University of Florida; Dr. J. B. Turner, Griffin, Georgia; Dr. J. T. Williams, missionary to Central China; Dr. T. V. McCaul, Gainesville; W. R. Clarke, Orlando; Billy Matthews, director of student activities at Gainesville; Dr. L. R. Christie, Tallahassee; and Preston Veiers, Apopka.

Among the student speakers will be Bernice Oliver, president of the Baptist student union here, who will lead the devotional at the opening of each session.

Other student speakers include Anne Norris and Louise Doyle.

YWCA Plans Are Outlined At First Membership Metting

Committee Chairmen Give Reports of Work To Be Carried Out; Janice Borton Speaks On Club's Ideals

At the first membership meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held in the Little Theater, Wednesday afternoon, the budget for the year was presented and accepted by all members.

The meeting was opened with a

Tallahassee: Harbert Gregory, Jimmy Bryant, and John Tubbs; Gainesville: Frank Morley, Southern: Findley Epps and Jennings Minton, Stetson.

Special music for the convention will be furnished by a trio from Stetson and a quartet from Tallahassee. Members of the quartet are Elsie Renfroe, Louise Doyle, Mavis McMillian, and Sarah Beasley.

Students attending the meeting include Esther Goodwin, Alicia Meacham, Mary Ellen Thorpe, Dora Etta Solomon, Mary Lou O'Haver, Mary Palmer, Bernice Oliver, Roberta Rogers, Mavis McMillian, Sarah Beasley, Anne Norris, Beth Carke, Dot McCullough, Margery Coles, Lois Collins, Helen Hall, Twilah Taylor, Evelyn Hammond, Marie Betty Busselle, Olivia Bradley, Esther Griffin, Anne Pendleton, Alpha Cureton.

Lois Bowen, Roberta Diamond, Mildred Porter, Katherine Harper, Dorothy Crews, Carolyn Daniel, Edith Daniel, Alta Vann, Sara Rutledge, Evelyn Bayless, Gladys Richardson, Charlotte Braxton, Louise Doyle, Elsie Renfroe, Mary Nell Pinckard, Carlena Walsh, Alma Butler, Dorothy Destrich, Dorothy Atkinson, Pat Bulkley, Margaret Greene, and Miss Billie Ruth Currin.

short worship service led by Margaret Stout.

Janice Borton, president, spoke on the true meaning of "Y" membership, of a member's obligations to the society, and the necessity of each member's cooperation to make the year's program a success.

Each chairman of the various committees gave a brief report of the plans of her division.

Martha Lester gave the report of the finance committee. The finance drive will begin this Monday, October 26, and continue through the end of the week. A large committee has been selected to collect the dues of one dollar from the students.

The budget was presented to the members as follows: student donations, $350, city YWCA, $100; faculty, $100; business men of Tallahassee, $50.

The output of the organization was reported to be the entire total of these funds, $600.

The function of the membership committee was explained by Sara Nance. This group aside from getting new members, keeps them active and interested. It plans all business, program, and social meetings.

Jane Hubbard told of the work of the social service committee. It is their plan to sponsor a book sale, old clothes campaign and to give baskets to the poor at Christmas.

It is the plan of the vesper committee under the guidance of Polly Eveleth to have a wide variety of programs this year. It will include organ recitals, orchestra, short talks, round table discussions, and readings. Sunday night Dr. W. H. Rogers will read poetry at the service.

Bunny Lowry as chairman of the playground committee, said the group had practically accomplished its purpose. Having started two playgrounds that have been taken over by the city, they now have three white playgrounds and two colored ones. N. Y. A. workers from town and several from the colleges are the directors. Full activity programs are carried out at the playgrounds, as well as plans for special event days in-those quick thoughts which come to him when shielded by the soft walls of darkness. Such thoughts, the epitome of one's possessions may be written but cannot be photographed, and so are no good here."

Books in Pre-View

Mr. Miller considers Charlie Chaplin the only real artist who has survived Hollywood.

* * *

The 550 page, "Flowering of New England," one of the five volumes of Van Wyck Brooks' long awaited literary history of America, is the book Norman Thomas carries with him on his jaunts up and down the country this year. "I found it a source of rare delight," Mr. Thomas commented. "The old New Englanders of a hundred years ago had a zest for learning and for work and a hope in life which quite puts us to shame."

Mr. Thomas ranks the book along with Brooks' "Life of Emerson," which is to him very high praise.

* * *

Any college student will probably find in Sherwood Anderson's new novel, "Kit Brandon," that a writer is speaking who undoubtedly understands a certain fashion with youth's problems. Though this is a story of a businesswoman girl who ran away from home to taste the life of a city's laboring cluding Mallowe'en, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Valentine and Easter.

Janice Borton urged : : girls interested in choir work, tutoring or newspaper writing to report to her, and arrangements will be made to organize committees.

A short pep meeting followed the business session.

---

clan and eventually to become one of mankind's most daring drivers, it is at the same time an interpretation of American life. Mr. Anderson takes this means to offer a workable philosophy for the young and to suggest possible solutions to contemporary perplexities.

Student Church Groups To Meet

University of Florida Methodist Arrive Here Today

Approximately thirty Methodist students from the University of Florida at Gainesville are expected to arrive here this afternoon for a joint meeting with members of the Tallahassee Methodist student union tonight, tomorrow and Sunday.

The session will be opened with a banquet at the student union building. There will be a joint council meeting tomorrow afternoon and Dr. Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, will speak at a peace meeting at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow night there will be a formal musical banquet in the lower dining hall in honor of the Gainesville representatives.

The Rev. Donald Cook, student pastor at the University of Florida, will conduct a class at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, and that night at 7:30 o'clock there will be a joint choir program in appreciation of the new Methodist hymnal at the Methodist church.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

LIBRARY
F. S. C. W.,
TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

Don't Forget
To Vote
In Straw Ballot

The Florida Flambeau

Hear Dr. Smart
During Religious Week

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, October 30, 1936 NUMBER FIVE

Distaff Marks Its 10th Year Of Existence

Magazine to be Released In Next Two Weeks, Parker Reveals

ANNIVERSARY IS TO BE FEATURED

Representative Material From Past Issues To Be Included

This year's first issue of the Distaff, which is to be released in about two weeks, will be an anniversary number facing the development of that magazine during the ten years of its publication on this campus.

To Enclose Past Writing

The Distaff was begun in 1926 under the editorship of Virginia Powell and was known as "a spinner of yarns." It printed for the most part, stories, light verse, and articles on subjects of campus interest. Daisy Parker, the present editor, plans to include in this issue some representative material from the magazine of ten years ago.

Cartoons to Illustrate

There are to be no radical changes in the make-up of the publication; the departments will be the same as they have been previously. The issue's frontispiece is "Dressing Table," an abstract design by Ann Scratch reproduced by Eloise Moeller, senior art student. Also by Grace Whitaker includes an adaptation of the jacket of Ralph Bates' The Olive Field, as an illustration for the Marching Letters section, and a series of cartoons illustrating some humorous verse by Frances Hartley.

There are three articles: one by Martha Baker relays the question of whether we are writing books or novices that are made for us; another by Nellie Bahrt is in protest against the college women's indifference to present social problems; and the third by Mary Rose Doran satirizes a school board meeting.

The stories are by Evelyn Fisher and Elizabeth Beckwell. Evelyn's story, "Out The Trap," is a character sketch bordering on social conditions, and Beckwell's "Smoky Jim Calls a Cop" is concerned with a gangster in an art gallery.

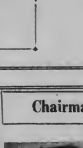
Poetry for the issue has been contributed by Elizabeth Bagwell, Pearle Overhults, and Frances Thomas.

Fealty Marked By New Theme

Freshman Class to Make Pledge of Loyalty To Alma Mater

The traditional Fealty ceremony, which will be held in the college auditorium on November 3 at 8 o'clock, will carry out the theme which was inaugurated for the first time this year.

The script of last year with its modern setting will be used again and the freshman class will once more declare anew its love for Alma Mater rather than to the juniors' class.



The master of ceremonies will be Marian Grimsley; sculptor, Elaine Finkelstein; angel's assistant, Hemestra Jacoby; Alma Mater, Mary Ann Bonnell; freshmen speaking in frieze, Harriet Kent; freshman that sings, Frances Moss.

The parts of the art pieces and tableaux will be taken by Nena Hemphill, Evelyn Hussy, Helen Branan, Sallie Walcox, Mary Elizabeth Rhyne, Rebecca Tew, Marjorie Rader, Lavyne Voss, Dorcas Gallion, Claire Van Brunt, Dot Sanford, and Ruth Stone-Cipher.

The dancers are Marjorie Anderson, Lillian Usher, Louise Usher, Frances and Mattie Pearson.

Louise Lingo is general chairman for the affair and is assisted by Katherine Autrey. Other committees are as follows: script, Becky Ashton, Winifred Ewart, Betty Wynn and Lutrelle Patterson; tryouts, Katherine Pratt, Lillie Mae Patterson and Winifred Ewart; stage, Frances Lewis and Helen Robinson; music, Hazel Bowman and Annie Morris; publicity, Betty Stutch and Dot Marchant.

Continued on page two

Chairman

Marjorie Rasiereon, junior, who is general chairman of Religious Emphasis week. Marjorie has been assisted by a number of committee chairmen in making arrangements for the week.

Students Hear Wendel Heaton Speak Friday

Gives Brief History Of Labor Organizations And Activities

Last Friday afternoon students of the economics and sociology classes had the opportunity of hearing Wendel O. Heaton, president of Florida Federation of Labor and chairman of Florida Industrial Commission, speak in the Education building.

Mr. Heaton gave a brief history of labor unions, beginning with the first public school men formed for their mutual protection, down through to the organization in America in 1870 known as the Knights of Labor, which, in 1881 developed into the now existing American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Heaton discussed recent labor problems and activities and stressed the fact that the labor organizations considered the public school system and also schools of higher learning of greatest importance and interest to labor. He also brought out the fact that college is a year the N.R.A. was in existence there was more improvement in labor conditions than ever before, and that, since 1930, there had been comparatively few strikes in Florida.

The various labor groups and their relationship, including the local unions and councils through to the American Federation of Labor, were explained. Mr. Heaton also discussed what was being done during the sessions of legislature in Florida to help labor conditions, and explained the Workmen's Compensation Law which was recently passed.

Mr. Heaton, who has lived in Florida for the past fifteen years and in Tallahassee for one year, is serving his fourth term as president of the Florida Federation of Labor.

Continued on page two

Business Office Is Center Of Excitement And Activity

Reporter Views Regular Rush on Cashier's Cage As Mob of College Girls Besiege Bank For Monthly Money Dole

By BETTY LEACH

Place: the college business office.

Time: the Monday morning rush hour.

Characters: employees in the business office, patient students, and a curious reporter.

The action in this typical college drama begins with the ringing of the 8:00 bell. Co-eds, girls, in various degrees of haste, enter the office and step sinuously to the cashier's window.

"Any mail, Mrs. Smith?" coquette me, please," and step back A few of the bolder or more hurried ones take the first place in line and the others fall in line behind them. The reporter, who entered with them, leans reasonably against the desk and waits her turn with a nonchalant expression of one accustomed to such scenes.

The lucky girl first in line confers in mysterious undertones with the cashier while the next two, with wary eyes on the "quee, edge closer. Finally she ejaculates, "This is the last of my October allowance; says she frankly. "I've just got to see that show this afternoon, and I won't get out in time to get back to dinner so I'll just have to eat up town. And I know my allowance won't stand it." Then she turned on Saturday. It exactly matched the girl's.

"I'm getting ready to deposit my annual birthday check," confides number two, who we size up immediately as Discontented Daughter. A rich papa family would give us something besides money every year. It just lacks that personal touch, if you know what I mean. My grandmother sent me a check for fifteen dollars. I guess she forgot, but I dont like to be hurried."

At this point enters a Furious

Continued on page two

NSFA Members Talk Politics Tuesday Night

McMichael, Colvin And Conn Discuss Party Platform Issues

EVELETH LEADS SECOND MEETING

Presidential Nominees Reviewed Briefly By Speeches

Meeting Tuesday evening in an atmosphere thick with Landon sunflowers and badges acclaiming Roosevelt "a gallant leader," the N.S.F.A. Forum presented an analysis of the coming national election.

Party Issues Given

Prior to the discussion of the Democratic party, the Republican party, and the third parties, Polly Eveleth announced that twenty copies of the "National Student Mirror" on N.S.F.A. sponsored activities were on sale. Mary Jeanne McKay was called upon to explain what the "Mirror" contains. Janice Borton made a motion, which was seconded, to return the price plus the profits from the "Mirror" to N.S.F.A. headquarters.

The business dispensed with, the presidential election was taken up and under way when Peasy McMichael gave a resume of President Roosevelt's life and the Democratic platform. She said that the platform is based on a promise, about four tons of glass have been ground from the surface of the sky, the tentacles of the spider unwanted by citizens. She then explained each of the platform planks which come under the three general headings.

Several Platforms Given

Bill McMichael, speaking for the Republicans, gave a short sketch of Governor Landon's personal background. In presenting the Republican platform she stated that it was founded on principles and not on parliamentary. Among the issues the Republican party advocates are a national credit based on a balanced budget, a sound currency, and control of federal credit to the states, old age insurance, and an extension of the merit system.

In the line-up of the third parties Neil Colvin discussed the platforms and the candidates of the Socialist party, the Communist party, and the Union party. Neil said that the third parties are important in their role of furnishing out how the citizens feel on certain definite issues.

After a spirited general discussion of the entire field of political parties the Forum was adjourned.

McNeill Takes Vacation

Miss Jessie McNeill, secretary to Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college, left this week on a two-weeks vacation. She will spend most of her vacation visiting her step-mother who lives near Tampa.

Former Head Visits Club To Give Talk

Virginia Barber Addresses Astronomy Members At Meeting

Virginia Barber, president of the club during 1935, and now pursuing more than seventy members of the organization on "Observatories" Wednesday night in room 203 Administration building.

The Mt. Palomar observatory which is to house the 200-inch lens for the world's largest telescope and the mirror itself centered her discussion. This mirror which is to be used in the scope of the reflecting type was described as "Pyrex" that old the optical shop of the California Institute of Technology where, about four tons of glass have been ground from the surface of the sky, the tentacles of the spider unwanted by citizens. She then explained each of the platforms which come under the three general headings.

Continued on page two

Speech Classes To Offer Play

Department Will Present Raphelson's Comedy In Near Future

"The Wooden Slipper," a three-act comedy by Raphelson, will be presented by the speech department November 12 and 13, Thursday and Friday, in the Augusta Conradi Theatre.

All the men in the play, with the exception of one, will be portrayed by faculty members, while the women's roles will be played by juniors and seniors in the speech department.

The cast is as follows: Antonette, Betty Ellinger; Andre Lebrun, Dr. Ernest Leisenring; Suzanne, Beverley Brown; Michael Hajos, Mr. Joe Cawthon; Adele Dubois, Miss Mary Barr; Zigurny, Betty Sweet Smith; Otto Zigurny, Dr. Dan Mc Lean Goodwin; Marie, Sallie Bert Nunnn; August, Dr. Raymond Kelly; Gaston Pavlicek, Mr. Owen Sellers; Albert, Mr. Donald Looks; Kaiy, Frances Lewis; Alexander, Miss Frances Lewis; Alexander Dudot, Col. Neyle Kendenhall; Jeanneau, Mary Berryhill.

The different play committees are as follows: Publicity committee, Eloise Frink, Mary Queenberry, Rea Lewis, Claire Wells; stage managers, Frances Lingle, Sallie Bert Nunnn; publicity committee, Rachel Sisco, Claire Wells; Marjorie Raiesteon; ticket committee, Margery Jones, Ruth Bedingfield Hughes, Julia Burnett, Helen Schiffler.

Tickets for the whole year's performances in the Augusta Conradi may be bought at the book store for a dollar. Each three-act play will cost fifty cents, and each one act play will be twenty-five cents.

Gwathmey Visits Campus

Professor ano Mrs. M. Gwathmey of Converse college, Spartanburg, S. Carolina, visited this college last Saturday and Sunday Touring the state, they expect to visit Columbia, Athens, and Tallahassee also. Dr. Conradi took them to see the campus, the farm and the dairy beaubs showing them the campus.

Girls Shun Warming Their Toes by Fireplace To Join "Hiking and Tripping" Club Adventures

By BLANTON BARRETT

Some may consider that season when leaves begin to fall and cold breezes nip through the warmest sweater as a time for loafing by the fire to toast marshmallows, apples, and toes in friendly harmony. Not so the Florida State College student. With force of character and will, this highly educated individual, or this advocate of higher learning, goes forth on long hikes, early morning bonr-back rides, and trips aboard the town "sprinkler."

Formerly "strolls afoot" or informal affairs, but no longer is this so. Now they have become regular rituals. In fact, a "hiking and tripping" club has made its appearances on campus. Its purpose seems to be to sponsor wholesale enjoyment of the great outdoors. One starts up some weeks in advance for a trip to the gymnasium, to the frnost gates, around the circle. Occasionally mounted on a well-worn truck, the eager trippers betake themselves to farther parts where they feast upon wood's cooked steaks and other delicacies of nature.

Also formerly, the student slept on Sunday mornings. But now she rises with the sun, or perhaps a bit before, dons cold leather boots and uncomfortable riding breeches, and sallies forth to

Continued on page two

Briggs Talks On Exhibit Of French Prints

Lithography, Engraving, Etching Processes Are Explained

A lecture on the exhibit of prints of the work of Cezanne which was displayed this week was given by Miss Amy Briggs, assistant professor in the art department.

Miss Briggs first explained the processes by which the prints were done. These included lithography, etching, and engraving. She stated that in the lithographic process was evolved from the fact that oil and water do not mix. In this process the design is drawn on a stone with a soft greasy pencil. The remainder of the stone is covered with water. Greasy printer's ink is then applied and adheres to the oily design on the stone. Paper is laid and not to the wet part of the stone. After the print has been taken it is pressed to the stone and the print is made. This method has been improved before the invention of photo-reserving service in a means of illustration.

Miss Briggs then pointed out several types of etchings represented in the exhibit. There were examples of pure etching, which is explained as the process of covering a zinc or copper plate with wax, cutting lines through with an etching needle, biting in, and then allowing acid to eat away the metal where the lines are exposed it. The grooves thus made were filled and the paper was rolled over the surface producing black lines on a white background.

Another type of etching on exhibit was dry point in which the etching needle was drawn across the plate without the use of wax. The lines made are more velvety while etched lines are clearer and more distinct. Another type, represented in the exhibit, was aquatint. To secure the effect desired the copper plates are covered by more wax than others. These parts covered by the wax resist will be the lightest lines on the print.

In explaining how engraving is done Miss Briggs explained how cutting grooves into a block of wood, metal, or linoleum produced that the surface of the block, on which the ink is to be applied, is covered with ink. The ink is not allowed to get into the grooves. This studio method differs from etching in that it requires no chemical process in which white lines are formed by the grooves. Wood blocks are more frequently used in engraving than is linoleum. The two prints by Cezanne which are on display from wood blocks. They have a rich effect in color, showing his interest in tropical forms and colors.

Voss, Bradford Elected To Transportation Work By Day Students at Meet

At the meeting of the day students Thursday, Mary Voss was elected chairman of the transportation committee to replace Mary Bradford who resigned as she is living on campus and is no longer a day student. Miss Bradford was elected assistant. This position is very important since many of the activities of the organization are in the nature of transportation work.

Sarah Sealey announced that Religious Emphasis week would begin Sunday morning as 11 o'clock with an address by Dr. W. A. Smart. Classes will be dismissed at this hour so that all students may attend the service.

Deming Gives Lecture Here On Chemistry

Noted Author Addresses Students, Faculty Tuesday Night

COMPARES SEA WITH SCIENCE

Scientific Method Forms Discussion Basis For Talk

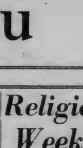
Dr. Horace G. Deming, professor of chemistry at the University of Nebraska, was guest speaker before a group of students and faculty members Tuesday night in the Little Theater. Dr. Deming chose for his subject "Scientific Method." Dr. Deming, who is the author of the general chemistry textbook used in the college, is best known as a writer of books on chemistry, his books having been translated into a number of foreign languages, including Chinese and most of the romance languages.

Doctor Deming defined scientific method as straight-forward thinking. He outlined the four characteristics of scientific method, which include recognising the problem to be solved, devising and executing a scientific solution, checking the conclusion by independent methods, and the conclusion in terms of known facts or hypotheses.

Doctor Deming defined science as the art of inter-connected, self-consistent, and logical knowledge compared science to the sea, with waves constantly flowing in, but with an ever rising tide of knowledge.

"Truth fro truth's sake" was interpreted "by Doctor Deming as meaning that "truth is the aim of science," the methods of which include the collection of accurate subjects each new conclusion to tests. This characteristic makes science the only satisfying method of thought thus far invented.

Doctor Deming contrasted science with mysticism, which he said still controls the greater part of thought. He stated that all human relationships are related to science's critical review, and all beliefs are derived from scientific facts. The shakiness of the foundations of our own convictions makes us more tolerant of the beliefs of others. We recognize our own prejudices; thus we can conform to science and still be mystics.



Doctor Deming also spoke Wednesday morning to a group of science students on a more specialized topic, "A Sub-Atomic Adventure."

Change Made in Staff

Mrs. Josephine Levey, who was formerly housekeeper in the infirmary, has been added to the college staff.

Mrs. Levey will work principally in Reynolds.

Religious Emphasis Week Opens Sunday

Speaker

Dr. Wyatt Aiken Smart, professor of theology at Emory university, who will be the guest speaker during Religious Emphasis week, which begins Sunday.

Dr. Smart to Be Speaker Of Fifth Annual Observance

FORMAL BANQUET TO HONOR GUEST

Addresses, Open Forums And Discussions To Be Held

At the opening service of Religious Emphasis week, Dr. W. A. Smart, speaker of the week, will address the student body Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium. He is well acquainted with student problems and will place special emphasis on a personal religion.

The fifth annual observance of Religious Emphasis week which begins Sunday morning will continue through Thursday, with special programs planned for each day. Marjorie Rasiereon, chairman of the week, will preside at the Sunday morning and Jane Rubbert will be in charge.

Formal Banquet Tomorrow

A formal banquet will be given in honor of Dr. Smart in the lower dining hall tomorrow night. The guests include the local members of religious workers' council; the members of the various church councils, and the members of the Religious Emphasis week committee. Dr. Smart and the banquet there will be an after-dinner speech in a downstairs parlor.

Sunday Dr. Smart will speak at the Y. W. C. A. vespers service in Conradi Borton, president of Y. W. C. A., will preside. Monday Dr. Smart will deliver an address in convocation. Mary Jeanne McKay will preside and Marian Grimsley will be in charge.

Dr. Smart Will Speak

Monday night through Thursday night Dr. Smart will speak in the auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Monday night Sara Rebhorn president of the Presbyterian Student league, will preside and Frank Wildman will be in charge. Tuesday night Bernice Oliver president of the Baptist Student union, Bernard Arms and Jane McRae will be in charge Wednesday night Virginia Clayton, president of the Methodist Student organization, will preside and Marian Harrold will be in charge. Thursday night Louise Lingo president of the Episcopal unit

Continued on page two

Three Awards Are Presented

Senior Class Gets First Recognition; Sophs Achieve Honor

Three athletic awards were presented to winning teams by the Women's Athletic association president, Beth Deane, at convocation Tuesday. These awards were silver cups, the whole of which bear the name of Sinnamon Jones.

The senior class of 1937 achieved athletic recognition by winning both the class cup and the swimming cup. The present sophomore class placed second in the class contest, while the junior class was runner-up for the swimming cup. The Episcopal girls captured the Intramural cup, with Siphrgtra earning second honors. Hazel Varnell, senior athletic manager, Sara Hethcox, senior swimming manager, and Betsy White, Episcopal athletic manager, received the awards for their teams.

Dr. R. L. Ryman, of the education department, gave a short address on the coming Religious Emphasis week. He described the speaker of the week. Dr. W. A Smart, professor of theology at Emory university, and made the statement that world progress rested on some emphasis of the type presented in this week rather than in the current emphasis placed on the material things.

Entertainment was provided by student body singing and the freshman class. The Rosser twins, Julia and Merryday, played a flute and violin duet. "Chanson" and Mendelssohn. They were accompanied by Pauline Morrow. Ruth Stone-Cipher tapped with Edith Merrill at the piano. Marjorie Benson sang, "Getting Sentimental over

Continued on page two

Republicans And Democrats Flourish As Election Nears

Landon Sunflowers Clash with Roosevelt Buttons As Campus Politicians Hoist Banners For Approaching Vote

By PETRE CABANISE

Up to date no blood has been shed on the Florida State campus over the issues of the presidential election taking place Tuesday, but there are other signs that the college contains many loyal Democrats and many just as loyal Republicans.

Haughty stares are being exchanged between the girls wearing Landon sunflowers and those possessing Roosevelt buttons with the familiar "Happy Warrior" lettering. The girls who have not declared their intentions in similar fashion are conspicuously absent. "Which are you for, Roosevelt or Landon?"

Tables in the dining rooms are no longer where one said food but "where one sits over" political views. If, as it is said, arguments make good digestion, then the table of bicarbonate of soda should increase tremendously.

The students also use the doors of their dormitory rooms to state their party preferences. On walking down the halls, one is greeted on either side by pictures of Landon, Knox, Roosevelt, and Garner. One freshman is such an ardent Roosevelt supporter that she has pictures of the Democratic candidates she has tacked on her door a sign stating: "Why you should vote for Landon and Roosevelt only knows."

Continued on page two

Students who have shown interest in the poster and book displays in the library. The book exhibit, entitled "What Issues Are Voters," include books with such interesting and thought-provoking titles as "The Politician His Rabbit, Gutcries, and Protective Coloring," by Wallace; "What does America Mean?" by Alexander Meiklejohn; "Whither Are We Faces the Future," Everett; "America Must Act Again," by Stuart Chase; "Democracy Is

Continued on page two

WTAL Features Six Students

Several Other Programs For College Girls Are Scheduled

WTAL serves its purpose in providing for the students here broadcast of both experience and an opportunity to make known their talents.

There are six regular programs featuring students, and several others which are not yet scheduled. The station is always willing to give an audition to anyone who is interested in such work, and wants the college to present a larger representation.

Marjorie Benson, contralto, and Mayme Louise Strange, pianist, are heard each Tuesday night at 9:30, in their songs and skits, Mary Jeanne McKay, WTAL Manager, contralto, winner of Burdine's third annual contest last year, has not appeared on a regular program as yet, but one is being worked up for her. It probably will be heard on Monday night.

Sara Frances Gatrell, pianist, accompanies several programs during the week. Marian Hebert, soprano, winner of Burdine Master auditions, is another whose program has not been scheduled as yet. Her audition was held this summer, and as yet she has not gone on the air. Mildred Hurst, who plays the xylophone, is heard each Thursday night at 8. This program is carried over from last spring, and has proved very popular.

These girls are not the only ones who will be heard over WTAL this fall and winter but are the six who have been selected among the new programs. Richard Kingston urges all students who have any kind of talent

Continued on page two

Andresw Talks On Vocations In Retail Work

Ample Rewards Offered If Qualifications Are Desirable

In the fourth in a series of lectures on vocations open to women, Dr. Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel, yesterday afternoon in 203 Administration building discussed "Opportunities in Retail Stores."

The retail store, as Dr. Andrews pointed out, is the third largest industry in the United States, and opportunities in ready-to-wear stores are greater than ever. This field, Dr. Andrews said, is primarily a woman's field. Since women do most of the buying, why not most of the selling?

"There are ample rewards for intelligent headwork," Dr. Andrews said, "and more jobs to be filled than persons qualified to fill them." For this reason personal service is not overrecorded. "Conditions are encouraging for those who have prepared themselves for promotion." Dr. Andrews continued, fashionmerchandising itself is now becoming a profession.

Discussing fashion in the shoe business, Dr. Andrews pointed out that orthopedic courses are helpful.

"To fit a foot we should know the construction of the foot," Dr. Andrews explained. "Women properly trained would make better fitters than men." Dr. Andrews said that, more permanent positions than ever before was needed, however, and also interest in the employer's success.

Publicity has a really helped in retailing," Dr. Andrews continued. "Newspapers, bill boards and motion pictures all educate the public." Dr. Andrews gave for an example the manufacturing process of shrinkage.

"Home economics clubs, farm bureau groups, and consumers councils are all teaching better buying methods. To meet this, retailers must learn correct standards and their employees be trained.

"The successful buyer of wearing apparel," Dr. Andrews continued, "studies the attire at fashionable resorts for critical study. Movie stars and college campuses start these styles."

"The sales person also must meet new eminent requirements. It requires a good understanding of human nature to sell goods that won't come back to customers who will come back."

In discussing the training for retailing Dr. Andrews explained that college education plus retail professional training is needed.

"Retail advertising offers places for educated women with individual ideas and creativity, ability," Dr. Andrews said. To artists, copywriters, proof readers, display managers, a keen knowledge of appeal to the buying public and the selling value of merchandise are essential.

Although there has been some drop in sales due to the depression, most merchants have tried to hold it up. "The greatest decrease has come in wares of the high priced managers and persistent directors. Younger women with less experience are put in at lower salaries, but the trend has started upward again."

In giving the qualifications for a good buyer, Dr. Andrews said that she must be conscious of fashion trends, have ability to assist customers to select fashions adopted to them, and have extreme patience in helping the customer fill her needs at a price she can pay. Also she should have a pleasantly aggressive personality, mathematical knowledge so she can understand mark up, mark down, turn-over, profit and loss, and other managerial qualifications.

Dr. Andrews named Ohio State university, New York university, Prince School, and University of Southern California as schools for training in this line of work, and Macy's in New York as a store for training.

In speaking of business ownership, Dr. Andrews mentioned the specialty shops, such as dress shops, which many women own and operate. There are now five thousand women owners and managers.

"The four fields of retailing, buying and selling, advertising, finance and service, offer almost limitless possibilities for trained women and stores are recognizing the value of college graduates as material for the training, but they demand the best," Dr. Andrews said in conclusion.

EXCELLENT FOOD
WELL SERVED
Telephone 9100
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

Our Blue Plate . . . 25c

Seminole Cafe

Drink a Cup of Our Good Coffee
S. Monroe St. - Tallahassee

Essay Contest Will End Next Saturday

"The several entries already received show keen interest in the O.G.A. essay contest," said Jeannette Ammis, executive secretary to the Executive Council of the association.

Contestants have until next Tuesday at midnight to enter their articles, which are to be entitled, "What I Think of Student Government on This Campus." The prize offered to the winning paper is five dollars.

Business Office Center Of Excitement and Activity

Continued from page one

Freshman. "I want a boy in my room," she states in definite tones. "Two dollars and a bathrobe disappeared from the room next door to mine last night and I don't intend for anything like that to happen to me. I expect to have me up here to be protected and look like bodyguard. And right next door to me, too."

She rushes out, nearly colliding in the doorway with a slender, preoccupied girl in a travelling suit. Without pausing, the girl enters the office and goes to the desk where she writes a check. While she writes, she goes on and others come in, one of whom is immediately "shanghaied" into the new arrival. "Honey," she shrieks, "when did you get back?"

"Yes, I got back," the girl behind the grating at the cashier's window.

"Did you have fun? Who'd you see? Who all at the game? Was he with that blonde? Tell me everything." Quickly, but in lowered tones.

"My sweet," this from the Center of Attraction, with eyes turned ceiling-ward, "I just got off the bus. I'm dead. I'm all in. I've been in the world and there aren't but eight-seven of them. My ticket had the limit on it and my extravagance, but it was worth it." Then in a whisper, crooking the fingers the fraternity pin she is wearing.

The 10:30 bell rings. With expressions of surprised dismay and disheveled dress at about being late and taking cuts, some of the girls hurry out. Others, more wary, only one who are left behind drift out gradually. At last the moment the reporter has been waiting for. She approaches the cashier's window and asks, "Is there any news from the business office for the Flambeau this week?"

With composure she awaits the answer that is to make or break one of. There's nothing unusual in the office this week. Come back some other time." She goes out as the scene ends.

Former Head Visits Club to Give Talk

Continued from page one

and sandwich smaller telescope will be located in a nearby building.

At present a road to the top of the mountain is under construction. Later there will be an airplane landing field near the observatory. Besides the main building there will be others. The whole colony should be completed in about four years, the speaker explained.

Virginia graduated from Florida State College for Women in 1934, the same year in which the Astronomy club was started. At present she is doing graduate work in psychology and physics. Because of the large enrollment of more than 500 girls in the Astronomy club this year, the officers of this organization have divided the girls up into several smaller groups under the direction of the members of the telescope team. This division should enable the new members to receive a greater opportunity for personal guidance and instruction from the group leaders in making either telescopic or naked-eye observations.

Many Hours Devoted to Preparation Of Meals in College's Dining Hall

Kitchen Has Large Bakery and Modern Equipment For Cooking, Dishwashing and Making Necessary Ice Cream

By DOROTHY BARCLAY

How much time do you spend in the dining room?

If you are an average person, your meals probably occupy about one and a half hours a day—here sixteenth of your time. Well, then, have you ever considered the length of time required behind the scenes—the hours spent in preparing and cooking food, serving and serving tables?

Let us take a typical day in the Woman's dining room and kitchen following the various steps required in preparing three well-balanced meals for over 1,500 girls. Our breakfast menu will include grapefruit, bacon, cereal, biscuits, and coffee. Preparation for this meal in the kitchen will soon before when 260 to 270 pounds of bacon are sliced from the sides in the smoke room, placed in large cooking pans, and put in the refrigerator for the night.

About 8:30 the next morning the meat is put in the oven for the first stage of cooking and left to cook while the store is finish. When it is done—about 7:00 or 7:15—it is taken out and taken to the thermostatened where it is kept hot until served at 7:30.

At about 6:30 a. m. pantry girls begin making the orange grapefruit, which the dining room girls prepare. Coffee is made in a large coffee urn, and cereal and biscuits which were mixed at 4:30 by the bakery. The bakery here Promptly at 7:30, the bacon is tossed on trucks and the coffee and cereal brie put to be placed with the meat; and taken to seating. Immediately after breakfast the girls receive it and transfer the tables for freshmen. This procedure is repeated at 7:00 and 6:00 for the upperclass and officers' breakfasts.

Immediately after one meal is completed, preparation for the next one begin. Sugar bowls are filled and honey pitchers cleaned and refilled. If lunch is to include frankfurters, sliced carrots, relishes, sauces, and spicy sauce, the morning activities of the girls are many and varied. The butchers work out the wieners, other men see to the mashing of potatoes, and women work by hand the various vegetables. In addition to the food for this school, the cooks use the whole fruit—seeds and skin—and puree it, afterward, and only is the mixture more economical but it produces a more tasty and nourishing food.

The wiener rolls are prepared in the bakery—as are all breads, cakes, pastries. The loaves are brought to the kitchen just before the meal. The butter is put by machine, a pound at a time, and immediately placed in the refrigerator where it remains until after the blessing has been said. As at breakfast, the food is loaded on trucks, but this time buffet-style replaces the coffee.

Dinner is, of course, the most difficult meal to prepare. Individual salads are on the menu, women begin work on the ingredients immediately after lunch. Lettuce is separated into single leaves; vegetables are automatically shredded; fruit is drained. The automatic mayonnaise mixer starts its task of whipping up the gallons of dressing required.

Four men are needed to prepare the vegetables for the steam cookers. They begin work at about two o'clock on usual days, but when there are foods such as string beans, they need much more time. Preparation varies with every vegetable. Potatoes and carrots may be placed in an automatic peeling machine which will almost completely prepare them; greens must be washed six times before they are cooked.

If a roast is to be served, approximately 700 to 800 pounds of meat must be cut into family sized portions, pan-fried, and cooked. When it is done, it is sliced and placed in the thermotainer, which keeps it hot without absorbing the natural moisture.

As for the dessert, if ice cream is to be served, it must be made two days in advance of the time required, so that it can harden and ripen. It is brought to the pantry about seven o'clock and served to the dining room girls as they come for it.

Dishwashing is, of necessity, carried on after every meal. Eighteen girls are assigned to each of a machine through three baths—the first, for soapy water; the second, clear water; the third, steam. After this the dishes are packed away for use in the next meal.

Florida State College for Women has a master kitchen fitted with the finest modern equipment. Staffed with trained cooks and efficient help. A day in that kitchen is a busy one. Who does do you spend on your meals? Oh, yes, an hour and a half a day.

Religious Emphasis Week Opens Sunday

Continued from page one

lary, will preside and Esther O'Byrne will be in charge.

Monday morning soup will be served at 11:00 in Bryan atrium and an informal discussion will be led by Dr. Smart. Margaret Stout will preside and Esther O'Byrne will be in charge. Wednesday morning and Thursday after-noons at 4:30 open forums will be held in the Augusta Conradi theatre. Dr. Smart, Anne Miller will preside and Sara Rethoos will be in charge. Thursday Marjorie Nogle will preside and Louise Oehan will be in charge.

Open Forum Scheduled

Sorority forums will be held Monday afternoon at 5:30 and Wednesday night at 8:30.

The special music for the week will be furnished entirely by the students this year. There will be included on the various programs a violin solo by Virginia Barber, a flute and violin duet by Merdiay and Julia Rosser, a xylophone number of Margaret Tyler, and numbers by Ida Mae Odell choir, the Presbyterian service, the Baptist quartet, and a group from the glee club. Dianne Daniels is to be the pianist for the procession and Jessica Jabs Mackey is to be organist.

Fealty Marked By New Theme

Continued from page one

trick; costume, Dora Helen Ragsdale, Martha Lester and Mary Ann Hart; dance, Janet Lockwood and Viola Brooks; Alice Ann Chapman, Becky Ashton, Charlotte Kamper.

WTAL Features Six Students

Continued from page one

come out and interview him. He is interested in the work they are appreciates any comments on the programs he broadcasts.

ENJOY WEARING
"BEAR SKIN"
Twin Sets

We have these now—In lovely greens, My yellow, Catawba red and Fandango rose.

P. W. Wilson Company

—Since 1837—

Bridge Match Will Feature Best Players

Gilchrist and Reynolds Card Sharks Battle In Tournament

Try-outs have been held for a bridge tournament which will be played off in the near future between the four best players from Reynolds hall and the four best players from Gilchrist hall. The tournament will be refereed by Margaret Gilla Lafferty.

Amalia Greenwald was chairman of the tryouts in Reynolds which were held in the Reynolds lounge last Saturday night from seven-thirty until ten o'clock. The tryouts were refereed by Miss Kathryn Hall, director of Gilchrist hall and Margaret Lafferty, Christine Harris and Kathleen Bevington, high scorers. Jane Bishop and Amalia Greenwald tied with Lorraine Shipman and Louise Solomans for second place. This tie will be played off some time next week before the tournaments with Gilchrist. Those who tried were Albert Jones, Elisabeth Hardee, Lorraine English, Louise Solomans, Margaret Bevertinger, Amalia Greenwald, Jane Bishop, Kathleen Hughes, Kristine Harris, Marjorie Newnin, and Amalia Greenwall.

Tryouts will be held for Gilchrist players this week-end. Players will be Ann Maggio, Sammy Kimbrough, Mary Peyton, Ruth Porter, Mary Ann Moore, Jane Gale, Maybeth Goss, Edith Bevertinger, Amalia Greenwald, Muriel Liebmann, Marion Carson, Jane Harris, Lorraine Glass, Jean Nash and Virginia Early.

Girls Shun Warming Toes by Fireplace to Join Club Adventures

Continued from page one

communes with nature from this back of a sizzling fire.

Indeed times have changed when the young sophisticate who would shun anything but the last 37 model automobile will mount with squeals of glee upon the lumbering bulk of city street-sanitation wagon for a moonlight ride.

Unabashed by the hard toward greater travel and more unconventional fields of action, the open road have affected the college girl. Her activities give ample proof of her interest. Her room, converted to the semblance of a log cabin by rough pine branches wrenched from freshly cinched trees, provides a new setting for the meals.

Republicans, Democrats Flourish on Election Eve

Continued from page one

Klein; and "Prosperity, Fact or Myth," by Stuart Chase.

The table near the rear of the library lobby contains pamphlets on public affairs: a copy of the Constitution of the United States; and a special section on the "New Republic" entitled a "Voter's Handbook 'and containing histories of the main political parties, biographies of the candidates, and analyses of the party's platform. Picture, of Democratic Socialist, and Republican nominee for president and other men "In the Political Limelight" are displayed on the bulletin boards.

Necessities of Life May Be Obtained Right on Campus of Florida State

Farm and Dairy Supply Quantity of Food; Dining Hall is One of Best in Country; Book Store Stock is Varied

By RUTH ATKINSON

Florida State is practically a self-sufficient community. The necessities as well as the pleasures of a well-rounded life are offered right on the college campus.

The college heating plant furnishes hot water for the dormitories, kitchen, and gym, and steam for all campus buildings and for the college laundry. The city reservoir is the source of the water supply. The cold water comes directly from the mains to pipes, while the hot water is distributed through the college heating plant after being boiled and purified.

The water comes directly into a tank which has a capacity of 10,000 gallons and could furnish water for the college for a period of three days if the city supply were cut off. On an average 1,000 pounds of hot water is used daily without counting that used in cooking. A pump forces the water into huge pipes in an underground channel, and from there it is distributed to the buildings through smaller pipes.

College Farm and Dairy

The college farm and dairy of 400 acres furnishes a large part of the fresh pork used in the dining halls, the milk, cream, cottage cheese, buttermilk, black-eyed peas, eggs, and milk. All of the dairy feed is raised, planted, and ground right on the farm. The dairy is a necessary factor in the health of the college students, as it is the only method by which the milk sources may be controlled, and tuberculin insured.

The cattle are inspected and tested by the veterinary department and the state and federal government inspectors. All employes are given a periodical examination. The dairy is composed of eight separate units including a milk barn, a milk house, a pump house, a feed barn, sleeping barns, a bull and calf barn, a maternity barn, and a yearling barn. All of these buildings are equipped with electrical service and modern sanitary facilities.

The college garden, situated west of Gilchrist Hall, supplies the dining room with turnip greens, kale, tomatoes, carrots, onions, and other vegetables in season.

The Florida State dining room is rated by college surveyors as one of the best in the country. The kitchen is divided into seven sections including the serving room, special diet section, cooking section, dishwashing section, pantry, refrigeration unit, and store rooms. Modern electrical equipment, a sanitary method of distribution, and compact cabinets for the use of food and dishes add to the efficiency of the kitchen. It has been estimated that it would be possible to feed the student body for as long as forty days without importing food stuffs.

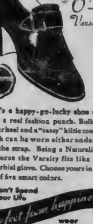
The college is practically a self-sufficient community. The necessities as well as the pleasures of a well-rounded life are offered right on the college campus.

The college heating plant furnishes hot water for the dormitories, kitchen, and gym, and steam for all campus buildings and for the college laundry. The city reservoir is the source of the water supply. The cold water comes directly from the mains to pipes, while the hot water is distributed through the college heating plant after being boiled and purified.

The water comes directly into a tank which has a capacity of 10,000 gallons and could furnish water for the college for a period of three days if the city supply were cut off. On an average 1,000 pounds of hot water is used daily without counting that used in cooking. A pump forces the water into huge pipes in an underground channel, and from there it is distributed to the buildings through smaller pipes.

College Farm and Dairy

The college farm and dairy of 400 acres furnishes a large part of the fresh pork used in the dining halls, the milk, cream, cottage cheese, buttermilk, black-eyed peas, eggs, and milk. All of the dairy feed is raised, planted, and ground right on the farm. The dairy is a necessary factor in the health of the college students, as it is the only method by which the milk sources may be controlled, and tuberculin insured.



The cattle are inspected and tested by the veterinary department and the state and federal government inspectors. All employes are given a periodical examination. The dairy is composed of eight separate units including a milk barn, a milk house, a pump house, a feed barn, sleeping barns, a bull and calf barn, a maternity barn, and a yearling barn. All of these buildings are equipped with electrical service and modern sanitary facilities.

The college garden, situated west of Gilchrist Hall, supplies the dining room with turnip greens, kale, tomatoes, carrots, onions, and other vegetables in season.

The Florida State dining room is rated by college surveyors as one of the best in the country. The kitchen is divided into seven sections including the serving room, special diet section, cooking section, dishwashing section, pantry, refrigeration unit, and store rooms. Modern electrical equipment, a sanitary method of distribution, and compact cabinets for the use of food and dishes add to the efficiency of the kitchen. It has been estimated that it would be

ON YOUR TOES!
Here comes

VARSITY

$6.75 Varsity

Here's a happy-go-lucky shoe that packs a real punch in its saucy slip-on leather heel and a "sassy" little tongue which can be worn either under or over the vamp. Black or brown suede, of course the Varsity fits like the proverbial glove. Choose yours in any one of five smart colors.

Don't Spend Your Money

You just have Happiness wear Naturalizers
CHOICE OF
GREY . . . GREEN . . . WINE . . .
BLACK . . . BROWN.

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE, FLA.
"WE HAVE YOUR SIZE"

Freshmen Hear Richards Talk

M'Kay Speaks for Campus Organization Heads; Gehan Conducts

Dr. Harold F. Richards, professor of physics, was the speaker at the Freshman class meeting yesterday in the auditorium. Dr. Richards' subject was "The Value of Hobbies." At this time it was learned the necessity of beneficial use of leisure time, and told of advantages that a good hobby possesses.

Following Dr. Richards' talk the meeting was turned over to Mary Jeanne McKay, who ask for a committee composed of presidents of campus organizations. Mary Jeanne gave an explanation of freshman activities units which will begin in the near future. Following this Marion Gehan, chairman, explained the purpor ..nd plans for relegation of Rush week.

Louise Gehan, a member of student advisory committee conducted the assembly.

Students Hear Wendel Heaton Speak Friday

Continued from page one

tion of Letters and is also the chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission to which he has been appointed for four years and in which office he is now serving his second time. He will attend the National Convention of the Federation of Labor which will be held in Miami.

THREE AWARDS ARE PRESENTED

Continued from page one

You," and Mrs. Strang's address by Mamie Louise Strang.

are available in the college library. campus news is offered and information on entertainment and entertainment is presented in the artist's series, plays, concerts and members of the speech department.

Co-Ed Crepe Spiralda

SPARK'S
STATE
PHONE 160
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
October 30-31
Jean HARLOW
Robert TAYLOR
Myrna LOY
in
"LIBELED LADY"
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
November 1-2
MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN
"GIVE ME YOUR heart"
with
Kay FRANCIS
GEORGE BRENT
Roscoe KARNS
PATSIE O'LEARY
TUESDAY, NOV. 3
"WOMEN ARE TROUBLE"
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 4
PIGSKIN PARADE
THE FOOTBALL SONG OF THE YEAR
STUART ERWIN
JOHNNY DOWNS
BETTY GRABLE
PATSY KELLY
JACK HALEY
THURSDAY, NOV. 5
Katharine HEPBURN
Fredric MARCH
in
MARY of SCOTLAND
at Popular Prices

THE SWEET SHOP
Phone 1091 Opposite Gilchrist

SPECIALS FOR THE WEEK
—WEEK-END—
Cheeseburgers with Tea, Coffee or Cocoa ... 15c
—MONDAY AND TUESDAY—
Small Cheese Sandwich 5c
Hot Cocoa 5c
—WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY—
Liverwurst Sandwich 10c
Large Limeade 5c

No. 1112

Seutache embroidery around neckline, pockets and cuffs. Contrasting velvet ecarf and cuffs. Stitching on shoulders. May be obtained in Black, Cocoa, Rust, Peacock or Raspberry.

Sizes 14 to 20.

10 95

SOLD EXCLUSIVELY BY
GELBERG'S
Complete store for Ladies
COLLEGE AVENUE

Sport Squints

Thanksgiving is in the air. Even this distant date the Even bones e beginning to rise again and e Odds show signs of that red, hite and purple spirit. Every sketball and volleyball court rives with team aspirants each ternoon and large groups work ligently on technique. Soon the mpetitive spirit will work itself to a fever pitch, and by the al climax of Thanksgiving, the tire campus will be again hang-g on the breathless rallies back d forth across the net and the curate passing of the Garnet d Gold girls. Right now the ort squinter would have a hard b telling just which team has e edge in the approaching fray if the odds have experienced ands, the Evens have a mass of eshmen who are showing that heirs is the Even spirit. Here's aiting until Thanksgiving!

• • •

Mary Jeanne McKay's article n sportsmanship on this page is he first in a series of articles on hat subject which will be printed y the Flambeau. These articles hich consist of definitions of portsmanship by outstanding aders of the campus are part of he program sponsored by the thletic association to promote a ner quality of sportsmanship on ampus.

• • •

If you are burdened with that amiliar eight around campus—he up-the-hill curve—the sport quinter suggests the extra-cur-icular tap dancing class or the odern dance class. Both of these lasses are being taught by stu-ents. They may give you "char-e horses," my good women, but hink what a sylph-like figure ould do for you Christmas va-ation. They might also make hat "I-am-a-Tallahassee-girl" en-foot stride of yours a little more graceful. Remember the me that your tall-dark-and-handsome asked you where the re was when you'd just returned rom school and had been used o sprinting to the top floor of the d building in record time?

• • •

The faculty en masse have been requenting the tennis courts of ate. Miss Frazer, the new in-ructor from New York, shows hem how they do it in her home tete, and from the fleeting impse that the sport squinter ot of her game it looks bad for her opponents. We also noticed Miss Layman "south-pawing" it away the other day with the usual wicked service of the left-handed.

Dr. Heinlein, a faithful tennis nthusiast set the pace for men's ashions on the court the other ey when he appeared in blue norts and a handkerchief wound round his head Indian style. But e has a rival. Rumors have it hat Mr. Miller, the new philos-ophy instructor, will take the court against him soon. It will probably be a matter of the "prob-able error" against the Greek theory of ethics. Other faculty members, spied by the squinter, losing their proverbial dignity on the courts included Miss Lynn, Miss Eaton, and Miss Fox.

And speaking of the faculty in sports—Dr. Finner is still clamor-ing for a marble tournament!

The intramural program is starting off with a bang. If you hear whoops from the back of the gym, you will know that it is merely a team fighting with en-thusiasm for dear old Whoosis! For genuine fun and friendly sport the sport squinter has seen nothing like this on the campus.

• • •

And now the outing club is tempting us with delightful trips planned to all sorts of places. In spite of the history parallel we think we'll join them to see some of the places that everyone talks about that are right in Tallahas-see and we never see. And did you know that every member of the student body is automatically a member? We didn't.

• • •

Swimming isn't neglected by the faculty, either. Mr. Joubert and Katherine Rawls were seen racing the length of the pool the other day and we believe the Olympic champion still holds her title. Other pool invaders were Mr. Mil-ler and Mr. Vance who are also good gulf swimmers.

• • •

Until we see you down on the athletic field we'll say with some of the archery students who haven't found the target yet—"We'll be shooting you!"

Former FSC Member Dies

Word was received recently by President Edward Conradi of the death of Dr. Anne Young, resi-dent physician at Florida State College from 1921 to 1925.

Dr. Young died September 30 at the Presbyterian hospital in Philadelphia. Burial was at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Is-land Canada.

Intra-Murals Get Underway

Organizations Ready For Program of Hearty Competition

Various teams have been sched-uled to play volleyball and basket-ball in intramural games which begin this week-end.

The volleyball schedule is: Gil-christ vs. Bryan on November 3; Pi Phi vs. Broward on November 8; Alpha Delta Pi vs. Alpha Gam-ma Delta on November 3; Alpha Omicron Pi vs. the Dining-room girls on October 30; Delta Phi Ep-silon vs. Alpha Xi Delta on Oc-tober 30; Episcopal vs. Kappa Al-pha Theta on October 30; Kappa Delta vs. Esteren on November 3; Theta Upsilon vs. Bye on Novem-ber 4; Reynolds vs. Bye on No-vember 4; Delta Delta vs. Bye No-vember 10; and Sophomore Coun-sel vs. Bye on November 5.

The basketball schedule is as follows: Reynolds vs. Delta Zeta November 2; Phi Mu vs. Broward November 3; Chi Omega vs. Alpha Omicron Pi on November 5; Alpha Chi Omega vs. Alpha Delta Pi on November 6; Tri Delta vs. Bryan on November 3; Kappa Alpha Theta vs. Zeta Tau Alpha on No-vember 8; Alpha Xi Delta vs. Al-pha Gamma Delta November 3; Episcopal vs. the Dining-room girls November 5; Spirogira vs. Presbyterian November 2; Jen-nie Murphree vs. Bye November 10; Gilchrist vs. Bye November 3; Kappa Delta vs. Bye November 8; Pi Phi vs. Bye on November 13; Delta Phi Epsilon vs. Bye Novem-ber 12; Theta Upsilon vs Bye No-vember 3; and Catholic Newman vs. Sophomore Counsel November 8.

This year's sports managers are: Kappa Delta, Erma Engel; Pi Beta Phi, Janet Jevett and Martha Robbins; Episcopal, Betty White; Delta Zeta, Martha Moore; Alpha Xi Delta, Frances Fryer; Delta Phi Epsilon, Geral-dine Rossenburg; Gilchrist, Jean Bitner; Zeta Tau Alpha, Frances Waterhouse; Kappa Alpha Theta, Kitty Craney; Alpha Delta Pi, Betty Scott; Newman club, Yvonne Marchesseau; Spirogira, Sarah Lytle; Alpha Chi Omega, Katherine Kyle; Chi Omega, Louise Brown; Tri Delta, Jean Gillies; Phi Mu, Fair Milteer; Theta Upsilon, Valerie Hunt; Broward, Ruth Wilson; Bryan, Mary Nichols; Jennie Murphree, Louise Gehan; Reynolds, Betty Ostland; Alpha Omicron Pi, Betty Bary; and Presidents, Dot Mar-wick.

Organizations that have already been out for practice are Tri Delta for basketball and Theta Upsilon for volleyball

Army Holds Top Archery Score

Army is leading in the archery tournament being held by the archery classes in physical educa-tion which have given themselves the names of colleges. Yale is second in the latest scoring.

Many arrows have been broken as the enthusiasm and competi-tive spirit run high as the five teams battle it out with bull-eyes. Miss Ray Frazer, referee, reports that in spite of the drop in scores this week since the girls have been moved from thirty to forty yards from the target, the teams are all intensely interested in the com-petition.

The scores so far for those en-tered in the tournament are: Army 65 hits, score 337; Yale 60 hits, score 269; Princeton 58 hits, score 244; Harvard 41 hits, score 207; Navy 42 hits, score 180.

Rowan to Initiate 50 Into Camp Life

Miss Ida Rowan, director of Reynolds hall, will take fifty freshmen who have never spent a week-end at Camp Flastacowo to the college camp this week-end. Assistant chaperons for the group will be Sara Rutledge, Lois Bow-en and Frances Lewis, floor chair-men in Reynolds. The group will leave for camp Friday afternoon at five o'clock and will return to campus Saturday morning at six o'clock. They will use the old cottage while at camp.

The party was planned so that the freshmen might have a chance to see camp life.

First Faculty Recital To Be Given Next Week

The first of a series of faculty recitals to be given this season will be presented next Friday eve-ning, Nov. 6, at 7:45 o'clock in the college auditorium by Miss Mar-garet Dow, organist.

Later in the month a piano re-cital will be given by Miss Ester Winslow, assisted by Miss Gladys Koch, soprano. Both are mem-bers of the college music faculty.

Extra Curricular Dancing Arranged

An extra curricular modern dance class, under the direction of Betty Ostlund was organized Wed-nesday.

Among the girls enrolled in the first class are Ruth Hinkley, Jancy Rigby, Betty Barthold, Ouida Martin, Connie Ash, Mary Lillian McDonald, Frances Moss, Ruth Irvine, Gene Drum, Falvil Townsend, Gertrude Prows, Jane Fields, Nell Martin, Louise Pour-cey, Virginia Newborn, Virginia Howes, Charlotte Rawls, Janice Wheatley, Betty Ann Graham, and Lucy Grant.

The class will meet every Wed-nesday at 4:30 in the big gym-nasium. Those who were not pres-ent at the first lesson may enroll this Wednesday.

Grievances Fill Campus Classrooms

Fellow Classmates Are Most Common Causes Of Complaints

By FRANCES BRUNSON

"Oh, pardon me!" And after hearing this you turn around, smile sweetly, and none too gent-ly brush the mud spots that your fresh white linen skirt acquired when the girl sitting behind you happened to think the back of your chair would be a nice place for her feet.

Classrooms on campus are filled with such grievances. Scarcely a recitation, laboratory period or lecture passes without something happening that makes you want to pull your hair in despair. And all you can do is grin and bear it —and gripe!

Fellow classmates are the most common caoee of complaint. There is the student who always grabs the seat directly in front of the teacher and sits there goggle-eyed all period, apparently taking in every word that is said. The rest of the class, however, eying her disgustedly, knows that she doesn't hear anything that is go-ing on, but instead is thinking about what a wonderful impres-sion she must be making on the teacher and wondering if she has the right expression in her eyes. She's the kind, who, when her name is called during roll call, al-ways pauses a moment and then, in an affected purring voice, drawls "present." Of course ev-eryone else says "here."

Those who never fail to annoy are the ones who persist in asking you, in the midst of a lecture, what the teacher just said. Others have a habit of stumbling all over your feet in an effort to reach their place.

The songsters, the pencil tap-pers, the "know-it-alls," the ex-pert gum poppers, and paper bor-rowers cannot be escaped. They haunt every classroom.

One girl, when asked what par-ticularly gripeo her, responded that being rudely awakened out of a delightful slumber to be called on really got on her nerves.

But, the last word in classroom annoyances is the teacher who continues her lecture five minutes after the bell has rung!

Spanish Spoken Most on Campus

Next to "pig-latin," Spanish is the language most often spoken by the bi-linquists on campus. Italian runs a close second with French third, and German and Japanese rather in the minority.

Students who have heard Span-ish in their homes are: Marina Lastra, who has spent two years in northwestern Spain perfecting her knowledge of the language; Laura Doub, who comes from Panama; Jane and Virginia Schrieber, from Cuba; Mary Rod-riguez; Mercedes Oarrida; Alicia Sierra; Josephine Lazzara; and Norma Rodrigues all of whom have learned Spanish from their parents.

Students who have learned Ital-ian by hearing it spoken in their homes are: Mamie Messina, Josephine Lazzara, Angie Fruscia, Millie Randazzo, Marie Castel-leno and Annie Maggio.

The one student speaking fluent French on campus is Marthe Thomas, exchange-student from Algiers. Louise Ohi speaks Japa-nese, which she learned in her home in Japan, and Annie Jen-nings speaks German, which she too has heard spoken all her life.

Many of these bi-linquists are continuing the study of their re-spective languages in college courses this year.

Angling is believed the most popular sport in America. It is said that 12,000,000 persons in the country engage in the pastime, al-though only 5,000,000 obtain fish-ing licenses each year

Outing Trips Are Arranged

Excursions Will Be Made To Nearby Places By Students

The Outing club is planning trips to Wakulla Springs, Natural Bridge, sight-seeing excursions in Tallahassee, bicycling and fish-ing trips to Carrabelle for all those students interested, Felicia West, president, has announced.

There will be groups going at various times to historical Wa-kulla Springs. This trip will cost approximately seventy-five cents. This will include transportation, swimming, a ride in the glass-bottom boats, and the jungle trip.

Another trip being planned is the fishing trip to Carrabelle. This party will leave Saturday noon and will return late Satur-day night. The cost will be ap-proximately a dollar and eighty-five cents. This will include transportation to and from Car-rabelle. At Carrabelle the party will have a boat for their use dur-ing the day. There will be fish-ing in the Gulf, swimming at Dog Island, crabbing, supper on board the boat, and floundering.

Besides these two trips there will be sightseeing excursions in Tallahassee. The home of the "Tallahassee Girl," Prince and Princess Murat's Grave, the state buildings, the Governor's man-sion, and other places of interest will be visited at different times.

The Outing club will also spon-sor numerous bicycling parties. The cost of renting the bicycles is fifteen cents an hour or fifty cents a day.

There will be spaces on the bulletin boards to sign for any of these trips. Those interested will sign and plans will then be made for the time of the diffent trips. Those interested in any other trips may also sign.

Information about the Outing club may be gotten from the president, Felicia West, Winona Ireland, senior athletic manager, or Miss Eunice Hurd, faculty ad-visor.

McKay Writes Her Idea Of Good Sports

Page to Print Students' Explanations About Sportsmanship

Each week a statement will appear on the sports page by a prominent member of the student body on "Sportsmanship." This week Mary Jeanne McKay, presi-dent of College Government as-sociation, begins the series with her definition of sportsmanship.

"To define good sportsmanship seems rather a waste of time, as everyone understands the term and recognises its quality. Yet, perhaps the subject needs to have something definite said about it, in the interests of increasing its use.

"To use a popular expression of the day, sportsmanship means the ability to 'take it.' We usually refer to sportsmanship in connec-tion with athletic contests, as in-deed is proper since in those con-tests are so many opportunities—even necessities—for its applica-tion. But it is valuable in other places and situaions, too. In any instance, good sportsmanship means taking brickbats and bou-quets without increasing or shrinking in cranial circumfer-ence. It means the ability to for-get self-injustice in consideration of the progress of the whale.

"In order to be a good sport, one must have perspective, a sense of humor, and a love of the truth. To use less abstract terms, it supplies the stable influence needed to survive sudden rises and falls in personal popularity, to lessen the temptation to alibi, to avoid continual griping, to accept the frank truth, to see the funny side of oneself, and to avoid quitting when it appears the out-come may not be personally fa-vorable.

"All this makes it seem a rigor-ous and spartan virtue, uninviting to try. But it evidently isn't un-inviting, for somehow, really good sports always seem to have more fun than anyone else."

Greer Teaches Tapping Class

200 Students Enroll For Extra-Curricular Dance Group

At least two hundred girls have enrolled in the extra-curricular tap dancing class taught by El-len Greer, student here. The class meets every Thursday at 4:30 in the big gym.

The class is for beginners and everyone is invited to come. Ellen hopes by the end of the year to have given each person a founda-tion in all kinds of tap dancing. Straight tap, soft shoe, waltz clog, eccentric, and buck and wing are among those types of tap dancing that will be offered.

If the class is qualified before the end of the year, Ellen plans to have a dance exhibition. Ellen will give each person individual attention as well as instruct the class as a whole. The only re-quisite for class membership is a pair of low-heeled shoes and a willingness to learn.

391 Students Earn Part Of Expenses Here; NYA Employs Largest Number

One student out of every four helps earn her expenses at Flor-ida State college this year. Three hundred ninety-one students out of the total 1,762 enrolled are en-gaged in some kind of work.

The National Youth Adminis-tration with 188 student jobs is the biggest source of employment with a payroll of $25,065 yearly.

Next largest means of student employment is in the college din-ing room, where ninety-one stu-dents earn their board and room which is equivalent to $200 a year.

Fifteen students this year are working in tea rooms near the campus where they earn their meals. Sixty are employed as col-lege assistants, and forty do mis-cellaneous work which includes commission jobs with local busi-ness firms.

Cheer Leaders Elected

The freshmen elected their class cheer-leaders for the year at their regular class meeting in the auditorium yesterday. Chosen at this time were June Quina, Pen-sacola, and Katherine Rawls, Ft. Lauderdale.

Florida Team Earns Victory

Local High School Wins Over Monticello

A fighting Florida high football team scored three touchdowns against the Tigers from Monti-cello and walked off the field with a well-earned victory. Only once did the Monticello team threaten and that was in the first quarter when they drove down to the four yard line of the winners, only to lose the ball on downs. Kicking from behind his goal line, Linzy got off a beautiful boot that trav-eled out to the forty yard line, and the first and only threat of the visitors was stopped.

The game, which was played on College field, had hardly begun before the Florida high team had driven down to the seventeen yard line of the enemy. Here Linzy hurled a high pass to Reeves, left end of the home team, who made a beautiful catch as he went over the goal line for the first marker of the game.

A series of end runs and line plunges featuring Keel, fullback, and Skipper, halfback, paved the way for the second touchdown shortly before the half ended. Smith, center, and Well, end, were blocking well, to make the gains possible. Lee, end, gathered in a pass in this march to help the cause. Aside from his catching ability, Lee was probably the out-standing man on defense on the field all afternoon, constantly rushing the Monticello backs on passes and plays into the line.

The third touchdown came late in the game with Skipper going around end for seven yards and the final scoring dash.

Florida high will play their next game here on College Field on November 6.

Last Class Of Short Course To Be Tonight

The third and last class in the study of basketball rules offered for the benefit of students who wish to qualify as national of-ficials will be held tonight in the gym. Other classes in this spe-cial short course were held Wed-nesday and Thursday nights.

The class tonight will be con-ducted by Miss Grace I. Fox who will discuss the general handling of the game and the duties of the umpire. At this time students will take trial tests covering the rules explained during the course.

Wednesday night the class was conducted by Miss Ray Fraser who discussed violations of rules. Following this, various situations were described and the class made decisions as to whether or not the plays were legal.

Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson took charge of the class last night in a discussion of personal and technical fouls.

A theoretical test on the course will be given November 4, and will comprise the first part of the ex-amination which is required in order to qualify as a national bas-ketball official.

The second part of the exami-nation will be practical, and will consist of actually officiating for the intramural games. Three sideline judges will watch the of-ficiating during these games and will grade the students eligible for the test according to their knowl-edge of rules and of the require-ments of a referee. A grade of at least 85 is required for each part of the examination.

Members of the Tallahassee board of the National Official Rating committee include Miss Grace I. Fox, Miss Ray Fraser, Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, Mar-ion Weeks, Frances Thill, and Sara Hethcox.

This board was recently formed for the purpose of cooperating in the national program of further-ing the best interests of sports for women by sponsoring the use of women officials.

For Digestion's Sake . . . Smoke Camels

MENTAL EFFORT TOO—especially long hours of study—builds up tension and puts an extra strain on diges-tion. When you're tired, get an invigorating "lift" with a Camel. And at mealtimes and after, "for digestion's sake . . . smoke Camels." Camels set you right!

Smoking Camels with meals and after helps bring a delightful sense of well-being EATING is one of life's real plea-sures. And Camels make it even more enjoyable! Thanks to Camels, food tastes better and digestion goes along more smoothly. For it is a scien-tifically established fact that smoking Camels at mealtime and after speeds up the flow of digestive fluids...alka-line digestive fluids, which good di-gestion and proper nutrition require.

Mild, rich-tasting Camels are a refreshing stand-by the whole day through. They give you a cheery "lift" when you need it most. Camels set you right! They never get on your nerves . . . tire your taste . . . or irritate your throat. So, make Camel your cigarette!

LESTER STOEFEN, tennis champion whose smashing service goes at the amazing speed of 131 miles an hour. He prefers Camels. "An athlete has to have good digestion," says Lester. "I smoke a lot during meals and after. Camels make food taste better and digest easier."

"TALK ABOUT A GRAND FEELING," reports Sydney Jones, expert electrician. "The best part of my meals is when I loll back and have another Camel. Camels always set me right...calm me down... make my food taste better and help my digestion. Camels never jangle my nerves."

AT THE WORLD-FAMOUS "COCOANUT GROVE" IN LOS ANGELES. This famous restaurant of the Ambassador Hotel is a center for dining de luxe. The scintillating stars of stage and screen...the vivid personalities of Southern California's gay society parade by...familiar famous faces everywhere. It is life in its happiest mood. Camels are first choice at the Cocoanut Grove, as they are in famous eating places from coast to coast. Jimmy, the well-known maître d'hôtel of the Cocoanut Grove, says: "People who are good judges of food are equally discriminating in their choice of a cigarette. Here they all seem to smoke Camels."

HOLLYWOOD RADIO TREAT!

Camel Cigarettes bring you a FULL HOUR'S ENTER-TAINMENT! Benny Good-man's "Swing" Band...Geo. Stoll's Concert Orchestra... Hollywood Guest Stars... and Rupert Hughes presides! Tuesday—9:30 p m E. S. T., 8:30 p m C. S. T., 7:30 p m M.S.T., 6:30 p m P. S. T., over WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MAZIE BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
MARY ELIZABETH HOWARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN PIERCE ..... News Editor

1936 Member 1937
Associated Collegiate Press

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
CHICAGO BOSTON LOS ANGELES SAN FRANCISCO
PORTLAND SEATTLE

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glasser; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Features, Arline Grey Lockhart and Anne Quinlan Lindsey; Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Sessler; Outside News, Martha Baker; Society, Margaret Gaither Lafferty and Mildred Agnew; Assistant; Special Reporting, Alice Lockhart; Sports, Kim Virginia Rhodes and Bliss Fraser Wyman; Mary Alice Mason, Jane Gallomore, Ann Hall, Ann Lee Hall, Ann Lee Hall.

REPORTERS: Enid Adams, Ruth Barnes, Dorothy Barnes, Barnes Barnett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Bowden, Claire Clemons, Clemons, Honor Coleman, Virginia Davis, Hazel Dodson, Mary Ellen Dunn, Mary Ellen Dunn, Margaret Gaither, Ruth Hannah, Lenna Kay, Betty Lee Ingraham, Lucy Kaye, Anne Ladd, Betty Lasky, Alma Lee Lewis, Mary Frances Lewis, Mary Frances Lewis, Alma Morrison, Mary Stuart Moseley, Annette Perlish, Janet Pierce, Marcia Pinkerton, Nancy Ann Pierce, Janet Lewis, Elizabeth Rhodes, Mary Sullivan, Alice Walters, Frances Westerhouse.

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE MCGUIRE ..... Business Manager
JANE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
NAN GENAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Ad. Manager
MARGARET BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30 1925 at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

We Address
New Students Again

Now that the organizations party has provided you with the opportunity of seeing what our campus has in the way of societies and clubs it is certain that many of you will make application for membership in one or more of these groups very soon.

It is desirable that you should do this but it is even more desirable that you should use common sense in making your decision.

Your decision must necessarily be determined by your interests. For instance, you will choose to join the astronomy club if you are interested in the mysteries of the universe. But if you are interested in international affairs the International Relations club is the group you should select.

Secondly, you must decide how many groups you wish to enter, and here is the critical point in your decision. How many extra-curricular responsibilities are you going to take upon yourself? Are you going to be able to carry all these activities in addition to your class work? Are you going to do one or two things well or are you going to do several poorly?

Many seniors will tell you what it means in the last year of college to be free to do at least one job well. They are the students who hold membership in four or five organizations, offices many more than that, and do not have time even to attend all the meetings. They can scarcely be expected under the circumstances to take an active part in all these clubs and in the end become a retarding force on the programs of procedure which should characterize any worthwhile society.

It is wise, therefore, that although every freshman should affiliate herself with some group for the pursuance of extra curricular activities she should be impressed with the fact that it is foolish to form too many affiliations without due consideration of how much individual effort they will ultimately require.

Here's Our Chance
For National Reform

We call to the attention of those students at Florida State who are interested in "Peace of the evils of the "pseudo system" the fact that they may now actively take part in trying to destroy this system and replace it with a merits system.

The National Civil Service Reform league in the No ember issue of Scribner's magazine announces its drive for new members. By increasing its membership from the present 5,000 to 100,000 the league hopes to have a constitutional amendment proposed and adopted within the next two years.

The suggested amendment reads as follows:

"Appointments and promotions in the civil services of the United States shall be made according to merit and fitness to be ascertained, so far as practicable, by examination, which, so far as practicable, shall be competitive."

Lobbying for such an amendment is indeed we feel a just act. Abraham Lincoln long ago said, "If this government itself is ever utterly demoralized, it will come from its general inane human wriggle and struggle for office." Surely no student at Florida State is ignorant of the thousands of dollars wasted on graft each year to secure government jobs often untrained and inefficient persons. Why a people of a theoretically democratic nation can allow such unequal opportunities to persist we do not know unless it be through ignorance, fear, or indifference.

Certainly, college students who are interested in governmental positions but who have no "strings to pull" in Washington will vigorously support this civil service reform. And the student with any "social conscience" at all wants to see positions and promotions given on the basis of merit and merit alone, in public service as well as any other field of work.

By making a financial contribution to this league any person may become a member. After a membership of 100,000 has been reached, the league's council will ask each individual member to obtain fifty names on a petition in favor of the suggested amendment. The petition with the suggested amendment will then be brought up before congress at the next session.

Herein undoubtedly lies an opportunity for the Florida State student to participate in a national reform which will not only effect the future of her national government but also the future of, perhaps, her own financial status or that of her immediate family.

Guest Editorial

Government Of, By
And For The People

Universities all over the country are faced year after year with the problem of one or another form of an honor system, and these same universities now are each in a different stage a success. The stage depends chiefly upon the attitude of the student body toward that system.

Every year in a government of such continuous change of citizenry, new blood goes into the government, new minds work on the problems, and new heads do the drudgery. Yet we are continuously faced with the same government with relentless criticism of the new officials and the new systems, regardless of the year.

We are supposed to be the cream of American youth, in an institution of higher learning for the purpose of developing one intellects We elect each year our leaders of our own free will and choice. We have the right to tell them of our representatives what we want and expect in our government. But we do not do it and when they legislate according to their own lights we condemn them.

We have a lapping system in our class rooms with which by the lap of a pencil we ask a girl to report herself if she has been cheating. But we don't tap. Instead we condemn the system.

No government can run with only officials any more than a club can function with only a president. It is the people who make the government and they make it for their own protection. However on the programs of procedure which should characterize any worthwhile society.

It is wise, therefore, that although every freshman should affiliate herself with some group for the pursuance of extra curricular activities she should be impressed with the fact that it is foolish to form too many affiliations without due consideration of how much individual effort they will ultimately require.

—By Martha Baker.

Do You Know
Your Electors?

For the information of those students who will go to the polls next Tuesday for the first time, we print the first part n fa sample ballot containing the names of the presidential electors of the state of Florida. The first seven names are the electors of the Democratic candidate and the last seven names are the electors of the republican candidate.

Students are reminded that they must vote for all seven of the democratic electors or all seven of the republican electors.

FRED P. ANDREWS
W. P. "BILL" ARNOLD
ERLE B. ASKEW
MRS. CHARLES M. DORMAN
WALLACE N. KEITH
LLOYD Z. MORGAN
J. J. PARRISH, JR.
FRED S. ABRAHAM
EMORY AKERMAN
C. H. ALEXANDER
J. EVERETT ALLEN
HERBERT L. ANDERSON
MARY DUPP ARMFIELD
C. C. AUSMERMAN

Cartoon of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

This Week

TWO PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES MAKE LAST VOTING BID

As Race Rounds Corner Roosevelt and Landon Return East To Ask For New York and Pennsylvania Electoral Support

As the presidential race rounds the last turn this week the two leaders have returned to the east to make bids for the final stake—the eighty-three electoral votes of New York and Pennsylvania. At Bedtor Island, Wednesday, Roosevelt pledged the United States to freedom and peace while redeclaring the Statue of Liberty on its fiftieth anniversary. Thursday, he addressed the mine workers at Kline-Boro in Pennsylvania on the rights of labor. His remaining speeches will be made in his home state.

Landon is concentrating on the Quaker state. Speaking in Philadelphia this week, he accused the administration of extravagance and unprudent spending of public money for political purposes. He pointed out that the money must come from the pockets of the "little fellow." His last day will include a talk at Pittsburgh on the spoils system.

* * * * *

An outstanding feature of our presidential campaign is the impressive array of statistics. It is estimated that Roosevelt has covered 8,000 miles to date and has been seen by 3,000,000 people. As a personal appearance artist, therefore, he has been much more successful than his rival who has traveled 13,500 miles and been seen by only 1,250,000 people. Roosevelt, however, has conducted a hot campaign in the most populous section of the country and has done a great deal of automobile traveling. Landon has relied entirely on trains where visibility is poor, and on his western trip he covered many miles of wide open spaces.

* * * * *

Interesting items of the campaign are the results of the public opinion polls conducted by our national and local newspapers and magazines. The polls disagree as much as the personal predictions of voters. Here are the percentage of the major party votes: Literary Digest gives 42.8 for Roosevelt, 57.4 for Landon; American Institute of Public Opinion, 54.0 for Roosevelt, 46.0 for Landon; Fortune, 61.0 for Roosevelt, 39.0 for Landon; Crossley, 53.0 for Roosevelt, 48.0 for Landon; Farm Journal, 43.9 for Roosevelt, 57.0 for Landon. These figures are calculated by crediting sample votes to a supposedly representative group of people without the nation. Nov. 3 will tell which poll has been the most accurate.

* * * * *

Latest developments in the

Continued on page Five

University Editorials . . . . .

Florida State College for Women holds no unique position in the university world insofar as her honor system worries are concerned. Just as a balanced budget is a university governmental problem, a balanced honor system is a universal university problem.

The Blue Stocking offers an editorial this week that does not come from the pen of one of our own writers:

Last year the local chapter of Blue Key, national honor fraternity, passed a resolution stating that members of the Presbyterian College chapter had every definite need for a workable honor system and further provided that members of the chapter pledge themselves not to cheat and to report any member of Blue Key seen cheating. It was the purpose of Blue Key members to begin a campaign whose workings would be slow, yet whose purpose would be the ultimate erasing or diminishing of cheating at the college.

That as just after the publication of letters concerning the cheating scandals of the University of North Carolina and of our own state university colleges, and universities throughout the nation paused in studying and playmaking to scrutinize their own systems and to find them wanting, a handful of them found they had an honor system worth whereby the student council had the honor and the student body the system. P. C. found that it had such a system.

For one or two men feeling the hypocrisy of the system to attempt to turn up men seen cheating although every member of the student body had pledged himself to do just that, would be the aberrant folly. We do not and have not advocated it. It would be a noble effort, but the man or men might just as well leave school. Yet for some members of the student body the ideal of honor is revealed in a school operating under the honor system, whose chief principle is that it is the duty of each student to report infractions to the council and then feel t at that system is operating only in the minds of dreamers of a Utopia, is difficult.

Last year, when the eyes of collegians throughout the country were on the honor system, The Blue Stocking stated that the only alternatives in P. C.'s case were to keep the whole thing over to the faculty, to appoint student monitors, or to put teeth into the present system. We still hold, now that the flurry has passed, that these are the only alternatives. Either we have the honor system or we don't. At present we don't. That the honor system will work has been proved at Virginia and M. I. yet it also has been proved, as in the case of P. C. that it will not work unless something is done to make it work.

Blue Key last year took the first step toward building up campus approval. Whether or not other organizations will have the progressive determination to follow Blue Key and create honor where now only system exists will be with the organizations.

* * *

The Johnson offers us another statement just as applicable:

When we ask for a privilege the question often arises: Does Washington favor individual/ student government, or does it have government by a board?

Too many students are unwilling to assume responsibility for enforcing the rules and regulations like board member and her room mate observe the rules. The students next door to a board member may observe the regulations. The girls down the hall

Continued on Page Five

Collegiate Comebacks

With the approach of quarterlies, despite the advice of psychologists, our suggestion to all who would be in the sixteen-cuts' group is "Cram, sister, Cram!"

* * * * *

Everyone seems too, too annoyed about table manners in general, and those of the freshmen in particular. If you ask us—and, of course, you won't—it's just another case of much ado about nothing. Em Post may be approv of gesticulating with the silver, but then Em has probably never had to wait twenty minutes on dessert. Em doesn't go raving from the table before everyone else is finished, but did she ever have anything as weighty on her mind as a reserve book that had to be taken out right away, too? Playing pig might flouw Em, but she'd probably be just as shocked if some of our better manners fell astray at the table while awaiting food. Which makes us hope the stiffnecks will continue to choke on bread crumbs and let us live in peace.

* * * * *

Iowa State Student pines:

I am so lonely when you're gone.
It leaves me in despair:
But don't be so conceited—
It's the same when you are there.

From the Carolinian, we learn that the conduct course taught at the University of West Virginia, is not intended to teach self-control. Maybe it's just as well; you'd have missed your boy friend if he were so far away from home, even if he does need that course to complete his education.

* * * * *

In examining 40,000 college students, the medical faculty at the University of Minnesota found that college men and women are on the average taller than those who do not attend an institution of higher learning. No wonder! Non-collegians have to spend the major portion of their lives standing in lines, as we do.

* * * * *

Warns the New Mexican:
Men, beware of her who glitters;
Remember: all's not youth that litters.

The Brown and White points out that bartenders interviewed by Union College students learned the fact the students of today are not what they used to be. Drinks can only be had for twelve beers, whereas in the good old days they could down eighteen with a single bumper. But a couple of our sorority sisters could put bartenders' hearts good with their capacity.

* * * * *

Hopi Indians, reports the Rocky Mountain Collegian, believe that something should be done towards getting the white man. Seeing Arizona co-eds labor in excavation while taking an archaeology course, they appealed to the authorities to transport the white man's women. They'd intercede thereafter, we imagine, if they could see us struggling over calculus.

* * * * *

The elephant was writhing mad:
It really did have the pretest twist;
"I've got the hives," it cried,
"Where is the pachydermatologist?"
—Tennessee Mabra

According to the Junior Collegian fifty co-eds at the University of Pennsylvania are taking a course in carpentry that will enable them to qualify for handiwork about the house, such as hammering, sawing, and chiseling. We don't need that course; Dad says we're already expert chuselers.

* * * * *

The Bull Dog waxes poetic:

It takes two to make a quarrel—
We're often told of this;
But remember, too, it takes
Two, too, to make a kiss.

We choose the following for the best crack of the week: "She's not my best girl—just necks best."

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed herein are those of the writer or writers and are not necessarily those of the staff. Letters are welcomed to contribute to "Pro and Con."

WATCH YOURSELVES, FRESHMEN!

The main topic of discussion at present seems to be the hardly satisfactory conduct of students (all students) in the dining room. Very significant was the letter written by Dr. Sharon Upperclassmen?". It was true too, except that the freshmen should take another attitude towards the situation.

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do" is still accepted as a good rule to hold true if the Romans do not do the right things. There are upperclassmen who do not realize their obligation to be examples to lower students, and it is unfortunate that the others must suffer as a consequence. But here is the point—which group have you decided to imitate? You will answer, "The one we come in contact with." But, are you going to let it go at that? You are expected to be examples. Part of intelligibility and good sense, besides having wills of your own, this decision is as much your responsibility as it is a sense.

If you remember, Dean Brown advised us to "look up." That is a very good plan, no matter what you are looking at. Look for the best and you will usually find it—sometimes in surprising places! In short, don't imitate the unfavorable things that you see date, substitute what you think is right for it, and you will be the leaders in the betterment of campus conditions. Save your "followine" for the people who are worthy to be followed. Don't lower your ideals for anybody!

Signed: Marie Johns

Magazine Jottings

BY SARAH SEALEY
AND
SARAH BETH DAVIS

"Art In The Soviet Strait-Jacket"
By William Henry Chamberlin

It appears that the Soviet Union is, and for some years has been, stamping out all possibilities for creative art arising within its boundaries. For instance, Soviet writers are subjected to severe censorship and are sometimes arrested and sent to notorious concentration camps. Above all critics and censors stand Stalin himself, who has devised and enforced a formula of "socialist realism" for Russian writers. The writers, by applying "socialist realism" to their work, must endeavor to create literature of high artistic significance, saturated with the heroic struggle of the international proletariat, the grandeur of the victory of socialism, and the great wisdom and heroism of the Communist Party.

"Try to imagine," says Mr Chamberlin in the article in the November Asia "how Shakespeare or Flaubert, or Goethe or Pushkin or any other universal genius would fit into this particular strait-jacket."

It is debatable, the author asserts, whether the Soviet regime has taught the Russian masses to think as well as it has taught them to read and write. Thus, he writes from the standpoint of the individual creative thinker or artist in contrast to Anna Louise Strona's article in the May issue of Asia which described the spread of literacy, education and cultural interests among the Soviet workers and peasants. (S. J)

* * * *

Roosevelt and His Fellow Travelers
By Max Lerner

"We are living today on the thin edge of history," says Max Lerner in the current issue of Nation, as he analyzes the position of the progressives with regard to the presidential election.

A "fellow-traveler," from its Russian origin is someone who does not accept all your aims but who has enough in common with you to go along the way with you. Among these fellow travelers include Coughlin, Al Smith, Townsend Plan, duPont, Hearst, and Lemke; Roosevelt fellow-travelers are the farmer and the progressive labor. Labor sees in his re-election its best immediate chance for protecting its organization and improving the general working set-up.

Mr. Lerner sees in the election a division of forces according to sections, not sections. Only the farm vote and the lower middle classes are split, he says. (S. B.)

Continued on page Five

SMOKE IS LIFTED

Nicotine Facts Are Revealed by Laboratory Experiments Conducted on Cigarettes

By Arline Gray Lockhart

Gay colors, beautiful girls, handsome men and picturesque background combine to inform the world that "it's toasted; they satisfy; they give you a lift, and digestion mild; steady nerves; they're milder." What a glorious picture of temptation are cigarette advertisements! What a wealth of material it used to entice the smoker to buy this or that particular brand and to lure the non-smoker to indulge in that pleasure immediately.

To the casual observer the girls on the campus this year seem to be about equally divided into smokers and non-smokers. From general data however, the observer would probably have ranked the majority of the girls in the former class, but the three successful campaigns seem to have brought an influx of students who do not indulge in the habit at present. The observer may ascertain then that there has been a general gain from of about 25 per cent each fall from the year before in the percentage of smokers entering college.

Since this is a state college of approximately 1,500 students it may be considered a fairly representative group to study with regard to the agent of seventeen to twenty-two. Might not this general tendency to smoking among the new recruits indicate perhaps, a forward toward a period to be labeled again "No Nice Girl Smokes"?

There are the statistics of the student body, however, upon which to base such a prophecy on the edge of the matter. It would be interesting to note if the freshmen should take another attitude towards the situation.

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do" is still accepted as a good rule to hold true if the Romans do not do the right things. There are upperclassmen who do not realize their obligation to be examples to lower students, and it is unfortunate that the others must suffer as a consequence. But here is the point—which group have you decided to imitate? You will answer, "The one we come in contact with." But, are you going to let it go at that? You are expected to be examples. Part of intelligibility and good sense, besides having wills of your own, this decision is as much your responsibility as it is a sense.

If you remember, Dean Brown advised us to "look up." That is a very good plan, no matter what you are looking at. Look for the best and you will usually find it—sometimes in surprising places! In short, don't imitate the unfavorable things that you see date, substitute what you think is right for it, and you will be the leaders in the betterment of campus conditions. Save your "followine" for the people who are worthy to be followed. Don't lower your ideals for anybody!

Signed: Marie Johns

Continued on page Five

Church Groups Are Assisting With Program

eligious Emphasis Week Brought to Student Attention Here

ctivities for student church oups were temporarily suspend- this week in order that stu- nts might devote full time to e campus meetings being held bservance of Religious Empha- week.

tudent secretaries of the Epis- pal, Methodist, Presbyterian, d Baptist groups announced at activities will be resumed as ual following the week of re- ious programs on campus.

The second issue of the publi- ion of the Prambrya's stu- ent league was pub lished last turday by the state members. The per, unnamed as yet, will be inted every two weeks and will ontain items of local interest as well as news of the group activi- ies. Results of the contest to de- gin a name for the publication ill be announced shortly by Sara ethcox and Mary Ensign.

Members of the staff are Mary nsign, editor; Sara Bethcox, ssistant editor; Beth Johnson, business manager; Ruth Finch, assistant manager; Harriet Duke, business manager; Dot Karwick, assistant usiness manager; Mary Neel, cir- ulation manager; Lorraine Gyles, ssistant circulation manager; etty Russell, news editor; Pal ampbell and Mildred Daniels, as- istant news editors; Mary Lou uncan, art editor.

Over two hundred students rom Stetson, Rollins, Lakeland; rinceton university, Deland; Flor- da State College for Women, and he University of Florida, attended he annual Florida Baptist Stu- ent Union convention at Daland- ille last week-end. Herbert S. orsyer of the University of Flor- da was named president for the ext convention at the election of fficers held this morning.

Officers for last week's convention, elected last year at Stetson were: Jimmy Bryant, University of Florida, president; Bernice olfarr, Florida State College for- inley Edge, Stetson, fellowship hairman; Sara Rutledge, devo- ional chairman; Nora Yon, ublicity chairman; Mitchell Sea- ord, University of Florida, statisti- al chairman; Willie Faye Moon- yman, Southern college, stew- rdship chairman. Forty-three Baptist students from here attend- ed the meeting.

Thirty Methodist students from the University of Florida met here with members of the Tallahassee student union last week for a series of conferences and religious discussions. Tallahassee Methodists were hostesses to the group at a banquet Saturday night in the lower dining room.

Smoke Is Lifted

Continued from page four

higher level. Thus the idea spread throughout the nation.

Smoking was not a new thing for women brought about by the post-war period. Tobacco was introduced from the New World in the middle of the sixteenth century. Its chief ingredient, nicotine, was named after Jean Nicot, French ambassador to the court of Spain. He gave some tobacco to Catherine d'Medici who became a great addict. A number of famous women have been smokers since that time. In the little town of Ecclefechan, Thomas Carlyle's mother, it is said, learned to smoke a pipe when an old woman had so she could sit smoking with her son before the fire and hear him talk. Amy Lowell smoked long black cigars.

The cigarette, probably invented in Spain, is, nevertheless, a comparatively new use of tobacco and there is still much dispute among physiologists as to its effect on the human body. It is this reason no doubt which accounts for some girls smoking an unorthodox amount with no thought of the harm that might be done to themselves, while other girls shy away from cigarettes completely for fear of the damage they do.

In the twenties women smoked generally because it was thought the smart thing to do. But a cigarette is no longer a synonymn for sophistication as your reporter went questioning among the smokers seeking an answer to "Why do you smoke?" Three were given: (1) Thoroughly enjoy smoking; (2) Just a habit; (3) Something to do. The majority asked, gave the first reply.

To throw a little light on the pro and con of the smoking question, your scribe secured the following information which it is hoped will set the uneasy smoker's mind at ease.

Dr. Emil Boson, pathologist, of the Olive View Sanitarium in California, says give a man sixty milligrams of nicotine and he will probably die. One cigarette may contain twenty milligrams of nicotine, so that three cigarettes would be a fatal dose. But the fact that most of the nicotine is destroyed by heat before it reaches a smoker's lips.

The main result of cigaute is how much nicotine gets into the smoker's system. The quantity varies in the nicotine found. Dr. Walter Bastedo, of New York, and other physiologists, chemists and physicians, thinks that the three milligrams of nicotine per cigarette, given off in smoking, two cellogenes is not far wrong. In that case, only a few milligrams of nicotine would be gained by the smoking of twenty cigarettes. In the article according to Fortune, the cigars and cigarettes consumed in the United States alone annually fill their smokers' lungs with enough nicotine to kill all the men in the population of the earth. This statement does not take into account because the rate of elimination of nicotine from a system is sufficiently rapid to keep a deadly accumulation out of the body. Yet those conclusions, poisonous in large amounts, may enter the system in minute quantities without producing detectable harm. A smoker accumulates less carbon monoxide than does a non-smoker who walks down Fifth avenue, New York city, during the hours of heavy automobile traffic.

Reports from the Yale Laboratory investigation of cigarettes are not complete, but the discovery by Dr. Haggard and Dr. Greenberg of a temporary increase in blood sugar produced from the action of the nicotine on the supra-renal glands was the source of a well-known cigarette advertisement offering the smoker a "lift." The increase in blood sugar comes about fifteen minutes after a cigarette is smoked and lasts about half an hour.

This may be the source of gratification a smoker gets from her cigarette but it does not explain the craving for a cigarette since a sweet or a glass of orange juice will liberate the blood sugar just as well.

Some nicotine is absorbed through the passages of the nose, mouth, and solution in saliva, whether the smoker inhales or not. An intensely disagreeable form of intoxication—dizziness, faintness, and nausea—may be caused by nicotine even to inured smokers. The exact point of intoxication is determined for nonsmokers by many smokers at only the verge of it most of the time. They escape by leaving a longer stump on each cigarette and thus lit. succession. This is possible since the nicotine condenses toward the stum". Dr. Boson found

Feminae Perfecta Show Their Leisure Time Is Spent; Kindergarten Proves Original Retreat

Feminae Perfectae, when asked how they spend time, reply through gritted teeth, "What leisure time?"

It is astounding, nevertheless, to find the smoking rooms barren of at least one bridge game any time after seven a. m. The inmates of the left-wings, too, do work harder trying to find a fourth than they would on their Shakespeare. And perchance, if the fourth can't be found, they play double, triple or even quadruple solitaire. The cards fall so thick and fast that the participants fall in exhaustion after one game and lie quietly in a darkened room with a wet cloth on their heads to sooth their frayed nerves.

Many girls spend all their spare time knitting, or, as one put it—ripping it out and starting all again. Some still are bitten by the needlepoint bug, and (keep this quiet) ones of our fellow students makes petit-point pincushions to sprinkle upon her unsuspecting friends.

A great indoor sport that occupies most of our spare time is the a fifteen per cent increase in nicotine content in the last third of a cigarette.

Dispelling a few ideas concerning the dangers of cigarettes statistics show that there is no mortality from cancer of the lips, tongue, throat, or jaw to correspond with the enormous post-war increase in cigarette consumption. There is, in fact, a decrease of such cancers in women since smoking has become general among them. Tuberculosis is no more common among smokers than non-smokers. However, doctors would prevail upon this girls, who have begun to smoke, to contract that disease than their plump sister, to pick up a sack of dirt or a nicotine fund. Instead of a cigarette, Heavy smoking often develops inflammation of the chronic bronchitis which impedes the natural body processes, results from pneumonia, once contracted.

All tobaccos are irritating to the respiratory tract of the cigarette smoker when they are dry. Hence many firms keep cigarettes moist by using glycerine. Dr. Haggard recently reported to Fortune, the cigars and cigarettes consumed in the United States alone annually fill their smokers' lungs with enough nicotine to kill all the men in the population of the earth. This statement does not take into account because the rate of elimination of nicotine from a system is sufficiently rapid to keep a deadly accumulation out of the body. Yet those conclusions, poisonous in large amounts, may enter the system in minute quantities without producing detectable harm. A smoker accumulates less carbon monoxide than does a non-smoker who walks down Fifth avenue, New York city, during the hours of heavy automobile traffic.

Reports from the Yale Laboratory investigation of cigarettes are not complete, but the discovery by Dr. Haggard and Dr. Greenberg of a temporary increase in blood sugar produced from the action of the nicotine on the supra-renal glands was the source of a well-known cigarette advertisement offering the smoker a "lift." The increase in blood sugar comes about fifteen minutes after a cigarette is smoked and lasts about half an hour.

This may be the source of gratification a smoker gets from her cigarette but it does not explain the craving for a cigarette since a sweet or a glass of orange juice will liberate the blood sugar just as well.

Some nicotine is absorbed through the passages of the nose, mouth, and solution in saliva, whether the smoker inhales or not. An intensely disagreeable form of intoxication—dizziness, faintness, and nausea—may be caused by nicotine even to inured smokers. The exact point of intoxication is determined for nonsmokers by many smokers at only the verge of it most of the time. They escape by leaving a longer stump on each cigarette and thus lit. succession. This is possible since the nicotine condenses toward the stum". Dr. Boson found

Freshmen Hear Alumnae Talks

Many Subjects Discussed By Five Old Students

Freshmen at Florida State colleges learned more about their alma mater last week in chapel when five alumnae spoke to them on the college traditions, on the service the college gives to the state, on the physical growth and history of the institution and of prominent alumnae. The programs was arranged by the alumnae committee for cooperation with the undergraduates, of which Miss Maude Flowers, '20, director of residence halls at the college, is chairman.

The speakers were: Mrs. Annie Houston Senabaugh, class of '20, Girl Scout executive of Leon county and Alumnae treasurer, who told of the history of the colleges; Miss Marian Gardner, class of '32, who is employed here in the secretary's office, and who told of the college's physical growth; Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, class of '27, member of the speech department at the college, who listed alumnae making a success in the field of writing, teaching, social service and other professions; Mrs. Cora Embrey Coulter, personnel president of the class of '30, who described the college traditions, and Mrs. Sadie Spencer Sailor, of the class of '26, who told of the service the college gives the state.

All the alumnae speakers, with the exception of Sadie, live in Tallahassee. Sadie's home is in Miami.

lopralists, will be called here the council on a similar count next week.

* * * *

A note enclosed in ticket envelopes for the Princeton-Navy game last Saturday requested persons attending the game not to drink any alcoholic liquor. The note was signed by President William Dodds of Princeton university. This constituted another move in a drive, officially two years old, to check the menace of football drinking. The intercollegiate of American Football Coaches in New York two years ago, a law was passed forbidding spectators to attend the games with liquor in their possession. Enforcement, however, has been slow. Ohio State alone has rigidly enforced the law this season. Anyone who knows the specialie of officials and players fighting with fists and cleated feet and the mob scene at goal posts before the game is ended should champion the movement.

Seniors Express Many Opinions About Attending Convocation in Ever-Traditional Caps and Gowns

By JANET PIERCE

Seniors having 10:30 classes on Tuesday express varied opinions about this business of retiring to convocation in caps and gowns, but a few themes are repeated.

"We don't have time," is the chief song and dance, and "we mess our necks running back and forth." One addled senior leaves her cap and gown in a friend's room in lower Byran, dashes madly from the top floor of the education building to Byran, dons cap and gown, and so away to the auditorium. Another system is that of the loving roommate who waits patiently at the Ad building door with the cap and gown.

This vehemently expressed opinion has its advocates. "It's the silliest idea I ever heard of. Why should we run from a class at 10:30 and leap into our gowns and caps and stumble over one another to create an impression! If were going to uphold tradition there is also a tradition to the effect that students don't have to go to convocation. I believe in keeping that part of the tradition, too."

Some think they should all go to convocation plus caps and gowns, but everyone agrees that 10:30 classes on Tuesday make that most difficult. Quite a few would just as soon wear caps and gowns, and many are many who think it a very pretty ceremony. It makes a good appearance and impresses guests and speakers.

Then there is the opposing opinion of quite a number of them that wearing caps and gowns every Tuesday detracts from insensitive, gradualism, and the other special occasions when the seniors are supposed to stand out as a group.

University Editorial

Continued from Page Four

often feel, however, that they should get by with all they can." Such charges are frequently made.

What shall our attitude towards these charges be?

We necessarily see that our shirking of responsibility in carrying out rules and regulations shifts the responsibility to the shoulders of board officials. Student government, however is possible only as students individually respect rules and cooperate with members of the student government board.

If the student thinks a regulation is unnecessarily, let her show her disproval of that regulation, not by disobeying it, but by having a new regulation introduced in the Senate. We are granted the right of expression of opinion through the senate. Let us use the right.

That students are interested in student government is evidenced by the recent election of committories on radios. The spirit of cooperation shown by students on this occasion is to be lauded. Let make student government work.

Let us, then, be more student government and not board government.

L. S. U. offers to the disheartened by the present system, though possibly not applicable to our situation, a remedy, at least we find it interesting.

It is the usual thing for a modern university to have some sort of student government organization, with powers of varying latitude. But for any institution to place in the hands of students the policy making power, as the drill field, and on the judicial board of the court martial for disciplinary board is an indication of greater trust and confidence than

Magazine Jottings

Continued from Page Four

THE QUICKSANDS OF THE MOVIES"

By Gilbert Seldes

Hollywood is living today on a virtually automatic habit of "going to the movies" which was created in the past generation, says Gilbert Seldes in this article appearing in the October Atlantic. The moving picture industry learns by behind its possibilities, he believes, and does not seem to suspect that a generation may rise which will not habitually go to the movies.

Mr. Seldes points out several is generally accorded student leaders.

The functions of the honor court are known to most of the students—it works in conjunction with the student council in regulating campus affairs, passing on all regulation infractions by the students. The military board, though more limited in scope, has equal power—it is the tribunal before which cadets are brought for breaking military rules and regulations. Its judgment is final—a cadet sentenced by the board will find that no punishments stick, and that appeal, except in very exceptional cases, is not only useless but impossible.

The board holds its first session tomorrow, beginning its second year of operation on the campus. It is significant that in spite of the full use of the powers delegated to the body, its rulings were unquestioned and unchallenged last year. Cadets brought before the board may express justice, but student officers personalities receive no consideration in meting out punishments. The man on trial is given an impartial hearing, a chance to state his own case, and a verdict rendered according to the best judgment of the board.

The entire scheme is in line with the policy followed by the organizations which let the students create their own discipline. In the case of the drill field, and on the judicial board of the court martial for disciplinary board is an indication of greater trust and confidence than

Cake Tradition Still Survives

Superstition stalks the halls of the dormitories in the form of a piece of wedding cake. Let no one say that the modern college girl is yet so sophisticated that she does not believe in traditions.

It wasn't only tradition, it was Romance when one young lady of the college went to sleep with a piece of wedding cake under her pillow in accordance with the old belief that if you sleep with wedding cake under your pillow for three nights in a row, the boy you dream of on the third night will be he lucky one you marry you. When she dreamed of the right young man, the news spread like the announcement that grades have just been put into the post office boxes. Lines formed to the right to borrow the little package of stale wedding cake wrapped in tissue paper and tied with pink ribbon.

There were disappointments of course—one addict to the new dream cult complained of every—defects in modern movies, the fundamentals one being that the life of most pictures is limited to their first presentation. The development of character in pictures can make them more interesting, and possible for a longer time. Character-playing spits of the full use of the power of movie actresses, permitting them to create on the screen instead of furnishing a definite "type" for pictures.

Continued on page eight

Directors must become so fascinating that patrons will want to see them work, instead of as now want to read the same books or hear the same symphonies more than once. Therefore, since pictures based on characters and the interrelations of human beings hold high place after the great spectacles and the musical shows, movies featuring character studies must be offered. The movis industry will be safe. As Seldes concludes, when producers realize that human beings are perpetually interested in human character. (S. D.)

Smoke Is Lifted

Continued from page four

higher level. Thus the idea spread throughout the nation.

Smoking was not a new thing for women brought about by the post-war period. Tobacco was introduced from the New World in the middle of the sixteenth century. Its chief ingredient, nicotine, was named after Jean Nicot, French ambassador to the court of Spain. He gave some tobacco to Catherine d'Medici who became a great addict. A number of famous women have been smokers since that time. In the little town of Ecclefechan, Thomas Carlyle's mother, it is said, learned to smoke a pipe when an old woman had so she could sit smoking with her son before the fire and hear him talk. Amy Lowell smoked long black cigars.

The cigarette, probably invented in Spain, is, nevertheless, a comparatively new use of tobacco and there is still much dispute among physiologists as to its effect on the human body. It is this reason no doubt which accounts for some girls smoking an unorthodox amount with no thought of the harm that might be done to themselves, while other girls shy away from cigarettes completely for fear of the damage they do.

In the twenties women smoked generally because it was thought the smart thing to do. But a cigarette is no longer a synonymn for sophistication as your reporter went questioning among the smokers seeking an answer to "Why do you smoke?" Three were given: (1) Thoroughly enjoy smoking; (2) Just a habit; (3) Something to do. The majority asked, gave the first reply.

To throw a little light on the pro and con of the smoking question, your scribe secured the following information which it is hoped will set the uneasy smoker's mind at ease.

Dr. Emil Boson, pathologist, of the Olive View Sanitarium in California, says give a man sixty milligrams of nicotine and he will probably die. One cigarette may Charm Bracelets are the Newest Things!

ASK TO SEE THEM.
W. W. PUTNAM
JEWELER
209 South Monroe Street

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

For Your New Permanent
JANET'S BEAUTY SHOP
104 S. Monroe St. Phone 195

When Fun and Smoking Last Way Into the Night . . .

On party nights—or whenever you do a lot of smoking—you'll find that Luckies, a light smoke, are a comfort as well as a joy! For since Luckies are a light smoke, there's no wear and tear on your throat. Luckies wear well . . . they're the only cigarette that's "Toasted" . . . your protection against irritation. So tomorrow, or better, right now, reach for a Lucky—rich with the taste of fine center-leaf tobacco. It's a good morning smoke with a clean, fresh taste. And it's a good night smoke . . . easy on you . . . gentle. It's never too late for a light smoke . . . never too late for a Lucky!

★★ NEWS FLASH! ★★

82 years old—She Knows Her Popular Music

Mrs. Elizabeth Bowles of Uvalde, Texas, is a real "Sweepstakes" fan. She writes: "I am 82 years old and this is the first time I have ever won anything absolutely free, and am I pleased!" Congratulations, Mrs. Bowles. We're awfully pleased, too, that you won.

Have you guessed yet? Have you won your delicious, Sweepstakes prize? Remember, the Sweepstakes on the air. Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, try a pack today and see them. Maybe you've been missing something. You'll appreciate the advantages of Luckies—a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

THE STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By LAURA STRUNK LESLIE
Alumnae Secretary

Inside College Gates

By FRANCES BRUNSON

With the quarter drawing to a close, the campus is becoming accustomed to the changes that went in effect at the beginning of this year. These numerous differences, however, would be greatly evident to the alumnae coming back to visit the college.

The first changes to meet the eye would be the rapidly growing new Administration building wing and enclosed dining room arcade, new tennis courts, and varied internal improvements in the dormitories.

* * *

Chimes which send out their peals every half hour are among the latest additions to the campus. These begin at 7 o'clock in the morning and continue ringing until 9:30 at night.

* * *

Mrs. J. W. McCollum, of Gainesville, the president of the Florida State College Alumnae association, returned to the college earlier this month to talk at vocation on Human Security week. She is a member of the State Board of Social Welfare.

* * *

Katherine Rawls, Olympic swimmer, refused about half a dozen scholarships from other colleges in this state and the east to enter Florida State College in September. "I didn't want to feel under obligation," she said, in speaking of the scholarships, "and I came here because of Florida State 'rolling.'"

* * *

Grand opera came to the campus for the first time last week when Aida, by Verdi, was given during a two-day music festival held by the federal music project. A dramatic by the class of 1937, phony orchestra of 110 members opened the festival. The music festival is distinct from the college Artist series.

* * *

Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian, is the new head of the faculty committee for cooperation with the alumnae. On the committee with Miss Tracy are Miss Olivia Dorman, Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Louise Richardson, Miss Ruth Schornherst, Miss Florence Tyson, and Mrs. R. H. Leslie.

* * *

Seven alumnae are among the 26 new faculty members and administrative officers who were added to the staff of Florida State college this year, 1936-37 term. These are: Miss Mary Etta Hamilton,wait, part-time instructor in classics and Latin; Miss assistant in the residence halls; Miss Helen Richey, instructor in clothing and textiles; Miss Elizabeth Blue, instructor at the Demonstration school; Miss Madeline Durrance, secretary to the dean of students and to the dean of the College of Home economics; Miss Clarissa Scudd, bookkeeper in the college business office; Miss Katherine Byrd, social director; and Miss Mary Lou Hall, assistant dietitian at the college dining hall.

* * *

A complicated revised system of work on the Flastacowo, college annual, will be carried out this year. More definite positions with such powers as the staff assigned more definite duties will be the order of the new management. There will be an editor for each of the three books that will make up the annual.

* * *

Due to alterations made in the curriculum and changes in the method of grading, a new cut system has been revised by the College Government association. Excerpting transfer students, freshmen and students on probation, all students need to have an average above "B" may have eight cuts a quarter. Students having an average of "B" or above may have sixteen cuts a quarter.

* * *

Freshmen who began their courses here at Florida State college were the first to participate in the new general education program now in force after the passage by the faculty senate last winter. A broad general training during the first two years will be given in order to provide a broad background for later work and to supply a general knowledge of the basic facts underlying present day society.

* * *

A new and larger setting was given to this year's version of Thirsh Night, still based on the old theme, the Lamadedonia, the ancient Greek torch race, the pageant was held on the athletic field.

At one end of the field an outdoor stage, with a natural background of shrubbery was marked off. From the opposite end a group of 200 girls marched up to the stage to declare their loyalty to their Alma Mater.

Tracy Asks Alumnae To Reserve Places

Even though Thanksgiving is not definitely your Homecoming this year, alumnae, you are, of course, welcome to come back for it as you have in the past. Our friends on the campus will be glad to see you. You need make no reservation except for one—Thanksgiving dinner. If you want dinner in the dining hall you must write to the Alumnae office and make reservation.

Your Faculty committee sends you greetings: we are always glad to see you.

ANNA M. TRACY,
Chairman, Faculty Committee, Cooperation with Alumnae

Alumnae Meet At Convention

Feinberg and Scott Now On Dietary Staff In Boston Hospital

The American Dietetic association convention in Boston October 11-16 proved to be a meeting place for several Florida State college alumnae and faculty members.

Irma Feinberg, graduate of '33 and now a member of the dietetic staff of the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, was one of the hostesses at a noon-day luncheon, and Mercia Scott, class of '35 and now a student dietician at the same hospital, was one of the pages for the convention. Miss Scott is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Sandelin and Dr Jennie Till Scott, head of the department of nutrition at Florida State and by Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian.

Miss Tracy, who is chairman of the administrative section of the American Dietetic association, presided over that part of the convention which was held over by third year in the capacity of chairman.

Luncheon at the meeting spoke highly of the Florida State student dietitians who had worked with them. This college is the first educational institution in the south and one of the three in the entire country to offer administrative dietetic training approved by the American Dietetic association.

Those present at the convention heard such speakers as Vaihalla Henderson, dean of Simmons, who spoke on "Adventures in Diet;" Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, professor of nutrition at Columbia, who discussed nutritional problems as considered by the League of Nations; Dr. George Minnot, who is well-known for his work on pernicious anemia; Dr. John Bunker, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who is famous for his research work in nutrition; Dr. Lloyd Joslin, of Harvard Medical School, work with diabetes, and Professor Bancroft Beatly, of Simmons college, and Professor North Whitehead, of Harvard.

A letter from President Roosevelt in which he said there is need for "an ordinary expansion" of the Florida State college was read at the association was read at the meeting, and copies were distributed to members of the alumnae.

The delegates were taken on trips to Harvard, Wellesley, and other points of interest, and were entertained at a banquet cooking at the Statler hotel, where the convention was held.

'35 President Has Classmates Send In Items

News Received at Alumna Office Concerning Many Students

At the request of Jennie Rae Nall (Mrs. Howard Cone), of Alachua, California, permanent president of the class of 1935, numerous alumnae of her class have sent news items about themselves or their friends to the college alumni office. Included among these items were the following:

LaLuce Planck, 430 Seminole avenue, Lake Wales, is teaching biology and chemistry in Lake Wales high school.

Mary Orlando, 815 North River street, Orlando, is teaching art in Memorial Junior high school in Orlando. She writes that she has done nothing in particular except work on her master's degree at Columbia university in the summers. She also stated that Hallie Bailey and Flora Combes are teaching art in the other two secondary schools in Orlando. "This summer," she wrote, "we staged a great reunion of F. S. C. W. friends in New York with about 12 or 13 present from classes of 28, 33, and 35.

Bessie Ruth Falk writes from Tampa: "As yet my name remains unchanged. My course in dress is 707 Carcasa street, Tampa. I am teaching the fourth grade at the Seminole Grammar school in Tampa. Despite the rumors that I should have served year of teaching, I still manage to hang to the likeable side of the profession."

Marjorie Horne, of 306 West Wilder street, Plant City, has not been sick but will soon. be will. She expects to be married next May.

Caroline DeMontigne was married Saturday to Oscar O. Davis, Jr. Rawls, who is connected with the U. S. Army Department Corps of Engineers in Mineral Wells, Texas. as Carolina's address is 500 Mineral Wells avenue, Mineral Wells, Texas.

Elizabeth Hampton is teaching first grade in Greensboro school, and writes that she expects to attend the class reunion in June.

Helen Wilson is teaching in Okeechobee. She writes that she is "not married."

Ruth Hunter is commercial teacher in the Marianna high high school. "I plan to be over Christmas and am looking forward to seeing some of the girls," she writes.

Abbie Lyle is librarian in the Palatka high school. Ruth Parker (Mrs. D. I. Rainey), of 428 Williams street, Tallahassee, writes that she is busy keeping house.

Elizabeth M. Allan, 236 East Fifth street, Jacksonville, is a clerk in the State Accounting office. She is employed by the Telephone Company in Jacksonville.

Evelyn D'Albe writes from Valparaiso, Florida: "At present I am not doing anything. I have just returned from Rochester, New

Continued on page seven

Sociology Graduates Active In Social Service Fields

Students Placed in Various Florida Districts After Finishing College Preparation For Specialized Case Work

By MARION PURVIANCE

Eleven students majored in sociology at Florida State college in 1936. Of these seven have already been placed in positions of social service work. Some of these students are placed in various districts in Florida, while others have secured places outside the state.

Social workers are in most cases worktink with the government in its recovery program. Among these are Hazel Corle, assistant director N. Y. A., Miami-West Palm Beach district; Margaret Dodd, rural resettlement division home management. Escambion; and Bernice McCollum, district director of Florida Welfare.

Virginia Carey, who has spent two summers in settlement camps in New York City is now doing research work there. Carol Parsons has also done social work in eleven in ofk county, where she holds the position of case side in social service and Laura Maddox is a junior visitor in Jacksonville.

Anne Cartwright is making a further study of social welfare work and work. Dorothy Coleman has been placed as a welfare worker and visitor in district twelve of Orange county.

Frances Phillips is a social worker in district six in Jacksonville. Later Frances plans to take a civil service examination and enter government service. Edith Webb holds the position of junior worker in the social welfare board in district six.

Ambulance Physician

Hilda Jane Walters '31, a former president of the Young Women's Hilda Jane Walters, is a graduate of the college of medicine at Florida State, has the distinction of being perhaps the only woman ambulance physician in the state. She was graduated from the Medical College of Virginia this past June, and is now an interne in the Richmond, Virginia, where she is in charge of one of the two city ambulances which are operated by the police.

The above picture of Hilda Jane, or "Kaye," as she was known at Florida State, appeared recently in one of the leading papers of Richmond with an interesting account of her medical career. A summary of the write-up is given below.

FSC Graduate Is Only Known Woman Ambulance Physician

Dr. Hilda Jane Walters Attended Medical College Of Virginia in Richmond, and is Now Completing Her Training

Dr. Hilda Jane Walters, a graduate of Florida State college for Women in the class o' 1931, is believed to be the only woman ambulance physician in the south. It was while she was taking a science course at her sophomore year that Dr. Walters resolved some day to be a doctor.

After completing her course at Florida Sta'e College for Women, Miss Walters, a native of Christiansburg, Virginia, entered the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond where she was graduated sixth in a class of seventy-six. Then she became an interne at Memorial hospital in Richmond, where she is now in charge of one of the two city ambulances which answer emergency calls.

All phases of medicine interest Dr. Walters vitally, particularly psychiatry and surgery. Furthermore, she says although she loves" ambulance work she plans eventually to specialize in one of the above branches.

Richmond ambulances go out with only the driver and the interne in attendance. Therefore the entire responsibility for the emergency treatment at the scene of the accident, rests with Dr. Walters. She has found that accident victims usually like a woman physician.

In fact, Dr. Walters, who, by the way, is only twenty-five years old, is so efficient and attractive that one of the patients she has heard to say he wouldn't mind an-other broken leg if he could have the same physician. Blood sculps, smashed arms and broken legs are just a part of her daily routine; merely something to be made whole again. Co-workers like Dr. Walters as "excellent doctor with plenty of nerve." And her ambulance driver says, "I've handled a lot of doctors in the years I've been on the ambulance and I think she's the very best of the lot. She not only has plenty of nerve but she can handle anyone of any kind."

Although Dr. Walters says she is only interested in her profession, she admitted that she "may marry some day." If she does, though, she hopes it will be a doctor, and she certainly expects to continue her present calling.

Two Prominent Alumnae Dead

Morris, '22, Smith, '16 Die During Summer

Gladys Morris (Mrs. R. O. Williams) of Sanford who is known to hundreds of alumnae of Florida State College for Women, died suddenly this summer from high blood pressure.

She received the L. I. degree from Florida State College for Women in 1918 and the B.S. degree in 1922. She did work for several terms on the college faculty.

In the Alumnae association she was one of the most enthusiastic workers. She is a former officer of the association, and has been on numerous committees of the organization. Last year she served as president of the Sanford alumnae F.S.C.W. club.

* * *

Word has just been received at the alumnae office that Katherine Smith, of Williston, has died. She received the B.S. degree in 1915, died suddenly July 23 at a hospital in Asheville, N. C.

One of Katherine's classmates wrote of her as follows: "Katherine's was a most likeable, personality. Her hearty laugh, tireless energy, and alert air... even disposition found expression in various hobbies. To her friend she distributed many beautifully designed and delicately tinted pieces of hand-painted china. She had a strict sense of proportion as well

Continued on page seven

French Girl Attends Florida State College

A French student, Miss Martha Thomas, is studying at Florida State College this year, she was sponsored by the International Relations club, which raised the necessary scholarship funds.

Martha is from Algeria, North Africa, the daughter of a colonel in the French navy. Miss Thomas, who is fluent in English or stature, says she is mistaken often for an English or German student. She is delighted with the beautiful campus here and loves the bright colors which the students wear. She is classified as a special student, but is taking the following subjects: American literature, shorthand, typing I, business English, and German.

F.S.C.W. Week Is Scheduled For March 1-6

Miss Tracy is Chairman Of Third Annual Celebration

Initial activities for the third annual F. S. C. W. week scheduled for March 1-6 are already underway, according to Miss Anna Mae Tracy, chairman of the faculty committee on cooperation with the alumnae.

During this week Florida State college faculty members will address civic and women's clubs over the state on the work of the various themselves choose. In past years the college speakers during F. S. C. W. week have talked for the most part on the various phases of Florida State College for Women.

Heading the activities for the week in the various cities of Florida are the 21 alumnae clubs and individual alumnae. Presidents of the alumnae clubs who have been asked to assume the responsibility for a discussion of these topics in their respective cities are: Helen Kennedy Dyer, Jacksonville; Irene McIlveen Calloway, Chipley; Carolyn Boykin Daffin, Panama City; Christine Peacock Hamner, Graceville; Rachel McKinnon Middlebrooks, Marianna; Bessie Munroe Bostick, Quincy; Katherine Johnson, Monticello; Eunice Grady Jones, Live Oak; Pauline Jacksonville; Augusta Poer, Cross City; Mary Louise Conrad, Gainesville, Alachua County club; Anne Patillo, New Smyrna; Ora Mae Thompson, Kissimmee, Polk County club; Margaret Moyer Mosley, Sopchoppy; Mary Lou Sanford; Carra Williams Adams, Mrs. Perrey Ruth Teal Dichtenmueller, Ft. Lauderdale; Frances Pace, Miami; Dorothy Archer Hamilton, Miami; Mrs. Ethel Call, Clearwater; and Carleen Vinal, St. Petersburg.

Alumnae who have been asked to assist with F. S. C. W. week follow: Mrs. Ruth Kinsey Mayme Tyner Pilcher, Crestview; Miss Dixie Dixon, Pensacola; Miss Elsie McClure, St. Augustine; Mrs. Dr. Walton an "excellent doctor with plenty of nerve." And her ambulance driver says, "I've handled a lot of doctors in the years I've been on the ambulance and I think she's the very best of the lot. She not only has plenty of nerve but she can handle anyone of any kind."

Although Dr. Walters says she is only interested in her profession, she admitted that she "may marry some day." If she does, though, she hopes it will be a doctor, and she certainly expects to continue her present calling.

'Alumnae Week-End' Plans Being Made

This year the alumnae of Florida State College for Women will observe their home-coming with an "Alumnae week-end" to be held later in the year, instead of on November 25-27, the date for the annual college homecoming for students and friends of students.

Tentative plans for the "Alumnae-Week-end" are announced elsewhere in this issue of the Flambeau.

Alumnae Named On Committees

Mrs. Beeson Chooses Nine Groups to Carry On Year's Projects

Committees to direct the various activities of the Alumnae association during the current year have been appointed by Mrs. L. Beeson, alumnae president, as a follow-up to the plans made for at the annual meeting of the association in June.

Outstanding among the alumnae activities planned for this year are: scholarship loans to interest undergraduates in the Alumnae association, special projects, Mothers' club, the Student-Alumnae building, the "alumnae week-end," the Alumnae Student Union Institute, work toward a campaign for securing funds for the Student-Alumnae building, and alumnae bulletin boards to be planned and maintained by the alumnae publication committee.

Committees appointed to head the various activities for the 1936-1937 year are as follows:

Committee on undergraduate scholarship loans: Florence Flowers, chairman, Mrs. Lou E. Miller, Mrs. Katherine Montgomery, Miss Mary Call Collins, Mrs. Lucile Sheffield, Mrs. Charlotte Stevens, all of Tallahassee, and Mrs. Selwyn Chalker, Lake City.

Committee on activities for special projects: Mrs. Ruth Kinsey Adams, chairman, Miami; Mrs. Bradford Ansley, Tampa; Miss Nancy Lutz, Jacksonville; Miss Carleen Vinal, St. Petersburg; Mrs. Burton Adams, Gainesville; Miss Charlotte Chase, Miami; Miss Bernice McCollum, Pensacola; and Miss Margaret Pace, Miami.

Publicity committee: Mrs. Clara R. Hayden, chairman, Miss Sallie Williams, Miss Cora Larson, Miss Rachael Pitchford, Miss Velma Ostein, all of Tallahassee.

Faculty advisory committee: Miss Elizabeth Thompson, chairman, Miss Florence Mimnd, Mrs. Gwelyn W. Henry, all of Tallahassee.

Printing committee: Mrs. R. H. Leslie, chairman, Miss Mary Call Cross, Miss Sallie Nicholson, Miss Rebecca Longmire, all of Tallahassee.

By-laws revision committee: Miss Elizabeth Thompson, chairman, Tallahassee; Mrs. J. P. Ashmore, Graceville; Miss Katherine Byrd, Tallahassee; Mrs. Bradford Osmond, Coral Gables; and Miss Ruth Thrash, Tallahassee.

Committee for participation in Woman's Institute: Mrs. Frances T. Johnston, Tallahassee.

Finance committee: Mrs. R. H. Leslie, chairman, Miss Florence Tyson, Mrs Dora Sikes Skipper,

Continued on page seven

Home Economics Graduates Enter Professional Fields

Alumnae of Department are Employed as Social Workers, Teachers, Dietitians, Clothing Specialists and Agents

By MARY GLENN COARSEY

Graduates of the home economics department of Florida State college have entered almost every field open to professional students.

A large number have been employed as teachers of home economics and science. In fact, about fifty per cent of the home economics teachers in Florida are graduates of this college. Those who have masters degrees at Florida State college are employed on the home economics staff here. These are Helen Richey, instructor of textiles and clothing, and Edna May McIntosh, instructor of foods and nutrition.

Three others who received their masters here have teaching positions in the state. These are Mary Lou Hall, assistant in economics at Lakeland Vocational school; Elmica Nicholson, who is teaching at Kirby-Smith high school in Jacksonville; and Catherine Byrd, who is teaching in Fort Myers. One alumna, Dr. Lucile Osborn, has reached the top in this profession as head of the department of home economics at Alabama State university.

In home demonstration work there are alumnae on the state staff. They are Anna Mae Tracy, nutrition specialist, and Clarine Belcher, clothing specialist. Of the county home demonstration agents more than one-third of the agents are graduates of Florida State college. Another alumna, Lonny Landrum, is the state home demonstration agent in South Carolina.

Among those who have entered the field of dietetics are Irma Levin and Mary Lois Gill, who are employed on the staff on this campus. Other alumnae who have connected

Continued on page seven

New Building May Be Built In Two Years

Mrs. Leslie is Chairman Of Alumnae Committee To Make Plans

A student activity building for Florida State College for Women may be started as actuality in the next two years if plans now being formulated by the Alumnae association are realized.

Mrs. R. H. Leslie, alumnae secretary, has been named by Mrs. L. L. Beeson, alumnae president, to head a committee of seven alumnae who will initiate plans for the securing of funds for a Student-Alumnae building here. Others on the committee are: Mrs. J. W. McCollum, Gainesville; Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Katherine Montgomery, Mrs. Dan Sikes Skipper, Miss Florence Tyson, and Mrs. Annie Collins Seabaugh, of Tallahassee.

In addition to the committee sub-committees will be appointed soon to advance the project in the various communities in Florida and in other states where there are a large number of F. S. C. W. graduates.

Beginning on November 1, a social drive for alumnae dues will be made. A large portion of the money derived from these dues will be used to finance a campaign for the Student-Alumnae building.

Following the drive for dues the campaign for securing funds for the Student-Alumnae building will be made, and Alumnae will have to contribute to completion either through their local alumnae groups or as individuals. Contributions will also be accepted from the college students, parents of students, or any friends of the college. Classes which have organized to raise sums for the Student-Alumnae building fund are: Class of 1929, $400; class of 1931, $100; Class of 1923, $543.60; and Class of 1924, $565.36.

It is the hope of the Alumnae association to secure one-half the money needed for the Student-Alumnae building, and then seek assistance through a grant from the state legislature.

According to J. G. Kellum of the business department, the building will include in addition to classrooms and offices for student activities, a suite of rooms for the Alumnae association, and an assembly hall for student meetings where the alumnae may stay overnight when visiting the campus. Kellum estimated a Student-Alumnae building which would include these features and other buildings to cost around $150,000.

Alumnae Plans For Institute

New Project to Increase Services Rendered By the College

Since the college is so crowded with parents and friends of students during the week-end of the annual homecoming, the Alumnae association has decided to emphasis more placed upon alumnae activities at that time. To that end the Alumnae association has termined to set aside one week-end during each year for which the graduates of the college will be invited to return to the campus. Tentative plans have been made for an Alumnae Institute to be held at the college some time during March or April of this year. The purpose of the Institute is to expand the service rendered to the alumnae to graduates through affording them opportunities of an educational nature and bringing them in contact with prominent and prosperous women who are leaders in different fields of education.

The Institute will open on a Friday evening with some form of social entertainment. It is hoped that a two-day meeting can be devoted to departmental meetings and a short business meeting of the Alumnae association. Round table discussions on various subjects that are of interest to college women will be held Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning in a two hour. Some lecturer of national prominence will speak Saturday evening. The general theme of the lecture there will be a formal reception held in one of the residence halls.

The Alumnae Institute is a new project of the Alumnae association conceived for the purpose of promoting closer relationships between our alumnae and the college. The week-end will be devoted entirely to alumnae and the program will be planned for their pleasure. If the project is successful it will probably become an annual affair of great significance.

Continued on page seven

The Social Week

Sororities Will Entertain With Parties This Week-end

Members and pledges of the Phi Omega sorority will be hostess at an after-dinner coffee Saturday night, honoring Mrs. Christine Ferguson, national inspector of Phi Omega.

Hostesses include: Nancy Adamson, Sally Anthony, Nelwyn Brooks, Sarah Carter, Betty Claborn, Mary Phillips Chalker, Jane Earle, Betty Ann Gilbert, Betty Finch, Roberta Gammon, Martha Goddard, Betty Harrison, Betty Hamilton, Mary Johnston, Joan Johnston, Ann Knight, Pratt Lewis, Joan Lykes, Lynn Moore, Sarah Moore, Helen Murray, Mary Manning, Betty Manning, Virginia Peyton, Mary Shackleford, Hilda Spredlin, Ruth Cleveland, Pauline Spencer, Martha Baxter.

Jane Bishop, Betty Bloodsworth, Sue Bryant, Minter Clarke, Wilda Dalrymple, Amelia Gordy, Louise Hitch, Nancy Horney, Marion Hussey, Evelyn Keith, Anith Jacobs, Martha Lee, Jean McCord, Marjorie Nelson, Isabelle Nunery, Margaret Rodgers, Margaret Salary, Frances Slade, Patricia Stuart, Sylvia Sutton, Mary Swearingen, Nancy Taylor, Robart Towne, Ann Townsend, Barbara Watson, and Daphne Wilson.

Hallowe'en Party

Members and pledges of Pi Beta Phi will entertain their friends Saturday night with a Hallowe'en party in the sorority house on College avenue.

The house will be appropriately decorated in orange and black streamers, cats, and witches and the Hallowe'en motif will be carried out in the program.

Among the features will be Peggy Jackson, Anne Ladd Polly Hamlin, Mary Ellen Cochran, Margaret Swearingen, Candon, Treadle Frush, Betty Blalock, Winifred Ewart, Phil Asher, Frances Morrow, Erwins Lawrence, Dot Osborne.

F.S.C.W. Week Is Scheduled For March 1-6

Continued from page six

Gerde; Irene Brunson Miller, Sarasota; Robin Chisholm Sutton, Bradenton; Gordon Britt Walker, Manatee; Louise Goodbread, Pallentello; Helen Hines Cochaux, Wauchula; Louise Houck, Sebring; and Helen Wilson, Okeechobee.

The tentative list of topics upon which Florida State College for Women faculty members are prepared to speak addresses during F. S. C. W. week follows: The Tropical Gardens of Florida, Living Colorful Paths in Florida, Planning the Home Grounds, Florida Bird and Life; Art—any phase of, The Romance of Archeology, The Romance of Manuscripts; Regional Libraries, Home Reading, Books and Book Making; Community Recreation, Avocations, Handicrafts, Story Telling, Community Enrichment; Adult Education—An Historical Treatment, Pre-School Education, Education as a Philosophy of Life, Health Education; Psychology In the Public Schools, Art in the Public Schools, The Public Schools and the Institutions of Higher Learning.

The Bible as Literature, How We Got Our Bible; Current History, The American Frontier, The New South, Some Florida History; Remaking the Individual, Applied Psychology; Recreational Music; The Symphony Orchestra; Why Study Music; Modern Drama, Modern Poetry, The Modern Novel; Creative Dramatics for Children, Children's Literature, The American Short Story; County Government—Women's Responsibility in the County as a Governmental Unit; Economics, Any Phase of; Science Tomorrow, Creative Chemistry, Astronomy, The Effect of Tourists on a State, Finding the News in the Newspapers, The Newspaper as a Social Force; Down to Earth, National and State Parks of Florida, Natural Wonders of Florida; Spanish-American Literature, France Today; Community Organization; Juvenile Guidance; An Historical Treatment of Consumer Cooperatives, The Cultural Resources of Rural Communities; Home-making as a Cooperative Undertaking.

Childhood Experiences with Money as They Affect Efficiency in Adult Years; Father-Mother Cooperation in Home Guidance of Children; Houses Planned and Equipped for Children, Clothing as It Affects Child's Behavior, Making Both Ends Meet, Spending for Family Satisfaction, Meeting the Consumer-Buyer Problems, The Modern Family in the Modern Home; Home Life in Japan from an American's View-point, Problems Affecting Home and Family Life Today, Nutrition Problems of Florida and the South Recent Advances in Nutrition, Foods, Fads and Fallacies.

Personals

Visiting at the Alpha Chi Omega house last week-end were Misses Margaret Graham, Edith Toffaletti, and Marion McKay of Tampa.

The Alpha Xi Delta sorority initiated five new members last week-end. They are Martha Mildred Benson, Victoria Cumbee, Mildred Broxton, Victoria Crisp, Eugenia Deth, Mary Pollard.

Mrs. J. Lunsford Boone and three children returned to their home in Jacksonville after spending three weeks here as the guest of Mrs. Boone's father, Dr. Edmund Mitchell, and the new member.

Mrs. T. Dayton Davis Is Visit Sorority For Several Days

Mrs. T. Dayton Davis, national Panhellenic representative will arrive Sunday to be the guest of the Chi Omega house at Sorority until Wednesday. Members of the sorority will entertain with an after-dinner coffee Monday night in the chapter house on Park avenue honoring Mrs. Davis.

The sorority colors of silver, gold, and blue will be employed in decorating the house for this affair. Coffee, sandwiches, nuts, and mints will be served the guests who call to meet Mrs. Davis at this time.

Hostesses will be Helen Bixler, Jane Brown, Janet Charles, Jean Gulas, Eleanor Hickson, Sarah Lewis, Mary June Michel, Mary Miller, Dorothy Nye, Dorothy Olmstead, Betty Peck, Dorothy Rickards, Ruth Sadler, June Elizabeth Sherman, Helen Tilden, Jewel Turner, Margaret Ware, Lucille Williams.

Charlotte Bellcase, Mary Lou Bell, Letitia Bell, Janesine Brown, Dorothy Burns, Sarah Carolyn Collins, Mary Collins, Charlotte Connell, Merle Deale, Lorraine Graham, Eugenia Glass, Marjorie Jessup, Frances Johnson, Gene Charlotte Kerns, Martha McAndrew, Mary McCahill, Mary Louise Meriweather, Mary Noble, Emily Payne, Irene Peck, Peggy Price, Jane Reagan, Joan Ross, Betty Skinner, Jessie Roy, Marian Vais and Dot Smith.

Informal Tea Given By Home Ec Class

The 105-1 section of the home economics department gave an informal tea to the students of their class and to the home economics staff Wednesday afternoon in 214 Science building.

It is part of the course for each student to obtain practice in serving teas, certain groups of girls acting as hostesses and others as guests. Each freshman home economics class will give a tea in order to acquire the experience.

Marilyn, born in April; Mary Lou Fox, now Mrs. Willard Howatt, teaches English in the Miami junior high school as does also Elsie Corbett Buford; Margaret Scott is teaching Latin for a second term in St. Augustine high school.

'35 President Has Classmates Send Items

Continued from page six

York, where I worked in the laboratory of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital for a year and am now writing after a bit of rheumatic fever myself. I expect to spend a few weeks before my return."

Evelyn gave her address as Box 86, Lockhart, Alabama.

Marguerite Smith is head of the English and Latin department of Altha high school, Altha, Florida. In her spare time she is working on her master's degree at this college.

Susan Palmer is teacher of English and Spanish in one of the county high schools in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Sarah Cone is project supervisor for District 2, National Youth Administration in Florida. Her address is 403 Northeast Twenty-second street, Miami.

Betty Ellen Smith writes: "I was part-time librarian in Titusville high school and taught Spanish and geography. This summer I took the rest of my library work in Charlottesville at the University of Virginia. At present I am full-time librarian at Kesterinne high school in St. Augustine. I am still one of the Smiths. Other information sent in by Bellamy: Margaret Harrison is now Mrs. Basil Pendarvis of Hoveyt.-ide-Hills and has a daughter,

ALPHA CHI OMEGA WILL HONOR NEW MEMBERS AT INITIATION BANQUET

Honoring six new members who will be initiated tonight the Alpha Chi Omegas sorority will entertain with an initiation banquet tomorrow night at the Plaza hotel. New initiates will be Charlotte Vellis, Melba Parks, Virginia Toffaletti, Helen Hickerson, Alayne Clayton, and Ruth Brooks.

The theme of the banquet will be "the building up of Alpha Chi Omega," and the talks for the evening will center around the new house, a new chapter at Southern college in Lakeland, the new house mother, Mrs. Ethel Hunter, and the new members.

Guests for the banquet other than chapter members will include, Juanita Buchanan, Betty Brooks, and Bertha Vellis, all of whom graduated last year.

Chapter members are: Janice Borton, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cole, Dorothy Cone, Rosalyn Diamond, Eleanor Flint, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Rosemary Hanly, Betty Hatch, Katherine Kyle, Anita Leonard, Dorothy Leach, Margaret Murray, Eleanor Olsen, Marjorie Oates, Ruth Riddle, Lillian Schulte, Sarah Sealey, Mildred Schulte, Marie Spurlock, and Frances Williams.

Mrs. Julia Johnson Honored at Party On Her Birthday

Members of the Delta Phi Epsilon sorority entertained last Friday night with a surprise birthday party honoring their house mother, Mrs. Julia Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson received a handmade glass-topped tray as a gift from the members of the sorority after which fruit punch and cake were served. About 35 guests were present to enjoy this affair.

Hostesses at this time were Margaret Fishler, Miss Feinberg, Harriette Tubio, Florence Trauhin, Idelia Bernstein, Florence Kanarck, Connie Lee, Judith Willensky, Geraldine Rosenberg, Rose Levy, Edith Borowitz, Hannah Biscow, Margaret Benjamin, Muriel Black, Pat Hacker, Rosalyn Silverberg, Alice Lippman, Kathryn Kass, Rose Lee Feinberg, Lillian Fine, Catherine Gold, Jeanette Kronenfeld, Martel Tepper, Jeanne Mankus, Clara Trauhin, Jeannie Sielskee, and Shirley Ezzug.

Daniells Gets Position As Instruction in Music

Among graduates of Florida State who have accepted positions this year is Miss Dora Daniells, who received the B. M degree in Public School Music here in 1928. She was appointed a full-time music teacher in the public school at Eustis, Florida. Miss Daniells formerly taught music for several years at Mooresville, Florida, and Easley, South Carolina.

Her sister, Eleanor Daniells, who is also a music major, is a sophomore at Florida State.

Alumnae Named On Committees

Continued from page six

Miss Nowena Longmire, Mrs. Annie C. Sensabaugh, Miss Katherine Montgomery, all of Tallahassee; and Mrs. J. W. McCollum of Gainesville.

Alumnae Plans For Institute

Continued from page six

cance. Definite plans for this Institute will be sent to all local alumnae associations in the near future and it is hoped that every alumna will consider it her obligation to support our first Alumnae Institute.

Miss Lucy Gee Linn Studies In Cleveland, Ohio, Now

Miss Lucy Gee Linn, president of the Young Women's Christian association at Florida State College for Women this past year, is now studying at Western reserve university, Cleveland, according to word received here.

At Florida State Miss Linn was a member of Mortar Board, senior honorary society; a member of Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic fraternity; president of Young Women's Christian association; and a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

Alumnae Should Write

The two stories on this page concerning the alumnae questions to which alumnas of Florida State College for Women are engaged are the beginning of a series of such articles written by students in the journalism department. Any alumna who is engaged in any profession other than high school teaching is requested to send this information to the alumnae office immediately in order that it may be incorporated in the series.

Delta Zeta Sorority Has Initiation And Formal Banquet

Delta Zeta sorority held a combined ceremony of its initiation and founder's day banquet this week-end. Edith Adkinson and Theresa Christie were initiated.

The initiation ceremony took place in the late afternoon at the home of Mrs. Polly Scott Reynolds, after which was held the formal founder's day banquet at the Floridan hotel.

The dinning room was decorated in rose and green, the sorority's colors. Huge streams of roses lined the middle of the tables; place cards carried out the symbol of Delta Zeta.

Others present were Adalaide Ireland, Ruth Marvin, Martha Moore, Kay Harris, Emily Bush, Kat Bush, Mary Helen Cooney, Karolyn Patterson, Charlotte Rawls, Jeanette Nordman, Margaret Stoutamire and Margaret Alford.

Sorority Will Give Party for Friends At Chapter House

Members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will entertain with a tea dance in the chapter house on Park avenue tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 honoring friends and rushees of the sorority.

The decorations throughout the house will carry out a Hallowe'en theme and after the dance appropriate refreshments will be served, emphasizing a color plan of orange and black.

Hostesses for this affair will be Dorothy Godard, Betty McCall, Betty Bary, Jane Sutton, Frances Hobbs, Hazel Noe, Sybil Cheshire, Marjorie Bass, Jessie Magnus, Virginia Early, Betty McMullen, Lucille Dale, Ella Jane Agner, Cook, Mary Finney, Rosalie Merrill, Mary Lee Margaret Kistler, Catherine Welch, and Angela Girley.

Party Will Be Given By Phi Mu Pledges

The pledges of the Phi Mu sorority will entertain with a Kid Party tonight at 8 o'clock. The living room will be decorated with balloons and colored paper and one of the dens will be used as a nursery where pink lemonade, peanuts and lollipops will be served to the guests. Kid games will be played and a prize will be awarded the winning child's costume.

Hostesses include Claire Wells, Betty Bonner, Betty Bloodworth, Mildred Stovall, Lucy Grant, Dora Cabaud, Jane Johnston, Peggy Ge-ald, Nancy Bryan, Pearl Gay, and Helen Stuart.

KAPPA DELTA SORORITY ENTERTAINS FRIENDS WITH "GET-TOGETHER" TEA

Members and pledges of the Kappa Delta sorority entertained with a "get together" tea in the chapter house on Copeland street Wednesday afternoon honoring friends of the chapter.

The house was decorated informally for this affair and tea and cookies were served to the guests during the tea hour.

Hostesses at this time were: Helen Turnbull, Marjorie Noggle, Jane Tharin, Jo Taylor, Peggy McMichael, Lily Ayala, Margaret Thompson, Anne Sams, Amelia Mae Lockwood, Virginia Rogers, Frances Thomas, Dot Benford, Hannah Biscow.

Jean Brown, Dot McLean, Helen Ballenger, Jo Binion, Sue Whitaker, Grace Whitaker, Jane Jackson, Anne Mizell, Erma Engel, Madge Climbs, Jean Beauchamp, Lois Heither, Sara Tillman, Jane Crook, Jere Crook, Dora Chauncey, Karolyn Patterson, Charlotte Rawls, Jeanette Nordman, Margaret Stoutamire and Margaret Alford.

Sorority Will Give Party for Friends At Chapter House

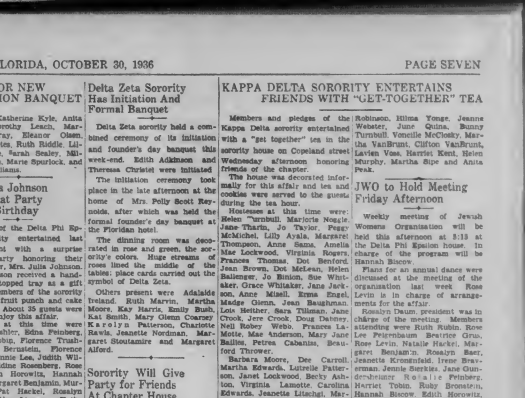
Members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will entertain with a tea dance in the chapter house on Park avenue tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 honoring friends and rushees of the sorority.

The decorations throughout the house will carry out a Hallowe'en theme and after the dance appropriate refreshments will be served, emphasizing a color plan of orange and black.

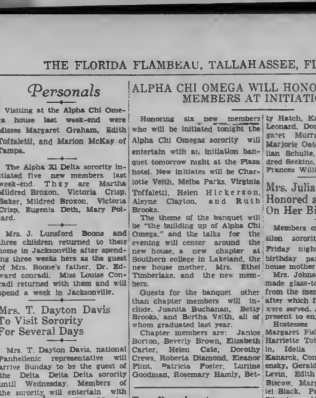
Hostesses for this affair will be Dorothy Godard, Betty McCall, Betty Bary, Jane Sutton, Frances Hobbs, Hazel Noe, Sybil Cheshire, Marjorie Bass, Jessie Magnus, Virginia Early, Betty McMullen, Lucille Dale, Ella Jane Agner, Cook, Mary Finney, Rosalie Merrill, Mary Lee Margaret Kistler, Catherine Welch, and Angela Girley.

Party Will Be Given By Phi Mu Pledges

The pledges of the Phi Mu sorority will entertain with a Kid Party tonight at 8 o'clock. The living room will be decorated with balloons and colored paper and one of the dens will be used as a nursery where pink lemonade, peanuts and lollipops will be served to the guests. Kid games will be played and a prize will be awarded the winning child's costume.



Hostesses include Claire Wells, Betty Bonner, Betty Bloodworth, Mildred Stovall, Lucy Grant, Dora Cabaud, Jane Johnston, Peggy Ge-ald, Nancy Bryan, Pearl Gay, and Helen Stuart.



JWO to Hold Meeting Friday Afternoon

Weekly meeting of Jewish Womens Organization will be held this afternoon at 3:15 at the Delta Phi Epsilon house. In charge of the program will be Frances Thomas.

Plans for an annual dance were discussed at the meeting of the organization last week Rose Levin is in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Rosalyn Daum president was in charge of the meeting. Members attending were Ruth Rubin, Rose Lee Feinbaum Bernice Grus, Rose Levin, Natalie Hacke, Margaret Benjamin, Rosalyn Saer, Jeanette Kronenfeld, Irene Braverman, Jennie Sierkins, Jane Gunsberg, Bertie Pfeiffer, Harriet Tobin, Ruby Bronstein, Hannah Biscow, Edith Horowitz, Emma Agress, and Judith Wheinsky.

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will appreciate it: saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of expense.

You'll find the ides economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 25 cents for packages less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express Agent, and start now.

117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 422-R
Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

FROM HOLLYWOOD
FOR THE COCKTAIL HOUR...
...COMES GLAMOROUS
HOLLYWOOD
Starlettes
Mary Astor poses in this exciting new two-piece failored jacket type . . . with straight skirt . . . novelty wooden beaded buckle and crepe gilet to match. Sizes 12 to 20 and best of all it's exclusive at...
$16.50
The Vogue
feminine wearables
TAI LAHASSEE FLORIDA

Bennett's
PHONE 800 MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY
SATURDAY'S SPECIALS

$1.00 Merc. Wax	69c	50c Squibb's Dental Paste	19c
50c Hind's Cream	29c	25c Blue Jay Corn Pads	21c
50c April Showers Mum	49c	60c Squibb's Freezone	24c
50c Zip Dusting Pow.	69c	50c Squibb's Milk. Mag.	29c
50c Noxzema	39c	25c Kotex	19c
50c Hair Remover	39c	25c Modess	17c
50c Pike's Shampoo	49c	100 c.c. Kleenex	15c
50c Ipana Tooth Paste	29c	50c Dr. Butler Tooth Brush	39c

Dancers Begin Work For Odd Demonstration

Five Students Appointed To Direct Various Group Numbers

As Thanksgiving rapidly approachs preparations are progressing for the Odd-Even demonstrations to be staged that week.

A committee has been appointed to assist Polly Flint, chairman, with costumes for Odd demonstration. Members of this committee are: Martha Goddard, Roberta Diamond, Emily Olson, Jean Oliver, Margaret Wolcott, Jane Upton, Patricia Barringer.

Dancers for Odd demonstration have been chosen after a series of try-outs. Jo Binion, dance chairman has as her assistants Betty Cashen, Roberta Diamond, Janet Lockwood, and Dot Colburn. These girls will direct the group dance numbers.

Dot Colburn's group will be accompanied by Sarah Frances Gatrell. Girls taking part with Dot are: Peg McMichael, Blythe Stanley, Evelyn Anderson, Jane Sutton, and Melvyn Brodie. Dot will also direct a group consisting of: Doris Goddard, Elizabeth Lounds, Peggy Jackson, Virginia Peyton, Sue Lockwood, Annie Laurie Sadler, Marian Hester, Mary Lewis Manning, Clarice Sanchez, Dot Barr, Esther O'Byrne, Winifred Hill, Roberta Diamond, Betty Cashen, Becky Ashton, Jane Sutton.

Betty Cashen's groups will be accompanied by Frances Forth. Betty will direct two dances, and will take part in both of them. Girls in these groups are: Becky Ashton, Betty Harrison, Helen Murphy, Sunny Dell, Melvyn Brooks, Jane Sharon, Elizabeth Lounds, Evelyn Anderson, Freddie Fried, Blythe Stanley and Virginia Peyton. In Betty's other group are: Sue Lockwood, Helen Ballenger, Helen Tries, Peggy Meredith, and Helen Murphy.

Roberta Diamond will direct and take part in a dance done by Ruth Cleveland, Patricia Barringer, and Mary Emily Parker. They will be accompanied by Mary Ennis.

Tad Goodwin will accompany the groups directed by Janet Lockwood. Dancing in one of these groups will be: Peggy McMichael, Evelyn Anderson, Martha Kennedy, Dee Carroll, Jane Sutton, and Sunny Dell. In the other dance with Janet will be: Becky Ashton, Patricia Barringer, Sue Lockwood, Jo Binion, and Virginia Peyton.

Besides these group dances there will be specialty numbers. Jo Binion and Betty Cashen will do solo dances, and Janet Lockwood and Jo Binion will do a duet.

Straw Ballot

With the interest shown in the discussion of the five presidential candidates, at N.S.F.A. meeting this week, the Flambeau has been requested to conduct a straw vote.

All students, regardless of eligibility to vote in the presidential elections, are requested to check the name of the candidate they prefer. The names are found in alphabetical order on the ballot below.

Ballots must be checked and deposited in a box in the Flambeau office which is located at the rear of the west wing second floor of the history building by noon Monday. For tabling the results, the Flambeau staff thought it would be interesting if the student voters stated the section of the state they are from their parents' preference of the presidential candidates, and the main reasons for their own choice

- [ ] EARL BROWDER
- [ ] ALFRED LANDON
- [ ] WILLIAM LEMKE
- [ ] FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
- [ ] NORMAN THOMAS

Section of state

Parents' preference

Reasons for own choice

Miss Brunette May Win Laurels As F. S. C. W. Average Student

Blondes and Redheads Must Take Back Seat As Black-Haired Girl of Medium Height, Weight Is Chosen

By FRANCES BRUNSON
Page Miss Brunette!

Blondes and redheads take a back seat as the dark haired girl of medium height and weight comes forward to claim the laurels of being the average student at Florida State college.

But in actions neither coloring nor size is favored. The average student has the same reactions, emotions, likes, and dislikes, regardless of the color of her hair or eyes.

First of all she puts studies before anything else. Her foremost interest is making her grades. She is more or less satisfied with a C average, reasoning that while it would be nice to be on approbation, she really doesn't have the time to bother. She always manages to be prepared for each class, even though frequently this is crammed during the ten-minute period before the last bell rings. She has a habit of waiting until the night before to study for a test or to write a term paper that has been assigned for weeks.

The average girl may not be the president of several important clubs on campus, or be especially noted for her talent in singing or dancing, but she is a member of, at least two or three organizations. Whether they be political, athletic or social depends on her individual tastes, but she does belong to them and enters into their activities willingly and with interest.

Most students are interested to some degree in sports. The average girl may not necessarily play in the game, but she at least enjoys observing. At Thanksgiving she turns out for the games and doesn't mind getting a little hoarse in yelling for her team. During the year she usually takes two or three week-ends off and goes to camp where she likes to swim and paddle a canoe as well as anybody.

The matter of dress is usually present in the ordinary college misses' mind. During the week she isn't greatly concerned as long as she looks fresh and neat, but on Friday afternoon the prints and culottes of every day are cast aside and the most striking and different silks, satins, and furs that can be purchased predominate. Hair is freshly curled, high heels replace the comfortable oxfords, stockings are seen in place of anklets. Her one aim is to be dressed up and be strikingly different and attractive.

The average girl is not homesick; she is content with the college and has a good time. But the desire to spend a week-end at home or in Gainesville is continuously prominent. She thinks it's wonderful to get away for a few days, knowing all the time how perfectly miserable she will be when she returns. Making up the two-hour laboratory period, worrying about an important test that she missed, and worst of all, catching up on lost sleep, all become insignificant when a delightful week-end is in view. She considers it worth all the after effects to be able to see Mother, Dad, the kid brother, and soda jerker down at the corner cigar store, or attend the big fraternity dance at the university.

One of the biggest thrills in the monotonous drone of the average college girl's life is to return to her room and discover a yellow slip announcing the arrival of a caller or a telephone message which usually is a fairly good prospect of a date. She never remains in the room without looking anxiously for such a notice. Then if she does get a date she can always arrange to find some convenient time at the dinner table to announce the fact.

No account of the average girl would be complete without mention of the post office. Three times a day and every other convenient time she rushes eagerly to her box, hoping. She is very content to receive a letter or two, but her joy is supreme when the call for package slip turns out to be the box from home—just the kind of a box that all college girls dream about. This she gleefully slips to her room, where she summons only her closest friends and roommate and the feast begins.

The average girl at Florida State college? She is just an ordinary human being!

Religious Emphasis Week Program

SUNDAY

11:00 a. m.—Address—Auditorium
7:30 p. m.—Vespers—Augusta Conradi theater

MONDAY

10:30 a. m.—Soup—Bryan Atrium
5:30 p. m.—Sorority Forum—Kappa Delta House
7:30 p. m.—Address—Auditorium

TUESDAY

11:30 a. m.—Convocation—Auditorium
4:30 p. m.—Forum—Augusta Conradi theater
7:30 p. m.—Address—Auditorium

WEDNESDAY

10:30 a. m.—Soup—Jennie Murphree Parlor
7:30 p. m.—Address—Auditorium
8:30 p. m.—Sorority Forum—Delta Delta Delta House

THURSDAY

10:30 a. m.—Soup—Gilchrist Hall
4:30 p. m.—Forum—Augusta Conradi theater
7:30 p. m.—Address—Auditorium

Cake Tradition Still Survives

Continued from page two

one but the lad of her dreams put in his appearance in her nightmares and there were those who branded the whole affair as a farce when they didn't dream of anything at all.

If you see any of the dewy-eyed young things of your hall looking lost about night flash time, they are probably not remembering that political science exam tomorrow but rather concentrating on dreaming of the right one. The cake is still in circulation.

Resume Of Current Political Issues Summarized By Writer

Republican and Democratic Stand On Problems Reviewed For Benefit of Interested Students of Coming Election

For the information of those students who will vote in the presidential elections Tuesday, a member of the Flambeau staff analyzed from her readings in political science the platforms of the candidates of the two major parties.

The 1936 campaigns reveal a reverse in the traditional stands taken by the Democratic and the Republican parties. Whereas the Democratic party has almost always advocated states' rights, a strict construction of the Constitution, and assistance to tariff and a national debt, the Republicans this year have put themselves in Democratic shoes. While the Democrats hope for greater implied powers and observe the national debt complacently, the Republicans vigorously fight implied powers in the Constitution and are in arms about the national debt.

On specific issues the two major parties are vague as usual, leaving concrete promises to the two minor parties, the Socialists and Communists, who know that there is no danger of their winning an election, as one political science professor observes, can afford to be specific.

Part of the platforms of the two major parties as summarized in the voters' handbook of the New Republic follows in outline form:

Unemployment and Relief

Dem.—Maintains that unemployment relief must continue to be handled by the federal government; advocates cooperation with state and local governments in providing public projects at prevailing wages.

Rep.—Proposes absorption of the unemployed by industry and agriculture, and toward that end advocates removal of restrictions on production and withdrawal of government from competition with private payrolls; pledges to return relief administration to states with federal grants-in-aid.

Constitutional Amendment and Supreme Court

Dem.—Favors procedure within the constitution if possible; if problems national in scope cannot thus be solved, favors clarifying amendment giving state and federal governments the power to enact social and regulatory legislation.

Rep.—Pledges to resist all attempts to impair the authority of the supreme court; it will favor an amendment empowering states to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of women and children if it proves necessary.

Regulation of Business

Dem.—Upholds theory and workings of securities and exchange commissions; demands curbing of utility holding companies; advocates continuance of guarantees on bank deposits; pledges enforcement of anti-trust laws and extension of laws where necessary for stamping out monopolistic practices.

Rep.—Pledges to preserve free enterprise and private competition; advocates elimination unnecessary and hampering regulations; advocates continuance of monopolies and favors federal regulations subject to judicial review, of the marketing of securities and the inter-state activities of public utilities.

Government Administration and Budget

Dem.—Pledges reduction of government expenses and achievement of balanced budget at earliest possible moment; favors extension of merit system to all non-policy making positions in federal service; will bring under civil service all continuing positions in emergency agencies.

Rep.—Favors balancing of budget not by raising taxes but by cutting expenditures; pledges improvements and extension of the civil service merit system.

Labor

Dem. — Claims the administration has increased workers' pay and shortened hours, ended peonage, and encouraged collective bargaining; advocates passage of laws guaranteeing rights of collective bargaining and self organization free from interference of employers, and set up federal machinery for peaceful settlement of labor disputes; promises to continue these measures and principles.

Rep.—Pledges to protect rights of labor, to organize and bargain collectively without interference from any source and to remove power of government officials over labor; will support adoption of state laws and inter-state compacts to abolish sweat shops and child labor and, to fix maximum hours and minimum wages for women and children.

Flambeau Staff Members Will Attend Convention

Hazel Bowman, editor-in-chief of the Flambeau and Lillie McGuire, business manager, left Wednesday for the National Inter-collegiate Press conference which is being held at Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29 through Oct. 31.

The work of the conference will include a series of discussions designed to present a complete review of all that is new and important in the field of college newspaper publishing.

In addition to the discussions a series of lectures by noted journalists will be given.

The meeting is being held in the famous Brown hotel under the sponsorship of the University of Louisville. The students attending the convention will be especially encouraged to hold cooperative discussions in which they can place their paper against the background of others.

Another feature of the three day convention will be a tour through the newspaper plant of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

UNION STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN
TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

Freshmen Notice
Saturday
Cut Announcement

The Florida Flambeau

Watch Underclassmen Pledge
Loyalty to College

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, November 6, 1936 NUMBER SIX

Emphasis Week Ends Thursday With Address

Dr. W. A. Smart, Emory Professor, Directed Week's Meeting

RAULERSON WAS STUDENT LEADER

Program Included Soups, Forums and Lectures For Students

In the closing address of Religious Emphasis Week, Dr. W. A. Smart, Emory University, spoke last night on the subject, "How Can We, Living in an Unchristian Society, Call Ourselves Christian?" He discussed the unchristian principles which are found in life all about us, and our relation to them.

Religious Emphasis Week, an annual event on this campus, is set aside for a focus on religion and the enrichment of spiritual life. Dr. Smart, speaker of the week, arrived on Sunday, has especially emphasized a personal touch and its adequacy in meeting personal problems.

Sunday Morning Services

In his opening address Monday morning, Dr. Smart discussed the fact that God has ceased to be a personal force who directs each detailed activity of nature, and has become a far-off, unseen generation, a spiritual personality to love and to have fellowship, with a personal God.

At the Sunday night Y.W.C.A. open service he talked of belief in God. He said it is a communal—and not a personal—matter in God. He described a Christian as one who is triumphant in faith, and averse, in the midst of a bewildered world.

Evening Addresses

Each night during the week, Dr. Smart gave an address in the auditorium. On Monday night his subject was, "How We Can Tell Truth From Error." After eliminating various methods, he stated that anything that tears down human values or standards is wrong, and that anything that maintains or increases human standards is right.

On Tuesday night he spoke on "How We Meet Suffering and Disappointment." He said that Christianity gives people something that causes them to grow broader and richer spiritually in the face of misfortune rather than harsh, bitter and cynical.

On Wednesday night he declared the fact that in our busy world there is little or no time for being alone. He quoted Dean Whitehead, of Harvard, "Religion is what we do with our solitariness." The implication was that if we have no religion, we have no religion.

On Thursday morning in convocation he spoke of Jesus as one who stands alone. See installment

Continued on page two

Medical Tests Will Be Given

Aptitude Examinations To Be Administered By Dean Dodd

The medical aptitude tests as administered the past six years by the committee on the relations of American Medical Colleges will be given here on December 4, at three o'clock in the Dean's office, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Any students wishing to take the test are asked to see Dean Dodd within the next week or ten days.

Each applicant will be charged one dollar which is required to defray the expenses of the committee.

The test is now one of the normal requirements for admission to a medical school, and is given once a year for those students who wish to enter medical school the following year. Completion of all premedical requirements is not necessary at the time the test is taken if the requirements will be completed in time for entrance to medical school in the fall.

Last year 10,671 students of six colleges took the tests, six of whom were from Florida State College. Approximately sixty per cent of the approved medical schools of the United States used these tests as a means for selecting their students.

First College Safe Is Still Utilized

Behind the door in a very inconspicuous place in the mansion office stands a safe—a rather old, battered, not particularly interesting looking safe. On closer inspection however, one can see printed across the front, "Florida Female College." Students, first noticing it, with rather surprised amusement, ask if this could possibly be a part of the college?

This safe is the first one bought by the college when what is now known as Florida State College for Women once bore the name Florida Female College. It was during this time that the safe was used to keep money in.

It no longer holds the exalted place or money keeper but, even from behind the door, it holds an interest and a part in the background of the college.

Dow Will Open 36-37 Faculty Recital Series

Winslow and Koch Plan To Give Performance Friday Evening

Miss Margaret Dow, a member of the faculty of the School of Music, will give an organ concert at 8:15 p. m. Friday, as the series of recitals for this year, tonight in the college auditorium at 7:45.

She will open the program with the playing of Bach-Gounod, Arcadelt: (1514-1570); followed by Toccata, Frescobaldi (1583-1644); Sonata Monique, Couperin (1668-1733); Fantasia and Fugue in C minor, Bach; Andante, Franck; Allegro, Thrush the Trees, Edmundson; An Elizabethan Sketch, Bowen; and Dreams, McAmis. In conclusion, Miss Dow will play Tu es Petra, Benoit; Marche Triomphale, Mollet.

The second in the series of faculty recitals for the year will be given in the college auditorium next Friday evening, November 20, by Mr. and Mrs. Mary Enier Winslow, pianist, who she will be assisted by Miss Gladys Koch, soprano.

Bellamy Wins Two Contests

Victorious in Lettering And Question Tests

One of our own professors is a radio prize winner!

Recently Dr. Raymond Bellamy heard a radio announcement made by the Ivory Soap Company of twenty-five dollars for the best job of lettering submitted. Becoming interested, he tried and won the prize.

Encouraged b, this success, he attempted another contest which was conducted by the Literary Digest Brainbusters" program. This time he entered a list of questions which won. For this, however, he has to wait only a few hours for he says it was very interesting and making out examination questions!

Giddy with these successes, he has since tried other contests. His latest success was the answering of the Sinclair program have been miles off, however.

Eighteen Pieces Join In Hearen Orchestra Organized This Week

An eighteen piece dance orchestra under the direction of Mickey Hearen was organized this week. The orchestra will play every Tuesday night at 7:45 for play beginning Friday, November 13.

Hazel Bowman will play trombone; Jeanne Bell, Betty Wilke, and Mamie Ruth Bargott, saxophones; Ivy May Johnson and Sue Robinson, trumpets; Sidney Moore, drums; Vuncile McCulaky, piano; Lelia Major Royce, Katelyn Patterson, Veola Evans, and Pat Patterson, violins; Betty Barthoff, bass violin; Mary Eagle, Dot Sandford, and Alayne Clayton, clarinets. Helen Benson will be the vocalist.

Mickey has some interesting programs arranged for the year which will be announced later.

FSCW Exhibits Are Displayed At Exposition

Four Departments Have Representative Work At District Fair

DEMONSTRATION SCHOOL HELPS

Seventeen Pieces of Art From All Classes Are Shown

At the West Florida fair, which opened last Tuesday, exhibits of work done by students of Florida State College are being shown by four departments on campus, the demonstration school, the physical education department, the industrial arts department and the department of the Demonstration school.

Art Department

The exhibit of the art department includes pieces by seventeen art students from all classes. These pieces are a portrait in oils by Ruth Sadler; a portrait in colored chalks by Betty Evans; a portrait in pastels by Grace Whitaker and Betty Evans; a figure sketch in chalks by Mary Katherine Bowen; a lettograph, "Bank Night," by Sara Bell Palmer; five pen and pencil poems by Betty Evans, Rosanna Posey, and Eleanor Browne; first year design by Ruth Sadler, and an advanced design by Olivia Embry; composition by Sara Bell Palmer; composition by Doris McCullough; "Fire of Dragons" by Black and Sadler; landscapes in oils by Ruth Sadler, Mary Frances Moffitt, and Margaret Murray; still life in oils by Ruth Sadler and Martha Mackinnon; and Modern block print, "Monday," by Ruth Sadler.

Activities Shown

The exhibit of the physical education department is shown on a seven table six feet long, with an oval section of the table in the middle giving the effect of a shell. On the upper and lower levels of the table tennis, volleyball, basketball, and shuffleboard courts, and golf course, hockey and soccer fields, horseshoe pits, and an archery range are shown. The entire picture with small cardboard figures filling the various positions. Fastened to the wall above the table is a piece of beaver board with a picture of each sport on it. On this board are thirty-eight pictures showing the different sports being offered.

Industrial Art

The industrial arts department is displaying examples of all types of work done by students in that department. Some of these types are pottery, batik scarves, wood veneer plaques, metals, basketry, modeling, woods, and metal work.

The exhibit of the department of the Demonstration school is a display of work done by students from the seventh to the twelfth grades. Among the outstanding pieces are a portrait of Mary Washington, a modernistic writing desk by Pinkie Cobb, and a table by

Continued on page two

Versatile Mortar Board Now Presents Three Ring Circus for Campus Amazement and Entertainment

The Greatest show on Earth! Not Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey, or Downie's, but the Circus Maximus which is to be presented Tuesday night, 7:45 p. m., in the college auditorium by Mortar Board.

Preceding the circus a parade will take place around the campus. Clowns and animals—tigers, lions, horses, elephants—all will be there to entertain. The parade will then proceed to the auditorium where the circus will be held.

Three rings filled with star performers will furnish the spectators with breathless excitement during the program. Acrobatic stunts will be given by Jo Shinall; Marjorie Tillis will yodel cowboy songs. There will be real thrills when Martha Mackinnon presents her high dive from a height of 110 feet. The mysterious lady with the Radio Mind will unveil her secrets. As a stirring climax Ringmaster Mary Jeanne McKay will present her act with the trained wild animals.

Other performers who will entertain are Eleanor Williams, Mary Kathryn Gibeon, Frances Porth, Shirley Stephens, Hazel Bowman, Mary Turner, and Sue Whitaker.

Bands will play, clowns will make merry, peanuts and pop corn will be sold. A three-ring circus is coming to the campus. Let's go!

Cuts Extended To Frosh For Final Weekend

Semester 'B' Average Will Carry for Second Quarter Rating

The first quarter's work in Florida State social semester come to a close Saturday, instead of Friday, as had been stated in the catalogue, Registrar R. S. Doyle has made known. In order that freshmen may take advantage of the between-quarters week-end, President Doyle announced that they will not be put on administrative probation if their cuts have not been exhausted. The cuts taken at this time will be deducted from the allowance received by the student during the second semester.

Classes will be suspended all day Wednesday, for Armistice day celebrations, Dr. Doyle announced.

Concerning cuts for upperclassmen, Registrar Doyle stated semester 'B' average will carry for second quarter rating. A student who has a average of P.S.C. for the first preceding semester or summer session will be allowed twenty cuts the first quarter. If she makes no two "unsatisfactory" marks the first quarter she will be allowed fifteen cuts the a cond quarter. If she makes no "unsatisfactory" marks she will be placed on probation and will have no cuts the second semester. When a student has exceeded her allowed number of cuts for any quarter she will be placed on administrative probation for the following quarter and will be notified immediately by the registrar.

Students may transfer fifteen or more semester hours from other institutions to Florida State and still cuts per quarter for the first semester and the regular number provided for the second.

Other regulations announced by Mr. Doyle are that students in school work and freshmen requirements, will be allowed to graduate who has accumulated as many as fifteen hours and sufficient quality points over the 'C' average. The academic probation shall be considered a second semester freshman.

Students who have attended P.S.C.W. and attend summer school or a regular session elsewhere will be allowed to graduates ma... here the last semester or summer session attended. They will be allowed to graduate work on this basis as work completed during a semester of the regular year.

Biologists Get OddSpecimens From Dry Lake

Fish and Turtles Remain In Large Lake Bed At Tallahassee

Lake Jackson, seventeen miles long, situated northwest of Tallahassee on the Quincy highway, went dry with the exception of a small water-hole last Saturday.

This "disappearing" of Lake Jackson occurring at various times before; some people say that it occurs every seven years, but this is not accurate. The lake is peculiar in this: it does not dry up at once, but the rate of seepage of the water goes out through a hole in the bottom of the lake. It tends to go dry during dry seasons, but there is no satisfactory explain it, since Lake Iamonia, another large lake near Lake Jackson having the same disappearing habit, will be full while Lake Jackson is drying up.

Whenever this lake dries up thousands of fish perish on the dry lake bed. Mr. Ed Ely, Florida Water Fish and Game Department have attempted to transfer fish from the lake to other lakes but the process is difficult and expensive.

Mr. Archie Carr and Mr. W. K. Wallace, members of the biology staff of the University of Florida, having been wired news of the lake's drying up by Dr. Raymond Bellamy of Florida State college, came to Tallahassee Sunday to collect fish and turtles for specimen for zoology work at Gainesville. Dr. Belamy, Dr. Douglas Hopkins, state game warden, and Mr. Wallace's father accompanied them in collecting trip.

Only a small water-hole, about eighteen inches deep, remained, containing hundreds of fish we left Sunday. The game fish, bass, bream, and perch, were dead, but great numbers of catfish and turtles were still alive.

The large number of fish and turtles collected will be a big interesting and valuable, Mr. Carr, specialist in herpitology, said. Specimen will be kept in large tanks for Florida, and the bream were entirely different from those found in the lakes around Gainesville. The fifty-six turtles collected ranged in size from that of a dime to that of a goose's egg, to large snapping turtles, the largest being about eighteen to twenty inches across. Mr. Carr said that many interesting variations were found among them, and that after careful study new varieties might be discovered.

Flambeau Has Two Delegates At Louisville

McGuire, Bowman Hear Journalists Address College Editors

JOHN B. KENNEDY TALK FEATURED

Associated Collegiate Press Meeting Draws Many Students

Bringing back new ideas in the field of college journalism, Hazel Bowman and Lillie McQuire, editor and business manager respectively of the Flambeau, returned this week from the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Louisville, Ky.

The press conference which was held at the Brown hotel, marked the fifteenth annual meeting of college newspaper representatives from all over the United States. At this time the freshmen will pledge their allegiance to their Alma Mater.

Louise Lingo, who is chairman of the Pealty ceremony which will be presented tomorrow night in the auditorium. At this time the freshmen will pledge their allegiance to their Alma Mater.

Besides numerous addresses by well known men and women, sixty colleges and universities were represented by 240 delegates coming from thirty-three states. The varied three-day program, during which time eight formal round table discussions, talks by outstanding journalists of the day, a convention banquet, panel discussions, and two convocations.

Convocation Celebrities

The convention opened Thursday, October 29, when B. B. Brigham, Columbia Scientific school at the University of Louisville, Rodney Dutcher, of Louisville, and James P. Hanratty, president of the National Collegiate Press association, each gave addresses of welcome to the assembled delegates.

In an address titled "If I Were a College Editor," Dutcher, who is associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, presented the theme of the convention. Mr. Agar told his listeners that "the college press must grow up," that it must define issues in its own mind before it tries to define them for its readership.

Round-table meetings and panel discussions were the convention fare for Friday. Ran-

Continued on page two

Parents Will Be Honorees

Alumnae Homecoming Will Be Scheduled Later by Request

Honoring parents of students at Florida State college, Parents-Homecoming will be held, forgiving festivities this month in place of the annual Homecoming which has heretofore been observed.

Alumnae of the college will have their homecoming later in the year, the exact date of which will be held. The change in Homecoming was made partly because the parents of students cannot leave their positions or business for Homecoming and partly because better provisions for entertaining parents and alumnae can be made if they come at different times.

The Homecoming committee which has been appointed to make plans for Parents-Day includes Miss Maude Flowers, chairman, Miss Florence Tyron, Miss Lelia Ven, Miss Ruth Greene Montgomery, and Miss Kemper Moore.

Cotillion Club Elects Michel, Heper to Fill Organization Offices

Mary June Michel and Marion Heper were elected fall term vice-presidents of vice president and secretary of Cotillion club at a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Kappa Delta house.

The annual Thanksgiving dance were discussed by the members of the Cotillion club which will be the responsibility of the committee to plan all dances on campus.

At a former meeting Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson was chosen faculty adviser.

Other officers and members are Jane Thorin, president; Lilla Paramore, treasurer; Phil Asher, Jane Crook, Jere Crook, Mary Frances Hales, Ann Musell Virginia Peyton, Sue Whitaker, Dorothy Ann Bowden, Dawn, Delia Mae Lockwood, Dot Olmstead and Nell Robey Webb.

Alma Mater To Hear Traditional Pledge

Chairman

Annual Fealty Ceremony Will Be Presented Tomorrow Night

TURNBULL HAS LEADING ROLE

Louise Lingo is General Chairman Assisted By Autrey

The traditional fealty ceremony of Florida State college will be held Saturday night in the auditorium. At this time, uniting the theme which was presented last year, the freshman class will pledge loyalty to their Alma Mater.

The story used in the ceremony is of the unveiling of a sculptor's masterpiece, in which the artist strove to show perfection in living. The frieze represents Florida State college, and is dedicated to the women of the state of Florida. The sculptor dreams that the figures in the frieze come to life, and that they pledge loyalty to the central figure, Alma Mater, or Femina Perfecta. He awakens to find that his dream has come true.

Given Each Year

The Fealty ceremony is presented each year under the direction of the Women's Academic council. Louise Lingo is general chairman. She will be assisted by Katherine Autrey Ashton is director of speech.

Members of Cast

The characters are as follows: sculptor, Reva Hemphill; master of ceremonies, Marian Grinnell; sculptor's daughter, Elizabeth Jacoby; Alma Mater, Bunny Cleveland and Polly Evelyn Hall; married this year's work.

The program is being sponsored by the freshman advisory council, of which Jo Rouison is chairman. Freshmen may sign up for the group in which they wish to participate. Meetings will be held once a week under the direction of a faculty member who is especially interested in that particular subject.

These extra curricula activities were designed for those girls not already taking part in several activities. The first four classes under the head of appreciate activities were art, music drama, and books. The next group, creative work, included writing, writing, designing, and debating. Avocational activities were divided into nature study, photography, amateur photography. Social classes—the last division—considered personal appearance, entertaining, home making, and interior decorating, and social dancing.

A brief talk on traditions in general was given by Ermine Lawrence who argued that it is the intangible things that we remember from college. For this reason, Florida state college traditions of the students' attitudes, if could be kept and shared with future classes.

The history of fealty was sketched by Mary Lawrence and Jane Crook. Homecoming also can be made if they come at different times.

The committee which has been appointed to make plans for Parents-Day includes Miss Maude Flowers, chairman, Miss Florence Tyron, Miss Lelia Ven, Miss Ruth Greene Montgomery, and Miss Kemper Moore.

Freshmen Heal Of Activities Open For Class

Orientation Period Ends; Lawrence, Ostlund, Eveleth Speak

Concluding the formal orientation program, an enumeration of freshmen extra-curricular activities offered to freshmen was made yesterday at the regular chapel assignment meeting. Three short talks by Ermine Lawrence, Betty Ostlund and Polly Eveleth enumerated this year's work.

The program is being sponsored by the freshman advisory council, of which Jo Rouison is chairman. Freshmen may sign up for the group in which they wish to participate. Meetings will be held once a week under the direction of a faculty member who is especially interested in that particular subject.

These extra curricula activities were designed for those girls not already taking part in several activities. The first four classes under the head of appreciate activities were art, music drama, and books. The next group, creative work, included writing, designing, and debating. Avocational activities were divided into nature study, photography, amateur photography. Social classes—the last division—considered personal appearance, entertaining, home making, and interior decorating, and social dancing.

A brief talk on traditions in general was given by Ermine Lawrence who argued that it is the intangible things that we remember from college. For this reason, Florida state college traditions of the students' attitudes, if could be kept and shared with future classes.

The history of fealty was sketched by Mary Lawrence and Jane Crook. Homecoming also can be made if they come at different times.

The committee which has been appointed to make plans for Parents-Day includes Miss Maude Flowers, chairman, Miss Florence Tyron, Miss Lelia Ven, Miss Ruth Greene Montgomery, and Miss Kemper Moore.

Roosevelt Supporters Strong in Flambeau Poll

In line with the "Daily Princetonian's call for collegiate preelection polls, Florida State College for Women held a straw vote last week-end. Out of approximately 1,000 students on this campus only one hundred cast ballots, according to the sixty-two votes for Roosevelt, thirty-six for Landon, and two for Thomas.

An observer would immediately conclude that the majority of the students were little interested in national politics. Yet the feverish excitement of the campaign rallies and presidential candidates in dining hall and smoking room, together with the distribution of flowers and the flourishing of campaign buttons, would have given on cost lapels would tend to disprove any attitude of indifference.

Questioning some of the students who failed to vote it was found that the only legitimate excuse was that of negligence and carelessness.

One hundred and twelve collegiate publications throughout the nation cooperated in the national collegiate poll on the presidential election conducted by the Princeton university's campus paper.

Though colleges and universities of fourteen states did not submit reports, Mr. Roosevelt received votes cast amounted to 80,598. Of those who voted, 54,977 cast votes for Roosevelt, 35,708 for Landon, 2,526 for Thomas, 2,143 for Browder, 1,119 for Lemke, and 135 for Others. It is interesting to note that the majority of the votes of students of the nation favor a progressive party with a tinge of the radical element.

Princeton university, remaining thoughtful conservative and republican in its vote, held odds in favor of Landon's election, as a result of an estimate of electoral votes by the states which gave the lead to Governor Landon. Now that Roosevelt is again the winner, one might surmise that the popular vote of the college students was much better at indicating the turn of the election than some of the national magazine polls.

Ballots submitted to students on this campus requested reasons for the voter's choice as well as their parents' choice.

Roosevelt supporters seemed to feel that it was the question "Why change horses in the middle of the stream?" that the President should be given a second term that the great constructive program he had started. Besides, some voters commented, that the present administration is "for" all classes particularly the laboring class. He is the "best country back on its feet and brought it out of the depression city." One voter said, "He is a Trojan to the cause. I like his social security trend, and my wife is a good first lady."

Republican Landonites thought it as time the country had a man in office who could balance the budget; that Landon was the best man because he believed in the Constitution and Democracy; that the Republicans ought to be given a chance to return to us sanity again, the Democrats had a chance for four years.

The reasons given by the two Thomas supporters are: (1) a

Continued on page two

League To Give Radio Program

Former Student to Speak Sunday Night Over Station WTAL

The Presbyterian Student league will present a program of peace Sunday night from 6:00 to 6:30 over station WTAL.

Dean Dodd, graduated from Florida State College and later year received her master's degree from Northwestern university, will be the main speaker on the program. Margaret Gourlie, Marian Conn, Maxine Ward, and Ruth Sandoff will sing accompanied by Eleanor Danzill at the piano and Bernice Bell at the organ. Mrs. Heilbonn, the president of the class in their Alma Mater.

Polly Eveleth summarized the Florida orientation program. Starting with its leaders, she told of their selection as well-adapted college girls and the training given for this orientation work. This training has been given for the increased enrollment but its result cannot be determined for several years. Although formerly, the program is finished, the leaders and college life itself will continue the work throughout the four years.

The last few minutes of this meeting were given over to the freshman leaders. Miss Katherine Rawls leading the first three. Even, songs were practised.

Juniors Elect Gruppe

A short business meeting of the junior class was held Tuesday, immediately after convocation, for the purpose of electing a new representative to senate. Kathleen Gruppe was elected to fill the position of Eileen Robinson, out-of-college student who was forced to resign because of too many duties.

The topic for the Presbyterian league program this Sunday night is "Is One Religion as Good as Another?" Those taking part in the program are Maxine Ward, Virginia Taylor, Dot Marwick, and Miriam Herrod.

Life Sketches Will Be Given By 2 Students

Roosevelt and Hitler To Be Topics At IRC Meeting

Sketches of the lives of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler will be given by two student speakers at the meeting of the International Relations club next Thursday at 5 o'clock in Brevard club room, Marguerite Browne is in charge of the program.

The brief histories are to show the contrast between leaders in the "Changing World" which is the object of the club's investigation for the year.

Dr. Marion Hay, who spent the greater part of last summer in Madrid with a group of students and teachers, painted for the club members at last week's meeting pictures of war-wracked Madrid as she saw it. Press reports from Madrid, she explained, were rigidly censored, though any correspondent who attempted to write the truth would have been impossible even if it had been permitted by the government. No one, in her opinion, had any real idea as to whether the war was turning—not within knowledge Madrid at least.

Once during her stay in Spain she visited the battle front. There she saw the girl women bearing rifles though she said there were many in the street patrols in the city.

Class in Speech Will Have Clinic

What, does your voice do for you? Do you stutter? Do you mumble? Do you get your tongue twisted when you try to tell your friends about that thrilling date? Do you talk in a high falsetto voice? Do you talk with a nasal twang? Do you jitter around and say "uh, uh, uh," when you can get feet to your thoughts? If you do any or all of these things, it is time to come and get a new voice!

You can't say it with money; you can't get it on a lottery. You can find it at the speech clinic which is being sponsored by the new speech department in memory of sufferers in the speech department.

The speech clinic is to be opened on Tuesday, November 10, on the top floor of the library and will remain open at 4:30 o'clock. Students and interested members of the faculty are welcomed.

The first speech clinic ever held on this campus was conducted last year. At that time seventy-five persons had their voices tested. About thirty of these, who had definite speech defects, were guided in correcting the manner in which they spoke.

Emphasis Week Ends Thursday with Address

Continued from page one

and religious leaders of his time came to command the admiration of his sense of personality, and as one who had compassion on human beings, not because it was a duty or even because it was a philosophy he had worked out, but rather because of a spontaneous feeling of the importance of human values.

On Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings, Dr. Smart conducted informal discussions in various dormitory parlors. The students asked him questions concerning peace movements, socialism, welfare work, explanatory books on the Bible, and questions concerning personal problems. This same program was carried out in the open forums Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, and in the sorority forums Monday afternoon and Wednesday night.

Alma Mater to Hear Traditional Pledge

Continued from page one

son; tryouts, Katherine Pratt, Lenore Patterson, and Winifred Swart; stage, Frances Lewis and Eileen Nicholson; music, Lois Bowen and Anna Norris; publicity, Betty Hatch and Dot Marwick; costumes, Dora Helen Bagot, Marsha Letzer, and Mary Ann Hart; dances, Janet Lockwood and Viola Brooks; speech and program, Becky Ashton and Charlotte Kenner.

Excellent Food
Well Served
Telephone 9109
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Seminole Cafe
Try Our Own Blue Plate—25c

College Girls Doff Dignity To Enjoy Hallowe'en Jokes

Students Make Big Night Of Reverting Again To Childhood

The dignity of college students is smashed.

College has always been considered a place where a girl may acquire culture and learning and a college student be supposed to stand out in a crowd for her poise, her air of know-what-to-do-and-when-to-do-it. Hallowe'en was an exception. Students of Florida State donned colored masks, fancy dress costumes, and set themselves to a night of fun and merriment.

Fun and enjoyment, which consisted of souping windows, throwing sand bags, ringing townspeople's doorbells, and other forms of entertainment gave onlookers a new insight into the culture derived from attending a woman's college.

Girls were those the only means of passing the time. Of course, there were those boys who actually pretended to think that it all rather silly, and stayed home and studied or went to bed early. Hallowe'en going to the picture show and to supper. It was rather useless to attend a show though, for one girl reports that automobiles were so loud that the tenderest love scenes were completely drowned with reverence to the latest thing used by Joe College and Betty Coed attached.

Toy horns were also very popular. The absence of quiet hour restrictions on Saturday night gave free reign to those who love to annoy their neighbors. Boxes from home were carefully hoarded until the bewitching night, and then replenished by excursions to various stores and sandwich shops near the campus. At a given time friends arrived, and were equipped horns, paper sashes, and noise makers with which to make the night resound. Much fun to all concerned, and one that so enjoyable to those not invited to join in the festivities, and trying to concentrate on one thing or another. Dormitory walls are notoriously thin when noise is trying to be kept out by one party, especially when the next door neighbors are students on having a good time, than on ceasing to be studious.

Well, even college girls can enjoy such occasions for mischief—once in a while.

The convention banquet and dance were the highlights of Friday night. Music was furnished by Marion Rosemon's orchestra, and a floor show was presented.

Saturday's schedule also included round-table discussions on features in the day's news, better editorial page columns, better sports coverage, and national advertising and the college newspaper.

Before boarding a south-bound train for Florida, Lillie and Hazel saw the University of Louisville win a football game from George-town university with a 12-8 score.

AAUW to Hold Meet

The monthly meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held Monday, November 9 at 7:30 o'clock in the Methodist students house. The international relations committee will be in charge of the entertainment, and an interesting program is promised. A forum will be led by Dr. Marion Hay, who will discuss the revolution in Spain. All students and friends are invited to attend the meeting.

Several Graduates '36 Write Alumnae Office

Several graduates of last year have recently reported their whereabouts to the alumnae office here.

Miss Sarah Graham, library major, is full-time librarian in an elementary school in Danville, Virginia. Miss Sarah Krentzman is librarian and English teacher at Zephyrhills, Florida.

Miss Nellie Taylor is teaching the seventh grade at Perry grammar school, Perry, Florida. Miss Effie Pattiho is teaching at Mainland junior high school in Daytona Beach, Florida.

F. S. C. W. Exhibits Are Displayed at Exposition

Continued from page one

Sam Gritner, magazine racks by John Deisl and Billy Reeves, a smoking stand by Frank Linay, a cocktail table by Paschal Duggar, a serving tray by Fred Millar, a wall shelf by Jim Lee and Bruce Pendell, a colonial drop leaf table by Glenn Terrell, a cedar chest by Ben Carpenter, and a letter holder by Sarah Helen Hendry.

Flambeau Has Two Delegates at Louisville

Continued from page one

dolph L. Port, instructor in journalism at the University of Alabama, said that interpreting writing is coming into its own and that he also said that the journalists of the future will need a college education. Mark Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal told the delegates to "set standards of judgment" and "develop a philosophical calm."

The convention banquet and dance were the highlights of Friday night. Music was furnished by Marion Rosemon's orchestra, and a floor show was presented.

Saturday's schedule also included round-table discussions on features in the day's news, better editorial page columns, better sports coverage, and national advertising and the college newspaper.

Before boarding a south-bound train for Florida, Lillie and Hazel saw the University of Louisville win a football game from George-town university with a 12-8 score.

Council Names Several Groups

Seven Committees Chosen And Year Program Is Discussed

Sophomore council this week announced its committees and program for the year. The seven committees covering various activities on campus, and each council girl is a member of at least one of the committees. This year Sophomore council will sponsor a project, the nature of which has not yet been announced.

Committees are as follows: program, Becky Ashton, Dot Borders, Neil Colvin, Jean Gillies, Anne Knight, and Anna Tilden; entertainment, Rachel Ann Bagot, Estelle Patterson, Anne Ladd, Mary Manning, and Beauford Thrower; project: Winifred Ewart, Peggy Fowler, Betty Harrison, Betty Hatch, and Mary Emily Parker.

Devotional, Sue Pinner, Chairman; Mary Emsign, Carol Ramsay, Betty Sharpe, and Ann Skinner; publicity: Katherine Bass, Marion Blair, Jean Bogbarras, Mary Ann Hart, and Esther Lee Hall; social: Louise Bunny Lowry, Harriet Duke, Lois Marwick, Dc. Rickards, Margaret Malouf, and Mary Sharon Pharmacist, Florence Ward, Evelyn Wilson, and Mary Ellen Wyatt.

Dr. Marion Usher, chairman of the executive mansion. At each place beside the gift packages cards bearing the Kansas state seal in gold, were oblong packages wrapped in yellow paper and tied with white ribbon. Each contained a powder and lipstick compact. Mrs. Landon had shopped for the gifts and had them all wrapped.

Jane was graduated from Florida State College for Women in 1936.

Tracy Acclaimed College Heroine

It has often been said that April showers bring May flowers but I wonder what the November showers bring. The college kitchen will do to the dining-room girls who felt rain from the rafters while they eat their water pitchers for the breakfast meal last week.

One of the large water supply tanks sprung a leak during rain from it developed a leak at the most inopportune time last Wednesday morning. Dietitians forgot their pencils, pantry-girls left their grapefruit unsqueezed, dining room girls stopped with muffins in one hand and coffee pots they happened to have in hand at the time; and all gaped.

Miss Anna Tracy, head dietitian, proved to be the heroine of the morning when she rushed in among the startled crowd and climbed about the framework of a supply truck, which to add to the fun of things, started slowly sliding backward, to reach the water cut-off. Miss Tracy, however, won out over the sliding truck, and wiped away the storm clouds by a firm tug at the cut-off.

Malaysan bees live on nectar the year round, but they continue to make honey all the while. Sometimes the huge honeycombs grow to such proportions that the tree limbs on which they are placed give way under the strain.

Howls of Despair Greet Mid-Week Armistice Day

Thirty-two Essays Submitted to CGA

Thirty-two essays were entered in the college government contest this week on, "What Civilian Duty in Student Government on This Campus," according to Mary Jeanne McKay, president. The contest closed Tuesday, November 3.

A prize of five dollars will be awarded the writer of the winning essay in convocation next Tuesday morning.

Jane Rockwell Powders Nose at Landon Dinner

Jane Rockwell, a graduate of Florida State college, was given an opportunity to powder her nose at the dinner given by Alfred M. Landon last week.

According to an A. P. news dispatch from Topeka, Kansas, October 22, a former journalism student here and now on the Topeka Daily Capitol, was one of seven young newspapermen to be guests at an "off-the-record" dinner the wife of the Republican presidential candidate gave at the

McKay Talks at First Meeting of Transfers From Other Colleges

Transfers from other colleges had their first meeting yesterday morning, when Mary Jeanne McKay, president of the student body, in charge. Mary Jeanne officially welcomed the transfers into State college, explaining that transfers were an important part of the student body.

The transfer students were asked to express their opinions on various phases of campus life, such as the College Government association, the traditions of the college, and girls' activities. After the students themselves, since they could see mistakes as well as the good points in each, and also by comparison with the college from which they had transferred. They were also asked to write their names and home town activities on other campuses, in order to give them a better chance to acquaint themselves with those interested and enter into such activities on this campus.

Mary Jeanne suggested that the transfers present a program in convocation during the year. One given last year by the transfers proved very successful. There are 106 transfer students this year.

Virginal Forest Felled

The oak trees on the lot between Prof. Arthur Williams, and Prof. Barber's were cut down last week. This small "virginal forest" was the newest spot to the college campus, and will soon be replaced by a house.

Nine million pieces of linen are yearly annually by travelers on Pullman cars.

Vacation Fever Strikes Campus; Repulsed By Pro List

BY MAXINE PUGATE

"It's a yp! Do you realize that Armistice comes on Wednesday and that is exactly all the vacation we'll get?"

So the first attack of vacation fever strikes the campus. Each year the first cold weather brings on an attack of vacation fever just as it brings the first onslaught of fall clothes. As regularly as students don their new suits, they dig out catalogues and handbooks and begin to plan vacations.

There is always a great deal of anxiety about the days they come to college to miss and then don't have a chance to miss. Sometimes if a holiday falls near the beginning or end of the week they have to attend to an extra day or two. Then the girls have that longed-for opportunity to go home and open their purse to acquired collegiate airs.

On the other hand, if the holiday happens to come in the middle of the week, an uproar of complaints is emitted, for if the holiday is not extended students, unless they live near Tallahassee, are formed to waste a perfectly good holiday on campus.

This year Armistice and Thanksgiving come in the middle of the week. Surrounded as these days are by class-days few girls will be able to leave campus.

The first real vacation, therefore is Christmas. This opportunity to return home from Saturday at 11:30 Friday, December 18.

Then the scramble begins. There is the rush to collect the clothes you've lent and to return those you've borrowed. Some of them need mending and cleaning. A few of the inconsiderate will storm about mending and cleaning but the wiser take their clothes home in that same sad condition. What mother or dad could withstand a pitiful, mute plea for decent clothes?

Packing is a problem, too. Some girls begin to pack days before the holiday. Others wait 'till the night before they are to leave. Still others are closing their over-filled suitcases with the bus or taxi waits. It's good to have a hefty friend or roommate at this time.

Then comes the rush for the bus, taxi, or car, the last good-byes and you're away from college. But the fun has only begun.

Parties, dates, food, dancing, fill the holiday completely. Old friends, new friends, relatives smother you with good times. It's a mad whirlwind of activity.

But before you quite realize it, it's all over. Suitcases are trip again, a bunch of school friends, a few hours of sleepy and tomorrow the old grind of classes begins. If you could only have another vacation to recuperate from and catching up on lessons and parallel. So you vow to take it easier next vacation.

By the time Easter comes, however, all the discomforts and sorrows the last vacation are forgotten. Again you plan to leave as soon as possible. So at noon on Thursday, March 25 when Easter vacation begins officially you will be ready to go home once more, unless you have had no classes Thursday morning and have been lucky enough to be able to sleep late that morning or even smoutime Wednesday.

Once more you rush through the round of social affairs. Once more you return as late as you possibly can for classes and vow never to be so dumb again until the next opportunity for a holiday comes along.

The House of Rothschild, famed money-lending organization, supplied the rulers of several European countries with resources needed to carry on their conquests.

Library Exhibits Show Politics and Religion In Books and Pictures

In keeping with the Religious Emphasis week the exhibits of the library concern some of the newer books on religion. These include a wide and constructive variety of books on the subject, which has been brought to renewed interest during this week.

Continuing the exhibits on political subjects of such interest at the present much space is being given over to this idea. In the center case are pictures of men "In the Political Limelight." Another case of pictures features "Women Voters in Action," showing prominent women who are in or interested in the coming elections. On a table with the theme "Understandable Pamphlets on Public Affairs" are placed many small pamphlets explaining briefly problems of current interest, including "Origin and Purposes of Current Federal Agencies," a brief Explanation of the Social Security Act," "The Facts Behind Policy of the United States" and many others on many of the different stories. The shelf of books on economic problems concerning the public and general interest at the time of election are still being featured.

Zoology Class Invades Gulf

Marine Census Includes Life of Habits of Sea Squirts, Crabs

Do sea squirts behave like grapefruit? Is a hermit crab as sociable than a snail? Do baby worms live on acorns?

These are some of the questions that members of the advanced zoology class may have asked when they set forth last week-end to take a marine "census" at Davis beach on the coast about 150 miles from Tallahassee.

The students waded about one of the gulf waters collecting specimens, making notes, and observing hermit crabs, snails and sea worms which they brought back to the college to be preserved. They also went out in row boats to deeper water to observe various forms of sea life. They identified specimens and Miss Irene Boddie of the zoology department

Flastacowo to Include New Feature Division Of Sorority Picture

The annual photo that you have members of the sorority take informal snap-shots of the activities of their sorority and making coffee in the kitchen. Providing anything that the camera clicker thinks a good material to snap-shoot. It may mean, perhaps ten, of the best submitted by each sorority will be printed in the Flastacowo. This is being sponsored by Panhellenic and Mary McCullough, president of Panhellenic, requests sorority members to start taking the snapshots. Beginning next week there will be a box on the lower floor of the Ad building for the pictures.

Frances Forth, editor, has announced juniors may buy Flastacowo annual pictures today until Saturday, Nov 8, at 11:30. Seniors also may buy them until Nov. 14. The week of Nov 16-23 is the week for anyone who has not had her picture taken.

SPARKS
STATE
PHONE 180
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
November 6-7
Errol FLYNN in "THE CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE"
OLIVIA de HAVILLAND
DONALD CRISP
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
November 8-9
WOMEN HE BRAVE...BUT...
Valiant is the CARRIE with GARY COOPER
LUISE RAINER
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10
THEY MET IN A TAXI
CHESTER MORRIS
FAY WRAY
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 11
"Gay Desperado"
with
Nino Martini
Leo Carillo
Ida Lupino
THURSDAY, NOV. 12
Heroes on the Gridiron
THE ROSE BOWL
WILLIAM FRAWLEY
CONSTANCE WORTHY
GEORGE O'HANLON
LARRY CRABBE
ALAN BAXTER

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE
Iron out your laundry worries
SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY
By the Railway Express Route...
Let their dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and deliver your clothes and look for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.
Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.
You'll find rates economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 36 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.
117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 453-R
Tallahassee, Florida
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Sophomore Susie Says:
It's Easier to Concentrate when your FEET aren't on Your Mind!
As always — you'll find the smartest, most desirable styles at our regular low prices. . . Choose from suedes — suedes with pat-ent or calf — and the new dark browns, greens or black. . .
$1.99
Youthful! Swanky! Comfortable!
LIPPMAN'S
HUB STORE
"Where You Get Your Money's Worth or Money Back"

In our store you will find a complete line of bags, gloves and hose. Bags in suede and kid, in soft greens, warm reds, brown, black and navy. Gloves that match the bags; hose in all the latest shades.
BAGS ..... $1.00 — $4.95
GLOVES ..... $1.69 — $2.95
HOSE ..... $1.00 — $1.35
P. W. WILSON COMPANY
—Since 1837—

The French say that to be a well-dressed woman you should spend three-fourths of your clothing allowance for accessories.

Sport Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

This week, Martha Makemson has contributed the second in a series of comments on sportsmanship, which will appear in this sport column until Thanksgiving.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN RECREATION

It is generally accepted that the principle of good sportsmanship is applicable to all phases of life. It is discussed however without much only no tickets to the meet, these only 300 tickets to the meet, these will be held for the parents and guests and should be secured in advance.

Astronomy Club Groups To Compile Scrapbooks

Members of the Astronomy club met in their first group meetings of the year Wednesday night when projects and plans for the year were discussed.

There are ten groups composed of about five girls each under the direction of an old member. Eight groups have as a project the compilation of data on various subjects related to astronomy. Gladys Wray's group is to compile a scrap book on scientific facts; Marie Jeffre's, one on mythology of the stars; Martha Lester's, on poetry of the stars; Helen Birmingham's, observations; Dorothy Garriga's, meteors; Betty Knapp's, comets; Ethel Runyan's, the moon; and Marie Betty Russell's, astrology.

Two groups will work on the project of making scaled slides of the important constellations. Virginia Ireland's group will work on the slides themselves, while those of these groups will concentrate on a projector for the slides. At the end of the year each group will make its report to the whole club and the scrapbooks and slides will be handed on to next year's groups.

Bellamy to Speak Today

Dr. Raymond Bellamy, of the sociology department, will be the guest speaker this afternoon at the regular meeting of the Jewish Woman's Organization to be held at the Delta Phi Epsilon house.

12 Intramural Games Played Off This Week

Volleyball and Basketball Included in Sports Competition

Five basketball games and seven volleyball games were played off this week in the intra-mural sports schedule. Interest among the students is great, and rivalry among the teams has reached a new high.

This week's basketball schedule reached a climax yesterday in the two hard-fought games between the Episcopal and Dining Room girls teams and Zeta Tau Alpha and Chi Omega teams.

Whole Outstanding

The Episcopal vs. Dining Room girls game was the closest that has been played here this year. The score at the half was only 2 to 1 in favor of the latter, and third quarter the Episcopals led by a score of 10 to 5, and were pressured to keep that lead until the end of the game. The final score was Episcopal 29, Dining Room girls 14. Betty White, center forward on the Episcopal team, was easily the outstanding forward on the court.

The line-ups were as follows: Episcopals—Barrington, R. G.; Jennings, L. G.; Knowlton, C. G.; Thomas, R. F.; Mutterling, L. F.; B. White, C. F. Dining Room girls—Emerson, R. G.; Swiley, L. G.; Porter, C. G.; Brunner, R. F.; Kinkaid, L. F.; Hall, C. F.

Sixteen Fouls

Although there was a different kind of sixteen points in the final score of the Zeta Tau Alpha-Chi Omega game, there was never lacking in excitement. The game was a hard rough-and-a total of sixteen fouls was chalked up against the players, and the majority of these fouls occuring during the last half. The Zeta Tau Alpha team was victorious with a score of 2" to 12. The line-ups were as follows: Zeta Tau Alpha—Shows, R.F.; Waerhouse, L.F.; Britt, C.F.; Fox, R.G.; Rice, L.G.; Wadsworth, C.G. Chi Omegas—Lewis, R.F.; Towne, L.F.; Texado, C.F.; Watson, R.G.; Moore, L.G.; Hamilton, C.G.

Definite Win Takes

Monday afternoon Spirogira beat the Presbyterian team to the tune of 34 to 13. The score at the half was 16 to 6 in favor of Spirogira, and they kept a definite lead for the remainder of the game. The line-ups were as follows: Spirogira—Engelhardt, R.F.; G'Haver, L.F.; Lyle, C.F.; Makeman, R.G.; Tuck, L.G.; Bierens, C.G. Presbyterians — Cravens, R.F.; White, L.F.; Moore, C.F.; Marwick, R.G.; Green, L.G.; West C.G.

Tuesday afternoon the Tri-Delta team beat the Broward team decisively by the score of 28 to 5. The Broward girls just couldn't get going and the excellent pass work among the Tri-Delt forwards spelled their defeat. Dorothy Olmstead chalked up 14 points for the Delts to win high point honors for the day.

The line-ups were as follows: Delta Delta Delta—D. Smith, R.F.; Olmstead, L.F.; Blake, C.F.; Collins, R.G.; J. Brown, L.G.; Skinner, C.G. Broward—Scott, R.F.; Anderson, L.F.; Trull, C.F. Reed, R.G.; Feiga, L.G.; Viertel, C.G.

Catholic Win

Tuesday afternoon also saw the Catholic Newman team defeat the Sophomore Council by a score of 26 to 12. The game was rather slow as the Catholic Newman victory was never in doubt. The line-ups were as follows: Sophomore Council — Borders, R.F.; Badger, L.F.; Gates, C.F.; Dube, R.G.; Walcott, L.G.; Lowry, C.G. Catholic Newmanites, Ryan, R.F.; Moinar, L.F.; Lytal, C.G.; Mack, R.G.; Morley, L.G., Lawhorne, C.G.

In the volleyball games played this week, the Chi Omega-Theta Upsilon game stands out as the closest contest. The final score was 34 to 23 in favor of Chi Omega. The Theta U's were on the small end of the score the entire first half, tied the score at 21 to 21 in the last few minutes of the game and forged from behind one point to lose the match. The line-ups of the teams were as follows: Chi Omegas — Hamilton, Towne, Lewis, Slade, Lee, Knight, Pinkerton, Morrison. Theta Upsilon—Hunt, Neff, Donnel, Beach, Elin. Hornbuckl, Tompkins, Hughes.

In the first afternoon of intramural games the Kappa Delta Theta team beat the Episcopal girls 2 to 0. The Thetas had things their own way throughout the game, and the Episcopals were never in doubt. The line-ups were as follows: Kappa Delta Theta—Morton, Kraney, Polk, Medlin, Bilcher, Barringer, Ramsky, Terrell, Edgecomb. Chi Omega—Bernstein, Hunn, Jennings, White, Williamson.

On the same afternoon the Alpha Xi Delta team defeated the Delta Phi Epsilon team 34 to 27. The line-ups were as follows: Alpha Xi—Cowan, Parsons, Bronson, Fryer, Mead, Ireland, Death, Triplett. Delta Phi Epsilon—Bacon, Biscoe, Sierksen, Kromenfeld, Wilensky, Feinberg, Tobin.

Monday afternoon the Alpha Chi Omega team defeated the Delta Phi Epsilon team 34 to 27. The score at the half was 22 to 17 in favor of the former, and their lead was never challenged. Line-ups were as follows: Alpha Chi Omega—Taffaleta, Vaughn, V. Taffaleta, A. Floyd, Diamond, Smith, Gilbert. Delta Phi Epsilon—Knapp, Scott, Hopkins, Shelley, White, Parker, Schreiber, Moore.

Wednesday afternoon Eastern crowed 42 points as against 20 for the Kappa Delta team. Eastern team work and cooperation proved too much for the Kappa Delt girls. The line-ups were as follows: Bierens — Mizelle, Conn, Lanier, Akin, Robinson, Spradlin, Gehan, Kepps Delta—Heifer, Ballenger, Throwe, Nash, Lamotte, Webster, Miles, Ernst.

Three games were played off yesterday afternoon. Eatern chalked up their second volley ball victory by defeating Alpha Phi Omega Delta 36 to 16. The Eastern team is really clicking and has little trouble in winning yesterday's game. The line-ups for these games were: Eatern — Lykes, Gehan, Spradlin, Oslund, Marsh. Alpha Gamma Delta—Herlihy, Hammond, Flesher, Satterfield, Mullins, J. Hodgeson, B. Hodgeson, Gustafson.

In the second game played yesterday Spirogira defeated the Alpha Chi Omega team in a close game with the final result set at 20 to 25. This makes one defeat and one victory for the Alpha Chi team. The line-ups for the game yesterday were as follows: Spirogira—Stevens, McMichael, O'Harer, Engelhardt, Deane, Peck, Miller, Forth.

The last game played to date in the intra-mural schedule was the Broward-Phi Phi game played yesterday afternoon. The Phi Phi team was defeated by the score of 19 to 11. The line-up were as follows: Broward—Anderson, Edwards, Wilson, Cook, Thorpe, Watson, Sands, Scott. Pi Phi—Ley, Mastern, Kennard, Allen, Robbins, Jewett, Miller, Wynn.

Parsons Will Speak

At the meeting of the Florida Federation Association of Colored People, which will be held in Dorcas Beach, tomorrow, Dr. R. B. Parsons, principal of the demonstration school, will give a talk on "Better Teaching Methods."

Date for Class Games To Be Announced Soon

A statement concerning the date of the class games cannot be made until the Saturday after Armistice is announced as either a holiday or school day, according to a report from the athletic associations at a special meeting held Wednesday.

Bicycle Hikes To Be Enjoyed Armistice Day

West Announces Opening Of Outing Club Activities

The first jaunt of the Outing Club will be a bicycle hike Armistice Day, according to Felicia West, president.

Arrangements will be made for two or three trips depending upon the number wishing to go. The bicycle hike was chosen as the first trip of the year due to the large number who signed the activity slip on the club bulletin board. All students who sign this sheet by the end of the week will receive invitations to hike at the nominal price of fifteen cents for an approximate two hour trip.

Since there are a limited number of bicycles those who are signed up first will receive preference as to the time of hiking. There will be hikes both in the morning and in the afternoon.

Winona Ireland and Miss Eunice Hurd, who have been working with Pelicia on this committee, will also accompany the hikers.

Classics Club Studies Ancient Roman Costume

"Roman dress" was discussed at the meeting of the classical club Tuesday night.

The first speaker on the program was Frederica Roberts, who discussed the dress of Roman women and girls. Holly Waker then discussed the dress of Roman men and boys. Josephine Evelyn Hammond compared the ancient dress with the modern Roman dress.

Kathleen Robinson, president, announced a club picnic at the meeting that anyone interested in the activities of the classical club is invited to attend the meetings.

In the glee worm family, only the female of the species is luminous.

Life Saving Corps Will Plan Festival

Regular meeting of the Life Saving Corps will be held Tuesday night to discuss the water festival to be presented at Thanksgiving and the annual Red Cross drive to be held on the campus next week. This meeting was postponed Tuesday because of Religious Emphasis Week activities.

Frogs Feature in Talk On Instruction Methods For Education Students

"Does education really educate?" was the theme of the talk on "Frogs," given by Dr. H. G. Deming, well known scientist, at a meeting of the members of the education department, last Thursday morning.

In his talk, which was concerned with the methods of instruction, Dr. Deming said, "What is the value of teaching if it does not help the student to go on and do something with that which he has learned?"

The talk was presented in a clever story about frogs. A meeting was called in the swamp to discuss the best methods of teaching a frog how to jump. Statistics from an unstated source showed that a frog could jump six inches with a high school education, and a foot more with a college education, but the statement was also made that a legless frog with a Ph. D. could not jump at all.

Finally, because of the clamor made by the heated arguments about whether frogs should or should not pledge themselves to fight if a war should occur, science, ethics, and over-population, the farmer who owned the swamp had it drained.

Lawrence Leads Vespers

The weekly Young Women's Christian Association vesper services will be held in the Augusta Conrad theater Sunday evening at 7:15, with Lawrence Bell presside. All students are invited to attend.

Plans Made For Armistice Camp

Leaders Hope to Further Frosh - Upperclass Friendships

Two large parties of freshmen and upperclassmen, under the leadership of Harriet Dube and Dorothy Marwick, have signed up for camp for Armistice day.

They plan to leave the night before Armistice and to return before breakfast the following day. The object of the trip is to give the freshmen complete change of environment and to further the exchange of friendships among students.

Miss Doris Terrell, graduate of Florida State College and a major in speech, will give a reading immediately after dinner Armistice day. Plans for other entertainment are being made by Dorothy Marwick and Katherine Todd but nothing definite has been decided upon. However, the girls are planning to have a "wall-eat-ion" their last night there to discuss say and eat-ables.

Miss Rachel Wylie, Presbyterian student leader, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Dean, will accompany the party.

Senior Class Elects Cheerleader Thursday

At a meeting of the senior class held last night in 203 A.B. building Ruth Lind was elected senior cheer leader.

The selection of senior rings was discussed and the majority of those present favored the new rings which are offered this year in preference to the ring which has been in use here since 1924. With the approval of the executive council this ring, lighter than the ring used in former years, with the emblem carved on the ring surface will be officially adopted.

It was also decided that in the future seniors will march into convocation in cap and gown instead of by number, as has been done so far this year.

Schedule is Announced For Thanksgiving Tilts

Following the worship service Thanksgiving morning, the traditional Odd-Even volleyball and basketball games will be played. Unless there is a change in schedule the volleyball game will be played at nine o'clock and the basketball game at ten o'clock, according to Betty Deane, president of the athletic association.

The morning meet is to begin at 11 a'clock. Since there are only 300 tickets to the meet, these will be held for the parents and guests and should be secured in advance.

Foot-Lotions Proclaimed Cure-All for Muscle Creakings, Corns

BY ALBERTA PATRICK

The serious frown of concentration, the joyous smile of mastery, the superior smirk of conscious ambition are among the various expressions on the faces of participants in tap dancing classes.

Whether the girl be fat, skinny, tall, short, blonde, brunette, or red-headed her face is a true mirror of her feelings toward the particular step in question. Only young men's stabs that she actually hit pieces from her tongue while she was learning a difficult step? Others say that wrinkles from frowns caused by perplexing foot intrigue are rapidly increasing. And this rapt attention, though necessary to get that desired 'A' surely causing many cases of acute squinting.

Drug stores report a marked increase in the sale of wrinkle-removing and wrinkle-pre-vening creams. Local merchants are now offering a complete line in foot creams and lotions to say nothing of perfumed foot-bath preparations, to relieve the ever present ailments due to over-working of feet by the youthful dancers.

While no cases have reported to the infirmary for treatment, olive oil and alcohol procured from the drug stores is being freely applied to relieve aching muscles and creaking joints. And after doctoring the blisters, there are calouses remaining which time alone can cure.

This and more are the aspiring miss will suffer in order to be able to show her envying campus cutups that she has been under her preset family that she has learned at least to log dance in college.

During the months of warm weather, more golf balls are sold than any other single item of sport equipment.

Tap Dancing Causes Many Aches, Pains

PHONE 800 MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY

SATURDAY'S SPECIALS

50c Ipana Tooth Paste	29c	50c Rubbing Alcohol, pt.	14c
50c Jergen's Lotion	29c	$1.10 Coty Dusting Powder	98c
25c Carter's Liver Pills	17c	50c Squibb's Milk Magnesia	29c
25c Ex-Lax	17c	25c Blue Jay Corn Pads	19c
10c Lux Soap, 3 for	14c	25c MOTEX	17c
KLEENEX 200's	15c	25c KOTEX	19c
		KLEENEX 500's	31c

Whitman's Hot Chocolate Fudge Sundae with Whipped Cream 10c

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BOSWELL ..... Associate Editor
MARTIN RICHARD ..... Managing Editor
EWEL W. CRISP ..... Sports Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Doris Glazier, Exchange, Virginia Earl Feature, Arline Cox, Lockart and Jane Quinn, Literary, Elizabeth Sharpe, Music, Mary Lou Hunter, Society, Dorothy Sanders, Radio, Alice Lee and Miles Archer, Assistant, Special Reporters, Ida Lee Sanders, Mary Lyn Mann, Sports, Eva Virginia Lee and Kenneth Ford.

REPORTERS: Ruth Bishop, Judy Atkinson, Dorothy Barnes, Sarah Bowden, Brooks, Frances Simmons, Peter, Cabaniss, Elizabeth Calder, Theresa Cone, Sara Dunlap, Mary Ellen Gilchrist, Mary Grace Hand, Dorothy Hartsfield, Mary Hill, Margaret Goodlet, Leona Hope, Betty Lou Jamerson, Jack Kelly, Ann Lane, Betty Lou Lewis, Elizabeth Ann Orlando, Mary Jeanne McKay, Alice Merchant, Ruth Pearce, Mary Perry, Mary Frances Pritchard, Nancy Rogers, Mary Shaver, Laura Spurlock, Elizabeth Sprer, Betty Sullivan, Anna Murray, Nancy Warrington.

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE MCGUIRE ..... Business Manager
LEAH MOSELEY ..... Advertising Manager
NAN O'BRIEN BEST ..... Circulation Manager
MARGARITE BROWN ..... Circulation Manager

Represented for National Advertising by
NATIONAL ADVERTISING SERVICE, INC.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago San Francisco Los Angeles
Portland Seattle

Member National Scholastic Press association and Florida Intercollegiate Press association

Entered at the post office in Tallahassee, Florida, January 30, 1915, as the post office at Tallahassee for under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Renewed Faith In Young America

The conviction of college journalists here in Louisville, Kentucky, last week was proof of the fact that regardless of what local conditions may indicate there does exist at least one group of students in this country who are interested in affairs at large.

It was encouraging after living three years on an apathetic campus to see young men and young women doing some real work on economic, national, and international problems. It was still more encouraging to learn that young Americans can cooperate, can come together for discussion of common problems and actually do some concrete analyzing and planning.

One would not think it possible in young America to find a group of students more interested in the future of government than in tonight's dance. One would be less apt if this student body in any way exemplifies other student bodies, to find a group which would voluntarily attend discussions and lectures when the entertainment features of a large city are as readily available.

The National Scholastic Press association convention was a revelation on these matters. It was proof that there are at least 350 students in America who are trying to push the collegiate world towards a fuller understanding of fundamental principles. It restored the faith of those who had lost faith in American youth as leaders, for the convention showed that there is at least a small nucleus of young Americans who are rising above the collegiate whirl occasionally to see what is happening of significance in the world today.

Some Matters Worth Considering

Did you ever hear the shriek of a woman trapped in a burning room with no way of escape? Did you ever think that the chance of that was your best friend on the top floor of the dormitory with a choice of leaping out of the window or burning to death?

And we complain because our gentle slumbers are disturbed an hour after light flash a corner to prepare us for some such emergency? We won't get our proper rest we know? We don't because we never choked to a smoke filled room or stood face to face with death in a furnace.

We own a fairly adequate fire system by which we practice about four times a year. One proper way of theirs, a building should consist of only fire hazard. How many students struggling or washing clothes would renounce the pretty sickly warning of our present fire bell? And what a hero a fire bell is the other buildings? What would happen if fire broke out in the...the administration building during classes. If there is a bell in this building few people have ever heard it and unfamiliarize confusion and confusion is not only possible but inevitable particularly on such laborious steps to the outside.

We are spending a great deal on money on building and insurance but what of the human cost? Wouldn't it be worth the cost of five minutes from classes six or eight times a year to acquaint students with methods of fleeing other buildings in the discharge?

We Suggest To Tallahassee—

The public school children of Tallahassee are to be commended for their behavior during Hallowe'en this year as far as the college is concerned. For once they did not throw paper over the grounds and mark up classroom windows. The nightwatchman reported that conditions were much better than ever before and that they appreciate the cooperation which Hallowe'en celebrators showed.

In the with this one of the watchmen has suggested that to prevent damage to property during the holiday some civic organization or the city government might provide entertainment for the young people of the town. This damage to mind the property of a person another city endorses to prevent another Hallowe'en vandalism.

Civic organizations, scout troops, and the city government organize teams of youngsters who spend the afternoon of Hallowe'en raising the yards of elderly people who are not able to perform the job for themselves. The leaves are collected and hauled to one central spot in the town and at the big bonfire that night a party with games and refreshments is staged. No youngster is willing to miss the party for less certain entertainment elsewhere, and civic officials take advantage of the opportunity to impress upon the children a few lessons in good citizenship.

Tallahassee and the college might cooperate in a similar program in years to come and not only prevent property damage but assure local youngsters with a regard for others.

A. S. U. Calls To Arms V. F. W.

National commanders of the Veterans of Future Wars has announced that the 300 charters of the women's home fire division and the Veteran posts are temporarily suspended.

The movement which spread rapidly last year over the campuses of America as an anti-munis nature became steadily less anti-munis and more amusing. The national commanders, who originated the movement at Princeton, refused to take a stand on the war question, despite the fact that many posts took part in the peace strike last April.

Now the V. F. W. are considering it as Leaders of the American Student Union, however, announced this week that they contemplate calling a convention of the V. F. W. groups, none of which were allowed to send to the national councils a decision to dis band.

This news may be of interest to those students in the Florida post of the Home Fire division of the V. F. W. that was organized here late last spring. The local post has approximately seven dollars in its treasury, according to its books which funds were to be used for disseminating anti-war literature this year. Members of last year's post might do well to contact the president of the American Student Union, George Edwards, 112 East Nineteenth St., New York City, in an effort to assist in continuing a national student anti-war movement.

We Reminisce Over Week's Program

Religious Emphasis Week has come and gone. A brilliant man has tolerably reempressed in our minds the fact that Jesus' life is still the greatest model we have for an art of living.

Jesus as Dr. Smart brought out, was a man who fought moneyed interests who organized the orthodox religion, who shunned not himself in any way from any unspiritual meaning. A personal reconsideration of his life brings to mind the numerous instances when each of us bows before these interests. It also brings to mind those persons we know who calmly consider these interests the only ends in living.

Yes, Religious Emphasis Week is over. If the Week has had any influence, certainly that influence cannot be measured in statistics, certainly, too, if any influence were felt, they are influences that will far outlast the Week. A change in thinking, a broadening of outlook, a heightening of the desire to lead "the good life," that, perhaps may be influences that are life-long. Whether or not these influences were felt simply does not on the individual's capacity for interpreting and integrating the meaning of Dr. Smart's words into her own everyday living.

We commend the Religious Emphasis Week committee on its choice of speaker and hope that students fully appreciated their opportunities to hear Dr. Smart during the week.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

This Week

Unprecedented Victory Goes To Roosevelttian Follow-ers-

In an election drama that grew more astounding hour by hour, President Roosevelt and associated this week to the greatest victory any presidential candidate has had in a century of the nation's history.

Two states, Maine and Vermont, with a total of 8 electoral votes, stood by the Landon side. New Hampshire and Wyoming spent election night in the Landon column but ended up in the Democratic ranks. Roosevelt received the 523 electoral votes of the other 46 states. It was the greatest approach to unanimity since the presidency of James Monroe in 1820 when only one electoral vote was cast against him.

Followers of Roosevelt say that his wide margin is a clear mandate to him to continue his liberal policies. But his defeated opponents — among them Al Smith—called upon the American people to rally behind him as president. Governor Landon sent a message to the president saying, "Every American will acquiesce in the result and work for the common cause of the welfare of our country." Roosevelt replied he also considered that a victory now pull together, for the common good."

* * *

The real surprise of the election was the size of the Democratic victory as the proportion of his sweep and the record majority of Democrats elected to the Senate and the House. The full power of the push for Roosevelt was evidenced in the lodge of his pluralities in states with big bundles of electoral votes to deliver. He captured New York by 1 200 000 Pennsylvania by 500,000, Illinois, by 400,000, California by 500,000 and Missouri by 400,000. New Jersey, for the first time in history, elected two Democratic senators, and gave Roosevelt a 150,000 plurality. Pennsylvania one time Republican stronghold, sent two Democrats into state offices and elected 25 Democrats to 24 of its congressional seats. Incumbent returns show that Democrats have won 19 and Republicans 2 of the 34 senate seats at stake. In the house Democrats have elected 267 of the 433 house members the Republicans 56.

* * *

Though Roosevelt got millions of votes he lost his home district at Hyde Park, New York where he voted, by 158 votes. Landon carried his birthplace in West Middlebury, Pennsylvania. Smith's favorite stalwark of New York—his election district, on Oliver Street on the east side—clung to Roosevelt by a wide margin.

* * *

Florida gave its 7 electoral votes to Roosevelt after a four to one plurality, elected Democratic for the house of Representatives and to the governorship Claude Pepper, Democrat was elected without opposition to fill the seat.

Continued on Page Six.

University Editorials . . . .

Those of us who have sleepless and droning nerves during the majority of our class hours; and then are out and gripe much take notice of the little talking to the Midland editors and their students.

We might suppose at first thought that students would be more in attendance classes, more contacts with instructors which distinguish college from correspondence school are made in classes. But these facts show that the opposite obtains. Therefore we might logically wonder if the difficulty is with the professor. And in part we would be correct. Some Midland professors might or might but be surprised to know his prosperities their classes are because they provide no stimulation to thought, nor no opportunity to arouse no desire to learn. Such classes like some of the bored to-be-there interviews is also brings to mind those persons we know who calmly consider these interests the only ends in living.

Yes, Religious Emphasis Week is over. If the Week has had any influence, certainly that influence cannot be measured in statistics, certainly, too, if any influence were felt, they are influences that will far outlast the Week. A change in thinking, a broadening of outlook, a heightening of the desire to lead "the good life," that, perhaps may be influences that are life-long. Whether or not these influences were felt simply does not on the individual's capacity for interpreting and integrating the meaning of Dr. Smart's words into her own everyday living.

We commend the Religious Emphasis Week committee on its choice of speaker and hope that students fully appreciated their opportunities to hear Dr. Smart during the week.

much easier simply to memorize a few facts for tomorrow's test or essay test, to do nothing and copy from someone else during exams. But it can be done and must be done if we are to make college more than an overgrown high school.

If we are to do away with the prison like atmosphere which our classrooms at present, both professors and students must realize that they are not bearers of college education, that learning results by failures and that by intelligent application failures can be made interesting and valuable.

* * *

Tower Times this week discusses the very potent question of the vocational guidance. Ye editor is inclined to disagree with the brisk stated ideal of transferred but of himself.

A leading woman educator recent, stated that a college education is a liability as such. it sometimes benefits by that fact. "Particularly" she held, education for women's colleges has gained depth and soundness because the students in these institutions are, as a rule, under no economic pressure."

We feel that there is a certain amount of truth in this statement. We feel that the clientele of women's colleges during the last six years has been of such a high economic level as to permit the elimination of all economic pressure. And where economic pressure cannot be eliminated it is impossible to emphasize educational work unless it can be shown to have remunerative value.

Of course the ideal arrangements, would be that one which would provide for public support of institutions of higher learning in order to prevent the limitation of such education to a

Continued on Page Six.

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed herein are those of the writer or writers and are not necessarily those of the Flambeau staff. All students are invited to contribute to Pro and Con.

Since Saturday classes have been inaugurated this year I believe that there is one accompanying change in the college set-up that has been overlooked—that of enhancing library hours Students who heretofore utilized Friday nights and Saturday morning for library research are forced, in the majority of cases, to do their work Saturday afternoons.

There are many reasons offered why the unchanged library hours have made it difficult for students to take advantage of a study in the library. Friday nights are usually used, we argue, for preparation of Saturday morning classes, which in turn makes it impossible to use that time. Saturday afternoons are certain to our rooms, that must be taken account of during the week-end, Saturday afternoon preferably, since laundrying and house-cleaning on Sunday are too relished by even the more hardened bachelors.

We suggest that the library be opened either Saturday night or Sunday afternoon, since the browsing room and the periodical room are already open during that time. That would not have to conflict with regulations already made for the reserve room. Books could still be taken out on Saturday afternoon but students should be allowed to make use of this room. The impression that is abroad is that the periodical and the reference rooms be made of this night would not interfere, either, with taking books from the stacks.

Signed PEARLE SHEPARD

* * *

Every contact which we have had with the senior class of 1937 has shown a decided lack of disinterest and indifference that has been attached, in general, to senior classes of other years. As seniors, we are proud of this spirit of cooperation, and as officers we are grateful

MARY MILLER President of the Class

MARY JEANNE MCKAY President of C. G. A.

Collegiate Comebacks

If packing of bags and rubbing of telegrams be indicative of anything whatsoever our guess is that Florida State will be as deserted as a skull-orchard at midnight while the inmates take a little sojourn in Jacksonville for the week-end. Which is all right, and according to one irresistable faculty member, a day of reckoning. Well don't say we didn't warn you.

* * *

In an introductory psychology course, reports the Rollins Sandspur, the prof called upon a sophomore to explain the difference between mind and the brain. After several moments of serious deliberation the soph replied that the brain is something concrete. Will that do?

* * *

Stephens College at Missouri, points out the Junior Collegian, is now offering a course in "Artistic Loafing. If they need a teacher for said course we'd be glad to recommend any of our girls.

* * *

As an addition to the collection of modern nursery rhymes, the Alabamian offers the following

Baa baa, Black Sheep .
Have you any wool?
Sure, what did you think I had—Fleabes?

* * *

The Arizona Wildcat notes that at Hobart College this fall a freshman enrolled in a new criminology course being offered there. The one day he was present the prof gave the register a dead check, for cashing two other bot checks and for looting a fraternity. And our prof's advise to all never getting any practical use from our courses!

* * *

There's one college where it's smart to be dumb, observes the Rollins Sandspur. Some students at the University of West Virginia have established a non-fraternity called the Flunk-ey Fi Betar Capper. The only requirements for membership are that you must neither belong nor stand a chance of belonging to Phi Beta Kappa. Well, darn it, that's where we're going. Mom would be so proud if we made an honorary!

* * *

From the Auburn Plainsman we take the following

I had sworn to be a bachelor
But then I met a bride
But I guess you know the answer—
She had nature on her side.

* * *

With our own slight variations we give Sagamore Purple's interpretation of famous plays Hitler's Delight—Mein Kampf
Tom Sawyer Goes With the Roommate the night before our hardest quarterly.
Strange Interlude—Waiting for the mail.
The Children's Hour—The reference room after study flash.
Dinner at Eight—The ice cream's late again.
The Animal Kingdom—The gym on Play Night.
Boy Meets Girl—Trees behind Gilchrist
Green Pastures—Gainesville for the week-end

The Naerrland News tells of a professor at Syracuse University who fell asleep at the beginning of his class period. Considerate students let him sleep on until the end of the hour. And which goes to prove that students have kinder hearts than professors.

* * *

It is really amazing for far student governments has moved toward perfection in the short space of a week. The student body of 1700 and some offers only 32 members on C.G.A. and we understand four of them were slurps!

* * *

Here's condolence to the professor who let the Girls' Industrial School send him to bed!

Magazine Jotting

BY SARAH SEALEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

Merit Marches On
By Robert L. Johnson

Scribner's begins in the November issue a series of articles in the interest of more efficient public service with a discussion by the president of the National Civil Service Reform League. It traces the spoils system of public office from its rise in Jackson's administration to the reaction against it, first given impetus by Lincoln.

Increase in the number of government employees affected by the civil-service reform laws have been made successively, until in January, 1932, 467,161 of the 578,231 Federal workers had been given their jobs on the basis of competitive examinations. This important trend, says Johnson, should be backed up by a Constitutional amendment bringing all positions not politically connected with policy under the merit system.—S. S.

* * *

All-Man Performance
By Lucien Price

The story of the organization and increasing popularity of Ted Shawn's men dancers—who have appeared at Florida State College for Women—is told in the November issue of Atlantic Monthly as a movement away from the American male aversion to the arts. "The American boy who has been joyfully at polevault or fiddle box is a white blackbird to be pecked at," says Mr. Price, consequently, young Ted Shawn's venture into ensemble dancing has met with considerable opposition and ridicule.

Shawn and his group worked and economized and scrimped and secrete care to finish their through their first tour, in 1933-34. Last year they received 36 500 miles and gave 118 performances before audiences totalling more than 150 000 persons. Their popularity is arousing the interest of men's physical education teachers and will probably result in the formation and organizing of similar dance classes and clubs in colleges.—S. S.

* * *

First Impressions In America
By Lin Yutang

Mr. Yutang has submitted to the November issue of Harper's his impressions he experienced during his first forty days in America. Of course they are elementary; some are not.

This country seems to him as a tolerably clean civilization with a good chance of developing into a place where man can be tolerably happy. He knows how, with the average man enjoying a greater degree of material comfort than was elsewhere or previously possible. What the Chinese author fears that the average American does not know how to enjoy himself without a car or a radio. The spirit of materialism in America has not enough conscience in it, or if it has, it does not show it.

In speaking of the recent presidential election the author pointed out that the candidate who could tell the biggest lies on behalf of his party would win. He has not too much respect for the American electorate because he believes that the American tradition of liberty will prevent the country from ever becoming Fascist or Communistic.—S. S.

* * *

"Aliens and Alien-Baters"
By Louis Adamic

In 1910 immigrants were entering the United States at the rate of 70,000 a month; during the past five years the rate has been only 300 000 have gone out. The sharp decline, according to the November Harpers, has brought with it a change in attitude toward the foreigners. Early in the century America welcomed the newcomers from Europe and even advertised to interest them in the "glorious opportunity." Today "nervous patriots" are spreading wrong impressions, creating alien-ism, a body of criminality and of being to blame for the depression.

Present immigration laws provide for the deportation of criminals, dope-addict, other undesirables, and the illegally entered of these. Until the Roosevelt administration deportations have been carried out with utter disregard of human values, even when illegal entry was due to a technicality on the part of a government official.

Mr. Adamic himself a foreign-born naturalized citizen, maintains that the alien menace lies in our "nervous patriots," not in the aliens themselves. America's principles of liberty and justice should stop the false propaganda of the alien-baters, and allow the country an opportunity to overcome its suspicions of those who had the poor taste to be born elsewhere and to become an integrated people.

The author recommends a revision of the immigration and deportation laws to correct certain loopholes and to allow the Labor department discretionary powers in regard to deportation.—S. S.

The Social Week

Sorority Week-End Program Includes Informal Parties

Entertaining this week-end for Florida, rushees, and faculty members are several of the sororities on campus. These affairs will be begun by the scavenger hunt with which pledges of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority will entertain for other sorority pledges tonight at 6:15 o'clock in the sorority house on West Jefferson street.

Following the scavenger venture the guests will be served refreshments and an appropriate prize will be awarded to the girl who has brought in the most required articles.

Pledges who will be hostesses at this time are Dorothy Hoffman, Frances Purnell, Julia Triplett, Bess Mechliott, Fay Corey, Helen Brown, and Murray Lou Andrews.

Theta Upstion

The Theta Upsilon sorority will entertain rushees tonight with a novelty "Jookie" party in the chapter house on West Jefferson street.

The house will be decorated informally for this affair with the yellow colors of the sorority being used. During the evening refreshments will be served by the hostesses.

Rushees of the sorority who have been invited to the affair are Nancy Hirby, Ruth Wilson, Edmonia McDonald, Marguerite Branan, Eleanor Scott, Mary Watson, Helen Hamilton, Eleanor Andrews, Betty Ruth Oliver, Frances Howell, Alma Mc-Cary, Lurline Hamlin, Connie Ash, Betty Bernreuter, Lillian and Louise Usher, and Eleanor Magee.

Hostesses will be Anne Donnell, Frances Ellis, Lorraine Gyles, Jean Hodges, Mary Louise Hosmer, Elizabeth Lusk, Elizabeth Leach, Margaret Neff, Olivia Sorrnson, Gertrude Tomkins, Valerie Hunt, Emmie Mae Nancy Rogers, and Agnes Schopke.

Alpha Xi Delta

Honoring their new faculty sponsor, Dr. Sarah P. White, the members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority will entertain informally Sunday afternoon.

Members of the sorority will be invited to meet Dr. White at this time. She will give a short talk and lead an open forum on a topic of her own choosing.

Tea and cookies will be served by the members at the conclusion of the forum.

Receiving guests at this time with Dr. White will be Mrs. Nina Horne, sorority chaperone, and Mary Ellen Lovelace, Winona Ireland, Frank Mercer, Martha Wilder, Marian Weeks, Jessie Mead, Mary McGunagle, Clotilde O'Neal, Kerr Elotte Frink, Peggy Jackson, Anne Ladd, Betty Parker, Mary Elizabeth Ramsey, Louise Fryer, Dot Hoffman, Julia Triplett, Freddie Frink, Peggy Johnstone, and Mickey Gourlie.

Phi Mu Barbara Hendry, Jimmie Malone, Fair Milteer, Mabry Sumner, Lillian Simmons, Margaret Wilson, Edith Adams, Doris Cabeon, and Betty Simmons, Sigma Kappa Hazel Hamm, Lucille Hamm, Mildred Hurst, Elisabeth Anne Spencer, Edith Hays Effinger, Peggy Dunn Reed, and Nellie Woodham. Zeta Tau Alpha, Marjorie Stump and Frances Light. Alpha Omicron Pi, Virginia Early and Jane Sutton.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Clarice Sanchez, Ruth Williams, Kitty Craner, Annie Laurie Polk, Lillian Burford, Annie Laurie Sanchez, Margaret Reedy, Mary Lelia Venable, Dorene Medlin, and Helen Donn. Alpha Chi Omega, Marie Spurlock, Patricia Foster and Betty Hatch.

Personals

Mrs. T. H. Crisp has been visiting her daughter, Victoria, at the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house. She has returned to her home in Sarasota.

Miss Ethel Minsker, an alumna, has been visiting at the Delta Phi Epsilon house this week.

Mrs J. W. Malone visited her daughter, Jimmie Lee Malone, at the Phi Mu house last week-end.

Initiated into the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority last week-end were Virginia Early and Lucille Daley. Sunday morning a breakfast was served at the house in honor of the new members.

All active alumnae and faculty members of sororities will enjoy a steak fry at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night.

Many Plan to Attend Jacksonville Game

Among sorority girls who will attend the Georgia-Florida football game and festivities in Jacksonville this week-end are, Pi Beta Phi, Marian Heger, Florence Kerr, Elotte Frink, Peggy Jackson, Anne Ladd, Betty Parker, Mary Elizabeth Ramsey, Louise Fryer, Dot Hoffman, Julia Triplett, Freddie Frink, Peggy Johnstone, and Mickey Gourlie.

Phi Mu, Barbara Hendry, Jimmie Malone, Fair Milteer, Mabry Sumner, Lillian Simmons, Margaret Wilson, Edith Adams, Doris Cabeon, and Betty Simmons. Sigma Kappa, Hazel Hamm, Lucille Hamm, Mildred Hurst, Elisabeth Anne Spencer, Edith Hays Effinger, Peggy Dunn Reed, and Nellie Woodham. Zeta Tau Alpha, Marjorie Stump and Frances Light. Alpha Omicron Pi, Virginia Early and Jane Sutton.

Kappa Alpha Theta, Clarice Sanchez, Ruth Williams, Kitty Craner, Annie Laurie Polk, Lillian Burford, Annie Laurie Sanchez, Margaret Reedy, Mary Lelia Venable, Dorene Medlin, and Helen Donn. Alpha Chi Omega, Marie Spurlock, Patricia Foster and Betty Hatch.

Alumnae and Teachers Are Honored With Afternoon Tea

Members and pledges of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority gave a tea honoring alumni and teachers yesterday evening from 5 to 6 at their chapter house.

Acting as hostesses were Betsy Mae Wilson, Edith Adams, Madge Collier, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Reed, Mary Lou Simmons, Helen Goodwin, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Louise Hill, Julia Hodgson, Ella Kersey, Nellie Lamar, Catherine McGarry, Middle Moore, Peg Gillespie, Mary Nell Pinckard, Margaret Rickards and Shirley Screven.

Clara Stewart, Amber Vivian Turner, Dorothy Williams, Marjorie Wilson, Flo Boitard, Carolyn Boyd, Jessie Coachman, Jane Cooper, Martha Failes, Elaine Fillmer, Willyne Gaines, Alma Godwin, Betty Hodgson, Irene Hutchinson, Helen Lane, Betty Little, Elisabeth Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Patterson, Louise Rooks, Mary Virginia Ruff, Isabelle Satterfield, Laura Cola Trawick, Edith Underhill, Joy Vara, Nancy Williamson, Myrtle Wilson and Jane Solmid.

Zetas Hostesses For Informal Tea With Faculty Guests

Members of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority entertained with an informal tea in the sorority house on College avenue last Sunday afternoon honoring several members of the faculty.

Those who were invited at this time were Miss Dorothy Disher, Miss Betty Washburn, Miss Mary Helen McKean, Miss Margaret Chapman, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Seymour, Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Cotterill, and Mr. and Mrs. Owen P. Sellers.

Hostesses we re Frances Lingle, Dorothy Bennett, Marjorie Stumb, Virginia Schultz, Betty Wadsworth, Elaine Britt, Betty Leach, Marie Thece, Margaret Patterson, Nell Lynn, Etta Faye Jett, Carolyn O'Neal, Willanette Green, Barbara Reed, Louise Rice, and Esther Schoen.

Delta Zeta Sorority Holds Rush Camp

The Delta Zeta sorority will give a rushing party at Camp Flastacowo this week-end.

Members of the social committee include Tess Christel, Taddy Davis, Edith Adkinson and Charlotte Rawls.

Rushees include Margaret Bell, Sara Sue Bellamy, Sammy Scott Dot Sanford, Louise Jernigan, Marie Patanni, Alice Wilson, Libby Compton, Margaret Peacock, Helen Birmingham, and Marion Herbert.

Others present will include Mary Glenn Coarsey, Martha Moore, Kay Harris, Adalaide Ireland, Julia Beckman, Karolyn Patterson and Mary Smith. The excursion will be chaperoned by Sara Hethcox.

EPISCOPALIANS ENTERTAIN WITH DINNER FOR RELIGIOUS SPEAKER

Members of the Episcopal student vesiry gave a dinner Tuesday night at Rugs Hall in honor of Dr. Wyatt Aiken Smart, who was guest speaker during Religious Emphasis week. Episcopalian students who attended were Charlotte Kamper, Louise Gehan, Betty Oeslund, Victoria Crisp, Betty Bow, Louise Lineo, Frances Lewis, Sally Ratliff, Polly Flint, Mildred Sekins, Midelle Moore, Betty White, Katherine Bacon, Sue Pinner, Mary Louise Meriweather, Elizabeth Matheny, Helen Cate, Betty Harrison, Mary McGinnis and Frances Ellis.

After dinner coffee was served at Rugs Hall last night. Sunday night there will be a musical program following the church services, with Sue Pinner in charge. Next week the usual student activities will be resumed, with the confirmation class meeting on Tuesday night, the choir practice on Wednesday night, and the compliant service Thursday night.

CAMPUSIDE CHAPERONE GIVES BRIDGE PARTY FOR GIRLS LIVING AT HOUSE

Mrs. George T. Lloyd, chaperone of the house, entertained the girls in her house with a Halloween bridge party last Saturday afternoon from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock.

The tables were decorated with pumpkins, and the tallies carried out the idea with pictures of witches, ghosts and bats.

Halloween bridge was played. Each table was considered a witch's den, and all the players as witches. Two witches remained always at their original table, while the other two progressed from one table to another. Small witch hats were given to the two winners at each table after every game. The winners carried their table back to their original table where they were placed in a pumpkin shell. The loser who had the most bats at the end of the evening won prizes. Two

Four to Go to Atlanta

Four members of the Florida State college faculty expect to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Economic association Friday and Saturday in Atlanta. They are: Dr. Beulah Briley, professor of economics and commerce; Miss Sadie Young, assistant professor of economics; Miss Lelia Venable, assistant professor of home economics; and William H. Joubert, instructor in accounting and economics.

smoking sets and two decks of cards were given to the girls of the winning table.

After playing bridge, refreshments of chicken salad, cake, punch, nuts and dates were served to the guests.

Those girls attending the party were, Mary Bowman Smith, Lydia Craig, Mary Watson, Eleanor Mullins, Jane Cooper, Clia Goddell, Judy Tripplett, Lucy Shahan, Pauline Ford, Ella Virginia Brooks, Alberta Lloyd, Althea Floyd, Fay Bryant, Virginia Davis, Margaret West, Doris Butler, Eleanor Scott, Cathrine Sunny, Betty Hamilton and Mary Ann Nolan.

Sigma Delta Pi Taps Three Students Following Meet

Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, met at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Breen recently. Dr. Margie Burks spoke on the causes of war in Spain and told of some of her own experiences in Spain where she visited this past summer.

Three new members were chosen for the fraternity, Virginia Early, Charlotte Carlton, and Nellie Lamar. They will be initiated in Rugs hall the latter part of this month. Mrs. Breen was re-elected faculty sponsor.

The new pledges will be required to give a Spanish play before they are initiated.

Series of Meetings Are Inaugurated By Panhellenic

Panhellenic inaugurated a series of meetings Monday night when its representatives met at the Alpha Chi Omega house. Hereafter the first meeting of each month will be held in a sorority house, with the hostesses to rotate, it was decided at this meeting.

Following the business session members of Alpha Chi Omega served coffee and doughnuts.

Hostesses at this first meeting were Janice Borton, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Pierce, Helen Cate, Dorothy Crews, Roberta Diamond, Eleanor Flinn, Faircia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Rosemary Hamlet, Betty Hatch, Kathrine Kyle, Anita Lawrence, Dorothy Leach, Margaret Murray, Eleanor Olen, Marjorie Owens, Ruth Riddle, Lillian Schultz, Sarah Sealey, Mildred Seekins and Marie Spurlock.

Rushees and Friends Are Phi Mu Guests At Tea Recently

The Phi Mu sorority entertained a group of rushees and friends at the chapter house last Saturday afternoon. Punch and cookies were served during the afternoon by the pledges.

Members and pledges are Marjorie Bush, Elizabeth Pierce, Marion Purviance, Margaret Wilson, Elisabeth Malone, Jimmie Lee Malone, Lillian Simmons, Lillian Lukens, Barbara Hendry, Pair Milteer, Mabry Sumner, Catherine O'Neal, Blanton Barrett, Edith Adams, Betty Booser, Betty Simmons, Doris Cahoon, Dorothy Wells, Mildred Stovall, Nancy Swan, Peggy Orvall, Pearl Cook, Gertrude Rodgers, Helen Stewart, Mary Jane Johnston, and Ethel Jones.

Forum to Be Postponed

The regular meeting of the Y.S.F.A. forum scheduled for Tuesday night will be postponed until the following Tuesday night, Nov. 17, at 7:30 o'clock in 403 education building.

Tang in the Air Lures Many Wandering Students To Hikes and Campfires in Depths of the Wilds

By VIRGINIA DAVIS

The melancholy days are here
The saddest of the year

Now that fall is in the air, students are casting wayward glances from classroom windows at the falling leaves drifting by. The invigorating tang in the air lures many to hikes and fights a spark of adventure in dull eyes, for it is almost too soon for the warmth of the classroom to make one sleepy and content and most too cool for the depressing heat of a few days ago to sap all thoughts but those of icy drinks and electric fans from the stifled brain. The old pioneer blood stampers in our veins bidding us go and sit at nature's feet.

An overpowering desire comes to take to the old Bicycle Road with a bundle of food to find some spot not too dominated by cows where we might build a campfire. Of what do they talk on campus? Do they know Hedy Madrid is still in a state of snips? They do not. You must have noted the change that has taken place on campus since wool clothes have been taken out of moth balls. Listen in on any group of fellow students, and this will be the gist of the conversation. "Gosh, it's swell weather—I'm so glad it's getting cooler. Let's make that date on the ground back at Oglethrit?—Mary, it's go on a hike this week-end. Where shall we go? We would build a fire and cook—remember the hikes we went on last fall?"

Mary well remembers sitting on the fallen leaves with a bean and bacon sandwich in one hand and a hot dog in the other, which she fondly calls coffee in the other, and the sun shining mildly. Around time for quarterlies, the universe and Mary look at each other realistically. Mid them beneath the trees with the odor of wood smoke and frying bacon in the air, the world looks rather friendly and Mary is willing to arbitrate. In lazy content she thinks of home and how she really is going to write tonight without one mention of money.

Watching the dying fire the group waxes confidential and somewhere in the game they even break down and tell their middle names. In the glare of the setting sun and shivering a little from the freshening breeze, the hikers trudge back to the dormitories not quite so harrassed over their studies, for they have now a subject fault in human nature to see them through.

Yes, autumn has painted her landscape" and, just for space, has thrown a tang into the air, a call to go adventuring. Our noses are not so close to the grindstone that we do not get a whiff. The lure is powerful and enticing and we are but weak mortals. To misquote, "We wish to go off to the hills again, off to the hills and the sky."

Y. W. C. A. Group Hears Reports, Larger During Cabinet Meet Thursday

At the Y. W. C. A. cabinet meeting, held Thursday night at the home of Dr. A. P. Liddell, reports from the different committees were given and plans discussed for the near future.

Dr. Liddell read a paper she had written several years ago on "The Difference Between Philosophy and Religion," a subject which has been the current discussion of the Y. W. C. A. group.

The committee decided to hold its first church service November 14. The speaker for the service will be announced later.

Those attending the meeting were Janice Borton, Margaret Stout, Jane Calhoune, Martha Lester, Kathryn Todd, Anne Norris, Sara Nance, Polly Evelyn Dore, Helen Baggett, Jane and Barbara Hubbard, Marjorie Nogle, Jane Tharin, Peggy McMichael, Bunny Lowry, Ruth Land, Frances Lewis, Mary Nell Pinchard, and Louise Lingo.

French Honorary Has Initiation Ceremonies For Six Members

Theta Kappa, local French honorary, initiated six new members Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist student house. After the services a dinner was held at the Dutch Kitchen, honoring the new sponsor, Miss Marie Davis, and the initiates, Evelyn Fisher, Evelyn Glasier, Geneva Nelson, Darween Morrell, Gwinelle Perry, and Martha Thomas. The tables were decorated with yellow asters and gold and lavender chrysanthemums, carrying out the organizations colors. Jo Binion presided over the informal program which followed. Short talks were given by Miss Davis, Miss Finneran, the retiring sponsor, Dr. Seymour, head of the modern language department, Pearle Overhulla, the president, and Martha Thomas.

This year the French honorary plans to extend its scope by holding several open meetings to which all students interested in the work are invited.

Society Hears Boyd On Spanish Coins

Phi Alpha Theta, history society, met at the home of Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey on Wednesday night for its monthly social and business session.

After refreshments members heard Dr. Mark Boyd, director of the malarial research station on the campus, discuss Spanish coins and local historical spots relating to Spanish-American history. Dr. Boyd brought his personal collection of coins for the guests to examine.

Those invited for this occasion were, Dr. Annie M. Pooser, Dr. Verda L. Shores, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill, Miss Florence Thrasher, Miss Louise Conradi, Anna Marie Mitchell, Daisy Parker, Rosalyn Baum, Alma Lester, and Mary Cohagn.

Miss Richey Will Speak

The Omicron Nu scholarship tea will be awarded at the next meeting of the Home Economics club to be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the chemistry lecture room.

At this meeting Miss Helen Richey will give an illustrated talk on Japan, where she lived for about seven years.

Buy Your FRESH FRUITS,
CANDIES AND CIGARETTES from the
NIK-NAK
301 West College Avenue
Your Patronage Greatly Appreciated

Lucky for You
—It's a Light Smoke!
Guard that throat!
Block that cough...that raw irritation...reach for a light smoke...a Lucky! Whether you're shouting, and cheering the team, or just talking and singing and laughing at home, there's a tax on your throat you can hardly ignore. So when choosing your smoke, it pays to think twice. Reach for a light smoke—a Lucky...and get the welcome throat protection that only Luckies offer—the exclusive protection of the process, "It's Toasted." Next time you go places, take plenty of Luckies. They not only taste good, but keep tasting good all day long...for Luckies are a light smoke—and a light smoke leaves a clear throat—a clean taste.
★★ NEWS FLASH! ★★
"I've only missed sending in my entry 3 times"—Sailor
Uncle Sam's sailors find time to try their skill in Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes." Seaman Spangenberger of the U. S. S. Mississippi, an enthusiastic "Sweepstakes" fan, writes: "I've only missed sending in my entry three times—I mail them in whenever the ship is in American waters."
Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? Tune in on "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."
And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them. Maybe you've been missing something.
NO PENALTIES FOR THROATS
—It's a light smoke
If you're hoarse at the game, it won't be from smoking...If yours is a light smoke—a Lucky. When the moon with the basket yells "cigarettes," yell back for a light smoke . . . yell "Luckies!"
LUCKY STRIKE
CIGARETTES
LUCKY STRIKES
Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"
Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Joan Marsh
Beverly Moodes
FAMOUS FACES of Hollywood Stars
FASHION of the WEEK
$7.95
Novelty Footwear
Sport Oxfords
$2.95
GELBERG'S
"Complete Store for Ladies"
COLLEGE AVENUE

Physics Class Views Jackson Bluff Project

Ricards Takes Advanced Students to Study Electric Supply

The second year physics class, under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Richards, visited the site of the Jackson Bluff dam last Saturday. The dam, which generates electrical power used all over the state of Florida, is situated in the district between Quincy and Tallahassee.

The superintendent of the plant Mr. Floyd Reynolds, conducted the class over the grounds and explained the manner in which the dam is operated. The maximum difference in the water level is forty feet, the source of the generation of power being rainfall. However, except in cases of emergency, much of the power has its source in St Petersburg.

A picnic lunch was served to the class at noon, after which the students inspected the three generators. Late in the afternoon a boat riding was enjoyed.

Those making the trip were: Betty Helen Bargrot, Betty Ann Graham, Evelyn Hammond, Louise Johnson, Mary Ellen Lorelace, Dorothea Marsh, Betty Hamilton, Elizabeth Jinks, and Marianna Swank.

University Editorials

(Continued from Page Four)

narrow economic group. But such an arrangement is not very widespread at the present time.

We wonder then whether any benefit at all is derived from a college education which is to be had only at the expense of an economic struggle. Is it worthwhile to subject oneself to those conditions which will mean the losing sight of the broader principles which are embodied in our educational system?

Scholarships, rewarding students for meritorious work are extremely worthwhile and should be encouraged in all institutions of higher learning. But financial assistance cannot be justified in those cases where a student is of only average intelligence and can contribute practically nothing to the college in the attainment of its general objectives. Worthy students should be helped to enjoy those benefits which a college education offers, but average students with little financial backing should not be encouraged to incur a debt which can be repaid only through unreasonable sacrifices.

While we cannot yet see the removal of economic pressure in our educational institutions. It is indeed gratifying to note a trend in that direction. When that economic freedom is achieved for the college student, American colleges and universities will, instead of preparing students for the immediate future, train them for a lifetime of usefulness.

This Week

(Continued from Page Four)

torial chair of the late Duncan U. Fletcher. Charles P. Andrews defeated his Republican opponent. Howard Babcock, for the unexpired senate term of the late Park Trammell. In the latest returns, Fred P. Cone, Democrat, had a lead of 20,000 votes over E. S. Calloway for the governorship.

Throughout the nation, Democratic nominees had captured 26 of the 33 governorships at stake Thursday while two others held substantial leads over Republican opponents. With 11 Democratic governorships now at stake, the party is assured of at least 37 Democratic governors at the beginning of the new year.

Kansas, in addition to giving her electoral votes to Roosevelt, put a Democrat, Walter Huxman, in the gubernatorial chair Landon now occupies. Michigan's Republican governor Fitzgerald, was defeated by Frank Murphy, Democrat. Governor Herbert Lehman of New York kept his post with a plurality of half a million over his Republican opponent. William Bleakley, Connecticut reelected its Democratic governor, Wilbur Cross, for his fourth consecutive term, the first Connecticut governor since the Civil war to hold the office for so long a time.

Tallahassee's newest shoe store, featuring a line of smart dress shoes, evening sandals, and sport oxfords, at a very new low price.

$2.99

Sizes: 3 to 9

Widths: AAA to C.

Attention College Girls: We give away each week one pair of shoes FREE! Come by our store and register. You May Win!

College Slipper Shop

102 E. College Ave.

Mortar Boards Make Sleep Bad Business

Have you heard of the evil influence of Mortar Board? This national honorary scholastic organization sends some of its prominent members as inspectors to the various colleges where i has chapters, leaving husbands with no one to remind them of dinner engagements.

It was in just such a fix that Dr. Harold F. Richards, head of the physics department, found himself last Thursday night, when he was invited to attend the faculty dinner at the college. He came home that afternoon planning to sleep until 4:30 but instead didn't wake up until 7:30, when the dinner was over. He swears that this would not have happened if Mrs. Richards had not been out of town inspecting Mortar Board chapters in various Eastern colleges.

Dr. Richards held a private faculty dinner Friday night at the Three Torches for the girls he "stood up."

Designers Make "Slaves of Fashion" of American College Girls with Latest of Colorful Styles

BY MARY NOBLE

With the first cold blasts of the season college girls reached delightedly into their closets to bring forth proudly the latest in fall fashions. This is a gay year, with lots of bright colors, jewels, and luxurious materials, and no one knows it better than the American college girl.

Bright colored sweaters remain high in popularity on college campuses throughout the country. With them are worn small strings of pearls or cowboy-style scarfs. Twin sweaters have reversed position. This year the sleeveless sweater, preferably with a zipper down the side, is worn vest-style over one having long sleeves. Both are plain and of contrasting colors.

Town dresses are preferably dark, trimmed with vivid braid, beading, or embroidery. They have flared skirts, which come just below the knees. Bags and gloves may harmonize with the dress trimming. Hats are high, with and without fancy feathers— any kind from rooster to ostrich. Shoes climb higher, making us wonder if spice again we will be wearing high top boots in the puss-in-boots manner.

Evening clothes spell luxury. Styles are copied from those of the French empire, and once again the co-ed may display her shoulders to advantage. Velvet reigns at all formal occasions. Velvet over taffeta is a popular modification, while printed velvet increases in court favor. Pale green is a new idea, and royal purple and English red and blue, heralding Edward VIII's coronation, claim overwhelming partiality. Jewels, family and otherwise, add the necessary glitter.

Those who walk radiantly down the aisle from higher institutions of learning to domestic problems, fasten their wedding veils Mary of Scotland style. Her influence is also felt in hats and evening dresses.

There are designers always at work creating and revising styles. It is our pride which makes us slaves to the fashions. However, this year, the college girl is delighted. She knows the styles are adaptable to all types, and she wears them splendidly.

Speech Department Will Present Play

The speech department will present its first three-act play, "The Wooden Slipper" next Thursday and Friday in the Augusta Conradi theater. Members of the cast are composed of speech students and men of Tallahassee. Miss Kemper Moore is directing the play. Admission for which will be forty cents.

Carleen Vinal Talks

Carleen Vinal, a graduse for Florida State college, was heard yesterday over WSUN radio station at St. Petersburg. Carleen who is an instructor at the St. Petersburg high school spoke on a program which was given in celebration of the victory of the high schol's football team. She told of the student governments which has just been started in that school.

College Girl Holds Hands And Blushes

FSCW Professor Causes High Blood Pressure As "Home Perfecto"

All is quiet in the dimly lighted psychology lab. A group of students survey their subject whom they have just blind-folded. Said subject sits with her hands folded quietly in her lap and looks verely bored with it all.

The experimenters go into a huddle. From snatches of the conversation it is gathered that the purpose of the experiment is to excite the subject and record the rise in blood pressure by means of a machine equipped with a light that flashes back and forth.

Things are quiet for a while when suddenly one of the students utters a blood curdling scream and steps back, well pleased, to view the effects of her work.

The light remains perfectly still. The subject smiles to herself and the experimenters look a bit nonplussed.

Not so good. They try again and again. They prod her none too gently. They try to reason with her. They become eloquent in an attempt to cause a rise, but all in vain. She is about as excited as Barbara Hutton would be on the receipt of one shiny new nickle.

The experimenters are fast becoming desperate. Supper time is drawing nigh and the case looks hopeless. They go into another huddle and just as they are beginning to cast disparaging remarks at one another the door opens quietly. One of the psychology professors enters and makes a sign for the girls to be silent.

The subject, unaware of what is going on, lets her mind wander where it will.

Absolutely oblivious to the nervous titters of the girls as they watch the professor sit down beside her, she dreams on. She is out riding with the Homo Perfectos who ignored her so thoroughly all summer. She is explaining dramatically that they must part —her heart belongs to another. He is crushed, utterly crushed. She says kindly that they must always be friends.

A masculine hand takes hers gently, A masculine voice says quietly. "I'm here with you. Aren't you happy?"

The light shoots over to the other side of the machine and stays there. The experimenters breathe a sigh of relief.

The light is turned on and reveals the phenomena of the modern college girl blushing furiously.

Eighteen Varieties of Plants Blooming Here While Northland Decorates with Snow and Ice

Fall in the North may be the time of year for leaves to fall and flowers to disappear, but on our campus some eighteen varieties of plants are now in bloom.

Foremost among these are the roses which are around the dormitories and serve to brighten up immeasurably the dull days. Another bright bloom is the titonia, or Mexican daisy, used in the dining room a great deal. This cosmos belong to this same family but are yellow rather than red.

Other familiar red flowers are the hibiscus and Turk's cap, coral vine, verbena, and cannas. Then there are the white flowers: ollo fragrance or sweet shrub, oleander, rattle-box, honey suckle and pepper vine.

There are purple dahlias, violets, morning glories, cannas, and the flower of the season, chrysanthemums. They are, perhaps, the ones best known in the country, as a football game seems incomplete without the yellow flower against a fur collar.

The gardener reports that he often finds azaleas torn up by the root, and yet the azalea bed east of the science building forms one of the drawing cards of our campus.

Committee Report Will Face Council Shortly

The official report of the budget committee was sgresented to the college council for approval yesterday afternoon. Individual budgets of various organizations for the year of 1936-37 will be ready for publication next week, announced Ellen Fleming, chairman.

Student members of the budget committee are: Ellen Fleming, chairman, Jeanette Annin, Betsy Anderson, Dorothea Marsh, and Betty Oglund. Dr. Venila Shores and Miss Ruth Schernherst serve as faculty advisers. The ex-officio members are Dean Olivia Dorman and Mr. J. O. Keilum.

University Women Will Have District Meeting

The Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women will hold a district meeting with the Panama City-Pensacola branches of the association at Panama City on Saturday, November 14.

The meeting will open with luncheon at the Dixie-Sherman hotel at 1 o'clock. Central standard time. Mrs. J. O. Keilum, president of the Florida federation of Women's Clubs, will make an address on how women may combine their efforts in working for legislation in which they are interested. Mrs. B. F. Ames, state president of the American Association of University Women, will also address the group.

The A.A.U.W branches at Daytona and Bainbridge, Georgia, have been invited to participate in this district meeting.

Approximately 4,150,000 American veterans of the World war are still living.

ADAMS STUDIO

119½ East College

"Photographs That Please"

PURE . . . and of finer texture than most anything that touches your lips . . .

We all agree on this . . . cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water.

A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor.

Chesterfield

They're Milder and They Satisfy

Remember this . . . two things make the smoking quality of a cigarette—the tobaccos and the paper. The Champagne cigarette paper on Chesterfields is tested over and over for purity, for the right burning quality. Another reason why Chesterfield wins.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

THIS FROCK IS AN ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH OF ONE OF OUR INTERESTING SELECTION NOW IN OUR SHOP

The Vogue

BELOW IS ANOTHER PHOTOGRAPH OF A KELLY GREEN CREPE SILK AFTERNOON FROCK

The Vogue

LIBRARY
FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN
TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, November 13, 1936 NUMBER SEVEN ewspaperman To Talk Here On November 7

tcliffe Has Lectured Extensively Before Universities

EGULAR LONDON RADIO SPEAKER

ecipient Editor's Chair At Calcutta Paper Three Years

Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe, journalist and lecturer of unique reputation in the English speaking world, will speak at Florida State college next Thursday. Mr. Ratcliffe has been associated with several of the most important dailies and weeklies in England, and has done editorial and special writing for many others also, as: The London Daily News, Nation, New Statesman, Observer, and the Contemporary Review.

In Calcutta he was for three years in the editorial chair of "The Statesman," a paper which is a larger circulation and a higher influence than any other in India.

University Lecturer

For a number of years Mr. Ratcliffe lectured every winter under the auspices of the London University Extension Board. In 1926 he was the Bromley Foundation lecturer at Leeds university, and 1932 he gave the Messenger foundation lecture at Cornell university. He has appeared every winter since 1914 before the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia university, New York.

He is one of the regular radio speakers on events of the day for the British Broadcasting corporation, London. When President Roosevelt was inaugurated, the British Broadcasting corporation arranged to have Mr. Ratcliffe broadcast a report of the ceremonies for England.

Acquaintance in England

Mr. Ratcliffe has a wide acquaintance with the statesmen of the day, the House of Commons, and the leaders of thought and opinion outside Parliament. He was personally acquainted with the Prime Minister and many members of the Ramsey MacDonald government many years before the Labor party had become a power in England.

In his political affiliations Mr. Continued on page four

Music Program Will Be Given

Winslow and Koch Offer Varied Numbers For Second Recital

Miss Mary Esther Winslow, violinist, assisted by Miss Gladys Koch, soprano, will give the second in a series of faculty recitals in session next Friday evening, at 7:45 in the college auditorium. The following program will be rendered:

Carnival, Shuman; Preamble, Gerrot, Arlequin, Valse Noble, Rubinstein; Pierrette, Chaminade; Hopi, Papalina, Lettres, Dandelion, Chiarina, Chopin, Rosenkavalier, Strauss-Kreisler, Romance, Elgar; Moonshine, Valse Allemande, Paganini, Valse, Alexandrowski, Andantino, Romance, Faise, Marche des Davidsbundler" contre les Philistins.

O come hither; Crist; In a myrtle shade; I Wished; Blake's Griffes; Swans, Kramer; Arietes Solemn, Debussy; Le vent dans la plaine; Suspend son haleine Ferarti; Ca Chanson de l'Aloutte, Salt; Rhapsody, P sharp minor, Dohnanyi; Scenes Infantils, Pinte, Un Rue, Song around the Roses; March, Little Soldier, Stevens; Home, Hobby Horse; La Soiree Dansee, Debussy; Caprice Burlesque, Gabrilowitch.

Bridge Tournament Held

A bridge tournament was held Thursday at 4:30 in Reynolds' little lounge. Lorraine English and Annie Solomons played against Amanda Greenawalt and Jane Bishop, and were defeated by Margaret Lafferty. The victors will oppose Kathleen Hughes and Pauline Harris sometime soon.

Editor

Daisy Parker, editor of the Distaff, college quarterly magazine, the first edition of which was distributed among the students yesterday. This first issue of the year celebrates the tenth birthday of the publication which contains a number of reprints from the 1926 magazine.

Odd Honorary Pledges Four Last Weekend

Autrey, Walcott, Hatch, And Patterson Are New Spirogirans

Wearing black and white dresses and white cotton stockings and carrying brightly colored straw brooms, four sophomores, Katherine Autrey, Lutrelle Patterson, Margaret Walcott, and Betty Hatch, underwent the first phase of being initiated into Spirogira, Odd Honorary last week-end.

Friday afternoon, all four went out to the basketball court to root for the Spirogira team which was playing Jennie Murphree. Originality yells and songs rent the air and after the game the members had a game of tag and had the goats chase them with their brooms.

In the dining room Friday evening the four girls gave a banquet for all members, old goats, alumnae, and faculty. Favors for this affair were little china dolls dressed in black and white. The place cards were in the form of cross bones and skulls, the symbol of the organization, and had the names of the guests written in a grim-cross manner across them. During the banquet the goats had to march around the dining room with their brooms displaying facial antics and singing songs.

Sunday night the new goats were entertained with a steak fry where real steak sandwiches, pineapple juice and cookies were enjoyed. The four were required to Continued on page four

Collegians Talk Endlessly About One Thing or Another

Befuddled FSCW Student Faced with Practically Impossible Task Choosing What She Would Hear

BY BETTY SPICER

"He has the most gorgeous eyelashes I've ever seen. I was a contestment of a conversation I caught as I passed through a room in Reynolds.

"Who does?", I asked, thinking I was about to discover a new male Apollo.

"The little baby next door to us at home," was the answer I received.

Feeling somewhat deflated, I sat down on the bed and prepared for an enlightening, if not uplifting, conversation.

"Oh, but you oughtn't to see my little cousin. She has brown curly, red hair, and a marvelous skin."

"And on they went. They even got down to their own boyfriend and began to tell of the cute things they did as children. I exclaimed inquisitively after several minutes and went to hunt for fresh conversation.

My next stopping place was with two freshmen and a few of their friends.

"When we go home Christmas, mother is going to have everything I want to eat' and will I be glad! I'm going to eat and sleep all the time though!"

"I think — no Saturday classes, no turning out lights at 10.35, as many dates as we want — oh, it will be heavenly!"

From that point each one tried to outshine the other, so I left them.

I went to the post office. I might have got some mail since the last time I looked. At this moment, I was positive I was the one side by two girls.

"I'm so glad you could die. I hope he isn't under the impression that he only has to write to me twice a week. Just wait till I see him. Aaain I was nearly run over by a girl shouting hastily: "Mary, wait! The grandest thing! Mother says I can go to Homecoming. Now what will I wear? Bunnies."

Wearily I sat on the steps of the Infirmary. Only two more days . . . "She's one of those people who believe what is in the will-

Continued on page two

Mariam Harrold Criticizes And Lauds C. G. A. In Essay

Prize Winning Article in Contest Discusses All Phases of Student Participation And Offers Many Suggestions

By MARIAM HARROLD

A system of student government is the most important thing in college besides its academic curriculum. Its organization is the most clearly defined until well worked-out system on the campus of the average American college, and its functions are the most vital. This, I believe, is as it should be. The student government association on our local campus here at Florida State College for Women is among the most progressive in its achievements collectively and individually the students undertake the responsibilities and privileges of student government. Demanding the co-operation of the person and respecting the opinions of the students themselves, this system is, in theory, one of the best ever devised. Does it work out on our campus? If not, why doesn't it? These are pertinent questions about our student government.

Criticism

The general set-up of the organization, legislative, executive, judiciary, the executive council, and lower court, is both efficient and workable. The system, as it functions, yet are all associated in common interest, is, to me, an outsider can observe, the cooperation between these bodies is of the most commendable nature and the whole organization is well planned. The C. G. A. constitution is good. The elections are very fair, and the representation in the two classes and groups on campus. With the newly installed system of pre-election publicity for nomination and the new timing of elections, there is the least possibility that elections on this campus will remain democratic and relatively free from "politics" dirt." In its more minute details, such as the number of officers, the various committees, and time and places of meetings, the constitution and system program seems, to me, quite efficient. Such office has not been created that is useless. All the most part, is well organized. That it appears that our system is well planned and operated. The faults and errors in our present organization are not to be sought in the framework of the organization but in the human individual factor principles. And it is to these that we must turn to find "Miss Right" and "Miss Wrong" in our student government.

Dissatisfied With Cut Rules

First of all there are several rules that are not what they should be and probably there will never be a perfect satisfaction if some of these were changed. The present requirements as of opinion is against the regulation forbidding freshmen to take bath before second semester. Many students feel that freshmen should be allowed to attend school from Friday noon, for the benefit of those living in far towns or cities—before Christmas holidays. This would relieve much homesickness and unhappiness. Yet, probably the faculty, as part of the college council, has quite a bit of influence in these matters and the blame for the above revulsations can not be entirely laid on C.G.A. It is hoped, however, that the student officers will bring up these questions and exert their influence in any way possible to accomplish these ends.

Mid-Ky Pessimistic

The most outstanding feature of college government is quite naturally its president. On this campus we are fortunate in having a both capable and pleasant girl for this office. Her effect in the main this year has been to stir up interest in Club activities and arouse student thinking over different governmental problems. Yet I would like to say that in many cases, both in presenting regulations and in making announcements, her attitude has not been the most commendable. In speaking to the student body her attitude should be one of confidence in them, of pride in and assurance of the body whom she is addressing. Yet Mary Jane Mid-ky has often had an almost opposite attitude. Realizing former conditions and presupposing a response of opposition from the student body, she has shown a spirit of pessimism, an almost t sulting way of greeting the student, personally, have at times felt a little indignant that we should be so addressed and assumed. Probably her manner has been instrumental in keeping down student body complacency and arousing student awareness to existing problems. This in itself is a good thing. But to some people an air of antagonism is aroused in response to her sharp attacks. Rather that, instead of a defensive approach, she should try to build up confidence and gain interest in her policies, rather than cause cold-blooded analyses or present conditions that will be resented against, lest they are over worked

Continued on page three

Library Head Attends Fair

Miss Richardson Visits Exhibits and Hears Famous Authors

Miss Richardson, head of the library, has returned from a three day visit to the National Book Fair which was held in America for the first time at Rockefeller Center, New York City, from November 9-14. The fair was sponsored by the New York Times and the American Association of Book Publishers.

Among the many exhibits shown was a special exhibit sponsored by the New York Times showing the history of books, printing and designing with clay tablets and showing the progress to the present day. Another exhibit was actually went through the process of making the paper, the printing and the binding of a book.

At various periods of the day famous authors and illustrators spoke at the fair. Among these for whom Miss Richardson heard were Stark Young, Lin Yutang, Carl Carmer, Pearl Buck, Christopher Morley, Harvey Allen, and Madeline Sheldon.

There were also exhibits not only of new and popular printed books but some of the original manuscripts of famous books such as Hervey Allen's "Action at Aquaver," Carver's "Listen for the Lonesome Drum," Conrad's "Lord Jim" and the first draft of Lindsay's for "Winnie the Pooh." These exhibits were arranged by twenty-one publishers.

Some of the high-lights of the fair was a case guarded by policemen in which was the J. Pierpont Morgan copy of the Gutenburg Bible, insured for $450,000.

Meet Will Be Attended By Conradi and Hinson

Dr. Edward Conradi and Dr. M. L. Hinson will attend the meeting of the Southern Association of College and Secondary Schools at Gainesville this week-end. Dr. Hinson will represent the state department of education.

The duty of the committee will be to report to the southern association those high schools which it recommends as accredited ones.

Dr. Conradi will attend the meeting of the State Board of Control in Gainesville this week-end.

Rev. James Myers Will Appear Here

The Rev. James Myers, secretary of labor of the Church of Christ, will be the fifth speaker in a series of Sunday services sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. He will speak Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater. This year the series of sermons arranged by the Y.M.C.A. will be held during the vesper hour instead of Sunday mornings, Janice Borton, president, has announced.

The Social Significance of Social and Economic Problems will be the subject of the sermon by the Reverend Myers who will stop in Tallahassee on his way to attend the American Federation of Labor convention in Tampa. He has had much experience in the field of labor and will base his talk on phases of the question which will be of interest to students.

Hay Describes Spain's Plight Before AAUW

Unconditional Victory for Either Side Fatal, Professor Says

Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the American Association of University Women Dr. Marian Hay, associate professor of government, described the general political aspects in Spain and told of her personal experiences while there during the past summer.

Dr. Hay gave a resume of the political situation in Spain since 1926, describing the gradual unwinding of the dictatorship and culminating in its overthrow in 1931 and the establishment of a modern republic. The "liberal" government which followed, with its social reforms, lost the election in 1933 to the conservatives, with the result that their progressive policies and laws were never put into effect. When the liberals were returned to power in 1936 the conservatives revolted against the popularly elected government.

Dr. Hay then explained international aspects of the Spanish situation. Fascist governments of Germany, Italy, and Portugal are giving aid to the "conservatives" or "rebels," who are fighting for a return to dictatorship. Thus the rebel army, furnished by Germany and Italy with munitions and airplanes, has better equipment than the unarmed people's army. The rebel government, However, Russia is now sending aid to the Spanish government as it grows more "leftist" all the time. France is sympathetic with the socialistic government but, to avoid a world war, has refrained from sending more than slight unofficial aid. Dr. Hay stated that she thought the democratic nations of the world side will be disastrous, as the control would be in the hands of the labor classes and the liberals are intolerant of the capitalistic system.

Following the explanation of the political situation, Dr. Hay told of her personal experiences in Madrid last summer, where as a student in the Institute de las Espanas she accompanied a group of students to Madrid and stayed while the students were seated in their classes they could sometimes hear the bombs dropping nearby.

Dr. Hay was often searched for arms, and had to walk to and from the streets, and on a few occasions was required to walk through the streets with her hands raised. Once when a rudder was going around the block she was about to be attacked. Dr. Hay spent the night at the American embassy where over a hundred other Americans had congregated.

At Aranjuez Dr. Hay accompanied a news photographer to a bullfight where bulls and bullfighters were being marched off to execution and entering the arena. Hay with the photographer she saw lying on the ground the bodies of twenty-four officers who had just committed suicide rather than surrender.

Two days before her departure from Spain Dr. Hay managed to accompany a detachment of young soldiers who were on their way to the front to fight the rebels at Guadarrant. At the front she found that the organization of

Continued on page two

CGA Presents Foreign-Born Students Here

World Peace Activities Are Discussed During Chapel Program

ESSAY CONTEST PRIZE AWARDED

Statesments Are Given On Work of Twelve Countries

The College Governments Association set a cosmopolitan style for convocation this week with an international program to which 38 students, either foreign born or of foreign-born parentage contributed facts about their various fatherlands, led by Mary Jeanne McKay. Bernice Ellen Smith spoke on the vocation with a devotional and readings from the Bible. The second part of the program was presented by five students including Frances Warren, Marjorie Raulerson, Betty Ostlund, Hilda Stradin, and Ruth Ann Lee, who gave accounts of various peace organizations in the world.

Prize Awarded

The third feature of Tuesday's chapel exercises was the awarding of first prize of five dollars in the C. G. A. essay contest to Miriam Harrold for her paper on "What I Think of College Government." Mary Jeanne announced that Miriam's essay would be published in the March issue of the Flambeau. Honorable mention for essays was awarded to Gail Gallbride and Hazel Bowman, freshman and senior respectively.

Countries or places outside the United States represented in the international program were: Canada; Laurne Buckley. Mrs. Lucy Chase Victoria Cree, Victoria Curtis, Lucille Seed, Mildred Sevilla, and Ruth Upshaw. Central America: Farrocita Gould, Lena Dodd Cuba; Ela Marie Arosarena, Dalila Curran, Madeleine Curran, Kathleen Griggs, Irene Johnson, and Barbara Reed; Canal Zone: Margaret Brook, England: Margaret Louise Armston; Germany: Annie Jennings.

France: Martha Thomas; Philippine Islands: Lucille Hazelton; Spain: Ben Lisle, Rosalyn Moore; Russia Minnia Agress; South America: Ella Woodward; South Sea Islands, Alberdine Fox.

Psychology Students Visit Ocala School

Mrs. Lois C. Skipper, superintendent of the Girls' Industrial school at Ocala, has invited Dr. Waskom and his psychology students down for a tour of the institution.

Dr. Waskom, accompanied by his clinical psychology students and special students, will leave here this afternoon and return tomorrow night.

Students in the party are Jo Nelson, Barbara Hubbard, Mary Ola Brown, Alayne Clayton and Polly Eveleth.

Committee Presents Change For Budget

New Proration of Funds Decreases Allotment To Publications

MEMBERS ACCEPT SPECIFICATIONS

Auditing Group to Start Bookkeeping System In Organizations

Several changes in the administration of the fund of the student activity fee will go into effect in this year's budget which was presented recently in the official report of the budget committee of the college council and approved in its entirety by the faculty and student members of the committee.

The changes were made as the result of study, investigation and compilation made since the beginning of the school year by the committee.

Decrease Made

In regard to the rate of proration of funds for 1936-37, decreases will be made in the Flambeau allotment of $1.50 to $1.40 and in Distaff from $0.70 to $0.60. The "general publications" allotment of $.0060 will be continued. The rate of the sophomore class shall be increased from $0.125 to $0.15. The funds remaining from the above mentioned proration ($.2375 will be placed in a general reserve fund to be administered by the administration.

Any organization receiving funds from the activity fee may make application to the committee for funds from this reserve. Therefore the committee is hereby authorized to make expenditures from this fund for campus activities. The chairman of the auditing committee is empowered to employ a careful record of all receipts and expenditures.

In addition, the money designated as "reserve" by the various organizations shall be held by those organizations, but may be drawn by them only upon the approval of the majority of the members of the budget committee. Another change is that the funds allotted to the Flastacowe shall be used entirely for the map be used in defraying not only expenses of printing but also those of engraving.

All contracts involving fund expenditures must be approved by the faculty adviser of the organi-

Continued on page four

Home Ec Group Honors Highest In Scholarship

Betty Harrison Wins Cup Offered Sophomores By Omicron Nu

Over a hundred people were present when Omicron Nu, honorary home economics fraternity awarded its sophomore scholarship cup to Betty Harrison Tuesday night. Peggy Jackson, Florence Wagner, and Joyce Hinkley received honorable mention.

The cup is awarded to the sophomore who majors in home economics and has the highest rating in all her subjects her freshman year.

Shirley Stevens presented the cup, and Gladys Howard gave its history.

Miss Helen Richey gave an illustrated talk on "Home Life in Japan." Mitsuye Otsuka posed in the native dress of Japan. The dress is an intricate affair consisting of seven kimonos, a wide bell-like sash, and little pads to hold the bow tied in the back of the dress; special little shoes and socks are worn with the outfit.

Miss Richey told of the city and rural homes in Japan. The Japanese keep themselves warm only by the quantity of clothing they wear; there are no fireplaces in their homes. Miss Richey illustrated the manner in which the Orient and in Japan is served. There are no dining rooms so your food must be brought to you. The Japanese food, however, isn't as greasy as the Chinese preparation, Miss Richey said.

Chop sticks are even used for eating soup, the vegetables being fished out and the remainder of the soup drunk from the cup. The Japanese believe that odd numbers are safe and bring good luck. Thus an odd number of dishes is always prepared.

Green tea, mints, and cookies were served after the meeting. The tea was decorated with yellow sweet and chrysanthemums. The social committee is headed by Margaret Delaney.

A bike and steak fry is planned for the next week-end.

FSCW Dining Room Chef Is Injured in Accident

Avery L. Vinzant, chef in the college dining room is in Johnston's sanitarium with a puncture wound in the left leg from a automobile accident Saturday on the highway near Woodville.

The chef had stopped his truck and was trying to repair the tail light when a car driven by Mr. Frank Giles, state road department worker, struck the rear of the parked truck.

Giles, who was uninjured, told officers he was blinded by the light of a car that was meeting and failed to see the truck.

New Deal Offers Assistance In Getting College Changes

Two Buildings Are Included Among Additions For Campus Improvement And Beautifications

BY LUCY KELLY

Florida State College has through the aid of the New Deal two entire buildings and improvements on another, a new sidewalk, four tennis courts, and improvements on all three of the college farm, which improvement was worth about $50,000. The college farm was improved until there is when 200 acres of the farm were cleared for a pasture ground with government labor.

The right wing of the administration building is now being reconstructed by WPA workers who are finishing the building with the addition of a basement under the new wing. The basement will be used for storage and for receiving freight. The dirt, excavated when the basement was dug, was used to fill up holes in the college park where the underbrush had already been cleared by WPA workers.

Four new tennis courts behind the gymnasium were finished by WPA workers, of material furnished by the college.

The sidewalks which extends from Jefferson and Gaines to Woodward street was laid by CWA workers in the first project carried out on campus by the government.

Other CWA workers graded the land between Gilchrist hall and the gymnasium at this time.

In addition to this the New Deal, has given direct aid to 185 girls on this campus each year of its existence.

The sidewalks which extends from Jefferson and Gaines to Woodward street was laid by CWA workers in the first project carried out on campus by the government.

Other CWA workers graded the land between Gilchrist hall and the gymnasium at this time.

In addition to this the New Deal, has given direct aid to 185 girls on this campus each year of its existence.

Alumnae Group Plans Building

Headquarters to Serve Also For Student Activities

To serve as a center for student activities and as an alumnae headquarters at Florida State college, a student activities building has been planned as the immediate project of the state college alumnae association.

"Such a building has been needed for years in this school and now more than ever as the college is experiencing its largest enrollment in history for this time of year," Mrs. E. L. Beeson, president of the alumnae association, said.

The proposed building, planned on the same scale as other campus buildings, will cost approximately $60,000. Housing facilities to accommodate visiting graduates will also be provided.

The appointment of a finance committee to have charge of raising the fund in the name of the alumnae association was also announced by Mrs. Beeson who said plans for the construction of a similar dues would be used to finance the building. Contributions will be accepted from students, graduates, and friends of the college, and should be sent to Mrs. R. H. Leslie, in Tallahassee.

Serving with Mrs Leslie on the finance committee are: Mrs. J. W. Cawthon, Mrs. C. V. Hill, and Mrs. Rowena Longmire. Miss Katherine Montgomery, Miss Florence Tyson, Mrs Dora Sykes Skipper, and Mrs. Anne Houston Senasbaugh of Tallahassee.

Sub-committees will be appointed in various Florida communities and in the state outside of Florida where there are members of graduates to assist in raising funds for this purpose.

Mrs. Williams Will Meet All DAR Eligibles

Florida State Girls Plan To Install Chapter On This Campus

Mrs. Guy V. Williams, of Miami, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution will arrive in Tallahassee Sunday for a brief visit. At a meeting Monday November 16, Mrs. Williams will meet the girl who are eligible for membership of the D.A.R. chapter which is to be formed on this campus.

With the installation of the organization of a chapter on this campus, Florida State college will have the distinction of being one of the few colleges in the United States to have such an organization on campus.

Mrs. Williams has just attended the annual state board meeting at Montevevrde school, and is now on a tour to D.A.R. chapters in the state. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Robert W. Simms and Mrs. James A. Craig, both of Tallahassee. Mrs. Simms is state vice-regent of Florida and state chairman of the Ribaut Monument committee. Mrs. Craig is honorary state regent and state chairman of the D.A.R. Student Loan Fund committee.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Simms are to be guests of Mrs. E. M. Brevard of Tallahassee, regent of the Tallahassee Chapter and first vice-regent of Florida, while here.

Collegians Talk Endlessly About One Thing or Another

Continued from page one

be and there's nothing you can do about it.

"Oh, but that's so silly! I'd hate to think I couldn't do something about it and I'll bet I knew something about it before hand."

"Well, there's just as much sense to something like that as to these people who don't go to church because they say they are just as much from a beautiful day as from a sermon." I knew that religious argument was over with her at times; I stopped listening.

The next evening during dinner, the conversation centered around Landon and Roosevelt with—no such and such and what each one was going to do and what he wasn't going to do. To my right, Hitler and Mussolini were being discussed and another group of European problems were proposed. Across the table, one girl was telling two more all about her latest flirtatiy pin and how many she'd had before with all the details. Someone else was discussing the faculty dinner—how to get on the best side of the teachers, and the pet aversions of different professors.

I left the table with my head in a whirl only to be greeted at my room with a blast of dance music played by Guy Lombardo. Someone shouted, "Get Benny Goodman. He's much better." I felt it coming—a new rousing discussion of the best dance orchestras.

Lamp but will going at high flash. I thought my day of conversation finished. But no. My roommate was talking about the meaning of college. When she was going to get married—if she did—and many other things dear to the heart of a girl. I went to sleep with the words, "I think a woman should have a career. Of course it's nice to get married, but college——" And I thought I wanted something deep!

Hay Describes Spain's Plight Before AAUW

Continued from page one

ranches existed; instead, groups of soldiers armed with rifles or machine guns concealed themselves behind rocks. While on one battlefield four bursts of shrapnel from an enemy battery fell near the breastworks where Dr. Hay was talking to the soldiers.

Although the American and British embassies attempted to obtain a "safe conduct" for a train to carry their nationals from Madrid to Valencia, their efforts were unsuccessful because the insurgents were trying to bomb the railway in order to break Madrid's communication with the outside world. However, Dr. Hay finally succeeded in leaving Madrid by a night train and arrived in Valencia, where she was taken on board the U. S. S. Quincy along with a hundred other compatriots and was safely landed at Marseilles.

Following Dr. Hay's talk a short business meeting was held. the A. A. U. W. yearbooks were distributed, and refreshments served.

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

Dormitories Plan For Thanksgiving

There will be an after dinner coffee in Jennie Murphree parlor Thanksgiving evening, followed by skits in both Reynolds and Gilchrist parlors. Arrangements concerning the decorations and refreshments have not yet been decided upon. Following the skits there will be informal dancing.

College Girls Haunt Shows On Week-end

Gable Replaces Parallel As Students Relax At Theaters

When exams chase furtive visions of pleasure from the mind, when practically the whole hall goes to Gainesville, when the duties of the campus are done, and when weary heads, when parallel rises in popularity, there is always a haven for the college girl—the show.

Every change of feature at the local theaters is greeted with enthusiasm, and many a guilty conscience is temporarily shelved when the question arises in favor of two hours and a half of entertainment.

Three thin dimes, borrowed or saved, is the fee; sweaters and skirts rule the day; and walking is the mode. A short stop at Bennie's for ham, lemon, or cherry "dopes" in paper cups and bars of candy with plenty of paper wrapping is reluctantly left with the three dimes and the darkness of the theatre is gained.

A bit of stumbling is not unheard of; this period was marked by the hats of patrons already seated knocked askew. In fact it is quite well known for patrons to be jolted out of their reveries by finding college students in their laps. Apologies are mumbled (sometimes) in the dark and the show is on! Hats are found and the confusion subsides for a few minutes.

Various cat-calls and whistles are thrown to the girls as eyes become accustomed to the dark of the theatre and friends are discovered in the audience. Comments are made concerning the picture and the cast, and disagreement over the relative merits of Robert Taylor and Dick Powell are carried on in low whispers.

"Stage" are finished with a final crunching of ice, and the empty cups are tossed on the floor. Even then their usefulness is not ended, however, for many students have discovered the stomping on the cup with the heel of a shoe causes a decided hoot. This, of course, adds to the happiness of the student. Then candy bars are unwrapped, and the crumpling and wadding of paper is music in the ears of the ushers.

Soprano and alto signals show appreciation of humor; rapturous sighs from the romanticists greet the love scenes; and an occasional wet or smile may reveal the fact that the modern girl is not so hard as she may sometimes seem.

The show is over; students tramp on the innocent feet of other patrons in their eagerness; they talk about the picture; finally they leave the theatre

Committee Presents Change For Budget

Continued from page one

tation and the business manager of the college. Any change involving increased cost above the budget allowance shall be authorized in writing and countersigned by faculty adviser and the business manager

Committee Considers

In making its decisions the committee took into consideration not only the needs of the particular organization but also its relation to campus life, the contribution made by it, and the relationship of the organizations to each other.

There are six main duties and responsibilities of the college council budget committee. The group investigates the financial needs of all student organizations, receives funds from the student activity fee, and receives requests from each organization dealing with budgets. The funds are then apportioned and redistribution of funds within the budget. The funds within the budget must then be redistributed, such action to be based upon results of organizations and results of investigation. The rate of proration by which each organization will profit from the student activity fee is recommended to the college council for approval. The council will also attempt to direct a uniform system of bookkeeping among student organizations through the means of the chairman of the auditing committee. Officers of all organizations that fail to abide by the council rulings are brought to trial and penalized according to the findings made.

Student members of the budget committee are: Ellen Fleming, chairman, Jeannette Annin, Betsy Anderson, Gordon Smith, and Betty Gotlund. Dr. Venila Shores and Miss Ruth Schoenborn serve as faculty advisers. The ex-officio members are Dean Olivia Dorman and Mr. J. G. Kellum.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.

Four terms of eleven weeks are given each year. These may be taken consecutively (graduation in three and one quarter years) or three terms may be taken each year (graduation in four years). Applicants must be graduates of high intelligence, character and at least two years of college work, including the subjects required for Grade A medical schools. Catalogues and application forms may be obtained from the Dean of the city. The rebels are attempting to enter the capital by crossing the four bridges of the Manzanares river, but so far have been repulsed despite repeated efforts to storm the heights positions. The defense forces are being aided by the International Volunteer—counterpart of the Rebel Foreign Legion—composed of Russian, anti-Fascist Germans, and French Leftists, Devastating, appalling slaughter and wreckage caused by the rebel aerial and artillery bombardments of the defenseless capital show no inclination to surrender.

Bug-Hunters Will Pursue Work Soon

"There, I caught it."

The girl with the buttercup net straightens up triumphantly with the bubble bulging and caught tight in her clutches, and carefully deposits it in the jar she is holding in the hand.

If this is the scene upon which you stumble sometime in the near future, think nothing of it. It's merely Miss Ruth Developer and celebrate anatomy class out on a "bug" hunt, the date of which has been set for November 20.

These hunts are the joy of the bug lover's life. Sometimes they go on long trips and spend the night at their destination after a hard day in the field. Many times these trips determine who shall close to home at which time advantages fitting times in the opportunity to watch their technique. They often gather valuable material and many admirable collections have been started.

How long have I been at it? When a bug girl is asked for a date on a night when the moon is a round golden disk in the sky, does she say "Yes!" No. She says, "I'm so sorry, but I'm going out bug hunting. Would you like to come along?"

Newspaper Man To Talk Here On Nov. 7

Continued from page one

Ratcliffe ranks as an independent progressive His thorough knowledge of political events combined with a gift for vivid and dynamic interpretation make him a much-sought-after lecturer.

Mr. Ratcliffe arrived in New York in September and began his lectures in the South from the latter part of the month. His lecture subjects include: "Europe's Hour for Decision," "The Menace of Holy War," "How Britain Confronts the New Europe," and "Democracy, Discipline and Force."

Mr. Ratcliffe was secured as speaker at this college through cooperation with the International Relations clubs by the Regional Colleges.

Armistice is Observed

Eighteenth Anniversary of End of War Brings Wide Pleas for Peace with Rumblings Of Rearmament in Background

By CLIFTON O'ROURKE

The eighteenth anniversary of the Armistice ending the Great war was the occasion of worldwide pleas for peace, although the distinct rumblings of rearmament could be heard in the background.

President Roosevelt and General John J. Pershing did the honors for American observance by placing wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which is mean while Chairman Nye of the senate munitions committee was pointing out that America is "out in front in the maddest armament race of all time." He declared that we are spending more on national defense than any other nation in the world, and are thus stimulating larger defense plans in the other countries.

* * *

When Franco said homage to her war dead, there was no pretence that peace would be attempted by disarmament. Heavy guns and tanks and armored cars were displayed in the Champs Elysees in Paris while French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos proclaimed a policy of armed strength "because the weak are no longer respected."

Germany passed the day in silence remembering the dead of the "eighteen years ago Germany's disgrace was sealed," but that the time has definitely passed when Germany can be forced into concessions.

* * *

At a conference in Vienna, Hungary was represented as planning to rearm herself on a large scale, thus joining Germany in claiming that the conditions of the post-war treaty of Versailles.

The world is fast forgetting the $200,000,000,000 and the 20,000,000 lives that were sacrificed, except when these are thrown away two decades ago, which is the chief thought in a generation otherwise should drive home.

* * *

Madrid was an inferno city this week. Its buildings demolished and its streets strewn with the dead and dying. Dinoving three insurgent air raids and two mass attacks on the loyalist defenders

* * *

November 11 was also the anniversary of an event unassociated with the war, namely, the invention of self-starters for automobiles. The inventors, now 58 years old, is accredited to Charles Fettering, a General Motors engineer, and marked one of science's greatest conquests of the law of gravitation.

* * *

Comparative Results of the Budget Committee Report

Organization	1935-36 Rate	1935-36 Amount	Request Rate	Request Amount	New Rate	New Amount	Dec'd 1935-36	Equal 1935-36	1-3-36 Increase	Decrease
Freshmen	.0925	150.08	.0325	126.79	.0925	150.46	147.62	78.96
Sophomores	.1125	182.50	.125	200.00	.150	255.00	176.54	424.77	77.70	1 025
Juniors	.1345	215.20	.1345	215.00	.1345	228.65	211.87	285.79	134.29
Seniors	.1750	800.00	.375	541.25	.3	510.00	275.60	383.18	181.22
C. O. A.	.8212	1,312.92	.8212	1,312.92	.8212	1,543.94	1,445.86	1,298.03	871.88
W. A. A.	.8000	1,280.00	.8000	1,280.00	.8000	1,360.00	1,258.42	850.11	580.26
Dataff	.7000	1,120.00	.8000	1,280.00	.8000	1,360.00	1,161.94	1,157.21	797.64	d.100
Flambeau	1.5000	2,400.00	1.5000	2,400.00	1.4000	2,380.00	2,381.24	4,394.84	744.10	d.100
Flastacowo	2.5000	4,000.00	2.5000	4,000.00	2.5000	4,250.00	3,325.49	9,499.85	—793.72
Gen. Pub.	.0625	100.00								d.0625
Student Assn. Reserve						2375		403.75
Totals		22,911.550.20		7,2885	$11,666.29	7,2220	$12,277.40	$14,250.89	$9,589.72	$1,982.88	d.2375

*These are receipts only from Student Activity Fee.
Expenditures from all sources.

Girls Jitter Before Cruel Camera's Eye

Students Find Difficulty Posing After Spirit Of Campus

You began your preparations for the taking of your annual picture the night before with the selection of a dress. You were told to wear a dark frock with a white collar but that made you look too old. The purple crepe was much more becoming.

Next morning you put on the dress but left the make-up till the last. A test in your first class increased your blood pressure which a run home to find your mirror did not lessen. After a final combing and powdering, you rushed out to the long sprint to the Demonstration school.

As you reached the porch, you saw the announcement, "Studio." You followed the pointers up the steps and into the waiting room from which you could see an earlier victim sitting under the bright lights. While you watched this unfortunate poser, a bored assistant asked for your ticket. Fumbling through your purse, you pulled out everything from schedule to powder puff before finding the precious slip of paper. Just then the photographer called out, "Next."

You sat down stiffly and folded your hands like a timid school girl. The unsympathetic photographer told you to face left and look at the camera. You turned rigidly like a robot and adjusted your glasses although it were on bingos. To give that careless appearance, the camera man wrinkled his brow and told you to smile but eventually "set" it in place.

You felt silly lonely when the photographer disappeared behind the black cloth. At his "Smile just a little" you managed to produce a slight crease around your lips. The words "Don't move" took away even that little smirk and your mouth had a pained deadly feeling.

Suddenly it was over. You realized that you had taken a trifle but you were already eager to see your proofs. When would be done? Oh, a week from today. A whole week.

Odd Honorary Pledges Four Last Week-end

Continued from page one

sing, give dances, and put on skits. The entire group hiked back to campus.

Sprogirs is a local campus honorary organization for Odds and Ends. Members in leadership, loyalty, and service. Members are Sarah Dantz, Peggy McMichael, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Makemson, Frances Forth, Jo Bonnie Ivey Miller, Janice Borton, and Betty Mack.

School of Music Graduates Occupied in Different Ways

Carol Perrenot Longone and Kathryn Reece Haun Are Probably Most Distinguished Alumnae To Receive B.M. Degrees Here

By DOROTHY BELLAMY

Among the graduates of the school of music who have continued study and work in the music profession, probably the most distinguished are Carol Perrenot Longone and Kathryn Reece Haun. Carol Perrenot was the first girl to receive her B.M. degree from Florida State college. Piano was her major.

After graduation she was awarded a scholarship scholarship by the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music for continued study in that institution. Later in New York she studied accompanying with Conrad V. Bos while continuing professional accompanying. For several years she studied piano with Busoni in Naples, Italy.

Mrs. Longone has been accompanist for many Chicago and Metropolitan opera artists—namely, Jeanette Macdonald, Evelyn Scotney, Anna Pitatu Gigli, Rosa Raisa, and Edith Mason. The last two she is accompanying this year. In 1934, Mrs. Longone made a tour of the Scandinavian countries of Norway and Sweden, and played before King Gustave of Sweden. At present, she has a studio on Central Park south, New York, where she teaches piano and coaches singers.

For the past few seasons, Mrs. Longone has conducted a series of operalogues, in which her students study informally the operas scheduled for the season at the Metropolitan opera house. She explains the themes and libretti and plays scores of the operas.

Kathryn Reece Haun is not only well known in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and other large American cities, but she is also well known abroad. After receiving her B.M. degree at Florida State college, she was awarded a complete scholarship at the Cincinnati Conservatory and continued study there. Since she has been studying opera.

She sang the leading roles in all the Gilbert Sullivan operas, Iolanthe, one season in New York, Juliet in Romeo and Juliet in Cincinnati and the leading role in Blossom Time in Chicago. One year Mrs. Haun sang Princess Charming with an English company in Australia. Before she returned to the United States, she gave a concert on the London stage. The next year she toured the band are travelling and studying in Germany. Mrs. Haun was one of the students who has received the Medallion medal which was given by the Alumnae associations for "notable achievement." Hers was given for artistic service.

Mrs. Leland Lewis Will Speak Thursday Night To Education Honorary

Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity, will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday night at eight o'clock in room 202 Education building. Mrs. Leland Lewis, of Miami, will speak about the educational opportunities she enjoyed while studying at the University of Mexico this summer.

The December meeting of the society will be held with Mr. M. L. Stone, city supervisor of public instruction, who will speak on the plan of organization of the Leon high school. At the business meeting members of the organization will make a tour of the new Leon high school building.

Officers of the fraternity are, Miss Margaret Mahoney, president; Miss Velma Oolon, vice president, Mrs. Grace Mills, secretary; Miss Lillian Cross, treasurer; and Mrs. Paul S. Finner, chairman of the program committee.

Third Quarter Riding Classes Are Announced

Marie Taylor has announced that the riding classes for the third quarter will begin this afternoon.

At present Marie has scheduled a class every day, with two classes on Sunday. Six girls are registered in each class at present. The class starting this afternoon is her one beginning class.

It is said that the Gutenberg Bible printing is far better than much of our modern work. Many of its pages have delicate magical decorations of illuminated scrollwork which give it the effect of being entirely hand-lettered.

Three Members Of FSC Attend Economic Meet

Conference Deals With Southern Problems In Economics

Miss Sadie Gertrude Young, Miss Lelia Venable, and Mr. William Joubert represented Florida State college at the annual meeting of the Southern Economic association held in Atlanta Friday and Saturday of last week.

About a hundred delegates representing numerous southern colleges and universities were present at a Satisfactory Standard of Living," said the local delegate.

The delegates from Florida State college were impressed with that the conference members are very optimistic about the economic future of the South.

College Publicized By Correspondence

Do happenings at Florida State get sufficient publicity throughout the peninsula state?

The answer may be found on the walls of the college publicity office. There a big map of Florida dotted with red, blue and green pins the state scene of news emanating from this office.

Sixty red flags show the town that freshmen correspondents in journalism cover with county news. A group of blue flags are proof that 11 upperclassmen correspondents also help in the publicity distribution. One hundred green flags mark the towns which are listed on the mailing list of the publicity office. Two of the green standards represent radio stations WKIF at Cairnesville and WTAL in Tallahassee.

PHOENIX HOSIERY for AFTERNOON
3-THREAD
for EVENING
LEVERED
for SERVICE
SPORTS
3-THREAD
LEVERED
Phoenix stockings combine the sheerness you want with the assurance of durability and long-wearing qualities. Choose from by thread weight for the occasion:
$1.00
LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE

You'll be showered with Compliments when you wear Naturalizers made on PLUS-FIT Lasts
ALISTRO
Don't Spend Your Life Two feet from happiness wear Naturalizers
$6.75
Styles for every occasion—for every foot
Brown Suede with Tan. Brown Suede with Tan Calf Trim.
Leather Heels
VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE
"We Have Your Size"

"NO NO DRAFT VENTILATION... NO DATE.. I JUST GOT A PERMANENT"
...not only because of their smart styles, but also because Plus-Fit Lasts give you poise and assurance that you'll get in no other shoe. That's why we say — Get into NATURALIZERS and get more out of life.
This young lady just said a telephone full. And when you come to think of it, she's right. There is no reason for not having a car with such modern conveniences, when General Motors is able to produce and sell its cars in such volume you get these improvements at no extra price.
GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET PONTIAC OLDSMOBILE BUICK LA SALLE CADILLAC

Sport Squints

This week's sportsmanship edi- has been contributed by ...ney Conn, first vice-president ...G.A.

Sportsmanship, by the time it ...s been the subject of immum- ...ble articles and essays, should ...t seem out there but the ev- ...ll is not. It is something that everyone ...s about, but few do anything ...out it. We all have been taught ...now instinctively, that we ...uld be good sports, but some- ...es the effort seems too great. Good sportsmanship can not be ...oven on and off like coat. It ...st be worn habitually or it be- ...s quite easy and forgotten. ...an not be saved for basketball ...mes and tennis matches, used ...y play, and then tossed aside ...r the next game. It is needed ...ryday — in everything one ...es.

...ll class rooms good sportsman- ...ip is essential to the meaning of ...lay and cooperation. It is ...as necessary anywhere, and ...l times. It is only because ...ge life involves so many diffi- ...s which must be governed by ...d sportsmanship that so many ...ople are overcome by emo- ...s.

That is why it is drummed ...o the ears of a defeated girl un- ...e examination of her critically ...alls. Am I a good sport?

...o far as we can see or hear, ...ere is only one girl on the ...mpus who went on the ...ding club bicycle rides on ...ce-a-day, or two or two girls. ...ever, report that they are ex- ...ely disgusted with hills now ...d forever more. One had plan- ...d to go horseback riding the ...ther day and the only horse she ...w near was the charlie-horse ...at acquired.

...peaking of horses, the new ...ding classes are being formed ...o best quarter, beginning next ...ek. Many freshmen will continue ...e large of these classes, which ...s been very successful so far. ...e further information concern- ...g this read your Flambeau!

...e skating fad is back with ...ston and they say the wonder- ...l exercise. We saw some novices ...aking around down the hills and ...o the gym last Wednesday.

...e haven't seen any Even ...ews yet but the feathers are be- ...ed to rise in a big way—and ...e same time on Thursday after- ...on! Don't prolong the flying! ...on't forget to come to the ...ss games that are to be held ...ch Wednesday and Friday— ...ere the fore-runners to the ...ll-free games of Thanksgiv- ...g.

...amp Flastacowo was a wel- ...e retreat Wednesday for girls ...o found themselves stranded at ...ast over the eagerly awaited ...eekend. It was a bit cold for ...imming but after all—there's ...ore eating and canoeing ...ere lots of things that just make ...e day without classes slither ...ong.

...ntra-mural volleyball and bas- ...ball are nearly over and we ...n't wait to see who is there for ...e last round up. Some of us ...ave even lost our cast whipped ...am desert so the losing teams ...ill better be provided with ade- ...ate protection or else be willing ...o fork over their own deserts to ...e lazy victors.

Mariam Harrold Criticizes and Lauds C. G. A. In Essay

Continued from page one

...ld defeat their own purposes. ...n informing the student body of ...hods in voting activities and ad- ...ctive events, the C.G.A. ...ecutive council has succeeded. ...ary Jeanne, can build ...n esteem in the present, through ...e promise of a more glorious ...ture. She should enjoy the ...ofound psychological artifel- ...e of being reared, rather than ...ntimidated, as an incentive to ...ore and better actions.

Complementary of Convocation

...Another of the most tangible ...eans of making C.G.A. a living ...rt of our campus is through its ...ssembly programs, and these ...ave been exceptionally good this ...ear. The average girl, I believe, ...ows student participation in ...rograms, and likes to have the ...ent government presented to ...em. Hence, We feel a sort ...f pride in our president and our ...fficers, and like to see and ...ear from them. The introduc- ...ion of officers in person in con- ...ection with the beginning of the ...ear is very helpful, creating in- ...erest in these officers and giv- ...ng students more feeling of ac- ...uaintancy and intimacy with ...G.A. work. Numerous introduc- ...ions through varied and differ- ...nt ways to the student body ...ave both helpful and pleasing to ...tudent body and say neces-

8 Basketball Games Played Off In Series

Reynolds is Only Team Winning by Default Of Opponents

Eight more basketball games of the present intramural series were decided on the courts this past week. Of this number only one, that between Reynolds and Bryan, was won by default, going to Reynolds when Bryan failed to put out a team.

Monday saw four games settled. The Episcopalians, last year's champions, completely overwhelmed the Alpha Chi team by a 42-18 score. The starting line-ups included: Episcopalians: Winthrop, Jennings, Barrington; Hy-Smith, Jennings, Barrington; Alpha Xi Deltas: Ireland, Fryer, Corey, Tingdlem, Trasdo, Brown, Knight, Harrison.

Kappa Alpha Theta met Zeta Tau Alpha and won the closest scoring game of the week, 10-3 in overtime. Theta's starting team included Stump, Waterhouse, Green, Rice, Wadsworth, Price; players for Kappa Kappa Theta were Krames, Miller, Rawls, Barge, Hendricks, Hall.

Eastern beat Omega 6-5 in a close game to the tune of 20-19. Spradlin, Sanders, Hall, Copeland, Rauderson, and Robinson started the game and Mack and Gilchrist's team was composed of Chisman, Smith, Glanier, Nickel, Harper, Day.

The Newman club continued its winning streak in cup play when Kappa Delta at 28-18 in the only game played Tuesday afternoon. The Catholics had as their line-up, Lessey, Molner, Lyle, Park, Macklesmeyer, and Mack; Kappa Delta: Farramore, Holloway, Ingel, Miles, and Webster put up a good fight for the Kappa Deltas.

Last Friday Spirogira chalked up a decisive win over Alpha Chi Murphree to the tune of 30-7, and Alpha Delta Pi conquered Alpha Chi Omega, 24-6.

sary for the right kind of relations between it and C.G.A. These programs are very influential, I think, in building up college spirit, and should be continued. My chief suggestion would be to have more C.G.A. officials—first vice president, second vice president, chairman of judiciary, and others—take leading parts in these programs. While we enjoy hearing Mary Jeanne, we would enjoy hearing and becoming acquainted with other student speakers, and also the added variety to the program would be welcomed.

Hearing Difficult

A definite effort should be made by all C.G.A. speakers to speak loudly and clearly. Mary Jeanne is very capable in this respect, but it seems to me that the chairman of judiciary might very effectively practice on voice control and learn to speak more loudly and forcefully than she now does. When she now speaks, her voice does not carry the full strength of her convictions. This quite naturally influences student interpretation and appreciation of the functioning of her office. The informal, yet firm, language and manner of speech which the president of C.G.A. employs is invaluable in giving a free and easy air to programs and making them more interesting. Her occasional references to "sang" and her per- sonal remarks relieve the feeling that she is some "snooty," untouchable person. Yet even now she should work on her occasional lapses into laughiness, as this is detrimental to the arousing of a common feeling, or spirit, among the student body.

As has been previously stated, the success of C.G.A. is very largely dependent on the success of its convocation programs. And similarly, the success of these are very largely dependent on a system of acoustics in our auditorium. If students cannot hear, as a great number of them can't, their can't be expected to gain much from the programs. What influence, if any, the C.G.A. officials can possibly assert in the direction of a more satisfactory acoustics system would be a vast help to their success as a system of college government. Maybe nothing can be done about this underlying fault, but at least its importance should be realized by the governing bodies. The remedying of this condition might well become a primary C.G.A. goal, or objective, for its achievements throughout the year depend

Students Ride In Horse Show

Marie Taylor and Audrey Cooper Win Ribbons

Marie Taylor and Audrey Cooper rode in the second annual Tallahassee horse show held at the West Florida exposition last Tuesday, November 3. Both girls rode horses owned by Tallahassee men.

Marie rode in four classes: Aubrey rode in two. Marie rode the horse, "Broadway," owned by Mr. J. Dell Bell, in the pleasure and three-gaited classes, winning ribbons in both classes, and a trophy in the former class. Aubrey judged the horse not sound.

Audrey rode "Tallahassee Girl," owned by Mrs. A. E. Gilburn, in the three-gaited and road-hack classes, winning a ribbon.

Marie is planning to enter in the horse-show in Columbus, Georgia, this week-end.

Groups Enjoy Bicycle Trips

Parties are Led by Hurd, West and Ireland

Two parties of thirteen girls each went bicycling Armistice Day, one party leaving at ten o'clock and returning at noon, and the other leaving at two and returning at four.

Miss Hurd, adviser for the Outing club, and Felicia West were the leaders of the first group. Their group rode out on the Jackson Bluff road and part of the way out the road to camp.

Margaret Ireland took the second party out by the Governor's Mansion to Lee Robbs and back by the Armory and Country Club estates.

Florida High Trounced By Chattahoochee Team

The only touchdown made by the Florida high six-man football team in their game last Friday with Chattahoochee on the local football field came in the closing minutes of play when David Skipper, captain of the team, went over the goal line to score.

Although the local team fought until the final whistle, they were outplayed by the visiting team, losing the game 62 to 6. The Chattahoochee team is now leading in the six-man football league. Florida high team will go to Madison today to play the Madison high team.

Recent Fair Proves Popular Recreation

Bingo! Hot dogs! Hamburgers! Ten cents! Get your tickets here! Right this way folks! See the two-headed baby! Elephant-stationed lady! Sword-swallower! Fortune candy! Candied apples! Don't fail to have your fortunes told!

These words seemed to ring out over and over in the mind of the student who had spent a hilarious day at the fair.

Sawdust! Dirt! Dust! Noise! Peanuts roasting! Barkers! Nerve-racking jazz! Floors! People! Ride shows! Tired feet! Poor, tired body!

Crash! Bang! The tossing, turning student rolled out of bed onto the hard, cold floor. A very annoyed room-mate came to the rescue.

"Oh, room-mate," cried the sick and weary student, "why did you ever let me ride the loop-the-loop and the tilt-a-whirl right after I'd eaten that candied apple, hot dog, double ice cream sandwich, and cotton candy? My stomach feels like the merry-mix-up? Where's that milk of magnesia. I'll never go to another fair!"

"Army" Team is Leading In Archery Tournament

The archery tournament under the guidance of Miss Ray Fraser is progressing rapidly with "Army" in the lead with a score of 123 hits and 682 points and "Navy" running second with 127 hits and 596 points. The teams which the class has been divided into are "Army," "Navy," "Harvard," and "Princeton."

Those students who have helped the score of their team make making at least two bulls-eyes are Margaret Coursey, Annette Rivers, Ruth Fyman, Nelle Fain, and Elizabeth Spencer.

The freshmen are also holding an archery tournament. Eleanor O'Haver won Tuesday with a score of thirteen hits and eighty-two points. She gained ten points for hitting a balloon target.

Gilchrist Wins Volleyball Tilt Of This Week

Three of the Scheduled Intramural Games Are Played Off

Three games and one default were rounded up in the intramural volleyball schedule for this past week. As the schedule draws towards the final games the interest and rivalry among the teams is increasing.

The game between Gilchrist and Broward yesterday afternoon was a fitting climax to this week's schedule. The score a the half was tied at 14-14 and during the remainder of the game the score was knotted nine times. Neither team was able to gain more than a one-point lead until the last two minutes of play when the Gilchrist team managed to forge ahead six points to win with a score of 30-24. The line-ups were as follows: Gilchrist: Harper, Troughbaugh, Brown, Guy; Olson, McCraig, Fitch, Molnar; Broward: Wilson, Cooper, Anderson, Wade, Edwards, McMuller, Rausome.

The first game in the new round was between the Kappa Alpha Theta team and the Alpha Xi Delta team. The final score was 47 to 31 in favor of the Theta team. This makes the second straight win for the Thetas since they defeated the Episcopal team last week. The line-ups were as follows: Thetas: Therrell, Medlin, Hendricks, Hills, Price, Barringer, Avant. Alpha Xi's: Mack, Fryer, Triplett, B. Axon, Mead, Carraway, Hall, Nicholds.

The Chi Omega-Eastern game ended with the Chi Omegas on the big end of the score. This came as a surprise as the Eastern team had not yet decided whether to their credit, having defeated both Alpha Delta and the Spirogira team by lopsided scores However, the Chi Omega team was out to win; they took a lead at the beginning of the game and never lost it. The score at the half was 16-11, but

Armistice Day Armistice Day At Flastacowo Is Successful

Girls Get Real Workouts In Canoeing, Games And Wrestling

Last Thursday morning sixty girls, after a hectic Armistice spent at camp, arrived at the college in time for breakfast.

Many showed signs of rough use and little sleep, displaying sore muscles and drooping eye-lids.

Armistice day, canoeing and indoor games held the spotlight, but in a few corners could be found the proverbial "hook worm" studying for the next day's quarterly.

Armistice night, the Rev. Clark Deane, of Panama City, and Dr. Caldwell, minister of the Presbyterian church of Tallahassee, visited the camp. Reverend Deane gave an interesting talk about why he had decided to be a preacher instead of an electrical engineer. Miss Wylie, Presbyterian student secretary, led a lively song. Indian wrestling was one of the main features of the evening.

Later, at bed time, a new element entered the activities. Some girls discovered "pie" beds and had to remake them. But the best "yolk" was not discovered until morning. A girl rose "egsasted." Her bed was full of week-old eggs with which she had spent a bad night.

Presbyterian Students Spend Holiday at Camp

Miss Rachel Wiley, secretary of the Presbyterian student work on campus, chaperoned sixty students at Camp Flastacowo from Thursday afternoon until early Thursday morning.

Dot Marwick and Harriet Duke reserved two houses for freshmen girls, one for sophomores who went along. The main purpose of this trip was to initiate the freshmen into camp life and to get them better acquainted with some of the upperclassmen

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE... SMOKE CAMELS

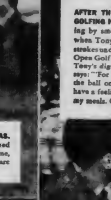
Camels increase digestive activity — encourage a sense of well-being!

WITH healthy nerves and good digestion, you feel on top of the world. When you smoke Camels with your meals and after, Camels help in two special ways: Tension is lessened and Camels promote digestive well-being.

So enjoy your Camels between courses and after eating. Strain eases.

The flow of digestive fluids, so vital to proper nutrition, is speeded up. Alkalinity is increased. You get more good from what you eat.

For an invigorating "lift"—for matchless taste — and "for digestion's sake" the answer is the same: Camels. Camels set you right! And they don't get on your nerves.



Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

ALL-AROUND ATHLETE FROM TEXAS. Miss Mary Carr says: "Since I've learned how good Camels make my smoking, I wouldn't be without them. Camels are mild — never get on my nerves."

CHAMPION BOWLER. Johnny Murphy says: "Smoking Camels at meals and after works out swell in my case. Camels help my digestion. After a meal and Camels, I settle back and really enjoy life."

AFTER THE GREATEST FINISH UNDER FIRE IN GOLFING HISTORY! Tony Manero gets set for eating by smoking Camels. The gallery went wild when Tony Manero scored a spectacular 283 — 4 strokes under the record — to win the 1936 National Open Golf Tournament. In spite of the long grind, Tony's digestion stands the strain. Tony himself says: "For digestion's sake — smoke Camels!" hits the ball on the nose. I enjoy my food more — have a feeling of ease when I enjoy Camels with my meals. Camels set me right."

HOLLYWOOD RADIO TREAT! Camel Cigarettes bring you a FULL HOUR'S ENTERTAINMENT! Benny Goodman's "Swing" Band. George Stoll's Camage Orchestra. Hollywood Guest Stars ...and Ripsaw Hughes comedy! Tuesday — 9:30 p.m. E.S.T., 8:30 p.m. C.S.T., 7:30 p.m. M.S.T., 6:30 p.m. P.S.T., over WABC-Columbia Network.

CONCENTRATION is the key to special treatment—taxes digestion too. That's where digestion's aid comes in. Camels help! "For digestion's sake" smoke Camels' delicing meals and afterward. And when you are tired—you get a refreshing "lift" with Camels. For Camels set you right.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS — Turkish and Domestic — than any other popular brand.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOOKMAN ..... Editor
MARY ELLEN ADAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTIN BAKER ..... Managing Editor
PEARLE SHEPPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Chaffee; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Features, Arthur Grey Lockhart and Jane Quaile; Literary, Sarah Beth Davis and Barbara Ann Outlaw; Society, Christie O'Rourke; Society, Margaret Claire Lathrop; Sports, Jack Cox; Sports, Jack Hendricks; Typist, Mary Lee Lockhart; Mary Cobb Moody Sparks, Ella Virginia Brooks, and Elizabeth Turner.

REPORTERS: Hazel Adams, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Brooks, Harmon Barrow, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Bird, Ruth Bird, Ruth Brooks, Ella Virginia Brooks, Dorothy Dixon Chaney, Ronald Chaney, Virginia Davis, Harry Dickenson, Marion Flagg, Mary Colter Mangum, Dorothy Lewis, Hoke Lee, Lois Ingerman, Jane Keen, Ann Lane, Betty Leach, Martha Lundeen, Mary Lee Lockhart, Mary Cobb Moody, Mary Ann Mott, Mary Nolen, Alberta Pollard, Peter Pappas, Florence Nancy Rogers, Jane Sharon Lanier, Mary Ellen Sheffield, Margaret Sullivan, Anne Walther, Frances Zimmerman.

BUSINESS STAFF

LELIA MOORE ..... Business Manager
ALICE ..... Advertising Manager
SAM GREATHOUSE ..... Asst. Adv. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Represented for National Advertising by
NATIONAL ADVERTISING SERVICE, INC.
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago · Boston · San Francisco · Los Angeles
Portland · Seattle

Member National Scholastic Press Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30 1915, at the Post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The Problem And Its Solution—

An open forum in the last issue of the Flambeau asking for an increase in library hours has caused so much favorable comment among both faculty members and students that we feel called upon to follow up the matter with another plea.

As the writer of the open forum article explained, students are finding it difficult to do all their library reference work in the time now allotted. The addition of late afternoon classes has effectively broken up all chances for what had become the traditional Saturday morning in the library. Add to this the fact that student organizations have been urged to put their meeting time in the afternoon and more possible time for during parallel reading has been subtracted.

Besides this most students want Saturday afternoon for recreational purposes and find it difficult to concentrate on reference books despite the fact that the grade stink still hangs over their heads. Those who do sacrifice Saturday afternoon for library study find that they cannot complete the required reading in the allotted hours.

It is only fair to say from the first that the librarian and her staff are not responsible for the deplorable situation. The group can be blamed for the problem. But it is true that something should be done immediately to alleviate conditions, and the Flambeau thinks it only fair to make some concrete suggestions for the improvement of matters.

First of all the library will probably object to a longer working week for financial reasons, but though these reasons be important they do not seem to be the only possible unsolvable problem. If further financial backing cannot be secured there is a chance for student cooperation. In fact, several students have already said that they would be willing to give of their own time in order to discharge the necessary routine duties of the library and make an increase in hours possible. Perhaps some faculty members feel the same way. At any rate this idea is worth considering if the financial end of the matter is all that is holding up action.

Secondly is the proper worth consideration of the standpoint of the number of students and faculty members to whom the advantage of the increase in hours. We feel that this is a minor consideration if compared from the standpoint of the percentage of the student body now using the library regularly. Many students never go in the building except to show father and mother, or as intellectual tourists. As long as there are other buildings on the campus for faculties the opportunity should not be denied them simply because they may be a minority group.

Thirdly, there should be more hours provided in the present schedule. It is a rather obvious place in Saturday night with Sunday afternoon coming second and an extra fifteen minutes each night falling third. If there are objections from the staff on this point, why should the new arrangement be made? It is only right that the library should be considered, like librarians the faculty, and the students should not be open meeting to discuss the matter. This each individual group might elect two or three representative members to come out the final decision.

Here included is a chance for the functionings of the better faculty-student relationships we have been emphasizing so much of late.

The Flambeau is interested in hearing all sides of the question and will gladly publish written communications in the open forum column next week. Meantime, the three groups just mentioned should make some effort to discuss the matter—if they feel as strongly upon the subject as they have led us to believe.

Did Someone Mention Armistice?

Eighteen years ago during a world conflict, peace was declared and that day November 11 was set aside as a holiday. The war was over. German nationalism had, world powers thought, for once and for all, been stifled almost beyond recovery. The world was safe for democracy, universal brotherhood, and peace.

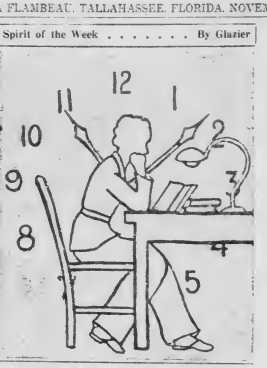
Yet peace is a long word long. Italians and Ethiopians still carry on guerilla warfare. Arabs and Jews have skirmishes over Jerusalem, a revolution prolongs itself in Spain. Germany does not deny its war-like measures, and the United States commands the greatest war appropriations ever voted in peacetime history. And what do we do? We skimp our shoulders. "Well, if war comes, we guess it must."

Pacifists shuddering at a world situation pregnant with war, make a gallant but feeble stand for peace. Members of various peace associations through magazine advertisements, speeches, and anti-war demonstrations, remind us of the horrors of the last war, of its wastefulness, of its sheer stupidity. Some peace organizations even rally to the point of asking youthful Americs to sign a pledge that it will not take up arms, regardless of the pressure brought to bear on it.

Many of us, America's Youth realize the impulsiveness of the pacifists' position, however. We know they are up against centuries of war-like traditions, a classic example of which is compulsory military training in many of our schools and universities today. We know the attitude of the thousands who enroll for R. O. T. C. courses. As college students, we have heard them say, "Well if war comes, we do not want war, but if war comes, we aren't going to have to do the dirty work; we will be the officers."

Yes, we know the pacifists are up against the walls of several world powers that favor "economic nationalism" as the vogue when the growing complexities of our economic system cry out for world markets.

Yes, we know that the horrors of war and we know that war is useless, but it is too much trouble for us to rebel. Realizing the numerous angles of the problem, most of us do not even take an active part in trying to change a few of the conditions that make for war. There are so many other causes, we say apathetically, why bother with those? So we tend out little every day matters of life, willing to let the world take along as best or worst it may, superior in our own knowledge but lacking intelligence in our motion, or perhaps we should say, in our lack of action. Perhaps we are character-less. We ignore the supposition that we are already too content in our own country to wager an argument.



A Bouquet For That Last Convocation Program

The sponsors of the last convocation program deserve commendation for, first of all, putting on one of the most enlightening programs to which the local student body has been subjected, and secondly, for making a genuine attempt to understanding of such an appropriate time.

The fact that men representative of the major nations of the world tonight and killing each other in the trenches was reason for discarding the fact that the reasoning prejudice against wartime opponents is founded upon propaganda issued during a great conflict. It is well to remind young people that they may someday be the judges of whether or not they will enter a war in the attempts to wipe out the economic and political position of some other nation. And having reminded them of this possibility it is fitting that they recognize the qualities of their opponent as well as the faults which propaganda is sure to invent or emphasize.

That a college has twenty-eight students neither foreign birth or of foreign parentage is not to be disregarded. If this country is to remain free the prospect of a major war, the students of today will be able to evaluate no men against whom they will fight, not in the light of what the prejudiced say, but in the light of what they themselves have observed through personal contact.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

Lucrezia To The Rescue

Writer Satirizes Second Plot of Imaginary Heroine Moved To Action By Confusion Over Cut System

By ARLINE GREY LOCKHART

Lucrezia, unaware of the elbows thrusting her backward and forward in the 8:30 rush in the college post office, continued to crush tightly the slip of white paper in her hand. The faces before her had become a white sheet lazered in black with the words "You have exceeded your total of allowed cuts" by two cuts for the quarter. This blocks you on administrative probation."

The sheet and words danced in front of her eyes while a agonizing sensation ran through her whole body. A whistle broke through her daze. It was Operator Number One, shoving through the lobby crowd toward her.

"Come smoke a cigarette. You look as though you needed one." the orator commented, thrusting her side. Lucrezia followed her in silence.

Inside the campus hangout with its red leather furniture and modernistic walls, and its noise of clattering dishes, chattering girls and spirals of smoke Lucrezia found Operator Number One about the little slip of paper.

"I haven't taken any cuts for the week but here are cut slips running around to telling me about it now." Lucrezia heaved a sigh of disgust.

"There is a student official over there; ask her what it means to be on administrative probation," advised the orator.

The student official questioned said, "I don't know just what restrictions you are under, perhaps if you ask someone else—" she waved her hand vaguely.

Lucrezia and her orator left the "hangout" and went to the registrar's office. There they were informed that Lucrezia would suffer no penalty unless she over-cut again while her two over-cuts would be deducted from her next quarter's cuts.

Smiling they went back to the hangout inspired for the course of events which ensued. Seated around the table on the right were Cronies Two, Three Four and Five

"Have you heard what happened to me?" shouted Cronie Three. "I got a card shoving me on probation for over-cutting and I'm not even taking Math," she subsided into a glower.

"Oh that's not serious." Cronie Four's voice was contemptuous. Think of me. I'm on probation but the infirmary did not send me a report to the registrar's office for those classes I missed those weeks ago. I have lost my excuses and the infirmary won't make any duplicates. What am I to do?"

A girl at another table heard her, and said, "That's what happened to me, too."

Continued on page three

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed herein are those of the writer or writers and are not necessarily those of the Flambeau staff. All comments are invited for discussion.

To Whom It May Concern:

We the undersigned do not want to be misunderstood as to the motive back of the following remarks. Our pride in this school and in Florida nationally is as strong with us as with any of the students on this campus. We also appreciate the fact that our present cut system is a liberal step compared to the "no cut" system employed previously. However, certain rules, regulations and results seem to be so adjusted in meeting the needs of the student body as a whole that every new process miss so through a blind eye to the rules of some of the recent developments. We would like to offer a few suggestions.

The college infirmary has been signed by a large number of students in that they used it as a means to evade the cut classes or recuperate from cut classes. Under the system everyone is so "cut conscious" that all visits must go on academic probation or first quarter freshmen. We have had a penalty of administrative probation inflicted because they used the misfortune to get sick. For an average student two days illness uses a quarter's cuts and it is only natural, especially with Saturday classes, that they should wish to be able to leave camp sometimes. Yet doctors urge the treatment of even a common cold with infirmary care!

But not even considerate pure pleasure as the reason for going out there are other factors. Some students have gained prestige through activities which necessitate absences from campus or classes. Must they give this up because they might get sick, or is there a way to help them up honor, and necessary trips because they have used their cuts? And what about the girls who go to the infirmary perms to other students and who wait until they practically drop before they go to the infirmary? And what about the merely average student? Is this receives far more cuts than she can ever on the semester? Should she be deducted quality points endanger her graduation?

We admit the faults which needed remedying, but we feel that some adjustment should be made. It seems to us that the infirmary also would be the logical group to beentrusted with doling out the excuse cuts. They could supply determine whether or not a girl really deserves them. If that were used we feel sure that some of the conditions mentioned and a great deal of the criticism would be eliminated.

As we understand the term 'administrative probation,' it is designed to be a corrective not a split penalty for over-cutting. There are cases of students on academic probation, prominent girls who are invited or requested to appear other places and can't for the several reasons. remove who mush suffers graduation, and the ever present chances of misleading absences or recorded grades, which merit special attention and dispensations under this present system. Couldn't there be a way to allow the limited cuts and at the same time a little leeway for special and sufficient reasons? We feel sure that a modification of this system could be made.

Signed: Lurine Goodson, Margaret Murray, Jo Dalton, Ann Lane, Elizabeth Currie, Mildred Seekins, Betty Hammond, Lillian Turbiville, Sallie Dickey, Ruth Riddle, Virginia Tolford, Ruth Brooks Antil Leonard, Helen Cate, Bess Brown, Eleanor Pfeil, Rosemary Hamil, Lois Schaik, Betty Wynn, Melba Parks, Elizabeth Hyde, Margie Chaffee, Roberta Drummond, Marion Barringer, Morea Rowsey, Evelyn Pettigrew, Charlotte Veith, Christine McClellan, Helen Hughes, Mary Frances Hyde, Helen Sykes, Mickey Cleaver.

Additional Pro and Con Sub-Pass Fl

Collegiate Comebacks

Quarterlies over we are at last convinced that the humor section is the only one for Florida State. It sounds so much better to say that we operate under that system and we're darned if a single one of us knew a thing on exams. Which reminds us—some mommas and poppas may not know exactly what "D" on grades means, but Heaven help us! we'll bet our new silk shirt there's not one who won't catch the full significance of "Unsatisfactory" at one fleeting glance

* * *

With the extinction of hostesses in the dining hall, we're in a dilemma. We can't decide whether we've achieved such social perfection as to make such matters unnecessary or whether we've just been given up as a bad job. Our money goes on the latter.

* * *

Dedicated to the unkind millions of sufferers by the untold millions of boy-friends who are "misunderstood":

For you my love, for you.
Yi Yaki Kaki
There's just one thing I wouldn't do—
That's see the same show twice

—Angeler Colegram

* * *

From the Drexel Triangle we learn that Pitt college has acquired the novel idea of requiring student identification cards with attached photographs to be presented at games and social functions. This will put an end to many illegal traffic in books, which has permitted little brothers and sisters enough to attend the high school events under the guise of students. Well if their pictures don't look any more like them than our animal pictures look like us, the little brothers and distant cousins will have nothing to worry about.

* * *

This Junior Collegian offers the perfect definition of happiness which precedes to know whether the dancer is interpretive a moonbeam or a cow annoyed by hornets.

* * *

Yale university according to the Collegiate Digest has the distinction of all but 40 of its 31,003 graduates. Gosh, our boy-friend is even better than a university then, because he's never mislaid an address.

* * *

Just as a little reminder that winter is here we print the following from the Alabamian:

Little bears sleep in their little bear shirts
They sleep very well I'm told
But last night I slept in my little bear skin
And caught a blasted cold

* * *

The Canadian Mounted Police reports the Creighton-ian, will now use motor vehicles in the process of getting their men. Same old same, we'll stick by the old pp route

* * *

In the Brown and White we read that a new course in marriage at Syracuse university has 130 students enrolled with 410 on the waiting list. And they still don't believe in the depression!

From the Columnade comes the following bitter ditty.

She doesn't paint.
She doesn't rouge.
She doesn't smoke
She doesn't booze.
She doesn't kiss.
She don't pet.
She's fifty-eight
And single yet

* * *

Problem for the Social Committee—In case of an automobile accident who should speak first and should the gentleman precede the lady through the windshield?

Magazine Jotting

BY SARAH SEALEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

"Ladies in Politics"

By John Gordon Ross

'A woman in practical politics is like a man throwing a baseball; she can throw it but she does not so where she wants it, and her action is awkward." This is the opinion of politician in an Eastern state, writing under a pseudonym in the November Forum.

To read the article is to become convinced that all women are weak, shallow, brainless creatures, motivated by prejudice and the love of fathers or husbands, unable to rise themselves away, from the bridge table long enough to acquaint themselves with economic and political issues in order to vote intelligently. Extending the franchise to women has brought about none of the promised reforms and the great big wonderful men are still the only ones capable of operating and improving government. The three exceptional women in public life are Josephine Roche, Florence Allen, and Frances Perkins

Revolting as the author's assertions may be, they seem fundamentally true and are supported by considerable evidence. His fraternity of looking at and criticizing the situation is unsinister and his conclusions are rather the nature of a challenge to women who believe in women—S. S.

Is Communism a Menace?

By Michael B. Scheler

The communist party today is merely empty shell of what it was a few years ago. Mr. Scheler this month in The People's Mouthpiece.

At birth the communist movement in United States was mainly an outgrowth of the socialist party. Soon after the Russian revolution a group of socialists, mostly of Russian descent, launched a campaign to adopt Lenin's program for the socialist party.

In the 1936 seventeen year, after its birth the communist party held its first national convention in New York 40,000 dues-paying members were recruited. 4,000 of whom were native born. As a result of persecution, only 8,000 are recent unemployed. The party has tremendous grip in every walk of life from the Soviet Union to street parades and baseball matches. Members of trade unions, according to the Workers' International Union of the Shoe Workers' Industrial Union, are all organized under the party's direction. Yet most of these unions have had large membership losses as a whole but a growth of little importance in function mainly as skeleton or propaganda organizations.

The Communist, the theoretical monthly of the party has a circulation of only five to six thousand copies and this number is steadily declining. The communists frequent shifts in tactics, and strategy of slight provocation not belonging to the principles of the Marxian and Trotskyist party movement but of a confused and discredited cause.—S. D.

Youth and Yardsticks

By Gertrude Springer

Character building services to youth children, habilitation and health activities be the backbone of this year's appeal to public from community welfare programs according to conclusions drawn at the gathering of community chest workers, board members, executives at Washington last September in report of the committee on Child Welfare Services that discussions centered around the need of broad community concern rather than on basis of "quotas" for local community chests.

A number of nationally known men and women spoke at the conference, including Dr. Ingurged that community chests should see to that children are not only fed and educated but that the disciplines of life's realities are not neglected are of such character as to give rewards of genuine pride and sturdiness and virtue as citizens and neighbors.

Charles P. Taft vice-president of the Community Fund of America and Associated Agencies realize the importance of youth and the necessity that "youth belongs in the middle of thing that "youth belongs in the middle of things and not on the edges."

The discussion of a yardstick for corporations for community welfare purposes based on a plan proposed by Dr. Harry Dexter of General Motors. The plan would require corporations to contribute to the total community budget in the percentage which their annual local taxes payable by the corporations are of the total local taxes payable by the entire community,

As Miss Springer points out, only time can tell what effect the presentation and discussion of this new plan will have on the welfare campaign.—S. D.

The Social Week

Two Sororities Will Honor Rushees At Entertainments

Entertaining this week-end with parties honoring rushees are the Delta Tau Upsilon and the Phi Mu sororities.

The members of the Theta Upsilon will entertain tomorrow night with an informal after-dinner coffee in the sorority house on West Jefferson street. The informal meal will be carried out in the floral decorations of gaily-colored autumn flowers. Bridge games, cookies and nuts will be served before an open fire in the living room of the sorority house. Rushees who will be honored at this time are: Frances Mitchell, Ella McClain, Lucille Hazelton, Eleanor Andrews, Eleanor Scott, Virginia Wilson, Jane Kessler, Rosemary McDonald, Margaret Branas, Ruth Wilson, and Nancy Bixby.

Hostesses at this time will be Anne Donnell, Frances Ellis, Lorraine Gyles, Jewel Hodges, Mary Louise Noendahl, Lois Hughes, Elizabeth Leech, Margaret Neff, Olivia Sorenson, Gertrude Tonkins, Valerie Hunt, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers, and Anne Schopke.

Phi Mu Informal

Rushees and friends of the Phi Mu sorority will be entertained with an informal party after supper Sunday night in the sorority house on West Jefferson street.

The sorority colors of rose and white will be used to decorate informally for this affair. During the evening the guests will be entertained with skits by the pledges after which the pledges will also their goat songs. At the conclusion of the evening Ices and cookies will be served by the members and pledges.

Hostesses at this time will be Barbara Hendry, Lillian Simmons, Jimmy Malone, Pair Milteer, Margaret Yeon, Lillian Lamb, Gwendolyn Griffin, Catherine O'Mara, Marion Purviance, Elizabeth and Ethel Jones, Trudy Rodgers, Marjorie Bissit.

Mary Bunner, Blanton Barrett, Elisabeth Pierce, Pearl Gay, Peggy Gerald, Helen Hines, Ruth Stewart, Mary Jane Johnston, Betty Simmons, Betty Booer, Doris Dabbs, Dorothy Milford, Lucy Grant, and Claire Wells.

Southern College To Have a Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega

All active members and three pledges of the local chapter of Alpha Chi Omega are going to Lakeland this week-end to install Beta Omicron chapter at the Florida Southern college.

Today there will be an initiation of about eighty new members. Tomorrow there will be a banquet and dance. Alumnae, actives, and pledges of the sorority, will be present at the first international sorority to be installed on Southern campus. Besides the chapter at Gainesville, the college, a number of national offices are held by members and alumnae of other chapters are to take part in the initiation and installation services.

Active members include: Janice Brown, Dorothy Bryce, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cate, Dorothy Cheatham, Dorothy Dearman, Sunny Flint, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Rosemary Hainey, Ruth Hodges, Elizabeth Kyle, Anita Leonard, Margaret Murray, Ruth Riddle, Sarah Sealey, Lillian Sutchall, Mildred Sutchall, Marie Spurlock, Alayne Clayton, Charlotte Hall, Ruth Brooks, Virginia Toffaletti, and Helen Hickerson.

Pledges are: Ruth Unland, Louise Taylor, and Jane Upton.

Colleen Shannon from the University of Alabama will accompany the girls.

A. D. Pi's Entertain For Their Pledges At Woman's Club

Members of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority entertained pledges of the sorority with a banquet last Monday night at the Woman's club. The club was decorated for the occasion with blue and white, the colors of the sorority.

During the evening toasts were given by Sara Moor, Mary Ann Nolan, Mary Emily Parker, Barbara Holmes, Ellen Fleming, and Miss Margaret Ausley, an alumna.

Compacts were given to the pledge guests who were: Mary Ann Nolan, Betty Bostain, Jane Schebley, Billie Kyle, Phi Adams, Grace Elizabeth Anderson, Jean Bernet, Virginia Dowling, Gayle Chaltwright, Ethel Gill, Betty Graves, Marion Grinnell, Elizabeth Hardee, Reba Hemphill, Leonora Hopkins, Marie Hopkins, Frances Milton, Betty Nicholson, Betty Pearson, Mary Nell Pope, Frances Savarese, Virginia Schreiber, Martha Sherman, Kathrine Sullivan, and Eleanor White.

Theta Upsilon Group Enjoys Cane Party

The members of the Theta Upsilon sorority were entertained Tuesday night with a cane grinding party given for the chapter by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carter, patrons of the chapter.

Entertained at this affair were: Anne Donnell, Frances Ellis, Lorraine Gyles, Jean Hodges, Mary Louise Noendahl, Lois Hughes Elizabeth Leach, Margaret Neff Olivia Sorenson, Gertrude Tonkins, Valerie Hunt, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers and Agnes Schopke

Personals

Among those who went to Jacksonville last week-end were Natalie Rackal, Margaret Bachman, Alise Lippman, Roseland Silverberg, and Hannah Bucow.

Frances Gold was the guest of Rosalind Silverberg at the Delta Phi Epsilon house this week.

Dorothy Hoffman will visit friends in Pensacola this week-end.

Mrs. R. S. Garcia, Mrs. H. T. Coates, Miss Lillian Oarfield, Miss Jean Agiman, and Miss Muriel Humphrey visited Ruth Garcia at the Beta Phi Alpha house Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Jean Willis is going to spend this week-end with her parents in Pensacola.

Clara Stuart, Caroline Boyd, and Dot Whitaker are going to Gainesville this week-end.

Betty Hodgson and Irene Hodgson who are going home this week-end.

Elaine Fleischer will attend the Georgia Tech-Alabama football game in Atlanta this week-end.

Helen and Alma Godwin will spend this week-end at Fort Meade with their family.

Mrs. William S. Mitchell, the former president of Alpha Chi Omega who spent Tuesday and Wednesday with the local chapter, has gone to Lakeland where she will be present at the installation of the Beta Omicron chapter of Alpha Chi Omega at Florida Southern college this week-end.

Colleen Shannon from the University of Alabama has been visiting the Alpha Chi Omega sister's home on Park avenue this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are visiting their daughter Helen on their way to Miami where they make their winter home.

Mary Vesch, Betty Hamilton, and Virginia Hutchison will spend the week-end in Lakeland.

Martha Hagar leaves this afternoon to spend the week-end in her home in Alachua.

Annie Laurie Sanches is spending the week-end in Gainesville.

Jean Treadwell, Rose Frink and Mary Alice Lester will spend this week-end in Jacksonville.

Caroline Mills and Frances Hendricks will entertain their parents in Winter Park this week.

Katherine Savarese, Lula Ley, and Lucille Smoak leave today to visit in Tampa.

Arline Grey Lockhart will be home from Lake Alfred to spend the home in Starke this week-end.

Attending Homecoming at the University of Stetson will be Dot Whitaker, Betty Pemberton, Kasimir Mumby, and Florence Barnes.

Elaine Britt will spend the week-end as the guest of Rebe Thede in Lawty, Fla.

Marjorie Stump will spend the week-end at the home of her parents in Starke.

Betty Wadsworth will leave today to visit in Bunnell.

Miss Marjorie McNeil, sister of Miss Jessie McNeil, secretary to President Conradi, is seriously ill and has been removed to the Jacksonville hospital, Thomasville, Georgia.

American Educational Ideas Are Emphasized In Library Exhibits

During the nation-wide observance of American Education week, the library is featuring books and pictures of educational interest in its exhibits. In one case are pictures of "Leaders Among College Presidents," and in another, "Seven Famous Colleges for Women," showing scenes of the buildings and campuses of famous American schools for women.

"March of Education" is the theme of a case of books concerned with the general philosophy of education and the meaning of education. On a table nearby are many pamphlets dealing with new trends in college education, such as the Chicago plan.

New ideas in educating children, books in connection with the education of the mountaineers, and books written from the standpoint of teachers are also on display.

Next week the exhibits will be in keeping with Book Week. Since this week was originally begun for children, the books on exhibit will be favorite children's stories and children's books of foreign lands.

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Serves
The Best Food in Town
PRIVATE ROOMS FOR SPECIAL PARTIES

State D.A.R. Regent

Mrs. Guy V. Williams, Miami, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who will arrive at Florida State college for Women on November 20 to organize a D.A.R. chapter on this campus which will be among the first to have an organization of this sort.

KAPPA DELTA SORORITY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY ON ARMISTICE WITH PARTY

The members of the Kappa Delta sorority entertained with a combination birthday and surprise pledge party last Wednesday in the chapter house on Copeland street from 8 o'clock in the afternoon until 1:30 o'clock that night.

The party celebrated the thirty-second anniversary of Kappa Delta on this campus and in keeping with the festivity of the occasion the house was decorated with floating, gaily-colored balloons. A feature of the evening was the cutting of a huge embossed cake with the lettering "Happy Birthday Kappa Delta" written on the top.

Members and pledges of the sorority participating in this celebration were Helen Turnbull, Marjorie Haggie, Julia Martin, Jo Taylor, Peggy McMichael, Lilly Ayala, Margaret Thompson, Anne Sams, Amelia Mae Lockwood, Virginia Rogers, Frances Thomas, Dot Benford, Jean Brown, Dot McLean, Helen Ballinger, Jo Binion, Sue Whitaker, Jane Jackson, Anne Mizell, Erma Dean Whitaker, Glenn, Jean Baughman, Lois Meier.

Sara Tillman, Jane Crook, Jere Crook, Doug Dabney, Nell Robey Wells, Frances LaMotte, Mae Anderson, Mary Jane Ballis, Petrea Cabanis, Beauford Thrower, Barbara Moore, Dee Carroll, Martha Edwards, Lutrelle Petersen, Jane Lockwood, Becky Ashton, Virginia LaMotte, Caroline Edwards, Jeanette Llschgi, Martha Ballinger, Peggy Sams, Emma R. Eichelberger, Ina Margaret Robinson, Hilma Yonge, Jeanne Webster, June Quinn, Bunny Turnbull, Vonnie McColsky, Martha VanBrunt, Clifton VanBrunt, Lavern Voss, Harriet Kent, Helen Murphy, Martha Sipe, and Anita Peal.

Lucrezia To the Rescue

Continued from page four

pened to me before. I have been all over campus trying to find someone who can tell me what to do. I'm one knows."

"What I want to know," interposed Lucrezia, "is why they didn't inform me when I had taken my allowed cuts, instead of waiting until I have overcut?"

"Why place you on probation a week before Cronie One, 'since there overcuts will simply be deducted from the semester cut now I can't go anywhere."

"That's what I call unfair," Cronie Five declared. "Here you are, a good student who's never cut before and was forced to take time for physical disabilities which you couldn't help. I know several girls on academic probation who take their illnesses, or at least aren't half as sick as you were and they supposedly got excused for cutting their classes. That just shows you that those who study hard have to pay the price after all."

At this point, one of the many students who had gathered around the little discussion group said, "I'd like to know what happens if a senior should be sick the last quarter of the year and would be forced to overcut, would she be graduated then or made to come back to summer school?"

"Heavens! She'd probably have to come to summer school," someone cried.

"There ought to be some system," Lucrezia said thoughtfully "whereby the instructors can tell whether a girl is really ill or not. I know girls who have starved to cuts, but when they get sick they'd almost rather die than waste them by the infirmary. I think if such a system were worked out, then every student, whether on probation or not, should be excused for missing classes."

"That's right," an outsider agreed. "But why not have real commerce and give everyone, except freshmen, sixteen cuts. No one is going to cut a class anyway if she feels she can't afford it in keeping up with her studies. If she does, then she's a fool. That would be a good way to rid the school of students who come here for a good time instead of an education."

The campus "hangout" had gradually filled with students who were drawn as to a magnate by the sound of voices raised to feverish pitch. Smoke was thick for the ceiling fan fought it but only swished the roar. Everyone spoke at once.

Lucrezia suddenly jumped on top of the table. "Silence, please," she cried. "Instead of everyone having just sixteen cuts, why not have optional cuts and unlimited cuts? We could——" Applause interrupted her. Shouts came on. Cavalcade, that cool de sac arrived—if it wanted to. And there was John Philip Sousa, the band leader player?

Thrills, thrills, thrills! Chop Suey walked a tight rope! A panther got loose in the audience! The college band played "Hail, Hail!" Madame Fifi dove from a 110-foot tower into a blanket three feet square!

What a show! Here's hoping Morar Brothers will come again!

Mortar Board Circus Makes Enormous Hit

Amazing 3-Ring Show Provides Climax In Daring Leap

By MARY NOBLE

Mortar Brothers' Circus—The Greatest Show on Earth—has been to town!

The college auditorium was a scene of seldom equaled gaiety last Tuesday night when Mortar Board presented an amazing three ring circus. Peanuts shells were flying and whistles filled the air as the excited audience awaited the opening curtain. Their highest expectations were fulfilled as breath-taking acts followed each other in rapid succession.

The show started with a bang as two clowns burst through a huge drum onto the stage. Following their act, "with a tear in her voice" Ringmaster McKay introduced Uncle Sam, "the greatest showman who ever was born."

Mystery was added to the show when Madame Clair Voyante amazed the audience with her radio mind. Answers to the Sphinx of Egypt was appeased only by the noise of the drum.

La Belle Dame Arabelle fluttered ingly presented her wonder horse. Cavalcade, that cool de sac arrived—if it wanted to. And there was John Philip Sousa, the band leader player?

Thrills, thrills, thrills! Chop Suey walked a tight rope! A panther got loose in the audience! The college band played "Hail, Hail!" Madame Fifi dove from a 110-foot tower into a blanket three feet square!

What a show! Here's hoping Mortar Brothers will come again!

Our Future Gentlemen Are to Be Initiated Into The Feminine Art If Dr. Hinson Gets His Way

A reporter catching a word with Dr. M. R. Hinson between classes the other day discovered that what the schools need today is a course in home economics for men.

Dr. Hinson, who is the former state director of public instruction and a new member of the faculty here, reassured the reporter that he was the statement in all seriousness and continued to explain why he made it.

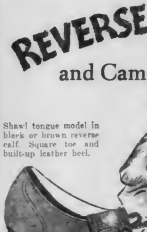
"Boys should be taught how to recognize good materials in suits and good taste in clothes as well as girls. So far most of us have judged our clothes by well known brands or have taken our tailor's word for respect. We don't know enough about durability or satisfactoriness of materials to decide for ourselves. It has been considered rather sissy to spend much thought on clothes. Men are usually just as vain as women in their desire to look well. Why shouldn't they be taught to get their money's worth in choosing and buying clothes?"

Dr. Hinson said that another thing that should be taught boys as well as girls was a knowledge of foods, their caloric and vitamin content. Many men travel a good deal of the time and should know what foods to select in ordering meals. Most men do not know a well-balanced meal when they see one.

"Does this future course in home economics include needlework of any kind? Will our sons follow in King Edward's footsteps and—knit?" asked the reporter.

"Well, there might be an elementary course in darning and sewing on buttons," he said with a smile," but day there will be a course in home economics for boys offered and, maybe, required. Already in some schools they have offered courses in camp cooking for boys. I have considered this course for some time and so have many others. We will have it some time, wait and see."

Asheville Convention Attended by Two From College Library Staff



Miss Louise Richardson, librarian and professor of library science, and Miss Rita Lane Mathews, assistant professor of library science, recently attended the convention of the Southeastern Library association in Asheville, N. C. The association represents eleven southern states.

There were four general sessions in which the problems of the South, the new federal library agency, the certification of library books and reading in the south were taken up.

Miss Richardson gave a review of "Southern Regions of the South" by Odum of the University of North Carolina. Also a review of three who gave reviews of books on southern relation.

Mattie C. Wyer, president of the American Library Association was connected with the public library of Denver, Colo., gave an address. Dr. Benjamin B. Kendrick of the history department of the University of North Carolina by Women, spoke on "Why Southerners Read So Little—Historically Considered," giving as one of the main reasons their outdoor life and outdate interests.

Excellent Food
Well Served
Telephone 9109
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Try Our Own Blue Plate—25c
Seminole Cafe
S. Monroe St. Tallahassee

Going to Town with CO-ED

Sizes to 9
AAA to B

REVERSE CALF for Sport and Campus Wear

Shawl tongue model in black or brown reverse calf. Square toe and built-up leather heel.
Made to Sell at $4.00
$2.95
LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE

SPARKS
STATE
PHONE 1500
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
November 13-14
Johnny Weissmuller
in
"TARZAN ESCAPES"
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
November 15-16
A WEALTH of GOLDEN MELODY
JEANETTE MacDONALD
NELSON EDDY
Under Your Spell
WENDY BARRIE
Arthur TREACHER
Gregory RATOFF
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 17
'Kelly the Second'
with
PATSY KELLY
GUINN "Big Boy" WILLIAMS
Pert Kelton - Charlie Chase
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 18
THRILLING, SUSPENSE!
Down The Stretch
PATRICIA ELLIS
DENNIS MORGAN
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19
Bartholomew Hour
COOPER
RUGGLES
THE DEVIL IS SASSY

Prove Crepe fashions this chic style. Grey and Raspberry Blue and Green, Gold and Brown, Rust and Green, Carol Rose and Light Grey. Sizes 14 to 10.
No. 1121
PRICE
$7.95 and $10.95
Sold Exclusively By
GELBERG'S
"Complete Store for Ladies"

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal opinion and is open to all who wish to submit decent and constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Pro-Anon" and mailed in the postoffice.

The average college student's grade in any given course is, in accordance with that deeply revered bell-shaped curve, a "C." Why not eliminate all the bother and fuss of making out grades and give every student a "C"? Individual differences are unimportant.

The average college student's study needs are admirably met by the food served by the college food room. Why not eliminate all the bother and fuss of serving special diets to a few students? Individual differences are unimportant.

The average college student needs about eight cuts a quarter to cover one week-end absence and the time she will spend in the infirmary. So we have eliminated all the bother and fuss of giving infirmary excuses by automatically giving every student eight cuts for the "average" situation. Individual differences are unimportant. If she would be unfortunate enough to have the holy average by taking the case of fish to the infirmary instead of sharing it with all her friends and acquaintances, she must accept the penalty of having no more cuts for a semester or a year. After all, individual differences are relatively unimportant.

Signed: Sarah Sealey, Martha Bolet, Hazel Bowman, Sallie Burt Hamm, Alicia Meehan, Evelyn Fuller, Evelyn Glaster, Pearle Wood, Christie O'Rourke, Elizabeth Brooks, Virginia Davis, Eunice Williams.

Baptist Group Gives Banquet To Miss Young

Students Resume Church Meetings Following Religious Week

Student church organizations this week resumed their regular meetings following a period of temporarily suspended activities during Religious Emphasis Week.

The Baptist student union held a banquet and informal meeting Tuesday night honoring Miss Nell Young, Baptist missionary to Nigeria, Africa, who is home on furlough. Miss Louise Smith, state Women's Missionary leader, and Miss Sue Adams, state Young People's leader, were also honor guests at the banquet, which was held at the home of Mary Ellen Tharpe in Lea Rodnes. Approximately 75 students were present.

The Presbyterian student league will broadcast a special peace program tonight at 9 o'clock over station WTAL. Doris Terrell will be the reader, and musical selections will be offered by a trio composed of Mickey Conn, Ruth Knight, and Sara Bethune. The program of Sunday night's league meeting will include a debate on the question "Are Foreign Missions Justifiable?" Presbyterian students spent the Armistice holiday at camp.

Dr. James Myers of New York, who is to speak Sunday night at the Y. W. C. A. vesper service, will be the speaker at the regular Sunday morning services of the Methodist church. Dr. Myers is the industrial secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Methodist student secretary, will continue her series of talks on "What may the student believe?" at the regular league services Sunday evening.

The Episcopal student group will not meet Sunday night, at the time of league meeting conflicts with the time of Dr. Myers' talk. Wednesday Episcopal students participated in a special Armistice day prayer service for peace. Approximately 100,000 Episcopal women throughout the country joined in a silent peace prayer during the day.

Betty Ostlund was in charge of the regular after-dinner coffee given Friday night at 7:30 in Rugg Hall. It was announced that Episcopal students will go to camp the week-end of December 5-6, and all wishing to attend are asked to sign up at the student center.

French Girls Plan Special Lunch Tables

Foreign Language Will Be Bandied Freely On Saturdays

Students eating in the lower dining room will probably be much surprised Saturday noon, when they find in their midst a group of entirely French-speaking girls. If you can't speak French fluently, then you'd better not approach these girls—until after lunch anyway.

Beginning Saturday, three tables of girls will dine and converse together in French only each Saturday noon. In this manner, the girls will have more opportunity to practice and develop their French vocabulary than they have time for in the class room.

Miss Davis, of the French department, Mlle. Martha Thomas, the french student, and Kay Harris will be hostesses or leaders of the three tables, and will direct the conversation. Each girl who eats at one of these tables, will be expected to tell an antidote or a current event each Saturday.

Much interest has already been manifested in the French tables, and there is a waiting list to which anyone interested may be added.

For the past few weeks there has been meeting in the Three Torches Grill every Thursday noon an Italian table. Marie Joffre, Elizabeth Turner, and Dulcis Cavagnero comprise this group, but it is expected that more girls will be added later when they will meet in the college dining room.

THE SWEET SHOP

—SPECIALS—

Creamed Chicken in Patty Shells with Potato Chips, Rolls and Jelly, Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Tea or Coffee.

40c

Apple Pie a la Mode . . . 10c

701 West Jefferson Phone 1091

Survey Shows Alumnae Enter Diversified Fields of Work

Graduates Include Deans, Dietitians, Doctors, And Executives

By ALBERTA PATRICK

Among the alumnae of Florida State College for Women there are one doctor, two dietitians, four connected with schools in capacities other than teaching, but no politicians. Several others hold various positions with business concerns over the United States.

Hilda Jane Walters, who went from here to Virginia Medical college, is now doing her internship with the Richmond city ambulance force. Miss Walters has been designated as one of the best ambulance doctors in the history of Richmond.

Dietitians are Mrs. Helen Reutiman Baker, State Hospital, Morristown, Penn., and Miss Eleanor Bowdoin, Wichita Falls State hospital, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Clemntine Newman is assistant dean of women at Stevens college, Stevens, Mo. and Emma Spencer is head of the physical education department at this same college. Mrs. Mary Helen Gray Johnson is dean of women at Dodd junior college Shreveport, La. Maude Flowers is director of resident halls here at Florida State college.

Nell Brinkley is connected with the Southern Bell Telephone company at Jacksonville. Donna Gardner is with the Florida power and light company at Palm Beach, and Elizabeth Tunis is employed at the head office of Pan-American Airways.

The ushers and usherettes are now girl scout directors. These are Mrs. Annie H. Benabaugh at Tallahassee and Dempsey Creary at Santa Barbara, Calif.

Mason Gardiner is the alumna nearest to a politician. Miss Gardiner is secretary to the secretary to Gov. David Sholtz.

With the New Styles Come Fresh Ideas

College Girls Find New Amusements as Fall Weather Nears

With the recent change from light summer clothes to the warmer, darker things dictated by the styles of this autumn, college girls have also changed their amusements. As they took off the airy, fri-olous garments that had been so essential to summer comfort, they dispensed with their typical summer pastimes. With the adoption of the dignified tunic and the flattering swing skirt, they took up the more jadeyke methods of occupying their leisure time.

The backless tennis frock and its accompanying sport have given way to a sweater and skirt outfit and a walk to town in the invigorating fall weather. Bathing suit and a dip in the surf or lake have been replaced by riding clothes and a Sunday morning canter, and sun bathing in shorts and halters has been abandoned for roller skating in wool culotte dresses.

Not only have outdoor amusements changed with the coming of cooler weather and warmer clothes but indoor pastimes also have undergone alterations. The girls who lazuishly dallied over a bridge table in some cool porch during the warmth of a summer afternoon now spend their leisure hours at the movies, amusing themselves with newsreels instead of ice-trump, and happy endings rather than grand slams. A cup of hot coffee or tea in a well heated tearoom takes the place of a tall iced drink in an air-cooled drug store. Dinner down town in that up-to-the-minute fall outfit substitutes for summer Sunday night buffet suppers on the lawn. A summer afternoon nap is exchanged for a comfortable hour or two in the reserving room.

Either the change in styles has brought on the change in amusement, or the change of diet of different diversions has caused the change in dress; else maybe the autumn weather caused them both. At any rate, it's the college girls favorite season.

Students Pass Part Of Test

Twelve Girls Eligible For Practical Exam

Of the twenty-three girls who took the theoretical test as part of the basketball short-courses recently eleven are eligible for the practical exams of officiating intramural basketball games.

These eleven girls include Martha Robbins, Janet Cook, Hazel Stephens, Sara Lytle, Mary Nichol, Felicia West, Helen Benson, Fay Corey, Betty Ostlund, Marian Weeks, and Frances Thill.

Those who pass the practical examination of officiating intramural baabetball games will qualify as national officials and will become members of the local board of rating.

Students Are Offered Help With Speech

Department Seniors Will Hold Clinic For Second Time

A speech "clinic" will be held November 17 at Florida State College for Women for the purpose of assisting students with speech defects.

In this clinic, the speech department takes up such defects as "breathiness," high pitch, monotones, baby talk, lisping, stuttering, stammering, foreign dialects, and mumbling. The latter is the most common speech defect.

When the student enters the clinic, she will be asked to fill out a card stating name, age, her nationality, the nationality of her parents, where she has lived, the number of languages she speaks, and any other information which will shed light on her speech problem.

Next the student will be given an individual interview in which she will be asked to pronounce words—perhaps such simple appearing words as cat dough or when—the interviewer noting how she sounds the "c" or the "t" in cat and so on. Then she will be given test words in which there are several vowel sounds. In some cases she will be asked to read seniences or verses to test certain sounds. For example, to test the "ng" sound in the following sentence: "The young man was going along the wrong road."

Words frequently have a different number of sounds than letters, as "dough" which has five letters but only three sounds—d-ough, and "beau" with four letters and only two sounds—b-eau. There are more than eighteen vowel sounds alone in speech, not to mention the combinations in diphthongs and the consonants.

If the student passes all the tests she is dismissed. If she does not, the class in speech problems which is conducting the clinic will help her in trying to overcome her speech defect.

Students who make up the class in speech problems include: Mary Berryhill, Frances Linsle, Betty Peck, Betty Sweet Smith, and Betty Ettinger. The class is required of all students majoring in speech. It is taught by Miss Elizabeth Thomson, a graduate of Florida State College for Women and Curry School of Expression in Boston.

Seventy-five students attended the first speech "clinic" given here last year.

Student Called Home

Betty Ostlund has been called to her home in Miami because of the death of her mother. She was accompanied by Miss Julia Gehan, Episcopal student secretary.

Heating Plant Doubles Role of Warmth Provider And Florida State Landmark on Chilly Evenings

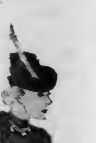
Now in November the college heating plant has begun to bank its fire, which will be a fire of six months' continuous duration. For the fire at the heating plant is like the sacred fire at Vesta in Roman mythology. With infinite care it must be kept burning night and day.

For five years the present plant has been operating. On the year's coldest days, the foreman says, twenty-four tons of coal rapidly disappear into the maw of one of the giant furnaces. So necessary is coal to the plant's existence that the college maintains its own railroad for the transportation of the mineral.

To carry out its two-fold purpose—supplying the college with steam for heat in the winter months and furnishing hot water throughout the year—the plant must maintain a crew of four workmen, one of these being the foreman. The hot water finds its way to the dormitories, the college kitchen, and the laundry via an underground tunnel 1200 feet long. Before it begins its trip underground the water is treated with a water softener.

When the heating plant was designed, plans were made to accomodate a mighty smoke-stack, towering 175 feet into the sky and dwarfing the plant, which is no mean size itself. The big chimney also serves as a campus landmark, particularly on winter trail of smoke slowly rising from evenings with a warm bit of sky as its background.

Letter Received Asking Florida State to Form Part of Student Union



A letter was received here this week from the national secretary of the American Student Union petitioning Florida State College for Women to organize a branch of that group here.

The major objective of the American Student Union as stated in the letter is "to prevent the American student body from becoming the main shock troops or reaction as they have been in so many countries." The national secretary, Joseph P. Lash, explains that the union seeks to do this by demonstrating to students that the elementary, reasonable things that they want, such as economic security, peace, academic freedom, can be achieved only through a national organization and coordinated student action; that if students do not maintain and secure these things, we will have fascism in the United States.

A copy of the organization's national monthly magazine, the Student Advocate, was also sent to this college. The magazine's purpose is to transmit the experience of its various chapters and the advice of its experienced staff officers to all students of the union, making them feel "they are a part of a great fellowship and not merely a few isolated, accidental chords."

Among the colleges represented by student members on the national executive committee are Vassar, Antioch, University of Virginia, Harvard, Brown university, St. Lawrence university, Howard, Depauw university, University of Chicago, University of Minnesota, and University of California.

This blouse, an actual sketch of one of many silk blouses awaiting your selection in our shop.

$2.95

The Vogue

feminine wearables

TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

Hear
Ratcliffe on Europe
Today

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, November 20, 1936

VOLUME XXIV. NUMBER EIGHT

Hi There!
Parents, Alumnae
Welcome

Speaker Shows Fading Effect Of War Today

British Journalist Talks On European Affairs Thursday Night

TO MAKE OTHER ADDRESSES HERE

Ratcliffe Holds No War Inevitable Until It is Begun

In an address made to members of the faculty and the student body last night S. K. Ratcliffe, British lecturer and journalist, pointed out the fact that as the last war fades into the background it becomes more and more difficult to impress upon youth the horrible tragedy a struggle, for the older generation is already forgetting the terrible portions of the years between 1914 and 1918.

Although the spirit of revenge her Germany out of the League of Nations after the war, the world at large thought the League was a good thing, Mr. Ratcliffe said. The world must realize that even though the organization has received several big set-backs it can still be of importance in the world of nations.

Slow Comes to League

Mr. Ratcliffe pointed out that the first blow came to the League in 1931 when the Japanese-Manchurian trouble. Then eighteen months later Hitler came to power; and in 1935 the Italo-Ethiopian fracas pointed to a tremendous failure for the League in relation to the League today, Mr. Ratcliffe said: "As the world is and as the Geneva situation is we cannot trust to the League to help peace even among the member states."

The Spanish revolt is another cause for concern to both Great Britain and America, the speaker said. He showed the results of facts of the non-intervention policy upon European politics by explaining that Hitler cannot let Spain alone this would give rise to

Continued on page Six

Sorority Wins Commendation

Alpha Xi Deltas Take Scholarship Honors For Third Time

Alpha Xi Delta sorority for the third year in the history of the Panhellenic scholarship award has achieved the highest scholastic average during the year 1935-36 and has presented to it the cup at Tallahassee Panhellenic association. This organization has for the past five years given the sorority with the highest average of A's and plaques a prize.

The presentation was made at the meeting of the Tallahassee group to which officers of all the sororities were invited. Miss Ella Mae McIntosh presented the award on behalf of Alpha Xi Delta Venable, president of the local Panhellenic group. Mary Lou Lowhace, president of the Alpha Xi Delta chapter, accepted the prize in behalf of the sorority.

The entire list of ratings which has been published in previous years will not be made public this year according to the president from the personnel office. However the individual sororities will be able to get their ratings if they call at that office.

Special Delivery Mail Is to Be Distributed At Dormitory Offices

No longer may students be detained from Sunday morning services in order to wait in line for mail and a call, "special."

The faculty committee authorized to have refused to permit the special delivery carrier to pay a call to deliver the special mail to the dormitories.

As the college authorities established with "no men allowed in our dormitory corridors," a new plan had to be devised for the delivery of specials. The special deliveries are sent to the office in each dormitory where a list of girls receiving specials is posted just outside the office. Students may then go to the office to see if they have received a special.

President

Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education and methods teacher of Spanish, who is president of the Florida branch of the American Association of Spanish Teachers. Dr. Hay with others of the Spanish department is attending a state convention in DeLand.

Modern Dancer Named As Last Artist Series

Martha Graham to Bring Twelve Performers In For Program

Martha Graham and her group of twelve modern dancers have been engaged for the final artist series program of this year which will be held on the evening of April 23.

Martha Graham received her early training from Ruth St. Denis in Los Angeles. At the end of a six-weeks period she returned to Denishawn for further schooling.

From 1919 to 1923 she was a member of the Denishawn School concert company in Los Angeles. After she left this company she taught at the Eastman School of Music in New York. At this time, breaking with the tradition of Oriental and musical interpretative dancing which she had been doing in the Denishawn company, she began to evolve her own technique; a technique which has revolutionized the art of the dance.

She gave her first recital in New York in 1926. It was greeted by varied response by the press but by the unanimous prophecy that here was a dancer about whom much would be heard in the future. This prophecy has long since been fulfilled, for in addition to her recitals in the form of solo concert tours, her activities have included appearances with the Philadelphia orchestra under the direction of Stokowski, when she danced the leading role in the production of the "Sacre du Printemps," and with the Cleveland orchestra under the direction of Rodzinski, when she danced the leading role in "Heidenleben."

In recognition of the important cultural factor that her dance had

Continued on page two

Good Housekeeping Is Only Magazine to College Girls

Some .Few Suffering from Dire Maladies Persist In Cleaning Rooms Every Day; Normal Students Do Not Mind Dirt

By DOROTHY BARCLAY

The impression is growing stronger and stronger around this campus that the only 'good housekeeping' in the college world is know anything about is the one that reposes on the library shelves. One who has never done any real investigation on the subject will probably never know how much he has missed.

Take, for instance, the suites in Bryan dormitory. Two of them. There will be found the varied possessions of four diverse types jumbled in a heap in the middle of the generous mass awaiting the touch of the introverted member of the group who will, of necessity, put everything in its right place before she can settle down to the particularly pronounced mental type she may even call sociology to sweep under the beds, or neglect an assignment to straighten the book shelf. Hard indeed is her lot who must remove the tennis racket from above the eyes of Mona Lisa, and change the position of the physiological chemistry which is assthetically contaminating the Collected Poems of Rupert Brooke.

The real point of climax in the whole disorganized mess is not the room which is entirely lacking in an introvert's care. An extreme case may be found in the ward where one room received its quarterly cleaning last Monday. The general idea is to clean the room thoroughly once every eight weeks and throw the rest of the quarter attempting to set all the things back somewhere under the bed or blown off the curio shelf without aid of hand or broom. Such is the way of the world's dangers though. Sometimes under separate circumstances, however, what-nots are liable to fly off the shelf, shattering and adding to the general debris. Then, too, between a pair of roommates of a competitive nature the whole thing may develop into a contest—each one seeing who can accumulate the most dust beneath her bed. This development must be carefully watched lest the contestants be losing sable all accepted precepts of good housekeeping and fair

Continued on page two

Fifteen Local Girls Selected "Who's Who"

Compilation Considers Three-fold Policy In Selection

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH GIVEN

Edition Proposes to Act As Recommendation For Members

Fifteen girls, nominated by the college council, have been chosen for the 1937 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" which is a compilation of outstanding students published by the University of Alabama. One per cent of the student body, however, with a minimum of five and a maximum of fifteen are eligible for selection. Candidates must be of senior or junior rank.

Students Selected

The girls chosen from FSCW are Mary Miller, senior president; Janice Bevis, senior secretary; Beth Deane, WAA president; Marjorie Tilton, Mortar Board president; Daisy Parker, Distaff editor; Frances Furth, Seminole editor; Mary O. Bowman, Flambeau editor; Peggy McIlhinney, senior vice president; Sara Sutton, freshman adviser; Martha Masterson, sophomore class editor; Mary Jeanne McKay, CGA president; Hilda Spradlin, president of the junior class; Marjorie Rauleson, second vice president of CGA; Polly Hill, freshman president; and Betty Cotlund, junior representative to judiciary.

The University of Alabama over three years ago conceived the plan of publishing a biographical compilation of biographies of outstanding students of America. A candidate for inclusion is judged by his character, scholarship, leadership in both standards of social, athletics and other forms of extra-curricular activities, and the possibilities for future usefulness to society.

The purpose is fourfold: to act as an incentive for students to get the most out of their courses; a means of compensation to students for what they have already done; a recommendation to the business and social world, and a standard of measurement for membership comparable to such agencies as Phi Beta Kappa and the Rhodes scholarships.

Saturday afternoon at two-thirty the convention will hear a talk on "Progress Toward a united American Relationships" by Prof. Buell Trowbridge of Rollins university, which will be followed by a "Program for Peace" by Stewart Wright, E. F. C., and a discussion.

After a banquet in honor of the delegates Saturday evening, Dean Cook, Methodist student pastor, will speak on "Religion and the Vocational. Following the devotional, Dr. Raymond Bellamy, of Florida State college, will speak on "Wholesome Relationships Between Men and Women," and Dean R. C. Beaty will talk on "The Family," and an open discussion of the above topics.

A sunrise service is planned for six o'clock Sunday morning to be held on the shore of a lake in Gainesville. At nine-thirty there will be three talks on the convention, perspective, unity, and problems of the future of the various organizations and denominational organizations. Bernice Grover, of Florida, Dorothy Tilden and Hudson Burr, of the University of Florida, will speak on the organization. Janice Borton, President of Y. W. C. A. on this campus, and Mary Christine Collins, of the University of Florida will speak on the denominational organization. After the student talks and discussion, Anne Tow will speak on the "Tallahassee Today" and the convention will be adjourned.

Dr. Moore is Delegate To Sociology Meeting

Last week-end Dr. Coyle E. Moore of the education department attended a conference of the sub-committee on the educational code commission, on correctional institutions in Gainesville.

The meeting was held to discuss he educational program of the state. They were worked out for vision educational programs for he boys' industrial school at Marianna and the girls' school at Ocala.

Keen Odd-Even Rivalry and Prospect of Visits From Families Mark Approach of Holiday Season

"Whoop 'er up, whoop 'er up," and "the belles of Hell go sling-a-ling-a-ling" summoned hundreds of book-laden girls as they inched slowly out of the auditorium Tuesday morning after an inspired ten minutes of cheers, yells, and superior pleasure detected between the Odd-Even factions. Expressions varying from the sublime to the hopeful could be seen on the lighted faces of the students, whose minds had suddenly been awakened to a vision of Thanksgiving "home folks," food, dances, rest. (for some),—a holiday!

Thoughts of classes, cut problem, and personal trouble were pushed into the background as groups gather to make plans for next week's activity. Many homesick girls have assumed a brighter outlook on life since receipt of a letter from home with the news that the home folks are coming to Tallahassee for Parent's Day.

Hearty voices raised in song, tuneful and otherwise, are heard on the campus every day as the excitement accompanying a holiday becomes stronger. Many are the conflicting arguments about whose spirits, Odd or Even, will be conveyed in the traditional long black hearse after the actual battle games. Plump delectable sufferers are resiredly considering the idea of a starvation diet for the entire day preceding the time when those scores of golden-brown turkeys are wheeled into the dining room.

Try-outs for color rush and intensive volleyball and basketball practices are being held. Each night the auditorium is lighted up until 10:15, while casts for the demonstrations spend many hours in rehearsal. Chairmen of various committees having to do with the Thanksgiving celebration hurry about, finishing up last minute details, and plans are being made for the annual dance which is to be held in the gymnasium

Continued on page two

Local Members Of YW Attend Joint Meeting

Present Student Outlook Will Be Main Topic For Discussion

Thirty members of the Young Women's Christian Association will leave early Saturday morning to attend a state-wide convention to be held in Gainesville this week-end. Delegates from Stetson Southern, and Florida State college Florida will also be present.

The main topic to be presented and discussed at the convention will be "The Student Christian Outlook Today."

The program will begin at eight o'clock Saturday morning. Dr. A. Johnson, of the University of Florida, will speak on "Christianity and Life." Dr. R. Erwall will speak on the subject "Basic Reasons for Believing in God." Dr. Erwall will be followed by a social gathering of the delegates.

At the morning Saturday morning at nine o'clock Reverend Hamilton Wood, the Episcopalian student pastor in Gainesville, will give the devotional, which will be followed by Dr. Graham J. Allen, pastor in Gainesville speaking on economic standard of measurement for the membership comparable to such agencies as Phi Beta Kappa and the Rhodes scholarships.

Saturday afternoon at two-thirty the convention will hear a talk on "Progress Toward a united American Relationships" by Prof. Buell Trowbridge of Rollins university, which will be followed by a "Program for Peace" by Stewart Wright, E. F. C., and a discussion.

Sandels and Venable Will Attend Meetings

Dr. Margaret Rector Sandels, head of the department of Home Economics, will attend a meeting of the Florida Nutrition association in Pensacola Saturday.

Miss Ianis Venable, assistant professor of home economics, will attend a meeting of the North Florida district in Live Oak Friday.

Myers Speaks On Labor And The Churches

First of YWCA Services Held Sunday Evening Proves Success

"The church's business is to insist that every institution, every economic order, every business and every human relationship be testing by the principles and ideals and standards of Christ," the Rev. James Myers, labor chairman of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, told students and faculty members Sunday night in a talk on "The Functions of the Church in Social Relations."

The Reverend Myers, who is touring the United States on his way from New York to Tampa where he will address the labor convention, was the first speaker in a series of Sunday services being sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. These are to be given in the evening at the Union station at the morning hour as last year.

"It is the church's business," the speaker said, "to continue to perform, in terms of contemporary life, the essential prophetic religious functions of the church's history which are to act not only with the individual's life, but with all the political, social, economic, and international relations. at relationships which today so largely affect the lives and happiness, the character, and the very salvation of men, women and children.

In order to show its concern for the world the church must dramatise, Reverend Myers said. As a case in point he cited the dramatic presentation accomplished by the churches of Tampa following the labor disturbances last year. The ministers of Tampa, he said, "got together, came together to publicly set forgiveness for the crime committed there.

"The church must boldly follow in the steps of Jesus and declare the social and spiritual principles which must control all of human life." The prophets of old did not stop with the social and individual life and to the message of God upon obedience to these ideals by men and nations.

While avoiding identifying the church with any particular economic system, Reverend Myers pointed out proposed, the church should "lift itself above" them and the moral specifications to which any system must conform. Reverend Myers said, "The church must not impose upon themselves criticism, opposition and persecution. The Christians should expect this and not loose in it, he continued.

The Reverend Myers believes it is an ominous sign of spiritual decay "when the church does not suffer fire. "The church," he said, "can be at least, comfortable and respectable, but when it comes down to as a bulwark of society only when the world already has become the kingdom of God, with all of life in perfect accord with the will of God and the ideals of brotherhood prevailins in all relations of men and nations. The church has a right to be respected and honored in such a world. But for the church to be respected and honored and unprosecuted in any other kind of world means only that the salt has lost its savor."

The Reverend Myers drew from his personal experience in describing the labor situation in Florida that only the man who works can know the facts about working

Continued on page five

IRC Will Give Reception For S. K. Ratcliffe

Several Faculty Members Invited to Meet With Noted Speaker

TALKS FEATURE LAST MEETING

Club Elects Brown New Secretary-Treasurer To Fill Vacancy

International Relations club members will be hostesses to S. K. Ratcliffe, English journalist and lecturer, at an informal reception in Broward lounge this day afternoon. Several members of the faculty have been invited to meet Mr. Ratcliffe and to join in the discussion of world affairs which will be included in the social hour.

Faculty members and others who will be the guests of the club at this time include Miss Sadie Young, Miss Mary Call Darby, Rachel Pitchford, Miss Mary Alice Hayden, Miss Mary Mace Poquet, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Elizabeth Hall Thompson, Miss Sylvia Shores, Miss Beulah Irby, Robert S. Cotterill, H. F. Becker, Raymond Bellamy, William Jourdan and Earl L. Vance.

"Chatting Leaders" Meet

"Changing Leaders" was the topic under discussion at a meeting of the International Relations club this week at which Margaret Sherfey presided. Mary Barrett gave life sketches of Roosevelt and Hitler, respectively.

Marguerite Brown, the first speaker, described not only the Hitler's childhood but also his political reform and his performance as Germany's leader.

"It may be taken for granted," Miss stated, "that he is neither saint nor devil, and certainly not fool fiend. A very human individual" Miss Brown said, "he will be victorious. He is neither fool-hardy on one hand, nor infallible on the other. He would be the last person in the world to claim omniscience for himself, but that does not mean that he is not able to maintain a high bating average where mental processes are concerned. People know that Roosevelt has made mistakes, but they also know that the man who never makes mistakes never makes."

Sororities Activities Described

The remainder of her talk concerned Roosevelitan activities during the last four years. Miss Brown's resume of his platform for the next four years was brief but concluded, "that a man could have endured what the president has successfully taken while in office. A lesser man would have broken down. It is still too early to tell whether or not physically, especially in view of the unreasonable criticisms and the strenuous life he has been poured upon him."

In discussing Hitler's rise to power, the next speaker, Blanton Barrett, said as her opinion,

Continued on page three

Student Calls Existing CGA Flabby and Lacking Stamina

Writer Analyzes What is Wrong with College Rule On This Campus Offering Constructive Criticism, Possible Solutions

Editor's Note: This is one of the two articles receiving honorable mention in the essay contest sponsored by the Student Government Association on the subject "What I Think of College Government on This Campus." The third article will appear in next week's issue.

BY HAZEL BOWMAN

The opportunity to say what one thinks about student organized governments with some hope of being heard is a privilege for which seldom comes. Consequently I must not fail to take advantage of it when it comes. Perhaps I say exactly what I have been wanting to say for years.

First of all, my ideas will sound radical. I can already hear protests. Secondly, someone is going to say that I have dealt too much in generalities. In reply to this point let me say that I intended to get away from little things in order to adopt a broader, more objective view of the major problems of the day.

Thirdly, someone will say I am not practical. Well, I am practical. I am a dreamer of Utopian dreams. I reply that this is the first and most important step in good and real student government and that students should not bother myself with the matter of what is not an idealist.

What wrong with our student government? In the first place it is flabby, undetermined in attitude lacking in stamina. For instance, we refuse to limit College Government official for more than two terms, because we realize we might hurt her feelings if she failed in the league she happens to represent. Even our unimportant legislation at our assembly is flabby. Whether we will have the backbone to use it.

Then we must get away from the idea of electing people to office simply as sop to their reputations. Because a girl has been a prominent member of the I. Efa. Fie sorority is no reason for putting her in a responsible student body office. Because her sister, Miss Jones, was a good student is no reason why a prominent student is now a prominent student is no reason for giving Dimbie's sister the un-

Continued on page two

Invitations Issued To State Officials

Teachers Join In State Wide AATS Meeting

Hay, President, to Talk On the Spanish Revolution

Dr. Marion Hay, Dr. Arthur R. Seymour, and Dr. Dorothy Breen will attend the meeting of the Florida chapter of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, November 21, at Stetson university in DeLand.

Dr. Hay is president of the state chapter which is an organization of university, college, and high school teachers of Spanish. The president will preside between teachers of college and high school Spanish. Miss Helen Lattra, who is an alumna of Florida State College for Women and who is now teaching Spanish at Palm high school in Tampa, is vice-president of the state chapter.

The purpose of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish is to foster the study of the Spanish language and literature throughout the United States. Although its chief purpose is to enrich the teaching profession, a considerable number of it members are laymen who make Spanish only their hobby.

The Florida chapter was organized in April, 1934, at a meeting of the Florida chapter of the Institute de las Espanas. Three meetings are held annually, the first of the scholastic year 1936-1937 at Stetson, DeLand; at Orlando in connection with the annual meeting of the Florida Education Society on March 19, and the third at Rollins college at the time of the spring meeting of the Instituto de las Espanas de Florida, the date to be announced later. Membership in the Florida chapter is open to all who are interested in the study and teaching of Spanish.

The program this week will be in two parts, a general meeting open to everyone tomorrow morning, followed by luncheons and a professional meeting in the afternoon.

Miss Lucy Ann Neblett, secretary of the state chapter, will preside at the morning meeting, and Dr. Hay will speak on the revolution in Spain. The address of welcome will be give; by Dr. Wilbur Lee Cook, head of foreign languages of Stetson university, and Dr. Oliver Hauptmann of the University of Florida and Dr. Ben Dixon Mackey of Stetson will speak. Students of the Spanish department of Stetson will present songs of Spain and Cuba, and folk dances of Mexico will presented by the Spanish students of Stetson and Rollins college in the afternoon of Orlando.

The afternoon meeting, which is open only to teachers of Spanish, will be conducted by Dr. Hay. Dr.

Continued on page five

Thanksgiving Functions To Center Around Parents' Day

ATHLETIC TILTS TO FORM CLIMAX

Festivities Will Begin With "Odd" and "Even" Demonstrations

Invitations are being sent out to approximately sixty prominent officials, educational and governmental fields, in this state, and to the fathers and mothers of students now in college for the Parents Day program which is to be held here from November 26 to November 28, President Edward Conradi announced.

Prize Parents

The five day Thanksgiving festival this year will be devoted principally to the entertainment of fathers and mothers of the student as the college. The program will be opened with a dramatic productions known as "Odd" and "Even" demonstrations. It will be climaxed Thanksgiving day with athletic tilts and a Thanksgiving dinner. Other features of the program will be a tour of the campus and numerous social functions planned in the dormitories and sorority houses.

Most prominent alumnae, who always have received this type of invitations, will have their homecoming at another date this year.

Years Planned

As a feature of the parents' day program, Mortar Board will conduct tours of the different institutions. Parties will leave from Bryan hall between the hours of 10:30 and 12:30 Friday morning. Tours will include such points of interest as the administration building, the library, the dormitories, the college kitchens, the dining room, the gymnasium, the factory building, the education building, the science building and the demonstration school. Facts pertinent to all will be explained by Mortar Board members who will act as guides. When the parties reach the library, the librarian will escort guests through the building and exhibitions and displays will be placed in the lobby.

Plans are being made to entertain for the tours. She will be assisted by other members of Mortar Board.

Governor and Mrs. David Sholtz and Governor-elect and Mrs. Fred

Continued on page two

Council Draws Up Cut System

Executive Body to Issue Definite Statement In Near Future

In line with student and faculty discussions of the present cut system the student executive council has drawn up a model cut system plan which will be discussed and considered by the executive council of the college administration headed by Dr. Conradi.

In the near future the executive council will issue a definite statement to the student body which they feel must be changed. The system as it now stands is not allowed freshmen for the entire first semester; and that cuts are restricted to the number of classes.

The student cuts executive council has drawn up a model cut system plan which they feel represents the opinion of the student body. This plan provides for infirmary illnesses to be excused by the infirmary at their own discretion it also provides that after the first quarter, this privilege will be given to all freshmen not on probation and with grades of not less than a twenty-four cuts in all which will allow them to take all seven of their cuts each week. Juniors, three cuts extra. All upperclassmen, not on probation, will be given sixteen cuts a quarter It seems that most students on probation do not take all their cuts while quite a few of them only exhaust their cuts under conditions for academic probation. Underneath the same in this new cut plan.

Unlimited cuts have not been

Continued on page five

Library Shows Many Displays For Book Week

Main Idea of Observance To Arouse Interest In Literature

Featuring colorful displays in the lobby and book week was observed by the college library this week.

Book week was originally set apart for arousing interest in good books for children but, as it is now observed all over the country, it is a time for presenting every type of book with a special emphasis on juvenile books.

With this in view, there were several attractive collections of fairy tales, story books, and picture books, notably one of books for Russian children, and another of books for French and German children. As an added interest, there were several sketches by modern illustrators as typical of the pictures in the books.

Since the main purpose of the week here was to stimulate interest in all good literature, one place was set aside for a few of the especially good books that the library obtained last year and the year before for the benefit of any who might have missed them.

The library also took advantage of this time to display the new books which will be in circulation in a week or two. Among these were: "Drums Along the Mohawk" by Walter D. Edmonds, "Gaily the Troubadour" by Arthur Guiterman, "The Exile" by Pearl S. Buck, "I, Juan de Pareja" by Walter Duranty, "The Last Puritan" by George Santayana, "The World Over" by Edith Wharton, "The Dauber's Quest" by Elizabeth Seldon, "Rabbit Run" by Kenneth Roberts, "Beau-Marchais, Adventurer in the Century of Women" by Paul Frischauer, "Birds in the Wilderness" by George Sutton, "Reads and Writers" by Malvina Hoffman, "The Abandoned Wood" by Monique Saint-Helen, "Dramatis Personae" by W. B. Yeats, "Three Worlds" by Carl Von Loewe, "Mary Baker Eddy" by Cecil Roberts, "Mexican Interlude" by Frances Flynn Paschen, "If I May" by A A Milne, "Winged Child" by Anne Hart Dinsmore, "Three Score" by Sarah Leyhorn, "More Than Bread" by Joseph Auslander, "The Arts of Gould" by Lady Maraaki, "The Old Ashburn Place" by Margaret Flint, "Children of O'Man River" by Billy Bryant, "Summer Will Show" by Sylvia V. Hart, "Revolutionary Essays on Poetry and Ideas" by Mary Van Doren, "The Evening of New England" by Van Brooks, "Inventurama" by Philip Bentin, "A Portrait in Letters" by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, "Burning City" by Stephen B. Vincent Benet, "Escape From America" by Stefan Zweig, "Lincoln Across" by Louise Pentile, "Oil Paint and Grease Paint" by Gilchi, "Green Laurels" by Donald Peattie, "Wake Up and Live" by Dorothea Brand.

"Here Lies A Most Beautiful Lady" by Richard Blaker, "Some People, Yes" by Carl Sandburg, "Cradles of the Press" by Isbister Tones, "Being Little is Cumbersome" by Eleanor H. Abbot, "Virgils" by Winifred Sasaman, "Perfume From Provence" by Winifred Porterfield, "The Lonesco Years" by Sigfrid Undset, "Nowhere Else in the World" by Enders and Anthony Mann, "The Unknown" by Alexis Carrel, "Disease and Destiny" by Ralph H. Major, "For Authors Only" by Kenneth Roberts, "Oil for the Lamps of China" by Alice Tisdale Hobart, and "The Book of Humorous Verse by Carolyn Wells.

Good Housekeeping Only Magazine to College Girls

Continued from page one

play, may stoop so low as to run the dust pans of their more hygienic neighbors and deposit the contraband beneath their beds as a though, in all good faith, they had kicked or blown it there themselves.

Such are the dancers—physical and mental—of the quarterly cleaning system. Some home economics students, and other earnest-ly domestic persons believe in cleaning their rooms every day. To them the other students look in wonder and admiration, but in the final reckoning what difference can be found? Only that one group has clean rooms and the other dirty—a trumpery detail, to say the least.

Sorority Crests!
Sorority Plaques!
W. W. PUTNAM
JEWELER
209 South Monroe Street

Approved Report of Budget Committee

COLLEGE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

		Expenditures
Item 1.	Conventions
	Fees:
	N. S. F. A.		$ 36.00
	S. I. A. S. O.		25.00
	F. S. C. W.		9.00	69.00
	Traveling		300.00
	N. S. F. A.		70.00
	F. S. C. A.		90.00	360.00
Item 2.	Printing
	Big Handbook		100.00
	Freshman Bulletin		50.00
	Study signs, engagement cards, light cut cards,		00.00	400.00
Item 3.	Annual ($)			120.00
Item 4.	Forum Student			120.00
Item 5.	Day Student Organization at 35 per capita			40.00
Item 6.	Office supplies:
	Stationery, stamps		50.00
	Mimeographing		80.00
	Telephone		25.00
	Stenographer		50.00
	Miscellaneous: typing paper, soap, ribbons, service on typewriters,		50.00	255.00
Item 7.	Corsages, flowers and gifts			25.00
Item 8	Emergency			100.00
Item 9.	Social Committee			230.00
Item 10.	Debating Committee			75.00
	Reserve Fund			504.90
TOTAL				$2254.90

		Income
	Student Activity Fee @ 0.8313 for 1700		$1563.04
	Balance		871.86
TOTAL			$2254.90

C. G. A. Budget for Social Committee

1.	Clerical Work
	Mimeographing, notices, printing
	Tickets, cardboard, ink, time, envelopes, cards, invitations,		15.00
2.	Decorations
	Placecards for dinner. Thanksgiving programs		30.00
3.	Victrola Records		10.00
4.	Dances:
	a. Thanksgiving; Orchestra.	75.00
	Decorations and printing	15.00	90.00
	b. Street. Carnival; Orchestra	75.00
	Decorations and printing	10.00
TOTAL EXPENDITURES			$230.00

FLASTACOWO BUDGET

		Income
	Advertising
	Classes—4 @ $50.00		$ 600.00
	Fraternities		200.00
	Honoraries		110.00
	Organizations		90.00
	Skit Night		115.00
	Photography		60.00
	Student Activity Fee. 1700 @ $2.50		3000.00
TOTAL			4250.00
			$9065.00

		Expenses
	Overdraft, June 30, 1926		$ 793.72
	Engraving		2160.00
	Photography		1500.00
	Printing		2850.00
	Conventions		60.00
	N. S. F. A.		5.00
	Jackson-Ville Trips		10.00
	Telephone and Telegraph		5.00
	Railway Express Co., charges		1.00
	Bookstore Supplies		100.00
	Emergency		1835.28
TOTAL			$9065.00

DISTAFF BUDGET

		Income
Balance			$ 287.64
	Student Activity Fee. 1700 @ .60		$1020.00
	Advertising		300.00
TOTAL INCOME			$1717.64

		Expenses
	Printing, etc		$1000.00
	Annual Page		15.00
	N. S. F. A. Fees		5.00
	Conventions		75.00
	Book Fund		35.00
	Distribution		30.00
	Office Expenses		120.00
	Emergency		100.00
	Reserve		247.64
TOTAL EXPENSES			$1717.64

FLAMBEAU BUDGET

		Income
Balance			$ 744.10
	Advertisements		$1990.00
	Subscriptions		10.00
	Student Activity Fee. 1700 @ 1.40		2380.00
TOTAL			$5124.10

		Expenses
	Printing		$3320.00
	Office		200.00
	Postage		80.00
	Conventions		175.00
	Dues		10.00
	Cuts		100.00
	Annual		15.00
	Emergency		174.00
	Payroll		206.00
	Reserve Fund		744.10
TOTAL			$5124.10

W. A. A. BUDGET

		Expenses
1.	Sports		$ 500.00
2.	Swimming		50.00
3.	Dance Programs		25.00
4.	Play Nights, music and entertainment		40.00
5.	Dues to National Organizations:
	N. A. A.	$ 5.00
	U. S. Field Hockey Assn	2.00
	A. P. C. W.	5.00
	Tall. Bd. of B. B. Officials	3.00	15.00
6.	Publicity and Publications:
	Annual	60.00
	P. E Assn., Swim. L. Saving.

FREE! FREE! FREE!
Get Free Trade Cards at the
NIK NAK
301 W. College

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Special Thanksgiving Dinner
Bring Your Parents!
PRIVATE ROOMS FOR PARTIES

Flambeau Material Requested Tuesday

Due to the fact that the Flambeau must be made up on Wednesday instead of Thursday next week all offices and organizations wishing to get material into the last edition of the paper must have their information ready for reporters on Tuesday.

Offices which do not have regular reporters must send their information to the Flambeau office not later than 10:30 Wednesday morning.

Keen Odd-Even Rivalry Marks Holiday Approach

Continued from page one

next Saturday night and dates are being sought for the affair.

Keen rivalry of excitement and festivity in the air quickens the heartbeats of the students, as, with a feeling of pride, they gaily display the gr a s feathers of the Evens and the red, white, and purple of the Odds. Even the most unsympathetic fans and lackadaisical individuals have assumed an air of keen interest in the forthcoming competitions, although superstition says that the Odds will win because of their success in the matter of drawing Wednesday skirt for their demonstration, the Evens reply confidently with, "All you Odds have is a night. We have a team!"

Student Calls Existing CGA Lacking Stamina

Continued from page one

dividually inherited a gift for managing student affairs.

Remove false visions of the honor and glory of office—tell people rather of the worries, torments, sleepless nights which make up an office-holder's life. Then perhaps we will have truly interested girls running for office. The fellows who are scared of work will stay off.

In the third place, student government is doing very little to inform students of pending legislation, of what goes on in senate meetings, of the fact that they, the students, have representation in the senate. The general campus indifference must be due, partially at least to ignorance of the individual's proper place in government.

The individual has never been impressed with the fact that our system is more democratic in form than that of the national government. She has not been made to realize that there is anything democratic here at all. Nor that she has a responsibility as a member of a democratic society.

Is our student government really student controlled in every sense of the word? No one will deny that a negative answer is necessary here. Are the students doing any thinking for themselves or are most of the really concrete ideas faculty-inspired? If we are mature enough to have what is called student government, we are not get away from the faculty supervision that is now so necessary. Is a part of our system? Are we unable to plan things for ourselves? Just where does student government end—and the faculty begin? Is it where it belongs or on the shoulders of faculty members whose lives are already crushing more than committee meetings and conferences are a burden? Is versity in the sense that many schools are, or was a glorified boarding school for girls?

What are we giving to be able to contribute to the world after college as a result of our student government work? Are we trying through student government to awaken interest in national affairs? Are we busying with our own petty problems? Why not junk some problems and step out upon the highway? In ten years students will look back through student government and see how little they have done.

I say that we have been namby-pamby for too long. We are afraid of ourselves, of the power we do not use, of self-assertion. We go along very complacently and self-righteously under a system which should not be necessary, which would not be tolerated if we had the backbone to do something about it.

What is wrong with our student government? All I see is we have not grown up. As an institution we have made great strides; as a student body we are still in the dark ages, or should I say, the kindergarten? When we accept a more metropolitan way of viewing things and forget our provincialism, student government will take on a meaning other than the proctor system definition it has assumed in most student minds.

Records Filed For Placement

Personnel Office Offers Employment Service For Graduates

Registration with the placement bureau of prospective graduates will begin Monday, Dr. Elizabeth O. Andrews, director of personnel, has announced. Dr. Andrews said that although requests are not received until March or April and the bulk of demand is carried on in the summer it is advisable to enroll seniors and two-year certificate students now.

Every senior, Dr. Andrews said, must have a permanent placement record in the personnel office whether or not a position in any field is desired. Seniors have been asked to come promptly at the beginning of the semester to avoid rushes of credits and college activities. Those who wish to change their credentials may come to the personnel office in advance.

Registration for two-year candidates in optional. Dr. Andrews has announced. If these students desire assistance in securing positions for 1937-38 they are asked to make an appointment for an interview with Miss Helen Parker for the week of Dec. 7-12.

Flastacowo Asks Classifications

The editor of the Flastacowo has announced that all students who plan to change their classification from that now listed in the registrar's office by second semester are to send a notice of the intended change to the Flastacowo by campus mail.

The Flastacowo will not assume responsibility for the misplacement of any picture if a notice has not been sent to the editor by the end of this week.

Invitations Issued To State Officials

Continued from page one

P. Cone of Lake City are among those who have signified their intention of coming. Among others invited are Florida college presidents, present members of the Board of Control, former members of the Board of Control, the Board of Education, and all Governors who have included Secretary of State R. A. Gray and Mrs. Gray, Tallahassee; Attorney General and Mrs. Cary D. Landis, Tallahassee; State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Mrs. J. M. Carlton, Tallahassee; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Baldwin, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Terry, Miami; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Semmes, Pensacola; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dunean, Tavares; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Bryan, Ormond Beach; and Mrs. J. E. Diamond, Tallahassee.

President and Mrs John J. Tigert, Mr. Klein Graham, Mr and Mrs. R. Baldwin, University of Florida. President Hamilton Holt, of Rollins college; President and Mrs. Spessard L. Holland, University; President and Mrs Liddel Murphy, Southern college; President and Mrs Bowman Ashe, of the University of Miami.

Senator and Mrs. Stuart Gillis, of DeFuniak Springs; Senator and Mrs. C. O. Andrews, Orlando; Senator Claude Pepper, Tallahassee; Mr. Colin English, state superintendent-elect of public instruction, and Mrs. English, of Ocala; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Lane, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs J. B. Hodges, Lake City; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wideman, Live Oak; and Mrs. Alfred H. Wagg, Palm Beach; General A. H. Blanding and Mrs. Blanding, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Flournoy, DeFuniak Springs; Mr. W. L. Weaver, Perry; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McKethe, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jennings, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Forgey, Jacksonville. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wideman, Washington, D. C.; and Mr. T. B. King, Arcadia.

Modern Dancer Named As Last Artist Series

Continued from page one

become in American life, she was awarded a fellowship by the Guggenheim Foundation. She is the first time such an award has been made to a dancer.

PHONE 800 MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY
SATURDAY'S SPECIALS

35c Ex-Lax	17c	45c LEXENEX—Ide and	31c
50c Phillip's Milk Magnesia	34c	50c Ipana	29c
25c Carter's Liver Pills	17c	10c Lux Soap, 3 for	14c
60c Packer's Shampoo	39c	50c Luxor Dusting Pow.	34c
25c Blue Jay Corn Pads	19c	50c Mum	39c
25c Bayer's Aspirin	19c	25c Modess	17c
		25c Kotex	19c

M & N CAFE
Steak and Oyster Dinners, at all hours, 40c
PROMPT SERVICE
119 E. Jefferson Phone 1054

You'll Agree! The Smartest Holiday Frocks are to be Found at Gelberg's

What a Galaxy of Fashion . . .
See the Princess Dress with the New SWING SKIRT!
See the CLASSIC Two-piece . . . a Fashion Sensation!
See the New Lacquered Linen Collars Vogue talks about!
See the New Pleated and Shirred Backs! High Fashion!
See the New Colors! Camel, Green, Wine, Brown, Black

$2.95 - $3.95 - $4.95

What a Wealth of Detail . . .
See the New, Expensive Buttons and Buckles of Sole Leather! Real Wood! Smart, New Carved!
See the Stitching Detail Usually on Expensive Dresses!

What a Myriad of Uses . . .
Wear These Everyday! For sports, office, home, school, bridge, cocktail time, lumeheons!

GELBERG'S
"Complete Store for Ladies"
COLLEGE AVENUE

Kurz Presides Over Conclave Of Scientists

Twenty-seven Professors Here Are Included In Membership

The annual meeting of the Florida Academy of Sciences is being held at John D. Stetson university in DeLand today and tomorrow, November 20 and 21.

Dr. Herman Kurz, professor of botany at Florida State college and president of the Academy will preside over the general sessions Friday and Saturday when papers on various phases of science will be presented by members from all over the state. A brief discussion will follow the presentation of each.

The second paper scheduled to be ready Saturday morning is "Some Consequences of Pseudo-Mathematics and Quasi-Measurement in Psychometrics, Education and the Social Sciences" by Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of psychology at this college.

At the conclusion of the general session Saturday morning, the academy will break into two sections, one on biological and the other on physical sciences, and papers of more particular interest to those groups will be presented.

Other features of the meeting will be a sightseeing trip to be held from 1 to 2 Friday afternoon and a banquet at 7 in the University dining hall followed by an informal social gathering. Dr. Kurz will give the retiring address.

Members of the personnel of Florida, former members who are members of the Florida Academy of Sciences are Dr. Leon M. Barber, Dr. Raymond Bellamy, Dr. Ruth Cusmo, Dr. Mark H. Seagraff, Dr. Enda M. Devitey, Dr. Dorothy R. Disher, Mr. S. R. Doyle, Dr. F. M. Fling, Dr. Yrjo Graham, Dr. C. P. Heinlein, Dr. Herman Kurz, Miss Olga Larson, Dr. Leland J. Mac, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Miss Isabel McKinnell, Mr. Ross Moore, Dr. Clifton Moore, Dr. H. F. Richards, Dean Mildred Rose Bailey, Dean Margaret R. Sanders, Miss Ruth Schormerei, Dr. Alban Stewart, Dr. Jennie Tyler Mac Anna, Mr. Tracy, Miss Gertrude Vermillion, Dr. Hugh Lee Washom, and Dr. Sarah P. White.

SPARKS
STATE
PHONE 160
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
November 20-21
BIG WESTS BARNYARD CIRCUIT!
WEST
"GO WEST, YOUNG MAN"
MAE WEST
WARNER BAXTER
THE DIONNE QUINTUPLETS
REUNION
JEAN NEGULESCO
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24
"HELL, NO SET ENLIST!
This was their pledge!
SWORN ENEMY
ROBERT YOUNG
WALLACE BEERY
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25
CAPTAIN'S KID
BUY DIONNE WAY BONDS
AT THE BOX OFFICE
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26
LYRIC
RAYMOND SCOTT
SMARTEST GIRL IN TOWN

Sport Squints

By "JINKS" BROOKS

This week's editorial on sportsmanship has been contributed by Carrie Rasmussen, second vice-president of C. O. A.

"Much has been said in our areas about the sportsmanship of the individual as she actually participates in activities, but often we forget the possibilities for sportsmanship on the part of the spectators.

In nearly every situation, there are two definite groups: those who participate and those who observe. The observer is usually more interested in one player or group than another, and should, certainly, be loyal to the group of her preference, but loyalty does not imply or require a lack of consideration for the opponents. A spectator may yell for her team as loudly and as often as she likes, but when her whole-hearted cooperation, and still not be afraid to show appreciation for completely fine plays, the good points of the competitive team, and encourage comfortable opponents in victory.

Constructive criticism is never to be avoided, but even then, with the use of all the inflections and voice control we can, not all how improvement may be made. A spectator might well remember, by that moment she has watched and practiced enough to gain any success for herself, it is not likely to make mistakes that could be helped.

Thanksgiving will soon be here again, and with it will come the old spirit of enthusiasm aroused by the friendly rivalry of Odd-Even demonstrations at the games. It brings the opportunity for every P.S.C.W. girl to put into practice her best qualities of sportsmanship. Which adjective, poor, good or fair, will describe our attitude?"

Odd-Even games loom pleasantly on the horizon, and from the early classes played yesterday and the way the games rebegan in each class, we conclude that Thanksgiving morning will be the scene of hard-fought battles. Some things we should accompany the playing from the sidelines: everyone can participate in convocation, including rooms, behind dormitories, and in the dorms. The general confusion is pierced occasionally by cries feathers, ribbons, or someone yelling "the Evens have a little song" or "the bells of Odd."

The intra-mural games are almost over, and those of us who are either preparing to collect or pay Oh, well, perhaps doing without a couple of deserts will do the wealth good. If not the teeth.

We have a new sport on campus! Or at least bridge could be called a sport judging from the mutual energy some of the addicts have put into it lately. The bridge tournament now playing takes an awfully good excuse for continuing the frowning muscles while making a six-no-trump, or twelve muscles while going over a couple.

Someone should initiate sprinting teams on this campus to rank with other strenuous physical activities. There should be some excellent sprinters easily equal to one Owens, if we can judge by the speed the off-campusers show time in breakfast every morning.

Who at the extra foot-activity recently? Every time we go to town a pair of shoes precedes us as the bill in the hands of the owners. At least there's one person obviously profiting—the shoemaker man!

So far we've heard of only one bodily source the horse-back riding craze this year. It seems that was freaky one morning and not with his rider after rearing a lot. They're all over it now, however—both horse and girl!

Porter Sisters Score High in Bridge Match

The first round of the campus bridge tournament was played off yesterday day in Gilchrist with Ruth Porter, Mary Porter, Anne Moore and Emma Lee McCullough the winners. There were five tables competing. A tournament board with the cards already dealt was used. The highest match points, twenty-two and a half, were made by Ruth and Mary Porter.

The Gilchrist winners are eligible to play the Reynolds winners as well as Reynolds plays off the first round.

Players competing in the bridge tournament were: Edith Dickson, Ann Gulley, Jean Nash, Maryneth Ann Shirley, Portia Parish Linder, Miss Yacobian, and Elspeth Smith.

Cheerleader Elected

At the second meeting of the Women's class held Monday Patricia Barringer was elected cheer leader. The other Odd cheer leader is Dale Hall who was elected by the senior class at its last meeting.

Five Of Games Are Completed In Intramurals

Semi-Finals of Schedule Are Reached Except For One Tilt

Three basketball and two volleyball games were played this week in the intra-mural sports program.

Except for the game to be played tomorrow afternoon between the Tri Delt and the Episcopal teams, the schedule has reached the semi-finals. Due to conflicts with inter-collegiate and intra-murals will not be played off until the week of Dec. 14.

The Spirogyra team continued its winning streak Monday by defeating Esteron to the tune of 23-18. The Spirogyra team was nevertheless threatened as Esteron was seven points down at the quarter, and only down at the half. Nelle and Vonie Marcheseau will be in charge of events, and Betty Collund will be the script writer and reader.

Paddle Tennis Courts Installed on Florida High School Grounds

Two new paddle tennis courts were installed recently on the playground of Florida high school. Paddle tennis is fast becoming one of the most popular games in America. First introduced as a playground game in New York City, it has been adopted by recreation leaders in nearly 300 cities and towns. It is used, both indoors and out, by more than 300 schools and colleges for tournament play and for teaching tennis.

Paddle tennis is played exactly the same as tennis except that it is played on a space about one-third the size of a tennis court, and special equipment in the form of wood rackets, plastic rubber balls, and special nets is used.

IRC Will Give Reception For S. K. Ratcliffe

Continued from page one

gathered from reading his own story of his life and current reports on his system of government, that "Hitler holds the people by a combination of military domination and mass hypnotism."

She further stated that Hitler's rise had almost entirely been accomplished in the last six years. In 1929 there appeared a current weekly publication a series of articles on the "New Germany." In the three stories comprising the series there were but two mentions made of the man who now not only controls the destiny of Germany, but is also looked to as one of the foremost influences in European affairs."

At the short business meeting Marguerite Brown was elected secretary-treasurer of the club to fill the place formerly held by Ann Gilmore. The next meeting of the club will be held on December 9 in Broward club room.

Scranton Council defeated to Chi Omega in the only default this week in volleyball.

minutes the score was knotted four times, with Spirogyra finally pulling out ahead of him by two points, 24-22.

Scranton Council defeated to Chi Omega in the only default this week in volleyball.

Water Sports Program Plans Are Being Made By Life Saving Corps

The Life Saving corps will present a program of water sports Thanksgiving day in the gym. There will be a swing formation swimming, single over-arm, front and back crawl strokes, breast stroke, diving, and comedy stunts.

Ruth Williams will play the role of Water Queen and Katherine Rawls will give an exhibition of the butterfly stroke, and take part in the diving event.

Other swimmers include Dot Richards, Pat Campbell, Lois Hughes, Martha Moore, Marjorie Maxwell, Sarah Moore, Elizabeth Pierce, Margaret Wolcott, Evelyn Edwards, Nancy Rogero, Dot Collins, Dorothy Marvin, Frances Malloy, Connie Ash, Betty Young, Marion Lesser, Carmen Lytal, Martha Rosenbush, Janet Cook, Annie Jennings, Erma Engle, Marion Webb, Ernestine and Virginia Makemson, Neil Colvin, Erma Smith Lawrence, Ann Thompson, Dorothy Scott, and Eleanor Preer.

Frances Thill is the general chairman. Valerie Hunt and Vonie Marcheseau will be in charge of events, and Betty Collund will be the script writer and reader.

Hockey Can Be Played By Six

Game Devised by Frazier To Reduce Expense Of Equipment

A six man hockey team which will be used in the demonstration hockey day here, has been devised by Miss Ay Frazer of the physical education department.

This team has been adapted from the regular eleven man team for use in high schools and small colleges that do not have the space or equipment for the regular game. The six man hockey team requires a sixty yard field, slightly larger than half of the regular field of one hundred yards. The equipment requirement is also cut in half. The rules of the game are about the same so that those playing in the six man team would have no trouble playing regular hockey. There are changes in position due to the cut in players, and the goal keeper is entirely dispensed with. All the members of the team are required to guard the goal.

"We experimented with it quite a bit while I was in New York university," said Miss Frazer, "and found that it gives the player no trouble at all in changing from six man hockey to regular hockey. This is merely an adaptation of the game for use in small schools. Some schools would like to offer their students the game, but haven't the space or the equipment to do so. The six man hockey team is devised for their use."

Writer Sees Girls Take Advantage of Plunge Period as Colored Balls in Green Water Tank

Seven bright red apples in an oblong tank of green water. And a yellow one, a dark green one, four brown ones, and two white ones.

They bob about, bounce up on the edge of the tank, and roll back again. Wait. They have legs, arms, bodies, and even faces. Yes, it's 4:30 again and plunge period.

A red ball floats lazily about.

Green ball scrambles awkwardly up on the side of the tool. She poses beautifully but manages to hit the water tummy first with a tremendous splash.

A brown ball swims the length of the pool with a graceful, easy crawl. Another brown ball rolls over and over in a series of surface dives.

Three other red balls line up along the edge of the pool. Two shut their eyes and, in unison, begin to thresh the water wildly in their best imitations of the flutter kick. The third red ball attempts to practice rhythmic breathing but competition from the other two nearly drowns her efforts and her. The two white balls bob about, swimming, floating, diving. This color ball can only be a life-saver. Yes, now they are practicing the cross-chest carry, taking turns as victim.

Yellow ball has been standing rather awkwardly neck-deep in the water. Now as she looks about her she glances up. With a little squeal she points to the clock on the shelf at the side of the pool. Six hands point to 5:15.

Each ball bobs toward the nearest steps from the pool; plunge period is over.

Telegraphic Rifle Meet Will Be Arranged With Gainesville This Year

A telegraphic meet between the rifle team to be formed on this campus and the team from Gainesville will be scheduled soon after Christmas holidays.

Practice for this meet may be held any time during the week-end at Camp Flastacowo, and any student who wishes may take part. Miss Ruth Lehman, who lives in the small cabin at camp, is in charge of the rifles and practice at camp, and all campers wishing to practice may get rifles and bullets from her. Score sheets are given to each person, and all final scores are placed on a rating basis. After Christmas a rifle team will be picked from the girls who made the highest scores.

Participating Share Wins In Game

Four Athletic Contests Yield One Victory To Each Class

Each of the four classes scored one of the four basketball and volleyball games played Wednesday afternoon. In basketball the seniors led the juniors 25-16 freshmen handed the sophomores 34-17. In volleyball the sophomores were victors over the freshmen with a scoring of 34-12, and the juniors headed the seniors 38-18.

The losers will play off their games Friday at 4:30 o'clock, and the winners will compete Friday at Play Night in the gym.

In basketball the freshman team steadily piled up points until at the end of the half the score was 14-6. Consistent and close teamwork on the part of the freshman team contrasted with the fumbling of the sophomores. Carmen Lytal, freshman, scored the greatest number of baskets.

Line-up of the freshman basketball team is: right forward, Helen Benson, left forward, Sarah Jane Stansbury; center, Carmen Lytal; right guard, Yvonne Marcheseau; center guard, Margaret Louise Rice; and left guard, Frances Fryer.

The sophomore line-up follows: right forward, Bunny Gautier; left forward, Jackie Gates; center forward, Fay Cooey; right guard, Dot Marwick; center guard, Harriet Duke; and left guard, Florence Green. Betty Wolf substituted for Jackie Gates, and Doris Butler filled in for Florence Green.

On the adjacent court the junior-senior basketball game was being fought. The white-clad seniors scored ahead of the juniors from the first quarter. Dorothy Kamiya and Sara Hethcox shooting the most baskets. At the half the score was 19 to 8 in favor of the seniors.

The senior line-up is: right forward, Sara Hethcox; left forward, Mary Lou O'Haver; center forward, Dorothy Kamiya, right guard, Marion Weeks; center guard, Hazel Viersel; and left guard, Mary Miller.

The line-up of the junior team is as follows: right forward, Frances Thill; left forward, Ruth McClain; center forward, Evelyn Edwards; right guard, Janet Cook; center guard, Hilda Dale Spradlin; and left guard, Phillis West. No substitutions were called in for either of these teams.

At the same time that the basketball teams were battling their games out, the sophomores were trading the freshmen, and the juniors were beating the seniors in volleyball.

The winning sophomore line-up is: Nancy Williamson, Martha Moore, Bettye Stanley, Valerie Hunt, Ruth Harrington, Betty McMullen, Dorothy Molnar, and Martha Wilson.

The freshman line-up is: Katherine Bernreuter, Martha Robbins, Lalla Iverson, Meta Edith Helms, Mary Rogers, Lynette Thompson, Virginia Makemson, and Mary Nell Smith.

The winning junior line-up is as follows: Audrey Cooper, Frances Lewis, Helen Daniels, Nan Clark, Louise Clark, Marjorie Horton, Betty Cotland, and Kathryn Pratt.

The line-up of the senior volleyball team is: Margaret Maxwell, Marion Lesser, Mildred Seekins, Shirley Stevens, Janice Borton, Eloise Moeller, Beth Deans, and Martha Makemson.

Games, Dances And Swimming Form Program

Thanksgiving Tilts Take Odd-Even Rivalry To Climax

Next Thursday morning the Odd-Even rivalry will reach its climax in the volleyball and basketball games. All fall the two teams have practiced consistently with these games as their goal, and just recently, since the Odds drew Wednesday night for their demonstration, the spirit of "Even bones" and "Odd colors" have overrun the campus.

The first game to be played Thanksgiving morning will be volley-ball on the course north of the gymnasium building, at 9:30. The officials for this game will be Miss Katherine Montgomery and Miss Eunice Hurd. The basketball game will follow at 10:30. Miss Ray Frazer and Miss Mildred Emmelhainz will referee this game. After the games a demonstration of the modern dance classes under the direction of Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson and a water festival will be presented in the gym.

The dance recital will begin at 11:30 in the big gym, and four classes will participate. One class will demonstrate its work in rhythmic compositions which include a theme for variations, a dance of locomotor movement entirely, and one of non-locomotor movement. The other class has been studying the dance from the standpoint of movement, and will show short studies of contrast and similarity of movement with effective use of elements of composition. Kathleen Grupp has set music to these compositions. Members of the classes who are not taking part in other events and are available will be permitted.

The folk dancing class will present various group dances of different countries, and the same

Continued on page six

We can't all go to London for the Coronation this year, but we can all enter into the spirit of the year by wearing one of those new evening gowns in Coronation red and blue. We are receiving daily shipments of evening dresses in all styles and sizes.

P. W. WILSON COMPANY
—Since 1837—

THE TEST DIVE!

Straight down from 4 miles up — motor roaring — wind screaming — Gehlbach rears earthward like a bullet flashing from a revolver. At the bottom of the 2-mile drive — a sharp pull-out wrenches plane and pilot to the limit. Such tests make planes safer. Anything can happen. A bump in the air — a tiny flaw, and the plane can fly to pieces as though dynamited while the pilot takes to his parachute. But, as you can see at the right, Lee Gehlbach eats heartily and enjoys his food. Note the Camel cigarette in his hand — one of the many Camels that Lee enjoys during and after meals. In his own words (above), he gives you the reason why Camels are his cigarette.

For Digestion's Sake . . . Smoke Camels

Lee Gehlbach says: "Smoking Camels keeps my digestion tuned up and running smooth"

"CAMELS set me right!" Gehlbach says. "You know, a chance is only 10% of my business. Keeping alert and in fine condition is the other 90%. I smoke Camels with my meals, and afterward, for digestion's sake. And when I say Camels don't get on my nerves, it means a lot."

Good digestion and healthy nerves are important for everyone in this wide-awake era. Camels at mealtime and after speed up the flow of digestive fluids — increase alkalinity — help ming a sense of well-being. So make Camels — for digestion's sake — for their refreshing "lift." Camels set you right! And they do not get on your nerves.

Copyright, 1953, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

TOUGH ASSIGNMENTS demand extra effort. Let Camels help you when right—give you a "lift"—aid digestion. Camels are mild—they don't get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

HOLLYWOOD RADIO TREAT!

Camel Cigarettes bring you a FULL HOUR'S ENTERTAINMENT! . . . Benny Goodman's "Swing" Band . . . George Scott's Concert Orchestra . . . Hollywood Guest Stars . . . and Rupert Hughes presides! Tuesday—9:30 p.m. E.S.T., 8:30 p.m. C.S.T., 7:30 p.m. M.S.T., 6:30 p.m. P.S.T., over WABC-Columbia Network.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA SANKS ..... Assistant Editor
BEVERLY HUDSON ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glazier, Exchange, Virginia Batty; Features, Mildred Bell, Dorothy Dickinson, Ann Hall, Ruth Hall, Mildred Rich, Dick and Sarah Sloan; Outside News, Christie O'Rourke, Society Margaret Claire Lafferty, and Minna Kerns; Sports, Virginia Reppetto, Arlington Corbett, Mary Linn Maude, Sports, Ella Virginia Brooks, Ann Hall, Ruth Hall.

REPORTERS

Harry Adams, Ruth Alderman, Dorothy Barnes, Blanton Barrett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Bellamy, Claire Cameron, Elizabeth Conner, Thomas Cowan, Charles Dickinson, Marion Fraser, Mary Ann Hall, Margaret Lewis, Howe Reid, Lee Sparkman, Lynn Sikes, Ann Lucie, Betty Leach, Martha Lumpkin, Mary Ann Hall, Elizabeth Mercer, Alice Meacham, Mary Nelson, Alfred Patrick, Janet Pierce, Marion Purviance, Nancy Rhodes, Ann Sikes, Virginia Pinkerton, Elsworth Spicer, Mary Sullivan, Alma Warren Frances Waterhouse

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE MOORE ..... Business Manager
JANE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
NOR O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Adv. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Representative for National Advertising by
NATIONAL ADVERTISING SERVICE, INC.
College Publishers Representative
420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N. Y.
Chicago • Boston • San Francisco • Los Angeles
Portland • Seattle

Member: National Scholastic Press association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1925, at the postoffice at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Legislation Without Representation?

Is student government representative the students? That is the question which members of the student body have been asking since the rumor got about that the College Government association is responsible for Saturday classes and the new cut system introduced this fall.

Although on the surface it would appear that the association is being dominated by faculty opinion the Flambeau wanted to be sure. So this week we conducted an investigation on the procedure of College Government in relation to the new cut system and Saturday classes before these two measures went into effect. The facts given below have come from the president of the student body in her capacity as head of the College Government executive council.

In the first place, all action on academic matters has been reserved in the College Government regulations to the president of the college and the faculty. The clause reads: "VIII. Section A. 1. To this Association the President and the Faculty entrust the management of all matters concerning the conduct of students in their college life that are not academic in nature except such matters as are herein reserved from the jurisdiction of the Association."

This clause definitely removes the responsibility from College Government for the actual passing of the cut system and for inaugurating Saturday classes. These are certainly academic in nature.

It now appears that Saturday classes came as the result of work done last spring by the college council, a group composed at this particular meeting of both the old and the new executive councils of College Government and the faculty committee on student affairs. At this time reports were read by the faculty health committee and the student extra-curricular activities committee which recommended Saturday classes as a means of relieving the over-load of class and extra-curricular work being carried by many students. The committees cited several nervous breakdowns among members of the student body, explained that there was no time for studying at night under a system where the required organizations to meet at night, and reported that the present campus life would be much benefited by the installation of the six-day schedule.

On the basis of the facts presented the two college government executive councils made known their willingness to accept the proposed Saturday class measure if a liberal cut system allowing students approximately the same week-end freedom they had been accustomed to was provided by the authorities.

The cut system worked out this summer by the executive council of the faculty, however, was not the same as the one recommended by the College Government executive council since spring and consequently the association's decision was not part in the making of this system since this right is one of those reserved to the council again to the faculty and the president of the college.

The president of College Government received permission this week to present to the college executive council a model cut system which would be agreeable to the majority of students. The president of the college and the faculty executive council have promised students through the president of College Government that they will consider this proposed system and do something to improve existing conditions.

Meanwhile College Government is still attempting to represent critical student opinion. But nevertheless the real action must come from either the president of the college or the college executive council, and it is here that students must look for the correction of academic ills.

Consider Faculty. Too In Student Activity Building

At last we hear a definite step has been taken in the long drawn-out move for a student activity building. The alumnae association has adopted the planning of such a building as its immediate project.

The proposed building, planned on the same scale as the present buildings, will cost approximately $200,000. Housing facilities to accommodate visiting graduates as well as centers for student activities are to be provided. Along this line the Flambeau wishes to renew its suggestion of two years ago.

A growing number of students on this campus deplore the fact that faculty members and students have no place where they can go any hour of the day to read or talk about the best things that have been written or said in the past. They find sidewalks small, benches few, and faculty offices often over-crowded and business-like. They are beginning to their professors' homes but often refreshments are served and students feel they have no adequate way in which to return their social obligations. Besides, if they do drop in to see a professor occasionally, they may interrupt his or her plans.

Lounges and study rooms with movable partitions in the proposed student activity building have been suggested as an answer to such a need. Faculty and student members could visit these lounges equally and informally wherever they pleased. An entire section might be provided for this purpose with kitchen and smoking rooms near the lounges where students and faculty members would feel free to make coffee or smoke as, for instance, after on- of our faculty-student dinners.

Whether or not the alumnae association will actually plan the rooms of the building we do not know, but we feel the alumnae are trying to raise the funds for such a building and therefore, we think they will have a few words to say as to how the rooms will be arranged.

Considering the amount of money to be raised for the construction of a student activity building, we admit our suggestion may be a little premature. Nevertheless we feel it is not worth ignoring that such a natural faculty-student relationship develop on this campus when we leave off trying so earnestly for artificial social gestures. Acquaintance with our professors should go beyond the usual staid and artificial talk at receptions, teas, and dinners. The current attitude that a student is just "grade-chasing" when she stops to talk to one of her professors after class is all too true on this campus. And well may it be with the pressed soore natural conditions under which to meet our professors outside of classes.

Point Of Information!

Does the new grade system sanction the practice of giving a student "unsatisfactory"? simply because the student is capable of making an "A" in a course where she is actually only doing "B" work?

Does the new grade system allow a teacher to send out "unsatisfactory" for a student who has a low "C" as long as the grade is on the "C" level?

Does the new cut system permit a professor to give a student cuts for a course where the student is attending the classes but has failed to bring in all the class work required?

Why were the Saturday cuts granted reshaps last week-end a signal for the scheduling of examinations in many courses where the quarterly tests had already been completed?

What, indeed, was the actual reason for doing away with quarter grades if teachers still insist upon giving them out direct to students?

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

New Books In Review

Annual National Book Week is Celebrated This Week in Libraries, Shops and Schools Everywhere

By ARLINE GRAY LOCKHART

This week the campus library, along with other libraries, book shops and schools all over the country, has had a special book display to celebrate the annual National Book Week Yesterday ended the widely heralded New York Times National Book Week Fair held at Rockefeller Center since November 9. The Turnstiles showed that the total number of people attending the first six days of the Fair was 27,518. All this would seem to indicate that America is still very book conscious. America, despite its busy everyday life, finds time to be keenly interested in the hundreds of books published yearly —books flaunting gay jackets and eye-catching titles, books on every conceivable subject.

Busy collegians may find interesting the following book-picked at random from the many that are being released this month.

In the field of poetry there is the little volume of poems "I In The Wind" by Marcia Masters, also wrote "Songs and Solaces." These volumes of poetry are the first ever published by a writer who is both a poet and scientist. Having spent twenty-six years in intensive study of cancer for which she has won much credit in the scientific world, Maidee Mye has used her favorite science and poetry. Making it her aim to paint the beauty of scientific reality in poetry, she has managed to capture the spirit of a true scientist with such lines as: "I pace the world because I am storm-driven By this compelling of creation."

The volume "I In The Wind" is divided into three groups of poems: (1) a seventh sequence, (2) a human sequence, and (3) a lot of jam or flippant cookie. This last group expresses delight in things so common in nature and so often overlooked.

"The Best Poems of 1936" edited by Thomas Moult is the fifteenth annual volume in the only anthology of its kind. It contains important poems by important poets that have been published in American and England during the year.

Taking a short dive into the historical field one comes up with "A Short History of the Future" by John Langdon-Davies, already author of two books on science. This latest is a preview of the world in 1989 based on the logical continuation of present-day trends in both science and sociology. The book, published November 16, includes chapters on the Unalterable Laws, Reason and the Social Habit, The Future of Peace, the Super-Biological and Everyday Life in 1989.

Among the political books is "The Nine Old Men" by Drew ... Continued on page two

University Editorials . . . .

In view of the super outcry last week against the cut system, this number from the Kentucky Kernel is particularly apropos:

Worth Considering

The Kentucky Kernel, official student paper of the Kentucky university has received several optional class attendance for seniors.

This paper maintains that the theoretical results would be three-fold: that it would set up a new responsibility for seniors, giving them more and more fruitful preparation for the days after graduation; that class room technique of instructors would have to be improved to attract seniors to the class, and that scholarship would be raised and humiliated by the cut system.

The Kernel assures its readers that it is not a radical sheet or of the hurrah-scurrah variety but that it intends to operate on sound principles. It also feels that it is advancing a theory of progressive legislation.

In looking at this problem from the state college campus angle the Collegian feels that it would be highly commendable if practical. However, knowing State college seniors as we do, we believe some instructors would often be humiliated by shouting to an empty class room. We also believe that students would belittle themselves by shouting to an empty brain when quiz time came.

The idea is the coming thing in progressive education. It is unfortunate that State college is not yet ready to consider its adoption.

* * *

The Michigan State News thinks women are inadequate. They would have Dr. Coyle Moore or somebody cover more ground so the stronger sex can have their stockings darned more efficiently!

Right Shoulder Arms

Long was the struggle for suffrage and universal equality, and so loud. Then she got the vote, asked for it, and were convinced that woman was destined for a place other than the home and fireside. Through the years she has grown her indigenous roots and blossomed in fresh exceptions—it remains today.

There are at least 40 men colleges today handed straight for the female and all of them not classified as home economics subjects. In fact most of them have never had a credit through the kitchen route and are facing the problem of coping with the facts of domestic routine.

Are these not facts of a grave situation? What is to be done to remedy the lack of household knowledge?

Well, she wanted equality—let her have it. Consider the male students required to take two years of study as an adjunct to his regular curriculum. He certainly profits additionally or not, by the learning of military tactics. What has the woman student by way of parallels in the military course? One year more of physical education, and one extra year and all this equality—

Let a general course be devised in home economics that would serve as a required course for every woman in school. Teach them culinary arts, child care, home budgeting—the whole field of housewifery, give them their equality by giving them that extra year that men take out in military, and then if they want to be career women—fine. But they will not be prepared to jump into marital harness.—R. D. B

Collegiate Comebacks

Did we imagine it or hasn't something disparaging been said about the cut system? We feel this to be terribly, distractingly unjust. If you don't agree, get out your histories and you'll find that, compared with our contemporary collegians of the America Revolution, ours is generous regarding cutting. And we don't have to wear uniforms, either! P. S. Freshmen, if you disagree with this as you did with a "Pro and Con" last week, read it again. There may be a point.)

* * * *

Enigma. We wonder how the powers that be expect a poor girl to read ten thousand pages of parallel per week, estimating conservatively of course, when there are only twenty-four hours in a day and only seven days in a week, on six of which she must attend classes? (This is right; we checked on it with a math major.) We wonder this in view of the fact that the library is closed Sunday evenings when, were it open all the time, we'd have a heck of a time skimming over all our reading. Evidently we'll have to have a couple of hours added to each day, because, like the brook, Florida State goes on forever—in her own unchanging way.

* * * *

Taking a phenomenal interest in freshmen the Porlc: Voo offers this little bit of advice:

Gather ye good grades while ye may.
The second year is tougher;
And this same proof that smiles today
Tomorrow will be rougher.

That year is best which is the first,
When studs and prof are stranger;
It's not until he knows the worst
That you're in any danger.

* * * *

Over a million students, according to the Drexel Triangle, entered institutions of higher learning this fall. All of which goes to prove that, contrary to the opinions of some critics, this younger generation can really take it.

* * * *

From the Auburn Plainsman we learn that a student at Drake university goes walking with a dog several times each day. Sherlock Holmes wouldn't talk about our roommate that way

* * * *

In an exchange paper we read where Carl Sandburg in a recent lecture at Temple university declared that any "live girl was worth marrying, because "if anything happens, she has always seen worse." After four years up here, we should say marrying too, if that's the way he looks at it.

* * * *

The Davidsonian prints the following toast:

Here's to the girls—the good ones!
But not too good,
For the good die young
And nobody wants a dead one

Here's to the girls—the old ones!
But not too old,
For the old dye, too,
And nobody wants a dyed one

* * * *

A Dallas widow, according to the Cynosure, sued one of her admirers for five thousand dollars, charging that one of his embraces broke four of her ribs. If every one could collect a similar amount for a like offense, we'll wager there'd be a lot more fur coats on this campus.

* * * *

Some teachers on campus are loved; others keep their classes after the bell for dismissal has rung.

* * * *

The following we quote from the Drexel Triangle:

He squeezed her in the dark and kissed her.
And for a moment bliss was his.
"Excuse me but I thought I was my sister!"
He said. She smiled and cooed, "It is."

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed here are those of the writer or writers and are not necessarily those of the Flambeau staff. All students are invited to contribute to "Pro and Con."

As we write this the Flambeau is going to press—and the eminent journalist, Mr. S. K Ratcliffe, is addressing a group of faculty members and students.

As the students on campus probably the most interested in such a speaker is it seems unfortunate to us that Mr. Ratcliffe was brought to the campus on a night when members of the Flambeau staff cannot attend his lecture. It is unfortunate that the most promising critical scheduled on the artists series for the year should also fall on a Thursday night.

We do not feel that we can help contribute to the college life on a strict work schedule, day in and day out through the year, beg that the committees which select forum speakers and artists will take into consideration in their future selections the fact that at no time is the staff of the Flambeau able to attend such functions on Thursday night.

Signed: Hazel Bowman, Jane Quinn, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Ella Virginia Brooks, Evelyn Fisher, Martha Baker, Sarah Beth Davis, Sarah Cauley, Arline Gray Lockhart, Elizabeth Conner, Elizabeth H Turner, Pearle Shepard, Clotilde O'Roarke.

Magazine Jottings

By SARAH SEELEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

America Doesn't Give a Damn
By Channing Pollock

A noted dramatist, author, and critic makes an analysis of America's apathy on the subject of stupendous events going on around it. And he blames it on "Knock" Knock" and "Who's There" jokes. Reading about the goings on in Spain, Germany, Russia, dancing and prize cake walking a damn." O. K. trouble is not with a system that won't work, but with a nation that won't work; "not with soul erosion, but with soul erosion." Education is accomplishing what we are becoming a nation of "educated" fools who, like other decadent civilizations, have a people of other nationalities to do the real work of the country. We prefer to sell things instead of advertising. "The great trouble with our activities is that they are spoiling thousands of good truck drivers."

Mr Pollock closes with an appeal to Americans to wake up and roll up his shirt sleeves and get to work and make our government a government of, by, and for the people.—(S. S.)

Britain and The Baltic
By George Soloveytchick

The Baltic countries small as they are are a part of vast importance in the maintenance of world peace.

Mr. Soloveytchick in the November Fortnightly points out their location between Germany and Russia as one thing that should maintain their peace. Also the fact of the small size of the small Baltic countries Germany could not covert the Baltic into a "German Lake" as would be the case if her with an alliance with Russia from Germany to Russia. Yet with the threat of Great Britain, the author believes that Germany can maintain their independence and thus peace.

The Baltic countries do not need financial help from Great Britain, but encouragement in the assurance that Great Britain is both friendly and interested. They should be made to feel that Britain is ready to consider their trade values in them not only good commercial customers of several centuries' standing, but associates in the common defense of peace.—(S. S.)

T. V. A. Faces The Future
By Maury Maverick

A story of the T V A., stating its origin, purpose, and accomplishments and predicting its future is presented in the November 16 issue of the New Republic.

The project has shown that electrical energy can be produced cheaply by a public power government as well as by private concerns. It has demonstrated that navigation of streams may best be derived by cooperative, or government, endeavor.

Besides protecting the surrounding region from disastrous floods the building of T. V. A. dams has brought about a new industry, cheap electric rates, which have increased the Experiments now being conducted by the T V A. point towards wide development of new private enterprises. Cheap electricity to hundreds of farmers in its section of the country is the best way of conserving natural resources such as soil, water, trees, and vegetable life.

Considered as a whole, Mr. Maverick states that T. V. A. is not an "experiment." It is a part of American life. It is here; it will stay.—"

The Case for Telepathy
By Ernest Hunter Wright

November: Harper's gives a truly remarkable description and interpretation of a series of experiments relative to mental telepathy and clairvoyance, carried on at Duke university, experiments that have been going on for many years under the supervision of Professor Rhine and McDougall in the psychology department there. These two eminent psychologists have been definitely convinced by the results of experiments that some such extra-sensory perception exists, and are now individuals are seeking now to discover its nature.

The experimental procedure is simple. The subject has before him a pack of cards, each of which have circles and five with crosses, three with rectangles, five with stars, and five with waves. They are shuffled, and the one is asked to name the order in which the cards appear, without looking at them. His chances of naming one card correctly is one in five hence in a pack of twenty-five, chance would give him a score of five cards correctly. The astoundant fact of the experiment is that there have been found individuals who, in a series of thousands of trials consistently call cards by more than double the number of cards that "law of averages" allows. For instance, of the subjects who took the test, one scored correct out of twenty-five, or eighteen times the probable error for the number of calls. Such a performance mathematically will happen by accident only once in one hundred decillion trials.

Mr. Wright gives many statistics to verify the trade and corroborate his point, and vouches for the honesty of the report. He concludes that the existence of extra-sensory perception is probable, in the light of the experimental findings, and that we can from the brink of a revolution in the realm of mind.—(S. S.)

The Social Week

ororities Plan Informal Parties Honoring Rushees

ocial activities of many of the ities on campus are being ered in parties, teas, and coffee honoring rushees, faculty mbers and friends. These par- are all informal.

Saturday noon and pledges of ma Phi Beta sorority will en- a group of friends ntal tea informal tea Saturday- from 3:30 to 6:30.

ty members are Peggy Jack- Anne Ledd, Polly Ann White, Hopkins, Margo Stewart, nia Cannon, Freddie Frick, ry Bullock, Hilliard Peart, Asher, Frances Morrow, Er- Lawrence, Dot Osborne, e Frank, Eleanor Williams, Lockhart, Marian Heper, Clark, Edith Florence Kaimer Murphy, Jean ardner, Shirley Pemberton, ner Baker, Martha Lee Wil- Kathryn Todd, Mary Elina Ramsey, Betty Wynn, Julia nett, and Martha Hayes.

Phi Mu Tea

friends and rushees of the Phi sorority will be entertained n informal tea Sunday after- the sorority house on West Seven corner.

During the evening the pledges provide entertainment for the ests by dressing their goat mas- in presenting skits.

Rushees for this time will be ation Barrett, Catherine O'- Mabry Sanford, Pair Mil- Barbara Hendry, Lillian ams, Jimmie Lee Malone, Elisa- Malone, Margaret Wilson, arion Purviance, Elizabeth rs and Margaret Bissel.

ith Adams, Betty Bosser, ty Simmons, Doris Cahon, Ann Wood, Hovall, Nancy ton, Peggy Gerald, Pearl Cay, Myrtle Gardner, Miriam Stuart, Mary Jane Johnson, Ethel Jones.

Kappa Delta Entertains

The Kappa Delta sorority entertained friends and faculty members at a tea Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock in the sorority house on Copeland street. Business for the affair were Miss Thornton Turnbull, Marjorie Nogate, Jo Tharin, Jo Ann Hamilton, Mildred Lilly Ayala, Margaret Thompson, Ann Sams, Amelia Mae Leuhman, Frances Hall, Frances Thomas, Dorothy Benton, Jane Bullock, Mildred Allen Ballanger, Jo Binion, Rue Whitaker, Grace Whitaker, Jane Lamon, Mary Sams, Emma Sams, Maggie Glenn, Jean Baughmann, Ann Heiter, Sara Tillman, Jean Cook, Doug Dabney, Nell Webb, Lynnie Lamotte, Mae Anderson.

Kappa Alpha Thetas Hear Dean Dorman Give Discussion

Members and pledges of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority held their second in a series of cultural meetings Wednesday afternoon with Dean Olivia N. Dorman as their speaker.

Refreshments were served after the round table discussion.

Those attending the meeting were Clarice Sanches, Mary Veach, Betty Spicer, Dorothy Barr, Marjorie Horton, Patricia Davidson, Helen Dunn, Virginia Cronnis, Mary Quesenberry, Mary Ennels, Barbara Bandy, Margaret Schmidli, Kitty Cranney, Margaret Rudy, Mary Lee Hopkins, Lillian Burford, Virginia Hamilton, Mrs. Frances Campbell, Sarah Wood, Mary Ann Hill, Louise Spaulding, Annie Laurie Sanches, Ruth Fisher, and Annie Lyle Bell.

Ruth Williams, Dorothy Sloan, Minnie Burns, Marie Thyssen, Dorothy Steele, Murry Ann Fisher, Madge Williams, Martha Sue, Margaret Roberts, Doris Strahan, Virginia Eager, Kathryn Rawls, Doris Edwards, Betty Sue Betty Miller, Helen Ramsey, Rosemary Hoffman, Dorene Medlin, Pat Bacfinger, Ruth Tyler, Edris Stanley, Ilma La Barr, Velma Newberry, Frances Alexander, Avant and Marjorie Sloan.

Mrs. Laura McMullen, chaperon of the sorority has been giving tea for the different classes of girls in the sorority. Monday the honors were entertained; Tuesday, the juniors, Thursday, the seniors, and the pledges will be entertained this week.

EXCELLENT FOOD
WELL SERVED!
Telephone 9109
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
SEMINOLE
CAFE
S. Monroe St. - Tallahassee

Alpha Gamma Deltas Give Informal Tea Honoring Guests

The actives and pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained Saturday afternoon from five to six o'clock at their house on Park avenue with an informal tea for the faculty members, patrons, and patronesses of the sorority.

Vases of yellow chrysanthemums throughout the house were the decorations for this occasion. Tea and cookies were served during the hour.

Hostesses for the afternoon were, Dorothy Williams, Flo Bottari, Carolyn Boyd, Jessie Coachman, Jane Cooper, Elaine Fleischer, Willrue Dainer, Alma Godena, Betty Hodgson, Irene Hutchinson, Helen Lane, Betty Little, Elizabeth Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Patterson, Louise Rooks, Lahlen Voss, and Harriet Keitt, pledges.

After-Dinner Coffee

Members and pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority entertained Wednesday night with an after dinner coffee.

Hostesses were Anne Donnell, Frances Ellis, Lorraine Oyles, Jean Hodges, Mary Louise Hoenshel, Lois Rhodes, Elisabeth Leach, Margaret Neff, Olivia Branson, Gertrude Tomaras, Valerie Hunt, Helen Moe, Nancy Rogers, and Agnes Schopps.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the same group will hold a card party.

"A. O. Pirate" Party Will Be Given For Various Pledges

Tomorrow night the Alpha Omicron Pi pledges will entertain the other sorority pledges on campus with an "A. O. Pirate" party at their house on Park avenue.

The house will be decorated with daggers, skull and crossbones, and bottles filled with rum to carry out the effect of an interior of a pirate ship. To remember the occasion there will be booths in which various entertainments will be held.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and candy will be given to the guests who will walk the plank, and ginger ale and grape juice will be served.

Those who will be hostesses on this occasion are: Maybeth Goss, Sara Margrue, Avery Cook, Betty McMullen, Cita Goodell, Mary Finney, Rosella Merritt, Mary Jo Moore, Margaret Tyler, Argola Grigsby, and Catherine Welch.

Mortar Board Plans Annual Breakfast

Members of Mortar Board will entertain on Saturday morning after Thanksgiving with the annual breakfast honoring alumnae Mortar Boards. The affair will be held at 9 o'clock in the home of Miss Elizabeth Lynn, 503 West Jefferson street. Decorations will carry out the Thanksgiving motif. Invitations have been sent to all former members of Mortar Board to attend.

Eleanor Williams is general chairman for the breakfast, and Mary Kathryn Johnson is in charge of invitations. Other members of Mortar Board who will be hostesses at this time are: Marjorie Tillis, Jo Binion, Frances Forth, Hazel Bowman, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Makemson Daisy Parker, Sue Whitaker, and Shirley Stevens.

"SWING WITH VENGEANCE" IN OUR FORMALS

Gay in color and style. Newest materials. . . . We present them to you at—$7.90

and $10.90

Satin, Moire, Velvet, Taffeta, Chiffon. . . . Sizes 10 to 20.

A small deposit will hold any garment you select. Choose your Homecoming Frock from the

DIANA SHOP

Dress up in a pair of our smartly styled shoes at a price you will hardly believe possible. The first shoe sale of the season! Be here early and avoid the rush. Shoes sold formerly up to $4.95.

$2.45
$2.95

Sizes: 3-9—AAA-C
HOSIERY SPECIAL—79c value at 59c

COLLEGE SLIPPER SHOP

Thanksgiving Program Announced

Tuesday, November 24

Registration.
7:45 p. m. Even Demonstration, auditorium (admission by ticket).
11:00 p. m. Odd "Night Out."

Wednesday, November 25

7:00 a. m. Color Rush.
7:45 p. m. Odd Demonstration, auditorium (admission by ticket).
11:00 p. m. Even "Night Out."

Thursday, November 26

8:30 a. m. Thanksgiving service, auditorium.
9:30 a. m. Volley ball game—Odds versus Evens, athletic field.
10:30 a. m. Basketball game—Odds versus Evens, athletic field.
11:30 a. m. Dance program by students in dance, main floor, Physical Education building.
12:00 m. Formation swimming pageant, by classes in swimming, pool (admission by ticket).
2:30 p. m. Thanksgiving dinner, college dining hall.
4:00 p. m. After dinner coffee, parlors of residence halls—parents, faculty, and guests.
Thursday evening: Opening of special entertainment in honor of parents in sorority houses and residence halls, Reynolds and Gilchrist. The special entertainment will begin not earlier than eight o'clock.

Friday, November 27

10:30-12:30 Tours for parents—Interesting buildings and exhibition of the campus. The college camp and dairy are open to visitors. These tours are conducted by members of Mortar Board. Guests will meet guides in front of Bryan hall.
Classes, laboratories, bookstore, and exhibits open all day for visitation.
2:00 p. m. "Books for Pleasure and Profit"—Miss Louise Richardston, college librarian. Browsing in the college library.
8:00-10:00 p. m. Play night at physical education building.

Saturday, November 28

9:00 a.m. Mortar Board breakfast for alumnae, at home of Miss Elizabeth Lynn, 503 West Jefferson street.
8:30 p. m. Formal Dance, Physical Education building.

FLORIDA REGENT OF DAR MEETS WITH STUDENTS ELIGIBLE FOR MEMBERSHIP

Mrs. Guy Williams, state regent of the Florida society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Lyda Crieg, Florida State college who are eligible for membership in the chapter to be formed on this campus last Monday afternoon at 4:46 in Rugg hall.

Miss Lydia Craig, organizing regent, presided at the meeting and introduced Mrs. Williams who spoke informally to the girls on the history and aims of the D.A.R. Lydia also introduced Mrs. James A. Craig, ex-state regent, honorary state regent and state chairman of the student loan committee. Mrs. Mary E. Brevard, of Tallahassee, first state vice-regent, and Mrs. Robert W. Simms, of Jacksonville, second vice-regent and chairman of Rights Monument committee.

The fourteen eligible girls who attended the meeting are: Anne Sams, Mary Finney, Louise Pressly, Pricilla Adams, Dorothy Kilmore, Elizabeth Lindsey, Bryan Stockbridge, Martha Jean Jones, Marjorie Reid, Blanton Barrett, Lillian Simmons, Elisabeth Pierce, Madelyn Duncan, and Ella Virginia Brooks.

The college girls were offered tea by Mrs. Venita Stone, Mrs. Anna Porter Liddell, and Miss Emma Wilburn who also attended the meeting.

A temporary organization will be formed in the near future in the hope that all the girls eligible will have their papers accepted so that a charter may be obtained from the National society of the D.A.R. at its next board meeting, to be held in February.

With the granting of a charter to the proposed chapter on this campus, the fifth college organization recognized by the National society of D.A.R. will be established.

Monday night Dean Dorman entertained for visiting officials with a dinner in the college dining hall and an after-dinner coffee held in Gilchrist parlor.

The girls whose papers have been accepted and who are now members of the society were invited to attend the meeting of the Caroline Brevard chapter of Tallahassee, held at the home of Mrs. H E. Carter in Country Club estate Tuesday afternoon. The girls who attended the meeting were Lydia Craig, Elisabeth Meisner and Ella Virginia Brooks.

Council to Have Dinner

Members of the Religious Workers' council will have dinner in the college dining room Monday evening, followed by after-dinner coffee and the regular monthly business meeting of the group at the residence of Dr. Edward Conradi on College avenue.

HOME ECONOMICS GRADUATE MARRIES TUERE PASTO TUESDAY AT RUGE HALL

Miss Margaret Bradley, 1931 graduate of the home economics department, and Mr. Tuere Pasto from Hilo, Hawaii, were married Tuesday morning in Ruge Hall. Dr. A. C. Caldwell performed the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfriend pronounced the benediction.

The bride's brother, Ben Bradley, came down from Binghamton, New York, to attend the ceremony at which Miss Julia Gehan was the maid of honor. Frederick Gehan was musician for the wedding service, which was performed by candle light. The altar was decorated in white crysanthemums and the library with garnet and gold carnations.

Only intimate friends of the family were invited to the wedding breakfast, after which the couple left for Hilo, Hawaii, where they will reside.

Mrs. Pasto was a member of the "F" club for four years, a member of the orchestra, and the Odd baseball and basketball teams. After her graduation she was the United Thank Offering minister among the Cherokee Indians in South Dakota, and later became dietitian in the Power and Light Co. Mr. Pasto finished a responsible position as the head of a government department in Hilo, N. Y.

Winslow and Koch Give Musical Presentation Tonight in Auditorium

The second in the series of faculty recitals to be presented this year will be given tonight in the college auditorium at 7:45 by Miss Mary Esther Winslow, pianist, assisted by Miss Gladys Koch, soprano.

Miss Winslow and Miss Koch will offer the following program:

Carnival, Schumann; Preamble, Pierrot, Arlequin, Valse Noble, Sistelline, Reverie, Commedia, Papillons, Lettres, Davidsbundlertanz, Charina, Chopin, Estrella Reconnaissance, Fantaisie at Coquette, Valse Allemande, Aveu, Promenade, Pause, Marche des "Davidsbundler" contre les Philistins.

O come hither, Crist; then; I & Myrtis Shade (William Blake); Griffes; Secret Summer; Aristocratiques, DeBussey; Le vent dans la plaine; Suzuni ses baisms (Parart); Ca Chanson de L'Aloutte, Lair; Rhapsodie, P sharp minor, Dohanayi; Rhapsodie Italienne, Pinto; Run, Run Ring Around the Rosy; Rhythm, Little Soldier; Sleeping Time; Hobby Horse; La Boite de Dans Ormade, Debuzy; Caprine-Burlesque, Castrioveski.

Teachers Go to Meeting

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey and Dr. R. R. Cotterill left Wednesday to attend the second annual meeting of the Southern Historical society in Nashville, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Vanderbilt and Duke Peabody colleges are hosts to this meeting of the society. Dr. Abbey is the vice-president of the society, and Dr. Cotterill, is now a member of the membership committee.

Council Draws Up Cut System

Continued from page one

asked for since their adoption would mean remembrances and examinations would have to follow in order to maintain the present standards.

The Faculty Executive council to which the plan is being submitted is under no obligation to accept this plan but they have said that they will consider it carefully.

Teachers Join in State Wide AATS Meeting

Continued from page one

Seymour will speak on the subject of "The High School Spanish Student as Viewed by the College Teacher," and Mrs. Angela Palma Canagni of Rollins college will discuss the Rollins plan for evaluation and placement of high school students. The meeting will close with a critical evaluation and discussion of textbooks available for use in high schools. At this time Dr. Ray will appoint the members of the nominating committee who will examine all available texts in view of high school needs.

After the meeting the day's program will close with an informal meeting of the college teachers present, and there will be a discussion of problems of a college teacher. Teachers from Stetson, University of Florida, Rollins, Southern, Florida, and Florida State college are hosts to this meeting of the society. Dr. Ray is also the head of the Southern of the society, is now a member of the membership committee.

Myers Speaks on Labor And the Churches

Continued from page one

For this reason only through organized labor can employers and employes be brought to a better understanding of mutual concerns. He described conditions of poverty in similar cities and in tenement sections and suggested that in order that one group of people can "know how the other side lives" educational trips should be taken.

In pointing out ways in which the church can help in social reform the Reverend Myers mentioned investigation of social legislation, including child labor.

Agricultural Division Has Various Jobs

Main Duty is Inspection Of Foods Preceding Public's Use

Those of us who think of the state department of agriculture as concerned only with farmers and their problems would be surprised to know how greatly this one division of our state government affects every student at Florida State College for Women.

Before we eat oranges and grapefruit for breakfast they must have been passed by citrus fruit inspectors as being mature, not damaged by frost or freeze, and free of anemic.

The cows that produce the milk we drink at lunch time have all been tested for tuberculosis, and the dairy has been regularly inspected by officials and inspectors of the state board of health under the authorization of the department of agriculture.

Samples of butter, canned meats, fruits and vegetables, bread and other bakery products, pickles and vinegar must be examined by the food analysts in the state laboratories before they are offered for sale.

Aside from the inspection work, the agricultural department has other duties, which concern us less directly but all of which help in the smooth machine of government run. Some of these duties are: supervision of all matters pertaining to public lands, maintenance of bureau of immigration, supervision of state prison, and operation of a state marketing bureau.

Presbyterian Students To Sign Up By Tonight For Big Ravine Outing

Tomorrow afternoon the Presbyterian Student league will go on a hike to the "big ravine." All those who wish to go must be signed up on the Presbyterian bulletin board on the lower floor of the Administration building by tonight.

At their regular six o'clock fellowship meeting Sunday night the league will present slides showing mission stations in Africa and missionaries at work. Lillie McCuire has charge of this meeting.

Next Friday afternoon from 4 to 6:30 Miss Rachael Wylie, the Presbyterian student director, will hold open house for all Presbyterian students, their friends, and relatives.

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE
ANNUAL SALE
NOW ON IN FULL SWING

Celebrating our third birthday party with the greatest avalanche of bargains ever offered in Tallahassee. It will be wise for you to shop at Linden's, especially during this sale. The savings will be great and go far to assist the students of Florida State College in the purchase of fine wearing apparel and shoes within the limits of your budget.

Student Group Plans Services

Methodists Will Present Program Concerning Thanksgiving

Special Thanksgiving services are planned by the Methodist student group for this Sunday. Miss Winnie Lee Davis, students secretary, will speak on "The Gift of Appreciation" at the regular Sunday school services, and a Thanksgiving program on "The Blessing of Work" will be featured at the league meeting Sunday night. A representative mother, teacher, student, business man, farmer, and minister will give three-minute talks, bringing out the blessings derived from various phases of the work of each.

Sunday night the Methodist student drama group will present "The Whirlwind," a temperance play written by Dorothy Clarke Wilson. The cast will be as follows: Janet Worth, a nurse, Sara Lewis; Clara Preston, a young society matron, Dora Helen Bagsgoti; Henry Preston, her husband, Tom Humphress; Neil Lawrence, a young surgeon, Robert Pearce. The play will be given at the regular Sunday night services, at which time the students choir will also offer two numbers. League supper will be served at the student house at 6:30 o'clock this week, according to an announcement by Mrs. Davis.

Conradi Attends Meeting

Next week-end President E. G. Conradi and his daughter, Miss Louise Conradi, will attend the meeting of the Southern association of colleges and secondary schools, which will be held in Richmond, Va.

Last week-end, Dr. Conradi and Dr. M. R. Hinson attended the state committee meeting of that association, which was held in Gainesville.

Games, Swimming And Dances Form Program

Continued from page three

plan of using girls will be followed here.

The tap classes will appear in costumed routines which include couple, individual and group dances learned this year. Among the dances will be the following: "Topsy," "School Days," "Row, Row, Row Your Boat," a round dance, "Dixie," "Suwannee," "Shundig," "Yankee Doodle," and "Hill Billies."

At noon the swimming carnival will take place in the swimming pool. It will be in the form of a tournament, the Carnoi, in which the pool will be decorated to resemble a throne room. Ruth Wilson will be the queen, and four teams will come before the queen to win her favor.

The teams are made up of the following girls: Blue team: Nell Colvin, Thelma Norlin, Ermine Lawrence, Frances Brunson, Dorothy Scott, Eleanor Freer, Nancy Rogers, Sarah Adams, and Betsy Lewis. Red team: Doc Rickards, Pat Campbell, Lou Hughes, Martha Moore, Margaret Maxwell, and Annie Jennings. Green team: Connie Ash, Dorothy Marwick, Betty Blackbrooch, August Glendenning, Virginia Raven, Dana Jane Stambaugh, Gladys Peacock and Ruth Whaley. Black team: Margaret Walcott, Evelyn Edwards, Sarah Hilson, Erma Endel, Virginia Makemson, Ernestine Makemson, and Martha Rosenbush.

Frances Thill is general chairman. Valerie Hunt and Yvonne Marchesseau are in charge of events. Ruth Agnes McClain, of programs. Ruth Wilson, of properties. Evelyn Edwards, of music, and Betty Oglund, script reader and writer.

The queen will be attended by Florence Ward, Martha Makemson, and Kathryn Rawls. Beth Deane, Marian Weeks, Odenette Zuschweri, and Ruth Agnes McClain will be flower girls.

The carnival will be concluded with all the teams diving, and a final formation in which all swam breast stroke with garnet and gold balloons.

DUKE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF NURSING

DURHAM, N. C.

The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years and the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing for two additional years of approved college work before or after this nursing course. The entrance requirements are intelligence, character and graduation from an acceptable high school; preference is given for one or more years of successful college work. The tuition is $100 per year which includes all cost of maintenance, uniforms, etc.

Catalogues and application forms which must be filed before August first for admission September, thirtieth, may be obtained from the Dean.

Dining Room Gives Table Arrangement

Miss Anna May Tracy, dietitian, has announced the arrangements for Thanksgiving tables. Blanks may be procured, she said, for filling table lists from the dining hall desk at any time. These blanks, properly filled out, with guest tickets attached, may be left at the dining hall desk any time after breakfast Friday. When all lists have been checked table assignments will be posted on bulletin board in the dining room arcades. Students who have already signed for the 12:30 o'clock dinner will not need to do anything further about tables. The assignments for these tables will be posted on the bulletin board.

Speaker Shows Fading Affect of War Today

Continued from page one

Fascist strikes in France and precipitate the later crisis.

Demand Peace

Mr. Ratcliffe stated that while the people were demanding peace, and while on the surface Germany and Italy seemed right in line with the attempt of Great Britain to keep peace in Europe, both the Fascist and the Nazi government had been slipping help to the rebels. Portugal, on the other hand, openly refused to fall in with the non-intervention policies of Great Britain and rebels have been obtaining supplies through the open Portuguese ports. The speaker concludes from these facts that non-intervention is not the practical way to face the situation now at hand.

Momentarily adopting a bitter mood concerning world affairs the Englishman said that "victories of

Twins Arrange Entertainment

Nine Pairs Take Part In Chapel Program This Week

The chapel entertainment Tuesday was a student talent program given by eight pairs of twins enrolled in the college.

Althea Lloyd led the devotionals and her sister Alberta gave the religious current event. Jane and Jerry Crook were the mistresses of ceremony. Merryday and Julia Rosser played Schubert's "Serenade" as a violin and flute duet. Jane Hubbard played "Song in the night," an organ solo and "Moonglow" was harmonized by Anita and Sally Walder.

The last number, "It's Terrible to be Twins," was sung by Althea and Alberta Lloyd, Lulu Bell and Lola Dell Hopkins, Jane and Jerry Crooks, Owen and Jerry Knapp, Ernestine and Virginia Makemson and the twins who had already taken part on the program.

Next week a Thanksgiving program will be given at the convocation hour.

Sponsorship of Drive For Red Cross Funds Undertaken by Corps

The annual Red Cross drive, which is being sponsored on campus this year by the Life Saving corps, will last through Thanksgiving, according to an announcement by Margaret Holway, chairman of the drive.

While a great increase over last year's subscriptions is expected, it is hoped that a hundred per cent membership will be reached. Any contribution of a dime or more entitles one to a Red Cross button, and a dollar buys full membership.

Each dormitory has appointed a chairman who has responsibility for the membership in her hall and who appoints workers to help her collect contributions. Chairmen are as follows: Jennie Murphree, Micky Hearon; Broward, Evelyn Edwards; Gilchrist, Nancy Williamson; Bryan, Marcia Ranney and Patty Barringer; off-campus, Mary Boatwright; faculty drive, Bunny Lowery; publicity, Jane and Barbara Hubbard.

civilizations are only a thin veneer" and "the age in which we live is as capable of barbaric action as any age through which the world has passed."

Going back to the European situation again, Mr. Ratcliffe said that the French fear of aggression will only be increased if the rebels are victorious in Spain, for France is the only democratic country left on the continent. If the rebels win, that will line up Spain with the German-Italian forces.

The speaker admitted that at first the conservative Tories of Great Britain had supported Fascism, for they believe it to be a form of nationalism only. Now, however, they have discovered the mistake and they realize that Fascism challenges all Europe.

At present, of course, the Mediterranean situation is the real sore spot in world affairs as far as Great Britain is concerned, for she fears that if the Mediterranean-Suez Canal route to her Eastern colonies and trading posts is closed by the three Fascist powers, she will have to resort to the old Cape of Good Hope route. A British seaport on the Mediterranean may soon be a thing of the past, according to the trend of events in the immediate future.

The Tories, however, think that this would make little difference to the attitude of the English possessions toward the mother country.

In his message of November,

Bat Points Moral In Sunday Sermon

Through the usual quiet of Sunday afternoon came a peculiar, flapping noise from a room on the third floor of Broward hall.

The eyes of the students occupying the room were filled on a trunk. Suddenly from behind the trunk hopped a two-legged animal. Amidst explanations of "ha, how cute" a student announced "Why, it's a bat" and screams rent the air from all directions.

The bat hopped out of the room and paid several unwelcomed visits down the hall before it was finally caught and placed in a cookie jar. It was donated to the zoology department and died sometime Sunday night. However, as the zoology department had only two stuffed bats, it was easier to claim even a successful bat for as very own.

Moral: Sweep behind your trunk.

Prime Minister Baldwin of England failed to mention the League. Mr. Ratcliffe explained. Previous to this time Anthony Eden had been declaring that England was behind the League. Even the Labor party in England did not oppose Baldwin's failure to mention the League, however, for Great Britain is now faced with the proposition of avoiding the conflict between the two rapidly forming European camps. It is up to the English to found a sounder basis for peace than the League now is.

"I am one of those who hold that no war is inevitable until it is begun," Mr. Ratcliffe said. "If the dictators force the issue there is no doubt that Great Britain will be forced to uphold France and

Abbey Represents FSC At Annual Conference Of Historical Society

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey represented the college at the annual meeting of the Florida Historical society in Gainesville, Tuesday, at which Dr. Dorothy Dodd was a guest speaker. Dr. Dodd is assistant regional director of the survey of federal archives.

Dr. Philip M. Hamer, chief of the library division, national archives in Washington, delivered the principal address, speaking on "The Importance of Preservation of State Archives." Another feature of the meeting was a display of rare Floridiana loaned for the occasion by various local historical societies. Among these was the Journal of Richard Keith Call, former governor of Florida, recently purchased from his great-granddaughter living in Tallahassee. Governor Call lived for many years in Tallahassee, and his former home is now the Grove hotel.

Rough Peace become allied with Russia." But the speaker went on to say that events and not mind will make the final decision in the present crisis.

Strikes Cheerful Note

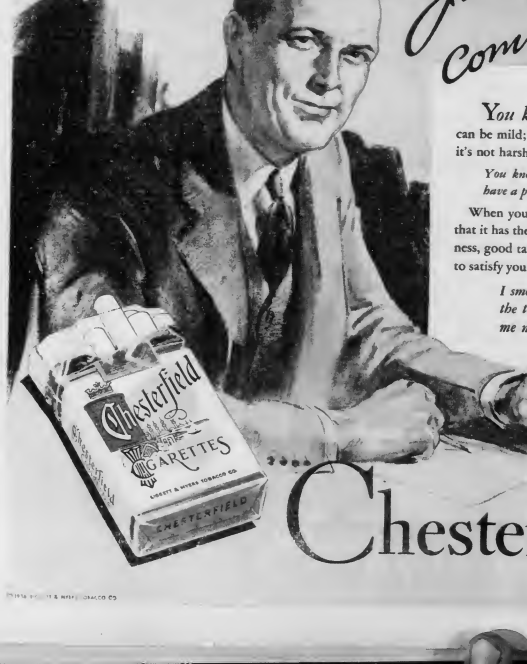
Striking a more cheerful note, Mr. Ratcliffe brought his speech nearer home for listeners when he referred to the recent election with the comment that the results show America's desire to keep out of war." He thinks that no nation can oppose America's stand on the subject.

In conclusion Mr. Ratcliffe placed most of the responsibility for the maintenance of world peace upon the English-speaking peoples, saying that "peace would be counted by all of us the crowning mercy of the age."

In addition to his lecture last night Mr. Ratcliffe will lecture several times today and Monday.

Alligator is Cause Of Pi Phis' Worries

A baby alligator, christened "Sammy," brought back from Gainesville last week-end as a surprise gift to the Pi Phi house, has caused many more surprises since his arrival.



At present Sammy has a sore throat and he won't eat. As the "Baby Care Book" makes no provisions for the diet of baby alligators, the girls have been puzzled as to what to feed him. All attempts in using the Trial and Error method have proved to be unsuccessful. Sammy simply will not eat. There has been a report from an unofficial source that alligators only eat in February and July, and until next year the theory can't be proved.

In the meantime Sammy seems to consider himself a permanent resident at the Pi Phi house, and has reserved the hearth for his sole use.

Members of classes in political science, history, English, economics, and sociology will form a nucleus for these talks, but all faculty members and students are invited to attend.

The lecture times arranged so far include: 10:30 today, Augusta Conradi theater; 11:30 and 2:30, 203 Administration building. The speaker will be the guest of the economics department at lunch today and will have dinner at the home of Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews tonight. Monday, Mr. Ratcliffe will talk to journalism students at 9:30 o'clock in 203 Administration building, possibly upon the subject, "The Social Influence of the Press." At 11:30 he will address the Shakespeare class of Dr. William O. Dodd, and will give his last talk at 2:30, these last two meetings also to take place in 203 Administration building.

Dr. Edward O. Conradi will have Mr. Ratcliffe as his guest for lunch Monday, and then at o'clock, the lecturer will be of honor, at an International lations club reception in Bro club rooms.

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH PRICED AT $10.50

Photo by MISS ELEANOR HUNT

The Vogue

ANOTHER EXACT PICTURE OF ONE OF OUR SCREEN GUIDE FASHIONS.

MISS ELEANOR HUNT

The Vogue

Don't Forget Dance
In Gym Climaxing Week-end
Tomorrow Night

MISS VELMA COTEN,
% LIBRARY - F.S.C.W.,
TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, November 27, 1936

VOLUME XXIV. NUMBER NINE

We Hope "Parents' Day"
Was a Success for All Concerned
And Welcome It Next Year

Time And The Grand Odd Party Take Bow

Pansy Petunia Plant Wins Victory Assurances In Demonstrations

Solon

EVENCRATS FEEL BACK-SEAT JOLT

Teams Announced After Ballot Box Vote Between Acts

Even Spirit Spans The Ages from Oddum To Mars-Men

BOWERY DANCING PROVES BIG HIT

Basketball and Volleyball Squads Made Known In Last Scene

"Time Marches On!"
Cast Turned

Running against the Evencrats the Grand Odd Party presented their presidential candidate, Pansy Petunia Plant, a Florida college girl, in a political demonstration held Wednesday night in the college auditorium.

Swing Election

To "swing" the election, the Odds, under the direction of their campaign manager, Hamilton, planned a platform, containing a plank that would suit every voter in the United States. To demonstrate how promises was to be kept, revues that would please all the people were given. For the political heads in Washington, an Uncle Sam dance routine was presented and Lolly Pond did a sane "Stars in My Eyes" for the opera lovers. At this moment, a mysterious, sinister-looking figure, entered who was called the Forgetful Woman. Madam Hibernate and her xylophone came next, followed by the baby-kissing act during which Father, carrying on with her campaign, complimented the mothers and blamed the babies.

Scene Is Changed

The second act, changing from the campaign headquarters to the ruby, opened with a farmerette fencing dance took Arthur's mind from politics.

Shakespeare At West

Shakespeare at his worst came next, as Antonius, his girl, his colstanding plays, mingled together against a background of idealized objects. A country dance concluded the revue.

Time marched on to the American revolution and the days of the Civil War. Patrick Henry's cry, "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death" and "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address were given by Jo Binion, and there followed the Revue Extravaganza, presented with vivacious playing and voices singing the "Song of Love," and a finale on show featuring the debutantes. The act ended with the curtain and a beautiful dance.

Continued on page two

Dallies Frantz Performs Here

Artist Series to Bring American Pianist Friday Night

Dallies Frantz, American pianist, will be heard here next Friday evening at the second concert in the first artist series program.

Frantz is said to be an example of what may be achieved by a gifted musician who means and who fully assails himself of the free advantages offered in America by public appearances. He won the competition which was opened for non appearance with the Detroit Symphony orchestra of which Ossip Gabrilowitsch was director. Aiming at a New York debut recital he entered the Musicians Emergency Aid competition which carried this opportunity with it. Again, although there were 100 entrants, Frantz won. From this time on he has risen to take his place in the musical circles of the world.

Frantz holds up his program with studied care, weighing each number and the next one to follow. Rarely is he moved by any emotion to break that continuity, but leaves all serious until the entire program is finished. It has been said that the two favorite composers of the pianist, Brahms and Chopin and Brahms. The contrasting of the one and the emotional depths of the other have found appeal to Frantz. "But," he adds, "I am fond of all the classics."

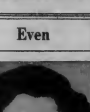
Frantz is a favorite, it has been said, with college audiences. He has studied a few years ago from the University of Michigan with highest honors. He earned his way through school and university by his own efforts.

Odd and Even Superstitions Permeate Thanksgiving Time

Drawing for Demonstration Nights is One Chief Rivalry Features Handed Down From Former Years

By LUCY KELLY

Although all American colleges celebrates Parents' day this year instead of the usual Homecoming, traditions connected with the Thanksgiving celebration and Florida State superstitions will permeate the festivities.



Since the beginning of Oddeven rivalry one of the chief superstitions is the drawing of the numbers which will determine which The wearers of the green and gold plume, the feathers of the red, white and blue, the demonstration nights the fatal "night" is drawn. The Odds and Evens will "dress" the winning the draw to have their demonstration. Wednesday night will also be lucky on the basketball and volleyball courts on Thursday afternoon.

Another superstition prevalent among members of the Odd group is that if a penny is found bearing an odd date before the day of the games the Odds will be victorious on that day.

The two main buildings of contention, the Administration and the Library and the dining room.

Continued on page four

Even

Phil Asher, who was chairman of "The March of Time," the Even demonstration given Tuesday night. Fred is a junior.

Series Close With Informal Speech Monday

Ratcliffe Explains Why England Countenances Italian Campaign

S K. Ratcliffe, British lecturer and journalist, ended a series of talks lectures at this college with an informal address to members of the International Relations club, Monday afternoon at 4:30 in the Union. The series was begun Thursday evening in the Augusta Conrad Studio when Mr. Ratcliffe spoke on the position of Great Britain in the Concert of Today.

Friday at 10:30 he talked of the dole system in England, discussing trusts in that country and the anglish Worker, the conditions of his life, and his possibilities for security. At 11:30 the same morning, he had as his topic the government of England. He explained its workings and told of the various political parties.

At 2:30 Friday afternoon, Mr. Ratcliffe spoke on the subject of Britain and the League. The history of one-way trade and the dangers of the present desire for complete self-sufficiency, explaining that Britain's interdependence on other areas one of the factors which kept her for so long in the free trade column.

The Social Influences of the Press" was Mr. Ratcliffe's subject at 8:30 Monday morning. In his development of the topic, he traced the growth of the newspaper from its beginnings to the present publications of the past to the present large journals. He sees the forces of the newspaper declining as the editorial department abdicates its responsibility in favor of the advertisers; but he believes that the newspaper, edited with signed columns by independent thinkers will make up for the deficiency. These columns will become the molders of public opinion

Continued on page two

Sigma Kappa's Receive Award For Decoration

Display Features Battle For Wishbone Among Odds and Evens

PRIZE ALSO WON BY THETA HOUSE

Thanksgiving Motif Used By Many Sororities In Competition

For the third successive year the Sigma Kappa house has won first place in the sorority house decorations. Kappa Kappa Alpha Theta taking second place.

On one side of the lawn at the Sigma Kappa house is the large wishbone, pulled on one side by an Even man and on the other by an Odd, while opposite this was placed a huge slate, strung across the top with letters for beads, showing in its "Memo" for November 26 of the Thanksgiving day program. A large piece of chalk hung at the side. Connected with the wishbone by the slate to the house were various colored streamers. Pumpkins met at the top of the entrances.

Spirits Featured

The four pumpkins of the Odds and the spirit of the Evens were featured on the Theta house. Kappa Alpha Theta porch, while on the lawn were an Even pole and an Odd one, each covered with colored balloons. "Welcome Friends" was lettered on the sides of the door, and a lighted pumpkin lamp hung from the entrance. Fall flowers completed the above.

Above the entrance of the Chi Omega house was the lighted emblem of the sorority, while just below was "Welcome Friends" lighted. The pillars of the porch were draped in red and gold, while on the lawn were sheaths held together by the Even and Odd colors.

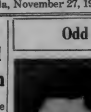
The Alpha Chi Omega sorority house was decorated with "Welcome Parents and Friends" in bunches red letters across the length of the porch. On the lawn is a basket ball, with P.S.C.W. printed

(Continued on Page Seven)

Many Carvings Will Be Shown

Exhibit Collected From Various Galleries For Colleges

An exhibition of twenty-five selected prints will be shown in 307 Administration building from December 1 to December 15. The pieces in this exhibit were collected by the College Print Guild from various art galleries, artists collections, and other private collections for the purpose of sending them to be exhibited in colleges over the country.



There are twenty-two sculptors and seven different nationalities, including: Italian, Russian, French, Spanish, Russian, German, and American. Each will be represented in this collection. The pieces on exhibit are done in bronze, iron, wood and stone.

The exhibit includes a dove and a home built by a bird, carving a head in bronze by Harold Cash, a torso in mahogany by Fletcher Clark, Parrish in bronze by Allen Clark, baby in wood by Jon Corazos, Portrait of Dr. Albert Einstein in granite by Jose Decreff, Horse in bronze by Heinz Dieckhan, Head in Stone John Flannagan, Couple by Flores, Girl Reading by Gaston Lachaise, Jungle Pran in Bronze by Geo. Kolbe, Girl with the Braided Hair by Gaston Lachaise, Polynesia by Boris Lovet Lorski, Couple by Mordones Manzana, standing figure and crouching figure by Aristide Maillol, Couple by Jorge Martinez Abstraction by Isham Noyachi, Dr. Rank by Chana Orloff, head by Judith Salomon, Head by Augusta Hans Warneke, Howling Monkey by Alley Woolf, and Drummer by an anonymous sculptor.

Recital Will Be Given

Announcement comes from Dean Ella Scobie Opperman's office that the first of the season's student recitals in the School of Music will be given in the auditorium on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Odd

Marjorie Tittle who was chairman of the Odd demonstration given Wednesday night and which was entitled "The Grand Odd Party." Marjorie is a senior.

State Science Group Honor Given To Tilt

13 Members of Faculty Attend Annual Meet Held in DeLand

At the annual meeting of the Florida Academy of Sciences, held in DeLand last Friday and Saturday, Dr. Jennie Tilt, professor of physiological chemistry and nutrition at Florida State college, was elected vice president of the organization. She succeeds H. C. Williamson, professor of physics at the University of Florida.

Dr. H. H. Hume, also of Gainesville, was elected president of the group for the coming year, taking the place of Dr. Herman Kurz, who has been holding this office. J. H. Kumer, University of Florida, and J. F. W. Pearson, University of Miami, were reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Edward F. St. John, of Floral City, was appointed chairman of the biological sciences section and Dr. J. E. Spurr, of Rollins, chairman of the physical sciences department.

At the business session of the meeting, held Saturday at the conclusion of the presentation of the scientific papers, the academy instructed the executive council to prepare a resolution urging the establishment of the Everglades National park as soon as possible.

Members of the Florida State college faculty who attended the meeting are: Dr. Herman Kurz, Miss Ruth Schoenherz, and Miss Irene Bickle of the botany department; Dr. Leland Lewis, Miss Isabel McKinnell, Miss Gertrude Vermillion, and Dr. Jennie Tilt of the chemistry department; Dr. Ruth Graham of the physiology department; Dr. Raymond Bellamy, head of the psychology department; Dr. Sarah White, college physician; Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of psychology; Dean H. M. Bailey, and Dr. Edward Conradi.

President is Invited To Make Radio Speech

Dr. Edward Conradi received an invitation from Mrs. Franklin Mc-Lawson, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, to make a thirty minute radio talk on the federation's program to be broadcast next spring.

The federation's slogan and national program for this year is Education for Living. Several colleague presidents have been asked to talk on this subject, with special reference to the work that their colleges are doing in this field.

Dr. Conradi will go to Washington, D. C., to make the broadcast.

N. S. F. A. To Hold Forum On Campus Rush System

Rushing, the present system and a proposed deferred system, will be discussed at the next N. S. F. A. Forum which will be held in the lecture room of the education building next Tuesday at 7:30.

In the debate Jean Lykes and Phil Asher will take the side of immediate rushing and Miriam Harrold and Cody Wynn will uphold the case for deferred rushing.

First Parents' Day Program Is Inaugurated At F.S.C.W.

Debate Plans Are Made With Georgia Girls

Phil Asher Takes Charge Of Arrangements With State Institution

Arrangements for meeting the Georgia State College for Women in a debate during the latter part of March are a part of extensive plans for the reorganization of the debating movement as Florida State college has gone under the direction of Phil Asher, chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Thompson, instructor in speech.

Phil has planned a committee of three to assist with the team. The members of the committee will include a sophomore to aid Miss Thompson, a junior to take charge of the secretarial duties of the group and to advise the bulletin board matters, and a senior who will work with the upperclassman section. Also there will be a freshmen will meet Thursday at 11:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

Besides making arrangements for an exchange of teams with Georgia, Florida State and Women the debating club expects to have two teams to enter the debaters here in April. In addition to a series of class debates will be held in the debating club.

Phil has posted a list of books on debating in the College Government bulletin board and requests that all prospective debaters look over two or three of these books if they expect to work on for the team. All students are eligible for membership.

Mrs. Ratcliffe Speaks To Psychology Class About Nursery Schools

Mrs. S. K. Ratcliffe, wife of the British lecturer who was here last week, talked before the class in child psychology last Monday morning.

She spoke of the beginning and development of the nursery school in England. Her talk included one in the Misses Margaret and Rachel McMillan's nursery school, Mrs. Ratcliffe explained the fact that the early nursery schools were for the benefit of underprivileged children.

Students Will Get Tickets to Series

This year a new plan has been devised in regard to the issuing of tickets for the Artist Series. All students Artist Series tickets will be given out at the college book store beginning Monday morning.

It is doubly important this year that students call as early as possible as the student organization has made plans for issuing numbered reserved seat tickets to all students who will call at the auditorium box office the day before or on the day of each Artist Series concert. All programs will begin at 7:45.

AAUW To Give Carnival Here At Gymnasium

Affair Will Benefit Fund Of Annual Scholarship Endowment

Next Saturday night the local chapter of the American Association of University Women will present a carnival in the physical education building for the benefit of its scholarship fund, which is to be awarded to some student of this college. This carnival will include side shows and booths and a parade of miniature floats, and the coronation of a king and queen.

Miss Etta Robertson, director of the girls club, will officially open the carnival with a grand parade. During the carnival a parade of floats will be led by the college orchestra under the direction of Walter Fabisinski, who is leader. Anyone may enter floats in this parade, provided they are no longer than four feet. Registrations of all the side shows will also be included in the parade.

The side shows will consist of a display of freaks in charge of Miss Sally Richardson including a bearded lady, a miracle man, and various other kinds of freaks and a chamber of horrors under the direction of Dr. Enda May Devitney; a hula dancer presented by Miss Martha Chapman; palm reading by Miss Penelope Pennington; telling from cards by Dr. Anna Forbes Ladell; motion pictures under Miss Mary House and Peggy; and a fish pond.

The tickets, costing ten cents, will entitle admission to be given a present on entering. These tickets may be obtained from the college book store or from students. Mrs. Lorene Coates is in charge of "from the bones you didn't receive from home," will be on sale during the carnival.

Demonstration Themes Vary From Performance in Past

Pirate Treasure Stories and Murder Mysteries Now Give Place to Political Satire And Futuristic Motifs

By BETTY SPICER

The Odd and Even demonstrations which have been held for the past three years have varied and interesting themes.

This year we find the Evens presenting a political satire which is centered around the march of time through the years beginning with Adam and Eve up to the present. The odds are presenting a futuristic picture of their candidate for the Grand Odd Party, Pansy Petunia Plant.

Last year the Odds presented an "Odd Murder Mystery." The Evens were narrowing but the Odds came out the victor in the end. The Evens presented scenes into the activities of an Even doll who was a "Sleeping Beauty in Dreamland." The doll was Lady Luck and bestowed her favors upon the Even team in a stirring climax.

In 1934 the Evens were found in Egypt. In this Oriental setting the Evens fought their way to the top. The Odds were experiencing difficulties with their protege, Alice Odd, one of the Seven Dwarfs, who was lost and was disillusioned upon finding out that the so-called high-brows played poker and drank. However, the Odds came out victors when she fell in love, and she found true happiness in the end.

In 1933 the Odds presented their demonstration against a historical background. The Evens were beginning with Indian days, then Colonial days in contrast with the present day which followed. Weir the Even gave a Treasure Hunt at his humble lodge. The Odds presented on his yacht, and in spite of the Odd element trying to spoil their fun, they found the treasure in the end.

In 1932 the Evens were the poorer for the theft of ringless fingers from the audience, but the Evens but finally achieved its restoration. The same year the Odd Expeditionary Force crossed the ocean liner and set out to retrieve the isle of trumpets and to rescue Glory Wynn who was captured the year before.

In 1931 the red, white and purple shirted subjects of King Oddwin of the Kingdom of Flastacria rescued him and his Princess of Baalcon from the clutches of Princess Evensky and his green

Continued on page two

1936 Homecoming Gives Way to Festivities For Visitors

ODD-EVEN SPIRIT IS CONSPICUOUS

Entertainment Will Close Tomorrow Night With Dance in Gym

With hundreds of parents and alumnae gathered on the campus of Florida State college for the annual Thanksgiving festivities, the first Parents' Days program will come to a close Saturday night with a dance in the gymnasium. The week has been marked by a series of traditional events — demonstrations, color rushes, pranks, outrages, the Thanksgiving dinner and various social entertainments.

Parents Entertained

Although the Thanksgiving spirit is the guiding principle given way in great part to entertainment of parents, the Odd-Even rivalry has been one of its prime petitas. Enthusiasm for the traditional volleyball and basketball games yesterday when the Evens triumphed in both instances ran high. The college entertained parents and alumnae joined in friendly rivalry during the two-group contests, to be blended into the spirit of parents' day.

The yellow and gold of the Evens and the red, white and purple of the Odds was conspicuous in the elaborate decorations of sorority houses, dormitories and outside displays about the campus. Huge bows of the two colors, accompanied by hundreds of corsages, were hung on the doors of the Odd and Even dormitories. Even Oddity and Odd arm bands were worn

(Continued on Page Seven)

Two Lecturers Expected Here

Coyle and Eddy Signed For Speeches During Second Semester

David Cushman Coyle, consulting engineer in New York City who specializes in governmental building construction, will speak to the students at this college, Feb. 24, on the subject "Planning for Prosperity."

During the past few years Mr. Coyle has been writing extensively on the economic crisis and the New Deal from the engineering point of view. During 1931-1934 he was a consultant to the housing division, a member of the technical board of review in the Public Works administration at Washington, and a consultant to the National Planning board.

Sherwood Eddy, one of the greatest of international lecturers, will speak at this college March 3, and will conclude the series of lectures scheduled for this year. Dr. Eddy will be a minister of wide Distinction and the author of twenty volumes on international economic, social and religious questions, has just returned from a tour of the Near East and Europe and will speak on the topic "The Meaning of the Present Crisis."

Dr. Eddy graduated from Yale in 1901 and in 1904 went to India. After fifteen years' work among the students of India he was called to the international task for the Y. M. C. A. and was for many years secretary of that Y. M. C. A. in conducting meetings for students throughout the continent.

Education Dean Visits Jacksonville Schools

Dr. Nathaniel Moss Bailey, dean of the School of Education, has returned from a trip during which he visited the public schools of Jacksonville and attended the meeting of the Florida Academy of Sciences to which he has recently been elected.

The annual meeting of the Academy was held at Stetson university in DeLand. While there Dean Bailey visited many of the teachers and officers of the university.

Thanksgiving Church Group Services Held

Student Organizations Observe Holiday With Services

Student church organizations observed Thanksgiving with special early morning worship services at the various churches in town this week. Members of the Baptist student union conducted a short Thanksgiving service at the Baptist church at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, with Sara Ruthledge in charge of devotionals and musical students held open house at Sugg Hall for members and friends Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The Methodist group plans to leave this afternoon for a canoe grinding and wiener roast with members of the local league in Tallahassee. Regular Sunday school services at the student house will be continued this week with Miss Winnie Lee Davis offering another in her series of talks on "What May A Student Believe?" Members of the Methodist choir will meet for rehearsals every afternoon next week from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock in preparation for the Christmas vespers program which will be given on December 6 at the Methodist church.

Baptist students will meet at 6 o'clock tonight in the music annex for an important business session. The business meeting will be followed by a message to be given by Miss Sherry Mc Kay. Reynolds Oliver, president, asked that all officers be present at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the social committee of the Episcopal student group were hostesses to parents and faculty members Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at the hall. Helen Daniel was in charge. Tonight the students plan to give another in their series of Friday night after-dinner coffees, receiving guests at 7:30.

The Right Reverend Frank A Juhan, O. D. Bishop of Florida, will perform the confirmation services at St. John's Episcopal church at 11 o'clock on the Sunday morning. The following students will become members of the church at that time: Blanton Barrett, Martha Lee, Alma McKelvey, Lucille Sutton, Betty Jane Brown, Eugenia Munnerlyn, Julia Munnerlyn, Mary Hardaway, and Mary F. Harlow. Bishop Juhan will also speak Sunday evening at Sugg Hall on "Christian Manhood."

Episcopal students will go to camp next week-end, announced Miss Julia Gehan, student director. All students wishing to attend are requested to sign up at Sugg Hall this week. In charge of committees for the week-end will be Mildred Seeking, program, and Peggy Ann Reid, food.

Pansy Petunia Plant Wins Odd Victory

Continued from page one

ery year's party platform had been stolen.

The Gamm came to the rescue, but found little clues until the T-girls were called out for inspiration. The mystery was finally solved by William Randy Gamm who revealed that Mr. Forgotten Woman of the Everrists had stolen the platform and assumed that his intentions to support Pansy in the election. At the conclusion of the demonstration, the Great Odd party, certain of victory, marched down the aisle singing praises of their candidate, a graduate of Florida State college.

Committees Named

The Odd demonstration committees were as follows: general chairman, Marjorie Tillis; dance, Josephine Bimini; dance music, Evelyn Lockwood, Betty Cashen, Dot Colburn, Roberta Diamond; script, Eleanor Williams, Daisy Parker, Arline Gray Lockhart, Virginia Earle; publicity, Polly Flint; costume directors, Jean Gillies, Emily Olson, Lucille Johnson, Margaret Walcott, Roberta Diamond, Polly Barringer, Jane Upton.

Dramatic directors, Betty Elliott; stage manager, Maxine Ward; stage committee, Marian Herbert, Eloise Moeller, Betty McMullen, Carolyn Boyd; business manager, Sarah Beth Devlin; make-up, Frances Lingle; rehearsals, Betty Hatch; programs, Mary Kathryn Gibson; usher, Jean Clarke; lights, Barbara and Jane Holloway, Eloise Troxel; properties, Betty Harrison; publicity, Dorothy McLean; pianists, Tad Goodwin, Sara Frances Gallant, Mary Emnes, Jean Zachariar.

In the Odd cast were: Betty Wynn, Hazel Bowman, Virginia Early, Anoa Olen, Winifred Exner, Catherine McCarry, Emile Mac Lockwood Nancy Rodgers, Elizabeth Hardy, Edith Manford, Eleanor Gibbs, Margaret Cooper, Myrtle Wilson, Beauford Thruver, Florine Morris, Martha Kennedy, Marion Herbert, Margaret Tyler, Beth Deane, Marian Wade, Madge Deane.

Dancers, Josephine Bimini, Janet Lockwood, Betty Cashen, Dot Colburn, Roberta Diamond, Evelyn Anderson, Jane Sutton, Anne Pruitt, Dee Carroll, Lorina Spaulding, Helen Ballenger, Helen Tyler, Marian Heger, Peggy Merrill, Helen Murphy, Becky Ashton, Freddie Frink, Virginia Perry, Betty Barringer, Dot Barr, Ruth Cleveland, Mary Emilie Parker, Edith Stanley, Melvyn Brooks, Doris Goddard, Elizabeth Lounds, Peggy Jackson, Virginia Chamberlain, Anne Laura Sanchez, Claire Sanchez, Esther O'Byrne, Winifred Hill, Peggy McKichan, Jean Clarke, Arline Gray Lockhart, Dot Campbell, Betty Hatch, Helen Dennis, Anne Ladd, Lutrelle Patterson, Jane Sharon, Betty Harrison, Sunny Dell.

Violin trio, Betty Parker, Evelyn Anderson, Annabelle Lawson; singers, Marian Carson, Marian Herbert, Marie Spurlock, Charlotte Yelch, Evelyn Patterson, Maxine Ward.

FOR A WELL-GROOMED APPEARANCE GET YOUR
Shampoos, Sets and Permanents
at
The Powder Puff Beauty Shop
108 No. Adams St. Phone 656

Retiring

Dr. Herman Kurz, professor of botanical science, concluded his work as first president of the Florida Academy of Sciences at the DeLand meeting last week.

Two Countries Are Compared By Ratcliffe

Speaker Gives Interview Preceding Thursday Night Lecture

In an interview, previous to his talk on "How Britain Confronts Modern Europe," Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe, British journalist, stated that the English and American colleges were quite similar, with probably two exceptions, these being the less a minority of football, and the numerous fraternities and sororities typical of most of our colleges.

Football is played in England, but is far more amateurish than any other activity. In every town there are large recreational grounds where, theoretically everyone goes out for athletics, while only a minority of Americans actually participate in sports.

Education is not as popular there as in the United States. Only a small per cent of secondary school students ever go on, a great many more scholarships are available, than exist in this country.

Upon being asked how the English people felt about the rumored marriage of their king, Mr. Ratcliffe said that they had never heard of Mrs. Simpson. Nothing about the affair has ever been printed in that country. Only a few members of society, and the labor party, know anything about it, and they seem to be attaching no importance to it.

Mr. Ratcliffe is a well known journalist and lecturer in the English speaking world. He has been associated with such publications as the London News, the Nation, the New Statesman, the Observer, and the Contemporary Review. In Calcutta he was editor of the Statesman, a paper which has the largest circulation and influence of any in India.

For a number of years he has lectured every winter under the auspices of the London University Extension Board. He has lectured many times at Columbia university, Yale university, and Cornell university.

Mr. Ratcliffe has a wide acquaintance with the statesmen of the day, the House of Commons and the leaders of thought and action outside of Parliament.

Andrews Gives Guidance Talk

Opportunities in Field Of Personnel Get Consideration

Preparation and opportunities for personnel work were discussed by Dr. Elizabeth O. Andrews in a vocational guidance talk given recently.

As an introduction, Dr. Andrews mentioned the beginning of personnel work during the World war and named three more important branches: industrial, educational, and child welfare. Under the first branch, she included department store positions and positions in the manufacturing concerns. The federal service was a new opening established by the federal relief project.

Preparation, except for minor jobs, required a general college education with emphasis on psychology. Business and statistics were valuable, she said, for all branches whereas economics and labor problems added especially the industrialists.

Training for personnel work was offered at most institutions. Minnesota was noted for its mechanical aptitude tests; Columbia, for its fine psychology department. Each college student was advised to go to the Prince school in Boston.

In summarizing the qualifications for the personnel worker, Dr. Andrews said that psychology covered most of these. Honesty, tact, sympathy, ability to keep confidences, and executive power, were among the characteristics mentioned.

Among the duties of the personnel worker, she mentioned, contact and maintenance of records were cited as the most important. In the industrial field, there were to adjudication, interviewing applicants, transferring, adjusting staff differences, looking after the workers' health, and editing employees' magazine. Schools included orientation, vocational guidance, and placement.

Salaries of personnel workers ranged from a department store clerk's to $20,000 a year. In education, the holder of a master's degree could start at from $1,800 to $2,400; the Ph.D. up to $10,000. Industrial work gave the highest amount.

In conclusion, Dr. Andrews advised the beginner to apply for positions at institutions employing at least 500 people. With the wider use of personnel departments in colleges and with the opening of federal service, work in this field was opened to the graduate.

Evil Spirit Spans Ages From Sodom

Continued from page one

and a figure dance by Earth's people, the Elven Spirit presented the basketball and volleyball teams, prophesying a brilliant future for these stars.

In the cast of Elven demonstration were: Poll Asher, Elois Frink, Betty Ford, Mary Susan Bowden, Betty Cottland, Jean Treadwell, Nell H. John, Dot Hill, Jeanette Litschgi, Jane Meredith, Jean Lykes, Frances Moss, Margaret Bowden, Ann Meacham, Caroline Collins, Anita Jaekel, Riva Hempstead, Betty Brunt, Betty Sutton, Helen Benson, Florence Jones, Ina Margaret Robinson, Minnie Mae Perry, Alice Lanier, Margaret Salley, Lillian Burford, Marguerite Mann, Mary Hollaway, Marjorie Stump, Jean Story, Agnes Mollis, Catherine Mc Cready, Audrey Cooper, Erma Yngle, Margaret Meiser, Jimmie Lou Hall, Frances Jones, Edith Merrill, and Barbara Watson.

The Elven Demonstration committees included: general chairman, Phil Asher; script committee, Poll Asher, Minna Agress, Evelyn Fisher, Nellie Lamar, Nan Hutchinson, Sarah Sealey, Katherine Lawrence, Margaret Thompson, Pearle Shirgel; dance committee, Betty Brooks, chairman, Betty Cottland, Dot Hill.

Costumes, Betty Bow, chairman, Eleanor Ruff, Kitty Todd, Sara Mc Clellan, Victoria Craig; stage manager, Louise Lingo, Frances Lewis; properties, Madge Deane, Miselle; publicity, Evelyn Fisher; lighting, Mary Lou Gilbert; dance notes, Jean Stubbs, Rida Spradlin; color rush, Helen Daniels; director, Elnora Frink; music, Minkey Conn and Kathleen Crappo; singing, Edna Wardlaw; dance, Jean Treadwell; programs, Mary K. Scott; Even night-out, Sally Burt Putnam, Emma Engel.

Dancers: Isabelle Sands, Betty Cashen, Victoria Craig, Frances Thill, Katherine Pratt, Felicia West, Harriet Krez, Ruth Mc Clain, Ruth Prather, Dot Hill,

Quality Magazines Take a Back Seat When FSCW Seek Recreation According to Student Survey

BY ANNE LADD

Freshmen vote for "Good Housekeeping," "McCall's," "Ladies Home Journal," "Poetry," and "Gone With the Wind." Juniors prefer funny papers, and seniors cast numerous votes for "Esquire."

In an attempt to find out what students at the Florida State College for Women read in their leisure time these were found to be the three most popular selections of students from the four classes.

Immediately upon being asked the question, "What do you read in your leisure time?" every one of the fifty students who were questioned in the survey replied, "What leisure time?" However with a little persuasion, almost every one admitted reading some magazine, newspaper, or book on an extra moment. The juniors and the largest percentage of students who read nothing at all in leisure time, and the sophomores and freshmen tied for second.

The popular fiction magazines and the "light reading" are the most popular reading material. Students desire "good romantic stories" and "books worth while studying and reading" boring, unnecessary material." Very few students find time to read Lowes Monthly, Atlantic Monthly, or students glance through "The Daily Democrat" while a large number of students read the "New York Times" and "The Florida Times-Union."

The majority of freshmen can always find a moment to spare for "Good Housekeeping," "Ladies Home Housekeeping," "McCall's," and "Woman's Home Companion," and movie magazines, "Collier's," and "Saturday Evening Post."

A number of freshmen read "Harper's," "Atlantic Monthly," "Poetry," and "The Nation." "Esquire" through this reading is generally done in connection with Journalism classes.

One freshman stated that she prefers "Esquire" "because it is quite" being her second choice. If anything else Edmund Wilson ever she could bear the "American." Another freshman reads "Philosophy of Life" so that she can think of nothing better to do. She likes to read "Esquire" because "it has thrilling short stories and murder thrillers."

Many freshmen and sophomores read what they can borrow from their neighbors. Consequently, the "Good Housekeeping," "McCall's," and "Ladies Home Journal" which these magazines seem to be preferred by most neighbors. "Collier's," "Liberty," "Time," "Review," "American," "Esquire," and "Red Book" are rarely ever seen. "Gone With the Wind" is a best seller to the sophomores who enjoy novels.

Many sophomores enjoy sitting up late at night reading or while listening to the "Moon River" program on the radio. But in spite of all this reading there are many in the class who claim they have no leisure time for reading. One sophomore says she does manage to find a couple of hours every now and then to spend on Mary Georgia Yeh Yow Jacket."

"Ladies Home Journal," "Good Housekeeping," and "Colliers" lead the list of magazines for the Juniors although many prefer "Forum," "Harper's," and "Atlantic Monthly." The majority of juniors claim that they have no leisure time whatsoever for reading. One girl stated that if she had more time she would read "The New York Times," and "Time," but she has no time. A number mentioned the books of "The Stage," "Harper's Bazaar," "Scribner's," and "Saturday Evening Post," but the funny papers and the comic strips are the most popular reading matter with the juniors. Popeye and Dick Tracy are great favorites.

Seniors make a strong vote for the popular fiction magazines. "Good Housekeeping" is the most magazine, "Colliers," "Liberty," "Harper's Bazaar," "Cosmopolitan," and "Red Book," are also very popular. Many prefer "Harper's," "Atlantic Monthly," "Forum," and "Reader's Digest." Seniors also enjoy reading poetry. As in the case of the juniors, seniors have no time for reading the popular novels.

Demonstration Themes Vary From The Past

Continued from page one

shirt following. The theme of the Elven Demonstration was a toy party after the Christmas holidays, and the gentle action of the characters in question.

The Odds, in their turn, were making merry in the gay and naughty minutes. The story was centered around the Odd Fellows Home for Pinishing School. Miss Victoria, studying Social Etiquette with both Babian Strong (Oddy) and Steven de Peal, but Oddy won out. Steven was the star of the California City of 1930 in which Miss Victoria starred. The Olympians of two rival football teams, also lived at the Odd Fellows Home at the hand of Miss Victory. Needless to say, Ed Even was the lucky man.

"Slits a Song of Six Pence" was the name of the Odd Demonstration of 1928. This was brought to a climax when the pie, baked by the Four and Twenty Blackbirds, was eaed and out came the basketball and volleyball teams. The same year, the Japanese maiden Victory was to marry Prince Odd when the Japanese customs fell. She was saved from this sad fate by the arrival of Commodore Perry who rescued her.

In 1927 the Odds adapted the version of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves. Prince Odd was the hero and overcame all obstacles. This was very effective against an Oriental background. The same year Jack and Jill went back to the fathers of America and portrayed the first Thanksgiving dinner. Princess Victoire-es, the heroine, was seen by the audience.

In 1926 the Odds reached the depths and the Evens the sublime. Evil Spirit Spans Ages was the Even bones to show them who was the best. Great Britain was the Demonstration. On the other hand, the Evens presented Fairy Land in all its splendor and beauty.

Series Close With Informal Speech Monday

Continued from page one

place of the old time "supreme court."

At 10:30 Mr. Ratcliffe spoke on "Modern Trends in Government in England, stressing particularly at this time wages and work standards. He said that Great Britain's versatility he lectured on Shakespeare. This talk was divided into three parts—Shakespeare's country, the English treatment of Shakespeare as regards the delineation of his works, and Shakespeare's influence on literature. The influence of fashionable southern Belles is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

At 2:30 Monday afternoon, Mr. Ratcliffe lectured on British Imperialism and India, and in this talk he discussed the British colonial policy. Perhaps the most interesting feature of his address was his discussion of Gandhi. Later that afternoon was his explanation of why so many Tories have been returned to power in England, stressing particularly at this time wages and work standards. He said that Great Britain's versatility he lectured on Shakespeare as regards the delineation of his works, and Shakespeare's influence on literature. The influence of fashionable southern Belles is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

At 2:30 Monday afternoon, Mr. Ratcliffe lectured on British Imperialism and India, and in this talk he discussed the British colonial policy. Perhaps the most interesting feature of his address was his discussion of Gandhi. Later that afternoon was his ex-

Distaff Prize Won By Evelyn Fisher

The regular Distaff award for the best prose contribution to the recent issue was given, by unanimous decision of the judges, to Evelyn Fisher, for her short story, "The Trap."

Second prize was given to Nellie Bahrt for her article, Protest.

In place of cash awards which have been given in the past, books are being offered this year, and the winners will have their choice from the following group of books: The Olive Field by Ralph Bates, The College Worth While by John R. Tunis; and Rich Land, Poor Land by Stuart Chase.

Faculty Judges of the contributions were Mari L. Vance, William Hudson Barnes, and Mrs. Mary B. Alfriend.

College Camp Incorporates Large Tracts

Flastacowo's Growth Has Been Marked During Fourteen Years

Camp Flastacowo, the college recreational camp located on Lake Bradford about five miles from Tallahassee, was purchased originally by the Florida State College as a demonstration wasn't worth it.

The camp first began as a camp for students. Benefit entertainments were held and funds were sponsored by students to raise money for the purchase.

The camp which now includes fifty acres of land is one of the most modern in the south. The lake which is spring fed is now equipped with the most modern bath houses and will accommodate over sixty girls.

The recreation pier which was erected in the summer of 1935 by a CWA project now extends thirty feet into the lake making the best pier 88 feet long. It has three diving boards, a diving tower, new life saving equipment, and flood lights for night swimming.

The dining hall is soundly equipped with canoes, kayaks, and row boats. Hayrides are made canoe trips through the chain of seven lakes without danger of the canoes turning. Trails through the cypress swamps which are set several miles apart are large splotches of white paint on the trees.

The camp is under the custody of a caretaker who has his own home on the premises. He has been given all responsibility and has the authority to carry out the regulations which have been adopted.

Parties in advance the camp is reserved for week-end outings by many groups and organizations on campus. Such arrangements can be made with Miss Maude Flowers.

Speech Class Presents First Open Rehearsal

Recently in the Augusta Conrad Little Theater the sophomore speech class presented a one-act play "Soup to Savory" as the first of a series of weekly plays. Miss Thrasher, the rehearsals, which are class room projects are open to the public.

The next play presented will give three one-act plays, its next important presentation, on December 8 and 9.

THE SWEET SHOP
701 West Jefferson Opposite Gilchrist
Phone 1091 We Deliver
SPECIAL THANKSGIVING DINNER 60c
12 to 2 5 to 8
CLUB BREAKFASTS EVERY DAY—8 TO 11
Sandwiches, Drinks, Cold Plates
Complete Fountain Service

Junior Goes Quietly Mad Before Bars

Shrieks and Sobs Greet Grim Announcement From Box Office

She stood patiently in line for several hours, first on one foot and then the other. Finally she had advanced toward her goal: with now and then a set-back, to be sure, but for the most part the movement had been in the manner of an orderly advance. That little ticket window, the end and centre of her journey, was in sight—yes, has just three sophomores away when the girl behind it, secure beyond the wooden bars announced that no more tickets would be given out until that afternoon. Then, amid the sobs and cries of the heart-broken sophomores, our junior went quietly mad.

It wasn't the kind of madness which drives women to violence—or even the wooden bars would have been to no avail. Instead of committing the justifiable homicide which would be her merely turned on her heel and walked away, murmuring somethine about "Carrie Flint" who "came to tea." She wandered slowly with glazed eyes until finally the idea began to dawn that perhaps even a demonstration wasn't worth it.

The ordeal began at eight o'clock that morning, to be ended only by the eight-thirty chimes, reminding her that she was a servel teachers who accept no excuses for tardiness and that bris for the morning was one of those. At 9:30 the line was so long that even the sophomores at the back of two old-style registrations. Baby Mary Agnes Morgan began to cry. At 10:30 she had taken her place once more and as a result she had lost her reason.

The idea soon obsessed her that the only way to live in through was to be a parasite on someone else's ambition and remarkably she began a systematic search for loose tickets. "Have you any tickets you don't need?"

"No, have you?" Not quite so promising, but don't be discouraged yet. Try again and again. Even spirits never die!

"Have you any tickets you don't need?" Success at last! Success!

"Do you need some?" This is too much.

"Need some?"

"Well, I do have a pair. I had wanted to take them in my scrap book, but if you really want them—"

"I'm Carrie Flint. I've come to tea. I'm Carrie Flint. I've come to tea. Once more our junior's eyes were glazed and she wandered slowly in the direction of Bryan Hall. She had only two bits of unbroad triumphant ... of piece of yellow, the piece of white. But she never saw the demonstrations. It had been too much. Something had snapped. . . .

Day's Problems Are Discussed

Religious Groups Hold Annual Convention In Gainesville

Student and faculty open discussions of religious, economic and social problems facing students today featured the joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. with the Y.W.C.A. of this college held in Gainesville last week-end.

In the discussions on religion, emphasis was placed on the stimulation of religious organizations which would attempt to settle the practical problems of rather than petty details. further discussions the functioning of the Christian church and social problems facing students today was compared with the present situations in Germany, Russia, and Italy.

In special meetings the activities of the Young People's Christian association were talked over and emphasis was laid on the point that the "Y" should concern itself with those needs of the student which are not being taken care of by other organizations.

In the more general meetings youth's attitude in the fields of labor, reform, education, and peace problems was discussed.

Five girls and two boys from this college attended the joint meeting: Marian Carson, Elizabeth Clark, Lorena Lorens, Elise Bennett, Elizabeth Hanson, Nelle Burt Nunnin, Kathryn Gibson, and Ma Fixie. Sheilla Mae Johnson.

Elizabeth Hanson, Mary Eugenia Sturgess, Winona Ireland, Dorothy Mattie Lou Love, and Carol Ramage.

Welcome!
Parents and Daughters!
Fleet's Dept. Store

SPARKS
STAT
PHONE 980
FRIDAY AND SATTRDAY
November 27-28
DAVIES and GABLE
CAIN and MABEL
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
November 29-30
Thanksgiving
SPECIAL
100 Silk, Wool and Velveteen
DRESSES
Formerly Sold for $7.90.
$3.00
WHILE THEY LAST
All Sizes.
THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
Next to State Theatre
TUESDAY ONLY
December 1
THE LONGEST NIGHT
WEDNESDAY ONLY
December 2
MARSHALL NEILAN presents
MAKE WAY FOR A LADY
THURSDAY ONLY
December 3
CAN THIS BE DIXIE?
with Jane Withers
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
December 4
PENNIES from HEAVEN
Bing Crosby
MADGE EVANS
EDITH FELLOWS
DONALD WOODS

Even Team Defeats Odds In Basketball

Marcheseau, Benson and Corey Take Honors For Good Work

8-17 IS SCORE OF ANNUAL TILT

Play by Play Account of Game Shows Closely Fought Battle

By MARTHA BAKER

Odd-Even rivalry reached its highest peak of excitement and no final decision when the basketball score, 18-17 in favor of the Even team, was given by a lofty sheering crowd Thanksgiving morning in the gymnasium.

Long beautifully placed field goals and very nearly perfect floor interference were the outstanding features of the grimly fought tilt. Pat Corey and Helen Benson, Odd and Even respectively, kept the crowd on its feet with perfect timing and aim of field goals from every position on the floor. The game didn't hold one moment as the ball seesawed from one end of the court to the other with very little time for shooting.

Corey scored first and sent the ball down to the goal where West Marcheseau and the Evens began the first of what proved to be a constant display of nice passwork to end in a short, fruitful goal.

Benson took the next throw-in on a fumble and the ball sent the ball down into Odd territory only to be recovered by Spradlin. Corey raced on a foul shot.

The Odds received from center for a perfect passing right under the goal ending in a short shot by Tuttle. Evens took the next ball in center but Weeks broke into the pass only to lose the ball out of bounds. A foul shot taken by Benson missed and Evens took the ball on rebound. Viertel recovered on the fumble sending the ball again into Odd territory but Benson was in to intercept. Odds took the ball on running and they took the first of her beautiful long field shots to score.

Evens took the next ball from center and the ball stopped in a tie. On the next pass the Odds took the ball out on bobbling. Benson stopped a high pass in and ran a beautiful long field goal on the right side of the court. The Odd received but West broke in to send the ball down to Even territory only to have the ball come sailing back in a beautiful series of passes from Even's interference. Corey took another long shot but missed and Marcheseau recovered sending the ball to Tuttle who shot a perfect long shot which came back in bounds.

After a short time out the ball went to Benson who took a long shot which failed and was recovered by Miller. The other end did the same play with Corey trying a long shot and Marcheseau recovering. Miller took the ball out of bounds and Marcheseau immediately broke up what threatened to be an Odd goal. Tuttle was fouling the ball when the quarter ended.

The score at the end of the quarter was 8-5 with Evens leading.

At the opening of the second quarter Benson received but Miller broke in to send the ball down to the Odd forwards. Spradlin recovered a poor shot but a fumble gave the Odds the ball again. Marcheseau broke the pass and sent the ball down the court where Viertel recovered another of the frequent bad shots. The ball went back to the Odds where Spradlin made the recovery under the basket. White broke her pass only to have her own pass broken by West. Benson took another shot recovered by Miller. A foul shot taken by Benson was good and the ball returned to the Odds after a substitution of Lytal for Tuft of the Evens. West interfered with Odd passing and sent the ball back where Weeks recovered an Even fumble and then Benson recovered a fumble of the Odds immediately following. Miller intercepted the pass and Spradlin recovered on the next Odd shot for goal. Odds took the ball out on bobbling the ball and West recovered under the goal. Weeks took the ball on Even passing but the Evens went out at the other end of an overshot for goal. Corey took a high jump to interfere with the passing only to lose the ball to West. The ball under the baskets received by Marcheseau. The ball at the Even goal was recovered by Viertel and Corey receiving took a long field shot that didn't score. Spradlin recovered and sent the ball back to Benson who scored on a short side shot.

On the next toss in Miller recovered under the Even basket. Lytal took a foul shot but failed to score. Weeks recovered but Spradlin broke into Odd passing. Miller in turn broke up Even passing. There followed rapid pass work up and down the field without scoring until the end of the quarter when Prine dropped a pretty short goal for the Evens. At the end of the quarter the score stood 11-8 still in favor of the Evens.

The play of the first half was marked by the apparent inability of the forwards to make short-range shots and the remarkable pass

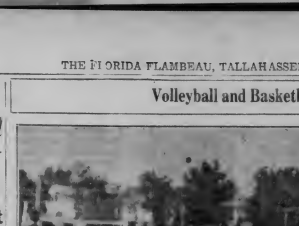
(Continued on Page Six)

"Nights Out" Are Climactic Rivalry Point

Even Ghost Dance, Odd's Lanter Parade End In Pep Rallies

Pep meetings for the loyal wearers of the red, white and purple and the green-feathered Evens Emerald over the campus as the Odd-Even spirit rose to fever pitch and ended in the climax of the Odd and Even nights out.

In the preliminary displays of enthusiasm the spirit was one of the Old versus the New.



Odd cheer leaders, Ruth Lindsey, Mary Jane Johnson and Patricia Barringer, maintain that the old songs and yells are everywhere know are the best to use while the Even cheer leaders, Erma Engel, June Quinn, Sally Bert Norris and Katherine Rawls, have spent many hours choosing new yells and songs and teaching them to loyal Evens.

The student body had a chance to judge which way was more effective when these cheer leaders led their sides in the yells between halves or such demonstration, at the games and on the "nights out." And had a chance to judge on more informal occasions when the Evens snake-danced through the dormitories of both groups turned out for pep rallies.

The cheer leaders were dressed in the colors of their groups. The Odds were long red pants and white satin blouses with sashes of purple, while the Even mentors wore gold blouses with green slacks.

These leaders played an important part in the Lanter Parade Out. The Odds, according to tradition, Thursday night used the weird effects of Japanese lanterns to make their march and formations more effective. Led by Dr. Raymond Bellamy who has held the position of faculty leader of Odds for years the march began at the nursery school and ended at the fountain in front of the Administration building where the word "Odd" was formed. A pep meeting followed, with cheers and featured by talks by "old grads." Those who gave short speeches were Mrs. Bun Jan Stevens (Hazel Roysden), Mrs. Elizabeth Cowan and Miss Helenmary Pritchett, Mary Ruth Bellamy in charge.

Evens had their symbolic ghost dance and bonfire Wednesday night, the Evens after a march to the fountain to the athletic field, formed around the fire and then the students heard faculty "good luck" talks. They were Dr. H. Richards, Miss Lottie Richardson, Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson and Dr. Lewis Jones. Cheer leaders Dot Nuzum and Erma Engel were in charge.

Volleyball and Basketball Leaders

With a typical practice scene in the background the four volleyball and basketball leaders, who were also chosen the captains, are shown above. Reading from left to right are Martha Makemson, captain of the Odd volleyball team; Mary Miller, captain of the Odd basketball team; Louise Gehan, captain of the Even volleyball team, and Felicia West, captain of the Even basketball team.

Water Pageant Is Presented In Gymnasium Pool Thursday

Ruth Wilson Reigns as Queen of Mythical Land With Makemson, Ward, and Rawls As Attendants at Tournament

With Ruth Wilson reigning as queen of the land of Carnell, an elaborate display of water sports was presented yesterday morning in the gymnasium pool before a packed audience of visitors

The script which was written and read by Betty Cathund was woven around a mythical tournament of water acrobatics which was presented annually for the approval of the queen. The queen, dressed in white satin and garnet and gold, assisted with her attendants to take her place on her throne at the far end of the pool. The attendants, Martha Makemson, Florence Ward and Kathryn Rawls, were white bathing suits. Later they took part in the water program.

Part of the royal entourage which lent a humorous note to the entertainment were the court jesters clad in mid-Victorian bathing suits. They provided amusement during the latter part of the program. Jesters were Beth Deane, Marion Wells, Jeanette Bridgewert and Ruth Agnes McClain.

A musical background was furnished throughout by Mickey Hexon's orchestra.

Four teams Red, Black, Blue and Green, representing mythical distant countries, came to pay homage to the queen and to vie for honors in the tournament. At the beginning of the program four members of each team exhibited a slender, elementary back stroke in group formation. This was followed by team competition.

The Blue team in perfect pyramid formation swam the length of the pool in the single over-arm stroke after which they formed a four-spoke pinwheel in the center of the pool. From this they reverted back to the pyramid. Members of the Blue team were Ann Colvin, Thelma Norlin, Ermine LaVerne, Frances Brannon, Dorothy Scott, Eleanor Freer, Nancy Kavros, Betty Lewis.

Between this exhibition and the next Katherine Rawls and Ann Cooper presented a comical sailfish and mail race in which Donnell was pulled the length of the pool by an invisible rope.

With a backstroke, the Red team in a wedge formation from the length of the pool, then formed a ring with Jeanette Bridgewert and Ruth Agnes McClain, members of this group were Dot Richard, Jo Campbell, Lois Hughes, Martha Moore, Margaret Maxwell, Janet Jewell, Mary Peacock, Elizabeth Prue.

For diversion Katherine Rawls gave an exhibition of the butterfly breast stroke; plain breast stroke, back stroke and overarm stroke, swimming 100 yards altogether.

The Green team's contribution was a beautiful crawl formation of a changing circle which became larger and smaller as the exhibition progressed. Members of this team were Marion Lesser, Carmen Lytal, Betty Bloodworth, Ariana Glendenning, Virginia Holmes, Sarah Jane Stanbrough, Gladys Peacock, Ruth Whaley.

The Black team presented a circling line of backstroke swimmers progressing with perfectly timed surface dives and unusual crossing formation. This team was accompanied by Marjorie Swarwick, Dot Colburn, Sarah Heshcox, Erma Engel, Virginia Makemson, Frances Brannon, Sarah Lytal, Clifton Van Brunt and Polly Pitts.

At this interval the clowns performed in take-offs on the feats that had been performed by the four teams. Martha Makemson and Florence Ward, attending the queen, gave a beautiful exhibition of shoulder-to-shoulder overarm stroke, surface diving and somersaulting.

A diving program was given by Lois Hughes, Dorothy Scott, Carmen Lytal, Dot Colburn and Kathryn Rawls. The Olympic star was encored again and again for her diving performance.

At the end of the program the queen announced that discrimination as to the victorious team would be impossible and she commanded that the ballet be in a colorful grand finale. They formed a water snake dance, winding in and out of a huge, slowly moving circle.

Volleyball Squads For Odd-Even Game

Odds
Ruth Barrington
Beth Deane
Valeria Hunt
Marian Lesser
Martha Makemson
Margaret Maxwell
Dorothy Molnar
Mildred Bertina
Edythe Stanley
Nancy Williamson
Ruth Wilson

Evens
Nan Clark
Audrey Cooper
Helen Benson
Louise Gehan, Capt.
Meta Helms
Marjorie Herring
Frances Lewis
Ernestine Makemson
Betty Cellund
Kathryn Pratt
Marjorie Saulerson
Martha Robbins
Lynette Thompson

Basketball Squads For Odd-Even Game

Odds
Fay Corey
Harriet Duke
Jackie Oates
Florence Gross
Sara Heshcox
Dorothy Kaucha
Dorothy Marwick
Mary Miller
Marian Weeks
Hazel Viertel

Evens
Helen Benson
Janet W. Cook
Frances Fryer
Carmen Lytal
Ruth Agnes McClain
Yvonne Marchesseault
Louise Prine
Louise Rice
Hilda Spradlin
Sara Jane Stambaugh
Frances Tbill
Felicia West, Capt.

Evens Top Odd Color Runners

Half of Buildings, Tie For Bryan Hall Are Won for Evens

The Evens won the color rush Wednesday morning when they took four and a half of the end buildings at the annual color rush.

Evens got the Library, History, Science, and Administration buildings and the Odds, the dining hall, Education building and gymnasium with the two sides tying for Bryan hall.

Runners for the Evens were Helen Brown for the Administration building, Mamie Piland for the library, Betty Cellund for Bryan, Kathryn Kirby-Smith for the dining hall, Felicia West for the gymnasium, Julie Triplett for the Education building, Meta Helms for the History building and Kitty Ford for the Science building.

Runners for the Odds were Mary Lou O'Xaver for the Administration building, Glinetta Sugarwhite for the library, Ruth Barrington for Bryan, Betty White for the dining hall, Henrietta Reed for the gymnasium, Jackie Gates for the Education buildiin, and Harriet Duke, who ran for the Education building.

Sport Squints

By "JINKS" and "FLIP"

The green feathers were cheering for the red, purple and white ribbons were colorful, and the bows on the various doors around campus were right pert looking.

And speaking of the color rush, somebody slid up the library steps on a rainy day and down the same steps on an ear—she probably can neither walk nor hear today, but what price loyalty?

Peanuts! Peanuts! But the peanut venders weren't the only ones that reminded us of circuses in our childhood days at the games yesterday. There was even a little subtle trapeze work on some of the courts.

Anyway, maybe for a while we won't be awakened from the deepest slumbers by Even spirits and Odd lyric the dormitory halls will probably be silent on

HOSIERY SPECIAL

Irregulars of $1.00 and $1.35

Holeproof Hosiery

SPECIAL for Saturday and Monday 59c

Turner's "YOUR STORE"

MANNISH SUITS

$10.00 Value

$6.95

Just the Thing for Football Weekends!

LIPPMAN'S HUB STORE

M & N CAFE

Turkey Dinners, 60c

PROMPT SERVICE—

119 E. Jefferson Phone 1054

Even Team Captures Volleyball Laurels

Even Classes Steal Honors Friday Night

Winners' Struggle Leaves Odds at Short End In Both Games

With a large majority in the rooting sections, the Even classes, the freshmen and the juniors, carried off the honors in the finals of class games Friday night at play nite with the juniors winning from the sophomores in volley ball and the freshmen winning from the seniors in basketball.

The Juniors won the volleyball game with a score of 37-11. The teams were about evenly matched but the sophomores lacked the polish of the more seasoned juniors. At the half the score was 16-8 in favor of the juniors. At the first of the second half the juniors started running their lead up fast. They finished with the juniors leading by twenty-six points.

The winning team follows: Louise Gehan, Kathryn Pratt, Betty Cellund, Flash Gordon, Mary Cooper, Marjorie Saulerson, Marjorie Herring, and Frances Lewis.

The sophomore team follows: Ruth Barrington, Ruth Wilson, Dorothy Molnar, Martha Moore, Nancy Williamson, Valeria Hunt, Edythe Stanley, and Betty Ann McMullen.

In the beginning of the first quarter of the basketball game the freshmen scored the first shot. In spite of this beginning the seniors piled up two goals to their credit and at the first quarter ended 4-2 in favor of the seniors.

With the opening of the second quarter the freshmen began to work to secure three more goals, but shortly before the end the seniors scored again. Neither team was able to tie the ball through the basket for the remainder of the game.

During the third quarter there was a great deal of passing from first one territory and then to the other, but only one goal was made. This brought the score up to 10-6 with the freshmen still in the lead.

Both teams played a purposeless game in the last quarter with neither team able to score a point. One of the three points was made after a foul shot by Lytal for Even. At the end of the game, the freshmen led 11-6.

On the freshman team, Carmen Lytal scored three baskets, Helen Benson scored two, Janet Cook, Sara Stambaugh one, and Louise Prine made one basket.

On the senior team, Sara Heshcox made two baskets and Dorothy Kaucha made one basket.

The winning freshman line-up is: right forward, Helen Benson; left forward, Sarah Jane Stambaugh; center forward, Carmen Lytal; right guard, Louise Prine; left guard, Mary Peacock.

The senior team: left forward, Sara Heshcox; center guard, Marsey Kaucha; right guard, Dorothy Kaucha; left guard, Dot Colburn.

The winning freshman line-up is: right forward, Helen Benson; left forward, Sarah Jane Stambaugh; center forward, Carmen Lytal; right guard, Louise Prine; left guard, Mary Peacock.

The senior team: Sara Heshcox; center guard, Marsey Kaucha; right guard, Dorothy Kaucha; left guard, Dot Colburn.

Winning Streak Begun At First of Game Never Fails

FINE PASSWORK SHOWN IN PLAY

Odds' Last Minute Rally Fails to Stop Green And Gold Gains

By EVELYN FISHER

With a team that clicked in almost mechanical perfection the Even volleyball squad scored half of the Even points via an uncontested basket during the Odd team gets a score of 36-32 in the traditional game Thursday morning.

Beginning with a rally that foreshadowed the continuous steady playing and placement of both teams the first points were scored by the Evens in a series of hard serves. Coming from behind the Odds scored on serves and placements to take the lead. The Evens rallied but lost the lead again as the Odds sent over a number of fine placements. The Evens took the serve again and after a severe rally of beautifully placed balls they lead again.

Reaching a climactic point the Even team began to show some signs of the extraordinary team work that was to mean the victory later. Twice they scored on beautifully placed serves and sinks from the net line. Coming up from behind in a hectic rally the Odds crept within one of spectacular "gets" and "near-sinks" only to put the ball outside the boundary line and the Even scores again.

Coming back in a battling spirit the Odds whammed the ball back for a long rally to take the serve and with serves from either another display of perfect passing and placement. Again the Evens took the service to wind the ball at 15-13.

Starting the serve in the second half the Odds lost their first chance to score, regained the serve and lost it again to the smooth team work of their opponents. After winning several points the Evens lost the serve as a result of a powerful placement by the net line of the Odd team. Again the Odds failed to score on their own service. The Evens took the serve and the next two points were scored upon the Odds' failure to serve and a series of sig-nag pass work. Another serve and a net shot the Evens won it back with a net placement shot that put the ball in a downward hole in the Odd team. They lost the next point on a beautiful serve and the Odds took the serve but failed to score.

Backing up the sledgehammer services of some of its stars with their detection and placement court passing and net slinking, the Even players again won several points. Taking the serve on an error the Odds sent over a beautiful serve to start the point on a center placement by a front line Even player.

For a few minutes, however, it looked like a comeback was being staged by the Odds when two points on their opponent's error. Then the beginning of pass work began clicking again to the tune of three straight points. The Odds took a long rally and the Evens retaliated with a series of difficult placements and net shots. Several cannon ball serve placements along the side lines gave the Odds team adding any more to their score.

With the Evens in substantial lead the Odds staged a last minute comeback which furnished one of the best play of the game. Long rallies marked by superb team work on both sides of the net, accurate placements, hard overhand serves saw the Odds climb a little closer to green and gold players. In the end however the cool, steady supremacy in which the Even players showed almost perfect cooperation gave them the serve again and the final points for their victory in spite of the fighting attempt of the Odds to stage a comeback.

(Continued on page seven)

the subject: at least, unless somebody starts bragging just to buckle his bootlaces.

We're sincerely glad that Miss Richardson and Miss Tracy can enter their respective domains by the front door this year. All the girls in the dorms who have similar feelings on hot pussing under the "wrong" color are probably having lovely times walking a few extra blocks to go through another door—or else they're getting over their complex in a hurry!

Now that we've all gotten over

Continued on page seven

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MAXEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glazier; Exchange, Virginia Earle; Features, Arline Grey Lockhart and Jane Quinn; Literary, Christine Gilbert; Music, Dorothy Bellamy; Society, Christine Gilbert; Society Assistant, Margaret Claire Lafferty and Minnie Agnew; Assistant, Special Reporting, Arthur Hollingsworth; Mary Lloyd Maude; Sports, Ella Virginia Brooks and Elizabeth Turner.

Reporters: Mary Lloyd Maude, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Bayley, Madeline Bellamy, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Brabham, Petree Coleman, Elizabeth Casper, Thereas Cornell, Glenn Courter, Homer Crevasse, Virginia Davis, Hazel Dominguez, Marion Fuqua, Mary Glover Gilbert, Ruth Gilbert, Mary Lou Hall, Mary Elizabeth Hay, Lucy Kelly, Ann Ladd, Betty Leach, Martha Lavender, Anne Lindsey, Mary Jeanne McKay, Alicia Meacham, Mac Nolan, Alberta Patrick, Mabel Pierce, Marion Pruitzman, Nancy Rogers, Jane Sharon, Larissa Shelton, Mary Elizabeth Sullivan, Alma Warren, Frances Winchester.

BUSINESS STAFF

ELLIS McCUTIE ..... Business Manager
JAMES ALLEN ..... Advertising Manager
JAN CHANDLER ..... Circulation Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Represented for National Advertising by
National Advertising Service, Inc.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago — Boston — San Francisco — Los Angeles
Portland — Seattle

Member National Scholastic Press association and Florida Intercollegiate Press association.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1925, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

"America Can Be Anything You Wish!"

"What do you see as the future of America?" we asked S. K. Ratcliffe, the British lecturer, during his visit to the campus.

"It can be anything you wish," he replied.

From this statement and from others appearing in recent periodicals it would appear that the older generations is looking to the younger men and women for changed attitudes in international affairs and national political issues.

George Bernard Shaw has repeatedly said that the quality of youth should belong to older people who would in their maturity have found the right way to use this great gift. Mr. Ratcliffe draws the conclusion that possibilities and responsibilities for service fall heaviest upon the young people who have early been forced to face some of the problems of the adult citizen. Mr. Shaw's statement challenges the generation now in college to take immediate advantage of all opportunities for constructive work before the duties and prejudices of middle age have laid hold of it.

Even H. L. Mencken, the sceptic of the age, found hopefully in the American Mercury that "The young people of this country are becoming an ever-greater influence in the vital problems of the day." We can elaborate upon this statement simply by planning through the daily papers.

Whereas a half-century ago young people rarely made the news, today there are daily accounts of the doings of the younger geniuses. In all instances, in the collegiate world the papers report that a certain south western university is putting thumbs down on all constructive student opinion by abolishing the right to assemble, the right of the five college press, the right of class room discussion, and in a famous northern university a group of students are leading marches in the name of the various attractions they "prefer" to liberty" and becoming martyrs to youth who have taken the lack of foresight to precipitate street riots in the names of the equally abstract terms "law and order" and "Americanism."

Both instances put youth in a bad light, and young men and women who have looked to leaders of their own age should first consult these leaders concerning their probable line of action upon academic, administrative, and other evils. Where the university administration is at fault and refuses to see any fault, little can be done. Young people can only watch a decreasing revenue from students and a change of attitude upon such authorities.

But there are other more encouraging things in the papers. In the northwest a group has petitioned the state legislature for a removal of leaders' oaths and other signs of fascistic influence. In several universities students have cooperated with the administration to relieve harsh regulations, to remove hooting, to retire dirty politics from the campus scene.

Youth orders such as the National Student Federation, the various college government organizations, and the college press associations are working together on a program for changing attitudes from the inside. "Education" is their watchword and it is to educational institutions that they look for assistance in carrying through their ever-growing program for better living.

"America can be anything you wish," said the visitor from abroad. Undoubtedly he was placing much faith in this college generation. The problem now facing us is not to mold, one of securing the faith of the generation about to assume the ever-pressing generations that they must be a pivot point in American affairs.

"Parents Day" To Replace Odd-Evens?

Thanksgiving Day instead of being the official Homecoming for alumnae was this year dedicated to parents.

Although the demonstrations carried the Odd-Even theme, and rivalry was revived between the Odd and Even teams for the games, it is not rash to prophesy that the traditional Odd-Even spirit at Thanksgiving may eventually die.

A suggestion has already been advanced that the demonstrations be combined or that both demonstrations be presented on the same night, Wednesday, so that visitors arriving on Wednesday may see both demonstrations. With a time limit placed on the demonstrations the pandemonium would of necessity be shortened and students would not have to spend hours that do not have practicing the dances, speaking parts, and making preparations.

The demonstrations were well-received this year, but many more parents were in evidence than alumnae, and it is for the alumnae principally that Odd-Even spirit has been revived. In the last few years students have felt a declining interest in Odd-Even rivalry and the pep meetings this year were proof that the spirit was for the most part forced.

If "Parents Day" becomes a tradition replacing Homecoming, which has been assigned another week-end on the college calendar, then we may expect to see the Thanksgiving program center almost entirely around two dances, and perhaps, student dramatic productions for the enjoyment of our parents.

A forced rivalry may then be replaced by a spirit of fellowship, good cheer, and gratitude, which seems indefinitely more becoming and more mature attitude for college students to express at Thanksgiving.

Senior Class As Philanthropist

Soon again the senior class will hold meetings for the discussion of appropriate gifts to leave coming classes. Hundreds and several hundred dollars will be spent for the article or articles which a class vote chooses. Therefore, in order that class officials may have some basis upon which to begin their selection we suggest the following possible gifts.

Odd and Even demonstrations once again put emphasis upon the lack of staging facilities in the auditorium. Tiegan pits and boxes in the orchestra pit might well be improved with a few dollars from the class fund. A new curtain-pulling system might be installed in order that the curtains can come together immediately after the close of a scene. Real scenery to replace the gray drapes might be purchased. Decent music racks for the college orchestras are badly needed.

If the class wants to improve two other auditorium conditions which have received much criticism from visitors it can put its money in an amplifying system that works, or it can buy the books for use in convocation and college church services.

Students Appreciate Speaker Such As Ratcliffe

Many students who were fortunate enough to attend some of the Ratcliffe lectures declared afterward that at last they had come in contact with the type of speaker they always expected to hear in college.

Whatever the contributing factors, many students come to college with an idea that they will hear speakers who are above the political rally variety in culture and general speaking delivery.

The opportunity to hear Mr. Ratcliffe was a real treat to such students. The British point of view and manner of speech plus the great opportunities for forming opinions on international subjects which Mr. Ratcliffe so well expressed made him an invaluable speaker.

Then I should do my level best to make myself a well-informed man or woman. I should be very fair getting acquainted with the fundamental sciences that are so intimately related to satisfactory living and with what certain great races have contributed to that complexity called modern civilization and culture—Jewish, Greek, Roman, Italian, French, Spanish, English. To these I would add Sociology, Economics, and Political Science. All this big task that I should not like to go into whatever kind of world that may happen to be, forward or by forces that control it. Surely there will be no place in it for the misinformed and the unenlightened.

Again, I should become interested in the arts that add beauty and richness to human personality, — music, sculpture, painting, architecture, literature. From these I shall will receive me when we are through with this college business will be a world of human beings, and therefore will always find joy and satisfaction in what are called the fine arts.

But the greatest of all the arts is the art of noble living. I should for this reason do what I could in the process of my education to keep my manhood faith in the enduring values of the ancient moralities—truth, honor, honor, justice, kindness, and the good manners that are the fine flower of a gentleness of spirit. I should do this because I see that nothing stands permanently unless it has these for its foundations.

Finally, I should discover for myself that greatest of all personal satisfactions, the joy that comes from a life of service. I should not be content with a life of mere self-seeking. I should want to be of use in the world. I should want to help make it a better place in which to live for myself and for others. I should want to be ashamed to die until I have done something to leave the world a little better, a little happier, a little more beautiful because I have lived in it. I should want to feel that I had built my life solidly into the life of my time and my place, into the place where God had set me, and to feel that in my relations with my fellow men I had been worthy, honest, and kind. Failing in these I should have failed in life, however much success might have come to me.

Spirit of the West . . . . . By Glazier

This Week

Davies Appointed Envoy To Russian Government

Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, wealthy supporter of President Roosevelt for re-election, is our newly appointed ambassador to Russia. He fills a vacancy caused by the transfer to Paris of Ambassador William C. Bullitt after the death of Jesse I. Straus. He will leave for the Soviet at the first of the year.

* * * *

The Florida citrus industry was given a place on President Roosevelt's council for industrial progress, this week, through the appointment of John D. Clark of Waverly as a member of the board that will formulate a new industrial program for the nation. The council will meet on December 10 to discuss future business policies for shipping, marketing, hours and wages and government interference and tariffs. Its recommendations will be presented to the new congress.

* * * *

Cris F. Van Swearingen, who started his career as a newsboy and who, with his brother Manton, lived to build a $2,000,000,000 railroad empire, died of a heart attack this week on a railroad trip to New York. He was 57 years old, and survived his brother by one year. The Van Swearingen brothers wrote an incredible chapter in twenty-six century history. Starting out with a small Cleveland suburb and a rapid transit line into the city known as the Nickel Plate, they ended up as owners of a dozen of the largest railroads in the country including the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Toledo, the Pere Marquette, the Erie and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis. Observers believe that J. P. Morgan and Company, financiers of the Van Swearingen network, will fall heir to the property.

* * * *

At a convention in Tampa this week, Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, threatened to withdraw his support from the American Federation of Labor if the executive council persisted in "interfering" with the affairs of the affiliated unions. By adopting a rule which gave it the power to place the unions on trial and to suspend them, the executive council, said Mr. Howard, had "destroyed" the autonomy of the affiliated unions. "If this interference continues," he declared, "the International Typographical Union will not remain in the federation."

* * * *

Little does it reason that King Edward of England is planning to marry Mrs. Wallace Simpson although the wedding will not take place before the coronation in May. The ring has already been ordered from Cartiers for the tidy sum of $75,000. The king intends to proclaim Mrs. Simpson the Duchess of Lancaster in the coronation honors list, but the archbishop of Canterbury has refused point blank to officiate at the wedding ceremony.

Continued on page six

University Editorials . . . .

If I Were In College Now

By Dr. Henry Nelson Snyder

"This editorial by Dr. Snyder, president of Wolfford College, was published in a recent issue of the Southern Christian Advocate.

If college students read half of what is written about them, the kind of education they are getting, and the sort of world that is waiting for them, they would deserve our deepest sympathy. They themselves do not know what they are about and don't seem to care; the education they are offered is all wrong and doesn't fit them for anything; and the world they are facing is confused, bewildered, troubled, and heavy with colossal problems beyond the possibility of solution.—So it says. But fortunately, however, for these students, their very youth protects them from criticism, from understanding how wrong their education is.

If I were one of them now, I should, try to get from my college course the things that would count in any sort of world, and the first thing would be the habit of hard, patient, persistent, intelligent work at the concrete tasks that college offers. The habit of work has ever been the way of success.

In the second place, I should accept the mere routine of college as a blessed thing, holding me steady to the duties at hand, creating a controlling sense of obligation in meeting classes, the chapel hour, and any other daily responsibilities. Any kind of life tomorrow is sure to have much of routine in it.

Then I should go my level best

Collegiate Comebacks

Among the many remarkable things noted this week, such as the colossal amount of turkey some giant-sized critter can put away, is one which crowns them all. Have you noticed how, with the coming of many mamas to our campus, some of the livest wires around here have been transformed overnight into angel children?

* * * *

"At Florida, State College for Women," says the Auburn Plainsman, "some of the girls have organized an eighteen-piece dance orchestra. Can you picture dignified young co-eds tooting on a trombone or plunking a bass violin?" Young? Dignified? Evidently those boys have never seen any of our "co-eds."

* * * *

The Tatler breaks down and tells all-about freshmen:

Oh, what keeps a freshman
From breaking under the strain?
Oh, what keeps each poor freshman
From becoming quite insane?
Oh, what keeps the timid freshman
From a softening of the brain?
NOTHING

* * * *

From the Kentucky Kernel we learn that the University or Pennsylvania recently had a faculty-finding day in which everyone aired out his pet gripes. Gosh, it would take us a week to get started even on our pet ones.

* * * *

Temple University, according to the Brown and White, is considering a plan for the provision of a pre-exam rest period to catch up on both study and rest. It is being considered for the three days immediately preceding final examinations. It is difficult to believe that such humanitarianism still exists in a world where some gals get out with pre if they don't have enough cuts to get akk on.

* * * *

The Rensselaer Polytechnic prints the following belated parody: "If you think we've made a mistake by [illegible] November, even the Literary Digest can be mistaken.

I think that I shall never see
A party like the G. O. P.
A crowd whose every smart is pressed
So close to Wall street's golden breast.
A crowd that looks to Hearst all day
And lifts its chin to pray.
A crowd that now all coyly wear
The duPont's sunflower in their hair.
A crowd that cannot say red rose
That intimately lives in hate
Speeches are made by fools like me,
But only Hearst can make the G. O. P.

* * * *

According to an exchange, Reed College students and faculty members are inaugurating a new idea: they plan to set aside one whole day of the school year to making the campus more attractive. The authorities here could do that just by letting us out of classes.

* * * *

Authorities at Michigan State, reports the Purple and White, prevent all students attending a dance to cut all classes from three in the afternoon preceding the affair until the noon of the following day. What we like to believe that the song should be rephrased, "A College Fell Out of Heaven" and dedicated to Michigan State.

* * * *

The Student Prince reproves collegians:

If you love me
Like I love you—
Then shame on both of us!

sons, try to understand His teachings and come into a real communion with His spirit. I mean to say that in that way college years I would make Jesus of Nazareth Master and Friend in all the ways of my life in order that I might have light and power for what lies ahead. For did He not Himself say—"I am the way, the truth, the light?

What I have been trying to say is that I should not be bothered about what the critics seem to worry over, their lack of approval of the kind of education I am exposed to, their excitement over what the world is going to do to me and I to it,—if I were now a student in college. Rather, I should lay hold with all my soul on these simple, essential, fundamental things, and radiantly face whatever the future may have in store for me.

Not serious—but useful in lieu of our present down-and-outness:

All the World Loves Him Who Laughs

"Pyn is when happiness wags its tail," said Clarence Buddington Kelland, a popular author. Yes, and fun is the spice of life, and is closely linked with that intangible something known as "a sense of humor."

Do you sometimes wonder if you have a sense of humor? Or if you are confident that you do, how you often ponder over its value? If you don't, you probably have many unnecessary cares.

There's no doubt about the power of a sense of humor. It is rather a determiner of whether or not you are welcome when you join a group of happy people. Please don't misunderstand; one doesn't have to grin all the time to be a success—but one does have to act alert. Almost always that forced "Pollyanna" facial contortion is out of place; by the same token it can be an out of place as to get one into serious difficulty.

(Continued on Page Six)

Magazine Jottings

BY SARAH SEALEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

What Is a General Education?
By Robert Maynard Hutchins

Chicago University's young president gives this month's Harper's a description of what general education should be. The cultivation of the intellect, says Dr. Hutchins, is the supreme value of all life; "material prosperity, peace, civil order, justice and the moral virtues" are only means to this end.

The author presents a curriculum for junior colleges, four years of course from the junior year in high school through the sophomore year in college, useful alike to those who go on to the university and to those whose liberal education will end with the junior college. He emphasizes the fact that "a college or university should 'do nothing that another agency can do as well.'" To other organizations, then, he delegates the responsibility for "body-building and character-building. . . . for the social graces and the tricks of trades." The suggested curriculum includes the great literature of the western world, the arts of reading, writing, and speaking, and with skills mathematics as the purest form of reasoning.

Dr. Hutchins cites, as the forces which oppose the liberal practice of such an education as his ideal, our false concept of utility, worship of Progress and Social Change, intense specialization, a distorted idea of democracy, love of money, and anti-intellectualism.—(S. S.)

* * * *

The Franze of Leon Blum
By Edgar Ansel Mowrer

An American newspaper correspondent gives an unusually comprehensive and clear account of the situation in France in the November Survey Graphic. The French premier,—"socialist-socialist-pro-intellectual"—gained his position as a result of an unprecedented combination of a number of Leftist parties in an effort to combat the growing Fascist movement in France.

France's "New Deal" thus among its accomplishments since coming into power in June much things: the establishment of the forty-hour working week, collective bargaining, paid vacations for workers, institution of the widest bureau in favor of fair prices to peasants, financial reforms, and extensive public works. Their work in international circles has been less brilliant. France has consistently been too cautious and peace-loving to risk offending Italy in her recent conquest or to act in any way without the backing of Great Britain.

Opposition to the Socialist cabinet is strong and growing. The writer even admits the possibility of a civil war. However, even Blum's adversaries admire him for his courage in forcing France to action and renewed courage.—(S. S.)

* * * *

The Antioch Experiment
By C. A. Hallatz

Those of us who think enough about what one prominent educator of today has phrased the "loneliness of the higher learning" to fret and worry a little over it will find encouragement in the account of the Antioch experiment in this month's Scribner's.

A little over fifteen years ago Arthur E. Morgan reorganized Antioch College, resurrecting the educational philosophy which its founder, Horace Mann, upheld back in 1853, namely, that education is the most important and the noblest occupation in the world, because it is the practical tool toward the "accelerating progress of the race." Antioch again became aware that education does not proceed in a vacuum alone, in the body and the moral nature as well.

President Morgan, like President Mann, was a schoolmaster that is, he brought together into one unified whole the best of the educational inspirations of his contemporaries. From the University of Cincinnati he borrowed the cooperative plan of work and study. He wove these into a whole the current but diverse ideas of survey courses, comprehensive examinations, autonomous study, intramural athletics, self-governing varsity, and a closely knit community social life.

The cooperative plan of work and study has been the most outstanding feature of the Antioch experiment. It has given the students practical experience essential to a liberal education. It has helped them determine what they want to do in life, to benefit themselves and society, and it has helped students bear part of the expense of their educations.

There are 200 successful cooperative projects are the Antioch-Yellow Springs Bus Company, a foundry, and a hybrid seed-corn project. Each of these has the outgrowth of scientific research which is still flourishing at Antioch. It is the hope of the college to finance itself, at least in part, by research work.

It now has over 300 cooperating employers located in twenty different states. Proof that these employers are satisfied lies in the fact that over fifty per cent of the members in each graduating class accept positions in the concern with which the college has cooperative connections.

In behalf of the academic program it is enough to say that according to measurements by the American Council on education tests given the college for the past four years has ranked far higher than the general college average.

Social and extra-curriculum activity is probably as extensive at Antioch College as it is anywhere, but it does not developed the same kind of expensiveness, varsity athletics, or the fraternity-sorority spirit. It is essentially a group life and it is essentially adult.—(C. D.)

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By LAURA STRUNK LESLIE
Alumnae Secretary

Inside College Gates

BY FRANCES BRUNSON

Replacing the annual Homecoming activities, Parents' Day is being held this year during the Thanksgiving festivities. While many alumnae are attending Parents' Day, their homecoming will be held later in the year in the form of an "Alumnae College". The change was made partly because many alumnae state they cannot leave their positions or families at Thanksgiving and partly because better provisions for entertaining parents and alumnae can be made if they come at different times.

* * *

The state college alumnae association is planning as its immediate project a student activity building to serve as a center for student activities and as an alumnae headquarters at Florida State College. A finance committee has been appointed to have charge of raising the funds needed for the construction. Contributions will be accepted from students, graduates, and friends of the college and should be sent to Mrs. R. H. Leslie, in Tallahassee.

* * *

Jane Rockwell, a graduate of Florida State college, was one of the seven newspaperwomen to be the guests at an "off-the-record" dinner which Mrs. Alfred M. Landon gave at the executive mansion in Kansas recently. Jane was graduated from the college in 1930 and is now working on the Topeka Daily Capitol, newspaper in Topeka, Kan.

* * *

Miss Margaret Bradley, 1931 graduate of the home economics department, and Mr. Tuere Pasto from Ithaca, New York, were married last week in Ruge hall. Dr. A. C. Caldwell performed the ceremony, and Rev. J. W. Alfriend pronounced the benediction. The couple will reside in Ithaca.

* * *

To lift the $100 deficit now existing in the Anna Chaires loan fund, members of the Alumnae association sold candy at the doors of the college auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the Demonstration, and sold peanuts at the ball games yesterday.

* * *

S K Ratcliffe, noted British lecturer and journalist, spoke to students and faculty members last week in a series of addresses on European affairs and the part the newspaper plays in these affairs. Mr Ratcliffe has been associated with several of the most important dailies and weeklies in England and has done editorial and special writing for many others.

In his political affiliations he ranks as an independent progressive His thorough knowledge of political events combined with a gift for vivid and impartial interpretation make him a much-sought-after lecturer.

* * *

A six-man hockey team which will be used in the Demonstration school this year, has been devised by Miss Ray Fraser, of the physical education department. This team has been adapted from the regular eleven-man team for use in high schools and colleges that do not have the space or equipment for the regular game.

* * *

The "Virgin Forest", composed of the oak trees on the lot between Prof Arthur Williams' and Prof L. S. Barber's, was cut down recently. This small forest, known to every student, was the nearest one to the college campus, and will soon be replaced by a house.

* * *

The Flastacowo will include a new feature division of sorority pictures this year. It will consist of informal snap-shots of the activities of the sorority. This is being sponsored by the Panhellenic association.

* * *

An eighteen-piece dance orchestra under the direction of Mickey Hearon has been organized on the campus The orchestra will play every Friday night for play nites and for many other programs which will be announced at a later date

* * *

A chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution composed of the girls at Florida State college who are eligible for membership will be formed on the campus in the near future. It is hoped that all the girls eligible will have their papers accepted so that a charter may be obtained from the national society of the D A R. at its next board meeting to be held in February. With the granting of a charter to the proposed chapter on this campus, the fifth college organization recognized by the national society will be established.

Wedding Bells Ring Out For Many Alumnae

Bridal Parties Flourish Throughout State As Graduates Marry

Arthur Trawick Snodgrass of Kissimmee has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Mary Louise, to W. Tresper Clarke of Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding will take place in Brooklyn

Miss Snodgrass is a graduate of the Oceola high school and Florida State College for Women in the class of 1929 She then attended Pratt institute in Brooklyn, receiving from that institute a certificate in library science. Since that time she has been with the New York Public Library as child's librarian.

Mr. Clarke is the son of Mr. Walter Clarke of Columbus, Ga. He is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology with the degree of B. S. For some years he was employed as food chemist by Nunnally of Atlanta. At the present time he is chief chemist for Rockwood and company, chocolate manufacturers of Brooklyn. The couple expect to make their home in Brooklyn.

Miss Helen Frances Miller, daughter of Mrs. Bessie S. Miller of Harrisburg, Va., became the bridge of Mr. George Maynard Smith, son of Mrs. John Q. Smith of Cairo, Ga., and the late Judge Smith, on Saturday, Oct. 3, in the garden of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Walter T. Lineweaver.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Lewis H. Hill, Jr., of Tampa was gowned in ivory satin with a veil of tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Betty Manning of Jacksonville, a classmate of the bride, was the maid of honor.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Cairo, Ga., where the groom is practicing law.

The bride is a graduate of Florida State College for Women in the class of 1936 where she was a member of the Kappa Delta sorority. The groom is a graduate of Mercer University Law school and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Miss Virginia Anne Middlebrooks of Tallahassee became the bride of Walter Blair Roddenbery, Jr., of Cairo, Ga..

The bride is a graduate of Florida State College for Women where she received the B. M. degree in 1933. She is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

The groom attended Gordon college at Barnesville, Ga., and is a graduate of Georgia School of Technology where he received the degree in electrical engineering. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Mr. Roddenbery owns and operates the Gray County Motor Co. in Cairo.

Miss Margaret Bradley and Mr. Tuute A. Pasto of Ithaca, N. Y., were married this month in Ruge hall, Episcopal Student center of Florida State College for Women.

Mrs. Pasto was graduated from Florida State College for Women in 1931 where she was a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Mr. Pasto is a native of Ithaca and was graduated from Cornell university where he was a member of Alpha Zeta fraternity. He is associated with the United States government soil conservation department. The couple will make their home in Ithaca, N. Y.

Alumnae Announce Family Additions

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lauren Tracy, of Mobile, Ala., announce the arrival of a son, John Lauren Tracy, Nov. 3, 1936. Mrs. Tracy was formerly Miss Ida Townsend of Jacksonville. She is a member of the class of 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Harper of Jacksonville are the parents of a baby boy, Clements Latimer III, born in October, 1936 Mrs. Harper is the former Miss Clara Pearl Bridges of the class of 1835.

Mr. and Mrs. Excell Johnson of Haines City announce the arrival of a son born this month. Mrs. Johnson is the former Miss Vera Dull, class of 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark M. Richardson of Evinston announce the arrival of a daughter, Charlotte, on Oct. 20, 1936. Mrs. Richardson, prior to her marriage, was Miss Flora Yon of Gainesville. She is a member of the class of 1930.

Alumnae Secretary Wants Suggestions

What are some of the things you think should be included in a Student-Alumnae building at Florida State College for Women?

What are your suggestions for raising the money for the Student-Alumnae building?

Send your ideas before January 1, 1937 to the Alumnae secretary, F.S.C.W., Tallahassee.

New Building Plans Lauded

Alumnae Office Receives Letters Concerning Alumnae Project

Keen interest in the proposed student-alumnae building has been expressed by more than 100 Florida State College for Women alumnae in letters received at the alumnae office since the initial announcement regarding the building was made last month.

The student-alumnae building project, for which $300,000 is needed, was selected last spring by the alumnae council as the major project of the Alumnae association for the current year. The aim of the Alumnae association is to raise one-half of the amount and to endeavor to secure the other half through the state legislature.

Directing plans for the student-alumnae building project is a general finance committee of the Alumnae association headed by Mrs. R. H. Leslie, alumnae secretary. Other members of the committee include Mrs. Annie Houstoun Sensabaugh, alumnae treasurer; Miss Rowena Longmire, representative-at-large of the Alumnae association; Katherine Montgomery, Florence Tryon, Mrs. Caroline LaFontisse McCollum, and Mrs. Dora Sikes Skipper.

During the next week a state finance committee will be selected to direct plans in the various communities of the state for the student-alumnae building project. A committee of students of Florida State college will be appointed before the Christmas holidays to assist the alumnae during their vacation. An advisory committee of interested Florida citizens will also be named.

In order that all students at Florida State College for Women be informed concerning the student-alumnae building, a special chapel program is being planned at which time the general plan will be presented.

Florida State Alumnae Attend AAUW Meeting

Among the Florida State College alumnae attending the recent district meeting of the A. A. U. W. in Tampa, were: Margaret Ansley Bradford, Carmen Bartlett, Mavis Allen, Bessie R. Snavely, Julia Norfleet, Helen Lastra, Rosalie Lastra, Perfecta Colmenares, Thelma Sumner, Lucille Sumner, Rose Chiaramonte, Magdalene Rodrigues, Madele Helms, Elizabeth Sponenbarger, and Dr. Edith Mols Corlew, aformer member of the college faculty.

Dr. Marion J. Hay, of the Florida State College School of Education faculty, gave the main address at the meeting.

Alumnae President Is Made Director in 'Army'

Mrs. E. L. Beeson, of Groveland, president of the Florida State College Alumnae association, was recently named a director in the Woman's Field Army of Florida, an organization to fight cancer through an educational program.

Rachel Pitchford, assistant publicity secretary at the college, is state publicity chairman. "Commander" of the Florida "Army" is Mrs. Ralston Wells, of Daytona Beach.

Alumnae Building Plan Receives Contribution

The first contribution from an individual to the student-alumnae building project has already been received. The contributor is Miss Rowena Longmire, one of the first life members of the Alumnae association. The amount is $10.

With Miss Longmire's contribution a separate account headed "Student Building" was entered in the collage bank.

Positions Open In Many Fields For Graduates

Former Students Working In Business World And Journalism

Forty members of the class of 1936 have been placed in fields other than teaching, according to records in the college placement bureau. Eighteen members of last year's class secured positions in the field of business, seven in home economics, two in journalism, seven in social service, and six in miscellaneous fields.

Graduates who were placed in the field of business are: Janet Cook, stenographer, Cook Insurance company, Apalachicola; Barbara Crosland, (English) assistant to secretary, general college office, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla; Elsie D. Davis, secretary, factory, Jacksonville; Audrey Farmer, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Jacksonville; Madeline Duncan, secretary to dean of students and to the dean of School of Home Economics, Florida State College for Women; Lucile M. Gould, secretary to Edwin J. White, realtor, Tallahassee; Mary Delia Irvine, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Jacksonville; Doris Isted, secretary, director of School of Pharmacy, University of Florida, Gainesville; Clarissa Knight, bookkeeper, business office, Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee; Geneva Lamb, secretary, West Brothers Lumber Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Marjorie Mueller, secretary, William Hepburn Co., Miami; Helen Shepard, stenographer, state home demonstration office, Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee; Audrey Smith, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Jacksonville; Ruth Toland, service department, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Jacksonville; Wynn Tuten, stenographer and athletic director, state hospital, Chattahoochee; Grace Mary Webster, typist, Central Abstract and Title Co., Orlando; Grace Wicks, stenographer, Asiatic Petroleum Co., New York City.

Home economics graduates securing positions are: Bernice Allen, assistant of nurses, General hospital, Mansfield, Ohio; Charlotta Cubillas, student dietitian, Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Md.; Catherine L. Fox, student dietitian, Harper hospital, Detroit, Mich.; Edith M. Hobson, student dietitian, University hospital, Western Reserve, Cleveland, Ohio; Harriette Jefferies, student dietitian, Starling-Loving hospital, Columbus, Ohio; Mercia Scott, student dietitian, Massachusetts general hospital, Boston, Mass.; Marie L. Wesley, health assistant, University of Florida, P. K. Yonge school, Gainesville.

Journalism graduates who were placed are: Elaine Klepper, reporter, Evening Reporter, Orlando; Ruth Persons, reporter, Lake City Reporter, Lake City.

Graduates securing work in miscellaneous fields are: Florence DeVine, statistician, Department of Interior, Washington, D. C.; Helen Hammond, puppet assistant, W. P. A., Jacksonville; Marjorie Harris, research assistant, quail hatchery, government project, Welaka; Josephine King, Kappa Delta inspector; Mauvis Lussier, religious education, Sisters of St. Joseph, St. Augustine; Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, assistant in residence halls and Latin department, Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee.

Graduates placed in the field of social service are: Virginia Cary, social welfare, state hospital, Chattahoochee; Carol Farabee, case aide, district No. 11, Polk county, social welfare; Laura Mathis, visitor, district No. 5, board of social welfare, Jacksonville; Dorothy Osincup, visitor, district No. 12, Orange county, social welfare board; Frances Phillips, visitor, district No. 6, Duval county, social welfare; Edith Webb, visitor, district No. 6, Duval county, social welfare; and Monica Wiley, case aide, state board of welfare, Palatka district.

Two Alumnae Clubs Picks Year's Heads

Pensacola and Jacksonville F. S. C. W. alumnae clubs recently elected officers for the current year.

In Jacksonville Eleanor Warren will succeed Nancy Lutz as president, and in Pensacola Roberta Anson will succeed Helen Kennedy Gunn.

Julia Cecile Lamar is the new treasurer. In Jacksonville Joan Thompson was named treasurer and Virginia Bryant, treasurer.

Katherine Blood is First to Pay Alumnae Dues from Class of '36

Four Graduates of Other Years Become Life Members of Association During Annual Roll Call

Katherine Blood, president of the College Government association during the 1935-36 term has the distinction of being the first member of her class to hold a life membership in the Alumnae association, Mrs. Annie Houston Sensabaugh, alumnae treasurer, announced today.

Four other members of the Alumnae association who became life members this month during the call for dues are Mary Rivers Holt, '23, Daytona Beach; Elizabeth Price (Mrs. F. M. Bradley), '24, of Fort Pierce; Annabel Wesson (Mrs. E. E. Selman), '23, of Tallahassee; and Dorothy Denning (Mrs. W. H. Burrows), '27 of Beltsville, Md.

Alumnae who became life members during commencement week in May include: Gracie Flournoy (Mrs. J. P. Ashmore), '26, of Graceville: Dorothy Dodd, '33, of Tallahassee: and Martha Page (Mrs. Ross Parkhill), '26, of Jacksonville.

Nine alumnae made payments this month toward a life membership in the Alumnae association. They include: Clementine Newman, '32, of Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri; Carra Williams (Mrs. Alto Adams), '23, of Fort Pierce; Evelyn Mudge, '25, of Western Maryland college, Westminister, Maryland; Louise Robles, '28, of Shenandoah college, Dayton, Virginia; Nellie Wells (Mrs. Olin Shivers), '15, of Chipley; Maude E. Britt, '23, of Tallahassee; Nora Weakley, '07, of Washington, D. C.; Vivian Davis, '29, of Fort Lauderdale; and Mary Louise Scales (Mrs. O. H. Beasley), '17, of Roanoke, Virginia.

Approximately 100 alumnae responded to the request for alumnae dues this month. They are: Maxine McClearen (Mrs. Winthrop Randolph), '28, Pensacola; Annie Helms (Mrs. R. D. Baker), '32, Hawthorne; Matilda Trott, '35, Clearwater; Edith Dyer, '14, Aucilla; Sara Lou Hammond, '32, Pensacola; Isabel Brainard, '33, Pensacola; Mrs. Helen Mizell Shelley, '35, Tallahassee; Mrs. May F. Bingham, '30, Miami; Martha Jones (Mrs. Frank Cavallon), '29, New York city; Edith Toffaletti, '35, Port Tampa City; Margery Pierpont, '23, Saratoga Springs, New York; Abbie Lyle, '35; Palmetto; Margaret V. Campbell, '22, Tallahassee; Mary Newman, '33, Tallahassee; Maude Saunders, '29, DeFuniak Springs; McDonald Campbell, '35, Laurel Hill; Margaret Wilkinson, '36, Live Oak; Rachel Pitchford, '29, Tallahassee; Billy Dowdell, '27, Tampa; Doris Lee, '34, Clearwater; Theodora Pace (Mrs. Leonard Foreman), '36, Jacksonville Beach; Myrtis Tureman, '25, Jacksonville; Myrtle Plumb (Mrs. O. C. Howell), '31, Clearwater; Marjorie Carter, '35, Cocoa; Nellie Mae Roberts, '33, Tampa; Martha Virginia Parrish, '33, Live Oak; Thelma Jones, '29, Winter Garden;

Catherine Fuller, '35, Gainesville; Mildred O'Neal McCoy, '33, Hahira, Georgia; Helen Davis, '29, Tallahassee; Estelle Gamble, '36, Ormond, Florida; Elizabeth Lightsey, '32, Foley; Sallie Rowlette (Mrs. D. M. Cone), Lake City; Sara Cone, '32, New York city; Mary Clare Kimbell, '35, Tallahassee; Mary Lorine LaFuse (Mrs. Stephen Mills Reynolds, '31, Princeton, N. J.; Helen Everett, '33, Lakeland; Mary Horne (Mrs. J. T. Dowling), '30, Alliance; Greta Schmitt, '31, Clinton, New York; Marguerite Williams, '32, Eulonia, Ga.; Alvirda Forester (Mrs. Greene S. Johnston III), '33, Marianna; Janice Brill, '36, Miami Beach, Louise Goodbread, '33, Palmetto; Eleanor Hill (Mrs. Ray Riddle), '29, Abington, Va.; Evelyn McMullen (Mrs. William C. Hinsey), '22, Largo;

Mary Lee Davis, '34, Lakeland; Mary Louise Adams (Mrs. James Samson), '37; laVada Sweat, '36, Sanderson; Ella Hamons (Mrs. A. L. Middleton), '28, Hawthorne; Dottie Rae Jenkins, '33, Tampa; Kate Sullivan, '34, Tallahassee; Irene Ladd, '24, Melrose, Mass.; Janice Anita Mitchel, '35, Delray Beach; Anna Jane Anderson, '26, Fort Lauderdale; Mary Cabot, '36, Fort Lauderdale; Irene Dichenmueller, '34, Fort Lauderdale; Gertrude Boyd, '28, Fort Lauderdale; Elizabeth Malone, Hollywood; Mrs. Frances Hurst Wall, '35, Fort Lauderdale; Ruth Teal (Mrs. Hugo Dichtenmueller), 25, Fort Lauderdale; Elizabeth Cermak (Mrs. F. W. Ahrano), '33, Pensacola; Nan McKinnon (Mrs. N. S. Emery), '23, Miami; Billie Faxon, '35, Miami; Katherine Wychoff (Mrs. F. Arthur Nave), '19, Kirklyn Upper Darby, Pennsylvania; Onis Mount, '32, Jacksonville; Dr. Hilda Jane Walters, 531, Richmond, Va.; Eunice Grady, '26, Live Oak; Alice Apthorp (Mrs. A. H. Roberts), '10, Tallahassee; Annie Houstoun (Mrs. R. B. Sensabaugh), '29, Tallahassee; Jewell Cooper, '29, Miami;

Cary Ellis (Mrs. G. Robert Giet), '24, Annapolis; Velma Lee (Mrs. Morris Sanders), '30, McGregor, Texas; Emalene Rankin, '36, Orlando; Joan Thompson, '29, Jacksonville; Doris McKenzie, '36, St. Louis, Mo.; Gertrude Jones, San Diego, Calif.; Jean Rowe (Mrs. L. H. Bagby Jr.), '31, Houston, Tex.; Grace B. Opperman (Mrs. Loren F. Shepers), '38, Topeka, Kansas; and Agnes Irene Reedy, '36, Pensacola.

Florida High School Gives Presentation "Strong Heart" Soon

High school students of the Demonstration school will present the play "Strong Heart" by William C. DeMille in the Augusta Conradi Theater December 3 at 8:15 o'clock. This play has college life for its setting with love for its major theme and football for the minor. It is being directed by Ralph F. Donaldson, speech director of the school, and tickets, which are on sale in the office of the high school, are 25c each.

Three events of last week were the presentation of the program at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher association by the first six grades; a team dance given by the senior council in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock and the football game with the Bristol high team, Friday afternoon, which was lost by the score of 13-0.

This week all children in the school cooperated in gathering a basket of food to be presented through some charity organization to a needy family in the city.

The ping-pong club, organized some weeks ago, is now sponsoring a tournament in which most of the high school student body is participating.

Students Take Further Study

Graduate Work Attracts Twenty-Six Members Of Class of '36

Twenty-six graduates of the class of 1936 are engaged in further study during the 1936-37 term. The colleges in which they are studying are located in ten states and the District of Columbia.

Five members of the class are studying in Florida, four each in New York and Pennsylvania, three each in Ohio and Massachusetts, two in North Carolina, and one each in Maryland, California, Georgia, Missouri, and Washington, D. C.

New York: Katherine Blood, Columbia university; Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, New York School of Social Work, New York; Floy Lenert, post graduate medical school, New York city; Mary McCormick, Parsons Art school, New York city.

Pennsylvania: Frances Gates, Curtiss Institute of Music, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; Charlotte Kinzie, St. Luke's hospital, Bethlehem; Celia Levy, Philadelphia General hospital, Philadelphia; Anne Louise Pates, Washington and Jefferson college, Washington.

Ohio: Mary Carson, Frances Payne School of Nursing, Western Reserve, Cleveland; Lucy Gee Linn, Western Reserve, Cleveland; Virginia Long, College of Music, Cincinnati.

Massachusetts: Mary Irene McKay, Prince School of Retailing, Boston; Rosalind Parker, Bliss Business college, North Adams; Henrietta Thomas, Simmins college, Boston.

North Carolina: Yvette Breaux, Duke university, Durham, N. C.; Nancy Felt, Library School, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Maryland: Melba Hutchison, student technician, John Hopkins university, Baltimore.

California: Emily Johnson, School of the Theatre, Pasadena.

Missouri: Doris McKenzie, student technician, Washington university, St. Louis.

Georgia: Sarah Irene Martin, Library School, Emory university, St. Louis.

Washington, D C.: Leona Stimmel, Temple Business school, Washington.

First Payer

Katherine Blood, above, was the first to pay the life membership dues of the class of 1936. Katherine was president of the College Government association last year.

'35 Graduates Send Reports

Sixteen Class Members Engaged in Various Professions

News items received recently from sixteen members of the class of 1935 show graduates of this class to be engaged in various professions in different parts of the country.

From Baltimore, Md., comes a letter from Margaret Nickle, '35. "I'm still going to school," Margaret writes, "this time at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene, where I'm in the bacteriology department. You see, last year, I spent in the Banting institute at Toronto, Canada, getting some practical experience in laboratory work. Now I'm finishing that off a little bit, and incidentally working for a degree.

"The most interesting thing that has happened to me since I graduated was having the good fortune to be able to spend this last summer traveling with my parents. We went on a tour of Europe which we did in two months, paying a flying visit to nine different countries, and then spending another month seeing England and Scotland and getting acquainted with London. We came home on the Queen Mary, and had the thrill not only of riding on that marvelous ship but also of testing her out in her first rough weather—the Florida hurricane in September."

Margaret's address in Baltimore is 1617 N. Broadway.

Florence Jennings also writes from Baltimore where she is a graduate student and assistant in psychology in the Johns Hopkins university. She says that she is a member of the staff of the "Child Institute" of the Johns Hopkins university and that she expects to receive the Ph.D. degree in psychology in June, 1938.

Helen Parker (Mrs. D. Rainey) of Tallahassee writes that she is just a "housewife."

Caroline Attanasio, '35, writes that she has been employed in the office of the Florida Industrial commission in Tallahassee since July 1, 1935.

Lois Wood and McDonald Campbell are teaching in the Pierce junior high school, Pierce, and Laurel Hill high school respectively.

Virginia Tucker is a secretary in the Parker White Metal and Machine company in Erie, Pa.

Dorothy Morehead (Mrs. James H. Dillard) has a new address—11 Folsey street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Clara Pearl Bridges (Mrs. C. L. Harper, Jr.) is now living at 2926 Post street, Jacksonville.

Betty Bailey (Mrs. Perry E. Gary) writes: "Following graduation I was counsellor of Watersports at Camp Mt. Mitchell in North Carolina. After returning home, Miami, I was employed at Skagseth's Stationery company in capacity of stenographer-bookkeeper, a position I gave up the first of this month. I was married February 28, 1936 to Perry E Gary of this city and we are living at present at 1797 N. E. 2nd Court. I am planning on being present at the class reunion in June, 1937."

Julia Baker is secretary to a law firm in West Palm Beach. Her correct address is 540 Gardenia street.

Edith Smith is teaching the sixth grade in the grammar school in Dade City.

Lois Virginia Williams is teaching mathematics and English in Key West junior high school while Johnnie Hardee is teaching this year in Inverness.

Mary Florence Young is teaching English and Spanish in Pinetta high school.

Jobs Are Held By Fifty-six FSC Graduates

Placement Bureau Says That All But 5 of 61 Get Positions

Fifty-six of the sixty-one graduates who registered with the college placement bureau this year were successful in securing positions, a report just issued from the placement bureau shows.

The alumnae and the positions they hold are as follows: Elisabeth Allen, '35, accounting department, Southern Bell Telephone company, Jacksonville; Josephine Allen, '34, teacher of home economics and general science, Dunellon; Erress Arant, '31, teacher of science, Avon Park; Margaret Arnold, '35, teacher of home economics and general science, Wildwood; Hallie Bailey, '35, teacher of art and English, Orlando; Elvira Bellon, L. I. '35, third grade, Ocoee; Doris Bourgeois, '35, teacher of English, Spanish, and Latin, Stuart; Betty Bradford, '35, case aide, City Board of Public Welfare, Tampa; Nell Brinkley, '34, accounting department, Southern Bell Telephone company, Jacksonville; Evelyn Bulkley, '33, teacher of commerce, Florida High school, Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee.

Myra Bulkley, '35, typist, state road department, Tallahassee; Mary Clements, '29, teacher of public school music, Panama City; Lucile Clendenon, '35, teacher of general science and biology, Frink; Berthe Daniel, '37, teacher of mathematics, Clermont; Vivian Davis, '29, first grade, Ft. Lauderdale; Mannie DeVore, '33, teacher of science, Groveland; June Dixon, '35, teacher of home economics, Moore Haven; Margaret Dodd, '35, home supervisor, Rural Resettlement administration, Bradenton vicinity; Ida Engle, '35, techer of social studies and English, Key West.

Ruth Pohl, '34, teacher of science, Yankeetown, Helenmary Fritsch, '35, teacher of Latin and English, Altha; Mary Anne Gatch, '33, teacher of English and librarian, Bartow, Ida Gates L. I. '34, sixth grade, Quincy; Elyse Gissendanner, '30, teacher of mathematics and Latin, Woodville; Thelma Irene Gray, '29, teacher of Spanish and mathematics, Summerfield; Mildred Gunson, '34, teacher of Mathematics and general science, Live Oak; Erma May Hanscom, '35, librarian Port Pierce; Florence Harper, '33, teacher of history and English, Cabbage Grove school, Taylor county; Lucy Mae Johnson, '31, teacher of Latin and French, Sopchoppy; Margaret C. Johnson, '34, assistant principal, Lawtey; Mrs. Ula Helms Johnson, '22, teacher in junior high school, Eaton Park.

Emma Keis, '29, teacher of art, Passifern school, Hendersonville, N. C.; India Kuder, '33, fourth grade, Monticello; Evelyn L Ahbe, '35, medical technologist, Pensacola hospital, Pensacola; Mrs. Jessie Mae Lathers, '30, principal of North Ridgewood school, Daytona Beach: Nellie Lewis, '25, teacher of Spanish and English, Marianna; Abbie Laura Lyle, '35, librarian, Palmetto; Mary F. McCollum, '32, teacher of English, Groveland; Anita Mitchell, '35, third grade, Delray Beach; Louise Mullinnix, '36, grades, Euclid Avenue school, St. Petersburg; Julia Munroe, '35, Cadet, Jacksonville, Mary Nusum, '34, teacher of home economics, Hastings.

Pauline Page, '32, teacher of science and social studies, Cocoa; Elsie Parker, '35, teacher of the public school of music, Chattahoochee; Hazel Mae Phillips, '33, teacher of home economics, Fellsmere; La Luce Planck, '35, teacher of science, Lake Wales; Helen Schweigert, '35, teacher of social studies and mathematics, Pinetta; Marie Slack, '35, teacher of junior high school English, Holly Hill; Betty Ellen Smith, '35, librarian, Cetterlinus high, St. Augustine; Elizabeth Sponenbarger, '35, teacher of Spanish and English, Bradentown; Odessa Stanford, L. I., '35, teacher of junior high history and English, Niceville.

Eileen Thompson, '34, teacher of English, Frink; Catherine Walters, '29, teacher of home economics, Ft. Myers; Dorothy V. Welsh, '30, librarian, Dania; Zella Louise Williams, '34, teacher of public school music, Sanford; Mary B. Yongue, '33, teacher of mathematics and science, Leesburg.

Classes Move Into Building By Semesters

Business Manager Sees Completion of Wing In Near Future

After nearly a year's reconstruction work the new wing of the Administration building will be completed and ready to be occupied by semesters, J. O. Kellum, business manager of the college, has announced. It had been hoped that the building would be completed by December 15, but the contractor has asked that the time be extended.

Between semesters the college bank, postoffice, business office and other offices will be moved to the new wing. The book store and postoffice will occupy the entire east side of the first floor with the exception of one room which will serve as an office for H. D. Mendenhall, resident engineer of the college. There will also be a space for a bacteriology laboratory on the first floor. The present space occupied by the book store and the postoffice will be used by the music department. A day student rest room will also be on this floor.

The same floor plan as that of the old wing was used in the reconstruction, after a few changes were made to provide for more room. The addition of more windows in the attic will make space available for use as a classroom. A basement under the bookstore provides for a store room, a print shop and an incinerator.

The entire east side of the second floor from the entrance way will be arranged as it was in the old wing. The office of the registrar will occupy the entire west side of this floor. Other offices will be those of the president, business manager, the bank, business and auditor's offices. An information booth will be installed in the main corridor with facilities for a future campus telephone system.

There will be two large classrooms on the third floor and the remainder of the north end of this floor will be occupied by the art department. The attic floor will house five small classrooms.

Mr. Mendenhall said the next offices in this wing will be the best erected on the college, and the office floors are to be covered with composite tile. The purpose of this is to lessen the noise in the offices as much as possible.

—o—

This Week

Continued from page four

mony. The archbishops of Canterbury and York visited the Isle recently as representatives of British Protestant opinion and strongly urged him to reconsider his decision to marry. Edward refused and brought the interview to a close.

—o—

A seaman's strike on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts has successfully put up shipping in all ports for the past several days, Joseph Curran, chairman of the Seaman's Defense committee, the strike organization, declared that 4,000 members of the Masters' Mates and Pilots' association and the National Maritime Engineers' Beneficial association had joined the strike on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Seven thousand men are paralyzing in the Pacific coast walkout, where federal intervention is expected. In all, 218 ships are now blockaded and 37,000 unionized maritime workers are out of jobs.

—o—

University Editorials

Continued from Page Four

But the person who can be genuinely amused when the joke is on himself—he is the one with a real sense of humor. Don't take yourself so seriously. "Laugh your troubles away" may sound a bit bromidic—but go ahead, try it, and you will find new avenues of happiness.

—o—

To those of us who were uninformed voters this year, the Junior Collegian says:

Americans Need Rigorous Citizen Test

Among the many revolutionary changes inserted in the revamped Russian constitution is the principle granted the youth of Russia above 18 to vote. In America today, the youth of this nation is for the first time becoming interested in politics as a group.

While Russia's youth casts its ballot at 18, America's young men and women must pass their 21st birthday before voting. Many are the arguments in favor of keeping the age limit at 21, few are those seeking to lower it. Principal among the arguments in favor of keeping the age limit at 21 is the fact that those who vote should be of age to understand the issues involved in the election.

—o—

All Women Want a Man

Popular Bull Sessions Center Around Stronger Sex According to Student Observer Of College Huddles

BY ANNA MARIE MITCHELL

Women's colleges are noted for their "bull" sessions, and the Florida State College for Women is no exception. Huddled groups of Seminoles and freshmen are interested in marriage as twenty-three and earlier if it can be. Only in the senior group did I find women who finally, at the time, had no desire to marry, but there were of a minority group and in each case admitted that the ideal man appeared they, too, would succumb.

For several weeks I drifted aimlessly about campus seeking available girls for my questioning. I endeavored to get representative groups from each class, as far as I believe that I succeeded. After talking the student under Lovell her these questions during the process of an informal conversation:

1. How old do you want to be when you marry?
2. What do you expect from marriage?
3. How many children do you want?
4. Do you think that a woman can successfully mix a professional career and a marriage career?
5. Do you believe in birth control?
6. Now is there anything which you would like to add in connection with the college woman and marriage?

Although I knew those interviewed, and regarded them as sincere, I was astonished and pleased to find these questions frank and eager to share their beliefs on the important topic of matrimony. Rather than try to compile the various opinions as they were given, I will set down their college classmates thought.

The first question I put was that of the approximate range of age for marriage. Freshmen were the youngest, and the modest year is twenty-five. The girls are eager for marriage and are determined to be of age and prepared in order to better insure a happy marriage. That is why most want to be married.

These young women, trained to be practical, tend to be content with unless their marriage expectations are fulfilled, and their wants from marriage are not to be taken lightly. The two most frequently expectations are "companionship" and "happiness". each freshman wants to cover a multitude of desires. The seniors have great anticipation—"com-took and made a long field goal. Viertel recovered under the Owls goal post on the next play and scored the ball down to the forwards only to have Marchesseau intercept the pass on the Owls goal back. Benson took a short shot no good. Odds recovered the ball back. Benson took a short shot no good. Odds recovered the ball back. Benson but Corey's shot didn't tell. Odds moved rapidly from end to end. Corey broke his foot on a field goal but Marchesseau recovered. Corey broke his foot and also a sprain but without success. West came back into the game for Fryer. Benson made a foul shot and West broke the Odds pass from center. Viertel made a foul shot but didn't score and the ball went to the Owls. Lee forwards, Successive shots by Benson and Viertel missed and Viertel recovered. Viertel made a double but also by Corey brought score for neither side.

Continued from Page Three

Water Pageant Is Presented Thursday

Odds received toss-in but West broke the pass under the goal. A foul shot taken by Viertel missed but she immediately recovered and shot a short side shot that scored as the game ended with the final score 10-17 in favor of the Seminoles.

Miss Ray Frasier was the umpire and Miss Mildred Emmelbaum the scorer.

Items

	Goals	Fouls
Prine, L., R.F.	2	P. 2
Thill, P., L.P.	2	P. 1
Benson, H., C.F.	6	P. 3
Marchesseau, S. G.
Pernellis, R., R.F.
West, P., Capt. C. G.

Substitutes: Lytal, Stambaugh, Fryer, Rice.

Odds

	Goals	Fouls
Corey, F., C.F.	5	P. 1
Metheon, S., L.P.	1	P. 1
White, B., R.F.	2	P. 2
Viertel, H., C.G.		P. 1
Weeks, M., R.G.		P. 2
Miller M., H., L.G.	P. 1. T. 2

Alpha Chi Alpha Plans For Enlarged Jamboree

Alpha Chi Alpha, honorary journalistic society, held its second meeting of the year last Tuesday afternoon.

Hazel Bowman spoke on the Associated Collegiate Press convention which she attended. A report of the club's activities on the campus was read by Margaret Clare Lafferty before sending it to the national quarterly, Al-Chi.

The group drew up tentative plans for the annual jamboree to be held in the spring. It was suggested that other college publications be asked to take part in the jamboree and that Helen Hunt School be invited to attend at that time. Hazel Bowman is chairman for this affair.

—o—

Chairman

Miss Maude Flowers, director of the Florida Players, and student chairmans of Parents' Days, as interviewed by Miss Lafferty, while seated by faculty-student committee.

two children and a normal marriage relationship. They agree that interesting ideas on the subject. Many believe that these financially able and mentally fit should have as many children as they can manage well, at least five (I wonder what the Harvard men would say!). One girl, a firm believer in birth control, does not approve of the sterilization of the mental defectives, stating that a men are not to be judges of the fitness of their fellowmen to having children. Most of the college women advocate a conscious limiting of the size of their families, a child may receive the opportunity and training it deserves.

My last question was given in order to get any general ideas that the women wanted to make and had not had the chance to express in the previous questions. Many seemed to have thought out. Nearly all are of the opinion that the college girl must make the better wife, that she has lived more fully than the average high school graduate, and is more capable of rearing children. Most of them want their husbands to be better educated then they are and to be superior in mental ability. Also they advise in order to avoid having a "ben-pecked" husband. Several suggested, and wisely, that the couple planning to marry get together and talk things over, come to definite agreements about their future relationship, and if necessary write their ideas out before attempting marriage.

Not one person suggested that the two have physical examinations prior to marriage. However, many were quick to mention divorce saying that it is the only way out of a hopelessly mismated marriage. Although most have no scruples about divorce, a few firmly believe that if there are children, the husband-wife relationship is over that in name, should continue. The senior group here stands out in free discussion. "I remember one senior's saying: "If a college graduate would mix a little common sense with her education, she could make a success of marriage. If she considers herself too much and neglects her husband, she will fail. Men are psychological studies; they are to be handled with kid gloves—and no gloves are put to be cast aside when the man is supposedly safe after a ceremony which unites the two. Nor are men to be considered as nice meal tickets, which

Now being featured at
JEWELER'S NAME
. . a 17 Jewel BULOVA
American Chipper . . streamlined! for only $29.75
Goddess of Time in yellow .
The lowest price ever for a fine, dependable 17 Jewel Bulova
The Gift of a Lifetime!
MOON JEWELRY CO.
"It's Easy to Pay the Moon Way"
AUTHORIZED BULOVA DISTRIBUTORS

COMPLIMENTS OF
THE CAPITAL CITY BANK
Tallahassee, Florida
Member F. D. I. Corporation

YOUR FAVORITE TEA ROOM
Will Re-Open All Thanksgiving Day.
Special Dinners Served at Noon and Night at Our Usual Prices.
THE THREE TORCHES

Caldwell Will Discuss Religion Among Stars

The Rev. E. D. Caldwell, Presbyterian minister in Tallahassee, will speak on "Religion Among the Stars" at the meeting of the Astronomy club next Wednesday at 8 o'clock in the Administration building.

Plans for the club camp are being made and the trip is tentatively scheduled for the second week in December.

—o—

a'ter the banquet may be discarded. Sometimes I can't understand women; they act differently at bridge—and if they do give up golf when their hands aren't in tope—well, they are just poor sports and social outcasts."

Most of the men firm in their conviction that they will be better wives and mothers because of their business training. They also acknowledge the fact that their training will be valuable to them in inspiring to find eighteen hundred in one group willing to take the rust? Already interested in their personal experience a graduate may have ability and ambition and if they do not strive for the best. they are unsuccessful. The only case did a girl absolutely say that she would let religion or rationality interfere with her marriage, even if she loved the man; this, however, perchance was a girl of fervorous within the white group.

The reason that she advanced was that the future happiness of her children. Such in general are some of the various college opinions of marriage as expressed by the cleverest and most liberal mind of sophisticated of seniors, the radical, as well as the conservative freshmen.

As I mentally sum the material given, I discover some definite conclusions. I am confronting numerous students and perhaps the various colleges agree that later marriage happens. Many have been understanding necessity of a sane birth control knowledges although they refuse to have over many children. Some have a fear of giving birth to children with a forehead to such an event with apprehension and dread. Too, numerous women express a very independent attitude, a dangerous one—"I will do as I please with my husband will do likewise." These problems must be solved by them when they may concern before their marriages will be secure. None of the girls suggested the problems of "the other woman", "companionate love." "free love," and other modern theories to marriage. The women are anticipating the best, not openly considering the possibility and willing to give their share. They have a bunch of marriage ideals their realities are as fine as their plans.

Men wanted!" It is obvious, yet many, I am sure, can take the sign down. Speaks on career conference, Dean Rogers, on next week's dean, Specials on Thursday and Friday.

—o—

Freshman Gives Viewpoint Of Underclassmen In Essay

Says Colleges Object to Having Time of Studies, Friends and Interests Taken Up With Continuous Needless Meetings

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of winning essays in the contest sponsored by the C. G. A. on "What I Think of Student Government." This article won honorable mention.

—o—

By GAYLE GATHRIGHT

I am a freshman. There seems to be something very funny about freshmen: they are little, infinitesimal somethings or others to be tolerated, to be pushed and pulled and forced into a set shape. We cannot think for ourselves—we are freshmen. We are told that we can think. We are told that we are grown women and able to make decisions for ourselves. Dr. Rainey, at Emory university, while speaking to the freshmen, said that if we troubled to notice a speaker would tell us that. Another ego by saying "You remember", but he didn't. He assumed a "physical attraction" that must be met. Dark, handsome men, men who are tall, men who have wealth, men who show their friends a "romantic" interest in women, men who give "romantic love" are very fine and desirable, but if they do not have a ability and ambition and if they do not strive for the best, they are unsuccessful. The only case did a girl absolutely say that she would let religion or rationality interfere with her marriage, even if she loved the man; this, however, perchance was a girl of fervorous within the white group.

The reason that she advanced was that the future happiness of her children. Such in general are some of the various college opinions of marriage as expressed by the cleverest and most liberal mind of sophisticated of seniors, the radical, as well as the conservative freshmen.

As I mentally sum the material given, I discover some definite conclusions. I am confronting numerous students and perhaps the various colleges agree that later marriage happens. Many have been understanding necessity of a sane birth control knowledges although they refuse to have over many children. Some have a fear of giving birth to children with a forehead to such an event with apprehension and dread. Too, numerous women express a very independent attitude, a dangerous one—"I will do as I please with my husband will do likewise." These problems must be solved by them when they may concern before their marriages will be secure. None of the girls suggested the problems of "the other woman", "companionate love." "free love," and other modern theories to marriage. The women are anticipating the best, not openly considering the possibility and willing to give their share. They have a bunch of marriage ideals their realities are as fine as their plans.

Men wanted!" It is obvious, yet many, I am sure, can take the sign down. Speaks on career conference, Dean Rogers, on next week's dean, Specials on Thursday and Friday.

—o—

ding their dates goodbye until another week-end—these indicate the true spirit of F.S.C.W. are not neglecting their scholarship. The volumes of chatter on men, the after midnight conversation of room mates on marriage—all is wholesome and challenging. The theme is simple—Men Wanted, and quite often, Men Found.

GELBERG'S
EVENING FASHIONS FOR THE HOLIDAYS READY FOR THE HOLIDAYS
AND
GELBERG'S PRESENTS THE GAYEST FASHIONS FOR THE MORE FESTIVE AFFAIRS.
EVENING WRAPS
$7.95 - $10.95 - $14.95
FROCKS
$7.95
$10.95 - $12.95 - $14.95
BAGS TO MATCH
$1.00 - $1.95 - $2.95
GELBERG'S
"COMPLETE STORE FOR LADIES"

The Social Week

Cotillion Dance Saturday To End Holiday Festivity

The annual formal dance spon-sored by the Cotillion club will be held Saturday night in the gymnasium from 8 o'clock to 12 o'clock to the music being played by Chris Davidson and his Quinsy Quartette. This affair will end the Thanksgiving activities on campus.

Admission to the dance is by invitation only as the space limits the attendance but observers may sit in the balcony to watch the proceedings.

During the evening Anita Wal-ker will sing the vocal refrains and Don Benson will sing several specialty numbers.

The gym will be decorated by members of the club and will be given out with Odd and Even schemes. A Thanksgiving motif will also be used according to college colors of garnet and gold.

The Cotillion club will tap 22 members during the program and will follow the tapping with the traditional "Cotillion club lead dance."

Girls and their dates attending the formal affair will be: the so-rority presidents, Mary Ann Barbara Moore, Harry Jarret; Charles, Marion Scott, Prentiss Roberts, Kitty Hall, Jane Crain, Madeline Mc-Millan, Mary Ann Hutchinson, Marie Anderson, Steve Rickards; Christine Patterson, Billy Mason; Jane Rice, Wesley Hollings-worth; Jane Gale, Ray Newell; Mary Johnson, Jimmy Gunnells; Jane Hall and Mary Katherine Brown.

Of ethics members of the sorori-ties: Mary Jeanne McKay, Wade Mahaffey; Jo Bunion, Jimmy Deaner, Mary Miller, Dot Stuart, Mary Hall Mills, Mar-ion Tilla, Myrvin Everett, Wini-fred Evart and Bill Taylor; Marie Bryce Kelley, Emerson Anderson, Mary Conn and Benjamin Weissman.

Alpha Vamps Attend

Village Vamps and their dates are: Ethel Hall and Leona Hen-drick Morgan; B. B. Clifford, Ida Mary Mason, Dorothy Brown Brooks, Malcolm McCrory; Mrs Hester, Ann Towson; Hester Ann Towson, Mary O'Connell; Dot Byrd, Jim McCarty; Peggy Mc-Carty, Randolph Thrower; Mary Dunbrity, John Love; Mary Lane, Dannie Baker, Bill Jones; Mary Lou Noland, Frances La-Roche, Boyd Harris; Virginia La-Roche, Jack Caldwell; Virginia Morgan, Virginia Dowling, God-frey Smith; Eula Lee Sumrall, Junior Harper; Sara Moor, Julian Hall; Emily Blackwell, M. M. Ellis; Billy Bowman, Peggy Van Cleve Hedrick; and Betty Ayres.

Attending from the Cotillion club will be: Phil Asher, Billy Bass, Jane Crook, Jere Crook, Billy Tomaselli; Mary Frances Ann Arra Neill, Virginia Per-ry, Booky Cooper; Jane Thorin, Joe Whitaker, Dorothy Barr, Sara Ed Davis, Marion Heger, Emelie Lee Lockwood, Mary Jane Michel, Betty Cleveland, Lilla Payne-ter, and Nell Robey Webb.

Freshmen and Dates

Members of the Freshman class who will be at the dance are: Jimmie Rose, Emma Spaulding, Doug Brown; Doris Purchase, Jimmie Robb; Pearl Gay, Estelle Gay, Lewis Dowd; Marjorie Mixon, Buchannan Buck; Jean Nix, C. W. DeLong; Betty Jane Davis, Dick Baker, Murray Lou Mixon, Jack Whidden; Betty Miller, Bill Lewis; M. E. Stubbs, Arthur Barwell; Ruth Rye-an, David Evenson; Jean Mor-ris, Bill Reese, Bunny Turnbull, Albert Parrish; Mary Ivy Wal-lace Mayo; Nora Bryan, Hilton Hollingsworth; Faye Ad-ams, Eustace O'Brien; Julia Bur-nett, Lovett Burnette; Jeanette Sherbal, Bob Withers; Allayne Owens, Wilson Brodi; Kitty Ann Wallace Sewell; Lorraine Bryant, Fred Dorman; M. E. Bar-ron, John Hawrickie; M. J. Noe, Bo Sullivan; Frances O'Steen, and Ernest Poulo.

Sophomore Class

Mary Vaa, Evelyn Anderson, W. Johnston; Nellye Woodham, Betty Blalock, Esther Griffing, Mary Kelly, Irving Grissett; Elma Dell, Tate Collins; Mary Elisa-beth Ramey, Bryan McCarty; Miss Laurie Polk, Walter How-ell; Ruth Cleveland, John Berk-ley; Dee Carroll, Gordon Thom-as, Freddie Price, Elgin VonBus-kirk; Mary Eugenia Death, Allison Dyer, Jewel Turner, Glen Bailey; Mildred Brunow, Hewett Manley; Betty Scott, Ed Skipper; Ida Belle Pitts, John Pain; Hazel Hin-ely, Tommy Livingston; Elva Mel-

Kenneth Bickers; Elisabeth Spenney, Ed Hiles; Zullene Rus-sell, Francis Lovett, Shirley Pea-berton, Tommy Feaster; Hazel Duncan, Bill Mundy; Lena Lee Whiting, Charles Mitchell, Geral-dine Knapp, Billy Goss; Ruth Pruden, Jack Parker; Hazel Mc-Fred Blended; Betty Skinner, Wal-lace Cowlishaw; Edith Daniel Randolph Parrish; Mrs. Alma Martin, Jack Nelson, Carolyn Hall, Jimmie Hendricks; Mary Bell Ross, David Cannon; Mrs. Mc-Cahill, Victor Orley; Sarah Moore, Donald Blackman; Lorline Dalton, George Collins; M. E. Bur-son, John Alsey; Mary Nolle, Fred Gilbert; Mary Desperwyer, Seymour Kail; Martha Kennedy, John Simpson; Mrs. Alma Overton Kemp; Alma Bevile, Cur-tis Bevile; Jessie McCollum, Da-vid Riddick; Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Hartsfield; Grace Strobreth, J. W. Hask; Florence Jones, James Re-gan; Mrs. Ruth Mundy, Lena Pal-mer, Clark, Winifred Bill, Hugh West-berry.

Juniors and Dates

Edith Hays Effinger, Mac Gold-smith; Mary Elizabeth Hopkins, Dot Osburn, William Condon; Dorothy Adkison, Paul Hopkins; Marjorie Butler, Bennkin; Hazel Myrick, T. L. Bar-rett; Mary Athelind, James Verven; Margaret Stout, Grover Robinson; Mary Lou Bell, Bill Miller; Mary Lou Bell, Bill Miller; Mary Massey, Ralph McKinnon; Barbara Sanders, Jack Florence; Martha Lester, Creel Nugent, Irene Foster, Bill Hendry; Mar-jorie Lee Lockwood, Lois Mc-John Marshall; Lucille Williams, Ernest Moore; Pair Milner, Jes-sumes Hunt; Mary Gramlich, Ed Marshick; Elaine Davis, Paul Th-ompson; Virginia Brooks, Jack Elizabeth Jinks, George Milton, Dorc McCullough, Jack Herring; Jay Trantham, Bill Hunter; Mary Sumner, Bill Kill; Virginia Mc-Kinnon, Bill Lodge; Virginia Jo-nette Stump, Ed Skipper; Sallie Bett Nuzum, Clyde Ramsey; Mar-jorie Wilson, Jerry Grandin; Ela Arcesena, Tom Alexander; Ma-rion Alice Rogers, Francis Hard-ee; Carmelite McCall, Kenneth Harrell; Doris Pounds, Fred Sweat; Elizabeth Mims, Bobby Bond; Molly Scales, Willie Joe Moody; Thomas Andrews, Ray Pfeiffer; Grace Taylor, and Jim Barrineau.

Seniors Attending

Seniors and their dates are: Douglas Delaney, Bill Blanding; Jo Thalan, Charles Palmer; Mar-jo Clayton, George Sanders; Bet-ty Parker, Sherd Calaway; Mar-Ennets, Harold Riker; Kathleen Harris, M. Love; Katherine Mc-Garry, Frank Lewis; Frances Ni-lis, Harwood Ellis; Betty Ham-mond, Hannibal Hannibal; Anna Annin, Lloyd Annin; Betty Peck, Bill Dowling; Victoria Crisp, Cliff Davis; Olive Dame, Jim Spencer; Marie Ginn, Ralph Wilson; Rita Sumner, Harry Snyder; Ruth Mar-rick, Claude Adams; Olive Mc-Adams, Malcolm McWilliams; Ad-beth Harden, Otis Smith; Leona Rehbinder, W. C. Johnson, Mar-garet Neff, Hodges Stephens; Sadler, Ralph Neill, Margaret Ware, Walter Sheffield; Mary Ann Gardner, Clarence Mitchell; Mildred Hurst, Sam Jones; Martha Lee Wilkerson, George Connolley; Anabelle Larson, Billy DeMiller; Helen Raiford, J. B. Patterson; Sallye Anthony, Guyte McCord; Elizabeth Ayala, Ralph Spaulding; Lorena Lamar, Martha Wynn; Maxine Ward, Roe Wilkins; Jean Brown, Buford Lewis; Mary Ellen Smith, Glenn Barrow; Fenton Woodward, Emmett Foster; Ruth Lind, Bob Miller; Marianne Reed, Ralph Jones; Frances Marron, Jay Hiles; Mary Katherine Dis-sing, Barbara Curry, Clayton Underhill; Betty Cooper, Jerald Jones; Mildred Waite Stacey Norman; Mary Beath, Bob John-son; Marvelle Thompson, Bud Mosley; Betty Scott, Ed Skipper; Ida Belle Pitts, John Pain; Hazel Hin-ely, Tommy Livingston; Elva Mel-

Annual Founder's Day Breakfast is Held On Thanksgiving

Actives and pledges of Delta Delta Delta sorority held their an-nual Founders' Day breakfast Thanksgiving morning at 11:a Three Torches tea room celebrat-ing the founding of the sorority on Thanksgiving Eve, 1888, at Boston University.

The long table was deco-rated in silver, gold, and blue, the sorority colors, and novel place-cards were used. Mrs. Kenneth McGowan, alumnae advisor, was the principal speaker. Patronesses and old alumnae were invited to enjoy the affair.

Hostesses at this time were: Azella Appleyard, Helen Buker, Jane Brown, Janet Charles, Lou Gillies, Elizabeth Girby, Eleanor Hickson, Sarah Lewis, Eugenia Glass, Mary Jane Lewis, Jane Miller, Janie McCahill, Dorothy Moore, Betty Ann Rowland, Betty Seek, Irene Peck, Dorothy Rick-ards, Ruth Sadler, Joan Ross, Anita Tilton, Jane Whitehurst, Mary Scott Ware, Lucile Williams.

Charlotte Hall, Mary Lou Bell, Letitia Bell, Janice Brown, Dorothy Carruthers, Carolyn Col-lins, Mary Collins, Charlotte Con-nell, Merle Dedle, Lorraine Grahn, Mary Jane Gramlich, Ruth Hen-derson, Gene Charlotte Kerns, Mar-ilis McAndrew, Mary McCahill, Mary Louise Lawrence, Mary Noble, Nell St. John, Emily Payne, Ruth Prudden, Jane Rogers, Mary Story, Dorothy Smith, and Marian Vals.

First Parents' Day Program At F.S.C.W.

Continued from page one

parents.

This morning there will be tours of the campus by interesting build-ings and exhibits on campus, di-rected by members of the Y. W. C. A. The campus and dairy are open to visitors. Guides will conduct visi-tors on the tour of the campus.

ball. Classes, laboratories, book-store and exhibits will be open each day to guests. At 2 o'clock "Books for Pleasure and Profit" will be the subject of a talk by Miss Ruth Mills in Lulus Richardson, libra-rian, in the browsing room in the library.

Play night at the physical education building will begin at 3 o'clock. Members of the alumnae were entertained this afternoon at a tea given by Miss Lois Mc-the home of Miss Elizabeth Lynn.

Miss Maude Powers, chairman of the Thanksgiving banquet, to be held in the college dining hall, is general chairman of this first Parents' Day program. Assisting Miss Mc-Katherine Montgomery. Miss Kemper Martin Moore and Miss Lelia Venable. Among the organi-zations which assisted were Mor-tar Board, Cadewell; Virginia Mc-W. C. A., and student secretaries.

The Thanksgiving celebration will get under way Tuesday with the "Even" demonstration. "Time Will Tell" will be the theme of the pageant to be staged in the college auditorium. The cast of approximately seventy-five students will represent scenes of all the ages flavored with the "Even" spirit.

Following the demonstration the Odds put on their traditional serpentine dance, winding and unwinding up their "night-out" with pep talks and cheery cheering in the gym for the administration build-ing.

Odd-Even rivalry got its sec-ond impetus early Wednesday morning when color rushing was the order of the day. While in-dividual color rushing was going on in the dormitories, runners for both groups raced to pin their streamers on the main buildings on campus.

Continued from page one

Wednesday evening "The Wedding Knell," a one-act trag-ic comedy in three acts, and a mod-ern dance program will be presented in the college pool. The pool was decorated to resemble a throne room, and the audience sought to win the favor of the sovereign, Bella Perona.

The dance program, directed by Miss Nellie Bond Dickerson, was a presentation of class work in the fields of modern, folk, and tap dance. The theatrical dance was divided into two sections, one of rhythmic composition and a set of studies in movements. The folk dances were composed of Spanish dances from various prov-ince accountrines. Those of tap in-cluded a series of dances which showing the advancement from the elementary steps, by the com-bination of these, to the more complicated steps.

At 2:30 o'clock approximately 1,700 parents, students, faculty, and guests gathered in the college dining room for a turkey dinner re-plete with all the customary Thanksgiving trimmings. Fol-lowing an ensemble blessing, Mary Miller the toastmistress, in-troduced Beth Deane, who of-fered a toast to the victors and the victors. Then came the cry of the meal toasts to the Odds and the Evens. Sara Moore and Gattrell, Mae Dunaway, Jane Schreiber, Eleanor Miller, Betty Rountree, Sophie Pegg, Mary Ayala, Louise Rooks, Bev Sweet gaudy, Vernette Herring, Margaret Wiggins, Elvira Cole, Dorothy Brewster, Frances Moss, Marjorie Jean Bass, Ruth Avera, Martha Wynn Burnett, Harriet Post, Evelyn Steel, Virginia Surman, Katherine Glenn, Janet Kunney, Ann Dixon, Vir-ginia Newbern, Geraldine Alford, Ann Gray Anderson, Helen Mer-ryday, Margaret Wilson, Pauline Arnold, Beale Effinger, Lois Al-tins, Cora Belle Anders, Ruth Sanderson, Edith Mason, Sara McGregor, and Louise McKinnon.

THANKSGIVING DINNER IS FOLLOWED WITH INFORMAL DORMITORY COFFEES

Each dormitory served after dinner coffee Thanksgiving for the parents and other visitors. Various entertainments were giv-en by some of the halls.

The honorees for the affair in Oldchrist were Bernice Oliver and Kathleen Robinson. While Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Makemson poured, the following served: Connie Wallis, Elsie Mosher, Roberta Rogers, Lillie McQuire, Freida Rose Perry, Peggy Boteffer, Dot Swanbom, Julia Beckman, and Holly Walker.

At 8 o'clock the following pro-gram was given: vocal trio, "Thanks Be to God," by Marian Carson, Josephine Bludon, and Jeannette Wrichman; a humorous reading, "The Philosopher" by Marjorie Jones; a song, "I'll See You Again" sung by Mary Lou and Edna Yacobian; a reading and dance by Margaret Bethea, and a xylophone solo, "The Holy City" by Margaret Tipp.

The honorees at Magnolia were Sara Builders and Janice Bor-lon. Mary Rice, chairman, poured and the following served: Mary Lou Carruthers, Carolyn Col-lins, Mary Collins, Charlotte Con-nell, Merle Dedle, Lorraine Grahn, Mary Jane Gramlich, Ruth Hen-derson, Gene Charlotte Kerns, Mar-ilis McAndrew, Mary McCahill, Mary Louise Lawrence, Mary Noble, Nell St. John, Emily Payne, Ruth Prudden, Jane Rogers, Mary Story, Dorothy Smith, and Marian Vals.

Reynolds Presents Program

The program presented by Reynolds was as follows: vocal solo, "Ave Pabelo"; a vocal solo "American Lullaby" by Lois Bowen; a read-ing by Lillian Sue Young; and a dance by Ruth Stonecipher and Mary Jane Gramlich. Another selec-tion by the string trio.

Hostesses for Jennie Murphree were Sara Hutchinson and Mary Reynolds. Phi Phi Asher and Jo Bunion poured and the following served: Louise Lingo, Louise Ge-han, Mary Lopez, Elizabeth Pearce, Betty Wynn, Dorothea Marsh, and Dora Helen Bagzell.

Hostesses for Bryan and Rey-nolds were Sue Wallace and Edith Manford. Miss Emily Wilburn poured and the following served: Sara McGregor, Kathryn Todd, Sara Nance, Martha Lester, Mar-cery Oates, Barbara Moore, Mar-ie Ward and Dot Swanbom.

Sigma Kappa's Receive Award For Decoration

Continued from page one

at the top held two girls pictured as Odd and Even cheer leaders.

The next section was featured in the center of the lawn at the Alpha Delta Pi house. On each side were card board girls, one in Odd Even colors and the other in yellow and green of the Evens. Over the entrance was a "Welcome Parents" sign, while the pillars on each side were trimmed in the center of the main entrance. Even on each side were sheaths with the Greek letters of the sor-ority carved in them. In the mid-circle on the front lawn was "Wel-come Mom-Pop."

At the Alpha Xi Delta house a lone, representing one of the four odd horsemen and a white horse-led spirit of the Evens held full rein. Fruit arranged to form the Even colors were hung above the porch.

Below an arch extending over the entrance to the pillars was a huge pumpkin and the Tri Delta House. The pillars at each side were decorated in Even and Odd colors while on the lawn in red and gold letters was "Welcome Visitors."

The yard of the Theta Upsilon house was inclosed by a log fence. From the gate streamers extending from the top of the porch were, on one side a Purdue maid in the Odd color and opposite stood a Purdue man, dressed in Even col-or, in the yard among fallen leaves were two shaves.

The Phi Mu sorority members decorated the front of their house as a fire-place using red crepe pa-per over lighted for the flames. Crepe paper of the Odd and Even colors were used as a screen for the fire-place and "Welcome" in large letters hung over the en-trance.

At the Zeta Tau Alpha house a large basket was placed on the "en-ve" hung over the entrance. On one side of the basket was an arrow pointing toward the house and opposite stood a sign on which the words "Mens" and "Refreshments Special" were printed. Streamers in both Odd and Even colors were used and cardboard figures above the porch represented Odds and Evens.

The theme used at the Kappa Delta house was built around the uncertainty as to the victor in Odd-Even games and demonstra-tions. Two large cans, one with the Indian head representing Evens and the other with the buf-

COMPLIMENTS OF

LEWIS STATE BANK

"Florida's Oldest Bank"

Member of F. D. I. Corporation

D. Phi E. Pledges Are Honorees at Party

A pledge party was held last Saturday night for the pledges of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority in the chapter house on Pensacola street.

A skit was given during the evening after which refresh-ments were served.

Those present were, Margaret Fuhler, Edna Feinberg, Harriette Tobin, Florence Kanack, Connie Lee, Judith Wilensky, Geraldine Rosenberg, Rose Levin, Edith Harowitz, Hannah Bisoow, Mar-garet Benjamin, Mordie Black, Pat Hacks, Rosalyn Silverberg, Aline Lippman, Kathryn Kass, Rose Lee Feinerman, Rosalie Feinberg, Lillian Fleet, Frances Gralla, Ida Cretti, Kronenfeld, Janene Mankes, Jeannie Steiner, Martel Tepper, Clara Trushin, and Shirley Bartz.

Sports Squints

Continued from page three

color-rush, let's go in for a less strenuous activity—sleeping, for instance.

All those girls who are going to the Thanksgiving dance had better start breaking in the new "formal specials," for we'll have to have to call in the marines (with apologies to Lowell) for being snubbed) to rescue the sinking damsels.

Disgruntle! Disgruntle! There should be a course taken on com-plex intended principally to keep a lengthy account of all the pic-ture "shows" that have been ar-rived from the unusual activity of the week-end. Have you seen the one about the girl rejoicing she didn't have a pie-bed, only to find that the contents of sev-eral salt-shakers?

The sorority houses tried to outdo themselves with houses corn, log fences, streamers, tur-keys, and what-not this week. Some girls showed unusual ability in climbing trellises, railings, and porch-pillars. Wonder if there were any casualties other than splinters and mashed thumbs?

Have you noticed the two-seater bicycle used in Even dem-onstration on Tuesday, pedaled around campus? Nice quiet form o. exercise—good for erase fat! The lover required two, if tes-timonials can be believed.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast"—quote the victims of Odd victory, and what rip-roaring good games!

Safe representing Odds, were con-fined to the field.

On the lawn in front of the Beta Phi Alpha house a picture was placed representing a scene from the first Thanksgiving as the pil-grims and Indians entered.

At the Pi Beta Phi house an arched canopy was constructed over the walk leading to the door. Crepe paper of Odd and Even colors was used and a scene sign was erected over the arch.

The Delta Phi Epsilon house used sheaves on each side of the walk and near the entrance stood pilgrims to which streamers of crepe paper were attached leading to the upper part of the porch.

CAMPUS SOCIAL SORORITIES PLAN FOR GUEST ENTERTAINMENT THANKSGIVING

Honoring parents, friends, and dates who will visit on campus this week-end, social sororities have planned a series of enter-tainments beginning Thanksgiv-ing and extending through Sun-day. These affairs include re-ceptions, bridge parties, skits, and informal dancing.

Members of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority held a reception for vis-iting parents Thursday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Punch and cake will be served.

Hostesses were, Margaret Fuh-ler; Edna Feinberg, Harriette Tobin, and Idalia Baumstein.

Alpha Gamma

Members and pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority held in-formal open house Thanksgiving night at their house. The dec-orations will be chrysanthemums and the flower. Later in the evening, the pledges will give a skit.

Hostesses are, Betsey Ander-son, Frances Bubop, Madge Col-lins, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Fee, Mary Jane Gallemore, Helen Godwin, Julia Harrison, Geor-ann Hart, Louise Hill, Julia Hodgson, Elsie Kersey, Nellie La-Prade, Catherine McGarry, Mary Moore, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary Nell Pinchard, Margaret Ram-sey, Shirley Screven, Clara Stewart, Amer Vivian Turner and Ruth Whitaker.

Pledges taking part in the skit were, Margaret Chandler, Flora Boisart, Carolyn Boyd, Jessie Coachman, Jane Cooper, Martha Dell Crabtree, Elizabeth Gaines, Alma Godwin, Betty Hodgson, Irene Hutchinson, Helen Lee, Betty Lou Lindsey, Mildred Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Patterson, Louise Rooks, Mary Raff, Isabelle Satterfield, Saura Cole Trawick, Edith Underhill, Joyce Vaa, Nancy Williamson, Myrtle Wilson, and Jane Soloid.

Alpha Chi Omega

Members and pledges of Alpha Chi Omega sorority gave a skit for the pledges of Beta Sigma Phi for the parents Thanksgiving evening in the sorority house on Park avenue.

Acting as hostesses were Jan-ice Borton, Beverly Brown, Eth-beth Carter, Helen Cate, Dorothy Crews, Roberta Diamond, Eleanor Dodd, Patricia Foster, Lourine Goodman, Rosemary Hamely, Betty Hatch, Katherine Kyle, Anita Leonard, Dorothy Leach, Mar-garet Murray, Eleanore Olen, Marjorie Oates, Ruth Riddle, Lil-lian Schulte, Sarah Sealey, Mil-dred Seekins, Marie Spurlock, Alayne Clayton, Charlotte Wat-kins, and entending through Sun-day. These affairs include re-ceptions, bridge parties, skits, and informal dancing.

Members of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority held a reception for vis-iting parents Thursday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Punch and cake will be served.

Hostesses were, Margaret Fuh-ler; Edna Feinberg, Harriette Tobin, and Idalia Baumstein.

Alpha Gamma

Members and pledges of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority held in-formal open house Thanksgiving night at their house. The dec-orations will be chrysanthemums and the flower. Later in the evening, the pledges will give a skit.

Hostesses are, Betsey Ander-son, Frances Bubop, Madge Col-lins, Victoria Curtis, Margaret Fee, Mary Jane Gallemore, Helen Godwin, Julia Harrison, Geor-ann Hart, Louise Hill, Julia Hodgson, Elsie Kersey, Nellie La-Prade, Catherine McGarry, Mary Moore, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary Nell Pinchard, Margaret Ram-sey, Shirley Screven, Clara Stewart, Amer Vivian Turner and Ruth Whitaker.

Pledges taking part in the skit were, Margaret Chandler, Flora Boisart, Carolyn Boyd, Jessie Coachman, Jane Cooper, Martha Dell Crabtree, Elizabeth Gaines, Alma Godwin, Betty Hodgson, Irene Hutchinson, Helen Lee, Betty Lou Lindsey, Mildred Meigs, Eleanor Mullins, Kathryn Patterson, Louise Rooks, Mary Raff, Isabelle Satterfield, Saura Cole Trawick, Edith Underhill, Joyce Vaa, Nancy Williamson, Myrtle Wilson, and Jane Soloid.

Alpha Chi Omega

Members and pledges of Alpha Chi Omega sorority gave a skit for the pledges of Beta Sigma Phi for the parents Thanksgiving evening in the sorority house on Park avenue.

Acting as hostesses were Jan-ice Borton, Beverly Brown, Eth-beth Carter, Helen Cate, Dorothy Crews, Roberta Diamond, Eleanor Dodd, Patricia Foster, Lourine Goodman, Rosemary Hamely, Betty Hatch, Katherine Kyle, An-

Parents!

We greet you with a wel-coming salute

And congratulate you on your good judgment in se-lecting this excellent college for your daughter's educa-tion.

The Vogue

And, may we introduce our-selves. We are one Florida apparel shop having a state wide reputation, with a 14-year background of serving conscientiously and well the students of Florida State College for Women.

Compliments of

SOUTHEASTERN TELEPHONE COMPANY

THE DUTCH KITCHEN

Special Thanksgiving Dinner

Bring Your Parents!

PRIVATE ROOMS FOR PARTIES

ADAMS STUDIO

119½ East College

"Photographs That Please"

Songs Gossip Make Dinners

The Tolling of the Bells Brings the Rumble Of Many Feet

Splashing water, gay laughter and occasional snatches of song are the usual sounds that may be heard in the dormitories when the dinner hour draws near at Florida State College for Women.

As the bell announces the dinner hour, groups of girls emerge from their rooms and flock toward the entrances of the dining room, exchanging "heys" and "hellos" with friends.

During the course of the evening meal, conversation centers mainly around happenings in the classroom such as the latest tale of a professor, surprising statement of a well-known fellow student, or the break made by another student. Then someone nearly always relates an embarrassing moment.

When dessert has been served there is no danger an excuse for lingering in the cheerful atmosphere of the dining-room. Regretfully, girls rise and leave for their respective rooms, once again overtaken by the "student feeling." Some even don pajamas so they will not be tempted to take trips their studies by a visit to the Sweet Shop.

By eight o'clock the majority of conscientious students have settled down to work. Study halls have appeared on the doors of Lore who are determined in their purpose. The smoking area and smoking rooms are deserted except for a few strangers or "don't care" bridge fields. There are lights in nearly every window. Only faint sounds can be heard—the click, click of a typewriter or a drooling voice translating French. The chimes boldly announce the fact that it is 9:00 and then are silent. Time races on. The typewriter stops clicking; the droning voice ceases.

The chimes ring out—none others in nearly every window. Pairs of footsteps echo through the hall, dwell again for a second and more footsteps are heard clumping along the hall. Another door opens and a voice is heard inquiring as to whether or not somebody is going to the Sweet Shop. More voices are added. Grist bread for the Sweet Shop. Numerous chocolate bars, doses, and hamburgers are consumed before light flash. Finally light flash—teeth are brushed, showers taken and finally at 10:30 the noise subsides. Back into their rooms they file, under the patient, somewhat impatient gaze of the proctor. Inside many rooms the serious job of striking another day from the calendar is hastily performed. Time marches on. Thirty more days until Xmas!

Newman Club Sponsors Fifth Annual Conclave in Atlanta This Week

The Newman club, national Catholic society sponsored a convention in Atlanta last week-end.

This was the fifth annual conference of Newman clubs of the South Coast province of the Federation of Catholic clubs. The purpose of the convention was to discuss the clubs' organization on the many clubs throughout the province.

The convention program included a business meeting Saturday morning, a football game Saturday afternoon, followed by a dance, and Mass services Sunday morning, a communion breakfast, and a business meeting.

At the last meeting of the local chapter of the club, Margaret Claire Lafferty was elected senior delegate and Marie Joffre, junior delegate. There were also delegates from the University of Florida, the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Emory university.

Students attending from here were: Elizabeth Lounds, Ethel Runyan Mercedes Garriga, Catherine McGarry, Nan Oshaughnessy, Mary Sullivan and Jane Queen.

Alpha Xi Visitors

Visiting members of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority Thanksgiving day were Mrs. L. P. Ireland, Alithea Smith Mildred Booth, Marie Purchase, Lucile Walker, Geneva Morris, and Gertrude Kuhn.

Holiday Special Visit
Janet's Beauty Shop

Bryan Hall Found to Be Most Ancient of Tudor Gothic Buildings on Campus of Femina Perfecta

When the north wing of the Administration building is completed this will become both the oldest and newest academic building on campus.

It is rather interesting, as you look at these stately, vine covered buildings, to wonder how old they are and how they happened to become a part of Florida State College for Women.

The pretrial architectural theme of the buildings on the campus is the Tudor Gothic and this theme has been well maintained. In some instances the scholastic modification is pronounced, but the effects have been very pleasing.

The oldest building on campus today is Bryan hall. In 1906 West Hall burned. To meet the demand caused by this destruction the Florida legislature of 1907 appropriated the money for a dormitory which was completed August 1, 1908. It was named after W. J. Bryan, late senator from Jacksonville.

In 1910 the Administration building, the oldest of the academic buildings, was constructed.

Reynolds hall, named in honor of Mrs. William Reynolds, director of residence halls, 1905-1909, was completed in 1912-1913, and was opened for use. It contained accomodations for 123 students besides a "playroom," now known as "Rec Hall." An addition was completed in 1925 which accommodated about fifty-eight students. The students called this Elisabeth hall until the next year when it was renumbered.

A new dining hall was constructed in 1918, which seated 150 people comfortably. Later in 1918 and 1932 some additions were made. The interior arrangements and furnishings, together with its exterior lines, make it one of the most attractive buildings on campus.

In the year 1917 Broward hall, named in honor of Governor N. B. Broward, was completed for use with accommodations for 158 students.

The Education building was begun in 1917 and in 1922 it was opened for use and finally completed in 1935.

The college was nor complete without an infirmary. In 1920 the infirmary was built, containing everything that a hospital should have.

The Science building begun in 1922 is a companion building to the Education building in structure, size, and general appearance.

In this same year Jennie Murphree hall was built, named in honor of Mrs. A. A. Murphree, whose husband, Dr. A. A. Murphree, was the first president of the college from 1905 to 1909.

The first unit of Gilchrist, hall, named for former Governor A. W. Gilchrist, was used in 1927. The other units of the building were to be completed as the money was provided by the legislature. It was finally completed in 1936.

In the year of 1927 two more buildings were added to the campus, the History building and the Home Management house.

The yea. 1929 seems to have been a prosperous year because two of the campus' loveliest buildings made their appearance, the library and the gymnasium. The architecture of the library as a whole is Academic Tudor, although the reading room is Cathedral Tudor. The gymnasium was planned after the model of the

Belgium Requests Plans of Library

This week the library has received a request from Brussels, Belgium, requesting a set of the plans of the library building at Florida State College for Women. In addition to plans the request also calls for a description of the interior of the building, and its equipment.

Belgium plans to erect a national library, called the "Bibliotheque Royale," as a memorial to the late King Albert I of Belgium, and all architects of Belgian nationality have been invited to submit designs for this building. To help with these plans a collection of plans of all recently built libraries is being made.

Wage Earners Show Ancient Proverb True

Numerous Beauty Salons Aid Campus Darlings In Endless Toil

Necessity is the mother of invention And truer words were never spoken, judging from the varied methods of earning "pin money" on campus.

Knowing that feminine vanity must be served no matter what, some girls have set up "beauty salons" in their own rooms. Catchy signs on the doors inform passers-by that finger waves with an abundance of curls may be had for the sum of fifteen cents (without curls, ten cents). A manicure, a more delicate and time-taking task, is twenty-five cents.

A few seniors each year capitalize on the traditional invitation ceremony by offering formal collars "at a reasonable price." For days in advance their rooms are filled by frantic girls having their neck measurements taken for those bits of organdy that add just the right touch of dignity and formality to the caps and gowns.

Pin money is always available to one that can keep up with the latest campus fads. Not long ago a student, evidently tired of waiting for a new fad to appear, started one of her own. She made some tricky belts for herself, and when friends began to remark that they would like some her business career began. She took orders for the belts and showed her customers how to fashion them out of the bits of leather that she supplied. The campus is becoming belt conscious and students are not only ordering them for their own wear but also for use as gifts at Christmas.

An unusual method of getting that extra "wherewithal" was devised by one of last year's students. She took advantage of the fact that most students are intensely interested in "self" and offered to read handwriting at one dime per person. Her business was probably improved by the fact that Madame knew human nature and was always willing to throw in a heart-to-heart talk with her clients, telling them perhaps they were extremely sensitive to the beauties of life, or explaining sympathetically why they seemed to be misunderstood by the world in general. Female Perfecta was not satisfied with knowing the secrets of her own soul; she also brought auguries of writing from her family, her girl friends, and even her boy friends. Many a girl was assured this she had been correct all along in be-

Attends Meets

Dr. Edward G. Conradi, president of the college, leaves this week-end for Virginia where he will attend the meetings of the Southern Association of College and Secondary Schools, the Southern Association of Colleges for Women, and the Southern Union Conference.

College Students Are Warned to Heed the Voice Of Experience and Beware the Boresome Termite

BY MAXINE FUGATE

Want to get rid of your notebooks after you have turned them in to your professors?

If he does not record the grades too soon after he examines the notebooks, just let some termites go to work on them. He will be unable to even find his red marks.

About two years ago, according to Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, termites were found to be at work in a section of the library. Books and notebooks in which these destructive insects had been at work were shoveled into waste cans to be carried away and destroyed. The pages were riddled.

Oddly enough the termite barely sizables the cover of the book. So narrow and clean is the gash that is made it may be overlooked. On the inside, however, the pages are badly mutilated. Every groove to go completely through the inside from cover to cover.

Even cans will not keep the termite out. The little insect can easily bore his way through the metal with the aid of a very powerful acid which he secretes. When he has enterpd the can, he can seal his entrance up so it will be practically unnoticeable.

By using this acid, the termite can also bore into concrete to get any bits of wood that have been left in it. One section of the library is still infested with termites because parts of the wooden forms were left in the concrete.

When the termite bores into wood, he leaves the surface practically unmarked and proceeds to eat out the inner portion. A shell of wood is left that will flake or crumble under slight pressure.

So far little remedy is known. The affected wood can be replaced by new and a spray that serves as a temporary remedy can be used.

Dr. Conradi to Attend Meetings in Richmond

Dr. Edward Conradi will leave Saturday morning or Sunday afternoon for Richmond, Va., where he will attend the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which begins Nov. 30, and lasts until Dec. 2.

During the week, Dr. Conradi will also attend the meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges for Women which meets there Dec. 2, and the meeting of the Southern Union Conference which meets Dec. 4.

Florida State college is a member of all three of these associations.

Program is Given

The convocation program Tuesday morning was planned to impress upon students the real meaning of Thanksgiving.

Following the devotional program led by Charlotte Kamper, Bernice Oliver spoke on "The Origin of Thanksgiving." Sara Rutledge gave Henry Ward Beecher's definition of Thanksgiving and Frances Lewis read a poem, Edna Yacobian sang popular songs and Peggy McMichael led the students in "With Spirits Light."

Visitors Will View Exhibit

Every Building to Show Displays Arranged For Guests

Special exhibits will be arranged for visitors Thursday and Friday in all of the buildings on the campus.

In the show cases on the lower floor of the Education building the Art department will place exhibits made by its students. Pottery, metal work, basketry, weaving, and drawings by the industrial arts classes will make up the exhibition. During the show hours, the visitors can watch the students at their work.

In the administration building the book store is to have a general book display. Books for children of all ages will be exhibited. Dollar editions of well-known authors, and copies of recent best sellers will be on hand.

In the Science hall, the home economics department will have hand-made fancy-work in its show cases. A beaten Persian tray, a silver tea pot, an Arabian scarf, Chinese applique, and French lace are examples of the collection.

The library with its arrangement for book week was opened Thursday from 1:00 to 2 for inspection. On the bulletin boards are jacket covers of new books. In the cases stories for children's books "you may have missed," new volumes, and various posters will be displayed.

In the gymnasium lobby, numerous physical activities will be represented. On the bulletin board, snapshots of players in different sports are to be posted. Below, on the table, paper dolls in the proper "dress" will be placed: golf, tennis, shuffleboard, horseshoes, fencing, and archery. Groups of these figures will "participate" in croquet, hockey, and soccer.

America's All-Star Eleven

60 yard dashes . . . passes and punts . . . touchdowns . . . performance! That's how America picks 'em. By wire and air-mail, fans rush to the football experts the tip . . . "Here's another sure-fire All-American."

And when you pick the all-star cigarette eleven, it's performance again —it's what a cigarette does that counts

T-H-E-Y S-A-T-I-S-F-Y

Eleven letters that spell all the good things a cigarette can give . . . mildness . . . a pleasing taste and aroma . . . a blend of mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos rolled in pure cigarette paper

—the essentials of a good cigarette

Copyright 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Let Yourself Go to A. A. U. W. Carnival

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Why Not Attend the Orchestra Concert?

VOLUME XXIV. | Tallahassee, Florida, December 4, 1936 | NUMBER TEN

Concert Will Be Presented By Orchestra

College Musicians Plan Varied Program For Presentation

COWLES TO LEAD SCHOOL PLAYERS

Selections Are Included From Old and More Modern Writers

The College Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Walter Ruel Cowles, will present a concert next Thursday evening at 7.45 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Mr. Cowles has arranged the program in two parts. The first selections will be taken from the older group of composers, and the other numbers will be taken from a more modern group.

German Suite in First

The music of the Suite from German Composers, Overture by Telemann. Minute by Marpurg, Jigg by Matiheson. Fantasy by Muffat, and Fugue by Pachelbel, and for string orchestras, belongs to the great instrumental polyphonic period which reached its peak under Bach and Handel. This is the first division of the program.

The orchestra will play the Fourth Symphony in B flat, Opus 60 Adagio—Allegro vivace. Allegro vivace, and Allegro ma non trappo, by Beethoven. This symphony is in Beethoven's second period (1801-1815), in which he begins to express his experiences of life. He has found himself in a manner forced to fix in his music his impressions, his emotions, and his sufferings.

Following the intermission the orchestra will play selections from the more modern group. Julia Rosser will play a violin solo, Silhouette "Kaiserstadt, du schone," by A. Walter Kramer, the modern American composer. This is a charming arrangement for string orchestra of an old Viennese waltz by a modern composer.

In conclusion the orchestra will play one of the set of three pieces composed for Von Bjornson's drama, Sigurd Jorsalfar. This is entitled Huldingsmarsch, by Grieg, the Norwegian composer.

The personnel of the orchestra

Continued on page two

Director

Professor W. R. Cowles, director of the College Symphony orchestra, who will present this group in its first program Thursday night at 7:45 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Two Graduates To Be Among Women Taking Unusual Trip

Party of Six Will Make Journey Down South American Coast

BY DOROTHY BELLAMY

Two graduates of Florida State college; Alice Bates Wyatt and Freddie Koester will be among the first women to go by automobile further south than Mexico. They will leave in a party of six on December 28 for an extended trip around the coast of South America. Others in this group are Bill Wyatt, Alene Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams.

Mr. Bill Wyatt, employee of the Tallahassee city office said, "Our 40,000 mile trip is being made in cooperation with the Pan American Union and the Department of American Research at Tulane, and will include visits to twenty-two countries as well as many islands."

"Starting from Tallahassee and going by way of New Orleans and Mexico City," he continued, "we will go to Kuatamal where we will visit the old ruins of Mont Albon and the city of the Sacred Well. From there we may or may not go up to Yucatan, but in either case we'll go to Salvadore, Honduras, Nicarague, Costa Rica, Panama and Colombia."

In Colombia, the party will visit the city of Bogot from where they will go to Ecquador and Peru. Here they will see Lake Titicaca (the highest lake on earth), and the ruins of the famous prehistoric Inca civilization near the lake. Then they will go on to Bolivia, down through Chile and Argentina to Magellan — the world's southernmost city to have paved streets.

In case the sealing boats are going out while they are in southern Chili, the English consul there has promised to arrange for them to go in the boats out into the Antarctic ocean—perhaps all the way to Anarctica.

On the return trip they will retrace their path up the west coast until they cut across to Buenos Aires from where they go to Uruguay and Brazil. In Brazil they expect to visit the coffee plantations, orange groves, and cotton fitids for which that country is noted.

At Para, their car will be shipped across the mouth of the Amazon river, while the party takes a tramp steamer up to French Guiana. Meeting the car there, they will continue driving up the coast as far as Caracas and once more ship the car—this time to Santiago, Cuba.

"Then we will make a slow boat trip through the chain of West Indian islands, visiting as many of them as we possibly can along the way," said Mr. Wyatt, "and by the time we are back to Cuba, we expect the road from Key West to Florida to be completed, in which case we can drive to the mainland over the new road."

Mr. Wyatt said they planned to take their time, going slowly enough to see all the interesting things along the way. Throwing snowballs on the equator in the mountains of Ecquador and seeing active volcanoes in Bolivia are

Continued on page five

AAUW Will Reveal Future of Campus

Who will be king and queen of the Mardi Gras at Florida State College? Perhaps you who are now reading this.

What gift will you receive? The committee in charge has connived with Santa Claus.

What does the future hold for you? A mystic formula for the interpretation of cards will reveal your fortune.

What are the outstanding characteristics of your personality? Your palm will tell you all.

What are you most afraid of? It will be the chamber of horrors.

What would you rather do than laugh? See the elaborate parade of unique floats led by the versatile college musicians.

Where is your greatest chance of having a good time? At the A.A.U.W. carnival in the physical education building tomorrow night at 7:30.

Class Debates Will Be Given On Wednesday

Student Body is Invited To Hear Discussions On Topics

Debating on the campus became a reality Wednesday and Thursday when fifteen upperclassmen and twenty-two freshmen met in their respective classes.

Plans were made by the advanced group to hold class debates each Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock when they met in room 203, Administration building. The student body is cordially invited to attend these affairs, the first of which will be held Wednesday afternoon. For this event the class was divided into groups of four to choose subjects and work up short debates. In the spring teams from this group will meet teams from Georgia State College for Women and University of Florida. Negotiations for a debate with William and Mary college to be held here are also under way.

The freshmen group met for a short time Thursday morning. This group is to be divided for class debates in the near future. This class will have its second meeting at a time and place to be announced in convocation Tuesday.

Phil Asher, chairman of debates, presided at both meetings. Phil also gave a brief talk summarizing the aims of debating and giving suggestions as to the manner of selection and presentation of a subject. She announced that the text book the classes would use, "Working Principals of Argument" by O'Neil, would be available in her room for anyone interested.

Upperclassmen attending include Mary Jeanne McKay, Marjorie Raulerson, Nell Colvin, Viola Brooks, Betty Wynn, Lutrelle Patterson, Peggy McMichael, Ermine Lawrence, Frances Lewis, Betty Ostlund, Twilah Taylor, Marian Conn, Emma Randolph Elebash, and Alberta Patrick. Freshmen participating were Margaret Benjamin, Rosalie Feinberg, Jane Fields, Albertine Fox, Eileen Gill, Mary Glenn Grimes, Natalie Hackel, Riva Hemphill, Jean Jernigan, Clara Luke, Rosemary McDonald, Alicia Mears, Frances Milton, Mamie Piland, Julia Rosser, Roselyn Silverberg, Frances Slade, Faye Sutton, Bennie Syfrett, Mary Vergour, Elizabeth Anne Webb, and Claire Willets.

NSFA Debates Rushings Plans Of Sororities

Deferred Pledging Gets Majority Vote From Forum Members

ASHER AND LEWIS TAKE OPPOSITION

Present System Viewed From Standpoint Of the Rushee

The N.S.F.A. forum voted to favor deferred sorority rushing after a no-decision debate Tuesday night in which the present system of rushing was critically analyzed by both debating teams. A radical change in the rushing system for this college was recommended by the affirmative speakers in opposition to the defense of the present system by the negative side.

The question for debate was: "Resolved: that sorority rushing at Florida State College for Women be deferred."

Sorority Choice

The debate opened with a discussion by the first affirmative speaker, Mariam Harrold, of the faults of the present system from the standpoint of the rushee. The affirmative stressed that great mistakes in the choice of a sorority are likely to be made by the freshman, as she is at that early date unprepared for college life. Too many freshmen, according to the affirmative, have the wrong idea about the value of a sorority. Many think of membership in a sorority as a social step, and because of this the affirmative believed that the individuals should be given time to observe the relationship of a sorority. Another point was the effect of sorority rush week on the girls who cannot join a sorority for various reasons. This emphasis on sororities during a week intended for the purpose of orienting, declared the affirmative, causes a

Continued on page three

Will Appear Here Tonight

Dalies Frantz, concert pianist, who will present a program tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the college auditorium. Mr. Frantz is the first to appear on the Artist Series schedule.

Pianist Gives Artist Series Program Here

Dalies Frantz Presents First of Concerts In Auditorium

CRITICS OFFER COMMENDATIONS

Player Was Considered Prodigy at Early Age of Nine

Dalies Frantz, concert pianist, will be presented tonight in the college auditorium at 7:45 o'clock under the auspices of the Artist Series committee, as the first of the series of this year.

His program for this evening is divided into four parts. He opens with the playing of four sonates by Scarlatti: C minor, C major, E minor (Pastorale), and E major (Capriccio) This is followed by Organ Fugue in D major (Arr. D'Albert) by Bach. Mr. Frantz will continue the second division of his program with Two Intermezzi, E flat major, and C major by Brahms. In concluding the first half of the program he will play Variations On a Theme of Handel, also by Brahms

Plays Chopin Group

After a short intermission he will play Nocture in E minor Mazurka in F minor, Etude in F major, and Scherzo in B minor by Chopin. This will be followed by Serenade of the Doll, Debussy; Senetto del Petrarca, No. 104, Liszt; and Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12, Liszt.

Dalies Frantz's rise to fame has been rapid. By the time he was nine years old he was considered a prodigy of the piano. He received his early training in his home town, Denver, Colo., and later went to Boston where he attended the Huntington school, earning his way through by solo recitals and concerts. Most of his study of the piano, however, was done with Guy Maier, interrupted by brief intervals of work in Europe with Arthur Schnabel and Valdimir Horowitz

National Contest Winner

Shortly after his graduation from the University of Michigan he won three of the most difficult competitions in America. The last one, offered by the National Federation of Music clubs, was the most important because it entitled him to appearances as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra in New York and Philadelphia

The New York Times has criticized him as follows: "Mr. Frantz performance was refreshing in its intelligence, its sincerity, and admirable sense of style.

Continued on page two

Science Group Bestows Honor Upon Heinlein

Paper is Deemed Worthy Of Consideration For Award

In a letter received early this week from Mr. J. H. Clouse, chairman of the Committee on Awards of the Florida Academy of Sciences, Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology at Florida State College was informed that his paper, recently presented before the Academy, had been selected as one worthy of consideration for an award.

In this work, "Some Consequences of Pseudo-Mathematics and Quasi-Measurement in Psychometrics, Education, and the Social Sciences," Dr. Heinlein scored the thousands of investigators in psychometry, education, and social science, who, "fascinated by the intricate weave of nice mathematical tapestries, have constructed special numerological devices and elaborate statistical techniques which often give to syllogisms based on false premises the appearance of verified fact."

"The present treatise is likely to prove extremaly unpopular to a large body of educators who persistently disregard logic and the principles of scientific interpretation," Dr. Heinlein wrote, stating his realization of the unpopularity which his critical evaluation of authoritative and traditional knowledge will inevitably reap, but "the fact that 10,000 educators add, average and scale, non-additive numbers . . . does not make the procedure any the more valid or scientific."

Among the first of the results of pseudo-mathematical methods to be criticized is the operational importance assigned to "intelligence" by relating intelligence test ratings to the averages of grade numbers, which in them-

Continued on page three

Sale Of Seals Is Begun Here

Money Gained Will Fight Tuberculosis Known As "Foe of Youth"

The thirtieth annual sale of Christmas seals—representing the organized fight against tuberculosis—began last Thursday and will continue until Christmas. This week, twenty-five seals will be put in the mail box of each girl, along with an envelope, in which she may return either twenty-five cents or the seals.

Since it is known that tuberculosis is the leading cause of death among young men and women between the ages fifteen and twenty-five, and that it is considered the "Foe of Youth," the national tuberculosis association desires to interest to a greater degree the high school and college groups throughout the country

Although the death rate from tuberculosis has been steadily declining during the past thirty years—since the beginning of the sale of Christmas seals—tuberculosis, more than any other disease, still takes the greatest death toll among young people today. For this reason, more and more stress has been put on preventive and case-finding work in high schools and colleges.

This year's penny stickers bear the double-barred cross, the symbol of good health, and depict a modern Santa Claus. These seals are primarily for the raising of funds for further health protection against tuberculosis.

Song Service Planned

Y.W.C.A. vespers, which will be held Sunday night at 7.30 in the Augusta Conradi theater, will be devoted to singing Christmas carols. Kathleen Gruppe will be in charge of vespers next Sunday.

Interviews Reveal Diverse Opinions About "Only Man"

Noisy Boys Bore Freshman; Disagree Concerning Conceit; Catty Males Are "Out"; Tall Ones Generally Favored

BY BETTY SPICER

What kind of man would you select if you had to pick one out within an hour to love, honor, and obey for the rest of your life? What is your ideal man?

Everybody when asked these two questions involuntarily said, "Oh, heavens, I don't know!" However, with a little prompting they waxed eloquent. Some needed no prompting.

As a rule, freshmen were less worldly than were the upperclassmen. They expected more of their ideal than the blase senior who should know better.

When a blond freshman, who looked as if she never gave a man a thought, was approached with the question she hesitated and then poured forth a veritable torrent of words.

"He must be tall, blond, blue eyed, athletic. He must appreciate good music, but still enjoy a good hot dance tune. If he could sing, that would be all the better. I'd prefer having him on the same intellectual level with me, maybe a little bit lower. I don't care whether he is popular or not. Noisy boys bore me."

The second girl, a sophomore, was explicit and to the point.

"He's tall. He likes good music. He dances well and has pretty eyes and teeth. He's fairly nice looking, but I don't expect a movie hero. He's not catty by any means. I despise catty boys and catty girls, too, for that matter."

The next girl was a tall, sophisticated freshman, who received the question with an air of boredom.

"Oh, he's tall and dark and athletic. I expect him to know something, too. Not one of these dumb little boys. He's a college graduate, and smarter than I am. I'd like to know that he had some influence with me. I couldn't respect a man that isn't more capable than I am. He is a good dancer and well dressed . He is

Continued on page two

Davis Attends Meeting

Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Methodist student director, will attend the Educational Council meeting of the Southern Methodist church to be held in Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 7-11. The meeting will be a conference of members who are engaged in educational work in the church, and will feature group discussions and addresses given by prominent Methodist leaders of the south.

Senate Passes Finished Bill

Impeachment Legislation Goes to Executive Council Next

Legislation subjecting unsatisfactory student government officials to impeachment was completed by the college senate at a meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the Education building To become a law, the bill must be passed by the executive council.

The bill, explained by Mary Jeanne McKay, listed grounds for impeachment and outlined the procedure. Both petitions for trials and final decisions resulting in removal from office require ratification by the student body. The presiding official is to be the chairman of the Judiciary or, if she is ineligible, the president of C.G.A. Ineligibility on her part will delegate the position to the next officer in line.

A motion was passed that the bill be given to the executive council without adjustment to the present constitution. If passed, it can be written into the new constitution being formulated by a revisory committee.

Dean Salley to Attend An All University Day By Special Invitation

Mr. Nathaniel Moss Salley, Dean of the School of Education, will attend by special invitation an "All University Day" to be held at Gainesville, Saturday, December 5.

An educational feature which has been planned in connection with the day is an interesting panel discussion on the subject "Universities and Their Planning for the Future"

Mr. Salley will attend one of the following breakfasts: Wisconsin, Chicago, or Wofford college. He will visit the laboratories and library of the P. K. Yonge Laboratory school at the university and the city schools of Gainesville; and will attend the "All University" luncheon. He is also looking forward to attending the Florida-Mississippi game at the stadium in Gainesville.

Faculty Group Adopts Change In Cut System

Infirmary Excuses, Cuts For Freshmen Given Under New Plan

A model cut system which was presented to the executive council of the college administration by the student executive council for consideration, was approved by the council, S. R. Doyle, registrar, officially announced this week.

The model system was drawn up by the student executive council in an attempt to represent the opinion of the student body, the major issues being infirmary excuses for upper-classmen and cuts for freshmen.

Now, legitimate illnesses in the college infirmary are to be excused at the discretion of the infirmary staff. Illness at home is to be excused only when the college physician advises the patient to go home for treatment, and local or day students who are absent because of illness will be excused through the college infirmary These changes are to be retroactive, applying to illnesses earlier in the year.

No cuts and no week-ends are to be allowed the freshmen during the first quarter, but during the second quarter eight cuts will be allowed for those having no hours or fewer than three hours of "unsatisfactories" Those reported as having from three to six hours of unsatisfactory work will be permitted to take only four cuts and no cuts will be allowed if "unsatisfactory" is reported in six or more hours.

Sixteen cuts per quarter will be allowed upperclass students with

Continued on page three

Speech Group Will Present Play Trilogy

Announcement of Casts Is Made; Season Tickets Good

On Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 7:45 o'clock the speech department will present three one-act plays, "Finders Keepers," by George Kelly, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" by George Bernard Shaw, and "The Marriage Proposal" by Anton Tchekoff.

Although Kelly is better known for his comedies, "Finders Keepers" is a serious play, definitely modern in theme. The cast for this play is: Eugene Aldred, Elva Melvin; Mrs. Aldred, his wife, Kathleen Hughes; Mrs. Hampton, a neighbor, Marjorie Raulerson. The stage manager is Helen Kickliter and the property mistress is Clara Wells.

The cast for "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," a satire, is: a Beef eater, Dorothy Barr; Will Shakespeare, Julia Burnette; Queen Elizabeth, Rebecca Ashton. Betty Scott is the stage manager, and Marjorie Raulerson is the costume mistress.

Tchekoff, although known mostly for his tragedies, including "The Cherry Orchard," wrote "A Marriage Proposal," which is considered one of the best Russian farces. The cast for this play includes, Stepan Stepanovich Tschubukov, Helen Walde; Natalia Stepanova, his daughter, Shirley Pemberton; and Ivan Vassiliyitch Lomov, Tschubuov's neighbor, Eloise Frink. The stage manager is Jack Owens and the costume mistress is Sara Mae Davis.

Season tickets will admit all

Continued on page three

Gainesvillites Rise Against The Weaker Sex In Rebellion

Brotherly Voices Declare the Devil is a Woman As They Complain of Being Told How Fortunate They Are

BY FRANCES BRUNSON

The devil is a woman.

Three-fourths of the boys who come to Florida State college to call on girls say so.

The biggest complaint the boys make is that they are always being told how fortunate they are—1700 girls from which to choose. But, according to the boys, these people forget that they can know only a very few unless it is possible to take part in some social event.

When they do meet, the boys and girls seem strained in the presence of each other . But when the date is over, each tells things to their friends that never happened. They assume a bragging and nonchalant air.

One of the things which most disgusts and surprises the boys is that practically every girl in school will have a date with anyone from the ninth grade in high school on up to the city bums just to have a date.

The average boy, contrary to what might be expected, does not object to the rules, despite the fact that there is no privacy. One boy reported that if the administrative officers are satisfied, he is too. They seem to feel at ease in the dormitories and sorority houses, and are impressed by the courteous treatment they receive from the house and dormitory mothers.

The big formal affairs that the girls seem so interested in and spend so much time preparing for, usually turn out to be boring for their male guest—boring if he is able to get over the ill-at-ease feeling that he invariably has at such functions. He thinks that the only enjoyment connected with them is talking about the grandeur of the occasion before he goes and being able to say afterwards that he did attend.

He also complains about the girls' ideas on dressing. If at the banquet or dance the girl sees another girl with a dress on that

Continued on page five

Sellers Plays Guest Concert

Cello Professor Invited As Guest Artist For Woman's Club

Owen F. Sellers, assistant professor in cello, was guest artist with the Jacksonville Federal Symphony orchestra in a ocurtesy concert given at the Women's club in Jacksonville last Tuesday night.

The orchestra was conducted by F. Pierce Drotham. The first number on the program was Brahm's "Academic Festival Chorus." Following was a cello concerto given by Mr. Sellers, who played the Saint-Saens "Concerto in A Minor." Also presented on the program was the Mendelssohn "Symphony No. 4, Italian," "Allegre vicace": Andante con moto": Con Moto Moderato"; and Saltarelle-Presto.

Mr. Sellers who has been a faculty member here for the past six years is a pupil in 'cello of Karl Kirksmith, principal cellist of Cincinnati Symphony and teacher at Cincinnati conservatory

He has had a wide experience in quartet and ensemble with Jeanten Have, Karol Liszniewski and others. In orchestra experience Mr Sellers has played under Valdimir Bakilenikoff, Ralph Lyford, in Cincinnati, and in several civic orchestras, including stage orchestra work with the Publix Paramount Corporation.

As radio artist Mr. Sellers has been cellist over WLW, WSAI, WKRC, and WCKY, and the Florida stations.

Churches Plan Many Programs For Christmas

Include Choir Singing, Informal Parties And Camp Trip

Special Christmas programs will be presented by the student church organizations this week. Members of the Methodist student choir will give their annual Christmas vesper program Sunday night at 7:30 at the Methodist church. Baptist students will have a Christmas program and informal party tomorrow night at Broward clubroom; and Episcopal students will leave tomorrow for camp, where the presentation of a special program has also been arranged.

Members of the Methodist choir group, directed by Miss Ollie Rees Whittle, include Esther O'Byrne, Mary Finney, Clee Kemp, Gene Gunn, Joe Wicker, Carolyn O'Neal, Jennie Mae Johnson, Betty Ann Graham, Marian Herbert, Mary Elizabeth Bryne, Dorothy Main, Pearl Gay, Elizabeth Weimer, Dorothy Bryant, Ruth Merbler, Margaret Kennedy, Doris Walker, Marshlea Cottingham, Mrs. Gunn, Gertrude Rogers, Gulida Marie Theda, Dolly Reed, William Brown, Margaret Dell, Newie Powell, Ila Drawdy, Willie Lawhorne, Ona Jean Merrill, Gertrude Sapp, Edna Earle Frances Lowe, Frances Clements, Leslie Jernigan, Margaret Hancock, Margaret Holway, Melissa Holman, Carolyn Daniel, Madeline Duncan, Margaret Delaney, Sarah Adams, Frances Lane, Dixie Lipscomb, Sheila Lester, Jessie Mead, Mildred Bronson, Sylvie Jean Olson, Margaret Endsley, Ouida Martin, Margaret Cox, and Mabel Williams.

Sunday morning Miss Winnie Lee Davis will continue her series of talks for students, her topic this week being "What May a Student Believe About Right and Wrong." League supper will be served at the student house at 5:30 Sunday, followed by the regular student league meeting at 6:30. when Tom Humphress will discuss Russia and hym stories.

Member: of the Baptist Women's auxiliary will meet at 7:45 tomorrow night in Broward clubroom for a special "Lottie Moon" Christmas offering, followed by a short social hour. Every year the group conducts a special drive at Christmas for foreign mission work. Florida State students this year will send dolls, which will be sent to the Tampa Mission school. Students are asked to bring the dolls to the meeting tomorrow night.

Episcopal students will leave tomorrow to spend the week-end at camp near Bellair. Leave Thrasher. Riva Hemphill, Betty White, Katherine Bacon, Mildred Seekins, Mary Louise Merriweather, Clara Luke, Elizabeth Mathewson, Charlotte Ramsey, Betty Harpison, Louise Gehan, Louise Yargo, Betty Gelland, Frances Lewis, Lucy Darnell, Annie Jennings, Margaret Perkins, Elizabeth Ann Webb, Polly Platt, Bette Bernheuter, Alice McKelvey, Lucille Hosetlon, Helen Daniel, Sara Lytle, Francis Ellis, Nell Colvin, Sue Pitner, Gibson Dey and Anita Leonard.

Interviews Reveal Diverse Opinions

Continued from page one

popular and neither loud nor quiet."

The next girl, an upperclassman, was in a great rush and gave her requirements for an ideal man out of the corner of her mouth as she sped down the hall of the Ad building.

"He's tall, blond, fairly good looking. He's a mannish man. He has a little money, he's slightly athletic, he smokes and drinks but not to excess, he's popular, he appreciates good music, and above all, he's not a pole when he dances."

A junior was next. She concentrated for a few minutes before committing herself.

"I don't like pretty men. I like them mannish looking. He can wear his hair in dark and straight or with just a suggestion of a curl in it. He is a nice dancer and can keep time. To be also tell as I am and higher intellectually. He smokes and is athletic."

A very serious girl was next. She was very conscientious in her report.

"He is of medium height, because I can't dance with anyone too tall. It doesn't even matter if he is a little short. He has dark hair and blue eyes. He is not a

"Different" Christmas Cards
Now on Display
Original Gifts Arriving Daily
For Novel Ideas try
The Gift Shop

Judiciary Council Has Model Meeting to Aid Student Understanding

In order that students of the college may understand the procedure of the judiciary council, members of this group presented a model meeting Tuesday in convocation. Four cases, taken from the files of judiciary, were tried. Following the trials Louise Gehan narrated some offenses made by girls in the past, all humorous cases.

Members of the council are Louise Gehan, Dorothea Marsh, Mary Jeanne McKay, Betty Cottand, Becky Ashton, Jean Gillies, Martha Makemson, Betty Peck, Mary Kathryn Gibson, Shirley Stevens, Catherine McGarry, and Jo Bonner. Other students participating in the program were Phil Asher, Marjorie Tills, Frances Lewis, Winifred Ewart, and Janice Borton.

blond because if there is anything I don't like, it's white eyebrows and red cheeks. They simply don't belong. He doesn't have a college degree if he's had experience enough to do that. He has a good job but he doesn't work 40 hours a week. He is interested in sports and is quiet. He has a pleasing disposition, he's a first rate friend and knows why he means. I hate conceited men."

A little twitery freshman was next. She didn't know what her college requirements in such a flurry that they were back to.

"Tall, dark and handsome. Isn't that what they all say? He should be a leader in a group of men. He must have a sense of humor and be neat and clean. He's a good mixer but none of these life-of-the-party boys for me. They're too popular."

A sorority girl added her bit.

"Tall. He is understanding and has a sense of humor. He is not too sentimental. I don't care whether he is a blond or a brunette as long as he doesn't have a red skin. He must dance. He doesn't have to smoke. He must do things I do. Maybe I'd be able to argue with him in that case. He must be a man of the world. He doesn't have to have a college degree but he must be clean."

Another girl was caught as she was going out a door. She called back over her shoulder.

"He's neat, has a nice personality, he's fairly good looking and he's thoughtful."

A senior was finally pinned down to this.

"I don't have an ideal man. There isn't one."

And a sophomore gave rise to the following:

"He is an outdoors man with a pipe. Don't forget the pipe. He is a man that can take care of himself no matter what happens. He will defend my honor. In other words, sock somebody in the eye that casts any slurring remarks in my direction. He is conceited, although not unbearably so. I don't think there is much to a man if he isn't conceited. He has the spirit of self and an open roadster. The color of the latter is preferably green. Who could ask for more?"

One senior did have an ideal.

"He is an outdoor type. He is a good dancer. In fact I require that as much as anything. He is tall and dark and has blue eyes. He can talk a lot because I can't. Above all, he has a good sense of humor and is loads of fun. He is one of those original people—the kind that you never can tell what they are going to do next. He is a college man and belongs to a fraternity."

Another freshman presented a startling requirement in her list.

"He must be a professor, a doctor, or a millionaire. He has the kind of brown curly hair that you like to run your hands through. He is loads of fun and very intelligent. Phi Beta Kappa—if I can find one. He is popular and an all right guy. Not one of these boobies of students."

Another girl offered the following facts in a dozed way, as if asking herself, 'Is this really me saying this?'

"He is companionable, has a sense of humor, is very adjustable, has a restful point of view, is generous. He must be healthy and not vain under five feet eight inches tall."

Many others were asked with the outstanding requirement seeming to be height. Others revealed a sense of humor, one girl in particular requiring that he must have it. She went on to state that she had suffered enough from that as it was. Other requirements brought out were: a flexible point of view, well built, sincerity, ability to wear clothes, masterfulness, thoughtfulness, humanitarianness, wittiness, congeniality, magnetic personality, and home loving personality.

'Twas the Night Before

Drama in Two Acts on What the Culprit and The Innocent Must Feel as There Comes A Knocking at the Door

BY GUILTY

Wonder what's shocking so loudly at this hour of the morning? They're making so much noise even the proctor'll hear them in a minute. Maybe it is a practice night. Maybe that stuff I took has been missed already and it's a search. What will I do; I've got to get it out of Susie's room before they find it and accuse her. Sorry to have endangered her as all, but she has Jo Bonner. Other students participating in the program were Phil Asher, Marjorie Tills, Frances Lewis, Winifred Ewart, and Janice Borton.

Well, I made it. Threw it out the window with a good sling to the right. Don't never know which rom it came from. I only hope they don't pin it on an innocent when they pick up a good alibi. Wonder when they'll get here. Bonner, Dorothy Bryant is at last; only thirty minutes after 7 first hit me. Nothing like a quick, quiet detective. Why, they're only going through the corridors in order. I didn't need to get rid of that stuff. Maybe that's because I'm innocent, though, so I shouldn't complain. She only glanced in that closet; I could have hidden it right over there. And look—she only pulled out drawer one and pushed it in. Quick Watson, the needle! These results need a little bucking up

—I'll help them.

"If you're looking for a fur wrap you'll find it behind your radiator." Well—I She looked there. She took me seriously! Why, I could get away with murder if they didn't call in the G-men. Uh-oh, I'll try to make a note of that; she found where I hid my money. I'll have to change the hiding place—if judiciary can find it. It must not be found. Of course, they shouldn't be so rabid—I'm probably getting that way with so much because they don't suspect me in the least. I wonder what time others are getting off this easily on those same grounds! Probably not. Wonder what that is in her left hand? Oh, well, she's only looking at something. Oh, well, I don't care, of course, but someone must start.

Oh, I forgot about that pocketbook I found and meant to turn in to the lost and found when it opens in the morning: it's lying right there on the bureau. They might think I stole that—no, she passed right by it. Whew! Say, that's the sudden steam in her eyes dense? Oh, she's attacking my silver; how disappointed she looks—it's my own! Well, she seems to have given up, after this very cursory search. It must not have been sarphin of her own lost, or she would never look so casually.

Ha, ha I said, I shouldn't complain—lucky for me they trust me. Come to think of it, if I set away with such a light search,

BY NOT GUILTY

Horrors, what an uproar and in the middle of the night, too! Quite an unlovely racket, I'll just pull the sheet over my head and ignore it. More noise! Can it be thunder? No, thunder would be more subtle.

What then? A trunk falling downstairs, perhaps? No, I'm in bed—Yes, yes, it is judiciary! Others—and me without my slippers! That rumor of a theft this afternoon must have been serious after all. They never are at my door; two business-like searchers—one to hunt and one to lend moral support, I presume. No, they're both hunting! Well, the least I can do is be kind to interested.

Here are a trifle sharps about it—no words wasted; authority does not rest lightly on their shoulders. Both of them never stand another trip home after the last they've allotted up a good stint. Wonder when they'll get here. Bonner, Dorothy Bryant is at last; only thirty minutes after 7 first hit me. Nothing like a quick, quiet detective. Why, they're only going through the corridors in order. I didn't need to get rid of that stuff. Maybe that's because I'm innocent, though, so I shouldn't complain. She only glanced in that closet; I could have hidden it right over there. And look—she only pulled out drawer one and pushed it in. Quick Watson, the needle! These results need a little bucking up

—I'll help them.

"If you're looking for a fur wrap you'll find it behind your radiator." Well—I She looked there. She took me seriously! Why, I could get away with murder if they didn't call in the G-men. Uh-oh, I'll try to make a note of that; she found where I hid my money. I'll have to change the hiding place—if judiciary can find it. It must not be found. Of course, they shouldn't be so rabid—I'm probably getting that way with so much because they don't suspect me in the least. I wonder what time others are getting off this easily on those same grounds! Probably not. Wonder what that is in her left hand? Oh, well, she's only looking at something. Oh, well, I don't care, of course, but someone must start.

Oh, I forgot about that pocketbook I found and meant to turn in to the lost and found when it opens in the morning: it's lying right there on the bureau. They might think I stole that—no, she passed right by it. Whew! Say, that's the sudden steam in her eyes dense? Oh, she's attacking my silver; how disappointed she looks—it's my own! Well, she seems to have given up, after this very cursory search. It must not have been sarphin of her own lost, or she would never look so casually.

Ha, ha I said, I shouldn't complain—lucky for me they trust me. Come to think of it, if I set away with such a light search,

Concert Will Be Presented by Orchestra

Continued from page one

includes: first violins, Julia Rosser, concert master, Betty Parker, Virginia Hamm, Beverly Horn, Alice Proctor, Marion Ferrell, Eleanor Mullins, and Clara Sue Wicker; second violins, Helen Brown, Vecia Evans, Gertude Tomlin, Mary Ann Miller, Ruth Patterson, Eleanor Daniells, Frances Rosser, Arnie Marie, Donna Haney, Letha Boyce, and Ruth Brooks; violas, Katherine Bacon, Mary Patterson, Annabel Larsen, and Betty Barthlef; violincellos, Jean Young, Gordon Epperson, Charlotte Veith, and Clara Simmons; double bass, Martha Wilkerson; flutes, Henday Rosser, Carl Hoffman, and what must they give to those of real importance? Why, I bet if they'd get just established in reputation and not elected to an office I could walk away with the whole presidency. Not elected or even questioned! That's well looking in to; maybe I'll try it.

College Sees Young Adonis Ignore Rules

Deep - Rooted Tradition Is Trampled Upon By Super-Man

Thanksgiving dinner was nearing its end. People were pushing back their chairs, admiring they were gluttons, and settling back into a comfortable state of indigestion while awaiting the arrival of dessert.

One of the diners let her eyes wander about the room. Suddenly she stopped and sniffed. She muttered to her companion: who she sniffed. It was the smell of smoke—cigarette smoke—in the dining room.

After a brief period of conference they looked about for the perpetrator of the crime.

A young man, tall and rather handsome, was consistently puffing on a cigarette. He talked quietly and seemed quite oblivious to the turmoil he was causing.

"Of such things are presidents made," gloated a student as she closed a bet that he would finish approximately five of the vast array of ashes that hower about.

"The pioneer type, I'd say," remarked another as she effused at a mental picture of our hero being escorted to the dean's office.

His dinner companions seemed unaware of the fact that all was not as it should be. They looked the stares and whispers of the nearby tables. They actually were assumed a blank expression when she got a puff of smoke in her face. Another girl looked as if the result of careful premeditation and not the simple faux pas it appeared to be?

An usher made her way to the table thinner cleared. The acoustience watched, spellbound, for the climax.

"I knew it wouldn't last," sighed she who had compared the man to a president. "It never does."

The usher reached the table and stood to speak. All was quiet for a distance of ten tables in each direction.

The young man looked up. "May I have an ash tray?" he asked calmly.

The usher turned pale, staggered a few steps and brought a saucer. Somehow she felt that might have been an apology for a better ashtray.

The audience was too amazed to express itself as it saw a tradition of many months' standing swept away with in a brief ten minutes.

Marjorie Cox: clarinets, Betty Anderson, Dorothy Sanford, Alberta Clayton, and Emily B. Dickinson; B flat saxophone, Betty White; French horn, Margaret Stacy; trombone, Hazel Bowman; trumpet, Elizabeth Hurst, Ivy Johnson, Priscilla Robinson, and Sidney Moore; harps, Mary Reeder, and Mary Ann Waller; tympani, Louise Johnson; percussion, Louise Bowery, and bass drum, Jessica Jane Mackey.

Council Forms Activity Plan

Freshman Advisers Hope Better Organization Will Be Result

As part of the orientation program, freshman activity units are to be formed under the direction of the freshman advisory council, it was announced by committeers that this plar will eventually lead to the organized activity of clubs.

Each year an effort is made to direct the freshmen into worthy activities and last spring it was decided that the orientation program for the second and third quarters of this year would consist of activity units. Beginning with the new plan a record will be filed concerning the extracurricular activities of the new students and special help will be given the freshmen in that.

Art appreciation, music appreciation, drama appreciation, study of books, creative writing, and creative dancing groups will be formed by members of the freshman class, the debating group by the debating council, and the astronomy group by the astronomy club, it was announced. The Tuesday night to select a definite meeting time for the different groups in an effort to set the activities under way before Christmas.

At least each student is allowed to sign up for only two groups, Jo Bonion, freshman advisor, asks that students who have signed up for more than that number will be dropped from names except for two activities that they prefer.

Freshmen Declare Present Orientation Program Has in Their Minds Both Good and Bad Features

The consensus of opinion among freshmen concerning the orientation program this year, as revealed in answers to questions, is that the program helped them greatly in getting adjusted to college life. However, some thought the orientation period too long. Others thought it not long enough.

One freshman said she "got a lot out of it," but that she felt many phases of the program were repetitions. The orientation leader would tell her group things they would hear over again in other meetings. This freshman also said she enjoyed the speeches by faculty members and liked eating at freshmen tables, where she got to meet many upperclassmen.

Another freshman stated that through the orientation program she gained a knowledge of what the college and the campus were all about. Through the orientation group she met many of her classmates, learned about student organizations, and outlines traditions. she found the talks in the auditorium wonderful and feels that the speeches made there have influenced her life.

"The first week of college was grand," one girl said. "The meetings introduced us to the whole set-up of the college. Perhaps they took up time we wanted to use for other things, but they were worth it."

The criticism offered by one freshman was that each orientation group should have decided individually on the date for meetings instead of all groups having the same meeting time. In this way she believes each group could have found the time most convenient to its own members. The same girl said she liked the freshmen tables because they brought the freshmen together and was sorry the tables had been discontinued.

Another freshman said a he thought the idea was wonderful but that it was carried to extremes. She felt that at orientation meetings the girls talked too much about should have been rules and their privileges instead of instead of abstractions about studying. At this time a friend of hers added that she had been told in college her family had treated her as if she were grown up but now she felt she were not given credit for having any sense. In the orientation meetings the girls pointed were stressed that any girl with manners needn't fear.

According to one girl, orientation is a grand idea, but this year everyone was crowded too much including the leaders. She thought it took too much time and was rather tiresome; however, she considered it a good way to learn the rules and felt that some kind of program was necessary to introduce freshmen to college life.

Another girl found the program very helpful. She felt that she wouldn't have known what to do had she not been told.

One freshman stated she thought the program "pretty good," however, she felt that the orientation meetings had been too much time and didn't get anything accomplished. Other than that, she said, "the freshman tables are all right, but sometimes you get in a group you never would be congenial with."

"The orientation program helped the freshman to become adjusted to college life but grew monotonous toward the end of the

BAFFLING BAGGAGE and TROUBLESOME TRUNKS...Ship 'em Home and Back!
You'll shed a vacation vexation at one economical stroke. Simply pack up and phone Railway Express when to come. Your baggage will be picked up, shipped on swift express trains, delivered promptly at your home. For the return trip, you merely reverse. No extra charge for pick-up and delivery in cities and principal towns, and the shipping costs are practically negligible, when compared with local draymen's charges, etc., and the time you spend waiting. Also, Railway Express rates always include insurance up to $50 on each shipment, without extra expense. The main thing is to notify Railway Express when to call. That done, you can climb aboard the train and enjoy the scenery. You'll be off for a Merry Christmas.
117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 425-R
Tallahassee, Florida
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

CHRISTMAS SALE
Everything is Going at Sacrifice Prices!
$5.95 SILK DRESSES $2.88
$7.90 SILK DRESSES $4.98
$3.95 HATS $1.88
$3.95 SHOES $2.48
$2.95 SHOES $1.98
$1.95 HATS 98c
3 PAIRS SILK CHIFFON HOSE $1.85
THE LADIES' SHOP
Next to State Theatre

Flowers Gives Holiday Plans

Residence Halls Close At Noon Saturday, December 19

Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls, announced today the following regulations concerning departure for the Christmas holidays:

The residence halls will close at noon on Saturday, December 19, 1936.

Each student must sign with her director when, where, and how she is going.

If she expects to make the trip in a car other than with some member of her immediate family she must have permission on file from her parents or guardian.

A student who expects to spend the holidays in Tallahassee must have on file with the director of residence halls permission from her parents and an invitation from her hostess in Tallahassee.

Both train and bus tickets will go on sale Dec. 15, at 8 a.m.

Any student leaving on the night train or bus is required to sign up in Bryan hall office before seconc; light flash so that the night director may arrange for taxis and for going with her to the train.

Any student wishing her door locked during her absence must make her arrangements with her director, or set a key from the business office.

Dormitories will open at noon on Sunday, January 3, 1937.

Pianist Gives Artist Series Program Here

Continued from page one

He had the courage to choose a program of Beethoven's earlier period which is little known which does not abound in opportunities of display, and in far from the pretentions of certain modern compositions designed to exhibit the powers of dexterity of the keyboard. The concerto heard asks harder things.

"KNEE-ACTION SORTA RUNS IN YOUR FAMILY, EH, BOY FRIEND?"

Knee-Action certainly runs in our family. You can get this modern contribution to easier riding and safer steering on any General Motors car. Considering what it costs to develop such things in the first place, that's quite a tribute to the economies of large scale production, made possible, we are glad to say, by the large scale demand for GM cars.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

Sports Squints

By "JINKS" BROOKS

Away with Even feathers and Odd ribbons . . . but put them in footballs, girls, for you can use them again next year. That is, of course, unless they have been totally demolished due to fights, quarrels, or rival factions.

Now that basketball and volleyball infants have had time to heal, the moment has come for arm and shin sprained this year. In other words, hockey and soccer! The practices for Odd and Even teams, as well as regular classes, will start next week. We've heard that Dr. White does an excellent job on sprained ankles.

The water pageant given Thanksgiving morning was demanded a second time this past week, and all those who didn't go to see it missed a grand affair. The swimming and diving were excellent—Katie Rawls executed one little number that we're still trying to figure out!

The folk-dancing classes are evidently eating oatmeal by the ton! From the number of bones recently seen decorated gaily with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, and what-not, one would suppose they were conditioning themselves to the fox trot rather than a good after ski! Maybe the idea is the American Oatmeal Pick-Me-Up.

Seems funny not to see the extra-curricular evening classes out at the gym in the afternoons any more. They always made such a picturesque sight.

The new sailboat at camp should prove very exciting. Now all the would-be sailors can take lessons from the oldtimers, and know the "feel of sailing timers" underfoot. There will undoubtedly be another line to get into, too, for it is a three-passenger and new to the majority of the girls.

Wonder if any of our star swimmers will attend the big intercollegiate meet in New Laudersdale Christmas? So far none have announced their intentions to go, so we're all behind them and betting on them to win, too!

Did you notice with what speed and delight some of the worst gym-baters twirled and circled and whirled about in the arms of visiting brothers and true-loves last Saturday night? If they spent that much energy throwing baskets and swatting volleyballs they'd be experts!

Have you noticed all the hikers trudging back unaided from their hikes?

Pity the poor freshmen taking gym! It seems they no sooner get it mixed to one game than they have to start on another, which means they no sooner get one muscle cured than they have to start getting another!

NSFA Debates Rushing Plans of Sororities

Continued from page one

detrimental effect on the morale of the freshman class.

Radical Plan

Fran-ie Lewis, first negative speaker summed up the points in the opponent's side and expressed the belief that the system is at fault with the system as outlined by the affirmative would be greatly emphasized and more serious. The freshman class studies and other interest would be hindered throughout the year should rushing be deferred. She made the point that pledging during the first week of school helps the student to adjust herself to her new life as she is encouraged and sponsored by the upperclassmen of the sorority to which she has been pledged. The negative also declared that rush week brings together the competitive activities of the sororities.

A different plan of rushing was recommended as a substitute by the second speaker of the affirmative, Betty Wynn. In the proposed plan pledging would occur the second or third week of the sophomore year. This would give the chapters a better chance to look over the new "crop" and mistakes could more easily be avoided.

No False Pretenses

An interesting point made by the affirmative was the statement that, with deferred rushing, there could be no false pretenses among the chapters without freshmen there for the better. The feeling of competition would build up the morale of the chapter and would be beneficial to both the school and the girls concerned. In this way misunderstandings about the size of a chapter due to the influx of alumnae during rush week could be avoided. The affirmative concluded by stating that the sorority would be judged, not for a short period of three days, but for the longer period of nine months.

"Established systems," said Phi Asher, second negative speaker, "should be abolished only when they prove impractical." Turning to her opponents, she asked, "Are there evils in the present system, and if so will they be remedied by your plan?"

In answering the challenges of the affirmative, the negative replied that pathelenic spirit is excellent now and better than ever before. The strain due to emotional tension during rush week is only natural, she declared, as emotional strain always accompanies the making of an important decision. If the time of rushing were extended, the sororities formed during that time would be barred or fined.

According to the negative, the present system is satisfactory for several reasons. It leaves the freshman time for studies and personal affairs. The freshman has a close bond between her pledge sisters, a state impossible if rushing were deferred. Also, the average freshman would have no incentive to take part in campus activity if she were not encouraged by the upperclassmen of her sorority. Phi next made the point that scholarship is also dependent upon the environment of the sorority. The negative suggested that a few minor changes be made to the present system, namely a rush week of five days composed of not more than four dates, and a program for the purpose of instructing chapter members how to rush.

Olympic Stars To Congregate At Lauderdale

Annual Coaches' Conclave Meets Jointly With Swimming Forum

Attention of the Intercollegiate swimming world will be focused on Fort Lauderdale, during the ten days of the Christmas holidays.

This year the annual meeting of the College Swimming Coaches association will be held in connection with the Forum. Advance reservations indicate that twice as many persons over the United States will attend as the forced coaches and their pupils who came last year.

Three years ago the Colgate swimming team came to Fort Lauderdale and trained during the Christmas holidays. The idea grew until this year it is bigger than ever.

Special events of this program will include the annual East-West meet, and the Olympic trials. Olympia s More Olympic swimmers and divers are expected to assemble than have gathered at any place in the United States since the Olympics. Motion pictures of the German Olympics, including the Nazi "super" movies, underwater pictures taken at Silver Springs, and other motion pictures of outstanding performers will be shown.

Other entertainment features will include a sight-seeing trip over Miami and Miami Beach, a water polo fishing contest, trips to citrus groves, the lion farm and a deep sea fishing party aboard a cruiser.

One of the special features will be demonstrations by Ross Allen, the Silver Springs snake charmer, at Silver Springs. Ross is familiar to radio listeners and movie-goers who have heard about and seen his alligator wrestling and panther charming stunts.

Continued from page one

holders to this program, the second in a series of presentations to be given by the speech department during the year. Tickets for those not having season tickets will cost 25 cents.

Committees arranging for this program are: publicity, Mary Berryhill; publicity chairman, Rachel Seay; tickets, Betty Sweet Smith, Jean Brown, Beverly Brown and Bunny Turnbull; programs, Lorine Gunn; ushers, Marjy Jones Chatfield, Betty Fain, Fay Solomon, Mary Quisenberry, Ruth Biddle, Mildred Dean. The electrician is Marie Spurlock, and the stage crew consists of Lillian Bond, Lucy Bond Davis, Frances Lewis, Beverly Brown, Dorothy Hill, and Sallie Bert Nunnum.

Loyal Band Joins In "Free-for-All"

Disabled war veterans? Victims of automobile accidents? Professional boxers? Not at all. Those girls were hobbling about swathed in bandages are members of that newly formed champus organization of Girls who Sacrifice All for the Cause of Basketball.

Membership in the club is open to all athletic-minded girls on campus, the only requirement being a large and varied assortment of injuries received in a game of basketball. Anything from a blood eye to a dent in the head or a broken leg will suffice as entrance requirements, but promotion to office is based upon the acquirement of new and extensive injuries. It is said that the vice-president now boasts of broken fingers, a skinned knee, and several misplaced vertebrae, while the president bears about her person 43 scars and bruises.

The club's first activity was the "free-for-all," a crush in the bleachers, at the end of the colors are black and blue. Due to the unprecedented rush, only a girl who succeeded in gaining entrance unscathed from the mêlée climbed into the Thanksgiving games, the membership has swelled to astounding proportions. Where it'll end there's a waiting list.

Faculty Group Adopts Change in Cut System

Continued from page one

A or B averages. Eight cuts per semester will be allowed those who do not have a B average and ten cuts to those who maintain this satisfactory." For students with three to six hours of "unsatisfactory" grades, six cuts per quarter will be permitted. If "unsatisfactory" grades are seven or more hours, no cuts are allowed.

The fact was emphasized that no changes have been made in the regulations concerning probation standards, except that they remain before and after holidays. Neither has there been any change made in the date of probation, which Saturday Christmas holidays will begin December 18 at 11:30.

Science Group Bestows Honor Upon Heinlein

Continued from page one

selling and the speech habits do not lend themselves to mathematical computation he said, "We need." Dr. Heinlein believes, "a redemption of scholarship in our institutions of higher learning and a discontinuance of the pseudo-mathematical practice called the grade-point system."

Another of the practices he criticizes is the devision and utilization of "paper tests to measure things that cannot be demonstrated to have concrete, objective reality," such as emotional stability, traits, mathematical ability and submissiveness. To measure as the psychiatrists measure, which is the true scientific method, there must be a scale with a zero point of reality and equal units throughout its extent, but "when we examine the literature under the heading of mental tests, we do not find any units which satisfy the criteria of scientific measurement . . . To say the least, demodulted programs of intelligence testing and personality testing are consequences of a complete misunderstanding of the fundamental axioms of arithmetic. The fact that different kinds of response can be identified by numbers does not warrant the pseudo-mathematical treatment of entirely heterogeneous activities, into homogeneous coefficients from which are subjectively extracted supposedly measurable hypostatized concepts."

"I believe that a frank and honest public confession of the many limitations and inadequacies of scaling techniques in psychometry and education would help to remove from the mental testing program the cataract of black-magic which has so completely blinded the layman into a naive acceptance of statistical numerology." Dr. Heinlein stated, pointing out that even professional intelligence testers are at a loss to find an adequate definition of what they are testing.

In his treatment of the consequences arising from these pseudo-mathematical methods, he presented the opinion that the elimination of such inadequate tests from school systems "would prevent much dangerous negative motivation of students who are led to believe that their relatively low test scores are indices of an indispensable inherited capacity." The most reliable and valid tests available show a forecasting efficiency only a few per cent better than pure guess.

"Psychobiography and descrip-

College Camp Has Sailboat For Students

Rigid Test Given Before Craft Can Be Used On the Lake

A three-passenger sailboat has been added to the equipment at Camp Flambeau, and will be used for the pleasure of the students.

The use of the sailboat will be governed by the following regulations: at least one person who has passed the sailing test must be in the boat whenever it is taken out; no person may get in the boat who cannot swim; a party using the sailboat when the camp lifs guard is not present must include at least one person who has passed the sailing test: "Free-for-all," a crush in the bleachers, at the end of the colors are black and blue. Due to the unprecedented rush, only a girl who succeeded in gaining entrance Thanksgiving games, the membership has swelled to astounding proportions. Where it'll end there's a waiting list.

Leadership Class Has Camp Week-end

The camp leadership class of the physical education department, spent its first week-end at the college camp on November 28. The girls were instructed in canoeing, handcrafts, and campfire building under the direction of Miss Betty Washburn, Miss Eunice Hurd, and Miss Katy Montgomery. Ruth Wilson served as activity leader.

These camp classes are held to supplement the laboratory periods for the group and the next class will be on December 6, at which time Marie Taylor will be activity leader.

Basketball Dates Set For Florida High Team

Florida High school' will play basketball games in the college gymnasium with an admission of 15 and 35 cents at 7:30 on the evenings beginning December 10 and ending February 26. There will always be a preliminary game between two other teams at 6:45 o'clock before the main game.

The schedule is: Dec. 10, Foley, here; Dec. 11, Chattahoochee, there; Dec. 17, Carrabelle, here; Jan. 7, Bristol, here; Jan. 8, Monticello, there; Jan. 14, Havana, here; Jan. 18, Madison, there; Jan. 21, Chattahoochee, here, Jan 22, Foley, there; Jan. 24, Mt. Pleasant, here; Jan. 29, Bristol, there; Feb. 4, Madison, here; Feb. 11, Day, here; Feb. 18, Monticello, here; Feb. 19, Mt. Pleasant, there; Feb. 25, Acadia, here.

tions of biochemical development will, I am convinced, eventually displace the quantitative, intricate statistical mazes through which more than a few investigators are groping painfully," Dr. Heinlein asserts.

The conclusion he points out that his critical evaluation of mathematical methods in psychometrics, education, and psychiatry "certainly does not imply that there is no

Sports Series Resumed After Holiday Games

Episcopalians Take Win From Sorority Team In Intramurals

With the excitement of the Thanksgiving games the intramurals in basketball and volleyball have been somewhat neglected for the past two weeks. However the basketball games were resumed once more when the Episcopals and the Tri Delts battled it out.

For the first part of the game the ball hovered for the most part near the Tri Delt end of the court. The Tri-Delts were noticeably in the lead and the first quarter ended with the score 8-4 in their favor.

In the next quarter the Episcopals warmed up and the ball shot from one end of the court to the other with little wasting space in between. At the beginning of the quarter the teams kept pretty evenly matched but as the end of the quarter drew near the Episcopals got the ball and finished up the half with the score 16-11 in their favor.

Good blocking and long straight shots were demonstrated in the next quarter, but the Tri Delts fought hard enough to tie the score and the quarter ended wit hthe Episcopals still ahead with a score of 23-21.

The fourth quarter was too one sided to be very interesting. However the Tri-Delts scored only one point during the quarter and the game closed with the Episcopals the victors at 31-27.

Members of the Episcopal team were Jean Thomas, Eugenia Mumcaffrey, Betty White (captain), Catherine Kirby-Smith, Ruth measurement in these fields, but winning laws can be accomplished only when the criteria of measurement are satisfied in "the light of some microscopically exact and constant physical unit."

F Club Passes Ruling Requiring C Average For Becoming Member

F club members at a meeting last night voted not to allow any student to become an F goat and candidate for the F club until she has made a C average regardless of the fact that she has made an F.

The action of the club was taken after a careful consideration of the present system of scholastic requirements for Odd-Even participation in Odd-Even activities, students who do not have more than one-half unsatisfactory hours in their scholastic records are allowed to play in Odd-Even games.

Taking a further step to remedy the situation which might result in students achieving their F's who had not made their C average, the F club voted to draw up a recommendation to be presented to the Athletic association which said that the C average and an F until a C average is maintained in all courses.

In line with present dissatisfaction with the rushing system of the club a committee with Louise Gehan as chairman and Betty Sweet Smith, Mary Thill and Valeria Hunt as members was appointed to study the rushing system of the club and to offer recommendations by which the goal might be carried out more closely to individual character.

The club also appointed a Christmas party for Tuesday, Dec. 15. Members of the club will bring presents for charity distribution.

Barrington and Betty Berrmeister, Katherine Bacon went in for horseback riding at the second quarter.

Members of the Tri-Delt team were Helen Rizzo (captain), Jane Olmstead, Dot Smith, Mary Colburn, Betty Skinner, and Jamis Brown.

The semi-final game will be played next week between Georgiana and the Newman Club. The winning team will play the Episcopals in the finals.

The volleyball games are expected to be renewed also next week.

Practices For Winter Sports To Begin Soon

Weeks, Thill, Corey And Glazier Are Named Sports Leaders

Hockey and soccer practices will begin next week and continue until Christmas. Four practices will be held a week on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons at 4:30. Until Christmas all the Odd and Even practices for both hockey and soccer to be combined, except after Christmas single practices will continue for five weeks with the finale being played the last week in January.

The team leaders for three sports will be: Odd hockey, Marion Weeks; Even hockey, Frances Thill; Odd soccer, Fay Corey; Even soccer, Evelyn Glazier. Miss Beth Washburn will be the faculty advisor for the Even hockey team, and Miss Fay Frazier for the Odd hockey team. The faculty advisors for the soccer team are not yet known.

These decisions were made at a meeting of the athletic board held Tuesday night. The board also discussed the matter for the Southeastern conference of the Athletic Federation of College Women which will be held at Florida State in 1938. This is a sectional conference of the national federation and it will be one of those which are held at intervals of three years between the meetings of the national conference. Since the dates for this conference program will be quite extensive, Beth Deane, chairman of the board announced that plans must be begun now. For this purpose a committee was appointed to formulate possible dates for discussion at the conference. This committee includes Evelyn Fisher, chairman, Sara Nichson, Helen Gunn, Nikita West, and Dorothy Marwick. Also Nikita West was appointed to make an investigation concerning the number of colleges that are planning to participate in the conference.

Christmas Gifts Galore
$1.00 Up
W. W. PUTNAM
JEWELER
209 South Monroe Street

ADAMS STUDIO
119½ East College
"Photographs That Please"

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

MAGAZ MOORMAN ..... Editor-in-Chief
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BUSBEE ..... Managing Editor
ELIZABETH CHAMBERLAIN ..... Managing Editor
NYLES TRITER ..... Editorial Director

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Ruth Udell, Freshmen, Virginia Earle; Features, Ann Bird, Assistant, Ann Bird; Society, Mary Beth Cobb, Asst. Asst. Sarah Bennett; Organizations, Caroline O'Rourke, Assistant, Margaret Clara Luther, Asst. Minnie Arden Anderson; Special Reporter, Dr. Lucile Lockhart; Exchange, Lucy Mann; Sports, Ella Virginia Hall, Asst. Asst. Isabel Cowles.

REPORTERS: Hazel Arline Bush, Addison Dorothy Barber, Hudson Barnett, Dorothy Bellamy, Frances Bellamy, Petite Chandler, Richard Clayton, Theron Curtiss, Doris Curtiss, Robert Downey, Virginia Dunn, Jean Fleming, Mary Ann Gilbert, Mary Ann Gilbert, Annette Lewis, Hoyt Bertram Ingraham, Lucy Kelly, Ann Lastz, Betty Leach, Martha Longmire, Mary Ann Lowe, Mary Ann Lowe, Mary Ann Lowe, Mary Noble, Estelle Patrick, Jesse Price, Marion Purrington, Mary Rogers, Jean Sharon, Lavinia Spaulding, Elizabeth Street, Mary Pulliam, Alma Wilson, Penelope Westbrook.

BUSINESS STAFF

LUCILE MCGUIRE ..... Business Manager
JANE SUTTON ..... Assistant Business Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Adv. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Represented for National Advertising by
NATIONAL ADVERTISING SERVICE, INC.
College Publishers Representative
420 Madison Ave. New York, N. Y.
Chicago • Boston • San Francisco • Los Angeles
Portland • Seattle

Member National Scholastic Press association and Florida Intercollegiate Press association.

Entered as second class mail matter January 20, 1915, at the post office in Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

We Go To Bat—
With President Hutchins

With the last month President Hutchins of the University of Chicago has received much criticism for his conception of education as set forth in his recent book "Higher Learning in America" and several magazine articles.

For his belief that curriculum and not the individual student is the important item in education Chancellor Chase of Harvard has recently severely assailed him. Hutchins insists on precisely the same content for all people of all time, in all places! But Chase in retort says he cannot bring himself to believe that the general education good for an Englishman in the eighteenth century is the best kind of education for young men and women in the twentieth century.

Further, Donald Slesinger in the Nation points out that this resolves the dilemma of selection of content by "a tiny minority assumed over-sample section of our intellectual heritage and the mind of man." Mr. Hutchins in regard to selection of material for the curriculum has said that if all the books are rational they will agree on knowledge even though they may still disagree on matters of opinion." Truth is everywhere the same, says Hutchins.

Now it would be humble opinion that a group of professors would probably never agree on the selection of material for a general education curriculum, for selection would be necessarily involve expression of opinion. If each professor had equally the same college experiences, their opinions might coincide. Yet education demands speculation and speculation is a rapidly changing society. Hutchins does not appeal to us at this. How can the college presupposes in education have identical experiences as ask Mr. Hutchins.

Furthermore a man might be able to recommend the best books for education but can not recommend the methods to take the best of assigning to select some of our social problems. The psychology of which these assignments based, as Dr. Nelson of the public schools of Jacksonville disproved superficially in a recent convention speaking. Logic may be essential to science but logicians are not.

Something
Should Be Done—

Each week scores of college papers come out in Florida, some through the commercial press, some mimeographed to keep up with the times and some of the college mimeograph.

Among the weekly press conscientiously is presented with the problem of reporting of events up in their papers in an effort to keep the college "complete" and to perpetuate the lying spirit of the editorial paragraph. A heavy surplus of items accumulates at the close of the attempt to report events of the week. The paper is published, time is given to the press and a hurried process of selection is made. Some items are left out, some are given a prominence that they do not deserve and some are left out entirely.

The college as the original humor magazine published by colleges which depend upon the wealth and not the brains of American for their reputation as institutions of higher learning.

It is a discouraging job to try to find in a week's exchanges one editorial which is really worth reporting. It seems that college editors are not their best in the job of sheet-leaders for athletics, sighers for the long gone past, sunpeers over alms mater and her latest brain child. Try to find one editor in a dozen, however, who is capable of turning out some decent logic on really important student matters or an unsentimental commentary on school progress.

A paper which wishes to rise to the highest journalistic standards and yet remain interesting to college readers is hard put to find models among the several hundred collegiate publications in the United States. For often an editor who has achieved a decent editorial standard has neglected the remainder of his paper which soon deteriorates into a make-shift of terrible typography, screaming headlines, tabloid sports jargon, and several gallery of miserable collegiate pseudo-intellectual wanderings.

College editors as a class are probably not conscious of these matters, and it is certain that the average reader is not. Allow one bad journalistic error to slip into the college paper, and the general public, faculty and students immediately clamor for more. Furthermore, college papers are up against it for time, financial backing, staff and faculty control. These factors which must be consistently kept in mind if the paper is to meet with any degree of approval.

Yet with all of these things to be enlarged on its defense one cannot help but feel that the college press as an institution is due for a general overhauling and remodeling according to a more dignified standard if it wishes to continue in its place as honor organ for the colleges of America.

Let's Not Overlook Debating

Some interesting facts recently reported to the League for Political Education sound an encouraging note for debating classes down here this week.

Tests given to social studies classes in forty-five New York City high schools before and after the classes listened to an weekly broadcasts of America's Town Meeting of the Air revealed a 29.3 per cent shift in attitude by the students.

The Town Meeting took the form of formal discussions by prominent persons, often Congressmen and Senators, on such controversial issues as "The Supreme Court and the Constitution," "Capitalism vs. Socialism," and "The Freedom of the Press."

The League was so pleased with the educational benefits derived from these weekly broadcasts that this year the project will be amplified. Speakers will be selected from students who attend the Town Meeting broadcasts in person and they in turn will broadcast their opinions to the Mexico of the Air over the National network.

The student project, which is being conducted by the Social Science Studies Council of New York City schools in connection with the League for Political Education, is simply an example of how far our debating classes here might go.

They may develop in students the ability to argue without letting emotion get the best of them; but they may further than that. They may stimulate students to talking and thinking on controversial issues they hither-before were hardly even conscious of, they may definitely change attitudes on vital social questions of the day.

Yes, our debating classes will bear watching. They may be allowed to slide into "just another extra-curricular activity" or they again under intelligent guidance they may become an educational force on this campus.

Matters
Of Little Import

The latest development in our system sounds like an improvement over the experiment of this fall. At least death will not go down in the registrar's office as a cut.

Seniors retrieved a little of their accustomed composure at the last class meeting. The preceding get-together resembled a hoarding school party.

Non-dignity is being achieved on the athletic courts. Players has decided that standing still is a better position for receiving

This Week

American Safety Zone Confronts Conference

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

The creation of an American zone of safety in a mad world—this is the sizeable task confronting the Inter-American Peace Conference which opened Tuesday in Buenos Aires. Addressing the presidents and delegates of the twenty-one Latin American republics President Roosevelt asked for the cooperation of all the democracies of the Western Hemisphere in a two-point proposal: (1) "to prevent any future war among ourselves" and (2) to prevent the creation of those conditions which give rise to war as well as to perfect the mechanism of peace.

"Democracy is still the hope of the world," stressed Mr. Roosevelt. By making the Americas a proving ground for constructive democratic government he hopes to see democracy "supercede other methods by which men are governed and which seem to be in run contrast to the ideals of human liberty and human progress."

Roosevelt made it clear that the United States will not join the League of Nations, much to the satisfaction of the Latin American nations. Ethiopia destroyed their faith in the League as a bulwark for weak peoples and sent far to and persuading Uruguay and Argentina that help would never come from the halls of Geneva. The conference marks a return to the home base and the eagerness for a League of the Americas carries with it the willingness of the South Americans to accept the suggestion of the United States Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, our second representative at the conference, pressed upon them the need of a regional pact under which the American nations will discharge war among themselves and present a united front to the disturbers of American peace. This will call for an enlarged interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine under which all the Pan-American countries will declare their power to protect one another from aggression from Europe or Asia.

Roosevelt was pinned down by the Argentine delegates after his talk and made to explain his big Navy plans. In his address, he roundly condemned the folly and extravagance of large scale rearmament. "It is the most permanent structure," he said, "and creates no basis for peaceful for the maintenance of a lasting prosperity." Everyone knows that the United States is keeping the pace in the world rearmament race. The Argentines pointed out this contradiction and asked how he reconciled it with his good neighbor policy.

Roosevelt pointed out the impending aggressiveness of Italy and Japan, and said that South America was the only unexploited trend left in the world where

Continued on page two

University Editorials .....

Students in modern education will be interested in the recent stand of the conviction League as discussed by the Oshkosh Advance:

American League's Stand On Education

Last week there came to this desk a communication from the American Legion dealing with national education and the aims and purpose of the public school in the American system of government. We have always looked upon the Legion as a stand and hope that they will abide by it.

The American Legion deplores the fact that so many of the schools have ceased from laying stress upon the responsibility of the teacher. They believe that better education facilities can be offered the child if the school rests squarely upon responsibility.

The Legion also declares that one of the surest ways to safeguard our democracy and to solve its problems is through continued improvement of the public schools. The national organization was quick to see the vital connection between the survival of the American school, and American democracy when it strenuously protested in conversation against further financial crippling of our school system in the name of economy."

"There is no place for force," continues the report, "in democracy, pressure groups, cliques, vested interests, arm-chair and subversive groups in our American scheme of things. No particular group should be permitted to control the schools. They minister to all the children of all the people. Nothing should be permitted to quench the free flow of ideas in them. A teacher and a school should be reasonably free from dictation from outside. However, no teacher or school should be subservient that does not believe in and fails to support American democratic society."

The article then goes on to say that the American public school system is distinguished upon the separation of church and state. It then added that this does not mean that training in religion is to be excluded but that it is a part of the school system to foster and develop a high, ethical character in the individual.

The American public school system is also founded upon the principle of equality of opportunity. The article states that "this sterling American principle means that every child has opportunity to advance as far and as fast as his or her own personal ability permits at the right of every American boy and girl. This equality of educational opportunity therefore, must be available and open to every boy and girl who wishes to make use of them." It then states that the rural school should be given the same chance as the city school, and that both state and federal aid to the rural schools in accomplishing this purpose, stating that "we cannot educate only half our people and neglect the other half and expect the American government to survive."

The communication continues that "the American public school system is distinguished by the republican and democratic form and system of control." The chief reason why the government furnished free education to every child is because government needs well-educated citizens, sound in body and character, for its own self survival."

This article concludes that the main reason why we give our children free, public education is because the public welfare itself demands universal education.

Collegiate Comebacks

With Thanksgiving definitely in the background and all of us turning our faces toward Christmas, we are reminded that now is the time to begin cultivating that "sweeter than set up smile. After all, there are only a few more shopping days till Christmas, and money usually just runs through the roommate's fingers.

* * * *

Convocation this week brought to our minds that ever-true adage that crime does not pay. Wouldn't a couple of bats have made it more effective?

* * * *

The never-ending nursery rhymes go on and on:

Humpty-Dumpty sat in a class
Humpty-Dumpty failed to pass.
All the king's horse.
And all the king's men
Couldn't make Humpty-Dumpty
Take Calculus again
—Frample

* * * *

In a recent editorial the Gulfordian suggested that life girls carry out their opinions concerning equality by practicing it in the social world. They want to know why the girls who do not have escorts shouldn't attend social gatherings as well as the stags. They are also in favor of girls breaking at dances where there are not enough boys on the floor. If they need any pointers on how to go about it we of this maniless world will be glad to compile several volumes on the subject, including such timely and important subjects as "How to Break in a Defenseless Male Without Breaking Him."

"How To Retain Your Self-Control When, on Getting Home for the Week-End, You See a Man for the First Time in Six Months," and others.

* * * *

From the Lasso we picked up the scandalous bit of news that the whole Wofford college football squad was jailed temporarily at Marinsville. Virginia, recently, one of the members tried to make away with a No Parking sign. We daresay that if similar actions were taken against the co-eds in this institution even Sing-Sing itself would not be large enough to house all of the culprits.

* * * *

The Davidsonian offers the following poem in "dog latin," which sounds just like any other kind of Latin to us:

Boybus kissibus sweeta girlorum.
Girlibus likibus wanta somecorum.
Poopibus hopeus heller the datus amekorum.
Kickabus boytbus outa the doorum.

* * * *

According to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle the size of the American family has increased more than a full above air in the last twenty years. Modern would probably explain this by saying that never in the history of the American people have there been children like us, a fact necessitating increased help and

* * * *

By a recent test cited in Popular Science it was proven that a woman tends to remember the pleasant experiences in her life and to forget the unpleasant ones, while a man usually remembers the unpleasant ones, forgetting the pleasant ones. If this is true we wish someone would explain to us why girls are still cussing Saturday classes.

* * * *

Campus Comments explains adequately a matter about which we have long been puzzled:

Bank
L ate hours
U nprepared
C ollege
K icked out.

The Reader Writes

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and are not necessarily those of the Flambeau. Letters to the editor are invited to contribute to The Reader Writes.

Trouble trailed me there you see
Then he finally captured me.

Help burned over to my side
Heaved me up and marched inside

Amour nodded down the hall
And seeing me, stopped to call.

Not knowing all the cheer
Now she brought by being near.

Kindness kindled so much ease
Keeping things just me to please

So friends of mine for all you've done
Someone's thanking you, and I'm the one

Signed Barney Loury

* * * *

THE READER WRITES

We think that judiciary should be highly commended for its action. First it is very instructive and constructive program presented in this week's convocation. Second, its prompt and systematic action in the short one-hour-day night, not forgetting Senate in the second case.

Certainly both of these demonstrations will discourage further attempts to break rules.

Such actions as this make us proud of, and confident in our judiciary system.

Signed Eloise Trott, Betty Hatch, Jean Zachariae, Melba Parks, Katherine Todd, Katherine Autrey, Margaret Walcott, Gilnette Eagleheart, Mary Jetton, Martha Wilson & Helen Hendry

Continued on page two

Magazine Jottings

BY SARAH SHALEY
and
SARAH BETH DAVIS

Conservation—a Typographical Error

By Jay N. Darling

The word conservation is a typographical error in the realm of the New Deal, Mr. Darling, who was appointed chief of the conservation survey in 1934 declares. The s and the v have been transposed.

Few projects launched under the title of conservation, to quote from Mr. Darling's article in the November Review of Reviews, have made any real progress, and even existing conservation activity have been definitely destructive of natural resources. Little attention has been paid to water resources and the part they play in the national food budget. Miles of roads have been cut through primitive forests exposing them to devastation by the tourist instead of aiding in conserving them. Great dams which are straining the biological resources of large areas by ways have been built under the name of conservation. The Civilian Conservation has become a political plum tree. Instead as the fundamental conservation and man hands concerned the New Deal has had no great or no definite plan and little understanding.

Statements such as these coming from a man of the biological survey should stimulate many can citizens to investigate what is taking place in their country today under the name of conservation and, if the s and v are transposed to see that they are returned to their proper places.—S. D.J.

* * * *

College Women ToDay

By Dr. Meta Glass

Since education is much larger and wider than any institution, the young women of today must obtain it from a great diversity of sources—from the classroom, the elevator operator, the Minister of England, Plato, Michael Angelo and the bricklayers, says the president of Bryn Mawr College in her article in the November School and Society.

Yet, the writer continues, none of these sources can take the place of a few years concentrated on intellectual pursuits within a college.

Dr. Glass believes it is better for young women to seek an education in an institution where there are no male students. She gives as the reason, for the belief that in "schools and colleges where there are no men, women develop independence and resourcefulness by having to do things social has set aside for men to do." She sides she considers that the college of a hundred or more young men and women to be close together while trying to get a cultural education and impossible for them to do the best work under such conditions.—S. D.

* * * *

What Is a Teacher Worth?

By Jean Ricochet Boyd

School teachers are overpaid, so at the say who trundles a pile of bricks from one side of a road to the other all day long. The next to the last of both is approximately correct, concludes a former teacher in an article in the December Forum.

The writer who is now a doctor practicing in Pennsylvania, was graduated from college a Phi Beta Kappa with a natural aptitude for teaching and a particular interest in children. For five years he taught in large towns and small towns, in good schools and poor schools—and he says he knows what he is talking about. Everywhere he found the same situation: he could not have a native and insatiable curiosity about the world, they did not understand simple mathematics necessary for science. He could not spell or write decent English in the interest of school contained in a desire to do. And everywhere he found it expedient for the students to pass and found other teachers using the credit "for effort" in the absence of knowledge. Concluding that he was robbing students by accepting a teacher's salary. Boyd resigned the profession.

The author analyzes his situation thus: the lower ten per cent of society are simply deficient and incapable of learning. The next forty per cent were born to achieve and diminish, regardless of, and despite school training. The middle twenty per cent are potentially capable of learning almost anything they care to learn. The trouble lies in the fact that educational standard processes are based on the assumption that people in general are interested in mere knowledge; in actuality most people learn only what they need and what they are interested in—e. t. read and write, drive a car, to play golf, to add and subtract and multiply, to cross streets and go on.

Dr. Boyd does not suggest what the schools should teach. But he is extremely skeptical about the usual efficacy of what they are trying to teach now.—S. B.

* * * *

The Nature of Telepathy

By Ernest Hunter Wright

Following up last month's article on Care for Telepathy Professor Wright in December Harper's offers an interpretation and explanation of the remarkable experiments conducted by Dr. Rhine at Duke university.

previous articles presented an abundance of evidence from scientific experiments to indicate the existence of extra-sensory perception sometimes called clairvoyance or mental telepathy—in a few individuals.

The author challenges our tendency to ex-

Continued on page two

The Social Week

Many Students To Attend Gainesville Fall Frolics

The Gainesville campus will be the destination of a large number of Florida State college students this week-end as the events of the social calendar there reach their height in the Fall Frolics.

The week-end will be featured by fraternity dances and entertainments, the Florida-Mississippi football game, and the inter-fraternity council dances. Ernestine McCullough will be one of the sponsors for the dance tomorrow afternoon.

Students Will Attend

Students attending the Fall Frolics from this campus include: Betty Crisp, Eugenia Death, Virginia Fuller, Louise Rooks, Ann Tayloe, Jean Bowen, Jean Leachman, Sara Tillman, Frances Inman, Helen Blackwell, Mildred Gilbert, Jane LaMotte, Nell Joyce Webb, Erma Engel, Dorothy Hall, Charlotte Connell, Dee Carothers, Merle Dekle, Eugenia Bass, Elizabeth Gidley, Eleanor Jackson.

Beatrice Grus, Hannah Biscow, Geraldine Bennett, Idella Bennett, Kathryn Kass, Rosalyn Silberberg, Jeannie Sherkess, Pat Stovall, Virginia Lawton, Eleanor Lykes, Nancy Adamson, Virginia Sutton, Nancy Taylor, Miss Moore, Jane Cralle, Sunny Boy Betty Cochran, Mary Esther Clark, Nelwyn Brooks, Mary Hilliard, Mary Ramsey, Carol Mullion.

Others Attending

Glynn Greene, Kitty Kyle, Sarah Frances Blackwell, Sarah Lee Hunter, Virginia Hunter, Ellen McLeod, Jessica Jane Mackey, Jean Willis, Lula Mae Moody, Carl Brigman, Ruth Gaskin, Margie Creel, Martha Robbins, Reuben Coleman, Mary Susan Howley, Danner Baker, Louise Pisgah, Phil Asher, Shirley Pemberton, Arline Gray Lockhart, Martha Lee Wilkerson, Carl Miller, Mary Ellen Dastwyler, Marjorie Stewart.

Anne Ladd, Martha Rosenbaum, Betty Curtis, Julia Burnette, Betty Davis, Peggy Jackson, Marjorie Anderson, Alice Day, Margaret Gourlis, Doris Cahoon, Mary Herbert Adams, Betty Spicer, Marguerite Branas, Elizabeth Turner, Sarah Adams, Eleanor Rogers, Jane Hamm, Mary Frances Sowell, Jean Gillie, Elizabeth Kent, Mary Ellen Kinnard, Kathryn Peterson, Ruth Ketter Rosen, Edna Javobian, Erect Anderson, Tex Smith, Janet Mae Cummings, Carolyn Grissett, Florence Morris, Dorothy Simmons, Marjorie Butler, and others.

ZTA Honors Province President on Tour For Inspection

Mrs. James Sulsby, of Birmingham, Ala., province president of Zeta Tau Alpha, arrived Tuesday for a two-day visit to the local annual inspection tour. The members entertained her Tuesday with an after-dinner coffee Wednesday night at the home of the faculty and representatives of the other sororities on campus were invited.

Autumnal flowers in gay hues were used in the decorations for the tea in honor of Mrs. Sulsby who will return to her home tonight.

Department Tea Held Tuesday Afternoon

The Home Economics department gave one of its series of tea dances Tuesday afternoon in order to provide more contact with each other and the faculty.

Those students invited were Mary Ellen Hamilton, Hamilton, Luella Kistler, Ruth Katherine Meisch, Juanita Brooks, Ruth Crosby, Eleanor Bowen, McDaniel, Josephine McGowan, Evelena Nader, and Eleanor R. Scott.

Magazine Jottings

Continued from page four

telepathy as a supernatural phenomenon. He believes that we accept such commonplaces, but truly miraculous facts as the origin and development of life and the development of eye, ear and brain form no such belief. He shows that extrasensory perception is not, as has been contended, a proof of survival of death, because distance and direction do not affect its operation. If it is a function of the active effort lessened by a narcotic and increased by a stimulant. Telepathy is a real phenomenon, he concludes as the same since they seem to exist independently. Professor Rhine has found that persons gifted with telepathy come from families in which one or more members have been known to have "visions" prophetic dreams and the like.

The writer's interpretation and inferences seem to show little scientific caution and restraint. The validity of his rather bold generalizations must, for the present, depend upon the reader's evaluation of Rhine's experimental findings. Nevertheless the case for more evidence has been accumulated. The present conclusions cannot be accepted with honesty as definitely established facts.—(S. S.)

ed out that she had the largest standing army in the world, and that with her Nazi character she had the largest air force. It announced grimly that if Germany

Personals

Lois Woodward was pledged by the Phi Mu sorority Tuesday night. The ceremony was followed by an informal supper served at the house.

Among the guests at the Beta Phi Alpha house last week-end were Bob Rogh, Mrs. E. C. Rogers, Mrs. C. E. Brigman, and Guilda Andrews of Pensacola; Viola Martin and Sarah Martin of Atlanta; Genevieve Crowley of Dothan; Hollingsworth of Fort White; Vera Green of Williston; and Florence Wills of Pensacola.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Engstrom of Jacksonville, visited their daughter, Charlotte, last week-end.

Among the visitors who spend the week-end at the Delta Delta Delta house this past week were Margaret James, and Charlotte Pelsang, of Miami, and Nellie Taylor and Minnie Dunn of Tampa.

Mr. Graham, business manager of the University of Florida, and his wife were the guests last night of Mrs. J. O. Kellum during the Phi Mu sorority dinner hour. On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Mr. Kellum, accompanied by Miss Ruth Ketter Rosen, attended the Florida-Auburn football game in Montgomery, Alabama.

After-Dinner Coffee Held by Honorary

At an after-dinner coffee and social meeting of the Florida State history honorary, held at the home of Dr. Annie Popper, Wednesday night, Mr. W. T. Cash of the Law library, gave a talk on "The Literary History of Spanish Colonies."

Those invited were, Dr. A. M. Popper, Dr. Thomas Barrett, Dr. Wilkes, Dr. E. T. Abbey, Dr and Mrs. Casterlli, Miss L. Conradi, Miss F. Tyrell, Miss Marie Mitchell, Daisy Parker, Mary Enslen, Rosalyn Daum and Alma Lester.

Reporter's Manna Threatens Career

All interest in note taking is apparently lacking among those who noticed a habit of the teacher, a small idiosyncracy, or some unusual object of the class as a whole. The sudden brightness of the eye, the riveting gaze and fascination that makes the teacher slightly uncomfortable, wondering if he has said something wrong or made some slight mistake in grammar. But when a student looks down for only a minute, for after a few hasty scribbles in his notebook, the student sighs discolately, puts head in hand, staring out the window, thinking, thinking, now do the facts propounded by the instructor.

A slow, mournful sound begins outside. The student sits up as if propelled by electricity, mouth slightly open, pencil in hand and eyes hooked. No key to unlock one of the sound. When will this class be over? A hasty glance at a watch shows barely twenty minutes. The cause may be gone by then. The student dashes in the room or perhaps—no, the teacher is over by the window and looking knowingly in this direction. Oh, well—

Again the student sinks back in relaxation. Her roving eye suddenly lights on a hand still diligently taking notes on the lecture. Oh! The very one who can give the information about that meeting—Hey, pssl no, better not disturb her. Maddening.

Suddenly, the sharp buming of the bell breaks the wandering thoughts of the student and collects the mail. She jumps up hurriedly, for the 9th period comes by queer expressions on everyone's face. What? a test trained 70,000 pilots, Russia will train 100,000.

A pamphlet from Japan's war ministry following this announcement saying that Japan will build as many planes as Russia. Britain continues to re-arm for the declared purpose of becoming so powerful thet no nation will dare to commit an aggression. This the futile mechanics of armament competition go on, giving little reassurance to those who hope for amity among nations.

CHILI BUFFET SUPPER IS GIVEN FOR INCOMING MEMBERS OF ODD HONORARY

Honoring members of Spiro-stra club, an informal chili buffet supper was given last Friday night in Gwatney hall, smoking room by the pledges of the organization.

Carrying out the color scheme of the club, black and white place cards were used. Balloons of the same colors were given as favors.

During the meal, the pledges sang their goat songs and gave original odes and toasts to Spiro-stra. A skit, representing a mock judiciary trial, was presented by the old goats.

TEAS, DANCES AND CANE GRINDING AMONG SORORITY SOCIAL AFFAIRS

During the past week members, pledges, rushees and friends of several of the sororities on campus have been entertained with social affairs which include a tea dance, informal teas, and a cane grinding.

Rushees of the Theta Upsilon sorority were entertained with an informal party in the sorority house last night. Bridge and after dinner coffee was served and the pledges presented original skits.

Members of the Zeta Tau Alpha Gamma Delta sorority were honored by a tea dance given on and Mrs. R. M. Partridge, with a cane grinding and wiener roast given at Bishop Park Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The Chi Omega sorority members were guests at a dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum during the Phi Mu sorority dinner hour. On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Mr. Kellum, accompanied by Miss Ruth Ketter Rosen, attended the Florida-Auburn football game in Montgomery, Alabama.

The Chi Omega sorority members were guests at a dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum during the Phi Mu sorority dinner hour.

Rushees of the Theta Upsilon sorority were entertained with an informal party in the sorority house last night. Bridge and after dinner coffee was served and the pledges presented original skits.

Members of the Zeta Tau Alpha Gamma Delta sorority were honored by a tea dance given on and Mrs. R. M. Partridge, with a cane grinding and wiener roast given at Bishop Park Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Continued from page one

presented by the pledges, the evening is ruined for her. If the boy, on the other hand, discovers his friends in the audience, one else's in the least detail, he feels like crawling under the table. His face is red, his hair matches everyone else's, he thinks he's the most outstanding one on the floor, gloats over the fact, and has a good time.

Play nite, in the opinion of the male, is a great event. Here the fact that his face is put on display should be and that his dancing has always embarrassed him is forgotten. Everything seems to be able to dance—just push one girl around for a second or two, and another one breaks. Here they are truly sheiks for the hour.

Only for an hour, however, for it is somewhat counteracted by their misery in the dining room. There the female sex, every girl is staring at them, and this is one instance when they are truly glad to be looked at. They recognize a critical look in the eyes of the girls, and consequently usually manage to give the girls something to criticize. If they do not upset a glass of water that runs straight for the lap of the girl sitting next to them, they manage to find some every rule or etiquette the dining room ever had—and quite unintentionally. One boy said, "I have been in there for the first and last time."

One objection the boys have is that the sorority girls never fail to let them know within the first five minutes after the introduction that they are not sorority girls and just what sorority they belong to. The boy has had quite an hour of great importance to them, and the only type who can tolerate it is the fraternity man from the university who in turn is able to put over only his membership.

When asked about their aversions to the girls themselves, the boys did not hesitate long before answering. They complain that most of the girls pass by a boy weekend out of "politeness." To the boy, however, knows that the girls have seen him, and that the indifference is only put on. Put on

Alpha Theta house were honored Thanksgiving night with a coffee. Informal dancing was enjoyed later in the evening. Refreshments were served by the pledges

Delta Delta Delta entertained Delta Phi Alpha pledging valiant with an informal tea. Pledges wore white and gold nuts, the upperclassmen were entertained by the pledges.

Gainesville Rise Against Weaker Sex

Continued from page one

ing, coffee and a Sprogirls cake, decorated in white and black icing, were served to the guests.

Those present were Mis. Olivia N. Dorman... Miss Enza Devinney, Miss Elizabeth Rumbley, Frances Parks, Heisemary Prisach, Miss Maude Thompson, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Makemson, Jo Bilson, Janice Borton, Peggy McMichael, Mary Miller, Sara Lyle, Winifred Ewart, Daisy Parker, Betty Peck, Marie Taylor, Betty Hasch, Mary Catherine Dilmon, Margaret Wolcott, Lorelle Patterson, Katherine Autrey, and Shirley Stevens.

Miss Richey Sees Snow Thanksgiving

Though the Florida sun was shining brilliantly as we ate our Thanksgiving turkey at Florida State College, Miss Lucile Richey, assistant professor of accounting, had her Thanksgiving dinner where falling snow was covering trees, cars and roadsides.

This was the first snow that Miss Richey, who was attending a convention of the Southern Business Education association in Knoxville, Tenn., this past week-end, had seen in almost twenty years, strangely enough, the last place she saw snow was Tallahassee, during the Christmas holidays nineteen years ago.

Although Miss Richey was reared in Kentucky, where it snows frequently, and lived for two years in Wisconsin, where snow covers the ground from Christmas to April, she found this baby snowstorm in Knoxville very exciting. She said that all the topics of the convention, conversation while the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Every-man and the Kentucky-Tennessee football game taking place that afternoon, were forgotten in the background while she raved about the brilliant white of the mountain sides gradually being covered with snowflakes.

Two Graduates To Take Unusual Trip

Continued from page one

typical of the unusual things they will see.

"We intend to chase down any rumors and superstitions that we hear about," said Mr. Wyatt. "For instance, I have heard many strange stories about Panama. So we will investigate them to find out how much—if any—truth there is in them."

The party will travel in an eight cylinder Packard touring sedan, ease on a trailer designed to carry their camping and cooking equipment, including bunting and sleeping bags, a radio, canned food, gasoline, and a Johnson-Ivan horse engine which supplies for what, he doesn't know; it certainly is not attractive in his estimation.

Mr. Wyatt thinks that the average college girl is a solid dieger. On a date he insists on her taking in the show and always wants something besides a coca-cola after-wards. She also likes to get out to dinner quite frequently.

The average college girl is easy for his date to smoke, although he usually says nothing about it. If he is the sensitive type that he objects to as much as the girl's attempt to be one of the nightclub-ites. Smoking is one way she tries to accomplish this.

He prefers the quiet girl to the chatter-box. He wants the girl who says little, but the one who can always say just the right thing at the right time.

Every boy agreed that this main complaint was the college girl in the group who will come in groups, laughing and chattering, take three minutes in getting settled in the seat they want, and spend the next ten cracking the ice that was in the dopes they always buy before a show.

A town boy, in concluding his remarks on the college girl quoted: "When a college education is added to some girls they are polished; others merely shine."

Dorman Reveals Her Ideas On What College Can Give

Several Faculty Members And Students Offer Varied Opinions

BY BETTY LEACH

Recently there has been a great deal of controversy on this campus concerning the value of college life as an experience. In an effort to obtain a concensus of opinion, a few faculty members and a great many students were asked this following question: What do you think is the most important thing a young woman acquires from college which she wouldn't be able to get anywhere else?

Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students, believes that she acquires more than any other one thing, adjustment to group living. "She gains a sense of other peoples' rights and duties," she said, "and all the topics of the discussion, conversation while the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Every-man and the Kentucky-Tennessee football game taking place that afternoon, were forgotten in the background while she raved about the brilliant white of the mountain sides gradually being covered with snowflakes.

Miss Dorman said "College girls live together, they eat together in large groups together. Therefore, it is almost inevitable that they should come to adjust themselves to a less self-centered way of living than any other type of life would give her. She realizes that the girls who stay in their home towns, the ones who go to work in offices and stores, the ones who marry immediately after graduation from high school, all more among the same sort of people who share the same views all their lives. College life helps girls out of this rut of sameness, and thus they gain a broader, truer view in regard to its value.

Miss Kemper Moore of the Home Economics staff stated, "I think she gains a great deal of valuable knowledge in the non-academic way. Of course she could get that knowledge, of whatever nature it may be, from other sources, but she could not get it in so short a time nor in such a condensed and workable form as she does in college."

Miss Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, when first asked the question declared that it had several definite answers. However, they might be summarized by saying that "College is the best field in which a young woman may develop an independent personality which can live co-operatively with others." As factors in this development Miss Andrews listed self-confidence and independence of the girl away from home and home advice and responsibility, and the equally necessary ability to live agreeably and successfully with others.

Dr. Coy' E. Moore of the sociology department thinks the most valuable acquisition of the college girl is the "ability to think, to weigh and evaluate ideas, without emotional perturbation." Dr. Moore went on to say that after graduation from college the most valuable thing to a girl would be the solid ideas and broad thinking habits which she would have been taught in the college class room.

Out of eight seniors asked this question, five of them agreed with Miss Dorman and Miss Andrews that dependence on themselves and the ability to live satisfactorily with a great many people were the most valuable assets gained by them in college. The nine others had diversified views. One of them thought the had been merely "marking . . ." for four years until she should begin to make something out of her self for life. Another stated that in her own experience the greatest benefit which she had received from her four years was the appreciation of the advantages of several different kinds of the eighth senior refuses' to answer, saying only that she'd like it if all over again s. that she could find the answer for herself.

All six of the juniors interviewed agreed that the ability to adjust to the rules of the depressing events it brought about was the most important benefit derived from the college experience. They also are of the opinion that this ability could never be obtained in so marked a degree from any other source.

One sophomore answered the question, "Tolerance of independently—forming her own philosophy of life." To this another added,

Continued on page six

SHOP AT

GELBERG'S

FIRST

Let Us Help You With Your Gift Problems!

GLOVES

in fabric and fine kid. Priced from

$1.00 to $2.95

Handkerchiefs

Priced from

$2.50 to $1.00

The finest selection we've ever shown.

HOSIERY

Sheer chiffons and high twist crepes.

Priced from

69c to $1.35

LINGERIE

Always the appreciated gift . . . Priced from

49c to $5.95

BEDROOM SLIPPERS

The ideal gift. Many new styles to choose from . . . Priced from

$1.00 to $3.95

GELBERG'S

"Complete Store for Ladies"

COLLEGE AVENUE

SPECIAL VALUES

on

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

We have just replenished our entire stock with fresh, sparkling suggestive gifts that are practical for every member of the family.

A visit to our store will convince you.

THE SURPRISE STORE

THIS CHRISTMAS

Give the personal gift—your photograph—the gift that only you can give. The one that will be saying Merry Christmas every day in the year.

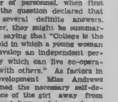
PIKE STUDIO

Phone 1315 317 W. College

For the Holidays . . .

Get your new Permanent now and "break in" before the festivities begin. We can give you a new, refreshing hair style—in time with the holiday spirit.

The Powder Puff



SPARKS

STATE

PHONE 180

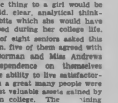
SUNDAY AND MONDAY

December 6-7

TUESDAY ONLY

December 8

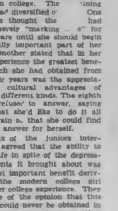
A GRAND SLAM IN LAUGHTER!



ALL AMERICAN CHUMP

STARRING

WEDNESDAY ONLY



December 9

"DOUBLE" OF A MILLION GALS

THURSDAY ONLY

December 10

DORIS NOLAN

"THE MAN I MARRY"

A New Universal Picture

WITH

MICHAEL WHALEN

Andrews Talks About Possible Women's Work

Clerical Work, Teaching, Civil Service Offer Opportunities

Continuing her series of lectures on occupations open to women, Dr. Elisabeth Andrews talked to students yesterday afternoon in 203 Administration building on the subject, "The Woman in Business."

The absence of personnel bespeaks her talk by stating that the greatest opportunities for women in the business world may be found in general office positions such as typing, accounting, bookkeeping, clerical work, and filing. These positions have great advantages because of the good hours, pleasant working conditions and surroundings. The office worker does not have to carry away a burden when she is through for the day. This is not true of teachers and social workers and the like who have no limitation to their hours.

"There is a good demand in this field of business" Dr. Andrews said. "The chances for employment are fairly steady and there is a very good chance for the college graduate." There is much less demand for high school graduates and untrained women.

"One of the greatest assets in the business field is versatility," Dr. Andrews stated. "If a worker can do all the different types of work in her office, she will be the one to be kept in times of depression while the worker who knows only one job will be the one to be fired, no matter how good she is in her special field."

"Versatility, good appearance, appropriate dress, well-kept nails, hair, and clothes are all requirements for office workers. Responsibility, dependability, intelligence, initiative, tact, good judgment, appearance, ambition, and capacity for work are also required.

"Salaries in the business field vary greatly. Men are paid more than women. The best way to get started in business is through the commercial agencies. The college personnel office does not have much contact with business concerns although it does have a few."

Dr. Andrews said that the civil service was a good field for women. It is permanent and the salaries are good. Public stenography is also a good field. With a capital of one thousand dollars a woman can build up a good business of her own. If this is done it is well to engage an assistant. Contacts and advertisement are valuable in this business.

Court reporters are well paid, but these workers must have special training and must study in all fields. Their notes must be exact and they must have a wide knowledge of law, medicine and so forth.

Accountants and bookkeepers have the same requirements as those of a secretary. They must have a broad trainnng.

Office management is an excellent field for women because of the detail work that men won't accept.

"Business is a most fascinating field for women. Real opportunity lies in individual business. This field is most interesting and ingenuity and creativeness play a great part in this work" said Dr. Andrews.

Dorman Reveals Ideas On What College Can Give

Continued from page five

The acceptance or rejection of theories and beliefs which might or might not, as the case may be, become a part of that philosophy." A third sophomore stated, "I think that college life is the only think that gives a girl a definite realization of the value and advantages of real home life."

Upon being questioned, three freshmen answered simply "Nothing." A fourth mentioned "The ability to have a good time with a group of girls." She was supported in this belief by her roommate, who continued the discussion with the statement that "one of the hardest adjustments that we have had o make it that of enjoying social life in which there are no bows. But we've done it and we know we can." Another freshman volunteered the statements that she believed the most valuable advantage which the college girl has over the girl who didn't go to college is the ability to work for a definite goal in the most sensible and effective way whatever that goal may be.

These are the diverse opinions of members of this college community. No matter how diverse, however, with only three dissenting votes they agree that the college girl does acquire something valuable from her college life which it would be impossible for her to get elsewhere

Richard Dorman Reveals Ideas On What College Can Give

Continued from page five

The acceptance or rejection of theories and beliefs which might or might not, as the case may be, become a part of that philosophy." A third sophomore stated, "I think that college life is the only think that gives a girl a definite realization of the value and advantages of real home life."

Upon being questioned, three freshmen answered simply "Nothing." A fourth mentioned "The ability to have a good time with a group of girls." She was supported in this belief by her roommate, who continued the discussion with the statement that "one of the hardest adjustments that we have had o make it that of enjoying social life in which there are no bows. But we've done it and we know we can." Another freshman volunteered the statements that she believed the most valuable advantage which the college girl has over the girl who didn't go to college is the ability to work for a definite goal in the most sensible and effective way whatever that goal may be.

These are the diverse opinions of members of this college community. No matter how diverse, however, with only three dissenting votes they agree that the college girl does acquire something valuable from her college life which it would be impossible for her to get elsewhere

Rorpers Find Frantz The Truly Sophisticated Artist

Concert - Pianist Thinks America Much More Music-Conscious

By ARLINE LOCKHART and ELEANOR WILLIAMS

Haunting pianissimo swelled into roaring crescendos in the vibrantly resonant music of Bach's Prague in D Major. The music echoed and reverberated against the walls of the auditorium and engulfed two reporters in such fascination they forgot the time and almost missed the deadline.

The pianist, blond hair waved back from a high forehead, pulse beating, rhythmically in his right cheek, bent suddenly in time to the music on a vacuum hunched shoulders, seemed to have forgotten their presence.

For Dalies Frantz, who will present a concert tonight in the college auditorium and who looks like a Greenwich Odyssey star, is at the piano essentially the artist. His fingers which he said were "stiff tonight" ran faster and faster over the keys while his shoulders relaxed and completely lost the rather flip expression he had assumed the minute to us. He stopped and something seemed to have brushed out of him. His face unveiled, he seemed for the first time to us completely himself.

Although Frantz's background sounds much like that of an average American boy who "made good" his outlook and manner seem more that of a truly sophisticated European.

He attended the University of Michigan for four years, partly working his way through with recitals. He joined a fraternity but brother had belonged to, he said, but resigned after two months as the fraternity expected him to play all the time.

Although this is his first season of concert tours, he thinks America is definitely becoming more music-conscious.

"Why, before I came here I played in a small town in Oklahoma—the name of it was Ada —you probably never heard of it —I hadn't. A town of about 10,000 that probably wasn't even on the map ten years ago. One-fifth of the population turned out for my concert and that's remarkable. I met some of the people afterwards and they were charming to me, really in every way."

Of course, the radio, victrola, accounts for the change within the last ten years, he said.

Asked if he wanted to continue concert tours or go into some other phase, he said, "What else would I do?"

"Radio? Hollywood?" we suggested.

"As for radio, I consider that a comedown for the concert artist. Pianists are different from singers; for instance, Lawrence Tibbett, who is at the top in his field, sings regularly over the radio. Pianists only play as guest-artists over some well-known programs.

As for Hollywood—"he shrugged, giving a short laugh. "That is impossible for me to say now."

It would also be impossible for him to name his favorite composer or composition, he said, "but if I had to go to a desert island, as they say, I'd want some of Mozart, Beethoven, and Bach."

Nor could he say whom he thought was the greatest living pianist today, "for you are like for this and another for that." However, he considers, "Rachmaninoff, Schnobel and Hofmann in the big league; in the minor league Horowitz, Turek, Kaiser, and without concert, I think I can say myself," and others, he added.

Asked if he had studied under Horowitz, who played here one year on an artist series program, Frantz answered, "he could not say he studied unde, Horowitz." They had both played together

Switzerland, he said and for Horowitz's technique, "it's magnificent; fabulous."

Frantz admitted he played jazz occasionally and liked "good jazz" but it causes "carelessness—bad habits." His hobby is athletics: he likes to swim particularly, and with private coaching last summer, learned to play a fair game of golf, he said.

He does not practice on tours, he said, because usually "the town doesn't have the necessary facilities. I can't have a piano brought up to my hotel room, of course," he added.

However, he usually finds time for a few hours of practice to loosen up his fingers. Most of his practicing is done in late summer and early fall before beginning his tour.

"I play from eight to ten hours a day then," he said.

Before a concert he usually has a steak supper sent up to his room about five o'clock. He is married, but when asked if his wife accompanied him on his tours, he said simply "no." And he has composed some music but "I don't use it," he said, "It's simply the world's worst."

CHRISTMAS SALE

We have 1568 pairs of new fall and winter shoes which we are offering at the astonishing low price of—

$2.94

You may have your choice of any shoe in the house.

FRENCH SHOP

Presbyterians To Celebsate Holiday Soon

Tableau and Choir Form Basis of Christmas Program Plans

This year the Presbyterian League will present their Christmas program in the form of a tableau and choir this Sunday night at the church.

The manger scene, softly lighted, will be in the foreground with the choir of approximately 30 voices, in investments, in the background.

The Christmas story will be read from Matthew and from Luke by two readers, Katherine Todd and Carol Ramage.

The program is as follows: "Prelude," violin and organ, Virginia Bailes, and Eleanor Daniels; "Silent Night," choir; "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," choir; Luke 2:4-7; "Away in a Manger," solo, Mrs. Strong; Luke 2:7-14; "While Shepherds Watched," double trio, Julia Rosser, Dot Townsend, Marjorie Bessel, Betty Ransom, Ruth Terrell, Martha Bailes; "Glory, Glory, Glory," quartet, Sara Heithcox, Maxine Ward, Ruth Terrell, Ruth Knight; "There's a Song in the Air," duet, Ruth Knight, Charlotte Veith; Luke 2:14-20; "Joy to the World," choir; solo, Mrs. Robert Woodward; Matthew 2:1-10; "There's a Beautiful Star," choir; Matthew 2:11; "We Three Kings of Orient Are," trio, Sara Heithcox, Maxine Ward, Ruth Knight; Matthews 2:12; offertory, violin, cello and organ, Evalyn P. tterson, Charlotte Veith, Eleanor Daniels; "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," choir; benediction.

Those taking part in the tableau are, "Mary," Virginia Taylor; "Joseph," Jean McCord; "Kings," Ruth Knight, Marjorie Beisel, Jane Hubbard, Katherine Kyle, Catherine Phillips, Ivy Mac Johnson, Letia Reck, Marina Coen, Letha Adge Royce, Dorothy Townsend, Mary Clark Caldwell, Jean McCord, Mary Lou Duncan, Lillian Douglas is the organist and Maxine Ward is the director.

Chemistry Department Shows Moving Picture For Science Students

A movie was shown by the chemistry department last Wednesday night at 7:30 for the students in the new Physical Science course. This is the first of a series of chemical movies to be shown throughout this year.

Two films were shown last night, the first illustrating the molecular theory and the second demonstrating the process of oxidation and reduction. In the first film the Brownian movement in gases, liquids, and solids was shown. In the second the process of the reduction of dry ice by a strip of magnesium ribbon was pictured. The latter film also showed a demonstration of the oxy-hydrogen blow torch.

After the movies were shown, Mr. Lewis performed several experiments along the same line. He showed how to make an alloy of iron and copper. He made a compound of hydrogen and oxygen which combined rather explosively, and he also demonstrated the oxy-hydrogen blow torch.

Lillie McGuire, Lilla Ivason, Marie Horton: "Shepherds," Alberta Lloyd, Althea Lloyd, Harriet Dyke, Esther Martin, Dot Marwick.

Doris Terrell is aiding in the direction of the staging. Dormitory entertainment of the league directing the Tableau include Sara Nance and Pat Campbell.

The choir personnel includes the following: Mary Taylor, Martha Bailes Mary Vergover, Margaret Gallatin, Ruth Ryman, Margaret Rinck, Thelma Butler, Jeanette Rishe, Pauline Morrow, Edna Warren, Marthaiean Cook, Betty Barthelf, Julia Rosser, Mervyday Rosser, Sara Heithcox, Bethanson. Frances Humphries, Adele Barnard, Ruth Terrell, Marian Harrold, Syrena Stockridge, Mary Neal, Alice McGlone, Ruth

John K. Small Visits Region

Botany Students Explore Bluffs Seeking Rare Ferns with Him

Five students, Hazel Sangster, Helen Devries, Florence Evers, Mary Porter, and Sarah Beth Davis, studying advanced botany at Florida State college had the opportunity last Saturday of making an all-day field trip with Dr. John K. Small, taxonomist and specialist on the flora of the southeastern United States, and host of the most renowned botanists in the world today.

Dr. Small had curator emeritus of the museums and herbarium of the New York Botanical Gardens, has been spending the past few weeks near Floral City Florida, working in conjunction with Drs. Robert and Charles St. John of that city. The three botanists came to this region of Florida looking for rare species of ferns and for new locations of ferns already discovered.

Dr. Herman Dorn, head of the botany department of Florida State college, being familiar with plant habitats in northwest Florida acted as guide for the Saturday trip. First the botanists explored areas lying within the Torreya State Park on the Apalachicola river. After finding numerous interesting ferns and other plants characteristic of that section of Florida, they drove over to Apalaga Bluffs which are also on the Apalachicola river.

On Apalaga Bluffs the botanists fulfilled their major purpose in making the field trip. They discovered two species of ferns that had never before been reported found in Florida. One of the new ferns, known among botanists as Botrychium Alabamense was found by Dr. Kurs. Formerly it had been seen only in Alabama and Georgia. Dr. Charles St. John found the other new fern. It is known as Woodia Ornata. Heretofore it has been reported from Nova Scotia to Wisconsin, south to Georgia, Alabama and Texas, and in Alaska and British Columbia.

Richardson Gives Two Talks About Subjects Related to Libraries

Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, recently gave two talks on topics relative to libraries and books.

Last Friday afternoon as a part of the Thanksgiving week program arranged especially for the visiting parents Miss Richardson commented upon books for pleasure and profit. In her discussion she mentioned old favorites, current best sellers, and also volumes devoted to poetry.

Upon invitation to the Quincy Rotary club, Miss Richardson told a Quincy audience Tuesday the benefits Gadsden county would realize from a county library.

This week Miss Richardson also released statistics on the number of girls who are eager to read Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind." Since there are fifty-six names on the waiting list, Miss

Twenty-two Students Are Tapped Saturday Night for Cotillion

Twenty-two new members were tapped by Cotillion club, which is a dance organization and a division of the social committee, at the annual Thanksgiving dance held in the gym last Saturday night.

Those chosen were: Ruth Atkinson, Jane Brown, Myrtle Burns, Ernestine Engel, Louise Fogarty, Mattie Lee, Janet Lockwood, Dora Medlin, Joan Miller, Julia Miller, Katherine McCready, Irene Pelham, June Quinn, Clarice Sanchez, Virginia Schreiber, Jane Sharp, Frances Slade, Dorothy Smith, Mary Katherine Smith, Katherine Stevens, Bett Towns, and Margaret Wright.

The Cotillion club was in charge of all arrangements for the dance and acting as a part of the social committee will help make arrangements for every dance held on campus.

Decorations for the dance carried out the Thanksgiving theme including corn stalks, bales of hay and turkeys, while Odd and Ends streamers hung from the balcony. The orchestra platform was decorated in garnet and gold, the college colors.

Richardson said she herself had not had an opportunity to read the Twenty-three girls have borrowed the book since it was bought by the library last July. Because of the popular demand, three copies of "Gone with the Wind" are now in constant circulation.

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Serves
The Best Food in Town
PRIVATE ROOMS FOR SPECIAL PARTIES

Copyright 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Glee Club Members To Sing Vespers' Program

Seven More Days Till Xmas Vacation!

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIV. Tallahassee, Florida, December 11, 1936 NUMBER ELEVEN

Board Changes Name Of Chief FSC Structure

Administration Building Named as Memorial For Westcott

FORMER CITIZEN PROMINENT HERE

Conradi Announces New Title Chosen During Recent Meeting

The change of the name of the Administration building at Florida State College for Women to the "James D. Westcott, Jr., Memorial Building," was made at a recent meeting of the Board of Control, was announced this week by President Edward Conradi. This change was made in honor of the late Judge James Diamond Westcott, III, of Tallahassee, one of Florida's prominent jurists and lawyers, the college's chief benefactors.

Judge Westcott's Endowment

Judge Westcott, a bachelor, who died April 29, 1847, and who is buried in Tallahassee, willed that the bulk of his estate, now valued at approximately $1,000,000, be held in trust for the benefit of the state Florida Seminary, which he at one time attended and which later became Florida State College for Women. It provided that only the interest upon the principal be used, that it be employed for the benefit of students of Leon county. According to the will, none of the funds are to be used for buildings or improvements of the college.

Other Westcott's Property

Included in the Westcott estate is a section of Tallahassee's principal business property, on the corner of Monroe street and College avenue extending from The Style on Monroe Street to the new Electric Company on College avenue. The estate also includes residence property on East Virginia street. Half the income from the property is being used to pay salaries of teachers at the demonstration school of the institution, the remaining half of the income is being used for other scholarship aid. The rest of the income is in bonds.

A similar honor was made the

Continued on page seven

FSCW Teacher Distinguished

Dr. Julia Heil Heinlein Chosen Outstanding American Woman

Dr. Julia Heil Heinlein, director of teacher training in the primary school of the college, was formally selected by Durward Jones as one of the distinguished American women of 1936, and her biography appears in American Women, the official Who's Who among women in the nation.

Dr. Heinlein specialized in child psychology, kindergarten, and education at the Johns Hopkins university, from which institution she received the degrees of A. B., M. A., and Ph. D. She was assistant in psychology at Johns Hopkins, 1926-1927, fellow of the Laura Spellman Rockefeller foundation in child study in 1927, 1928, and 1929, she was appointed assistant professor of child training at Florida State College for Women and taught in this institution for three years. She was promoted assistant professor of nursery education in 1930 and has been director of nursery education in the nursery school during the past year.

Among the learned societies of which Dr. Heinlein is a member are the American Psychological Association, the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology, the Society for Research in Child Development, and the Florida Academy of Sciences. She is a fellow in the American Men of Science and listed in the biographical directory of Leaders of Education in 1932.

Dr. Heinlein is president of the Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women and state chairman of education of the Florida division of the A. A. U. W.

Dr. Heinlein has published several articles in child psychology and has appeared in scientific journals and is a frequent contributor of handedness in children.

Seniors Are Asked To Clear Records

Seniors who expect to graduate in January, May or August who have not had an interview with Miss Parker in the personnel office are asked to make an appointment for Monday or Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15. A permanent placement record is required for all seniors whether or not assistance in securing a position in any field is desired.

Enrollment for two-year certificate students is optional. Any one in this group not already registered who wishes assistance in securing a position is asked to be assigned to make an appointment with Miss Parker for Monday or Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15. Registration with the placements bureau will close on Thursday, Dec. 17.

Briggs Speaks On Exhibition Of Art Pieces

Presentation Given For Purpose of Artist's Self-Expression

In a lecture given Tuesday afternoon at the sculpture exhibition in 307 Administration building Miss Briggs, instructor in art, said that everything in this exhibition was produced for the special purpose but just for the artist's self-expression.

To explain how the conception of art is different today from what it was in the past, Miss Briggs read a selection written by a famous British critic, Roger Fry, in 1912. artist was considered as a worker. According to the medieval idea there are two kinds of work, the surgeons and scientists. God is considered as the master artist. This critic believes that matter has an aspect of its own that is the form is contained in the matter ready to be released by the artist who has the right tools. Thus they apples only to carved sculpture.

After discussing the Hindu's philosophy Miss Briggs pointed out that there are two sorts of sculpture. These are carving, which is the cutting away of matter to release the form, and modeling, modeling in bronze which is just the opposite. In modeling the image is built up from soft clay. The artist must first construct the image just as in the carving process, but he builds it up instead of cutting it. The statues may be reproduced in bronze because of its hardness and thin, even coloring. Green bronze, which has been much admired in ancient pieces of sculpture, is said to be by scientific means rather than by painting the bronze as was the ancient custom.

The lecturer then drew attention to a statue called Abundance which she said belonged to the seventeenth century, but the artwork is admired for pure form and beauty of material. It serves as a good example of what not to get content or meaning for the observer.

Continued on page two

Reporter Interviews Billy, Campus' Busiest of Workers

Janitor Reminisces Concerning Early School Days In Old Music Annex; Received Letters from President

By MARTHA LUMPKIN

Billy Washington's earnest, lively face lighted up when he learned that someone wanted to know something about him, and he was previous statement of "Yessum, I'm awful busy aroun' here—but as busy as I can be!" seemed to be forgotten for the moment.

I had managed him on the staircase landing behind the stage and had but to suggest the subject to start him off. He hopped my book in the mud pond at its gate and, by the time I reached it, had the thing dx of school by brother Heston and me, not knowing about the rules, went off the grounds before school was out. The teacher wanted to whip me, but she principal, he wouldn't let him. I was a little ABC boy then and stayed around the yard learning rules after that."

Billy moved to another foot, and continued with great initiation, as one accustomed to

Continued on page two

Debate Series Is Begun With Double Combat

Questions Treated Bear Upon Trade Policy, Campus Problem

EIGHT SPEAKERS GIVE PLATFORMS

Methods of Presentation Discussed by Entire Class at Close

The first of a series of class debates was held Wednesday afternoon when the advanced class in debating met in room 302 Administration building.

Question discussed first was "Resolved that the United States should have a policy of free trade." This was as first affirmative speaker pointed out, that free trade would bring about better economical advantages and sound international relations. Also, that with each nation might develop the industries of their own country itself, that free trade would eliminate this necessity, and in the end the world depending upon such a movement would profit. Lucile Carmichael her speech by saying that the United States was going forward in the right direction free trade program.

Second Affirmative Case

Phil Asher concluded the affirmative case with the points that we could make goods much more cheaply than we could manufacture them if we had free trade, and that the evils of restraining and curtailing trade were numerous.

The negative side was argued by Ermine Lawrence and Twilah Cox. Twilah made the first speech for this side told that while free trade would bring many economic benefits to other countries, we in the United States were under a different economic set-up from these and that such a policy would not be advisable in this country. If the United States were to adopt such a policy, there would be a flood of goods from those countries in which the standard of living is low, and that the market for the buying power of the United States would be lowered, she concluded.

Twilah pointed out that a tariff is an economic regulator of trade, that it is necessary if we are to retain our high standards for labor, that it must be retained if we are to remain the most important consuming nation in the world. That such tariff need not necessarily be high, but that the policy of reciprocity with certain countries were her concluding remarks.

Second Debate

The second debate dealt with a campus issue, that of the present system of management in the auditorium for artist series. Lucrelle Patterson was the first affirmative speaker, presenting the following points: that the present system was inadequate to go without unfair competition with

Continued on page seven

Teachers View New Soil Plans Near Americus

Faculty Members Check Project for Land Conservation

Miss Mary Alice Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bodine and William Joubert took a trip to Americus, Ga., to investigate the soil-conservation project there. This project, which is one of Georgia's first, was begun in 1934 and is expected to be completed within another year.

The project is located at Americus because the soil erosion there is the most serious in the state and large areas and because the farmers were particularly willing to cooperate with the project, the group of visitors reported. Directing the work at Americus is a staff of about twelve men including civil engrs., agronomists, horticulturists and engineers. The drainage basin included in the project consists of about 14,000 acres.

Three different treatments are used in the drainage basin for soil protection. The unusually steep and badly eroded lands are entirely reforested. Trees are also put into permanent forests. The intermediate lands have been terraced and farmed by a careful rotation of strip and row crops, while on the less damaged areas, of slight slope, contour cultivation in which the furrows run parallel to the slopes instead of across them is used.

In place of the old method of the one-season crop which is allowed the fields to lie idle after much of the year, the farmers now keep some growing on the land over all year, so that the infertile subsoil can retain some of the proper-

Continued on page three

Council Helps Activity Plan

Sophomores Will Assist Faculty Organizing Freshman Units

Assisting faculty members who are directing the newly organized freshman activity units will be members of the sophomore council. These units are being planned in order to help the freshmen into campus activities.

One faculty member will be in charge of each of the freshman activities and will be assisted by one sophomore council member. Those assisting on the various committees are: Jess Mercer, Margaret Sparkman, Betty Hatch, music appreciation; Elouse Trott, creative writing; Mary Margaret Sisson, books and the browsing room; Lucrelle Patterson, dramatics; Frances Douglas, amateur photography; Janet Lockwood, creative dancing; Marion Whitehurst, designing; Charlotte Kamper, nature study; Betty Hall, personal appearance; Betty Russel, entertaining technique; Betty Harrison, homemaking; Ann Hall, and Mary Campbell, social dancing.

Members of the committees council plan a trip to camp this week-end after which there will be no more meetings before Christmas.

Meeting places and time for a number of the groups follow:

Group 5, debating, Monday, Dec. 14, 4:30 o'clock, 203 Administration building.

Group 9, native study, Saturday, Jan. 9, 9:30 o'clock, 203 Bryan hall.

Group 16, astronomy, Thurs-

Continued on page two

Christmas Spirit Pervades College Campus With Many Social Events Centering on Holiday Theme

Though peace on earth, good will to men might not reign throughout all the world, at least the students of Florida State are amply supplied with the Christmas spirit.

On Sunday this fact will be especially evident, due to the Christmas vespers program to be presented by the college Glee club at 5:30 o'clock, and the Y.W.C.A. white Christmas service, Sunday night. At the latter event tableaux will be presented by modern dance groups, carols will be sung, and presents to be distributed to Tallahassee children. Candles will be brought to the stage by the ushers.

A Christmas theme will be used in the decorations for the faculty dinner Monday night. The committees will have their annual Christmas dinner Wednesday night, after which they will go caroling.

Next week, Christmas parties with trees and special refreshments will be given by the dormitories instead of the usual teas. Several of the student religious organizations presented special Christmas programs last week. Sunday night the Presbyterian church a short program and tableau, and the Methodists gave their annual Christmas vesper service. Baptists believe had a Christmas program and informal party last Saturday night in Broward club house.

The sororities have planned various dances, teas, and Christmas parties that has their part in the holiday program. Even in the dining room, where cards have taken the place of the hymns usually sung before each meal, we are reminded that Christmas is not far off.

Club Conducts Essay Contest On City Scene

Panhellenic Association Invites Discussions On New York

"Does New York Represent the American Scene?" is the question the Panhellenic House association of New York is using as its third annual essay contest for college undergraduates. This first prize will be $25 in cash and a week's visit with all expenses paid to New York City. Second and third prizes will include cash awards of $25 and $15 respectively, and a week's stay at the Panhellenic House in New York. In addition, fifteen honorable mention awards will be published.

The Panhellenic House association, headed by Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn, president, conducts this contest among college undergraduates with the object of broadening its literary achievement and a possible career in the magazine city.

The following committee of judges will review the essays to select the first prize winner: Miss Fannie Hurst, the novelist; Mary Cass Canfield, editor of "Forum"; and critic, member of the Pulitzer Prizes Drama advisory committee; Lyman Beecher Stowe lecturer, and author of "Saints and Strangers"; Frank Crowninshield, Nicholson, playwright, and author of "The Last Mile"; Gilbert Seldes, Broadway plays; Helen Worden, nationally syndicated columnist and author of "Glamorous Powers"; Hanna V. Kallerborn, radio commentator; and Ellis Parker Butler; and Vila Bell Acheson, co-editor of "The Reader's Digest."

A choice of one of the six distinct titles is offered in the contest this year: "Does New York Represent the American Scene?" "Is New York a Vital Part of My Culture?" or "Is New York a Place to Launch a Career?" The essay must be typewritten, double spaced, and be sent to the Panhellenic House association office, Beekman Tower Hotel, 3 Mitchell Place, New York City, before March 31, 1937. An entry blank, rules for the essay contest office, must accompany each essay.

For the past two years the first prize has been won by students who had never before seen New York. Miss Hepburn announced that the second annual essay contest, in which thirty-four states and more than 700 entries from more than 200 colleges and universities, Montana girl from Intermountain Union college.

The second prize winner, a student at St. Laurence university, is a writer of verse. Her entry was introduced to the complex police and crime prevention agencies of New York. Its program included: the police line-up, finger print and patrol system at police headquarters; sitting on the bench with the judges of the Adolescent Court, the Women's court, and the N'ght court; watching the Bureau of Crime Prevention at work and the Big Brother Movement in session, and conferring with the Commissioner of Correction.

Transfers Have Meeting

At a short meeting yesterday morning, transfers were given mimeographed sheets containing questions on past activities and their opinions of forming a transfers' club and on orientation next year's transfers were requested to fill out the sheets and hand to college ceremonies, such as torch light parade, the primary of the first institution attended.

Speech Series Will Be Given Opposing Wars

Stewart Wright Will Try To Organize Youth Here for Peace

WORK ACHIEVED IN MANY PARTS

Campaign is Sponsored By Civic, Religious American Leaders

Stewart Wright, authority on religion and field secretary of the Emergency Peace Campaign in the Southeast, will come to Tallahassee Sunday for a series of talks for the purpose of organizing the youth of the country against war.

Mr. Wright will speak first to the Episcopal students in Rogers hall Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock he will speak in the Little theater. On Tuesday night at 5:30 o'clock in the same place he will speak to the members of the Y. W. C. A. He will also be the guest speaker at the meeting of the F. S. C. W. forum on the top floor of the Florida Union hotel Tuesday evening. Everyone is invited.

A graduate of Vermont State university, Mr. Wright has considered a year of service to the campaign for peace among leading colleges and communities in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, and Florida in order to organize groups for the Youth Congress and at the joint convention of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. He has also recently visited Rollins and Stetson universities as well as several colleges in Florida.

Sponsors of the Emergency Peace Campaign include outstanding leaders in civic and religious thought from all parts of the country. Prominent among these is Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside church, New York City, who is the chairman of the campaign executive board. Others on the board are William Allen White, the well-known editor; Dr. Ernest Tittle, president of the Federal Council of Churches in America; John R. Mott, president of the International Y. M. C. A., and other distinguished leaders.

Young Workers

All the workers in the peace campaign are young people and summer approximately 800 field workers will be sent out. The college students may act to help organize the peace groups and also to further the cause of international friendship."

Continued on page two

Today's Santa Claus Has Frat Pin for Good Girls

St. Nicholas Discards Reindeer for New Zephyr Of Streamlined Variety; Is Tall, Dark and Handsome

By ANNE LADD

The tinkling of silver bells sounding through a shimmering sky a clear, cold, midnight before Christmas announced the arrival of Santa Claus to the college girl of thirty years ago. Jolly old St. Nicholas was the ruddy cheeked and his long white beard, dressed in furs and suit, glistened with snow in a sleigh pulled by eight tiny reindeer. He came down the chimney of the girls' dormitories, dropping piles of Yuletide gifts in the long cotton stockings which were hung by the fireplace College girls in those days began saving money for Christmas gifts months in advance. They knew weeks ahead of time exactly what they would give to mother, father, Uncle Ezra, and Aunt Matilda. These gifts were bought and wrapped in gay Christmas paper, tied with ribbons and decoration started.

Christmas Eve spent in making a pair of knitted socks for grandfather or a shawl for grandmother. Christmas time and Santa Claus time were the most important giving and making others happy. College girls in those days expected very little and were always thrilled and excited when they awoke early Christmas morning and beheld handsome arrays of gifts.

The shrill blast of an automobile horn announces the arrival of Santa Claus in the modern students. This modern Santa Claus is a very stylish new suit of clothes closely resembles a model from Esquire as he steps out of his brand new, bright yellow, streamlined zephyr.

He is, as described by the students, tall, dark very handsome has plenty of money, and wears a fraternity pin. He sends early in the college girl to wear to the Christmas dance or whoever he may be so flaunt at football games.

Christmas Eve Santa Claus

Continued on page two

Electrical Device Burns Out Chimes

Burning out of an electrical tube caused the chimes in the library to be silent for three days this week. Although the tube was replaced soon after its destruction, the chimes were not functioning back on until Friday in order that they would not interrupt the concert given by the orchestra Thursday night.

Arrangements Are Made For Mexican Trip

Faculty - Student Party To Take Automobile Christmas Tour

A faculty-student party including Dr. Marioo Hay, Harry H. Hay, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Betsy Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Sponeny, Miss Miss Lelia Wilson, and Hershel Graves will leave the college Friday, Dec. 18, on a holiday trek to Mexico.

Averaging three hundred miles a day, they plan to reach Mexico City on Dec. 25. The itinerary will include stops at Marianna in Florida, Biloxi in Mississippi, Baton Rouge in Louisiana, Beaumont, Houston, San Antonio, and Laredo in Texas. Crossing the Rio Grande into Mexico, the travelers will start along the wide Pan-American highway to Monterey, from Monterey they will go southward past the Sierra Madre Oriental mountain range and through tropical Mexico to Mexico City.

Arriving in Mexico City two days before Christmas, the party will spend a short time at one of the world's most distinctive and beautiful cathedrals, the National Museum which houses a famous collection of Aztec relics, the National Palace, the National Pawn Shop, and the Alameda on the first day.

Christmas day they will drive outside the city to the Floating Gardens, where they will ride in the Mexican edition of the gondola decorated with a canopy of bright flowers. In the evening they will go to the Pronion to watch the Aztec dances.

Later in the week they will make a trip to the city of San Juan Teotihuacan to see the pyramids the Aztecs built in their worship of the sun and the moon and the ancient monastery of San Juan de Dios. Returning there they will see giant centuries-old abundant trees. At the Sunday bullfight they will watch dances of the

Continued on page two

McKay Asked to Speak

Mary Jeanne McKay, president of the College Government association, has been asked to address the Pensa. P. S. C. W. alumnae club during the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Bradford Alsop is president of the Tampa organization.

FSC Glee Club Gives Concert In Auditorium

Entertainment is Woven Around Songs From Many Countries

FAMILIAR CAROL CLOSES PROGRAM

Reeder Will Play Harp Accompaniment For Russian Pieces

Weaving its program around the Christmas carols of various countries, the college Glee club under the direction of Miss Rita Robertson will present its annual vesper program Sunday afternoon at 5:30 in the college auditorium.

Russian Selections

The first group of the program consists of six Russian selections. "Glory to God," "Christmas Bells," and "In a Manger," all a capella, and arranged for a women's chorus by Kingsley, will open the program. Mezzo Soprano Dorothy Patterson and the club will next sing Tschaikowsky's "Angels We Have Shining." "Carol of the Russian Children," from White Russia and arranged by Caul, will also be a capella. This portion of the program will close with "Noels" by Tournier. Miss Reeder will accompany the glee club on the harp.

English and French Carols

The second group will begin with "O, My Dear Heart," an Old English carol by Margetson. This will also be a capella. Jonathan Bishop, Marian Carson and the club will then sing "Thomas Is Chanta-be," an Alsacien Noel arranged by Reynolds, and sung in French. Another old Provencal carol will follow, "Mid Yon Pale Heavens," a Roman Noel, also arranged by Reynolds. A Bohemian carol, "Come, Ye Shepherds," arranged by Sear, will be sung a capella, and followed by "O Child of Mary's Gentle Care," an American carol by Shelley. The program will conclude with the entire organization singing Crabbe's "Silent Night."

Personnel

The personnel of the glee club includes Betty Jane Bell, Jacquelyn Bunion, Sara Methoen, Marie Spurr

Continued on page seven

Course Plans Are Approved

Many Changes, Additions Made in Curriculum For Next Year

Several changes made in the curriculum and several courses added to the curriculum were approved by the faculty senate committee this week and announced by the registrar yesterday.

The curriculum committee recommended quite a few of new, modified, and deleted courses. In the Art department the course in perspective will be dropped from the schedule while several other courses will have the hours changed. Also the addition of a new course in bacteriology to be offered each second year and carrying four hours of credit will be determined later.

A new course will also be added in botany with four semester hours credit. In the field of economics department a change from a two-semester, six-hour course to a one-semester, four-hour course will be made in Economics 201, and a three-semester, four-hour course in the Distribution of Wealth and Income will be added.

The second semester of this year's course in the Education department, Methods in Arithmetic, will be added. A new course in Journalism in the journalism will also be added. A complete revision of the whole department of philosophy and Bible and religious education will be made and it will be changed from the department of philosophy and religion

Courses of Intermediate Conversation will be offered in both French and English while Physical Education 161, 162, 113, and 114 will be changed in hours credit. Several changes were also made in the physics department and psychology department.

Entertainment For Week Uses Holiday Theme

Seniors, Mortar Board, Sophomore Council, To Be Honored

With Christmas vacation only a week off, campus organizations are celebrating in a manner which fit in between the holiday spirit. Parties and programs featuring the Christmas theme characterize the activities of these groups.

Next Wednesday night members of the senior class will march in for dinner wearing their caps and gowns with formal collars, and singing Christmas carols. At eight o'clock Miss Maude Bowers, director of residence halls, will entertain the seniors at the annual Christmas party to be held in Bryan Hall. At second light from the same night, the seniors will sing caroling in town. They will include the governor's mansion, the home of Senator and Mrs. Moore, and homes of friends signed and sick, and persons connected with the college.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold P. Richards will be hosts tonight at a dinner honoring men of Mortar Board. Dr. Richards is an adviser of the organization, and Mrs. Richards is national inspector of Mortar Board. At this time the wish list of her recent trip to other chapters in the eastern part of the United States.

Members of Sutrogira and Ecteren will have their annual joint trip to Dena Plastacowo this week-end. Members of the faculty who are spending the week-end at camp are invited to attend the party Saturday night. Activities will center around the large Christmas tree, and at this time his dependable devil's food cake, and apples will be served.

Members of Sophomore Council will also enjoy a trip to camp this week-end. They will be accompanied by Marjorie Rasmussen, council sponsor. Among entertainments planned for the week-end is an old-fashioned candy pull.

A novel party will be given by German club in Ruge hall Saturday night at 7:30. The entertainment will follow the plan of a German Christmas. There will be a Christmas tree and Santa Claus with his "geschenk." There will be German songs and skits presented out the evening. All German students have been invited to attend.

A Christmas program was presented at the regular meeting of the La Cleofas club held Thursday night in Ruge hall. A short play, "The Gold Bug F. S. C. W.," was given after which Christmas carols were sung in Latin by everyone present. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by Ceres club members.

The Christmas theme will be used at the regular meeting of the A. A. M. to be held Tuesday night. Following dinner at 6:30 at the Tea Rooms in the annex there will be a short business meeting. A program will consist of entertaining Christmas stories.

Reporter Interviews Billy, Campus' Busiest Worker

Continued from page one

I has had the pleasure of receiving a letter from the President of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt, who contained in the letter a word of esquire." A little nonphessed I interrupted to inquire again what honor had been bestowed upon him.

"Yessum, I got the letter saying 'Mr. William Washington, Esq.'" Upon further questioning I developed that previously Washington had written a letter to the president, complimenting him for the "great mind he had and what he did—like sensible president we ever had"—and soon he received an answer from the president. Seemingly Billy assured me, it was only polite to reply to all letters, he said, wrote to the president and again received an answer. These two letters are Billy's most prized possessions and he keeps them at home for safety deposit.

Changing over, I saw the beach of four girls, with mouths agape, forming another audience on the stere for the tales of Billy's experiences.

Washington's ancestors came from Virginia, and though he doesn't know for sure, since after the Civil Wa, many of the slaves took the names of their former masters. Billy is the most important son of Grover Washington, Billy moreover, fitures Washington High in his category of heroes which inclu- ded such other people as Lincoln, Booker T. Washington, Patrick H. Lee, Grant, and Jefferson Davis.

One of the most interesting experiences and the most important event in the life of William Washington, Esq., was the time he "got interview." This happened in 1902, when he was working in a cigar factory in Tallahassee. "I saw a big light in the east corner of the factory room—it blinded me—was shining brighter than when the sun passes the meridian line—you know, that at noon—I prayed real hard to the Lord, later that night, for Jesus to say 'It is finish' and I saw the face of Jesus—with a purple robe around Him—and He moved—like in a clock. My heart seemed to be cut out and another one—eternal—put in." Billy's eyes steamed earnestly. "Why, I'm in heaven right now." Going to heaven is the one thing Billy wants more than anything else. They seem to have a sort of fatalistic attitude about it.

My personal feeling when I take time out to go to the artist series or to clean up my room, to wash out a rag of clothing or to loaf for a few minutes on the campus and pass the time of day with my friends, is that I am a thief, and surely this is not right, for all things are not equal. Some have a terribly dull boy! Perhaps I am suffering from an illusion when I think I at least have normal intelligence and function at a reasonable speed. I have learned by one does learn from experience, that it is a mistake to try to be thorough for thoroughness takes too much time—and time "just ain't" around these days.

For temporary results the only method seems to be to "catch as catch can"—"grab in the nick of time." But—somebody would tell me—the world finds inevitable Day of Reckoning I would spend the rest of my days trying to repair. So! If I had not come to college to learn something, and did not earnestly desire to have brain workings with which I could at least eke out "bread and meat" in the future I would be ashamed to thumb pages, acquire an indifferent attitude and spend a couple of hours a day on bended knee before God in an effort to cry my courses. Believe it or not—there's mean nothing to me, absolutely nothing, and it is not "culture" I want in their stead. But if you don't get that, out you go! What I'd hoped to take away with me when I left, here was a working knowledge of somethings and a strengthened philosophy of life in general, and a keener question if in my muddled and hurried state, I am getting that.

It is not the fault of the teachers, nor do I take the fault to myself wholly, but truly. It all seems like a sort of madness to me! The question of what is wrong—I believe it, nay do the conscientious good students like it. The bad students don't know anyway! I don't believe any of us know what it's all about, and the difficulty lies in the fact that no one episode is competent to suggest a better way, for it is to find a spot where those of us can go who want to function more calmly and slowly, and more intelligently, and get away from it all, and have time for one thing, to breathe deep breath, and a good night's sleep. The bad students get the "I don't cares" and the good ones the "I can't help its."

"The teachers are in the same

COUNCIL HELPS ACTIVITY FEE

Continued from page one

day Jan. 7, 4:30 o'clock, 208 Administration building.

Group 17, amateur photography, Thursday, Jan. 7, 4:30 o'clock, Byron sun parlor.

Group 18, social dancing, Monday, Jan. 4, 4:30 o'clock big gym. The first fifty on the list will attend this meeting and a time will be assigned to each of the fifty for those remaining.

The other groups will be announced later.

CLOSING OUT
ALL FALL
SHOES!
All Colors—
All Heels—
All Sizes—
For Your Holiday Outfit!
COLLEGE SLIPPER SHOP
108 E. College Ave.

Many Talents Little Known Grace Campus

Swimmers, Advertisers Mingle in Common College Life

Many and varied are the talents possessed by students of Florida State College for Women women. Did you recognize those colleagues, who range from aquatic stars to advertising models, usually in pair combinations? Not their talents, but unwittingly allow them to crop out at unexpected moments.

If you waited for Danner Baker to tell you, you probably would never know that she has been the model for several of the striking advertisements by the makers of a popular brand of cigarettes in order to avoid the embarrassing inquiries about the original illustrations in the magazines and the Distaff that Grace Whitaker is one of the most artistically talented girls on the campus.

The Mortar Board Mountaineer club served by Grace has other accomplishments which might otherwise have shielded unseen. Hazel Wood, Brad and opportunity to display her ability in planting the Mountaineer emblem. Besides several other musical instruments played by Jeanne Bowers, Jeanne McKay, and Marjorie Tills form a harmonious and rhythmic trio, especially when accompanied by Frances Perli at the piano. But the person you never would suspect, Carl Edna Vacobian, junior, is a popular vocalist on many occasions, and with Hazel Wood and Sarah Frances Gattrell are always in demand at parties.

Nor does Florida State lack in serpentchroan talent, Jo Binion, Viola Brooks, and Vevay Mc- Michael are popular entertainers, especially at Odd and Even dem- onstrations.

Marie Taylor has directed her talents to the study of human figure is an accomplished rider, has appeared in several horse shows, and now gives lessons in riding.

The freshman class is not lacking in talent either. Mildred and the Rouse twins have already displayed considerable talent in vocal solos and violin and flute duets. Katherine Rawls, internationally known champion diver is revealed in a talk at a freshman club meeting as a study of human in Germany that she is a talented speaker as well as an aquatic star are very industrious matrons to the majority of 1936 college girls. For weeks they have been wondering how to approach dad for the money for his own present as well as the presents of the rest of the family and all the friends.

Today's Santa Claus Has Frat Pin for Good Girls

Continued from page one

For days they have been rushing, madly to finish a knitted sweater in which they simply must wear to the game on Christmas day. They have written numerous letters to Santa Claus in care of the family. They rushed to the stores after a new evening dress and wrap and a new hat to match. They spent entire week-end bars seem to be shadowed by these dingy days. Then of course there will be lots of gifts and presents which will be surprises.

Santa Claus simply must purchase that pin for Jack Brown, too. There are so many occasions during the mad rush of holiday shopping that it will be needed. The new evening gowns and the hats are worn the first night of Christmas vacation and by Christmas day a new practically worn out, and now gives lessons in riding.

The freshman class is not lacking in talent either. Mildred and the Rouse twins have already displayed considerable talent in vocal solos and violin and flute duets. Katherine Rawls, internationally known champion diver is revealed in a talk at a freshman club meeting as a study of human in Germany that she is a talented speaker as well as an aquatic star least of his worries now, he says. He has a list that is almost endless. "Thank God. I'm new born again."

Billy is very much interested in education. He learns through contact with the people of human life mostly. He is especially interested in law and the Bible. In connection with the first of these he believes that he must learn to know what he is about in order to know how to get along on. He has been to night school at the A. and M. school. He has been working here as janitor around the music department and around the hall for seven years.

"I love state work," he said, popping his chewing gum in his mouth regularly. "I've been at state work for about 9. Before doing this work, he clerked in many stores.

"I come here to do this work to keep my mind," he explained. "Dealing with money—especially other person—keeps me from worried."

In the long years ago even prior to his "clerking" business, Billy married while in the clear-making days. He has been a married man for thirty-five years and I mean to say that way 'til God says, "enough done."

Billy, for the time having established that he "no long worries," concluded with his much repeated "I've love anything. Washington always'll stop to hunt for it for you." When you do right, Billy's philosophy goes "there is virtue carrying the reward in her right hand for you."

ADAMS STUDIO
Extends Holiday Greetings, and reminds you that a photograph is the ideal gift.
119½ EAST COLLEGE

Classics Club Presents Play

Gods Descend to Advise "Femina Imperfects" About Living

A play entitled "The Gods Visit Florida State College for Women" was presented at the December meeting of the Classical club held Tuesday evening at Ruge hall.

The heroine of the play was a "femina imperfecta" who had a tendency to neglect her studies and concentrate on social activities. The gods saw her sad condition and visited her to offer their advice. Mercury was selected to cast aside all worries during the time of the Saturnalia, the Roman Christmas. The god then led the group in singing "Silent Night." "Adeste Fidelis," and the Roman version of "Jingle Bells," "Tintinni Tintinnabuli."

The characters in the play were Ruth Smith, Femina Imperfecta; Jane Jackson, Mercury; Mary Marie Berry, Diana; Eunice Mc- Cullers, Minerva; Raymond Bachchus; Marie Anderson, Neptune; Fern Robertson, Juno; Dorothy Detrick, Ceres; Pearle Cervoulla Pirkle, Cornucopian, Venus; Hazel Viertel, Apollo, and Holly Walker, Rex Saturnalia.

Roman costumes of "merum piacenalque" were served by Bacchus, the god of wine.

Victim of Chronic Overwork Views Result of "The System"

Students Seek Tranquil Existence Whereby Deep Breath and Night's Sleep Automatically Become Blissful Reality

Editor's Note: This article was written by one of the older students on campus. For obvious reasons she has not signed her name, but anyone wanting to know the identity of the writer, can find her name on file in the Flambeau office.

I stop, chin-deep in the midst of terrific distress as I realize that merely as a diversion from the grind have been experiencing for an indefinite period. To get that thing that has been "eating on me" off my mind, writing and more than a movie, or a swim in the pool or the A.A.U.W. carries me here gone! ! ! I shall hide behind "anonymous," as a nom-de-plume in order to feel free to exclude!

Enroute to my room today, immediately after my 8 o'clock Spanish class, I detoured by the post office and there within the next 15 minutes I heard a teacher say, "I dislike to gorge my students with heavy assignments, but I must in order to cover the ground I'm expected to cover." Last week another teacher said, "I don't doubt but that in assigning work for each student, I overdo it, but we are totally familiar we forget that six times seven equals forty in six different fields, would be more than we could keep up with ourselves." The ladies were turned and we were the students."

I'm expected to cover my own classes, library, and room, I hear for the night. The presents in the left of me, and on all sides of me students saying "Oh, I'm so busy ... but why aren't you busy—how ever can I do it all?" and so on and on.

ed and turned in their beds many times before Christmas, and my presents to all the girls this year are to be made by me. Before dawn one later since the friends will probably be the same. After all, a college girl's income is limited.

A dreaded shopping is put off until the last two days before Christmas. Then comes the rush madly through the mobs of last minute shoppers to fight for a book or a bright linen handkerchief. The modern college girls miss all the thrills and excitement of getting up early Christmas morning, of finding carefully wrapped packages which are gifts from somebody, of opening the decorated Christmas tree. They have seen them themselves already, and they are so worn out after a week of parties, dances and wild cramming that Christmas is hardly bearely possible to crawl out of bed on the day that Christmas dinner with their families.

To some sentimental souls Santa Claus still brings back memories of Christmas trees, peppermint candy sticks, new bicycles and skates. Some even find a short silk stocking by the fireplace for the sake of reminiscence.

Nearly every college girl will agree that Christmas is a Santa Claus. "Anyone who puts Santa Claus and the world is just full of Santa Clauses."

Some say that Santa Calus is a God-man who sent them down to G ville for fall fashion and ballballs.

"It's poppa who pays," say all students, "Santa Claus to me is the fellow who put the red suit and the whiskers."

But in spite of these diversified views on Santa Claus the fact that it is chief of all Santa Clauses is the one who brings to each and every one a two-weeks' vacation. He has arranged with all teachers for the dismissal of homework for th entire period. This most wonderful Santa Claus brings with him packages for unlimited dates, no night clashes, and no signing up for dates.

PEARLS ARE DEFINITELY "IN"
For evening, a double strand is especially smart. For sportwear, Vogue shows one small strand to be worn with sweaters and high sport collars. We carry Richelieu Pearls and many other appropriate gifts for Christmas.
W. W. PUTNAM
Jeweler and Watchmaker

Impeachment Data Returns to Senate

The report on the impeachment legislation given by the senate to the college executive council was returned this week with corrections and suggestions. The bill with its revisions must be rediscussed and submitted again to the executive body for approval.

Demonstration School Prepares Program For Christmas Celebration

The Florida High school is making plans for the celebration of the Christmas holidays. The program consists of a presentation of Christmas carols by the boys' and girls' glee clubs in the P.-T. A. on Thursday night.

Plans have also been made to give money and gifts, as a previous years, to the orphanage in Jacksonville. The manual arts department is trying to arrange for toys to be repaired by the students, before they are distributed. Another drive for money for the orphanage will be conducted by the senior class. Last year forty dollars was collected in a similar drive. A basketball game, which will be held in the college gymnasium between Foley and Florida high, is also part of the holiday program.

The last hour of school on Friday before the holidays will be spent in the various class rooms. Programs by the students will be given, gifts will be exchanged, and refreshments will be served.

"arrived" we are, and everybody conscious of the fact that we've been doing our part of the very efficient, business world we "get out into the cruel, cold world." What's more we've got something but indigestion from scrying, but "the system" seems to prohibit it. What's wrong with us all? I guess the only thing we can do is to "do" as we've been told good sound ideals and stop being serious about it! Advice on all sides seems to be "Oh, don't throw it off!" My argument is that they don't seem to succeed very relief.

I don't know what? I have a tail suspicion that the old boys who wrote these education books on the subject of "adjustment" to old with the exhausting orgy we're in. The most of our conscientious loving assignments that are sufficiently long to keep the smart pupil working for a week. This idea seems to be that he cannot possibly accomplish it. The problems are too easy, the delivery too much. Unquestionably the idea is basic. But it certainly gives the amateur a chance to find out how it feels to never get his desk top clean. And I believe some of these same hardened, seasoned teachers have never got their desk tops cleared of the accumulated cells at the present moment, in our state institutions.

I contend that these "stimulative assignments" for the bright student, are "dope" for the poor devil whose I. Q. is a little below standard, side by side with the brighter ones. The only difference between her and her more brilliant sister in relation to her tongue hanging out, she is never able to get any sleep, or clean up her room.

The individual still lower on the I. Q. end, but who still possesses a conscience, has taken on a mental void look about the eyes, and bites her finger nails. The one at the bottom of the scale blissfully cruises about, stealing every flunk alike like they were checks from Dad. She has the limit of time and week-ends, and nourish

BAFFLING BAGGAGE
and
TROUBLESOME TRUNKS... Ship 'em Home and Back!
You'll shed a vacation vexation at one economical stroke. Simply pack up and phone Railway Express when to come. Your baggage will be picked up, shipped on swift express trains, delivered promptly at your home. For the return trip, you merely reverse. No extra charge for pick-up and delivery in cities and principal towns, and the shipping costs are practically negligible, when compared with local drayman's charges, etc., and the time you spend waiting. Also, Railway Express rates always include insurance up to $50 on each shipment, without extra expense. The main thing is to notify Railway Express when to call. That done, you can climb aboard the train and enjoy the scenery. You'll be off for a Merry Christmas.
117 South Monroe St. — Phone 181
Depot Office: S. A. L. Ry. Passenger Station — Phone 453-R
Tallahassee, Florida
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Hungry Coeds Go A-Nutting To Dread Fate

Infirmary Sojourn Ends Career of Prowling Berry-Pickers

"It's the berries."

That is what two college girls exclaimed when asked the cause of their illness last week-end. Last Saturday these two girls were walking down Jefferson avenue on their way to town. When they reached the Alpha Delta Pi house on the corner they saw a tree covered with some very appetizing-looking nuts. Glancing around carefully to see if anybody were noticing them, and feeling being reassured, both girls crept into the yard and began to eat their fill of what, to their surprise, turned out to be tung-oil berries.

After having satisfied their appetites, they started on their way in the direction of town. Before they had gone very far on the way they began to feel sharp pains in the abdominal regions. By the time the girls had reached the infirmary they were doubled up with pain. Feeling that they couldn't go on even one step, they sent word out an S. O. S., calling a sorority sister to the rescue. She summoned a taxi and started after them. By the time she had reached them both were in such a bad condition that she had to rush them immediately to the infirmary, where they spent Sunday recuperating.

They are lamenting the fact that even though the pain is gone a memory lingers on, particularly in the minds of those girls. Now everywhere they go their companions point them out as the idiots of "Hey, you tung-oil nuts."

Members of Astronomy Group Hold Fall Camp

Approximately forty members of the Astronomy club attended that Pantacowo's annual fall camp at Camp Plastacowo, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Dr. and Mrs. Harold P. Richards and Miss Lahman of the physical education department were chaperons.

At the Wednesday night session, Marie Hyer Tallamelle spoke on the mythology of the stars, and Marie Wagner on general physical aspects of stars. Dr. Richards addressed the group on the subject of nebulae. This session was followed by a campfire discussion on many phases of astronomy.

a se cret hope, not always in a remote corner of their thinking, that they will find a way that they can go home, and as loath as I am to admit it it seems likely to me that they will find a way out of the whole contingent that have a short chance of reaching a future abode in a padded cell.

I crave a higher education, but I'm pretty sure that I'm going to harvest my crop of results in a "Bughouse!" for that is the only help hop, at the moment is to follow the advice of those who seem to know, and "Don't let the thing get off." Perhaps I could it a course who offered in that.

Hay Prepares Journal Paper

Will Publish New Article On Teaching Modern Languages Now

Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education, has prepared a paper published in the December issue of the "Florida Foreign Language Journal" an article on values and methods in teaching a modern foreign language.

Of the four aims in teaching foreign languages which Dr. Hay discusses, one deals with the vocational aspect in governmental and industrial foreign service, and in librarians, social service workers, translators, and teachers. She calls attention to the fact that in Florida frequently the doctor, lawyer, business man with some knowledge of Spanish has a definite advantage over the competitors."

In her discussion of desirable methods for teaching foreign language Dr. Hay Emphasizes the general fields—oral, direct, reading and eclectic. She further stresses the importance of hearing, speaking, understanding and writing. These accomplishments she believes, are desirable objectives for teachers in Florida, in that practice in Hay also recommends certain reading texts to supplement the state-adopted texts.

Briggs Speaks On Exhibition Art Piece

Continued from page one

Sculpture should never be merely abstract, she said.

After pointing out several noteworthy pieces Miss Briggs explained the process of making a cast of bronze. She said that the mold is made from wax. The clay form is covered with a thick coat of wax. The details of the drawn and the wax is removed, space around the clay. The mold is filled by the molten metal which is poured into an opening. Miss Briggs explained that the plaster is removed from the outside and the core from the inside by various means. The cheaper bronzes are made by the sand method, the latter by the lost wax method.

Arrangements Made For Mexican Trip

Continued from page one

most famous matadors; perhaps Rodolfo Gaona.

The return trip will begin Dec. 29. En route to Florida the party will visit the Vieux Carre in New Orleans and the bayou district made famous in Longfellow's "Evangeline."

GELBERG'S
We Lead in Values!
Holiday Clearance
SALE
Entire Stock Women's Fall and Winter Shoes All One Price
$2.90
Values to $6.00.
All Sizes — All Styles.
A Complete Clearance!
GELBERG'S
"Complete Store for Ladies"
COLLEGE AVENUE

Give a Corona Portable Typewriter for Christmas!
The Corona with its floating shift makes a handsome and useful gift.
CHRISTIE HALL Business Machines
202 E. Park Ave. - Phone 744-W

Sports Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

With the football season practically over, except for the annual Bowl tilt, which means just nothing to us, and since we have no more games to go on record, we can turn with more zest to the sports on our campus. We have a big program set beginning with ping-pong and Christmas and working up to swimming with baseball at the end of the year. Anyone is eligible to enter for these sports, and as a gentle reminder, watch the Flambeau for announcements concerning practices.

We'll be quite a nice trip for the boys of everything works out as hopers of the advanced modern dance class can go to "Anahuac" for sessions at the American Physical Education convention at Austin, Texas, next spring.

It's hard for most of us, even the boys in the football squad, to realize that there will actually be an outdoor swimming meet next quarter, during the Christmas holidays. A number of these from the rest of the United States are to be represented. Besides there will be some racing and excellent displays by members of our own student body who take part.

Some of our girls here must be looking forward to a big skating party in the coming spring. We're not one of whom is a semi-wind you, who have actually to be known in the places where they do the most good, name's home, that they would like to bring them skates for Christmas. Imagine that! Oh, well, that right. They could be asked for kiddie cars.

The camp leadership class that has been formed this year in the women's physical education department seems to be doing interesting and worthwhile according to al we can hear or to camp often, with a different line of activity each time. To receive from faculty members the degree of instruction on different phases of camp life. In this is one of the courses that is open for the student for taking it.

Don't forget the Intra-murals to be played off at the Gym tonight. We are the finals for volleyball basketball and should be entirely good. Come and yell for your unit! Also this is the last week before Christmas so everyone should be in a very festive mood. And the band will be there for dancing.

Rosters for intra-mural basketball and soccer have begun and interest in these games is increasing with every practice. Any of you who are interested in going for practice will find the hours days for your particular sport in a story on this page. The games will be played off soon after Christmas.

Leadership Class Holds Weekend Getting Practical Experience

Seven members of the class in camp leadership accompanied by Dr. Elsie Hurd, instructor; Miss Mary Washburn, and Miss Ruth Hannan spent Saturday afternoon and Sunday at the college camp near Bradford.

The party left the campus on the 1:30 truck and spent the afternoon canoeing, hiking and making campfires. Following this a supper, which was served around the campfire picnic style, where songs and discussions by the group. Later the class retired to the lodge where several more stories by O. Henry were told while the girls worked on their craft projects.

Sunday morning was spent in doing rifle practice, and playing on craft projects. Cleaning and inspection followed dinner, and the remainder of the afternoon was spend completing craft work.

Girls making the trip were Ruth Gates, Sarah Hethcox, Pat Cash, Marie Taylor, Melba Parks, Ann Nickle, Thelma Butler, Margaret Kennedy, Harriet Duke, Nella Moore, and Louise Whitaker.

Shop for Your Christmas Cards, Gift Wrappings and All Your Christmas Needs at McCRORY'S

"The Middle Dime Store"

Largest Selection in Town!

Games Tonight To End Series

Episcopals Play Newman Club This Evening In Final Match

Tonight at 6 o'clock in the big gym the Episcopal and the Newman club basketball teams will meet to play the finals of the intra-murals in basketball. Monday afternoon the Episcopal team defeated the Chi Omega team with a score of 47-16. Thursday afternoon the Newman team defeated the Spirogira team, leading them with a score of 16-4.

During the first quarter of the Episcopal-Chi Omega basketball game, the Episcopals piled up a score of 18-8 in their favor. By the end of the quarter the score was 30-9 with the Episcopal team still far i nthe lead.

A change in line-up during the second half of the game seemed to help the Chi Omega team. But at the end of the quarter their score remained the same while the Episcopals team had gained fifteen points. In the last quarter the Chi Omega team made a desperate check the other team as well as to add more points to their score, but at the end of the game the score stood 47-18 still in favor of the Episcopal team.

On the Episcopal team, Jane Thomas scored seven goals and one free shot, Eugenia Munnerlyn scored eight goals, and Betty White scored six goals and two free shots.

On the Chi Omega team, Roberta Tryon made three goals and one free shot, Jacqueline Treeda made two goals, Louise Brown made one goal, and Frances Lewis made a free shot.

The Episcopal team is as follows: Right forward, Eugenia Munnerlyn; left forward, Jane Thomas; center forward, Betty White; right guard, Elizabeth Page Smith; center guard, Ruth Barrington; left guard, Katherine Boone.

The Chi Omega line-up is: Right forward, Roberta Tryon; left forward, Louise Brown; center forward, Jacqueline Treeda; right guard, Betty Hamilton; center guard, Frances Lewis; left guard, Betty Watson. During the first half, Betty Watson and Louise Brown exchanged positions. In the last half, Ann Kimball substituted for Betty Watson.

The game between the Newman club and the Spirogiras started out rather quietly with no outstanding plays on either side. The teams seemed about evenly matched, but a point scored by Milner just before the end of the first quarter brought the score to 2-0 in favor of the Newmanites.

The Newmans got the lead during the second quarter and made eight points. Point were made by Lytal, Grider and Moinar. The Spirogiras failed to score, as the ball was kept for the most part on the Newman court. At the end of the half the score was 11-2 in favor of the Newmans.

The third quarter saw some hard playing on the part of both teams. The Spirogiras scored a small lead and scored two baskets. The Newman club made one point on a foul called on Zuschert and the third quarter ended with the score 12-6 favor of the Newmans.

Deane went in for Lytal at the beginning of the last quarter. Points were scored by Zuschert of Spirogira and Lytal for the Newmans.

The Newman club lineup is: Right forward, Angela Grilley; left forward, Carmen Lytal; center forward, Dot Moinar; right guard, Yvonne Marchbenesu; center guard, Florence Morley, and left guard, Willis Lahoue. Substitutes, Clotilde O'Rourke and Mary Sullivan.

The Spirogira line-up was: Right forward, Olinetta Zuschert; left forward, Sarah Lytal; center forward, Marie Taylor; right guard, Shirley Stevens; center guard, Mary Miller, and left guard, Peggy McMichael.

Swimming Club Decides To Have Presentations Three Times This Year

The first meeting of a club being formed to include the better swimmers on the campus was held Tuesday night in upper Bryan. Valarie Hunt is in charge of the organization of the group which will have the ultimate objective of the life saving corps.

The club's objectives as formulated by members at the meeting, are to develop correct swimming form and to present three demonstrations during each year, one at the opening of school for the freshmen, the second at Thanksgiving, and the later at homecoming in the spring. A committee was appointed to do research work on adapting ramses and stunts for water use.

Requirements for admittance in the club were set as the passing of either a swimming or diving test. Miss Hunt will actual and a "C" average for scholastic standing during the semester before application for membership in the club.

The club will meet again Sunday afternoon following dinner. At this time a name will be given the club.

Rawls Will Represent Florida State During Fort Lauderdale Meet

Katherine Rawls, F.S.C.W.'s nationally-known swimmer, will take part in a college swimming forum to be held at Fort Lauderdale for ten days during the Christmas holidays. A large number of colleges from throughout the United States will be represented.

This is the second annual forum to be held at Fort Lauderdale. Two years ago the members of the swimming team at Colgate University spent the Christmas holidays in Fort Lauderdale in training and preparation for the swimming season. The pool and other facilities proved so ideal that the idea of having an annual swimming forum was conceived. A large number of the fifteen colleges, mostly men's schools, sent representatives to the initial forum. This year many more schools will participate.

The forum will include routine training procedures, competitive swimming, exhibitions, intensive swimming, form swimming, and diving, and conferences of coaches and trainers.

Teachers View Soil Plans Near Americus

Continued from page one

tes of a specific crop. For instance, the group reported, whereas cotton was formerly a favorite soil crop, now wheat, Australian peas or other crops are planted in the fall as soon as the cotton season is over.

The farmers who are within the project, it was learned, sign a contract which enables them to receive aid and advice as well as often seed and fertilizer from the government. The work on the 6000 acres has proved so helpful to the farmers that many others outside the project are asking the governments for soil conservation service aid on their farms.

Sunday morning the group drove to Stewart county, about forty miles west of Americus, where there are many large gullies. Within the last fifty years, it was discovered, about 70,000 acres of land in this county has been literally swept away as deep down as 20 feet, while the various branches continue to "eat back" more than fifty feet a year. The gullies resemble the Bryce canyon of Utah and the Grand canyon of Colorado because of their form and coloring of red, yellow and white. Improper farming, which allowed the top soil to be washed away, leaving the hard sub-soil exposed was the cause of these gullies. Although no one knows how to stop the gullies, once they begin, it has been estimated that it would cost millions of dollars to check them, if a way were known. The farmers are rapidly moving out of Stewart county, leaving the area abandoned. It will probably be turned into a state of national park. It was found out.

Many temporary streams flowing through the gullies unite to form a permanent stream which runs out into the Gulf of Mexico carrying the soil with it. All along the way this soil is deposited in various places. Sometimes it silts into large water reservoirs, or again it is deposited in forests where it chokes young trees. Even when it is deposited on a farm, it is destructive because it ruins the top soil.

Miss Eaton said that the staff selected visitors and offered a cordial invitation to the college to visit the project.

Players Give Audience New Sport Thrill

Club President Descends To Substitute Role In Great Game

Variety was added yesterday afternoon to what might have been just another basketball game when the matter of substitutes came up.

Just before the game started it was discovered that one of the teams was sadly lacking in the way of players. The captain looked around frantically for a few minutes and suddenly strode over to where the president of the club was chatting with a reporter.

Calmly she informed them that they could thenceforth consider themselves substitutes. They protested. Her gaze grew steely and she insisted. After some amount of arguing they agreed that they were indeed substitutes, and left. To get their gym suits, the president bemoaning her lost dignity and the reporter muttering vaguely about covering the game.

The other team sympathized disinterestedly. They had had foresight enough to get a full team.

Their lack of interest did not last for long, however. Towards the last quarter of the game one o' their players was hurt and they found themselves without a substitute. A girl was snatched from the sidelines and one having a suit removed her skirt and played in sweater and slip. A ruling prevented her from playing in leather soled shoes and when she balked at the idea of playing barefooted one of her team mates contributed her shoes and went through the rest of the game in stocking feet.

Thus the game went on much to the enjoyment of the audience whose humor at the sight of the players threatened to overcome them several times.

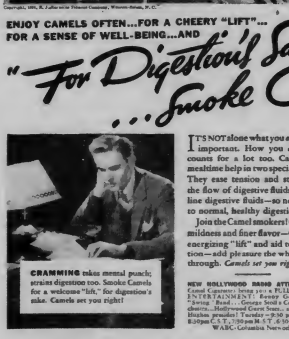
Winter Sports Opened As Hockey and Soccer Groups Have Practice

Winter sports on the campus opened officially this week as Odd and Even groups of hockey and soccer players met for their first practices.

Braving a chilly wind and a fog the Odds and Evens opposed their forces until after the Christmas holidays. Attention was given in these first practices to the technique and basic work of hockey and soccer. More complicated team work and the scoring out of team plays will beem after the holidays.

Odd players who went out for hockey under the coaching of Marion Weeks and the faculty advisor, Miss Ray Fraser included Harriet Pate, Mary Miller, Bee Deane, Christine Killian, Martha Makemson, and Hazel Viertel.

Odd soccer players who attended practices were: Fay Corey, coach, Dorothy Colburn, Valeria Hunt, Dot Murdock, Rose Apple, Jean Mastus, Sadie Anderson, Marion Baker, Ellen Wilson, Mary Palmer, Mary Parker, Jean Gillies, Patty Barringer, and Dilla Beckham. Odd referee has Miss Lehman for faculty advisor.



Even soccer players headed by Evelyn Glasier, coach and sponsored by Miss Fox included Mickey Smeton, Ernestine Makemson, Frances Fryer, Lovene Holabird, Judy Triplett, Elsie Mae Wilson, Ruth Rogers, Frances Waterhouse, and Merriday Romer.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

ENJOY CAMELS OFTEN...FOR A CHEERY "LIFT"... FOR A SENSE OF WELL-BEING...AND

"For Digestion's Sake Smoke Camels!"

IT'S NOT alone what you eat that's important. How you eat counts for a lot, too. Camels at mealtime help in two special ways. They ease tension and stimulate the flow of digestive fluids—so line digestive fluids—so necessary to normal, healthy digestion.

Join the Camel smokers! Camel's mildness and finer flavor—Camel's energizing "lift" and aid to digestion—add pleasure the whole day through. Camels set you right!

CRAMMING takes mental punch; strains digestion too. Smoke Camels for a welcome "lift," for digestion's sake. Camels are your right!

NEW HOLLYWOOD RADIO ATTRACTION! Camel Quarter Hour with ROBERT YOUNG, JANE FROMAN, GLEN GRAY'S Casa Loma Band, "Jerry" Read . . . George Sokol's Concert Orchestra . . . Hollywood Guest Stars . . . and Robert Benchley. Broadcast Tuesday—9:30 p.m. E.S.T., 8:30 p.m. C.S.T., 7:30 p.m. M.S.T., 6:30 p.m. P.S.T., WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, more EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Frosh Clings To Memories Of Dim Past

Gym - Instructoress Was Circus Performer Before Teacher

BY FRANCES WATERHOUSE

Can you imagine a school with no cut system and no light flash? A school whose pupils live in a hotel and take their meals in restaurant?

Dorothy Mae Donovan, freshman at Florida State this year, attended such a school last winter. Its very name, Traphagen Fashion school, and its location, corner of Broadway and Fifty-third street in New York city, suggest its character. The girls' dormitory, to add to its attractiveness, was the twenty-third floor of the American Women's club.

The school curriculum covered every subject from dress designing to advertising in a three year course, the first two years consisted of several art work, the third dealt directly with clothing and textiles. The school term ran from October to May, classes being held five days a week from 12:00 and 1:00-4:00. Attendance was not compulsory, though, as Dorothy said emphatically, "it was to your advantage to go."

Adjoining the studios were a smoking room, a library, and a small gym. The library contained a collection of fashion books that the students "were lucky to look at but not to read." The librarian handled the volume like jewels, letting them rest on his hands and turning the pages with tongs. From these rarities, the pupils obtained glimpses of old and famous costumes.

The gym was used for postural defects only. The instructress, although seventy years of age, was a circus performer whose favorite trick was doing head stands on the neck of a galloping horse. Owing to this dexterity, she would often wrap herself in complicated poses and tell her class, "Just do it this way, girls." "The girls" had long ago collapsed. Teaching routine also had its comical side. Whenever the directions were "Right foot, press," all the left feet would be in action.

As a part of training, the students were taken on twelve trips through the Brooklyn museum, the Metropolitan museum, Greenwich, and other places of interest. In December, they attended the Beaux Arts ball and exhibited sketches of costume- design in competition for a prize.

A hazardous walk separated the girls' classrooms and the hotel. One icy morning while crossing Fifth avenue on a red light, Dorothy sat down involuntarily. Once when in the hotel, she and her friends were straddled between floors by miscreant elevator boys, in spite of an irate manager.

Each girl had a private room and bath with "all the trimmings." plus a colored maid to help them. At night, the girls were accustomed to go up on the roof and sit there watching the lights of the city. From here, Dorothy saw the Normandie steam out past the Statute of Liberty From here, too, she heard the Rhinedevine roar close overhead. Occasionally these nocturnal pleasures were diminished by the girls' returning to their rooms and finding that they had locked themselves out. Cholee and pocketbooks decided

Modern Dancers Asked To Attend Texas Meet

Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor of physical education, has been invited to bring a group of modern dance students with her when she attends the annual meeting of the American Physical Education association to be held in Houston, Texas, in April of next year.

The group has been asked to demonstrate to the association the work being done in modern dance at this college. It plans can be carried out enabling girls to leave school for this length of time, the students chosen will be those who took modern dance last year, and who have contained their study this year.

Graduates Get Theater Work

Boggs and Weeks Chosen Workshop Assistants In Jacksonville

Iris Knox Weeks and Betsy Boggs, graduates of the Florida State College for Women, have been named chief assistants of Mrs. Justine Case, workshop chairman of the Little theater of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Weeks directed "The Barker," which was presented last Tuesday night. This rollicking comedy of carnival life was the first full length play that she has directed for the Little theater of Jacksonville. She went to that city after being graduated from this college two years ago, and last season appeared in the Little theater s one-act comedy of dramatic life, which she both wrote and directed.

At school in Tallahassee and at St. Petersburg, her former home, Mrs. Weeks wrote and directed a number of one and three-act plays for the stage. Since going to Jacksonville her efforts have been centered chiefly on radio. dramas and the dramatic club which she has helped organize.

Miss Boggs studied expression at the Florida State College for Women before graduating and last summer she studied at the Pasadena School of the Theater and Workshop in Pasadena, California. Miss Boggs took the part of Lou a carnival girl, in the recent production of "The Barker" by Jacksonville's Little theater.

eating places. Sometimes, Dorothy went to a Chinese restaurant for chop suey; once, she dined at "Sirafia" where they passed around chocolates instead of after-dinner mints. Wherever it was, it was "different."

From an artists' school to a stati collete that was a big jump in one year. Is it any surprise, then, that Dorothy considered reminisces about "last winter?"

Sir Robert Wilkins, Famous Polar Explorer, After Rugged Arctic Fare — Gets Comfort and Cheer with Camels!

He knows the Arctic and the Antarctic. He has known abysmal cold; fought his way step by step through howling blizzards; lived on pemmican and biscuit. "Where I've gone, Camels have gone," says Sir Hubert. "An explorer needs good digestion," he continues. "In the Arctic, I take what I can get so eat and like it. Food is nonconsequence—concerns only powers of digestion. Smoking Camels adds gusto to my meals and brings me a great feeling of well-being afterward. Camels set me right! A Camel has often given me the 'lift' I needed to carry on."

HE POURS WHITE-HOT MOLTEN STEEL. C. V. Davis' job is tough on digestion. He says: "Smoking Camels makes food taste better and set better with me."

"MOST GIRLS HERE at college smoke Camels," says Miss J. O'Neill. "So I smoke them too. Smoking Camels helps digestion; food tastes better; Camels always taste mild."

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEGGIE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art, Evelyn Glazier; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Features, Arline Grey Lockhart and Jane Quinn; Literary, Sarah Bell Davis and Sara Hall; Outside News, Claudia D'Alvarez; Society, Margaret Davis Lafferty and Mary Lou Hall; Sports, Bob Hodges and Mary Jane Lockhart; Mary Lou Massie; Sports, Eva Virginia Brooks and Elizabeth Turner.

REPORTERS: Ruth Ammerman, Ruth Atkinson, Dorothy Bishop, Lucile Bostwick, Dorothy Belcher, Frances Brunson, Petra Cheshire, Elizabeth Culver, Frances Cutler, Diana Craver, Elinor Chesnutt, Virginia Davis, Hazel Dempsey, Maxine Fuqua, Mary Culver Livingston, Lucile Howe, Betty Jane Hall, Elizabeth Hall, Lucile Hall, Dorothy Lewis, Martha Lumsden, Anna Lydia Lee, Mary Jean Lee, Mary Lou Lightfoot, Mary Nolan, Alberta Parker, Janet Pierce, Marion Purrington, Nancy Rogers, June Sharon, Lavina Spaulding, Elizabeth Stipcich, Mary Sullivan, Alma Warren, Frances Waterhouse.

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McCUIER ..... Business Manager
ALICE ROSE ..... Advertising Manager
SAM CHRACOWSKEY ..... Asst. Adv. Mgr.
MARGUERITE BROWN ..... Circulation Mgr.

Represented for National Advertising by NATIONAL ADVERTISING SERVICE, INC.
420 Lexington Publishers Representative
New York City — Boston — Chicago — San Francisco — Los Angeles — Portland — Seattle

Member National Scholastic Press association and Florida Intercollegiate Press association.

Entered as second class mail matter January 20, 1913, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Why Should Florida Be "Different" About Co-Education?

Florida is different. It is the only state in the Union that does not have at least one state-supported co-educational college or university.

Once more we bring up the old questione? Is this true because Florida believes its people should sacrifice for the intellectual virtues the emotional maturity necessary to live successfully in a world of men and women? We college students do not think so. We cannot accept the supposition that the people of Florida would purposely advocate systems of education that do not provide for the development of wholesome relationships between men and women. For instance, most of the public high schools, if not all, in Florida are open to both girls and boys. Why then the attempt to segregate boys and girls who have gone to school together most of their lives at the time they reach college age?

From the practical point of view, is it because the two schools have been growing so long as separate institutions that efficiency might be sacrificed by combining the two? Here again we take the negative. It has been suggested that the law school could advantageously be exchanged for our school of education here. Tallahassee, after all, is the state capital and has the state library while Gainesville on the other hand has one of the most modern demonstration schools in the south, the P. K. Yonge school. The Demonstration school at Tallahassee is sadly inadequate. Perhaps the School of Arts and Sciences and the School of Business Administration might also be centered at Tallahassee while the Schools of Engineering, Agriculture, Home Economics and Music might well be located at Gainesville.

The administration and faculty of the two colleges might be coordinated with both colleges enjoying the best features of each.

However it is not in the discussion of whether the schools would profit economically and acquire more efficient facilities that the truly cultured person is interested. He wants to know whether co-education does to young men and women as he individuals. Would such a set-up make them happier within themselves? Would co-education make them more fit to face the shock and pain of life?

A school community composed of both men and women is certainly a little closer to reality than a highly concentrated community of 1700 young women or of 3,000 young men, one hundred and fifty miles apart.

If the girl tries to make an adjustment to the community of women, she usually does so with some frustration. If she completes the adjustment, she is forced to look on the world as a women-made world in which the reality it is not. Further, for the greater part of eight months, her contacts with the "normal" world as she has known it must be almost entirely artificial. Week-end letters and memories, especially if the boyfriend happens not to be at Gainesville or nearby. Surely no adult can believe that such a situation contributes to e well-rounded education.

Why then is Florida to be the last state in the Union to sanction state co-educational institutions." Is it for traditional reasons? Unless the old f—— goodjoe belief results than the new, they usually go quickly. And have we any statistics to prove that Florida's present system produces greater men and women than the system of state co-education as endorsed in other states? At a glance we would say few of Florida's graduates have received distinction in the world at large.

Since we have exhausted all the arguments we know we see no reason why steps are not taken towards making the two institutions co-educational. If there be better arguments against co-education, we open the Flambeau editorial columns to the publication of any replies.

Call to Arms Sounded for Peace Cause

Stewart Wright will come to this campus Sunday for the purpose of carrying on the Emergency Peace Campaign.

The campaign opened last April with a radio address of Kirby Page, internationally famous author, lecturer, and peace worker, explaining the drastic need of stopping the swift rush of nations toward a great war that will break out within two or three years.

With governments following policies of nationalism, which transform the economic competition of privats traders and financiers into quarrels among governments, Page says the only way to avert war is to change governmental policies. Present governmental policies cannot be changed until the popular ideas and emotions of the masses are changed.

The Emergency Peace Campaign was brought into being for the purpose of helping to keep the United States out of war and to promote world peace.

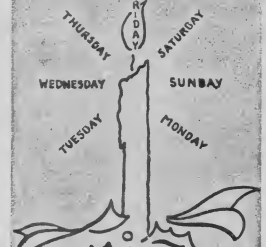
It seeks to unite into one dynamic movement all organizations and individuals who are determined not to approve of or participate in war. Outstanding teams of speakers have been sent out to colleges and cities throughout the United States. And among the distinguished campaign leaders of National Sponsors of the campaign is Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, chairman.

Although some interest was aroused last spring in the movement of the Veterans of Future Wars and the Gold-Star Mothers, there has never been a widespread but united body of student opinion against war on this campus. It is only hoped Mr. Wright can make students see the necessity of their contributing some of their time and efforts to the Emergency Peace Campaign.

We close on the note Kirby Page sounded at the end of his radio address, "Because the threat of war is so great," he said, "there is no time to be lost. Many people must lay down their present tasks, important as they are, and throw themselves into this great struggle for peace. They must give themselves with the same sacrificial devotion with which millions in 1914-1918 gave themselves for war."

Five Among The Worthwhile

This week the activities of five campus organizations demand our attention—five organizations which have the right to be called more than "just another club."



About this time last year the Young Women's Christian association, with the help of city officials, began the operation of a playground for Tallahassee's underprivileged children. In less than a year this first playground has become five playgrounds, two for negro children, with the splendid planning of Florida State students. Not only is this a fine example of what the Y. W. C. A. can do as a social institution, but it depicts a beginning here of student participation in civic responsibilities.

Last night the college symphony orchestra concluded its first concert of the year. This week at the little theater the theater enthusiasts played the season's second bill—a set of one-act plays, second performance for both groups this year. In all three cases student skill has been at a high level of proficiency, the only tangible evidence of the many weeks of practice and preparation which faculty members and students alike put into the projects that an audience might enjoy two or three hours of entertainment.

Sunday night a group of about fifty girls will appear upon the stage of the college auditorium. They will present a glee club concert for a large audience of visitors from all of Florida and Southern Georgia. Eminent musical critics have praised the excellence of performance, the glee club concerts have become semi-annual features of this campus.

College organizations achieving the mature level and skill and planning which are being displayed by these five student groups have a place in the life of the campus which can never be challenged by other campus organizations that do not give in an equal degree to the cultural life of this institution.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Glazier

This Week

Drama of Empire Comes to an End

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE
Newspaper Enterprise Association

The final chapter in the drama of an empire ending with the abdication of Edward VIII as king of Great Britain.

Albert, Duke of York, the king's younger brother, will succeed to the throne as George VI.

Rather than give up the American woman who awaits him in Cannes, France, balked by state and church in his desire for a morganatic marriage, Edward sent the announcement of his abdication to the house of parliament Thursday as the best solution to the crisis.

* * *

The issue has been a simple one: whether, Edward, as king, should marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Spencer Simpson, Baltimore divorcee. To the king the issue was one of his right, man fashion; to marry the woman of his choice. To the government in the dominions, and millions of his subjects it was a constitutional issue: must the king abide by the constitution which requires that he follow the advice of his ministers, or may he ignore it when it seems best good to him?

In the face of relentless pressure from Archbishop of Canterbury Baldwin and his cabinet, the Church of England, and the dominion governments, all of whom opposed the marriage, Edward was left with two choices: (1) to yield to the "advice" of his ministers and give up Mrs. Simpson or (2) renounce the throne. He chose the second course of action. The authority of the cabinet and the constitution has been upheld but at the cost to Britain of its most-loved ruler in modern times.

* * *

This is undoubtedly true. If Edward had renounced his love there was almost no possibility for his future happiness. His relations with Baldwin, never very good, would have henceforth been a strain and an ordeal. He had already remarked that in Parliament he felt as if he were "surrounded by enemies." He would have been aware that throughout the empire his every action, private and public, was being watched critically by those who had lost faith in his ability to do the right thing. He would never be truly free from the emotional and political crisis he had caused in England, leading to discussion among his people end an irreparable loss of dignity and stability for the crown.

* * *

The marriage of Edward to Mrs. Simpson will not take place before April 27, 1937, unless a special order making her divorce from Mr. Ernest Simpson absolute is handed under the British law. As Edward has relinquished all his title, they will then

Continued on page seven

College Life is Rated

Criticizes Campus Opinion, Believing Greatest Significance of Higher Education Lies In Intellectual Pursuits

CATHRYN LOOMIS WAYMAN

As an old timer who has come back to do graduate work, I was asked by a professor, "What is the greatest need on the campus today, as you see it?"

As a person interested in P.S. C.W., I feel it is important to speak and be heard, although not one person who hears may agree with me.

I read in a recent Flambeau, various writings of students on the value of college life as an experience. The concensus of the views expressed seems to be that college life offers the girl a splendid opportunity for learning to get along with other people; she learns to adjust herself to group living and to democratic group viewpoint, et cetra.

As I read the articles I said, "What do you think is the most important thing a person should acquires from college which she wouldn't be able to get anywhere else?" I should certainly not agree with the concensus of opinion. All the worthwhile something my two small future colleges daughters will acquire in four years spent in college is to adjust themselves to a less cenered way of living by eating in common, living together, dating together, etc., then I do not intend to send them to college. I should not feel it worth the money, nor of much intrinsic value either.

The writers referred to is all right as far as it goes. But it is not enough, because it is not something which they wouldn't be able to set anywhere else." I think there are several places where she could get that experience even better than at college. My conception of what the word college means is "a society of scholars or friends of learning incorporated for study or instruction by the higher branches of knowledge."

So, I think P. S. C. W. (or any college or university) should have something to give to the friend of learning which she cannot get elsewhere than at school. That something must be higher than public relations and social life as regards eating together or the number of cuts a semester.

That something is especially important today, for who will deny that it is necessary enforce a cultural epoch in which the colleges and universities are expected to furnish intellectual leadership. Intellectual pursuits, then, must be that "something" which the college girl obtains at college which she can't get anywhere else, she cannot get anywhere else.

This elevating of public relations and social life to a rung above intellectual pursuits offers an opportunity for complete criticism by students. How can a student walk into our noble library without sinning? The half of knowledge is to know where to find information. But the whole knowledge, and to catch up with it! Introduction of courses which widen the horizon until it is lost indefinitely, which give a vision never to be forgotten—that is the something no other place but a college can adequately give.

Science, philosophy, religion should be pursued together in order to be best appreciated. Athletics are not of equal importance. Philosophy will at least help the student discover what is of value and what is of less value.

College life should increase the territory of knowledge, should increase the territory of which men have understanding or reason, as a faculty of the mind. For such intellectual pursuits the college needs a faculty which can distinguish knowledge from opinion. This does not means their powers of suggestiveness would be restricted. Rather they would strive at a

Continued on page six

Collegiate Comebacks

After having been cooped up here for high ono for four months with their heads in the Academic clouds, we hope our dear sisters don't take the holidays to undo all the good work that's been done on them during said month. In other words, a little restraint, girls.

* * *

Just because you're rooming with a girl, it isn't good form to cast off upon her in the guise of a Christmas present the knitted scarf Grandma sent you last Christmas. On second thought, maybe she'd just as soon have it as the beauty you struck over at the Dem school recently.

* * *

Human felines, like a certain house chairman in upperclassman dormitory, convince us that birth-control was introduced into this old world about twenty years too late. We know a lot of beautiful girls who can get by being snippy, and we know a lot of homely girls who can get by being sweet, but when you're snippy and homely—how can you get by? Strange how a little authority affects small minds!

* * *

From the Colgate Banner comes the following:

The freshman stood on the burning deck,
But so far as I could learn,
She stood with self-possession
She was too green to burn.

* * *

The Lass-O heartily approves of Robert E. Sione's idea that theme papers are often produced when students are allowed to use a typewriter during an examination. They believe the student is able to transmit to his paper his thoughts at a speed more nearly approximating the mind processes. All we can say is, at our speed per hour on a typewriting speed, we'd hate to have our exam speed, sharpened by professional cramming, cramped by the use of a typewriter.

* * *

Professor Tunney L. Davis of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology recently acquired a fifteenth Chinese book on alchemy. The volume, entitled, "Chin Tan Ta Yao" was printed in 1617 A. D. If he is interested in having any of his students peruse this book, he might have it censored, just to provide the proper motivation.

* * *

To the tried and true English majors we dedicate Campus poet Bill Shelly:

Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, Keats,
Are writers whose poetic feats
Have won my scholars' admiration:
They do not claim my acclamation.

O being me not those lines by Gray,
Or shilly-shallying Shelly,
Take, O take those books away
Written by Machiavelli.

Who then? His fame grows ever faster,
Incomparable Did, the Master,
Whose brilliant words are quoted
Whenever verse is to be footnoted.

* * *

Life informs us that in Italy kissing is legal only in railroad stations. We'll bet Mussolini would be shocked if he were to stumble upon some of the daters behind Gilchrist of an evening.

* * *

Cactus and stubbed to the prime-heckler on campus who makes class in otherwise enjoyable classes. Gosh, but we wish our professors weren't such gentlemen. After all, there's a time and place for everything, and the latter rule applied to the right portion of the anatomy with sufficient gusto might cure this young lady's disagreeable malady.

* * *

From the Wooden Horse we take the following poem:

The birds do it . . .
The bees do it . . .
The fish do it . . .
Mama, can I take flying lessons too?

The Reader Writes

Opinions expressed herein are those of the writer or writers and are not necessarily those of the Flambeau staff. Students are invited to contribute to The Reader Writes.

THE MARCH OF CRIME

"Not Guilty" or stealing the freshman's wardrobe, perhaps, but acutely guilty of twisting the truth into a mass of falsifications were the two feature writers in last week's issue of The Rambeau, who so cleverly expressed their views on the action of student government in the search of recent date. I am not a member of the Judiciary, but in the vernacular of our illustrious critics, I was one of the "mutinous-like scarchers" who came along to "lend moral support" to the lark. Since I was on hand to enjoy the pleasures of the evening, I believe I am in a position to refute this satisfaction.

In the first place "Miss Not Guilty" maintains that we "were a trifle abrupt when no words wasted; authority does not rest lightly on our shoulders." Now I decide in the morning Emily Post herself, had she finger-painted the entire belongings of several hundred females, would scarcely have bothered to present an engraved search warrant to the sleepyheads who glowered at us as we entered their rooms. Possibly next time Dr. Conrad and the Leon county sheriff can be induced to come along to add constitutional authority to the occasion.

Our critic jests at the thoroughness of the job, saying, "I wonder if they'll make me get

Continued on page nine

Magazine Jottings

BY SARAH SEALEY
and
SARAH BELLE DAVIS

The Motorist Girds for War By William Cartwright

That familiar phrase of American history, "taxation without representation"—is behind the battle cry of the owners of America's 23,000,000 automobiles, as they take steps to prevent the diversion of their gasoline highway taxes for other purposes. $942,484,003 was the income motor vehicle and fuel receipts for the states in 1935, says Congressman William Cartwright in this month's Scribner's. Of this sum 15.86 cent has been spent for projects unrelated to roads. An official table showing the diversion of motor vehicle revenues states that Florida motorists are allowing 30.57 per cent of their taxes money to be spent for other purposes, a percentage much higher than the national average.

The Oklahoma congressman is pleading for the better roads which our highway money could build if it were used for that purpose. Only 879,000 miles of America's 3,062,000 miles of roads are improved, and more than half of these "improved" mileage is unsuited to modern traffic. Better highways would do much to stop the horrible accident costs, especially in view of the fact that highway engineers know how to construct roads that are almost accident proof. So is the job takes money.

Four states have already passed constitutional amendments to prevent diversion of highway funds. The author believes that many other states will soon follow suit.—(S. B.)

* * *

Wanted: More Neurotics By Louis E. Bisch

"Submit to being called a neurotic, for unless you belong to that splendid and unique class which is the salt of the earth. All the great things we know have come from neurotics. practicing psychiatrist presents his views on the December American Mercury the desirable features of neuroticism.

Neurotics, he says, are troubled by an excess of energy and emotion which they are unable to express as ordinary people do; as a result these inadequate forces, negative qualities such as self-consciousness, convictions of inferiority, defense mechanisms, phobias, and physical disturbances are likely to appear. Neurotics worry about not being like normal people. To the "normal" person is rather unenviable—terested only in material comforts, lazy, economically greedy, an "educated incompetent with intellectual indigestion." The author urges neurotics to consider their desire to be "normal" and that they recognize their own superiority.

"This world of ours does not need normals. What it sorely needs is more neurotics."—(S. B.)

* * *

Curbing The Chain Store By Wright Patman

Mr. Patman, the United States Senator who introduced the chainstore bill known later as the Robinson-Patman Act, explains in the November 28 Nation why he considered the act necessary and what he expects it to accomplish.

Upon investigation Mr. Patman learned that during 1933 only 2 per cent of the cash business of the food and grocery business was done by independent stores. Special discounts and benefits, special commissions and bonuses enabled the corporate chain stores to buy goods at about 30 per cent cheaper than the independent merchants. Mr. Patman saw death for the independent merchant unless something was done immediately.

In July 1935 he introduced his chain-store bill. After being modified somewhat and consolidated with provisions of various other bills introduced, it was passed in June 1936. The bill amended the Clayton Act of 1914 by defining unlawful price discriminations and supplementing the act by forbidding brokerage allowances except for services actually performed in connection with delivery and other service allowances, unless made available to purchasers on proportionately equal terms. It cannot be called profit-fixing, for it allows different prices to competitive purchasers if the one manufacturer which such differences are based upon differences in the cost of manufacture, sale or delivery.

Mr. Patman hopes to introduce a bill in the next session of congress which will prevent a manufacturer from operating a retail business and a retail industry from engaging in manufacturing.—(S. B.)

* * *

Jews In Poland By Abraham G. Duker

Jews are not wanted in Poland. Ten per cent of the little country's population is Jewish, although half a million Jews have left there since the war. During the past few months, according to an article published in the November issue of Current History, the pro-government press and the reactionary newspapers have been engaged in heated debates as to the proper method of ousting this unwanted tenper cent.

The pro-government press has no love for realism and humane treatment. It would not drive away the Jews until the latter have some place to go. On the other hand the reactionaries, the powerful Endek Party of Poland, is fighting to continue the boycott now existing against the Jews. A boycott which has already crushed the Jew physically and morally. It has been wholeheartedly supported by the national government and by a majority of the populace. Purchasing from Jews are photographed, identified and have their names published in the roll of dishonor in the local press. Peasants who get their produce to Jews are beaten.—(S. B.)

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

By LAURA STRUNK LESLIE
Alumnae Secretary

Inside College Gates

BY FRANCES WATERHOUSE

Two graduates of Florida State college, Alice Bates Wyatt and Freddie Koester, both of Tallahassee, with four fellow-travelers will soon make an extended trip by automobile through Central and South America. The tour, starting from Tallahassee Dec 28, will last approximately one year and will cover 40,000 miles. It is being made with the cooperation of the Pan American Union and the department of American research.

* * *

Dalies Frans, concert pianist, was presented here last Friday night under the auspices of the Artist Series committee. His program contained selections by Scarlatti, Bach, Brahms, Chopin, Debussy, and Litz.

* * *

A three-passenger sailboat has been added to the equipment at Camp Flastacowo for the use of the students. Lessons and tests for prospective sailors have been arranged.

* * *

Dr. Edward Conradi has been invited by the president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to speak on the federation's radio program to be broadcast from Washington, D C., in the spring

* * * *

The debating club under the direction of Phil Asher, Orlando, chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Thompson, instructor in speech, is planning a debate with a team from Georgia State College for Women in the latter part of March. If possible, a debate with the University of Florida will be arranged for April. Between these inter-collegiate contests, the club is holding freshmen-upperclassmen debates

* * *

Dr C. P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology at Florida State, heard last week that his paper presented recently before the Florida Academy of Sciences has been selected as worthy of consideration for an award. Dr. Heinlein's paper, "Some Consequences of Pseudo-Mathematics in Quasi-Measurements in Psychometrics, Education, and the Social Sciences" scored numbers over technical investigators in the field.

* * *

Dr. Jennie Tilt, professor of physiological chemistry and nutrition at Florida State was elected vice-president of the Florida Academy of Science at its annual meeting held in DeLand early in November.

* * *

The students studying advanced botany here made an all-day field trip with Dr John K. Small, world famous botanist Dr Herman Kurz, head of the botany department, and Dr. Robert and Dr. St. John of Floral City around the Apalachicola. The party found two species that had never before been reported found in Florida. Dr Small, head curator emeritus of the museums and herbarium of the New York Botanical Gardens, is a specialist on the flora of southern United States.

* * *

Owen F. Sellers, assistant professor in cello at Florida, was guest artist with the Jacksonville Federal symphony orchestra in a concert given at the Jacksonville Woman's club last month.

Warren Submits Plans To Replace Deficient In Chaires Loan Fund

Plans for raising funds to replace a deficit of $100 in the Anna Chaires loan fund have just been announced by Miss Katherine Warren, chairman of an alumnae committee for that work.

The twenty-one alumnae clubs will be asked to raise $3.00 each, and the Tallahassee alumnae group will raise the remaining $37.00 Miss Warren said.

During the Thanksgiving festivities a candy sale at the Odd and Even demonstrations and the sale of peanuts at the Odd-Even games netted the Tallahassee group $14.00. A contribution of $5.00 was made by Miss Rowena Longmire, making the total amount already raised by the Tallahassee alumnae $19.00. The remaining $16.00 will be raised this spring by a flower sale at Easter and Mother's day, and through a benefit picture show.

Members of Miss Warren's committee include Miss Ruth Schornherst, Mrs. Sora Embry Coulter, and Miss Sallie Nicholson. Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwaite and Miss Charlotte Stevens assisted in selling the candy at the demonstrations, while members of the sophomore council sold the peanuts at the athletic games.

Alumnae to Have Birthday Party

The Alumnae association is having a birthday party! The date is January 1, 1937.

The purpose is to raise $1,000 for the Student-Alumnae building.

And here's the plan. Each alumna is requested to send in to the alumnae office before January 1, 1937, as many pennies (or it can be in higher amounts) as she is years old, or if she wishes any amount over her age. All individual amounts will be kept secret!

Let's stage a big party and start the Student-Alumnae building fund going up!

Many Alumnae Write Office

News of Graduates Comes From Every Quarter Of the Country

During the past month alumnae from all sections of the country have written the alumnae office news about themselves and their friends

Addah Johnson (Mrs. E. A. Ramsey) '20 of 817 Fleming St., Key West, writes: "I have two daughters, ages ten and twelve. I have been teaching in the high school here for several years, and hope to continue. I made a brief visit at the college in July and had it not been for 'dear old Miss Mamie Andrews' I would have felt almost like a stranger. My delight and enthusiasm over the marvelous improvements, buildings, etc., were boundless. Was I proud of F S C W ! I wanted to shout its glories to the world. I hope we get our student building soon and I'll be glad to do anything I can here toward it."

Evelyn McMullen (Mrs. W. C. Hinsey) '22 has a daughter, Jean Elinor, age ten. Mrs. Hinsey is a primary teacher and music supervisor in Largo.

Alvirda Etta Forester is now Mrs. Greene S. Johnston III. She is district supervisor of historical records and state archives surveys. Her address is 108 West Florence drive, Marianna.

Mary Newman '33 is private secretary for a Tallahassee law firm. Her address is 448 West Gaines street

Catherine Fuller '38 is a sixth grade teacher in the Gainesville school system.

Mildred O'Neal McCoy '33 is teaching mathematics, Latin, and English in the high school at Hahira, Ga

Mary Clare Kimbell '35 is a third grade teacher in the Caroline Brevard school at Tallahassee

Ella Hammond (Mrs. A. L. Middleton) '28 of Hawthorne is a primary teacher in Gainesville.

Mary Rivera Holt '27 is home economics teacher at Seabreeze high school, Daytona Beach.

Martha Virginia Farrish '33 is district director of the board of social welfare in Live Oak.

Billie Faxon is laboratory technician at the Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami. Her address is 569 Northwest Forty-first street.

Agnes Irene Reedy '36 writes that she is teaching part of the third and fourth grades in the Myrtle Grove school near Pensacola. Her address is Rt. 2. Box 405.

Natalie Lamb '25 is history teacher in Seabreeze high school, Daytona Beach.

Graca Head '31 is teaching science and geography in the Plant City junior high school.

Clara Williams '33 is teaching Latin and English in Central high school, Winchester, Tenn.

Doris McKenzie '36 is a first year medical student at Washington University, Medical Division, St Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Bertha C. Crawford '33 is principal of the F. K. Yonke school, Pensacola.

Margery Pierpont '23 is assistant librarian at Skidmore college, Saratoga Springs, New York.

Claire Weimar is now living at 10(East Seventeenth street, New York city.

Sarah Lou Hammond '32 is teaching the first grade in the Pensacola school system. Her address is 1621 North Nineteenth avenue, Pensacola.

Amy Gertrude Jones '32 is engaged in secretarial work in San Diego, Calif.

Clementine Newman '32 is counsellor in Wales hall, Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.

Margaret McDonald is chief dietitian at St. Lukes hospital, Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Essie Long Duncan '11 writes: "I am a graduate of 1911. I have been married twenty-three years. I have two sons, one of whom is a junior in the electrical engineering department at the University of Florida. My other son is a freshman at Tavares high school. I am teaching Latin in Tavares high school. I think your plan fine"

Evelyn L'Abbe is medical technologist in Pensacola. Her address is 1113 East Gonzales street.

Mrs. May F. Bingham of Miami writes: "Since graduating from F.S.C.W. I have been teaching in the Ponce de Leon high school at Coral Gables. I have attended two summer sessions at the University of Miami since then. This is my sixteenth year of teaching in Dade county, and my eleventh year in my present position. I have taught in all, twenty-seve years: have brought up three children and educated them; have six grand children, and one great granddaughter; and still am going strong, as I have not missed a day of school, on account of illness, in the sixteen years I have been in Florida."

Mamie Lila Montgomery '29 is a second grade teacher in the Jasper school system.

Elizabeth Lightsey is teaching second grade in the Foley school.

Nell Ward Mayes is teaching the fourth grade in Coral Gables. Her address is 1831 Northwest Seventh street.

Nellie Mae Roberts '33 is instructor of nurses in the Tampa Municipal hospital.

Janice Brill '36 is teaching in the Earlington Heights school of Miami.

Elizabeth Beatty (Mrs. Jerome Connor) '34 writes: "I have been in Dallas, Texas a year. I have a daughter, Carol Ann, born March 3, 1936." Her address is 3126 Rosedale avenue, Dallas.

Four New Life Members Pay In Past Month

Bassett, Lamb, Goodbread And Reese Listed On Record

According to the alumnae records there were four new life members recorded this month. The new members are: Alma Bassett (Mrs. Coke Flannagan) '21 and Lucille Reese (Mrs. W. C. Roberts) '25, both of New York City; Thelma Goodbread (Mrs. Pat Flanagan) '30 of Tampa, and Natalia Lamb '25 of Daytona Beach.

First and second payments on life memberships were made this month by Marlou L. Stine, '21 of Newark, New Jersey, and Mary Hyatt (Mrs. Russell McCaughan) '28 of Gainesville, respectively.

Annual memberships were paid by: Margaret McDonald '33, Richmond, Virginia; Ruth Reyonlds '08, New York City; Ruth McAnulty '36, Panama City; Elisabeth Beatty (Mrs. Jerome A. Connor) '34, Dallas, Texas; Evelyn Claire Gates (Mrs. Charles Edwin Rickards) '25, Jacksonville; Lillian Brunner (Mrs. Pallas Gunn) '24, Lake Wales, Mamie L. Montgomery '29, Jasper; May Gradick (Mrs. A. M. Horner) '21, Crescent City.

Evelyn L'Abbe '35, Pensacola; Mrs. Bertha C. Crawford '33, Pensacola; Doris McKenzie '36 (for membership 1937-38), St. Louis, Mo.; Nellie E. Cooke '34, Jacksonville; Mary Burke (Mrs. Phil Harris) '25, De Funiak Springs; Dr. Vergine Scherer (Mrs. Hoke Wammock) '32, Elbins Park, Pa.; Viola Turvaville (Mrs. J. D. Stephens) '28, Balboa, Canal Zone; Mrs. Essie Long Duncan '11, Tavares.

Ellen Anderson '30, Plant City; Edith McCollum '27, New York City; Irene F. Reed '28, Orlando; Addah Johnson (Mrs. E. A. Ramsey) '20, Key West; Nell Ward Mayes '35, Miami; Grace Head '31, Plant City; Clara Williams '33, Winchester, Tenn.; Mrs. Genie Mathewson McCarty '33; Henrietta Graham '31, Roberta Reid, Annie Lane Call '29, Helen Whitten '34, and Mrs. Lois Ostlund '34, all of Miami.

Prominent Citizens Approve Alumnae's Plan for Building

Association Will Hold State Campaign for Funds To Build Headquarters for Activities Of Students and Graduates

Congratulatory letters from prominent leaders of this state expressing their interest and approval of plans for a student-alumnae building at Florida State College for Women have just been received here.

Governor David Sholtz, as well as United States Senator Claude Pepper, and Colin English, newly elected state superintendent of public instruction; George H. Baldwin, chairman of the Board of Control; Attorney General Cary D. Landis and others have shown their interest in the project in letters addressed to Mrs. E. L. Beeson, president of the college alumnae association, which is undertaking the project.

The building, which would serve as campus headquarters for student and alumnae activities, would cost approximately $200,000, planned on the same scale as other campus buildings, and would also include housing facilities for the visiting alumnae. A finance committee of the alumnae association is now at work on plans for raising the necessary funds. Subcommittees to assist in raising funds throughout Florida will be appointed soon.

State officials voicing their approval of the student-alumnae building project and their statements in part include:

Governor Dave Sholtz, who says: "I believe this is the most worthy undertaking for the alumnae association and assure you you will have my hearty cooperation in bringing it properly before the people. The splendid young women attending this institution are entitled to the proper and necessary accommodations, and I am willing to do my part to bring it about."

Colin D. English, state superintendent-elect of public instruction: "I have the feeling that a building of this kind would contribute a great deal toward ... ing the spirit of an institution ... higher learning and help to integrate and extend its influence throughout the state. I am very much in favor of securing such a building and if there is anything I can do to assist please let me know."

George H. Baldwin, chairman of the Board of Control: "There is no question of doubt that such a building a sproposed is very badly needed by the State College . . . if through the activity of the alumnae the student-alumnae building could be in some way constructed it would be a most appropriate and greatly needed addition to our equipment . . . if there is any way that we can assist in your plans, please call upon us freely."

Senator Claude Pepper: "Any plan, such as yours, which has for its purpose the improvement of such facilities is deserving and I want to commend the alumnae association for the stand it has taken . . . I shall be glad to cooperate in this splendid endeavor."

J. T. Diamond, secretary of the Board of Control: "In my opinion a student-alumnae building on the campus of the Florida State College is badly needed . . . it can be of great service to the student body and the faculty of the institution in many ways . . . I trust your organization will be successful in its undertaking."

State Treasurer W. V. Knott: "I am of the opinion that this project is well worth the efforts of the alumnae association and wish to assure you at this time of my support in accomplishing this for the college students."

J. W. Norman, dean o fthe College of Education, University of Florida: "It is my opinion that a student-alumnae building is a wonderful asset to any institution . . . I hope you will be successful in your venture."

E. F. Owen, Jr., secretary of the Florida League of Municipalities: "I am indeed glad to know that the alumnae association of the Florida State College for Women is interested in providing a student-alumnae building on the campus at Tallahassee . . . It is my understanding that our state college has one of the biggest enrollments of any women's school in the United States and certainly its campus facilities should be up-to-date in every respect."

Thomas W. Bryant, member of the Board of Control: "I think this is the most worthwhile and commendable purpose for the alumnae activity . . I congratulate your association on this undertaking . . . certainly the objective is most commendable and worthy of the loyal support of all good citizens."

W. S. Cawthon, state superintendent of public instruction: "There is no project that is more deserving of the consideration of the Florida citizens than that of providing a center for all student organizations on the campus and headquarters for the alumnae association."

R. A. Gray, secretary of state: "I am in hearty accord with this idea . . . the need for and the usefulness of such a building is obvious."

Cary D. Landis, attorney general: "Allow me to congratulate the alumnae association upon its high purpose of securing funds for the erection of a student-alumnae building at the college . . . unquestionably such a building is badly needed . . . this is a very worthy object indeed, and I trust that your association may have every success in carrying it out to a conclusion."

Alumna Plans Wedding Soon

Graduate of Gainesville Marries Helen Smith Here Christmas

The engagement of Helen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith of Tallahassee, to Joe Hall, son of J. C. Hall of Dunedin, has been announced. The wedding will be an event of the holiday season.

Miss Smith is a graduate of Leon high school, and received an A.B. degree from Florida State College for Women in 1930. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, education honor society. For the past three years she has been a member of the high school faculty and at present is the school librarian.

Mr. Hall is a graduate of the University of Florida, where he played a prominent part in athletics and was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity. At present he is assisting in working out the recommendations of the Florida School Code Commission.

New York Alum Branch Chooses. Holtslaw For President at Meeting

Florance Holstlaw (Mrs. Benno Bronnum) was elected president of the New York branch of the F.S.C.W. Alumnae association at a recent meeting of the organization.

Other officers chosen are: Alma Bassett Flannagan, vice-president; Sylvia Carlson, secretary; Gladys McDonald Hall, assistant secretary; Lucille Reece Roberts, treasurer; and Claire Heidleberg Kipperman, assistant treasurer.

During the meeting the matter of the Student-Alumnae building was discussed, and each member was urged to send in her alumnae dues to aid in the campaign for funds.

F.S.C.W. alumnae in New York interested in affiliating with the New York club are requested to get in touch with Mrs. Bronnum whose address is 71 Lexington avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

Students Have Chance To Aid Building Plan

Fifty Girls to Address Home Communities About Project

Students of Florida State College for Women will have a prominent share in plans to secure the student-alumnae building here. Approximately fifty students have been asked to address clubs and groups in their home communities during the Christmas holidays on this project in order that the entire state may become acquainted with plans.

Students from Florida cities asked to speak on the student-alumnae building are as follows:

Callahan, Miss Marie Spurlock; Cocoa, Miss Betty Sweet Smith; Crescent City, Miss Mary Ola Reynolds; Alachua, Miss Mary Enneis; Arcadia, Miss Jean Treadwell; Bartow, Miss Evelyn Mae Anderson; Bradenton, Miss Annawilda Norris; Brooksville, Miss Arline Lockhart; Daytona Beach, Miss Eleanor Williams; Eustis, Miss Sarah Hethcox; Fort Lauderdale, Miss Katherine Rawls; Fort Pierce, Miss Marjorie Horton; Gainesville, Miss Mary Virginia Dell; Havana, Miss Little Alma Lester;

Jacksonville, Miss Priscilla Adams, Miss Ann Knight, Miss Mary Noble, Miss Betty Peck, Miss Eileen Robinson, Miss Margaret Stout; Kissimmee, Miss Katherine Autrey, Lake City, Miss Mary Phillips Chalker; Leesburg, Miss Margaret Ware; Live Oak, Miss Helen Bixler; Panama City, Miss Louise Lingo; West Palm Beach, Miss Josephine Binion, Miss Catherine McGary; Sarasota, Miss Lutrelle Patterson; Sanford, Miss Marjorie Tillis; St. Petersburg, Miss Pearle Shepard; St. Cloud, Miss Marian Conn; St. Augustine, Miss Sallie Bert Nuzum; Tavares, Miss Constance Williams; Tampa, Miss Jean Lykes, Miss Mary Jeanne McKay, Miss Peggy McMichael, Miss Annie Maggio, Miss Alice Sierra; Tallahassee, Miss Louise Gehan, Miss Elizabeth Harrison, Miss Frances Lewis; Mulberry, Miss Mary Elizabeth Dougherty; Monticello, Miss Bunny Turnbull; Milton, Miss Nell Colvin; Mallson, Miss Lila Parramore; Manatee, Miss Julia Vanderipe; Marianna, Miss Bernice Gliver; Miami, Miss Janice Borton, Miss Winifred Ewart, Miss Betty Ostlund, Miss Marjorie Raulerson; New Smyrna, Miss Becky Ashton; Orlando, Miss Phil Asher, Miss Sarah Lewis; Quincy, Miss Martha Godard; Panama City, Miss Louise Lingo; Pensacola, Miss Petrea Cabaniss, Miss Emma Elebash; Perry, Miss Mollie Scales.

Other appointments will be announced later.

Groveland Woman's Club Contributes

The first gift toward the student - alumnae building from a state organization reached the alumnae office the latter part of last month. The donor was the Woman's club of Groveland, and the contribution was to the amount of $5.00.

The first individual contributing to the building was Miss Rowena Longmire, of the college faculty, who gave $10.00.

Alumnae Asked For Nominees

Considerations for Honor Award Will Be Made By Committee

Nominations of alumnae for the alumnae award designed to honor graduates of Florida State College for Women who bring distinction to themselves and to the college by notable achievement are now being requested by Mrs. Edgar Cecil Nilson (Dorothy Johnson '19), chairman of the alumnae award committee.

According to Mrs. Nilson, any alumna may make a nomination, such nomination to be accompanied by a complete history of the post graduate attainments of the nominee. All nominations should be mailed to Mrs. Nilson, Box 1066, Orlando, Florida.

The alumnae award of honor is in the form of a handsome medallion with appropriate insignia. The awards will be presented during the May commencement week. First awards of honor were presented last May to seven graduates of Florida State College for Women.

In connection with the announcement from Mrs. Nilson in regard to nominations for the awards for this year is the publishing this week by the college of an attractive bulletin containing features of the first presentation of the awards of honor last May. The bulletin which will be mailed alumnae next week includes full size pictures of both sides of the alumnae medallion; details of the plan of the award of honor; the address, "Woman's Changing Face," given by Dr. Mildred Christian, of Newcomb college, at the presentation ceremony; and pictures and brief histories of the alumnae awarded the medallions.

Material for the bulletin was compiled by Mrs. Cecil Jenkins Beeson, president of the Alumnae association.

Plans for FSCW Week Throughout the State Are Nearly Completed

Plans for F. S. C. W. week, March 1-6, 1937, are rapidly progressing, and practically all details will be completed before the college closes for the Christmas holidays, according to Miss Anna Mae Tracy, chairman of the faculty committee in cooperation with the alumnae.

Approximately seventy-five organizations in Florida, including the F. S. C. W. alumnae clubs, have filed requests for speakers during F. S. C. W. week.

Fifty Chosen To Serve For Finance Group

Alumnae President Makes State Committee Appointments

Appointment of more than fifty alumnae to serve on a state alumnae finance committee has just been made by Mrs. E. L. Beeson Groveland, alumnae president, the college alumnae office announced today.

Members of the state alumnae finance committee will work in connection with the general finance committee of seven members, headed by Mrs. R. H. Leslie alumnae secretary, which is endeavoring to secure fund for a Student-Alumnae building on the campus of Florida State College for Women.

Announcement was also made today of the appointment of a student committee which will work with members of the state alumnae finance committee during the Christmas holidays in presenting the need of a Student-Alumnae building before the citizens of Florida.

Alumnae appointed to the state finance committee include: Miss Emily Jackson, Apopka; Mrs Frank Morgan, Arcadia; Miss Hettie Hundertmark, Avon Park Mrs. Basil Kenney, Blountstown Mrs Gene Pilcher, Crestview Miss Julia Norfleet, Bradenton, Miss Dorothy McKethan, Brooksville; Miss Louise Robertson Chattahoochee; Mrs. Glin Shivers, Chipley; Miss Doris Lee Clearwater: Mrs. May Gradick Horner, Crescent City; Miss Mary Holt, Daytona Beach; Miss Maude Saunders, DeFuniak Springs; Miss Dempsie Brewster, DeLand; Mrs Howard G. Gamble, Eustis; Miss Elizabeth Allan, Fernandina; Miss Mildred Stevens, Ft. Lauderdale; Mrs. V. G. Widerquist, Ft Myers; Mrs. Edwin Colean, Ft. Pierce.

Miss Winifred Metcalfe, Gainesville; Mrs. E. D. Patterson, Graceville; Miss Mildred Coker, Haines City; Mrs. Dee Weatherly, Havana; Miss Elinor Payne, Homestead; Miss Nancy Lutz, Jacksonville; Miss Mamie L. Montgomery Jasper; Mrs. E. A. Ramsey, Key West; Miss Eleanor Rosen, Kissimmee; Mrs. Selwyn Chalker Lake City; Miss Marion Brantley Lakeland; Miss Mary Alice Lyle Lake Wales; Miss Virginia Ware Leesburg; Miss Pearl Fleet, Live Oak; Miss Agnes Goss, Madison; Mrs Earl Walker, Manatee; Miss Charlotte Chase, Miami.

Miss Verna Will Lundy, Milton; Miss Frances Parks, Monticello, Miss Marjorie Whiteside, New Smyrna; Mrs. Rex Todd Withers, Ocala; Miss Emalene Rankin, Orlando; Miss Louise Bourgess, Palmetto; Miss Lois Rigell, Panama City; Mrs. William Gunn, Pensacola; Mrs. Richard Dowdell, Plant City; Miss Ruth Jelks, Pompano; Mrs. Kenneth MacGowan, Quincy; Miss Emilia Lingle, Sanford; Mrs Andrew Miller, Sarasota; Mrs. Mona Alderman Canova Starke; Mrs. Frances Hall Luflar, St. Petersburg; Mrs. George Lewis, Tallahassee; Mrs. Lucie K. Miller, Tavares; Miss Lucy Lang, Trenton; Miss Effie Pettit, Waldo; Miss Caroline Oliver, West Palm Beach; Mrs. Laurie Rutland, Williston; Miss Alice Carroll, Winter Haven; Miss Emily Carleton, Winter Park.

Other appointments will be made within the next week.
still far in the lead.

King Carnival Holds Court; Queen Dignity Is Outlawed

AAUW Pours Fourth Wealth of Hidden Entertaining Possibilities in Gay Abandon Amidst Pouring Confetti Showers

King Carnival and members of his court took over the gym last Saturday night and cavorted joyfully with a royal loss of dignity. Beneath floating streamers and showers of confetti, faculty members made merry while students tooted whistles and popped balloons in gay abandon. The spirit of the carnival reigned! And all because members of the A. A. U. W. decided to show themselves in their lightest, gayest, most undignified moods. Hitherto hidden entertaining possibilities blossomed forth in the dignitaries of the class room.

What serious-minded botany student would have expected to see her professor grinding an organ, playing a harmonica, and leading a monkey around on a string simultaneously? Who would have guessed that her accounting instructor would frighten innocent children in a horrible ghost den? And how many gym majors formerly realized that a prospective Mickey Mouse was directing their activities? Yet Dr. Harman Kurz, Miss Mary Richey, and Miss "Katie" Montgomery did just that, ably aided by Mr. Gwen Sellers (as the monkey), Dr. Ralph Bellamy as a gay young blade of the '90's, Miss Ruth Schornherst as the bearded lady, Miss Ezda May Deviney and Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews in original costumes, and other faculty members in various ingenious disguises.

Fortunes were told by Miss Dorothy Dishe, "palmist extraordinary," and Miss Anna Forbes Liddell, "reader of fate by cards." Food, fun, and frolic were the features of the evening, which became near-hilarious with the entrance of the Scotch kilties, directed in comb playing and high end fishing by Miss Etta Robertson. King Bellamy crowned Betty Ettlinger as Queen of the Carnival, elected by popular ballot, and the noise and fun went on.

"Fiesta, carnival of happiness . . . fiesta, carnival of joy." Faculty and students of Florida State College last Saturday night. King Carnival reigned!

Photographer of Flastacowo Opened Career in Hollywood

Anderson Recommends Camera Field as Providing Opportunity for Brilliant Future For Interested College Students

When he was thirteen years old Alan Anderson, who is now in charge of college photography for the Flastacowo, was bitten by the photography bug. He has been studying and practicing photography ever since.

Alan was born in California and lived in Hollywood for three years. With his brother, and the rest of the little neighborhood boys, he used to haunt the back lots of picture companies in hopes of finding discarded camera apparatus. The boys also raided garbage cans for old films that had been thrown away. When he was thirteen, Alan started using his mother's broom closets for "dark rooms," and from then, until he went into business on the paying basis, his mother knew no peace.

Several years after he became interested in photography, his family moved to Florida and Alan attended school at the University of Florida, keeping up his picture-taking art the entire time. When he was graduated five years ago, he established a studio in Gainesville and has been in business ever since. For the past four years he has taken the Seminole pictures, but this is the first girls school he has done. He expresses no preference in photographing girls or boys.

His personal hobby is commercial work. He is very much interested in advertising and intends to go into that field more extensively. He also enjoys special portrait work and would rather do that than any other kind of photography.

The field of photography, according to Alan, has a brilliant future for any college student interested enough to enter it. In the south, especially so, since it has not been developed to the extent it has in the East and other parts of the country.

As for the field of modeling, it cannot be rightfully called a professional one, said Alan, as the most gifted and beautiful models cannot last more than ten years.

If the model is clever, however, he says, she will make valuable contacts and get into something really worth while. He also added that modeling is not all the fun it seems but really hard work. There is more to be done than dressing up in pretty clothes and looking cute; one has to take into consideration the extremely long and inconvenient hours and the tasks to be performed during that time. He summed it up by saying that modeling was hard but interesting work, and a nice thing for a girl to do before she got married.

Dark clothes or solid colors, blues, blacks, and browns, all photograph better than others. The simpler they are, the better. However, if the subject is extremely dark Alan added, white would be very effective in a photograph.

This year freshmen seem to want to be photographed in their campus clothes while upperclassmen have to a large extent worn their "dress-up" clothes. A large percentage of freshmen and seniors have h their pictures taken for the annual than any other class with the sophomores making the poorest showing.

Alan talks to girls while he is taking their pictures in order to help them relax their faces. He says the most unaffected girls

Continued on page six

Andrews Gives Eighth Speech In Her Series

Discusses Openings For Women in Different Forms of Writing

The eighth lecture of a series being given by Dr. Elizabeth Andrews was devoted yesterday afternoon to the subject "Openings in Journalism."

"Journalism is the business of managing, editing, or writing for newspapers, magazines, trade Journals and similar publications," Dr. Andrews said. "There are more than twenty thousand such publications. Daily papers alone represent a circulation of over 44,000,000 copies."

Dr. Andrews said that there is a great variety of opinion even among journalists concerning opportunities for women in journalism although actual figures show that women occupy positions in every field of journalism. There is another considerable prejudice against them but the woman who can prove herself capable can make good in this field, she pointed out

Dr. Andrews reviewed the many and varied openings in journalism. Most beginners get their training in respect of when there are three kinds "cub reporting," regular assignments, and special assignments.

Another large group of journalists are the correspondents. Dr. Andrews said. There are small town correspondents who secure items of general interest for the larger metropolitan papers; the staff correspondents who are sent to report events of special interest in other cities; and the foreign correspondents who are stationed in foreign cities.

"Magazine work is another important field of journalism. This work is more highly specialized than the newspaper work." Dr. Andrews said. Each magazine has a regular staff which works much as does that of the newspaper Others' contributors are "free lance" writers who may be called on for special articles or who may submit articles which they think might be acceptable.

Syndicate work is a method of marketing one's work. The work is planned a number of months in advance and the same time and if a daily column is sold to twenty-five newspapers at two dollars a day, the syndicate received 40 per cent of each leaving $30 a day for the author.

"The other graduate is not a finished journalist." Dr. Andrews explained. "She must begin at the bottom and work hard. Work is not a natural gift, but it is a craft which can be learned if one has the willingness and persistence to succeed. Practical experience is indispensable. The best starting place is as a newspaper reporter.

"The reporter has many hardships. He must work without regard to the clock and he can never be sure of any free time for social engagements. He frequently must go without sleep for long periods and must sometimes even risk his life.

"The reporter, however, lives a life of great interest and variety. He is usually a participant in anything new that is going on. Hence he is always in touch with interesting things and this in itself makes the work pleasant. If he likes thrills he will have plenty of them, but the greatest attraction is the satisfaction of expressing thoughts, molding public opinion and doing creative writing.

Reporters earn from $25 to $60 a week. Star reporters earn from $5,000 to $15,000 a year. Editors are paid $2,500 to $4,000. Freelance writers are paid one to two cents a word and well-known writers are paid five cents a word.

Photographer Of Flastacowo Opened Career in Hollywood

Continued from page five

when faced with a camera will begin to pose. No matter what the cause, they cannot act away with it, so he tells them to get their minds off themselves. Some do take "naturals," he said, but the largest percentage are unnatural.

Alan has photographed Katherine Hatch, Bela Beckwith, Paul Weimer, Jimmy Mollison, Tom Dorsey, and many others.

THE SWEET SHOP
701 West Jefferson Opposite Gilchrist
Phone 1607 We Deliver

WEEK-END SPECIALS

—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
Hot Roast Pork Sandwich and Gravy, Tea or Coffee 15c

—SATURDAY ONLY—
Creamed Chipped Beef on Toast with Tea or Coffee 10c

—SUNDAY ONLY—
Apple Pie a la Mode 10c

President

Mary Miller, president of the senior class which will have its tra ditional Christmas dinner entertainment and carol program Wednesday night.

Florida Gals Want to Make General Fuss

Inhibited Desires Smolder In Hearts of Gentil Florida Flowers

BY VIRGINIA DAVIS

"What do you want to do most before leaving Florida, Miss State Collegette?" was the question asked the Flowers of Florida, and the answers revealed the inhibited desires they had been brooding upon for months. The results show just what they may be smouldering in the rebellious hearts of seemingly meek students.

A desire common to all seems to be to get up in the silence of the library, fire on one's chest and give the Tarzan call. One girl however is willing to compromise by merely shouting "Stop that man with a Fred Astaire act."

A weary chemist lifted her head at the question, and with a theatrical flourish let them on fire right here in the laboratory. Think of all the popping of test tubes and the sizzling of bottles, "Ha," she said, "the laboratory going up in smoke and tears—I'm sick of it all, sick of it." With a groan she buried her head in her hands.

"When I was a little girl" explained a junior, "Why, most of all I want to make a cigarette in the dining room after dinner." That is what I missed most when I came to Florida—being allowed to smoke at the table."

One girl has a desire hard to suppress at times, to throw dishes during a meal. "How will I ever use up my breakage fee?" she moaned. "I have been here three years and haven't even cracked a dish."

Another stands and looks with hypnotic fascination at the fire hose cases in the dormitories, "I am so conscious all my wild power to keep from turning one on and spraying a stream of water throughout the halls. Someday—"

One girl, on probation almost every time, wants to become a Phi Beta Kappa before she leaves this school, while another just wants to make her grades so she can graduate before departing from campus life.

Many of the freshmen have ambitions to enjoy a midnight feast like they have read about in college stories; one wants to be serenaded by a handsome Romeo from Gainesville, and another desires to sneak into the house at two o'clock in the morning via the window.

A number of girls would love to tell their teachers just what they think of them and their courses, while one girl wants to win an argument with her dean just one time.

One five foot soul wants to see the day dawn before she is thrust into the cold, cold world, when she will be guest at a beer party in Bryan hall. "I'm a senior now," she said "then better hurry up and have it."

A sophomore home economics major wants to give the vat of gravy in the kitchen a few stirs, and another wants the authorities to ask her advice on what courses

Peace Propaganda Is Urged In Discussion of War Cost

Writer Points Process Of Disillusionment Gaining Rapidly

Editor's Note For information on peace propaganda and its possibilities we refer the reader to the Flambeau editorial in this issue entitled: "Call To Arms Sounded for Peace Cause."

BY IDA FEAEL MILLER

Fifteen years ago the whole western world seemed about to go pacifist. And why not? The boys were "coming back" minus legs, arms, eyes, and plus diseases for the victims also to prefer. Many never came back. The papers were full of the "dead and missing." Battlefields were fertilized with the "noble soul" who had given his life to make the world safe for democracy. During four years of warfare, ten million soldiers had been killed, three million more had passed into oblivion as "missing," twenty million more had been wounded and thirteen million civilians had died from famine, malnutrition, disease and other causes directly connected with the fighting. Two hundred billion dollars had been blown away in carrying on the struggle and the indirect losses which have been estimated at twice that sum, and fifty billion. That, be it noted, before the bills for pensions and bonuses and interest on bonds and reparations began to come in. What wealth, what sacrifice!

But a lot of memories can be dulled in fifteen years, and an anti-war sentiment was being washed away into cynicism. The Oxford Undergraduate's pledge, even before the peace conference could assemble. It has proceeded at an accelerating tempo toward every year since. As a result, nations are busy building the bombs to replace either the biological or the gas of the former conflict find themselves confronting the imminent prospect of another war. Only a handful of pacifists are so distracted by internal disorders that peace societies are throwing out their officers for suspected militarism, while the militarists are busy taking up in front-page rots.

The last fifteen years which are now threatening to become pre-war years certain governments have deliberately eliminated pacifism as disloyalty, embracing the full wrath of patriotic propaganda into the effort to make national welfare serve dependents of militarism as well as military virtues.

While the task on compulsory military training in foreign countries as a natural accompaniment of disillusionment as to government which is distasteful to us, we are finding the full wrath of their footsteps with our increasing compulsory military training in colleges and universities. We are loyal to accept ideas from other countries but a belief those who advocate doing so "Red" even though it is palpable that some of these ideas can be modified to suit our own needs. Yet the American public is dumbly assenting to the compulsory military training of Europe and increasing military preparations pace being set by these same "Red" governments.

Our colleges and universities are not the only institutions that glorify war and emphasize the militaristic spirit. Our public schools are not chargeable that their super-patriotism passes beyond the bounds of common sense of nationalistic teachings. There is little doubt that international hatred is fostered in Europe and America by the teaching of history in our public schools. What would happen if for a while generation nobody under the age of twenty-five was permitted to learn any history is impossible to say. What is certain, with history being taught as it has been for the last fifty or one hundred years, it is the basis for the painful chronicle of our times. And the diplomatic affairs has by no means altered since the days of Versailles. Scores of realistic novels like Erich Kali's And the Western Front" have been debunking the war myth but nothing has gone through it; statesmen have been drafting anti-war pacts and returning the old battle-cry "Remember the state banquet halls; but meanwhile the youth of the next generation are being poisoned with hate in the school-room.

Teachers in Europe and America—many of them undergraduates—are being taught that the self-sacrificing British Empire is a blessing to Hindu, Egyptians, Malays and various breeds of Africans—all of whom still regard the deliberately stimulated pacifism as disloyalty, embracing the full wrath of patriotic propaganda into the effort to make national welfare serve dependents of militarism as well as military virtues.

While the task on compulsory military training in foreign countries as a natural accompaniment of disillusionment as to government which is distasteful to us, we are finding the full wrath of their footsteps with our increasing compulsory military training in colleges and universities. We are loyal to accept ideas from other countries but a belief those who advocate doing so "Red" even though it is palpable that some of these ideas can be modified to suit our own needs.

should be offered in home economics here to make the leaves.

One music-loving soul wants to sneak into the auditorium during the night and play the organ. "I never had a lesson in my life," she confided, "but the desire to sit down at an organ and push all the buttons to see what noises come out can be overpowering at times. To push them all at the same time would sooth my very soul."

One mere creature wants to thrust her head from a dormitory window and make faces and jibber at a boy standing by the dormitories with their dates.

When she has her stoned dignoma locked up in the trunk, one girl wants to get the chairman of judiciary off in a corner and tell her the story of her college past.

Perhaps the most universal desire of all is to go to bed at night without being haunted with work that has not been done, to settle down to a game of bridge without thinking of the term paper due next day, or to read a book for pleasure alone.

Bus, Train Tickets On Sale Next Week

Dec. 15 at 9 o'clock opposite the registrar's office in the lower floor of the History building.

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad has announced that they have arranged a special train to Tampa and intermediate points.

Each College Room Is Canine Hangout

What, no dogs?

There are few rooms at Florida State College that do not act as "dog kennels," and few of us realize the money that is spent on the little dust-catchers.

The dogs range from large fluffy thoroughbreds to the common little alley-pup, and are made of wood, metal, china and cloth. Out of twenty-eight rooms investigated, eight had no dogs; but in the other twenty there were 142 dogs of all sizes, shapes, and colors.

The average number of does per room is above five although one upper-classman is the proud owner of thirty-seven. With an average of five dogs per room, there are approximately 2,100 dogs in the five dormitories. The average cost of each dog is twenty-five cents, which gives a total of $525.00 that has been spent for those various pieces of plaster, rag, and wood; all clearly useless things that merely clutter up a room.

Library Plan Will Be Sent To Brussels

Belgium Erects National Bibliotheque Royale As Memorial

Plans of the campus library building with a description of the interior and its equipment will be sent this week by this college to Brussels, Belgium, in answer to a recent request made by the government building committee of King Leopold III.

The Belgian committee is making a study of the plans of all recently constructed libraries and with designs submitted by all architects of Belgian nationality with regard to the erection of a national library, to be called the Bibliotheque Royale as a memorial to the late King Albert I.

The college library plans were drawn by different architects, and the cost of the entire building including equipment, was approximately $300,000. There is a seating capacity of 750 people but the building will hold 200,000 people.

The west wing of the library was modeled on the cathedral-like style of architecture by Edwards and Sheppard of Atlanta, and built in 1924. The remainder of the building, however, not completed until 1929, was modeled on the academic tudor style by Rudolph Weaver, head of the school of architecture at the University of Florida.

Over the entrance of the library are two emblems called printers' marks, and are those of one of the first printers, Aldus Manutius, and Nicholas Jenson.

Woodwork on the interior of the library is solid oak, hand rubbed. The glass in the windows and doors was made specially for the library and imported from Germany. Each pane being delicately tinted in order to prevent glaring light. Mr. Weaver designed the fixtures and all of the furniture on the ceilings.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS!

Gifts for the Whole Family

at

SURPRISE STORE

Governor Cone Names Mrs Sprinkle Lieutenant-Colonel on Personal Staff

Mrs. Iva Townsend Sprinkle of Ocala, class of 1911, former superintendent of public instruction of Marion county and now in charge of the WPA archives project there, has been appointed a lieutenant colonel on the personal staff of Governor-elect Fred P. Cone.

The appointment came in the form of a letter from the governor-elect to Mrs. Sprinkle. It read in part:

"I hereby appoint you military aide on my personal staff as governor of the State of Florida. The appointment carries with it a commission, as lieutenant colonel, but under the law a commission as such cannot issue prior to my taking the oath of office as governor of Florida on January fifth next. Your commission will be mailed to you after the above date."

Ten College Students Receive Confirmation

Ten students of Florida State College for Women were confirmed recently in a service at St. John's Episcopal church in Tallahassee by the Reverend Frank A. Juhan, D.D., officiating.

The students were, Mrs. Mary P. Bowden, Bradford; Miss Sarah Munnerlyn, Lucille Hazelton, Allas McKelvy, Blanton Barrett, Beverly Weaver, Isabel Mosher, Anita Hodgson, Betty Hodgson, and Peggy Avlas.

Day Students Have Meeting

Borton Addresses Group Concerning Y.W.C.A.'s Various Phases

At the Day Students' meeting last Thursday, Janice Borton, president of the Y.W.C.A. gave a talk explaining the purposes, the organization, and the present work of the Y.W.C.A. She told about the founding of the national organization, how it came to be international, and how a division of the Y.M.C.A. broke off to form an organization for women. Explaining the constitution of the organization on the campus she named the various officers and the girls who hold them this year and told about the work of the various committees. Several students, she said, were invited to participate in all the phases of the Y.W.C.A. work.

A report of the results of the 1936 meeting of the executive board of the Day students' association with the college executive council was given by Miss Grant. The suggestions made by the council were discussed.

One of the main issues was a plan to have a program of orientation for the freshmen during each mean next year. No definite decision was reached. It will be decided at a later date.

The report also said that day students were invited to come to the informal teas held each week by the various dormitory parlors.

It was announced that the ore "day student lounge" will be in the new wing of the administration building when it is finished. The room, petitioned for last year, will be a place where day students may go to eat their lunches at noon, study, and relax. A small rest room is adjoining the main room.

Mary Mearinnus announced that all seniors who wished to go to the senior Christmas party or cardyne should sign up in the lower hall of the ad building.

College Life is Rated

Continued from page four

stimulus to the student on her own when in attendance.

This college has an adequate faculty to serve as the stimulus I say that the greatest need on the campus today is to get free curious first. And I think that intellectual pursuits come naturally when we have developed appreciation of relations between things—and things should only be a means to an end, not the end. Intellectual pursuit is not a desirable adjustment. It is the form of the issue before us.

SPARKS STATE
PHONE 140
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
December 11-12
Sunshine Musical!
BORN TO DANCE
with
Eleanor Powell
James Stewart
Virginia Bruce
TUESDAY ONLY
December 15
April Romance
WEDNESDAY ONLY
December 16
Romance Comes to a Shop Worn Actor!
"ALONG CAME LOVE"
with
Irene Hervey Chas. Starrett
THURSDAY ONLY
December 17
TWO BRILLIANT STARS!
KATHARINE HEPBURN
ROBERT MARSHALL
"A WOMAN REBELS"

Questionaire Spread Among FSC Students

Research Bureau Seeks Information About Value of Ads

Distributed about the campus among the four classes and differently assorted sprinkling of over a hundred and fifty questionnaires which were sent to Lollie Goodbody, the business manager of the Flambeau, by the American College Research Bureau.

These questionaires, divided into two sets consisting of a four-page form each, are part of a survey being made by the National Advertising Service Incorporated, to get a picture of the average college student and, it is presumed, find out how much the average student is influenced by advertising.

According to instructions sent with the survey is in the interest of the college newspaper since the information acquired will help in filling advertising for the paper. Every student is a better and more active newspaper. All students filled out the questionnaires have been requested to give them serious consideration and thoughtful answers.

Included among the questions of the two sets are such queries as: do you read regularly any newspaper other than your college newspaper? What magazines do you read regularly? Have you gone to college while in debt? Do you smoke cigarettes? What kind smoked? What brand? Sacrifice do you use? What is your favorite brand of ginger ale? What brand of soda fountain drink do you have? What type of watch do you wear? Do you have any brothers or sisters? How many sweaters do you usually buy per year?

Other questions asked are: How many bottles of perfume do you buy per year? How much do you spend per year on face creams? What is your favorite radio program? What day and hour does it go on the air? What products does it advertise? What name of laundry do you ordinarily use? Do you ever have your clothes cleaned? If so, what is the name of the cleaning firm you patronize?

Questions concerning gum do you chew a week? What is the average price you pay for a pair of shoes? How many and what make are the watches you have?

The questionaires have been distributed in such a manner as to get a fairly true cross-section of the undergraduate body. Results of the survey on the campus will be published at a later date.

Debate Series Begun With Double Combat

Continued from page one

open people; that those required to attend by their teachers have a chance to secure seats where they may easily hear the program and so be able to prepare their attitudes well; and that friends may sit together without the confusion of seat saving.

The second affirmative speaker, Emma Randolph Hobsaft, developed the point of the elimination of confusion under the present plan and added that this plan makes doing room girls to get seat, eliminates people wandering in and standing at the back of the auditorium and causing confusion, and aids those who for some reason can not get to the performance before it starts.

Negative Points

Negative team composed of Nell Cohen and Betty Wynn pointed out in their first constructive speech that the girls who have taken short seats at first even out have no opportunity to get good seats, that the confusion of securing seats finding seats unfilled if not surpassed the confusion of finding seats under the old system, and that student opinion as a whole seemed against this plan. The second negative speaker offered a counterplan whereby the evils of both systems might be avoided.

The principal idea in this survey are that only the general arrangement of seats ticket would be necessary for admission while no reserve seats, no saving of seats for friends students might go anytime that they wished, and that the teachers requiring students to attend programs might reserve seats for these students.

A discussion of methods of presentation of debates followed. The next class meeting will be Wednesday at 5:30 in room 103 Administration building. At this time two debates will be presented, one on a national question and the other concerning a campus problem. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

The freshman class met for their organization meeting Thursday afternoon. The next meeting of this class will be Thursday afternoon at 5:30 in the same room as the advanced class in the Administration building.

Fruit Cakes for Christmas Gifts at the DUTCH KITCHEN
$1.00 and Up.

Mitsuye Ohi Introduced

Interviewer Gets Glimpse of Japanese Custom, Americanized Families from Foreign Student Enrolled Here

BY EDNA K. BURNAMS

Mitsuye Ohi, native to the campus this year, a freshman. Life a small unobtrusive shadow she can be but moving like a shadow through the group—usually near the edge. Physically, she is one with them; spiritually, she stands apart—an acquaintance, a fellow student, But, never a close companion. She does not join in the loud laughter, nor in the twice-as-loud explanation of her classmates. She seems not to comprehend the cries of injustice rising in rebellious protest from the heretofore pervilesed high school seniors. The cries of certain individual rights can mean nothing to this young Oriental, for like most foreigners accustomed to dictatorial commands, she obviously bows with unquestioning acquiescence to authority. One can feel assured that the Dr. of the F. S. C. campus will never be called upon to bear the solemn pressure on Mitsuye's meekness.

One day I chanced to sit across the table from this petite Japanese girl in the college dining room. Her quiet manners and Oriental impassiveness aroused my curiosity. Never once during the entire meal did she speak, or even seem to look at her companions, fragments of dinner conversation. Her eyes, rarely returned, shunned roamed spacelessly, were downcast most of the time, and her face re-colleges in more recent years when the late Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, governor of Florida from 1908 to 1913, gave in his will $10,000 to the state college, the income from which was to be used to build that worthy students at the college who needed financial help to complete their colleges education. Gilchrist remained dead at the college is named for him.

Board Changes Name Of Chief FSC Structure

Continued from page one

Judea Westcott, who became an associate justice of the Florida Supreme Court at the age of 29, setting a precedent which still holds today, is the fourth Florida student Floridian for whom a building has been named as the fifth, the Broward residence hall was named in honor of former Governor Broward. Gilchrist hall for Governor Gilchrist; and Bryan hall for the late United States senator, William Jennings Bryan.

A likeness of Senator Bryan is now in Bryan hall. It was taken from the U. S. S. Florida before Senator Bryan was buried.

Mrs. Bryan, it is said, was influential in having the government boat named for this state.

Reside Murphree hall, the remaining building to be named after a well loved Floridian, was named for Mrs. A. A. Murphree, the wife of the late Dr. A. A. Murphree. Dr. Murphree was the first president of the college from 1905 to 1909.

James Diament Westcott, III, was born in Tallahassee, May 1, 1819, the son of a lawyer who filled numerous high posts in the territorial government of Florida and who represented the State in the Senate of the United States. He received his elementary education than that afforded by the schools of his native town. His first public employment was in 1839 when he was made the private secretary of Governor Madison S. Perry. Upon his admission to the bar, his rise was rapid and it was but a few years before he had at an unusually early age attained to the highest legal office in the state. In 1856 he represented Leon county in the legislature; in 1858 he was appointed attorney general and during the same year at the age of twenty-nine was appointed to one of two associate justices of the Supreme Court, which position he held until January, 1885, when he resigned. During the years he sat upon this bench, Voltz Westcott performed his full share of the labors of the court, delivering his opinion in many of the most important and difficult cases, a necessity in appeals in equity which were usually assigned to him. He died on April 29, 1887, at the age of forty-eight years.

YWCA Vesper Service Sunday is to Feature White Gifts for Poor

A "White Christmas" service will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater next Sunday night at 7:15 as the last Y.W.C.A. vesper service before the holidays. At this time the "White Gifts," which are being donated by students for poor families in Tallahassee, will be presented.

The program will consist of the singing of Christmas carols by the choir, and talks concerning Christmas scenes from the Bible.

After the program the gifts, wrapped in white, will be given. These gifts will consist of canned goods, clothes, toys, and other donations that the students give to aid the poor.

These girls taking part in the tableaux are, Frances Thill, Ruth Prather, Mary Lou Hall, Chick Owens, Victoria Crisp, Betty Coleman, Mary Sue Clayton, Mary Boatright, Ruth Wilson, Gennelle Perry, Micky Conn, Patty Barrington. Additional tableaux will be announced later.

"Yes" she answered with a quick side-long glance. "He liked that work. In Japan he took care of many foreign guests." She added that he was studying in New York that time. Mitsuye's father, she said, said he had completed his plant course but they were married, and with three other Japanese families moved to Wasaille, Florida. There he was chief gardner in a large estate for three years. "It was a beautiful place that we were born—my brother, my sister and I."

"Did your your people emigrate a great deal with their white neighbors?" I asked.

"No," she answered, and then went on to explain how that this group, comprised of the four original families, preserved together, forming, as it were, a little world of their own in which they worked, socialized, and lived. They selected their American neighbors with great discretion and made a living for themselves and for their rapidly increasing offspring. Only the Japanese language was spoken in this intimate circle: thus until school age was reached the little children did not come in contact with American customs nor the spoken English language. Gradually, however, they grew dutifully they all filed into the little neighborhood Methodist church.

True to the traditional Japanese idolatry of their children, they raised their babies with kindness, love and veneration. Spending long hours they worked to save enough money to finance future opportunities for their baby or children. Each pay day some part of the father's wages was put away with the great day when their children should need it for educational purposes. This year finds the only

This Week

Continued from page four

There is no denying that Edward has paid a dear price for that his future married happiness. It is almost certain he will prefer voluntary exile to living in England or the dominions; things are not exactly welcome to the one who tries they used to rule. Mrs. Simpson dreads exposure to the frigid States in view of the colossal publicity she has received. Edward's "man-about-town" fondness was well known, and it is dreadful to think that now and then for a few days and years on the Riviera, so many former ex-overeigns have done.

* * * *

But there is still the hopeful thought that Edward distilled the kingship and welcomed the opportunity to be rid of it. He had abhorred many precedents before he became king and his ascension did not stop him. His files, drives his own swift cars, mixes his own brand of cocktails and delights in answering the telephone in person. He is always surrounded by modern lightehearted societies. It is easy to see how the rule of a monarch might have become irksome to him. He tried to modernize the position of the sovereign—the old symbol of conservation and moral rectitude—and it could not be done.

If Edward succeeds in carving out a career for himself, and if he finds with Mrs. Simpson the happiness he is seeking, who can say that he has not made the better choice?

COMPLIMENTS
of
CAPITAL CITY BANK
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Library Books Are Due on Wednesday

The library will be closed at 12:00 December 18 for the Christmas holidays. All library books are due Wednesday, December 16. Books not returned will carry the usual fine through the holidays.

Students wishing to borrow books for the holidays may make arrangements at the circulation desk Thursday or Friday next week.

Louise Richardson

Boyd Named President Of Tropical Medicine Society at Baltimore

Dr Mark F Boyd, who has been engaged for the past five years at the malaria research station located on the campus of the Florida State college, was recently elected president of the American Society of Tropical Medicine, and will become active president in 1938. His election was announced in Baltimore.

Dr. Boyd, a native of St. Paul, Minn., came here from Jackson, Miss., as director of the Florida division of area, for malaria research in cooperation with the State Board of Health.

Dr Boyd is prominent as an author on scientific subjects, especially malaria, having written pamphlets and contributed to medical journals.

His has been health officer at Columbus, Iowa, and formerly taught at the University of Texas, the University of Illinois, Harvard university and the University of Iowa. Since 1931 he has been a member of the field staff of the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Moore, Waskom Classes Visit State Institution

On an all day trip last Tuesday Dr. Carle Moore and Dr. Hugh Waskom took their students in the clinical pathology and in the criminology classes to the Florida State Hospital at Chattahoochee and to the Boys' Industrial School at Marianna.

At Florida State Hospital they attended a clinic conducted by staff members. They also visited the handicraft room, where the patients are taught different types of handcraft, such as painting, leather work, weaving, block printing, etc. Amatitis in this institution is Virginia Cary, a graduate of the Florida State College for women.

On their visit to the Boys' Industrial School at Marianna they learned from Mr. Davidson, superintendent of the school, how the school is conducted, and the type of work carried on.

derstanding. "In other words, a political pull."

As Mitsuye talked I tried to picture this Americanized Japanese back on Japan-land. As the wife of his forefathers, and I wondered how she would fare, and what bound him to that country and to the country of his birth. Mitsuye, as if she read my mind, asked rather abruptly how he liked Japan.

"Not so very well," she answered ruefully "For one thing—he can't get used to taking off his shoes every time he goes into the school building. He dislikes to go with bare feet, and the complaint that he is wearing out all his socks."

"What would always been a difficulty, Mitsuye?" I asked as she arose to leave.

"Yes," she answered seriously "and my parents, too. My grandfather was conversing over the phone many years ago. Once," she added with a smile, "I remember a moment in her eyes, "Father bought a little Buddha. He sat it on the table in the parlor. That night he stood in front of the fireplace and looked at it. Father emphasized that it was the god of his ancestors and told us many stories about it. They were very interesting, but my brother did not like it. He asked father why he desired so buy such a foolish thing."

As this tiny Japanese girl talk-

Campus Christmas Seal Sale Held; Donations To Date Total $63.78

The sale of Christmas seals, which is held annually for the purpose of fighting tuberculosis, has to date brought in a total sum of $63.78 on this campus.

A fund of $20 was contributed by the faculty membership.

Students in Broward hall led the list with contributions of $15.65. $7.00 of which was contributed by students living on the one hundred floor.

Off-campus students gave $14.88. Campuside leading the list and being followed in order by the sororities. Delta Delta Delta, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Gamma, Delta Kappa Delta, Alpha Delta Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Phi Epsilon, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Theta Upsilon.

Of the students on campus, besides the amount given by Broward hall, there was $3.00 from Reynolds, $2.40 from Bryan, $2.25 from Jennie Murphree and $.90 from Gilchrist.

The drive will be continued until January. Any one wishing to make a contribution may see Margaret Hulvey in 321 Broward.

ed, I saw a vision—a long line of men and women, bowed with their cares, their sorrows, their pains to that temple bearing image of the shelf, that hideous portrayal of the unknown, before whom from generation to generation they had bowed in fear, in hope, for that greatest of all attributes —understanding! Mitsuye's ancestors and their God!

"What would did your father give to your brother, Mitsuye?" I asked.

Mitsuye had arisen from the chair and was standing by the door.

"My father?" she echoed in obvious surprise. "I should find interest in such an inconsequential thing. "I remember my father as a very busy man, but he was not cross. He said, 'Why do you not like this thing, my son? I find it difficult to answer your question. Some things are not understood—perhaps, as you say in American slang, I bought a lemon for him." "The door closed. Mitsuye had gone to study that very difficult lesson in English.

LINDEN'S
Semi-Annual
CLEARANCE SALE
ENTIRE STOCK WOMEN'S FALL AND WINTER SHOES
BEGINS TOMORROW—THURSDAY
$1.95
Pumps, Straps, Oxfords.
Blacks, Browns, Blues.
None Reserved
Values to $6.00
A COMPLETE CLEARANCE!
ALL STYLES! ALL SIZES!
EVENING SLIPPERS ARE INCLUDED IN THIS SALE.
Suedes, Kids, and Combinations.
High, Low, Medium Heels.
ALL SALES Must Be FINAL
EXTRA SPECIAL
ENNA JETTICK SHOES
$3.65
LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE
120 S. Monroe St.

Curry, Denham To Entertain For Freshmen

Jennie Murphree Girls To Have Christmas Party Thursday

Jennie Murphree students will be entertained with an informal Christmas party Thursday afternoon from four-thirty to six o'clock by the directors of the hall, Miss Rose Denham and Mrs. Flossie Curry. They will be assisted by the members of the f.-fifteen advisory council living in Jennie Murphree which include Sara Hethcox, Harriet Duke, Betty Wynn, Dorothea Marsh, Virginia Phillips, Viola Bowden, Dora Helen Bagley, Mary Helen Reynolds, Phil Asher, Hilda Sirvollin, Mary Loper, Elizabeth Pierce, Louise Lingo, Louise Le-Gehan.

A musical program and group singing of Christmas carols will form the entertainment for the afternoon. Decorations will include a lighted Christmas tree, mistletoe, and wreaths of holly.

The directors of Reynolds hall, Miss Rebecca Rowan and Miss Mamie Hollowell, assisted by Miss Mary Etta Thistlethwaite and home economics students, will entertain the Reynolds students with a Christmas tea next Wednesday afternoon from four-thirty to six-thirty o'clock. The program will consist of hero worship led by the janitors and maids of Reynolds hall, followed by group singing of Christmas carols. There will also be a Christmas tree, and a poetic gift is given to everyone by Santa Claus.

The students of Florida State colleges are not the only ones staying home or away from Tallahassee for the Christmas holidays. The directors of the residence halls are also leaving the hustle and bustle of college for Christmas vacations elsewhere.

Mrs. Mozelle Sartor, director of Bryan and Broward halls, will spend her holidays in Columbus, Ga., while Mrs. Addie Pittman will stay in Tallahassee for a few days and then make visits to Gainesville and Tampa. Fla. Mrs. Fither Perryman will remain in Tallahassee for her holidays.

Miss Catherine Byrd, director of Gilchrist hall, will spend the holidays at her home in Tallahassee.

Mrs. Josephine Levey, director of Reynolds hall, will go to Richmond, Va., to spend Christmas holidays, while Miss Rowan will spend here in Biloxi, Miss. And Miss Curry will remain in Tallahassee.

Miss Denham, director of Jennie Murphree, will spend her Christmas holidays between Mooresville and Jacksonville. Mrs. Curry will spend the vacation at her home in Chancellor.

Miss Maude Flowers, director of all residence halls, will spend her Christmas holidays at her home in Ft. Lauderdale.

Tryon Attends Meeting Of Social Study Group As Floridian Delegate

Miss Florence Tryon, critic teacher at Florida State and graduate of this institution in 1926, attended the convention of the National Council of Social Studies held in Detroit November 27-28.

As sole representative from Florida, Miss Tryon addressed the conventions delegates on the subject "The Recent Trends in Social Studies Procedure of the South." She also served on the nominating committee.

While in Detroit, Miss Tryon saw three persons formerly connected with Florida State. Mrs. Carol Whitney Darling, a former student who is now teaching in Detroit, was attending the convention.

Miss Adelaide Lee, who was instructor in organ here for two years, gave a dinner in honor of Miss Tryon. Miss Lee is now teaching in Detroit and at present time playing the organ for one of the city's largest churches.

Miss Tryon also visited a former professor of English at Florida State, Mrs. Charlotte Pierce Richards, and her two small daughters.

Leonardo da Vinci was the first to explain that the partial illumination of the darker portion of the moon was considered by reflection of sunlight from the earth.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.

Four terms of eleven weeks are given each year. The may be taken consecutively (graduation in three and one-half years) or three terms may be taken each year (graduation in two and one-half years). The entrance requirements are satisfactory character and at least two years of college work, including the prescribed courses for grade A medical schools. Catalogue and detailed information forms may be obtained from the Dean

Modern Attitude on Marriage Called Appalling by Student

Changing Styles of Life Followed by Thought Trends of Youth

By MARGARET CLAIRE LAFFERTY

In the past few years I have listened with a sinking sense of foreboding to a group of friends who, flippantly or seriously, when discussing marriage have spoken of it as a adventure—as pleasant one. They are interested in the outward appearances and material advantages of their future husbands, never giving a thought to the factors that they are going into making a happy marriage. When I have dared to mention timidly the word "children" I have been properly squelched with "oh, they won't bother me. I shall marry a man who is rich enough to have a governess and nurses. Besides, I don't intend to have them for several years. It would spoil the fun."

This attitude appalls me. Time was when good homes and families ten and eleven children and thoughing nothing of it. Children were not a neglected as they thought a little less attention and love than they do now. Mary, Jane, Abigail, William, Elizabeth, Sally, and Nell, were all rightly superintended. Mother washed them bathed them, got up early in the morning, woke the children, and packed them all off to school with their lunch boxes. She was always ready to help any of her brood with their problems, taught the girls how to sew and cook when their piano lessons were not neglected. Father taught the boys how he was engaged in the business, how to manage, how to carve a turkey, and how to treat a lady.

When a young man came calling mother and father were entertaining in the parlor. So when Jeffrey had found out the complete life history and hopeful aspirant to the company of their daughter did they permit Mary to go walking with him. She was practically enagged to the man before she was allowed to go for one of those exciting buzzy rides in Jeffrey's flivver, and then was absolutely taboo until Jeffrey left and was driving a ring with his arm, and conspicuously.

Those may not have been the good days for Mary, William, Thomas, Abigail, and the rest of the younger children, but at least they learned that their parents were taking a whole hearted interest in them. Few liberties were allowed them, being forbidden sometimes with the excuse that mother had not been permitted to display her ankles when she was a girl and she should not do so either, as often as not the reply to an indignant "why" was "do as your mother tells you." Well the Parents lived their children's lives for them, believing that they were doing the fully & thoroughly unselfsacrificing, often, their own happiness and personal friends.

Then came the war, liberty, and freedom. Even parents were infected with the fever. The young men and women who were coming into manhood and womanhood at the time developed a breed of selfishness—pure, utter, selfishness, at the cost of morals or consideration for others. They married often on the spur of the moment, not considering the children, the consideration that the man or woman they married would be the co-parent of their children. In fact they never even thought of that awful responsibility.

When the children were born they were looked upon as burdens upon their parents, obstacles in the way of their path of pleasure. So they were either given to a nurse for supervision, or were completely ignored.

It is the children in the latter group that developed into our rank criminals. Children was to run the streets, in fact put out to run the streets, while Mom's or Pop went to a movie, a drinking party, or a bridge or poker combination. Johnny had been educated into the proper use of his leisure time and left with nothing to do he promptly joined the other children in the streets, who were in the same plight as he. Together they sought some form of amusement, usually concocting some form of mischief that seemingly within but innocent fun, such as the stealing of an apple from Tony's cart while the back of that incensed person was turned. The joy of accomplishment increased and Johnny was led to do bigger things, sometimes suggesting them himself—all the while Mom 'n Pop were having a grand time at the show, free of their burden. The questions Johnny had asked his father had been put off peremptorily with a "some other time, son" or "you're too young to know." Johnny found the answers from his playmates with no omission of details. He was sent to school, seriously recommended when he failed in any subject, but the teacher could not take it up with mother when an algebra problem was too difficult for his young mind to solve.

His sister, if he has one, had also been allowed full liberty to do as she wished. Cooking and sewing are just words to her and she knows little of the arts they know how. Before she is sixteen she has been kissed by some and can take a drink with the best of them. As often as not she becomes one of Johnny's companions.

This is, of course, taking the matter to the extreme, but it is plausible and can happen, in fact it has often been the true experience of many children of the world. One of my girl friends in high school was brought up in this way. She was very fine natured and if she had been encouraged she would have attained great success. However, when she was old enough to go out with boys her mother let her do as she pleased—entirely. In a short time she was drinking, smoking, petting indiscreetly and within three weeks of her graduation from high school she quit coming altogether. Her mother was too prepared to go to work, and the girl was left financially well off. So her life consisted of dates and drinking parties. Too late the mother realized that something was wrong and she tried to straighten out the girl's life. The freedom she had so eagerly given her daughter was ruining her. But the girl had a mind of her own and was too far gone to change. She married a man unworthy of whom her parents had never met and whom the girl knew that they would have disapproved, while returning from a dance in the early morning hours, drunk as a lord, intoxicated, ran into and killed one of the town's popular citizens. While my friend was embarrassed from the crime on the part of her husband she said to me in somewhat notorious in our town with whom her heart is broken.

There is however the other extreme. The parent who restricts his children setting down definite rules for them to follow, the breaking of which punishes if they are broken, because he has a feeling that he "should do right" by his children, and never considering their feelings in the matter. One such case was that of another of my friends, June. Lipservice, slander, and other commotion were strictly forbidden in her home. Going out with young men was absolutely taboo. Mother and father had not time to superintend the kind of people she went with, therefore she could not go out at all.

June would begin lying about her destinations, spending untold time with various girl friends and using this as an excuse to date. When she graduated from high school her parents were able to send her to college and thought it best for her to do so. There she quickly learned the besetting sins ed from using cosmetics and beautiful, naturally attractive girl and received quite a lot of attention from the young men in the college town. When her parents came to visit her the lipstick and rouge would disappear and boy friends would receive a week's warning not to call or recognize her if they saw her with her parents. At the end of her freshman year she realized that her home life would be intolerable after the freedom she had tasted, so being of age she married one of the ne'er-do-wells in the college town rather than go home. Now she is making a family of her own with little help from her husband and is entirely cut off from her family.

Marriage to me is a very serious business with parenthood coming first in consideration. A person who has debased himself in marriage has to renounce all selfish pleasures. It will be his responsibility to make good citizens out of the children he will be responsible for bringing into the world. P. A. and M. must be put down rules and expect them to be followed. Children must be encouraged, when young, to play with others and to make the right kind of friends. His home should be made so agreeable that the hire of the streets will have no charm for him. As he grows older his parties should be made the scene of his parties and dances, not the pool room, the road house, and the dance hall. He can be taught how to drink like a gentleman. If Mary had married mother should give her approval and let her do so in her own home for if not, she will do it somewhere, secretly.

Parents can do so much to make their children happy, interested, human beings without sacrificing their own pleasures entirely. The psychiatric clinics dealing with heredity, educational problems, and sexual cases, can and is best given by parents. Often such help could have prevented many a child from making the wrong choice in life. There are many who have gone all through college never realizing what they even cared for. Home guidance might have abated that. Even men never realize what homes where the parents have grown up with their children and who have the full confidence of those children who are unafraid to present any of their problems and questions to them. The children in such homes know they will receive sympathy and help.

The home where time cannot be given over to Johnny's questions and problems are all too many. There are still a large and an art.

FOR CHRISTMAS
Shop At
The Turner's
"YOUR STORE"

COMPLIMENTS
of
LEWIS STATE BANK
"Florida's Oldest Bank"
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

4-H Girls Represent Florida at National Conclave in Chicago

Five 4-H club girls represented Florida at the National 4-H club congress held in Chicago November 27 to December 5.

They are Toi Strickland, Holmes county, winner of the National 4-H Club Dairy Demonstration with Montgomery, Ward and Co., Ida Belle Conley Crenshaw, Jefferson county, winner of the National Canning Achievement Contest with the Kerr Glass Mfg. Corporation as its donor: Frances Webb, Dade county, winner of the 4-H Girls Style Dress Revue with the Chicago Mail Order Co., as its donor; Edith McKeown, Jackson county, winner of the 4-H Food Preparation Contest with the "Electrolux" Sales Division, Servel, Inc., as its donor; and Harriet Wiseheart, Duval county, winner of the State Baking Contest with the Corn Products Company as its donor.

Miss Frances Tomberlin to whom the honors were awarded in baking was not able to make the trip. She was ill at her home and therefore, was made to the best of the alternates selected at Short Course.

Columbia Graduate Will Lead NSFA Peace Forum

Stewart Wright, graduate student from Columbia University and one of a corps of students who attended the N.S.F.A. Student States organizing an emergency peace conference, will lead a peace forum Tuesday night at the local N.S.F.A.

The meeting will be held in the lecture room on the top floor of the Education building and will begin at 7:30. At the conclusion of the peace forum, members of the N.S.F.A. will be appointed to represent them at the national conference to be held in New York City during Christmas holidays. One senior and one junior will be chosen to go.

Compliments of
THE FLAMBEAU

Varied Answers Are Given Concerning Co-Education

Girls Believe Men Would Make Them Bother About Clothes

What do you think of co-education? This question brought forth many and varied answers, both pro and con.

One girl answered by saying she didn't want co-education, "If men were on campus we would have to bother about our clothes and hair," she said. "Besides, men are too prone to dominate things. I'm afraid they would take over the leadership of campus affairs."

Another girl was afraid that if we had co-education she would spend her time looking at the clothes on the second row instead of listening to the professor.

The next girl who was questioned declared, "Of course I want co-education. I think daily contact with men would help one to be more poised in their presence. You know, when I stay up here in the dorm and then go home I am uncomfortable and ill at ease with the second the boys I've known all my life."

"There are three reasons why I think co-education is a good idea," said a faculty member. "First of all men are more base than women. They are separated from women. Likewise women tend to be more refined when they are separated from men. In addition to this men and women are separated there is the stigma attached placed on sex which makes them abnormally curious. Heterosexual interests and think of each other only as a sex object."

A sophomore wants co-education. "I'm from a small town," she said. "I've been here but I know make me tired. If we had co-education I could make some more boys and then I'd be happier."

By way of arguing for co-education one girl said she thought men on campus would make for more participation in extra-curricular sports which would give more publicity to the college.

A faculty member offered the following discussion of the question: "I think it would be undesirable from the student's point of view than from that of the faculty. First of all it is not the normal way of living. Boys and girls associate closely in home life an in high school. It is not in college? In non co-educational institutions men assume a greater importance in a girls life and women in a boys life becomes too important in proportion. Co-education tends to counteract this attitude.

"However, in the class room if it happens that men and boys are interested in each other, invariably it militates against serious work. I have taught in a university for men, a college for women, and a co-ed university and I have observed this to be true. In my classes, which usually consisted of about seventy-five girls and as many boys there were always about ten couples who sat together. Because of their attentions to each other rather than in the class work I found that these couples usually made the poorest grades in the class.

"In addition to this there is the fact that much material to be presented in class would be embarrassing if the classes were mixed.

"I would suggest that these difficulties could best be surmounted by co-education in graduate work. Tulane university and Sophie Newcomb college have done. That is have two colleges under the side, one for women and one for men, which would have the same professors but no mixed classes except in cases where a student needs som'e course which is not offered in his college, but which is obtainable in the other school."

A number of girls want co-education so that they can get dates more to their liking. One girl in particular rebelled against having to date boys still in high school. "There aren't enough older boys to go around," she wailed, "and besides the boys who are old enough are too conceited to be cute."

One girl looked at the economic side of the question. "Just think," she sighed, "if we didn't make these little week-end jaunts to Jacksonville and Thomasville we wouldn't be any need to if we had co-education, of the extra shows we could see with the ten cents. Besides that we wouldn't be so sleepy on Mondays."

One of the Education teachers believes in co-education, especially on higher levels. "I think," he said, "that the training of education is more logical than ours. In France boys and girls are separated all through grammar school and high school and then in the university they are together. I think that the first time when they are in college."

"In answer to the argument that there are always love affairs in high school I would say 'Good' because statistics have shown that there are fewer divorces among college people who went to school together. You know when you marry you want to accompliance atmosphere every day for four years you know him pretty well by then. Contrary to the theory of disillusionment after marriage.

"The girl who goes to the non-co-educational school is at a decided disadvantage after she has graduated because the world into which she is thrown is entirely different from that in which she has been living for the past four years. This girl has nothing like the poise that the girl has who has met men in her college life.

"Besides all this I think the scholarship, especially of boys, is better in a co-educational school because there is less competition. Many boys object to co-educational schools tend to be better scholars than boys. They are interested in their education higher, and the boys have to work harder."

A senior said, "Why shouldn't we be allowed to associate with the opposite sex? Besides, after all, they're just people. We've got to live with them after we graduate. That is primarily a man's world, and, before we are given by Marie Antoinette, the chance does a woman have who's never been around men?"

Newman Club Discusses Annual Xmas Social Homecoming Teams

The December meeting of the Newman club, Catholic organization on campus was held last Thursday night in the home of Bryan atrium.

The theme of the meeting was a discussion of the coming Christmas party which is an annual affair of the club, and will be held this year in honor of the holiday season.

The following committees were appointed: Janet Litschgi and Martha Ballenger, invitations; Ethel Runyan and Mercedes Gallegos, refreshments, and Margaret

A TRIANGLE TO END TROUBLES

LENTHERIC'S three triangular flacons of that famous After Shave Lotion, Men's Eau de Cologne, and Scalp Stimulant settle masculine grooming troubles in a trice. The "THREE MUSKETEERS" are attractively packed compactly in a manish hand-box for $1.95.

BENNETT'S
College Inn Pharmacy
109 E. College Ave. Phone 800
Tallahassee, Fla.

Student Helpers Lead Fatiguing Existance

"People are the dumbest thing!" said the student assistant in a dr-ppitory office to the reporter. "I never realized until after I worked here for a while how stupid they really can be." And then she began to tell of the absurd questions that are asked her every day.

It seems that signing up caused more hilarious mistakes than anything else. One freshman asked if other maids to be allowed to sign out to the library. Another came running in at first light flash to sign up for the use of the bath tub. And still another brought her mother, who was visiting her over the week-end to sign up to go to town.

Not so long ago two students came in together asking that they be allowed to use their dark rooms. After gazing at the cards rather blankly, they asked, "But where are the lists of the boys who are going to take us out?"

One lanzuid lady, who evidently hasn't learned that this institution is not a place of luxury or leisure, came in to the office one day to use the phone. She wanted to call the infirmary to tell them to send her lunch to her room because she didn't feel like going to the dining room.

It's hardly a common fallacy among upperclassmen that freshmen are the only ones who pull boners. This is certainly not true. Only last week a junior was complaining because the little space under the title "Date" on the engagement cards was too small for her to write. Her date's name in.

After hearing all these trials that the student assistants have had to endure, it would appear that the world is up to mankind, as hard candles were scattered on the table.

Of course the Christmas spirit has been seeping out since the end of December, when Santa's stockings filled with red dies, and little Christmas trees have adorned tables. Just another way of adding a gay note to another birthday.

The idea of the ocean liner food for anytime of the year, for there have been used for post cards and novelties from different countries used for favors.

These have been used for post cards and novelties from different countries used for favors.

The theme of the meeting was a discussion of the coming Christmas party which is an annual affair of the club, and will be held this year in honor of the holiday season.

The following committees were appointed: Janet Litschgi and Martha Ballenger, invitations; Ethel Runyan and Mercedes Gallegos, refreshments, and Margaret

Girls Invent Unique Ideas For Birthday

Christmas Motif is Most Popular for Events At Present

By HAZEL ADAMS

Santa Clauses peeping out of chimneys, silver bells scintillating around plates, strafles, candles and plus guarding salad plates, candied apples turned on end, and Christmas trees gaily trimmed are only a few of the sights seen in the dining room almost any night. This is evidence enough that girls have not outgrown the enjoyment of birthday parties, and that there is always an original soul in our midst.

A birthday is not complete without a "cake," which may be a circus ground, a battleship, a north pole, or an ocean liner.

Somebody must have had a good time at the Leon County fair several weeks ago, for the ice creamed cakes served in miniature at one of last week's birthday tables. There was a cake with a bag of peanuts at each guest's place. Popcorn was strewn across the table and the whole parade was in progress down the center of the mid-way crowd interrupted by the big tent filled with gifts.

Another group revealed the true nature when they arranged a kidparty in honor of a birthday girl. Animal crackers and ice cream bobbed around. Lollypops rolled up to napkins, and hard candies were scattered over the table.

Of course the Christmas motif has been seeping out since the end of December, when Santa's stockings filled with red dies, and little Christmas trees have adorned tables. Just another way of adding a gay note to another birthday.

The idea of the ocean liner food for anytime of the year, for there have been used for post cards and novelties from different countries used for favors.

These have been used for post cards and novelties from different countries used for favors.

The theme of the meeting was saying "Happy Birthday" throughout the school year, but perhaps the most original of all was the "mock" party given by Sherrod Gregory whose birthday occur in August. To keep the hot fair say the hostess used a cool color scheme of blue. Heart shaped boxes were wrapped in silver and blue and tied with ribbon and placed at each honoree's place with a birthday greeting in the future.

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
Tallahassee
ANNOUNCING OUR
SHOE CLASSIC
Friday, December 11th, 1936
Almost the Entire Stock of Fall and Winter Shoes Drastically
—Reduced to—
ONE LOW PRICE
$4.00 a pair
Here's the shoe event of the year, the opportunity you've been waiting for!
Suedes . . . Kidskins . . . Calfskins . . .
Combinations.
All styles . . . All heels . . . All sizes.
VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE
NO APPROVALS NO MAIL ORDERS NO CHARGES

The Social Week

Faculty-Student Dinner Planned Monday Evening

The second faculty-student dinner of this year, sponsored by the social committee for the purpose of fostering closer relations between the faculty and the student body, will be held Monday night at 6:30 o'clock in the college dining room.

A Christmas theme will be carried out in the decorations in the dining room at this time. Red candles will be lit and placed in the center of each table surrounded by pine leaves and autumn foliage.

Students and Guests

Members of the faculty who have been invited and their hostesses are: Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Arnold, Marguerite Sjostrom; Dr. Winnie Davis, Mary Elizabeth Rhodes; Dr. E. O. Conrad, Miss Nina Leonard, Percy Mitchell; Dr. Cecelia P. Dunlap and Miss Kay Warren, Julia Lee Harper; Dr. Lucile Kaden, Miss Julia Tuller; Miss Phyllis Flowers, Mary Kathryn Harper; Dr. and Mrs. Harold P. Richards, Eleanor Williams; Miss Ruth Young, Helen Wendell; Ray Fraser, Marion Weeks; Miss Lucille Bass, Mary Ann Miller; Miss Florence Simmons; Mrs. Beatrice Wilson Eisner, Elizabeth Kaden; Miss Montgomery, Marie Taylor; Dr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell, Anna Mae Mitchell; Miss Lucy Lester, Betty Russell; Dr. and Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Dr. Herman Kurz, Vernelle Brewer; Dr. and Mrs. Dan Mitchell, Virginia Lee Mitchell; Miss Mary Elizabeth McKean, Lanes Kunkoyer.

Others Attending

Dr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Mrs. Fannie Smith Hurlburt, Jeanne Sara Lewis; Dr. Jennie Kathryn Tasbough; Miss Mary Lucinda Gray, Jean Sandefur, Dr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. Campbell Smith, Mildred Henry, Betty Ann Mills Kathleen Hudson, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Burke, Patsy Johnson, Miss Mildred Sisneros, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilhoit, R. S. Anderson; Miss Florence Currin, Ester Griffin; Mr. William Jones, Dorothy Hall; Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Disher, Mary Cober; Professor and Mrs. R. R. Smith, Mary Kent; Miss Ollie's Fawley, Miss Elizabeth Hall, Miss Ruth Thompson, Lois Atkins; Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Henson, Anna Clyde Henson, Miss Ruth Henson, Margaret Weir; Dr. Dorothy Breen, Doris Ann Bell, Mary Denham, Elizabeth Ott.

Also Invited

Miss Doris Mason, Alice Lipscomb; Dr. Lovina Shores, Audrey Jones; Miss Margaret Campbell, Miss Rodgson; Miss Mary Lucile Boyd, Miss Lucile Reed; Miss Mary Ann Sims, Helen Hughes; Dr. and Mrs. William Rudgson Rogers, Susan Woodward; Miss Gladys Koch, Julia Harrison; Miss Zadia Phipps, Anne Waterhouse; Miss Ruth Schornherst, Sorraine Sussley; Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Eyman, Nancy Anderson; Miss Kathryn Moore, Betty Stillings; Miss Mary Winders, Our McAdams; Miss Gladys Hurd, Dot White; Miss Myrtle Dolbee, Eleanor O'Haver; Miss Nellie Bond Dickerson; Becky Ashton; Miss Sarah D. Mosely, Dorothy Dormady; Miss Mae Mooty, Miss Florence Tryon; Miss Dorothy Eaton, Anita Walder; Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, Catherine Hutchinson; Miss R. Wylie, Ina Johnson; Miss Kienbeth Lynn, R. Sherne Bacon; Miss Guerry, Phil Asher.

Miss Gertrude Vermillion, Lolla Isenson; Mrs. Ada P. Allen, Gladys Richardson; Miss Ruth Devinney, Rache. Leonardy; Miss Mary Bess Beasley, Frank Mechnisitt, Dr. Kathryn Trimmer Aubey, Margaret Chris Letter; Miss Mary Beulah Briley, Alice Dyal; Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Miss Mary Elizabeth Bellamy; Rebecca Rowan, Mildred Stovall; Leon Maynard Rector Randell; Mary Frederick Bates; Miss Rita E. Robertson; Jo Bunion; Miss Margaret Winslow, Hester Randell; Robert Miller, Kathryn Kyle.

The Reader Writes

Continued from page four

out of bed now to see if any of the loot is under one of them or to break my neck for safe-keeping." Just because the girl is a bit dizzy she thinks she must go search in her room, she is not sure, and when she is told that would a search be if it were not made completely and thoroughly by someone else? It is a practical impossibility to run through the contents of a room and then advertise a fe warticles hither and thither. Incidentally the student who found the loot is to be commended for its cooperation in the matter. Most of us would content themselves out of bed and assisted in such matters as opening suit cases and many slumped trunks around. More plutocratic than offering a reward for cake to the prowlers. Some fun, eh, to work doggedly for from ten fifteen years to get a degree and darkened rooms, attempting to solve the intricacies of the theatrical set-up to turn on the light. There was never a dreadful thief the thief might slyly conk somebody on the head. But maybe that's what judiciary wants to keep from making such idiotic blunders as to fail to search judiciary members' rooms. Is Christ a fellow, "If judiciary searches us, who will search judiciary?" Who would logically search judiciary members' rooms? Had our friend consulted Sherlock to investigate the situation before she wrote her bedtime story? We have discovered that these rooms were likewise inspected by someone other than the tenant in the room. Obviously the chairman of judiciary's room was not searched because she "was" was found ere the detectives reached Christ.

Judiciary is deeply grieved to find that at least one student body member is a liar. Now that we do have an honor system, such as it is. If our system is operated perfectly, what would not have occurred in the first place. An honor system does not exist because the handbook says so. It comes about as a result of the cooperation of every member of the student body boosting the system at every opportunity. As our critic were the chairman of judiciary and the freshmen had come to her with her and plights, probably the high official would have said, "Tut, tut, little one, we have an honor system on our campus. Go to your room like a good little girl and stay into it room." Ah, crafty villain that she is, doesn't she know that stooges were established to keep watch in the halls and between all dorms? Judiciary is not large enough to have system such a big job unaided. That is why moral supporters like we were called in.

And so, ad infinitum, our Baron Munchausen could tell a real piece of work. Perhaps it was written in the spirit of fun, but there's nothing like slipping a morsel of the truth into the jokes. Mockingly, if this may be so called that, is O.K., but even Lincoln Steffens took the trouble to base his writings on facts. Chilicie C.O.A. as much as you please like all good governments it can

Home Ec Club Honors Over Hundred With Christmas Party

The Home Economics club entertained Tuesday night with a Christmas party which was attended by over 100 students.

A program carrying out the Christmas theme was presented announced by Margaret Stout and including a song by Marian Herbert, an original reading by Marguerite Browne, a bill-billy dance by Elizabeth Lourde and Anita Leonard, and a group of carols sung by Dorothy Broward, Betty Reed, Gertrude Rogers, Anita Leonard, and Marion Herbert, with Sarah Martin as accompanist.

Each member attending brought with her a gift to be presented to the children at the nursery school. Following the program cup cakes and assorted candies were served with punch. Several games were then played.

Student Relishes Delectable Rebuke

We all get packages, usually from home, but one Florida State girl received an ingenious, different, and delightful Christmas package the other day.

Upon opening the package, she discovered on top two nickel candy bars, labeled "Best Pal" and "Forever Yours." Underneath were many more candy bars similar to these, and a message but the eloquent one conveyed by the wrappers. Not to be outdone by even the Boy Friend from the West, Miss F.S.C.W. promptly expressed her "I thank you" with a box of Hershey kisses.

Although the boy was surprised, he couldn't have been more so than another "F" from Massachusetts. Feeling neglected, since his Florida State girl hadn't written him, he expressed his feelings, not by beseeching telegram or special delivery, but by a package marked "Fragile." Upon opening the box, the girl discovered to her surprise a box of "Junior Miss Dog and Puppy Biscuits," conveying not quite so loving a message. He didn't forget her the practicability of this girl. Instead of feeling downcast, and ashamed of her neglience in writing, she hitied to her friends in and had a party with the biscuits, peanut butter and jelly as refreshments.

Hand a few improvements, but for goodness sakes have some facts to back up your statements for our stolen articles. We realize that our clothes never would be returned but for that fact persistent efforts.

Signed,

RUTH IRVINE and DOROTHY KRAMER.

THREE SORORITIES WILL ENTERTAIN WITH FORMAL DANCES THIS WEEK-END

With the proximity of Christmas offering ample opportunity for unique and appropriate decorations three of the campus sororities are entertaining with their annual formal dances this weekend.

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority is giving its formal Saturday night from 9 to 11 o'clock in the chapter house on Jefferson street. This affair will be chaperoned by Mrs. J. N. Sikes, the sorority house mother.

Featuring the decoration plans will be a lighted blue Christmas tree with a miniature village placed beneath it. The rooms of the house will be further decorated with trees of Christmas green interspersed with holly and mistletoe. Vases of chrysanthemums will be placed on occasional tables throughout the house. Refreshments during the dance will be punch and assorted cookies.

Invited to be the guests of the sorority at this time are: Herschel Graves, Julian Smith, Barwell Fuller, Bob Beasley, Frank Smoak, Clifford Beasley, Bobby Evans, Charlie McBride, Sherrod Caldwell, Paul Henderson, Jr., Buddy Kimbrough, Neville Bell, Henry McRae, Jack Green, Tolbert Rou, C. W. Delong, Rocco Pennisi, Boyd Harris, Billy Thrasher, Jack Regar, Charlie Littlejohn, Billy Goss, Paul Morgan, Wilson Conner.

Paul Schwartz, Joe Edwards, Robert Gill, Jimmy Dowling, Mose Mabry, Hubert Schuett, Moon Mullins, Max Thornton, Hayward Musser, Julian Proctor, Ricky Pinkerton, Paul Shelley, Julian Lane, Nolane Davis, Jack Pabst, Red Stevens, John Love, C. S. Byrd, Gayle McCord, Conway O'Brien, Andy Anderson, Tully Whitfield, Dr. Pete Ott, Leo Messer, Jiggs Lee Sloan, Pal Hyman, George Palmer, Jimmy Gwynn, Shiloh Turner, Bill Hunter, Godfrey Smith, Gordon Brown, James W. Lenney, Levin Fink, Wilbur Thompson, and A. O. Franklin.

Kappa Alpha Thets

The members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority will entertain with their Christmas dance tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Traditional Christmas decorations used to decorate the house will include lighted wreaths placed in the windows, and sprays of holly and mistletoe in the rooms of the house.

Punch and cookies will be served during the evening while the guests enjoy dancing.

Those invited include Frank Hedrick, Doug Brown, Dick Cheatham, Bill Bowden, Jack Cobb, Howard Riker, Archie Mestayer, Jack Avant, Carl Greenwell, Tib Owen, Eric Bill, Jack Hall, Bill Ennis, Curtis McCord, Frankie Rhodes, Lee Messer, John Port, Bob Barton, Max Brown, Cal Brown, Ike Fisher, Sims Christy, Ben Partridge, Bill Sloan, George Boles, Jimmy Parramore, Bryan McCarty, Munroe Baisden, Tarbaby Boyd, Murry Carmichael, Hubert Schuitt, Ike Wingfield, John McCarty, John Marshall, Marcus Scott, Claude Mercer, Ben McCabe, Charles Craig, Jimmie Robb, Julian Lane, John Causey, Julian Fields, Dick Bell, Clarence Parramore, Bob Johnson, Paul Whatley, Warren Gabawry, and Jack Saunders.

Alpha Gamma Delta Dance

Silver tinsel and blue cellophane will feature the decorations for the Alpha Gamma Delta dance which will be held tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in the sorority house on Park avenue.

A larger lighted Christmas tree will be placed in the front room of the house set off by the traditional decorations in a blue and the silver color plan. Prior to the dance the girls and their dates will be entertained with a buffet supper at the house.

Bridge will be the outstanding original skits will be presented by the pledges and punch and cookies will be served.

A. O. Pi's Entertain Patrons, Advisor With Reception

Honoring their faculty advisor, patrons, and patronesses the members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority entertained with a reception Sunday afternoon in the chapter house on Park Avenue.

The sorority flower, the red rose supplemented by autumn leaves, was used to decorate the rooms of the home for this affair.

During the afternoon members of the faculty called to meet the honor guests. Tea, nuts, and cookies were served by the pledges.

The faculty advisor of Alpha Omicron Pi is Miss Florence Bethea. Patrons and patronesses are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rose, and Mrs. Hugh L. Waskom. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graham, and Mrs. L. Lassbrechi.

Many Businesses of Various Types Have Sprung Up on FSC Campus Since Thanksgiving Holiday

By VIRGINIA DAVIS

"I'm in a business."—What kind of a business?"—Why, business! The depression has disappeared for now everybody is in a business. Oh, where are the "What's this?" that took the campus by storm last spring, and where are the "Knock-Knocks" of yesterday? They flowered and withered and now the butcher, the baker, and the candle-stick maker, yes, and even college students are playing "I'm in a business."

This game is the cause of the laughter and small screams that issue from girls huddled in groups in the corners of smoking rooms or out in "Beginner." It causes the far-away gleam in the eye of your roommate who, with book in hand glares at the wall, when she is thinking of another business.

Now the game started no one knows, but it has been played in this outside world for some time. This campus became aware of the popularity and merits of the game when families and almost brought the news last week. "I'm in a business."—Why, just a song written about it.

Instead of button-holing an acquaintance and saying, "Knock-Knock," you say, "I'm in a business!" "What kind of business?" she asks obligingly. "Undertaking business," you reply. "Well, how's business?" she asks. "Dead," you answer. Perhaps you are in the undertaking business. "How's business?"—"Going up." You might choose to be in the elevator business therefore "Going" is your ups and downs. Another time you might be in the "fishing business" and business is "fowl." Again it is the "new" business where you are "getting stung, but it is a honey." One girl is in the knitting business. "How's business," you ask. "Ripping," she replies. Another one is in the "dressmaking" business, and business is just "so-so." Then there is the one engaged in the "guessing" business where business is "fare, but is going places."

We predict that "I'm in a business" is going to have even wider popularity than "Knock-Knock," for as one girl put it, "It's the more you ask questions, people find it easier to play. Anyhow, I always wanted to be "in a business."

Music Student to Give Piano Recital Tuesday Night for Certificate

Isabella Sands, student of Miss Sorosh Opperman, dean of the School of Music, will give her senior recital in piano next Tuesday evening at seven forty-five o'clock in the college auditorium.

She will be assisted by Margaret Melzer, soprano, who is a pupil of Mrs. Ruth Robertson. Miss Mary Esther Winslow, of the music faculty, will be her accompanist.

Isabelle will play "Concerto, G minor" (second movement) Bach-Busoni; "Andante, Presto, and Molto allegro a vivace," by Mendelssohn. This will be with orchestral part on the second piano.

Appearing this selection Margaret will sing "Seligne Nacht," by Joseph Marx; "Feldeinsamkeit," and "Der Jager," by Brahms.

In concluding the program Isabelle will play a group of three selections: "Polonaise, Op. 40 No. 1," by Chopin; "The Nightingale," by Alabieff, and "Malgueina," by Lecuona.

Mitchell Takes Charge Of International Club During Recent Meeting

"A Glimpse of the World to the South of Us" was the program topic of the International Relations club, Thursday, in which special emphasis was placed on the part the program there in Inter-American relations. Anna Marie Mitchell was in charge of the program.

Those taking part were Virginia Clayton, who spoke on "Cuba and the Islands," Laura Doub who discussed Central America and its problems, and Elizabeth Mathews who spoke on South America. Following the program there was an open forum and discussion of the Pan-American Congress and other events of Inter-American political and relations.

SORORITY CHRISTMAS PARTIES WILL OCCUPY SOCIAL CALENDAR FOR WEEK

Christmas parties, teas, and several formal dances are being given this week by sororities on campus.

At the Alpha Chi Omega house Sunday from 8 to 5 o'clock will be the Sorority's annual Christmas tea, and on Monday night the activities will include a Christmas tree, stories, carols, and the exchange of gifts.

Pledges of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will entertain at the chapter house tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock with a Christmas tea. Autumn leaves, holly, mistletoe, and chrysanthemums will be used to carry out the decorated Christmas tree under under which a miniature village will be placed. Invited to attend are members of the faculty, patronesses, and friends.

Activities and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will be hostesses at a chili supper tomorrow night at the chapter house. The supper will be served by the pledges and an informal program will follow.

The Alpha Gamma Delta sorority is entertaining with its annual Christmas party at 8 o'clock Monday night. Faculty members and patrons are invited to this affair which will be informal.

Alpha Xi Delta pledges will entertain the actives of the sorority with a party at 7:30 o'clock Monday night. Decorations will include a lighted tree with gifts, and autumn branches.

At the Delta Zeta Christmas party which the actives gave for the pledges last night gifts were exchanged which will later be sent to a charity organization.

Christmas songs and games are part of the program for the pledge party being given by the Zeta Phi Alpha sorority tonight at from 8 to 10 o'clock.

The Delta Delta Delta sorority will give a Christmas party for the pledges of the chapter at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night. A program of games will be played after which the actives will serve hot chocolate and wieners.

The Kappa Beta Tau Alpha sorority will give its annual Christmas party for actives and pledges, and the faculty advisor, and the house chaperon. Appropriate decorations will be used throughout the house and refreshments will be served. Gifts will be exchanged by pledges and actives for daughters.

The pledges of Pi Beta Phi will entertain the actives with a Christmas party Tuesday night. Decorations and games will include exchange gifts and the entire Christmas program will be given which will later be given to charity.

The annual Kappa Alpha Theta Christmas party will be given Wednesday night at the chapter and faculty advisor. Entertainment will consist of skits given by the pledges. Refreshments will be served.

Invited for the Kappa Delta Christmas party Thursday night at the home of Santa Claus, and the exchange of toys, later to be given to charity. Members and patronesses and the faculty advisor of the chapter will be present.

The Sigma Nu Lodge's annual Christmas party will be given on Thursday night for members and pledges. The gifts of toys which will be exchanged will be later be donated to the local Christmas fund for charity.

Miamian Offers Prize For Essay on Florida History Written Here

A prize of $50 is being offered by the Miami Herald for the best and the best essay on some selected subject of Florida history. This contest is at present open and is open to graduates and undergraduates alike. "How's business?"—"Going up." You might choose to be in the elevator business therefore "Going" is your ups and downs. Another time you might be in the "fishing business" and business is "fowl." Again it is the "new" business where you are "getting stung, but it is a honey." One girl is in the knitting business. "How's business," you ask. "Ripping," she replies. Another one is in the "dressmaking" business, and business is just "so-so." Then there is the one engaged in the "guessing" business where business is "fare, but is going places."

We predict that "I'm in a business" is going to have even wider popularity than "Knock-Knock," for as one girl put it, "It's the more you ask questions, people find it easier to play. Anyhow, I always wanted to be "in a business."

The subject for the 1937 contest is "Barnetsia and Its Times," which is a study of the life of a young girl in territorial Florida. The subject has been selected by Mr. Redfe n, but in the future will be selected by the history department of Florida State Colleges in consultation with Mr. Redfern.

Those wsiing to enter the contest must file their names with Dr. Albert V. Ashby before January 8. Essays must be handed in by April 15. The maximum number of words for an essay in this contest has been set at 5,000 and there must also be a bibliography and footnotes.

Dr. Abbey has announced that there is a large amount of available material on this subject, and she offers to help students interested in locating this material.

One-Way and Round Trip Coach Fares

From Tallahassee, Fla.—Christmas Holidays

1936 - 1937

	O.W.	R.T.
Arcadia	$6.71	$11.43
Avon Park	8.37	14.25
Auburndale	6.76	9.46
Bartow	8.00	13.60
Bradenton	6.58	11.18
Bushnell	4.04	6.86
Clearwater	5.43	10.86
Chipley	1.81	3.08
Coleman	3.91	7.04
Crescent City	5.66	9.62
Dade	8.00	16.13
DeFuniak Springs	1.37	2.74
Daytona Beach	8.00	13.60
DeLand	8.00	8.16
Delray	8.00	13.60
Eau Gallie	8.32	70.66
Ft. Lauderdale	8.00	13.60
Ft. Pierce	6.11	12.35
Gainesville	3.54	6.08
Green Cove Springs	6.92	11.84
Haines City	6.35	10.36
Hollywood	7.64	14.36
Jacksonville	2.26	3.80
Kissimmee	7.22	1.64
Lake City	1.60	2.90
Live Oak	1.60	2.90
Leesburg	4.65	8.26
Lake Wales	5.49	10.56
Lake Worth	8.31	$15.02
Melbourne	7.51	15.50
Mulberry	5.94	10.06
Madison	.81	1.70
Marianna	1.94	3.88
Melbourne	8.50	15.30
Miami Beach	8.00	8.76
Orlando	4.86	9.34
Okeechobee	7.66	13.12
Ocala	3.44	6.03
Pensacola	3.86	6.15
Palatka	5.37	9.62
Plant City	4.78	8.56
Panama City	2.18	4.35
Palmetto	5.86	11.60
Quincy	.81	.81
Starke	2.81	5.32
Sarasota	6.58	11.46
St. Augustine	3.04	6.08
St. Petersburg	6.58	12.35
Sneads	.75	1.45
Tampa	5.49	10.56
Valparaiso	1.37	2.74
Sebring	6.45	12.35
Titusville	6.92	12.35
Tarpon Springs	6.58	11.84
W. Palm Beach	6.70	12.40
Winter Haven	4.25	9.64

TO THE EAST COAST AND WEST COAST		TO JACKSONVILLE AND WEST COAST
Lv. Tallahassee	8.AL 1:20 PM	Lv. Tallahassee	8.AL 1:20 PM
Lv. Jacksonville	" 6:00 PM	Lv. Greenville	" 2:41 PM
Ar. Jacksonville	" 6:00 PM	Ar. Madison	" 3:48 PM
Ar. Ocala	" 10:10 AM	Lv. Madison	" 3:51 PM
Ar. Wildwood	" 12:00 AM	Ar. Live Oak	" 4:40 PM
Ar. Winter Haven	" 2:30 AM	Lv. Live Oak	" 4:10 PM
Ar. W. Palm Beach	" 7:45 AM	Ar. Jacksonville	" 6:00 PM
Ar. Delray	" 8:48 AM	Ar. Jacksonville	" 10:30 PM
Ar. Miami	" 9:48 AM	Ar. Clearwater	" 10:15 AM
Ar. Miami	" 1:00 AM	Ar. St. Petersburg	" 7:50 AM
		Ar. Sarasota	" 9:20 AM
		Ar. St. Petersburg	" 1:00 AM

TO PENSACOLA AND THE WEST
Lv. Tallahassee 4:10 PM

Ticket Office Will Be Opened in History Building at 5 P. M., December 15th, 1936.

J. M. McMILLAN, C. P. & T. A.

SEABOARD

Centennial Bldg. Phone 17

Christmas Breakfast To Honor Students

Mrs. George T. Lloyd, chaperone of Campanile, will entertain the twenty-seven girls in her house with a Christmas breakfast Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

Those invited are Mary Boston Wynn, Jessie Coachman, Beulah Thomas, Mary Newbolds, Julia Tuten, Izzy Sheehan, Doris Butler, Margaret West, Ella Virginia Brock, Lolla Craig, Mary Bowen Smith, Molly Brazes, Cila Goodell, Eleanor Mullins, Kathleen Scott, Dorothy Hoffman, Virginia Davis, Betty Hamilton, Mary Anne Nolan, Mary Watson, Louise Scott, Annie Davis, Fay Bryant, Anne Dickson, Jane Coupland, Mary Esther Winslow, and Mrs. Lloyd.

Senior Class Plans Christmas Dinner Wednesday Night

The annual senior Christmas dinner will be held in the dining room Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock. Senators dressed in caps and gowns and formal collars will enter the dining room after the last meal carrying lighted candles and carolling Christmas songs.

At 6 o'clock the annual party for seniors will be held in the main parlor of Bryan Hall. A Christmas tree will be lighted for the occasion and effective arrangements of foliage and holly and berries will be placed around the parlor to add festivity to the occasion. A program for this affair has been planned by the social committee and will be followed by refreshments.

Wednesday night at light flash the seniors will meet in Bryan Hall following a song-standard rehearsal, and will go carolling in groups in the homes of members of the faculty. This will culminate the official celebration of Christmas on this campus.

Many Faculty Episcopalians To Be Honored

Alfriend, Gehan to Have Reception Tomorrow At Ruge Hall

The Rev. W. J. Alfriend and Mrs. Alfriend and Miss Julia Gehan will receive Episcopal members of the faculty at Ruge hall tomorrow afternoon from five to six. Invited to call are Dr. Katherine T. Abbey, Dr. Anna Forbes Lieb, Dr. Guy L. Dittenhaugh, Miss Florence Bethea Prof. Walter Ruel Cowles, Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Dr. Marion Hay Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, Miss Elizabeth Lee Hutt.

Miss Eunice Hurd, Dr. Minna Koch, Dr. Herman Kurz, Miss Ella L. Matthews, Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Isabel McKinnell, Mrs. Lou E. W. Miller, Prof. Sumner Miller, Dr. Margaret R. Sanders, Mrs. Cecile Strong, Dr. Jessie Till, Dr. Sarah Parker White, Miss Carrie G. Smith, Miss Margaret Dasher, and others.

Eleanor Biggers will be in charge of the regular after-dinner coffee tonight at Ruge hall, assisted by Eugenia Munnerlyn and Anita Peek. Saturday night Episcopal students will hear Stewart Wrisht, who will have charge of the entire program.

Doris Purchase will be in charge of arrangements for the entertainment trip the group will make on Wednesday night. Refreshments will open at Ruge hall at 9 o'clock, where performances will be served after the caroling. Other students who will assist in planning the program are June Cavalle and Reuben Coleman.

Tonight at 7:45 o'clock members of the Young Woman's auxiliary of the Baptist Student union will meet at the Baptist community hall. Immediately following the meeting there will be a Christmas party to which all Baptist students are invited.

Sunday morning the group will present a model Baptist student night program at the regular Sunday school services. The program is the result of a southwide Baptist student movement which has as its aim the presentation of student-conducted services on that night of Dec. 27 in all churches which have college students among their members.

Presbyterian League members will present a White Christmas service Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Group carol singing will be followed by a white gift ceremony in which each student will bring a present, wrapped in white, to be sent to children in the mountains of north Georgia. Doris Terrell will read a Christmas play, "Bodhan—a New-World Wise Man."

During its regular fellowship meeting this Sunday night, the Presbyterian student league will hold its annual white Christmas gift service.

At the service, which will be led by Sara Hethcox, members will bring gifts for the mountain children in Betty's Creek, Georgia. Students have also donated oranges and nuts to be sent to the eighty children of this north Georgia village.

Following the gift service Doris Terrell will read a Christmas play, "Bodhan—a New-World Wise Man."

A new way of sending Christmas greetings has been adopted by the league this year. Instead of mailing cards, the le gue members are requested to place the money usually spent on cards and stamps in a box on the Presbyterian bulletin board in the Administration building. This money is to be used for the student house fund. Then the girls are to write the name of those to whom they wish to send greetings on a big Christmas card placed on the bulletin board.

Library Average Is 250

The average number of books withdrawn from the library per day is about 250. The most popular books at the present time are those on social science and biography. One day 212 non-fiction books were taken out, while only 49 fiction books were checked out.

do your Xmas shopping
IN AMERICA'S GREAT GIFT GUIDE
Esquire
THE MAGAZINE FOR MEN
JANUARY ISSUE
ON SALE DECEMBER 11th

Editor

The editors of the Flambeau are offering this week the first issue of the paper since its establishment in 1912.

In 1929 the paper assumed its present form of make-up and dimension, and since that time there have been several eight-page editions. Hazel Bowman is the Flambeau editor.

Franz Mobbed By Publicity, Fame Hounds

Handsome Pianist Hides Behind Piano From Many Admirers

What appeared to be the Pied Piper followed by his merry little troup was in reality Mr. Franz, pianist, on the first program of the artist series for the year.

Hardly was the final selection played when a good two hundred of the music lovers pushed their way up the aisle and swarmed out onto the stage, brandishing programs and demanding the official autograph.

A peek backstage revealed Mr. Franz safely encamped behind a grand piano and "signing" frantically. Numerous indeed were the brilliant remarks passed. Remarks ranged from "O, he smokes Camels" (this followed by a pleased titter) to a dry "Utopia is full of men like him."

Suddenly he glanced up and ceased his hand for silence. A few of the executive minded "shushed" imperatively and the mesher majority became quiet. What was he going to say?

"Girls," there an effective pause; "I'm sure you are in a hurry to get home and get to bed," he said.

Two hundred cheerful denials filled the air.

"Well," he insisted, "shall we say that I must get home as I have to catch an early train in the morning?"

Apparently he did not. It sounded like the mob scene in "Julius Caesar, as this possibility was waived aside dispreciatingly.

More programs were pushed into his face and he signed for a while and then with a firmness born of desperation—

"I simply cannot sign any more autographs tonight." The crowd groaned dismally. He raised his voice placatingly and said, "Now if you'll just send them to me..."

Your secretary will sign them for us" finished a cynic.

"No." There was a note of entreaty in his voice.) "I promise I will sign them myself."

This was the ultimatum, and there was nothing else to do but accept it. But the crowd continued to stand and stare in a quiet, friendly manner. The object of their attention became a bit flustered, but the girls continued to stare. He examined his fingernails minutely, while the girls giggled.

Rescue came in the person of a photographer who wished to take the artist's picture. Seeing a way out of the predicament, he agreed hastily. As he attempted to push his way through the crowd, he was saved the trouble for the crowd went with him. The minority that wasn't clustered around him was on chairs, seeking to peer into his face as he passed.

An efficient photographer soon cleared the stage and Mr. Franz seated himself at the piano. He attempted to look nonchalant, stared out into the sea of faces that were staring up at him, and gave up the attempt.

Finally the pictures were taken and Dalies Franz fled from the stage followed by the admiring gaze of two hundred pairs of eyes. Gradually the crowd drifted away amid cynical and admiring remarks.

All of which goes to show that co,r students appreciate art to an almost painful degree. If the pianist had been fair, fat, and forty would he have received the same warm welcome?

In 1934 the total number of books checked out was 53,585 with the month of September holding the highest record of 6,358 books.

Writer Notes Outstanding Qualities of Englishmen

Splendid Language and Smooth, Easy Intonation Characteristic of Man, Woman and Child Of Neighboring Country

By ARLINE GRAY LOCKHART

Listening over the radio yesterday morning to Prime Minister Baldwin reading to Parliament the announcement of Edward the Eighth's abdication, the reporter was struck by Mr. Baldwin's beautiful diction and the excellent quality of his speaking voice.

It is curious that every educated Englishman or English woman, the reporter has heard, speaks the used splendid language and easy smooth tones. This is the case whether it be a child, such as the actor little Freddie Bartholomew, or such a personage as S. K. Ratcliff, lecturer and journalist who visited his campus in November, or just an Englishman with the Hudson's accent of education. Aside from the peculiar inflection which appears to be a characteristic trait of the British, it would seem to be a matter of pride with them to speak English as correctly as possible. The precision with which the educated Englishman chooses his words and his clear enunciation as well as his inflection, enables one to listen to him for hours without tiring.

In contrast there is the American and his use of the English language. There are, of course many Americans who speak well including choice of words and diction, but does the average educated American do so? Assuming that the average education American can is among the thousands graduated from the national colleges and universities every June, one certainly cannot pretend that he speaks the English language well. It would be more nearly correct to say, if one could use this campus as an example, that he butchers the king's English.

He mumbles and slurs his words, or he drawls, or talks too fast, or too loud, or too harshly, or he twangs, depending usually upon the section of the country in which he lives. His conversation is largely made up of slang phrases. It is a rare occasion if one can be amid a group of college students for two hours and not hear such expressions as: Oh yeah; well, now, after all; sure 'nough; I'll say; you've got something there; see you on you say; as what's you said it, fos; you said that; reelz; how's every little thing? Farewells are usually ended with the advice "Be good," or "Be sweet." Most frequently a phrase is run together to form one word such as "Whatchadoin?" or Whatchaknow?"

The little word "you" has nearly lost its own distinction by being slurred with other words—dya, dondcha, etc. While there would appear to be a notable decrease in the vocabulary of the college student in the last few months as he is constantly terminates his conversation with the phrase "—sen' stuff."

With this influx of slang into the average educated American's language, the question arises, has America so popularized slang that it has become or will become accepted as correct usage?

Certainly America has gone "slang mad" and anyone not up on the late witty catch phrases has a difficult time conversing with the average American, college student or otherwise. Consequently, the art of conversation is a thing of the past. Most of these mediums of expression are subjected to slang. Most

Today Is Last Time To Be Photographed

Today will be the last day that pictures for the Flastacovo can be made, according to an announcement made by Frances Forth, editor. Students who have not had their photographs taken are asked to make an appointment at the Alan Anderson studio in the Demonstration school.

Sororities have been urged to "dig and submit informal snapshots to be used in a section devoted to them. Picture showing the greatest amount of originality and photographic skill will be used. Other campus groups are also invited to submit snapshots to be used informally throughout the book.

Amateur Photographers Prove Their Mettle On Squirming Subjects and Call It Amusing

BY ANN LYDDANE

Among other Sunday afternoon pastimes picture-taking is popular on the campus of Florida State College for Women.

"If you'll just hold still—" amateur photographers sigh patiently. The victims squirm, nat their hair, moisten their lips and show rows of teeth in what is meant to be a happy smile.

When everything is in order, the photographer decides that the background is not quite correct. "Let's go over to the open air theater," she suggests.

Once against the desired background, the routine is repeated This time, however, the smiles are a little more forced. "Take it and get it over with," the subjects mutter grimly through smiling lips.

The camera clicks; the picture is snapped.

"And I was talking—any mouth was wide open!" the girls wail. "We'll take another," the photographer says to pacify them.

One of the party decides that her hair is out of place. Borrowing a comb she spends a few minutes fixing it. Her neighbor, feeling the need of more make-up, opens her compact and powders vigorously. A third member eases her sore foot out of the new shoes, and rubs it gently.

"Are you ready now?" the photographer finally asks in exasperation.

The comb is returned; the compact closed, and the shoe replaced. The girls arrange themselves where the light is best. They beam. The camera clicks. "That's a good one," the photographer smiles enthusiastically.

"Let's take one more."

Quillian points out. Thus she attempts to explain the why of conversational downfall but whatever it is, a matter of personal opinion whether it is for better or worse.

One cannot help wondering if good conversation has declined in America because of the influence of books, radios, shows, the telephone and the telegraph, or if these modern devices are not simply expressing the sentiment of the average educated American.

There are the same modern devices in England yet the influence seems to be the opposite. The broadcasting station for instance has a committee of speakers English to judge radio announcers and set up a standard of English to be used, thus ensuring the public of hearing only the best voices and languages.

Americans have become just as famous abroad for their harsh unpleasant voices and slang sprinkled speech as they have for their money. Only the average educated American can determine whether they shall continue to be known for this crude trait or not—and who better qualifies for the title of educated American than the college students?

Nurses' Group Sees Playlet On Red Cross

Regular Monthly Meeting Followed by Short Social Hour

"Red Cross Nursing Service" featured the regular monthly meeting of the College Nurses association held Wednesday evening in the Education building. The presentation of a playlet, "The Red Cross Nurse," written and directed by Pearl Smith, explained the duties of the Red Cross nurse and the significance attached to the wearing of the Red Cross nursing badge. Florence Ward as Eleanor O'Hare played two college girls in the explanatory act.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour, with Jan Root, social chairman, in charge. Other members of the nurses association include Martha Cook, Ruby Elizabeth Ellis, Barbara Ellis, Barbara Enders, Beverly Horn, Catherine Levy, Ima Randle, Leona Rathlinder, Marie Richer, Lorena Simms, Jeanne Spector, Vivian Testa, Jane Thomas, Elizabeth Wadsworth, Margaret Wheeler, Hattie Wise, Frances Woodward, Julia Harrison, Myrtle Wilson, Jane Pope, Charlotte Connell, Mary Bowman Smith, and Mary Catherine Coody.

Any student who is interested in nursing, whether she is enrolled in a B.S. course or not, is cordially invited to attend future meetings of the association, said Pearl Smith, president.

On a long march, penguins break the monotony of waiting by tobogganing or pushing themselves along on their stomachs.

...out of the Horn of Plenty come the good things that smokers enjoy

... mild ripe tobaccos from the Carolinas, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia—there's aplenty of the best in Chesterfield.

... aromatic tobaccos from Turkey and Greece—and plenty to make Chesterfields taste better—and different.

Pleasing taste and aroma, refreshing mildness—Chesterfields are chock-full of the good things you enjoy in a cigarette.

...for the good things smoking can give you

...enjoy Chesterfields

Copyright 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.